k Jude 4. 1 Pe. 2. 8. Ro. 9. 11, 22, 23. 2 Th. 2. 13, 14. 2 Ti. 2. 19, 20.

* The command is universal. Nothing that happens to the child of God is excluded. All trials, sorrows, bereavements, hardships, as well as peace, joy, and temporal prosperity—all are to be received with thanks. The reason is given in Ro. 8. 28: 'We know that all things work together for good to them that love God.' The sick man will give thanks for the bitterest medicine; so the Christian will give thanks for the bitterest trial. It is the medicine of his soul; it works out for him an eternal weight of glory.—P. l Mat. 20. 28. Jn. 10. 10, 15. Ro. 14. 8, 9. m ch. 4. 10, 18. Jude 20. 1 Co. 14. 26. Ro. 14. 19. n 2 Or, exhort.

A.M. cir. 4058.
A.D. cir. 54.

o 1 Co. 16. 18. Phi. 2. 20. Ga. 6. 6. 1 Co. 9. 11, 14. 1 Ti. 5. 17, 18. He. 13. 7, 17. p 1 Co. 4. 1, 2. Co. 5. 20. Mat. 10. 40. Ga. 4. 14. q Jn. 14. 27. Ro. 14. 19. 2 Co. 13. 11.
r Or, beseech.
s Ro. 14. 1; 15. 1, 2. 2 Co. 6. 6. Ga. 6. 1, 2. Ep. 4. 2. Col. 3. 12-16; 1. 28. 2 Th. 3. 11, 12. He. 12. 12.
t Or, disorderly.
u Le. 19. 18. Pr. 17. 13; 20. 22; 24. 29. Mat. 5. 45; 39. 44. Ro. 12. 17-21. 1 Co. 6. 7. 1 Pe. 3. 9; 2. 21, 23.
v Ga. 6. 10. ch. 3. 12. Phi. 4. 8. He. 13. 16, 18.
w Mat. 5. 12. Lu. 10. 20. Ro. 12. 12. 2 Co. 2. 14; 6. 10. Phi. 2. 18; 3. 1; 4. 4. 1 Pe. 4. 13. Ja. 1. 2. Ro. 5. 2, 11. Ps. 149. 1, 2. x If in danger, Christ is your deliverer; if in sickness, your physician; if in want, your supplier; if in death, your life; therefore, 'rejoice evermore.'—C. y Lu. 18. 1-7; 21. 36. Ro. 12. 12. Ac. 10. 2; 12. 5. Ep. 6. 18. Col. 4. 2. 1 Pe. 4. 7. 2 Ti. 1. 3, with Ex. 30. 8.
z Ep. 5. 4, 20. Col. 3. 15, 17. He. 13. 15. Job 1. 21. Ps. 34. 1.
a See note * in first column.
y 1 Co. 12. 3-13. Ep. 4. 30. 1 Ti. 4. 14. 2 Ti. 1. 6.
z 1 Co. 14. 1, 39.

but to obtain salvation by our Lord Jesus Christ,

10 Who<sup>l</sup> died for us, that, whether we wake or sleep, we should live together with him.

11 Wherefore<sup>n</sup> comfort<sup>2</sup> yourselves together, and edify one another, even as also ye do.

12 And we beseech<sup>o</sup> you, brethren, <sup>p</sup>to know them which labour among you, and are over you in the Lord, and admonish you;

13 And <sup>q</sup>to esteem them very highly in love for their work's sake. And <sup>r</sup>be at peace among yourselves.

14 Now we exhort<sup>s</sup> you, brethren, <sup>t</sup>warn them that are unruly,<sup>4</sup> comfort the feeble-minded, support the weak, be patient toward all men.

15 See<sup>u</sup> that none render evil for evil unto any man; but <sup>v</sup>ever follow that which is good, both among yourselves, and to all men.

16 Rejoice<sup>w</sup> evermore.<sup>5</sup>

17 Pray<sup>x</sup> without ceasing.

18 In<sup>z</sup> every thing give thanks; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning <sup>a</sup>you.

19 Quench<sup>y</sup> not the Spirit.

20 Despise<sup>z</sup> not prophesyings.

shall punish such abominable transgressors: 7. For he, being infinitely holy, neither did nor could, by his gospel and grace, call us to the knowledge and fellowship of Christ, that we might indulge ourselves in uncleanness or any other sin, but that he might, by the strongest obligations and motives, engage us to chastity, holiness, and unblamableness, in our whole conversation before him. 8. Whoever therefore he be that rejects or contemns these admonitions and commands, does not despise the authority of man, but of the great God himself, by whose inspiration we deliver them, and who gives his sanctifying Spirit to all true believers, to direct and excite them to all proper obedience. 9, 10. But with respect to the great duty of loving one another as brethren in the faith, hope, holiness, and blessings of the gospel, I need not inculcate it upon you as though ye were averse to it; for, by the teaching of God's Word and Spirit, ye have been instructed in the obligations and manner of performing this duty, and are inclined and enabled to practise it, not only towards your fellow-Christians at Thessalonica, but towards all those of the churches around you; so that I need only beseech you to persevere and abound more and more in the manifestation and exercise of this brotherly love towards all the saints, your poor brethren of Judea not excepted; 11, 12. And for promoting it, let all of you study to behave in a meek and peaceable manner, never officiously meddling with other people's affairs, but attending to the duties of your respective stations and personal concerns, and industriously labouring in your several callings for the support of yourselves and families, and that ye may be enabled to give to such as are in straits—as ye know I and my fellow-ministers of Christ commanded and exemplified to you while we were with you—that so ye may live in such an upright, faithful, decent, and becoming manner towards the heathens around you as to prevent their reproaching you or your religion; and that, instead of needing the charity of others, ye may have enough of everything needful. 13. Moreover, I would not have you ignorantly indulge yourselves in excessive or superstitious sorrow for your deceased Christian relations, as if either their want of circumcision, or any other thing, could prevent their eternal felicity: 14. For if we truly believe that Jesus Christ died for our offences, and rose again for our justification, we must, upon the same ground, believe that God, through the death and resurrection of Christ, will quicken to an immortal and glorious life them that sleep in union with him, and will present them together with him in the last judgment. 15. For this we declare unto you, by the infallible inspiration of the Holy Ghost, that those members of Christ's mystical body who shall be living on the earth at his appearance to the last judgment shall not be happy, or have their bodies fashioned like unto Christ's glorious body, sooner than those that shall be found in their graves: 16. For in that important day the Lord Jesus, in his human nature, shall visibly, and in great glory, descend from heaven, and in a most solemn manner, somewhat similar to the thunders at Sinai, summon the world to appear at his tribunal; and then the bodies of those who died in a state of faith and vital union with him shall be quickened to a glorious immortality, before the bodies of the wicked be raised, or the living saints gathered to his right hand. 17. But immediately after their resurrection, the members of his body, to which we all belong, who shall be then living, shall undergo a refining change, and, together with the raised saints, be carried up, by his almighty power, into the air, that we may sit down on his right hand; and being there acknowledged and acquitted, shall for ever continue, soul and body, in his immediate presence, to behold his glory. 18. Wherefore comfort yourselves and one another with respect to the death of your Christian friends, and every other trial ye undergo, with these views of your and their happiness in the last judgment and eternal state.

Ver. 6. In any matter. The great object of the passage (ver. 3-8) being to denounce lewdness and enforce chastity, it cannot be interpreted as merely forbidding and condemning fraud or oppression in common business, but must be understood as denouncing any injury to a father or husband by the seduction of a child or wife. C.

Ver. 13. Asleep is a literal and true description of the state of death. In natural sleep the body alone sleeps, the spirit is awake and active, as often appears, not merely from the existence of dreams, but from the fact that, in dreaming, men are frequently known to reason as accurately as when awake. Even so, in death, the body is really asleep till the resurrection, but the spirit of the believer is awake and with the Lord, 2 Co. v. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Christians should every day carefully study an increase of holiness in heart and life, according to the will of God. And there is need of the utmost watchfulness and care to avoid all sensuality and impurity, as contrary to the command of God, and infinitely dangerous to our souls. Whatever contempt is aimed at Christ's faithful ministers falls chiefly on himself, and will be punished accordingly. It is delightful when church-members, as taught of God, abound in mutual love, peacefulness, and industry. But, alas! how many, by their intermeddling temper, bring trouble to themselves and reproach on their religion; while others, by their idleness, thievishly prey on their neighbours around! Very absurd is immoderate grief for Christian friends who are taken from us to be with Christ, and shall be quickly raised in glory, and set with him in the last judgment. Inexpressible is the solemnity of that day, and the comfort and honour it will bring to the saints.—Thrice blessed is that people whose God is the Lord! In death they sleep in Jesus' bosom; in the resurrection they appear with him in glory; and through eternity they shall see his face and sit with him on his throne.

CHAPTER V. Ver. 1. But with respect to the precise time or opportunity that Christ will take for his appearance to judge the world and complete your happiness, I have no need to say anything. 2. For from what ye have heard from Christ and his ministers, ye cannot but perfectly know that however unalterably that time be fixed in the mind of God, yet, to excite all concerned to constant preparation and watching for it, the precise period or day thereof is altogether concealed; and it will come as unexpectedly on all, and as terribly on the wicked, as a thief who breaks into a house at midnight, when the master and all his family are asleep; 3. For while secure sinners shall be flattering themselves with nothing but peace and prosperity, that awful day, and the everlasting destruction which attends it, shall, by means of the sin which they carry about in them, overtake them in the most sudden, agonizing, and unavoidable manner. 4. But ye, my dear Christian brethren, are not like others under the power of spiritual darkness, that ye should sleep secure in sin, faithless and unconcerned about that awful event, or unprepared for it; and therefore, though it may unexpectedly surprise you, it cannot issue in your hurt or ruin. 5. Nay, all of you by profession, and I hope most of you in reality, are enlightened in the knowledge of Christ, and the way of salvation through him, that ye may be watchful, and walk honourably in the light of gospel truth and holiness, with your eyes open, and as persons exposed to public view; and being thus made light in the Lord, we are no more covered with the shadows of judaism, darkness of heathenism, mist of error, or natural ignorance of our own minds, as others still are, and we once were. 6. Being therefore brought into this happy state, let us never give way to a slothful, careless, and indolent frame of spirit, as others do who are still in their sins; but, as enlightened by the gospel and Spirit of Christ, let us maintain a wakeful temper of mind, watch over our own hearts and ways, and watch against sins and temptations, and for the coming of Christ; and let us, in view of it, be modest in our opinions of ourselves, and moderate in our cares and pleasures relative to this present world. 7. For as men sleep in the night that their rest may not be disturbed, and drink in the night

21 Prove<sup>a</sup> all things; <sup>b</sup>hold fast that which is good.

22 Abstain<sup>c</sup> from all appearance of evil.

23 And the very <sup>d</sup>God of peace <sup>e</sup>sanctify you wholly; and I pray God <sup>f</sup>your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ.

24 Faithful<sup>h</sup> is he that calleth you, who also will do it.

A.M. cir. 4058.
A.D. cir. 54.

<sup>a</sup> 1 Co. 2. 11, 15; 11. 2; 12. 10; 14. 29. 1 Jn. 4. 1. 15. 8. 20. Ac. 17. 11. 2 Th. 2. 15.

<sup>b</sup> Re. 3. 11. He. 4. 14; 10. 23. Phil. 1. 27; 3. 16. 1 Co. 15. 58.

<sup>c</sup> Ex. 23. 7. Is. 33. 15. Ep. 5. 7. 11. Ps. 1. 1. 10. 4. Jude 23. Phil. 4. 8. Ro. 13. 13. ch. 4. 12.

<sup>d</sup> Ro. 15. 33; 16. 20. 1 Co. 14. 33. 2 Co. 13. 11. Phil. 4. 9. He. 13. 20. 2 Th. 3. 16.

<sup>e</sup> Le. 20. 8. Jn. 17. 17.

A.M. cir. 4058.
A.D. cir. 54.

<sup>f</sup> 1 Co. 1. 8. Phi. 1. 6. 10. Col. 1. 22. ch. 3. 13. Ep. 5. 26, 27. Jude 24.

<sup>g</sup> 1 Co. 1. 9; 10. 13. 2 Th. 3. 3. Tit. 1. 2. He. 6. 17. 18. Nu. 23. 19.

<sup>h</sup> Col. 4. 3. 2 Th. 3. 1. Ro. 15. 30. Ep. 6. 19, 20.

<sup>i</sup> Ro. 16. 16. 1 Co. 16. 20. 2 Co. 13. 12. 1 Pe. 5. 14.

<sup>j</sup> Or, adjudge.
<sup>k</sup> Col. 4. 10.
<sup>l</sup> Ro. 16. 20. 24. 1 Co. 16. 23. 2 Co. 13. 14. Ga. 6. 18. Ep. 6. 24. Phil. 4. 23. 2 Th. 3. 18. He. 13. 25. Re. 22. 21.

25 Brethren,<sup>i</sup> pray for us.

26 Greet<sup>j</sup> all the brethren with an holy kiss.

27 I charge<sup>7</sup> you by the Lord <sup>k</sup>that this epistle be read unto all the holy brethren.

28 The<sup>l</sup> grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. Amen.

¶ The first epistle unto the Thessalonians was written from Athens.

that they may not be exposed to shame, so they who indulge themselves in carnal security, or immoderate cares or pleasures of this world, delight in and are under the power of ignorance, error, guilt, and corruption. 8. But let us who are spiritually begotten unto God by, and endowed and surrounded with, the light of gospel truth and grace, be vigilant and moderate in our affections or pursuits of earthly enjoyments; and being in a state of warfare with sin, Satan, and the world, let us make use of our Christian armour for defending ourselves—particularly of faith in Christ, and in God through him; and of love to him, and to one another in him, which, as a breastplate, may defend our heart; and of a well-grounded, solid, and satisfying hope of eternal life through him, which, as a helmet, may secure our head, till we come off more than conquerors through him that loved us: 9. For by what God has wrought for and in us, it is evident that he would have none of us through our sins to be lost without hope for ever, but come to a free, rich, and everlasting redemption through the merits and mediation of Christ. 10. Who, as our Saviour, obeyed and died in our room and stead, to take away our sin, that, by the merit and efficacy of his death, we who believe in him, whether we be found dead or alive at the last day, should, together with, in union to, and fellowship with him, be solemnly admitted into eternal blessedness. 11. Wherefore, with the views and hopes of and converse about these glorious events, labour, as ye have begun, to comfort, establish, and edify one another. 12. And as they who minister in holy things are the ordinary means and instruments which Christ hath appointed for the instruction, conversion, and edification of men's souls unto complete salvation, we earnestly entreat and charge you to converse freely with, own, and honour, and show your liberality, love, and respect to all his faithful servants and their ministrations—who painfully labour among you for the good of your souls; and, by virtue of their commission and ability from Christ, watch over your spiritual concerns, according to the laws which he has enacted in his Word; and who, as occasions require, warn you against all sin, error, and danger; reprove what is amiss in your conduct; and exhort, counsel, and encourage you to persevere in the ways of truth, sobriety, and holiness; 13. And to esteem them in the most honourable and affectionate manner, on account of the dignity and importance of the work in which they are employed for the glory of God and your spiritual advantage; and, as ye would not dishonour Christ, grieve them, or his Spirit in them, nor prevent your profiting by their labours, follow the things that make for harmony, peace, and friendship, with them and with one another. 14. And we further beseech both ministers and people among you, in their respective stations, to admonish those that are any ways disorderly in their walk towards God or men, and to warn them of their sin and danger, and the dishonour which they bring on their holy profession, and the pernicious influence of their conduct on others, and thus endeavour to reclaim them. Encourage and comfort distressed, timorous, and dejected fellow-Christians; deal tenderly with and endeavour to strengthen the weak in faith or knowledge, and labour to uphold them from falling or stumbling; and, as far as ye can, without sin, exercise patience and forbearance towards all men, friends or enemies. 15. Whatever injurious treatment ye receive, see that ye never attempt to revenge the injuries done you, but render good for evil; and always apply yourselves to do whatever is kind, useful, and beneficial, not only to fellow-Christians, but to every one with whom ye are connected.—16. And as to personal duties, study, for the credit of religion and your own comfort, always to maintain a cheerfulness of temper, rejoicing in the Lord Jesus Christ, and God in him, in whatever he is in himself or to you, or has done, does, or will do for you. 17. But as in this world your weakness, sinfulness, necessities, and dangers are constant, let your souls always maintain a praying frame; and see that ye daily, on stated or other occasions, abound in fervent prayer for yourselves and others. 18. Always, and in all circumstances, mingling your supplications with hearty thanksgivings to God for the unnumbered mercies, spiritual and temporal, which ye have or do receive, and the eternal which ye have in hope; for this is the grateful tribute which God, by the strongest obligations, requires of you for his honour in the receipt of these favours. 19. And as none of these duties can be performed without the special assistance of the Holy Ghost, beware of neglecting, stifling, and extinguishing his gifts, graces, or operations; but carefully comply with, cherish, and improve his gracious illuminations, suggestions, and motions, to excite and enable you to proper fervour in every good work. 20. And as the Holy Ghost works by means of and according to the Word of God, see that ye never contemn, but highly prize and improve the Scriptures, and every gospel ministration thereof, whether extraordinary or not. 21. But as many false teachers are gone abroad into the world, take care, under the direction and assistance of the Holy Ghost, thoroughly to try all doctrines and practices by the rule of God's Word; and whatever ye find to be really true, good, and honourable, steadfastly cleave to it in your faith and practice. 22. And, with the greatest care, avoid everything erroneous or sinful, and even the most distant appearances thereof, or temptations thereto. 23. And, for these purposes, may that God who is reconciled to you in Christ, and who is the author, giver, commander, and approver of all true peace with himself, or with each other, thoroughly purge you from all iniquity, and make you eminently partakers of his image; and may he preserve all the powers of your soul—all your animal spirits, senses, appetites, or natural tempers, and all the members of your body, from every sinful inclination or work, that ye may be found perfect at the coming of Christ. 24. On his faithfulness ye may indeed depend; for he who has by his grace lovingly called you to his kingdom and glory, will, according to his promise, carry on and perfect whatever concerns you in your way to glory, if you will only continue faithful. 25. As we ministers are so earnest in our prayers for you, we beg that ye will daily and fervently pray for us, that, by the direction and assistance of the Holy Ghost, we may be inclined, enabled, and encouraged to the diligent and faithful discharge of our important trust, and at the end receive a crown of glory as our gracious reward. 26. Let our most affectionate and religious respects be presented to all our Christian brethren with you; and see that ye testify your cordial love to one another in the most sincere, friendly, chaste, and pious manner. 27. And as the contents of this letter are of great importance and general use, I solemnly charge you, in the name of the Lord Jesus, that it be distinctly read unto all your members, who, I hope, live together as brethren in faith, profession, holiness, and comfort.

Ver. 1. Times. Long periods marked by prophetic signs.—Seasons. Briefer periods wherein the prophecy is fulfilled. C.

Ver. 7. Even among the heathen drunkenness during the day was considered so utterly scandalous that the apostle, writing to the Thessalonian converts, treats of it as a thing unknown. What a humiliating contrast with the state of many countries nominally Christian, where drunkards may be seen revelling in their streets in the open face of day; and so far from being ashamed, glorying in their beastly degradation. C.

Ver. 8. Believers are here described as putting on their armour, because they are considered as in a state of constant danger from inveterate enemies. C.

Ver. 17. Pray without ceasing. Not as if it were possible to have the thoughts always engaged in prayer, but to observe such regular and stated times, seasons, and opportunities as the Word of God prescribes, the practice of his people exemplifies, or as Providence or the Spirit calls us to observe and improve. C.

Ver. 23. Spirit. The separable intellectual being that 'has neither flesh nor bones,' and which, when 'the dust returns to the earth,' returns for judgment 'to God who gave it.'—Soul. Man, considered as a living and sentient being.—Body. The members that obey the will in good or evil. C.

REFLECTIONS.—To desire to know the time of Christ's great coming is but needless and sinful curiosity. But great is the importance of earnest watchfulness and diligent preparations for it. With sudden ruin it will dreadfully overwhelm the world of the ungodly; but will bring the most abundant comfort to those who are begotten again to a lively hope of eternal felicity through the resurrection of Christ from the dead. And the blessed, the distinguishing grace of their pardon, will then most evidently appear. What activity, watchfulness, and sobriety; what daily warring against the devil, the world, and the flesh, in the exercise of faith, love, and hope; what mutual harmony and study of one another's edification and comfort; what due regard to the messengers, ministration, and Spirit of Christ; what careful examination of doctrines and practices, and of our own hearts, by the Word of God; what steadfast adherence to and following after that which is good; what careful avoiding of sinful anger, and every other appearance of evil; what a joyful, prayerful, and thankful frame of spirit; what cordial love and friendship—are necessary to prepare us for that great event! Infinite then is the mercy that the God of peace hath undertaken our sanctification, and will, through faith, certainly effect it. And it is his grace, power, and faithfulness, and our living faith, that are the great security of our eternal happiness. Never then let me murmur at nor fear the event of any duty when my reconciled God is so full of compassion for me; and in fervent prayer and serious perusal of the Scriptures let me be a worker together with him.

CONCLUDING REMARKS ON THE FIRST EPISTLE TO THE THESSALONIANS.

This epistle is remarkable for its consolatory doctrines and precepts addressed to mourners. The sincere mourner is always an object of deep interest to a believer, for he beholds in him—not merely a brother in trouble, and, as such, entitled to his sympathy—but a copy, as it were, of the Lord Jesus himself, who was emphatically 'a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief.' There are not a few who address themselves to mourners as if they were, in some degree, guilty of a sin when they mourn. And, no doubt, there may be in mourning a rebellious murmuring against God. There may be ungrateful forgetfulness of past mercies, and unbelieving distrust for the future. Still, all this will not prove that mourning for the loss of friends is, in itself, sinful. Abraham mourned for Sarah; Joseph for Jacob; Martha and Mary for Lazarus; and the women stood afar off weeping at Calvary. The true remedy, therefore, for mourning, is not condemnation, but right direction. That direction guides to the coming of the Lord, the rising of the departed dead, and the hope of meeting in glory,—topics that inculcate no stoical insensibility, but accompany us to 'the house of mourning,' and sanction, while they moderate, that 'sadness of the countenance by which the heart is made better.' C.

GENERAL VIEW OF THE ACROPOLIS. [I. THESSALONIANS, v:28.]—The first Epistle of Paul to the Thessalonians was written from Athens, and we give a view of the Acropolis and Parthenon which stood in St. Paul's day, and also a glimpse of modern Athens as it appears to-day. We are looking toward the north. We see the ruins of the theatre of Bacchus, and of the Erechtheum, and of the Propylaea. To the right of the Parthenon we see Mount Lycabettus, and to the right of Mount Lycabettus we see the palace of King George I. We see a road passing along at the foot of the Acropolis over which St. Paul passed often during his stay in Athens. The Parthenon that stands upon the Acropolis, dismantled and desolate, is even to-day the most perfect specimen of architecture on the earth.

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE THESSALONIANS.

This, like the former epistle, appears to have been written, not from Athens, according to the unauthorized note at the end of both, but from Corinth. It evidently was written soon after, and with the view of correcting a misapprehension of some expressions in the former epistle. Twice (1 Th. 4. 15, 17) the apostle had spoken in such a manner of 'the day of the Lord,' that they had concluded it was just at hand. This impression would appear to have led to such a cessation from secular duties as would soon have produced want in families, and have exposed the Christians to the ridicule of the Jews and heathens. The apostle, therefore, writes to rectify this error, while he labours to strengthen their faith and hope under existing persecutions. The epistle contains evident references to the following portions both of the Old and New Testaments:—Ex. 7. 11, 12; 8. 18; 9. 11; Mat. 16. 14; Ac. 14. 22; 2 Pe. 1. 20, 21. C.

CHAPTER I.

1 Saint Paul certifieth them of the good opinion which he had of their faith, love, and patience: 11 and therewithal useth divers reasons for the comforting of them in persecution, whereof the chiefest is taken from the righteous judgment of God.

PAUL,<sup>a</sup> and Silvanus, and Timotheus, unto the church of the Thessalonians in God<sup>1</sup> our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ:

2 Grace<sup>b</sup> unto you, and peace, from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 We<sup>c</sup> are bound to thank God always for you, brethren, as it is meet, because that your faith groweth exceedingly, and the charity of every one of you all toward each other aboundeth;

4 So that we ourselves <sup>a</sup>glory in you in the churches of God, for your patience and faith in all your persecutions and tribulations that ye endure;

A.M. cir. 4060. A.D. cir. 56.	A.M. cir. 4060. A.D. cir. 56.
CHAP. I. a See 1 Th. 1. 1. Ac. 13. 9; 15. 22; 16. 1; 17. 1-10. Ju. 14. 23; 17. 21-23. 1 Ju. 1. 3; 4. 8, 16. 1 In God. See note on 1 Th. 1. 1.—C. b Ro. 1. 7. 1 Co. 1. 3. 2 Co. 1. 2. Ga. 1. 2. Phi. 1. 2. 1 Th. 1. 1. 1 Pe. 1. 2. Jude 2. c Ro. 1. 8. 1 Co. 1. 4. Ep. 1. 4, 15, 16. Phi. 1. 3-7. Col. 1. 3-6. 1 Th. 1. 2. 3. 3. 6, 7; 4. 9. ch. 2. 13. Mat. 13. 23. Ps. 84. 7. Pr. 4. 18. Is. 40. 29-31. 2 Pe. 1. 4-8; 3. 18. Job 17. 9. d 2 Co. 1. 14; 9. 2. 1 Th. 2. 19, 20. 14. 19; 1. 3. 16; 3. 4, 7. 1a. 5. 11. e Phi. 1. 28. 1 Pe. 4. 17. 18. ver. 6. f Ep. 4. 1. 13. Col. 1. 10, 12, 22. 1 Th. 5. 23. Re. 3. 4. ver. 11. g 1 Th. 2. 14. He. 10. 32, 33. Ac. 14. 22. Ro. 8. 17, 2. Ti. 2. 12. 1 Ju. 16. 33. h Re. 6. 10; 16. 5-7; 19. 2; 18. 20. De. 32. 43. Zec. 2. 8. i Re. 14. 13. Mat. 5. 11; 25. 34. Ro. 8. 17. 2 Co. 4. 17. 2 Th. 2. 12. 1 Pe. 1. 6. 7; 15. 10. He. 4. 9. Lu. 16. 25.	1 Th. 4. 16. Mat. 24. 30; 25. 31. Jude 14. Re. 20. 11, 12. 2 Gr. the angels of his power. 3 Ps. 50. 3. De. 32. 22. 41, 43. Na. 1. 2, 6. Ro. 2. 8, 9. He. 10. 27. 2 Pe. 3. 7, 10, 12. Jude 15. Re. 1. 7. 3 Or, yielding. 4 Is. 27. 11. Ho. 4. 6. Ps. 79. 6; 92. 6, 7, 9. Zep. 1. 6. 1 Th. 4. 5. Ep. 2. 12. Ga. 4. 8. Pr. 29. 18. Ju. 18. 36. He. 2. 3; 10. 29; 12. 25, 29. Ro. 2. 8. o Phi. 3. 19. 2 Pe. 3. 7. Ps. 79. 6. Mat. 25. 41, 46; 3. 12; 13. 41; 42, 49, 50. Is. 33. 14; 2. 19; 66. 24. Mar. 9. 43-48. Ro. 2. 8, 9. Jude 6, 7. Re. 14. 10, 11; 20. 10, 14, 15. 4 That this 'destruction' does not signify annihilation, as some have erroneously taught, is evident from the fact that the punishment being everlasting, the consciousness of being and of guilt must be everlasting likewise.—C. p Mat. 25. 31. Ac. 1. 11; 19. 20. Ps. 89. 7; 68. 34, 35. 1 Th. 1. 10; 4. 16. 1 Co. 2. 9.

5 Which<sup>e</sup> is a manifest token of the righteous judgment of God, that ye may be counted <sup>a</sup>worthy of the kingdom of God, <sup>b</sup>for which ye also suffer:

6 Seeing<sup>i</sup> it is a righteous thing with God to recompense tribulation to them that trouble you;

7 And to you who are troubled, <sup>j</sup>rest with us; when the Lord Jesus <sup>k</sup>shall be revealed from heaven with his mighty angels,<sup>2</sup>

8 In<sup>l</sup> flaming fire taking<sup>3</sup> vengeance on them that <sup>m</sup>know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ:

9 Who<sup>o</sup> shall be punished with everlasting destruction<sup>4</sup> from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power;

10 When he shall come <sup>n</sup>to be glorified in CHAPTER I. Ver. 1. Paul, an inspired messenger of Christ, and Silas and Timothy, his assistants in planting the gospel among you, to those in Thessalonica who have been graciously turned from heathen idols to the true and living God, and to Jesus Christ as the only true Messiah; 2. Again earnestly wish that the divine favour, in all its manifestations and effects, and all manner of spiritual peace and prosperity, may abound to all and every one of you, from God as the fountain, and through Christ as the compassionate dispenser thereof. 3. Reflecting upon what we have further heard of the remarkable increase of your faith towards God and love towards one another, we find ourselves sweetly constrained solemnly and daily to thank God for the marvellous influences of his grace on your hearts, by which these and all other graces are maintained and improved. 4. And in all the churches of Christ whither we come, with the highest esteem, honour, and delight, we make mention of your firmness of mind, calm submission, holy resolution, strong and lively faith, and steadfast adherence to Christ and the gospel, under all the persecutions and afflictions which have all along attended you for his sake; 5. Which is a manifest token that God has appointed a future, just, and impartial judgment of the world, which will set all things to rights, and in which he will adjudge you to that heavenly kingdom for the honour of which, and in hope of the enjoyment of which, ye so cheerfully suffer; 6. Since it cannot but be agreeable to God's righteous nature, will, law, and government, that in due time severe punishment be inflicted upon those that unjustly vex, distress, and cruelly persecute you on account of your adherence to the truth of the gospel; 7, 8. And that, in and through Christ, he should give you and us, who are persecuted for his cause, a release from our present tribulations, and an entrance into a state of perfect rest and peace; when our Lord Jesus, who has redeemed us to God by his own precious blood, shall, in the most public and awful manner, attended by all his millions of mighty and holy angels, appear in the clouds at the last day, cate our everlasting God of all grace, that, by the them, Jews or Gentiles, who continue in their sins, strangers to the true knowledge of God, and rebellious against the light of nature; or who continue to disobey, reject, and condemn the gracious calls of our Lord Jesus Christ in the gospel: 9. Both which sorts of sinners shall then begin to be punished with an everlasting loss of and banishment from his blissful presence, and all the glorious effects of his saving power, and an eternal suffering of the most inexpressible remorse in their souls because it shall then appear that the day of repentance and opportunity is past; 10. At the very time in which he will appear, to your joy, to glorify himself in the full performance of all his promises, in the complete salvation of all his believing ones; and to be glorified and adored by them who by faith cordially embrace the testimony of the gospel preached by us—in thankful and everlasting wonder at the riches of his grace, and the great things he has done for them. 11. In reflection upon these important events, and in hopes of your escaping the terrors and sharing the joys thereof, we daily and earnestly supplicate to adjudge the reward of their doings upon all almighty operation of his Spirit, he would gradually fulfil all his promises, and perfect your faith and other graces, and all the fruits of good works proceeding therefrom, and thus make you meet for the full enjoyment of that heavenly inheritance to which ye are called by the gospel. 12. That so the person, authority, and doctrine of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ may be exalted, in their happy effects upon you, and in your high esteem thereof and holy conversation answerable thereto; and that, by virtue of your union with him, ye may arrive at the most glorious state of perfect joy and praise, according to the free favour and grace of God, who has called you to it, and of Jesus Christ, who has secured and promised, and will bestow it upon you.

Ver. 5. The meaning seems to be this:—Admitting, as all men do, that God is a righteous Judge, he must therefore, at some time, render to every man according to his works. To you he has assigned present persecutions, but has therewith given you grace as the foretaste and token of rest and glory; to your persecutors he has given present power, but as they will they are given over to Satan's temptation, their own evil passions, and the torments of an evil conscience—a punishment already begun in time as a 'manifest token' that it will be continued in eternity. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Happy is the state of believers in God through Christ; and rich and abundant the mercies that flow from both to them. There is great ground of thankfulness when the faith, love, and patience of Christians grow exceedingly, even under great tribulation and cruel persecution. And why should saints fret at their present troubles, when the last judgment will so quickly set everything right! Awfully tremendous, but infinitely glorious, will be that appearance of our Redeemer! Fearful is the work he will then and through eternity make on obstinate sinners, especially such as rebelled against the clear light, and refused the precious blessings of the gospel. But delightfully will he glorify himself in the public honours and eternal salvation of his saints. And there is need of prayers, care, and diligence on their side, and of the work of the Spirit on his, to prepare them for that grand event.—My soul, wait and long for thy coming, thy quickly-coming Redeemer! Rejoice in hopes of thy eternal nearness to, vision, and admiration of him! Rejoice that thy worthiness lies in his righteousness and riches of grace, and in your holding by faith to the truth as it is in Christ!

CHAPTER II. Ver. 1. But, having attempted to comfort you under your present tribulations with the certain prospect of Christ's appearance to judge the his saints, and to be admired in all them that believe (because our testimony among you <sup>was</sup> believed) in that day.

11 Wherefore also <sup>we</sup> pray always for you, that our God would count<sup>5</sup> you <sup>worthy</sup> of this calling, and fulfil all the <sup>good</sup> pleasure of his goodness, and the <sup>work</sup> of faith with power;

12 That<sup>r</sup> the name of our Lord Jesus Christ may be glorified in you, and ye in him, according to the grace of our God and the Lord Jesus Christ.

CHAPTER II.

1 He willeth them to continue steadfast in the truth received, 3 sheweth that there shall be a departure from the faith, 8 and a discovery of antichrist, before the day of the Lord come. 15 And thereupon repeleth his former exhortation, and prayeth for them.

NOW we<sup>a</sup> beseech you, brethren, by the coming<sup>1</sup> of our Lord Jesus Christ, and by our gathering together unto him,

2 That<sup>b</sup> ye be not soon shaken in mind, or be troubled, neither by spirit, nor by word, nor by letter, as from us,<sup>2</sup> as that the day of Christ is at hand.

3 Let<sup>c</sup> no man deceive you by any means: for that day shall not come except there come a<sup>d</sup> falling away<sup>3</sup> first, and that <sup>man</sup> of sin be revealed, the <sup>son</sup> of perdition;

4 Who opposeth and <sup>exalteth</sup> himself above all that is called God, or that is worshipped; so that he, as God, sitteth in the temple of God, showing himself that he is God.

5 Remember<sup>i</sup> ye not, that, when I was yet with you, I told you these things?

world, I must now, in the most solemn manner, entreat and adjure you, by your belief, expectations, and desire of that awful event, and by your hopes of being gathered, along with us and other saints, to his right hand, and of being for ever with the Lord. 2. That ye take heed that none, pretending to a spirit of prophecy, or misconstruing our words, or appealing to spurious writings which pass in our name, or any old tradition, mislead and perplex your mind, or stagger your faith, by insinuations that the coming of Christ to the last judgment is instantly to take place; the failure of which, if believed, might tempt you to disbelieve his coming at all, or even the whole truth of the gospel. 3. Let no pretences whatever decoy you into this pernicious notion; for, by revelations from God, I can assure you that the last judgment shall not happen till there has been a remarkable general apostasy from the faith, worship, and holiness of the gospel; and an antichristian succession of impious men, Romish popes, and their agents, has manifestly appeared in the church, countenancing and propagating the vilest corruptions in doctrine, worship, and practice, and, by seduction and persecution, destroying the souls and bodies of multitudes, till they themselves at last sink into everlasting destruction: 4. Who also, by pretended claims to civil and ecclesiastical authority, shall proudly assume a sovereign power over magistrates, ministers, or even angels, good or bad—a power in heaven, earth, and hell, superior to what had ever been ascribed to heathen gods; and shall set themselves in opposition to Christ in his mediatorial offices and members, and even pretend a power equal to or above the most High—in disposing of his worship to other objects, dispensing with his laws, nullifying or establishing his ordinances at pleasure; and, sitting in the church, shall assume titles, and exercise authority to confer gifts and graces, pardons and salvations, as if they were God himself. 5, 6. And as ye know I warned you that Christ would not appear to judgment till after this dreadful apostasy, I now inform you that it is the subsistence of the Roman empire under one political head which at present restrains the complete revelation of that anti-christian empire which I have just mentioned. 7. For that apostasy, which includes an unsearchable depth of error and wickedness, is already, in a secret manner, spreading its malignant influence in the pride, worldly-mindedness, will-worship, and corruption of the doctrine of free justification before God, which take place among Christian professors, and would quickly appear in all its extent, power, pomp, and grandeur, were it not that the present imperial pagau government of Rome will prevent and restrain it till God, in his appointed time, remove the seat of the emperors from Rome, and even abolish the present form of the empire: 8. And then, through the growing ambition and luxury of church-rulers, under the protection and indulgence of the Christian emperors, and the division of the empire into ten kingdoms, all submitting to the delusion, shall that wicked and lawless system of the Papacy appear in its full power and pomp, and continue till the Lord Jesus, by the pure preaching of the gospel, and the zealous opposition of the Reformers, and by his fearful judgments, when he comes to fill the whole earth with his glory, shall utterly destroy it.—9. The introduction and maintenance of which papal system will, in imitation, and by the special influence and craft of Satan, be effected, by high pretences of authority from Christ, to work miraculous and wonderful operations for its honour; 10. And, at his instigation, will be carried on, by every subtle and deceitful artifice, managed in the most unrighteous manner, so as to delude those into eternal perdition who, through the influence of Satan and their own corrupt lusts, did not heartily receive the truths of the gospel, and Christ therein, as the only means of their salvation: 11. To punish which dislike and rejection of the truth as it is in Jesus, God shall deliver them up to the hardening, blinding, and delusive influence of their own hearts, that, by means thereof, they may consent to the merest forgeries, and the most absurd errors, vile idolatries, and gross superstitions; 12. That thus being left to the foolish and perverse influence of their own hearts, all of them may be condemned and punished with everlasting destruction who rejected Christ and his gospel

6 And now ye know what withholdeth,<sup>4</sup> that he might be revealed in his time.

7 For the <sup>mystery</sup> of iniquity doth already work:<sup>5</sup> only he who now letteth, will let, until he be taken out of the way.

8 And then shall that <sup>Wicked</sup> be revealed, <sup>whom</sup> the Lord shall consume <sup>with</sup> the spirit of his mouth, and shall destroy with the brightness of his coming.

9 Even him, whose coming is <sup>after</sup> the working of Satan, with all power and signs and lying wonders,

10 And<sup>p</sup> with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved.

11 And<sup>q</sup> for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie:

12 That<sup>r</sup> they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness.

13 But <sup>we</sup> are bound to give thanks alway to God for you, brethren beloved of the Lord, because God hath from the beginning chosen you to salvation through sanctification of the Spirit and belief of the truth;

14 Whereunto<sup>t</sup> he called you by our gospel, to the obtaining of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.

15 Therefore, brethren, <sup>stand</sup> fast, and hold the traditions<sup>6</sup> which ye have been taught, whether by word, or our epistle.

truths, and took pleasure in perverting his Word, corrupting his worship, violating his laws, and persecuting his people. 13. But, in both duty and affection, we must bless and thank God that he hath warned you against such ruinous apostasy, having, in his universal, undying love, called you to complete and eternal salvation, to which he has sought by faith and through the universal and gradual renovation of your nature and knowledge, righteousness and true holiness wrought in you by the Holy Ghost, and through a faithful trust in Christ, and faithful adherence to him, as manifested and offered in the gospel, as God's appointed means of eternal happiness; 14. To which complete and eternal salvation, in consequence of faith in Christ, he has tenderly called you by the gospel which we preached unto you, that, through the attending operation of the Holy Ghost, ye might be fully entitled to, prepared for, and at last introduced into, the eternal enjoyment of that glorious blessedness which our Lord Jesus Christ has secured and prepared, taken possession of, promised to, and bestows upon, his believing people. 15. In consideration therefore of the secret and subtle operations of Antichrist to draw men from the faith, and of what God has done for and promised to you, we earnestly beseech you to stand fast in the faith, hope, comfort, and holiness of the gospel—steadfastly maintaining all those important points of truth and duty in which ye have been instructed by me, and my fellow-ministers of Christ, by word or writing. 16. And, for this purpose, may the Lord Jesus Christ, who has redeemed us by his blood, and secured eternal glory for us, and will at last confer it upon us; and God, his and our Father, who has loved us with an everlasting love, and often revived our souls by those everlasting consolations which flow from and are founded on it, and given us a solid, scriptural, and well-grounded hope of eternal life, confirmed by his Holy Spirit dwelling and working in our hearts,—17. Fill your souls yet more and more with all joy and peace in believing, and effectually comfort your hearts under all your troubles, fears, and dangers, and more and more establish your

A.M. cir. 4060.
A.D. cir. 56.

q ch. 2.13; ver. 3.1 Th. 1.5; 2.13.
r 1 Th. 1.2; 3.10. Col. 1.3, 9-12, 22. Phil. 1.4-11. Ep. 1.16-19; 3.14-19. 1 Th. 5.23, 24. 1 Pe. 1.3-7.2 Pe. 1.2.
s Or, vouchsafe.
t See ver. 5. Ep. 4.1. Col. 1.12. Re. 3.4. 2 Pe. 1.4-10.
u Ep. 1.4-12; 2.7, 8. Ro. 5.20, 21. Tit. 3.5-7. Zec. 4.7.
v Ep. 1.19, 20. 1 Th. 2.13. Col. 2.12. Jn. 6.29. 1 Th. 1.3, 5.
w 1 Pe. 1.7; 4.14. ver. 10. Jn. 17.10, 21-24, 26.

CHAP. II.

a Ro. 12.1, 2. Co. 10.1. 2 Ti. 4.1. 1 Ti. 6.14. 1 Co. 1.8. 1 Th. 3.13; 4.16, 17. Mat. 25.31-34; 24.30, 31.
b By the coming. Rather, 'concerning the coming.'—C. c Je. 29.8. Mat. 24.4-6. Col. 1.24; 2.8, 18. ch. 3.14. 2 Pe. 2.1. 1 Jn. 4.1. Mi. 2.11. 1 Th. 4.15. 1 Pe. 4.7, 8.
d See note * below.
e Mat. 24.4, 23. Je. 29.8. Ep. 5.6.
f Da. 7.8, 20-25; 11.35-39. 1 Ti. 4.1-3.2 Ti. 3.1-5; 4.3, 4.1 Jn. 2.18. Re. 9.1-11; xiii.
g Rather, 'the falling away,' the great apostasy foretold in the prophets and by Christ himself.—C. h ver. 8-10. 1 Jn. 2.18. Re. 13.5, 6, 11, 12, 14. Da. 7.25.
i Re. 9.11; 13.10; 17.2, 6, 8; 19.20. Jn. 17.12.
j Is. 14.13. Da. 11.36, 37; 7.8, 25. Re. 13.6-8, with 1 Co. 8.5. k ver. 15. Re. 3.3. 1 Th. 2.11. Col. 1.28. Ac. 20.31.
l It would seem from this remark that the views and teachings of Paul had been misrepresented in the church at Thessalonica, not only by false oral statements, but by a forged letter, purporting to have been written by him.

A.M. cir. 4060.
A.D. cir. 56.

I cannot think the apostle could refer in such terms as these to a simple misunderstanding or misinterpretation of his own former epistle. He must have heard while at Corinth that an epistle, falsely ascribed to him, had recently been circulated among the Thessalonians, and that they were being led astray by it. His object now is to expose the forgery, and to correct the wrong impressions.—P.

4 Or, holdeth.

7 Re. 17.5. Ac. 20.29. 1 Jn. 2.18; 4.3. 1 Co. 1.12; 3.3. 3 Jn. 9. Ro. 10.3. Col. 2.18-24.
5 The truth of this statement may be seen by reference to the 'Concluding Remarks' on Galatians and Colossians.—C.

6 ver. 3, 4. Re. 9.1-11; xiii. Da. 7.8, 20-25; 11.35-39. 1 Ti. 4.1-3.2 Ti. 3.1-5; 4.3, 4.

7 Da. 7.10, 11, 22, 26; 11.45. 2 Ti. 3.9. Re. 12.3, 17; 13.10; 14.6-20; 15.6-8; xvi. 17, 14, 16; 18.2-23; 19.2, 20, 21; 20.10.

8 Is. 11.4. Ho. 6.5. Re. 2.10; 19.15, 20, 21. He. 10.27. Job 4.9.

9 De. 13.1. Mat. 24.24. Jn. 8.44. 2 Co. 4.4. Ep. 2.2. Re. 13.13, 14; 19.20.

10 He. 3.13. Re. 13.8; 17.8. 2 Co. 2.15; 4.3. 1 Ps. 109.17. 1 Co. 16.22.

11 Ps. 8.11, 12; 109.17. Pr. 1.29. 1 Ki. 22.22. Is. 44.20; 66.4. Eze. 14.9. Ro. 1.24. Mat. 24.5, 11, 24. 1 Ti. 4.1, 2. Re. 9.8, 10; 13.2-8, 11-16.

12 De. 32.35. Ro. 1.32. Ps. 9.17. Mar. 16.16.

13 ch. 1.3, 4. Ep. 1.4. 1 Th. 4.2. 1 Ti. 9.1. Pe. 1.2-4.

14 1 Pe. 5.10. Ep. 1.14. Jn. 10.28. 1 Jn. 2.25. Jn. 17.22, 24; 14.2, 3. Re. 3.21. Ro. 8.17.

15 1 Co. 16.13. Phil. 4.1. 1 Co. 11.2. ch. 3.6, 14. Pr. 23. Jude 3. Re. 3.11; 2.10.

6 The traditions. Rather, 'the instructions.'—C.

16 Now<sup>v</sup> our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God, even our Father, which hath loved us, and hath given us <sup>v</sup>everlasting consolation and good hope through grace,

17 Comfort<sup>y</sup> your hearts, and stablish you in every good word and work.<sup>7</sup>

CHAPTER III.

1 He craveth their prayers for himself, 3 testifieth what confidence he hath in them, 5 maketh request to God in their behalf, 6 giveth them divers precepts, especially to shun idleness, and ill company, 16, and last of all concludeth with prayer and salutation.

FINALLY, brethren, <sup>a</sup>pray for us, <sup>b</sup>that the word of the Lord may have free course,<sup>1</sup> and be glorified, even as it is with you:

2 And that <sup>c</sup>we may be delivered from unreasonable<sup>2</sup> and wicked men: for <sup>d</sup>all men have not faith.

3 But the Lord is <sup>e</sup>faithful, who shall stablish you, and keep you from evil.<sup>3</sup>

4 And <sup>f</sup>we have confidence in the Lord touching you, that ye both do and will do the things which we command you.

5 And <sup>h</sup>the Lord<sup>4</sup> direct your hearts into the love of God, and <sup>i</sup>into the patient waiting for Christ.<sup>5</sup>

6 Now we command you, <sup>j</sup>brethren, <sup>k</sup>in the faith in and adherence to the truths of the gospel, and enable you constantly to speak and act for God, and for one another's edification.

Ver. 4. This 'man of sin'—this patron of sin—this 'son of perdition'—this heir of destruction—is to be found sitting 'in the temple of God,' the church, 1 Co. 3. 16, 17; 2 Co. 6. 16; 1 Ti. 3. 15; Re. 3. 12. 'He exalteth himself above all that is called God'—above all authority in churches and states, Ps. 82. 6; Jn. 10. 34—'showing himself that he is God,' by assuming his titles, attributes, and powers. Now these characteristics have never been discovered in any man or succession of men, but in the Papacy. There, however, they all meet.—Wherefore the conclusion is inevitable—the prophecy describes the Papacy. C.

Ver. 6. The Roman empire 'withheld' and prevented the erection of the Papacy. So soon as it 'was taken out of the way,' the papal dominion, as great and as despotic, was erected upon its pedestal. C.

Ver. 8. That 'that Wicked' or 'lawless one' may, according to Scripture, represent a succession or be an individual, is unquestionable. The two views are not inconsistent with each other. Among the successive pontiffs of Rome there may yet arise one who shall surpass in pride, presumption, and anti-christian despotism, and be punished with such accumulated and personal judgments as were dealt out in detail to his typical predecessors. C.

Ver. 11. Not that God will send 'delusion' purposing to mislead; but God will send truth to inform and rebuke, and self-interest will reject God's testimony; and wicked men, listening to the voice of their own counsel and the impulses of their own passions, will be deluded into a rejection of God's holy call to reformation, as Pharaoh's heart was hardened by God's righteous demand of his people's freedom. See Ex. 9. 34, 35. C.

Ver. 13. From the beginning is an equivalent for eternity. Comp. Pr. 8. 23 with Ep. 1. 4. C.

REFLECTIONS.—It is dangerous to fix the periods which God has concealed. Disappointment of the events expected may tempt us to discredit the whole gospel. That Christ will come is certain; our business is not to inquire when, but to be always ready to meet him. Happy will be the time when all the ransomed millions shall be gathered to and be for ever with him! By what strange wickedness of men does God punish obstinate and haughty professors, and carry on the designs of his glory! The most fearful lengths in wickedness will seducers go when left to their own hearts' lusts. But the triumphing of the wicked is short. Evil consequences overtake them in due time. And when God has accomplished his purpose for the trial of his saints he leaves those who reject Christ to the reward of their doings.—But there is great ground of thanksgiving that nothing can defeat his blessed purpose; nothing can defeat his gracious and sanctifying influence; nothing can separate from his love; nothing can rob us of his comforts; nothing can undermine the faith or hope which is founded on his Word.—Stand fast, my soul!

cleave to his precious truths, and give thyself unto prayer; so shalt thou be comforted and established in every good word and work.

CHAPTER III. Ver. 1. Now, my dear brethren in Christ, let me entreat your most fervent prayers for me and my fellow-labourers in preaching the gospel, that we may be graciously directed, assisted, and owned of God, in our great and difficult work; and that the gospel of salvation, of which Christ is the author and principal subject, may be speedily and successively spread far and wide; and may, as with you, be honourably received, and produce glorious effects in the conversion, edification, and holy conversation of multitudes, wherever it is preached: 2. And that we may be kept or rescued out of the hands of unbelieving Jewish zealots and false brethren, who are so insolently perverse and absurd in their reasonings and prejudices, and maliciously wicked in their principles and practices—labouring everywhere to defame, vex, and cruelly persecute us; for many who pretend to religion, and even to Christianity, do not cordially embrace Jesus Christ in his gospel by a true faith, which works by love, and purifies their heart. 3. But let neither the falls of others, nor their violent opposition to you or your way, for the sake of the gospel, discourage you; for God, whose faithful promise ye have heartily embraced, will graciously fulfil whatever he hath spoken; in confirming, establishing, and strengthening you in the doctrine and grace of faith, and in your profession of it, and practice of godliness according to it; and will preserve you from the ruinous influences of sin, Satan, and the world. 4. And as your preservation must be in the way of holy obedience, we firmly and joyfully trust in the Lord Jesus, that, through union to and gracious influences from him, ye shall, as heretofore, be enabled to persevere in an exact observance of all those commandments which we have delivered to you in his name and authority. 5. And in this hope we earnestly pray that the Holy Ghost would, by his grace, light, and influence, rectify every irregular motion of your hearts, and really direct and carry them into a clear and experimental acquaintance with the love of God to you, and into the most lively exercises of love to him, under a sense of his having first loved you; and into a patient continuance in well-doing, under all manner of trouble and persecution for Christ's sake, and a patient waiting for his great coming, to put an end to your trials, and make you a rich and everlasting, but gracious amends. 6. But, as we understand, some of your society, notwithstanding name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye <sup>k</sup>with-draw yourselves from every brother that walketh disorderly, and not after the tradition which he received of us.<sup>6</sup>

7 For yourselves know how <sup>l</sup>ye ought to follow us: for we behaved not ourselves disorderly among you;<sup>7</sup>

8 Neither did we eat any man's bread for nought; but <sup>m</sup>wrought with labour and travail night<sup>8</sup> and day, that we might not be chargeable to any of you:

9 Not<sup>o</sup> because we have not power, but <sup>n</sup>to make ourselves an ensample unto you to follow us.

10 For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, <sup>q</sup>that if any would not work, neither should he eat.

11 For we hear that there are some which <sup>r</sup>walk among you disorderly, working not at all, but are busy-bodies.

12 Now them that are such <sup>s</sup>we command and exhort by our Lord Jesus Christ, <sup>t</sup>that with quietness they work, and eat their own bread.

13 But ye, brethren, <sup>u</sup>be not weary<sup>9</sup> in well-doing.

14 And if any man obey not our word by our former admonitions, continue to be idle and busy-bodies, by virtue of our commission from Christ, we do, in his name and authority, charge you to remove from your holy communion, and avoid all unnecessary familiarity with, every member of your church who thus obstinately perseveres in a course so injurious to public and family peace, dishonourable to the Christian character, and contrary to the rules of the gospel. 7. For ye know how ye ought to persist in following the holy, just, active, and unblamable pattern which we carefully set before you when among you; 8. Labouring to our utmost in preaching the gospel, and in working at our trades for our necessary subsistence, that we might give to no one the smallest occasion to pretend we were burdensome: 9. Not because we had not a divine right to a proper maintenance, as apostles and ministers of Christ, but that we might prevent every prejudice against us, and propagate the gospel more successfully, and that we might set you a good example, and excite you to industry in your respective callings. 10. For having observed some appearances of an indolent temper among you, we, when with you, strictly commanded, that if any of your members should, through wilful indolence, reduce himself and family to straits, he should not be allowed any maintenance out of the public charity of the church, which ought only to be applied for the relief of such as through sickness, old age, or the like, are not able to work for themselves. 11. And we still insist on this, as we are credibly informed that there are some of you who, in contradiction to our express injunctions, the general rule of Christianity, the express requirements of the moral law, and the order of the creation, and of all regular societies, indulge themselves in idleness, sauntering about, and curiously prying, and officiously thrusting themselves into other people's business, to the disturbance of neighbours, and creating of jealousies, misunderstandings, and quarrels among friends. 12. Such as are of this slothful and pernicious temper, we again solemnly charge, by the authority of God, and earnestly entreat, by the endearing love of Jesus Christ, and as they would avoid his fearful displeasure, and honour their profession of his name, that, with a quiet, meek, and peaceable frame of spirit, they would apply themselves diligently to the work of their stations, that, by the blessing of God, they may honestly provide for themselves and their families. 13. And we beseech such of you as attach yourselves to your proper work, unweariedly to persevere in the diligent discharge of the civil and religious duties of your respective stations, and particularly in liberality to the industrious poor

A.M. cir. 4060.
A.D. cir. 56.
v ch. 1. 2. 2 Co. 13. 14.
Je. 31. 2. 1 Jn. 4. 9, 10, 19.
Jn. 16. 27, 13. 1 Re.
1. 5.
x Ps. 103. 17. He. 9. 12;
13. 20. 1 Pe. 1. 3. 4. He. 6.
18. 19. 2 Co. 4. 17. 18. 5. 1.
y Is. 40. 1. 2; 41. 10. 14;
46. 4; 51. 3. 12. 54. 10. 57.
18. 19; 58. 11; 60. 19. 20;
61. 2. 10. 66. 13. 2 Co. 1. 3.
6. 1 Co. 1. 8. 1 Th. 3. 13.
7 See note on 1 Th.
3. 11.—C.

CHAP. III.

a 1 Th. 5. 25. Ep. 6. 19.
20. Col. 4. 3. Ro. 15. 30.
Mat. 9. 38.
b Ac. 6. 7; 13. 49. 1 Co.
16. 9. Tit. 2. 10. 14. 1 Th.
1. 5.
c 1 Gr. may run.
d Ro. 15. 31. 1 Th. 2.
18.
e 2 Gr. absurd.
f Ro. 10. 16. Mat. 11.
25. Jn. 6. 44. Ac. 2. 40; 13.
45. 50; 17. 5. 13; 28. 24. 2
Co. 4. 3. 4.
g Nu. 23. 19. 1 Co. 1. 9;
10. 15. 1 Th. 5. 23. 24; 3.
3. 13. Jn. 17. 15. 2 Th. 4.
18.
h From evil. Rather,
from the evil one, Satan.—C. i 2 Co. 7. 16. Ga. 5. 10.
1 Th. 4. 10. 15. 11. ch. 2. 15;
ver. 6. 11. Ro. 2. 7. Ga. 6.
9.
k 1 Ch. 29. 18. Jude 21.
1 Jn. 4. 16. 19. Mat. 22. 37.
1 Th. 4. 1. 3. 9.
l The Lord, even the Lord Jesus working by his Spirit. See note on 1 Th. 3. 11.—C. m 1 Th. 3. 3; 1. 10. Tit.
2. 13. 2 Th. 4. 8. He. 9. 28.
2 Pe. 3. 12.
n Or, the patience of Christ.
o 1 Co. 5. 4. Ac. 3. 6.
ver. 1. 1.

A.M. cir. 4060.
A.D. cir. 56.
k ver. 14. 15. 11. 1 Ti.
6. 5. Ro. 16. 17. 2 Ti. 3. 5.
1 Th. 5. 14; 4. 11. Tit. 3.
10. 2 Jn. 8. 9. 10. 1 Co. 5. 9.
11. 13.
l The word 'tradition' is liable to be misunderstood. Its Greek equivalent in the original means 'lesson,' or 'oral teaching.' The apostle first taught the Thessalonians orally;
it is to the doctrines and precepts he then set before them that he here refers, and not to anything which we could legitimately call tradition.—P. m 1 Co. 4. 16; 11. 1. 1
Th. 1. 6; 2. 10. 4. 11.
n We did not break our rank, forsake our post, or neglect our spiritual or temporal duties. See ver. 11.—C. o Ac. 18. 3; 20. 34. 1
Co. 4. 12. 2 Co. 11. 9; 12.
13. 1 Th. 2. 9.
p It is probable the apostle worked during part of the night to give him leisure for conversing with inquirers or preaching to Christians through the day.—C.
q Mat. 10. 10. 1 Co. 9.
1. 6. 14. Ga. 6. 6. 1 Ti. 5.
17. 18.
r 1 Co. 4. 16; 11. 1. 1 Th.
3. 17. 1 Ti. 4. 12. 1 Pe. 5. 3.
g 2 Th. 3. 19. 1 Th. 4. 11.
h 1 Ti. 5. 13. ver. 6. 18.
56. 10. Mat. 20. 3. 6. 1 Pe.
4. 15.
i ver. 6. Ro. 12. 1. 2
Co. 10. 1. ch. 2. 1. 1 Ti. 5.
21. 6. 13. 14. 2 Th. 4. 1.
j 1 Th. 4. 11. Ep. 4. 28.
Ro. 12. 11.
k Ga. 6. 6. 1 Co. 15. 58.
2 Pe. 3. 18; 1. 4. 8. 1 Th. 4.
18.
l Or, faint not.

this epistle, "note that man,<sup>1</sup> and have no company with him, that he may be ashamed.

15 Yet<sup>x</sup> count him not as an enemy, but admonish him as a brother.

16 Now <sup>y</sup>the Lord of peace himself give you peace always by all means. The Lord be with you all.

<sup>x</sup> 1 Co. 16. 21. Col. 4. 18, with ch. 2. 18. Ro. 16. 22.

A.M. cir. 4060.
A.D. cir. 56.

<sup>v</sup> ver. 6. Mat. 18. 17.
1 Or, signify that man by an epistle.

<sup>x</sup> Le. 19. 17. 2 Co. 10. 8; 13. 10. 1 Th. 5. 14.
<sup>y</sup> Ro. 15. 33; 16. 20. 1 Co. 14. 33. 2 Co. 13. 11. Phi. 4. 9. 1 Th. 5. 23. Nu. 6. 24-26. Ps. 29. 11; 147. 14. Ro. 5. 1-11; 8. 28. Jn. 16. 33. 2 Co. 4. 17.

<sup>2</sup> The special authentication of this

A.M. cir. 4060.
A.D. cir. 56.

epistle was doubtless occasioned by the circulation of the forged letter referred to in ch. 2. 2. Paul here states that while he employs ordinarily an amanuensis, yet he authenticates each genuine epistle by a closing salutation in his own hand.—P.

<sup>a</sup> See Ro. 16. 24. 1 Th. 5. 28. Re. 22. 21.

17 The salutation of Paul <sup>z</sup>with mine own hand, which is the token in every epistle: so I write.<sup>2</sup>

18 The<sup>a</sup> grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

¶ The second epistle to the Thessalonians was written from Athens.

among you. 14. And if, notwithstanding our present and former admonitions, any persist in their idleness, or other disorderly courses, let your church set a brand of infamy on them, turning them from her fellowship; and let every particular member abstain from all unnecessary converse with them, that, being put to shame, they may, through the influences of God's Spirit, be made to reflect on, and repent of, loathe, and abhor their sin. 15. But never treat them with austerity or roughness, as if ye aimed at their temporal or spiritual ruin, nor immediately look on them as implacable and incorrigible enemies to Christ and the gospel; but, in all your reproofs, censures, and admonitions, deal tenderly and affectionately with them, as brethren, in hopes that, by your diligent and repeated attempts, they may be reclaimed and restored to their former place in the church. 16. Now may the Lord Jesus Christ, the author, fountain, and bestower of all manner of peace and prosperity, by all the means of his own appointment, continually and abundantly confer it upon you, in your personal and relative capacities; and may he himself afford all and every one of you his special presence in the way of providence and grace, to protect, guide, assist, comfort, and perfect all that concerns you. 17, 18. Marking therefore my kindest wishes to you in my own hand-writing, as I do in all my letters, as a token of their being genuine, I earnestly pray and hope that the full love and favour of our Lord Jesus Christ, inclusive of all its manifestations, fruits, and effects, may continually abound to all and every one of you, from this time henceforth and for ever.

Ver. 2. Faith here evidently signifies faithfulness to resolutions, promises, and obligations, as appears from comparing this with the following verse, where the Lord is distinguished as 'faithful.' C.

Ver. 6. Disorderly. A military allusion signifying out of rank, out of union with the general movement, and without or contrary to the word of command. C.

Ver. 17. The apostle, either from tremor of the hand, inexperience in the Greek characters, or perhaps because he worked and dictated at the same time, usually employed an amanuensis, but affixed his own signature to prevent imposition. C.

REFLECTIONS.—There is need of much fervent prayer for the success of the gospel, and for the preservation and assistance of faithful ministers, that their labours may not be obstructed by the craft or violence of wicked men. And it is an inconceivable mercy to have God's promise and care for securing our endurance and comfort in an evil day. Thrice happy are they whom the Holy Ghost directs into the love of God, and into a patient waiting for Christ's great coming; and whose hearts truly accept the faith, holiness, and hope of the gospel.—It is necessary, for the honour and safety of the church, that scandalous professors be prudently and carefully censured and withdrawn from; but true kindness, not harshness, must be used to bring them to repentance. The industrious, but helpless poor, should be relieved with cheerfulness, according to their wants; but idle and disorderly persons ought to receive, not liberality, but correction, from both church and state.—It is a great mercy to have exemplary ministers, persevering and lively Christians, but especially to have a gracious Redeemer present in the church.

CONCLUDING REMARKS ON THE SECOND EPISTLE TO THE THESSALONIANS.

This epistle naturally suggests the necessity of caution and careful examination when some new and striking doctrine is propounded; especially when such a doctrine rests upon some isolated portions of Scripture. The prophetic utterance in the Gospel by Matthew (ch. 24. 30, 34), conjoined with that of Paul (1 Th. 4. 15, 17), seems, when superficially examined, to indicate the speedy, the almost immediate, coming of the Lord to judgment. By superficial examination is meant, an examination of the passages by themselves, without the light to be derived from 'comparing spiritual with spiritual,' scripture with scripture. Such comparison, humbly and prayerfully conducted—as all scriptural examination specially requires—would have enabled the Thessalonians to discover that, while the Lord, as judge, is ever at hand, the precise time of his coming is utterly unknown (Mat. 24.

36, 42), and that a long series of events, most precisely foretold, must be realized before the day of his final coming to the judgment of the quick and the dead. The Thessalonians, in thus hasting to a conclusion apparently warranted by some few passages of Scripture which they had not paused to compare with others, exhibited, however, nothing but what is common in the history of all ages of the church. Hence have arisen errors and heresies upon the one side; and, to escape them, the lethargic sleep of infallibility, on the other. But God, who always brings good out of evil, light out of darkness, and order out of confusion, has overruled this propensity in the case of the Thessalonians, and drawn from the apostle this second epistle, in which their error is corrected, and a salutary warning against precipitate judgments furnished to all future ages of the church. C.

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO TIMOTHY.

Descended from a Jewish mother and grandmother, Timothy had been very early instructed by them in the knowledge of the Old Testament. By the ministration of Paul at Lystra he was converted to the Christian faith, and remarkably enriched with the gifts and graces of the Holy Ghost, Ac. xvi. Having circumcised him, that the Jews might take no offence at him on account of his father being a Greek, Paul took him to be his companion, under the character of an evangelist. And having left him at Ephesus to rectify and establish the complete order of the church there, he sent him this and the subsequent epistle, to fix upon his mind the instructions which he had formerly given him, and enable him to communicate the same to others. In them the apostle testifies his affection, warns him of danger, and directs him in his personal and ministerial conduct.—The second was written from Rome, perhaps several years after the first.

[The date of this epistle is supposed to be about A.D. 64, soon after the apostle's imprisonment at Rome. It contains references to the following passages in the Old Testament:—Ge. 45. 10, 11; De. 19. 15; 32. 39; Ezr. 6. 10; Is. 1. 15; 14. 12; Je. 29. 7; Eze. 33. 9; Mal. 1. 11. C.]

CHAPTER I.

1 Timothy is put in mind of the charge which was given unto him by Paul at his going to Macedonia. 5 Of the right use and end of the law. 11 Of Saint Paul's calling to be an apostle, 20 and of Hymeneus and Alexander.

PAUL,<sup>a</sup> an apostle of Jesus Christ, by the commandment<sup>1</sup> of God <sup>b</sup>our Saviour, and Lord Jesus Christ, <sup>c</sup>which is our hope;

A.M. cir. 4060.
A.D. cir. 65.

CHAP. I.

<sup>a</sup> Ac. 9. 15; 13. 2; 22. 21; 26. 16-18. See Ro. 1. 1, 5. Ga. 1. 1. Ep. 4. 11.
1 Commandment. Rather, 'appointment.'—C.
<sup>b</sup> ch. 2. 3; 4. 10. Lu. 1. 47. Tit. 1. 3. 2. 10. 13; 3. 4. Jude 25. De. 32. 15. 15. 12. 21. 15. 17. 22.
<sup>c</sup> Ps. 71. 5. Col. 1. 27. 1 Th. 1. 3. 2 Th. 2. 16. He. 6. 18, 19.

A.M. cir. 4060.
A.D. cir. 65.

<sup>d</sup> Ac. 16. 1. 1 Co. 4. 17. 1 Th. 3. 2. ver. 18. Tit. 1. 4. 2 Ti. 1. 2; 2. 1. Phile. 10. Phil. 2. 19, 22.
2 Own son. Rather, 'true, genuine son,' as of like zeal and energy with his spiritual father.—C.
<sup>e</sup> See Ro. 1. 7. 2 Co. 1. 1. Ga. 1. 3. 1 Pe. 1. 2.
<sup>f</sup> Ac. 20. 1. 3. Ga. 1. 6. 7. ch. 6. 3. 17. Col. 2. 4. 16. 2 Ti. 2. 14; 4. 2. Tit. 1. 13.

2 Unto <sup>a</sup>Timothy, my own son<sup>2</sup> in the faith: <sup>b</sup>Grace, mercy, and peace, from God our Father and Jesus Christ our Lord.

3 As I besought thee to abide still at Ephesus, <sup>c</sup>when I went into Macedonia, that thou mightest charge some that they teach no other doctrine, 4 Neither<sup>h</sup> give heed to fables and endless genealogies, which minister questions, rather than godly edifying which is in faith; so do.

5 Now<sup>i</sup> the end of the commandment is charity out of a pure heart, and of a good conscience, and of faith unfeigned:

6 From <sup>j</sup>which some having swerved, have turned aside unto vain jangling;

7 Desiring<sup>k</sup> to be teachers of the law; understanding neither what they say, nor whereof they affirm.

8 But we know that <sup>l</sup>the law is good, if a man use it lawfully;

9 Knowing this, that <sup>m</sup>the law is not made for a righteous man, but for the <sup>n</sup>lawless and disobedient, for the ungodly and for sinners, for unholy and profane, for murderers of fa-

A. M. cir. 4069.
A. D. cir. 65.

<sup>h</sup> ch. 4.7; 6. 3, 4, 20. 2
Ti. 2. 16, 23. Tit. 1. 14; 3.
9. 2. Pe. 1. 16.
<sup>i</sup> Mat. 22. 37-40. Ro.
13. 8-14. Ga. 5. 14. 2 Ti.
1. 3. 2. 22. He. 9. 14; 10.
22. Ga. 5. 6. Ac. 24. 16. 1
Pe. 1. 22. 1 Jn. 3. 18, 23; 4.
20.
<sup>j</sup> ch. 4. 2, 5, 15; 6. 4, 10.
20. 2 Ti. 2. 18; 4. 10. Tit.
1. 10, 14.
<sup>k</sup> Ga. 4. 21. ch. 6. 4. Ro.
2. 19, 20; 11. 22.
<sup>l</sup> Ro. 7. 12. Ps. 119. 128;
19. 7-10. Ga. 4. 24.
<sup>m</sup> Ga. 3. 19; 5. 23. Ro.
13. 3.
<sup>n</sup> 1 Co. 6. 9, 10. Ga. 5.
19-21. Ho. 4. 1, 2. Re. 21.
8; 22. 15.

* Paul in his former state was not only a sinner, but he was helpless and reckless. While in that state God's divine grace was bestowed upon him; it first led to faith, and next to love. These two while in one sense wrought by grace, in another sense were its immediate concomitants. Divine grace is always, and necessarily, manifest-

A. M. cir. 4069.
A. D. cir. 65.

ed by them; and where they are not found there can be no grace.—P.
<sup>o</sup> He. 13. 4. Ro. 1. 26, 27. Le. 18. 22. Ex. 21. 16.
De. 24. 7. Re. 21. 8, 27;
22. 15. Zec. 5. 4. Ho. 4. 1, 2; 10. 4.
<sup>p</sup> ch. 6. 3, 2 Ti. 1. 13; 4.
3. Tit. 1. 9, 11.
<sup>q</sup> 2 Co. 3. 7-11. Ps. 138.
2. 2 Co. 4. 6, 15. Ep. 1. 6,
12, 14. Phil. 1. 11.
<sup>r</sup> ch. 6. 15. 2 Co. 11. 31.
Ro. 1. 25; 9. 5. Ne. 9. 5.
<sup>s</sup> 1 Co. 9. 17. 1 Th. 2. 2,
4. Ga. 2. 7. ch. 2. 7. Tit. 1.
3. Ro. 1. 5. 2 Co. 5. 18-20.
Ep. 3. 8.
<sup>t</sup> See note on 1 Th.
3. 11.—C.
<sup>u</sup> Ac. 9. 15. 1 Co. 7. 25;
15. 10. 2 Co. 3. 5; 4. 1. 1
Th. 2. 4. ch. 2. 7. 2 Ti. 4.
7, 17. Col. 1. 25.
<sup>v</sup> Ac. 8. 39. 1. 5, 13; 22.
4; 26. 9, 10. 1 Co. 15. 9. Ga.
1. 13. Phil. 3. 6.
<sup>w</sup> ver. 14. 16. 1 Co. 15.
8, 10. Ro. 5. 20, 21.
<sup>x</sup> Lu. 23. 34. Jn. 9. 39.
41. Ac. 3. 17. 1 Co. 2. 8.
Mat. 12. 31.
<sup>y</sup> Ro. 5. 20. 1 Co. 15. 10.
2 Ti. 1. 13. Ga. 5. 6. 1
Jn. 4. 19. Lu. 7. 47.
<sup>z</sup> See note * in first column.

thers and murderers of mothers, for man-slayers,

10 For<sup>p</sup> whoremongers, for them that defile themselves with mankind, for men-stealers, for liars, for perjured persons, and if there be any other thing that is <sup>q</sup>contrary to sound doctrine;

11 According to the <sup>r</sup>glorious gospel of the <sup>s</sup>blessed God, <sup>t</sup>which was committed to my trust.

12 And I thank<sup>3</sup> Christ Jesus our Lord, <sup>u</sup>who hath enabled me, for that he counted me faith-ful, putting me into the ministry;

13 Who <sup>v</sup>was before a blasphemer, and a persecutor, and injurious: but <sup>w</sup>I obtained mercy, because <sup>x</sup>I did <sup>y</sup>it ignorantly in unbelief.

14 And the grace of our Lord was <sup>z</sup>exceeding abundant with <sup>a</sup>faith and love which is in Christ Jesus.<sup>4</sup>

CHAPTER I. Ver. 1. Paul, an inspired and immediately commissioned messenger of Jesus Christ, who is the great Lord and Redeemer, the author, object, ground, and bestower of all our solid hopes of grace here, or eternal glory hereafter—and of God our Father in him; 2. To his dearly beloved Timothy, of whose conversion, and establishment in the grace and doctrines of faith, God has made him the honoured instrument—earnestly wishes the most abundant manifestations and effects of God's infinite love and tender compassion, to support, relieve, and comfort you under all the temptations, labours, difficulties, and dangers of your station, together with all manner of peace with God, your conscience, and the saints, and all manner of prosperity, temporal or spiritual, from God the fountain of blessings, and from Jesus Christ who gives them to all believers. 3, 4. I earnestly desired you to tarry some time at Ephesus after I departed thence into Macedonia, that you might, in the most solemn and authoritative manner, charge the judaizing Christians there to beware of corrupting the gospel of Christ, which I preach, with anything different or contrary; and that they never regard or propagate any foolish and ill-grounded traditions, or any frivolous genealogies of descent from Abraham or any other patriarch, which leads to useless, intricate, and endless controversies, and have no tendency to promote the conversion of sinners to God, their establishment in the doctrines of faith, or their diligent perseverance in walking with God.—5. Now the end of that charge, which I ordered you to enforce, as well as of the whole law of God, in opposition to fabulous, fruitless, and perplexing disputes, is, to promote a spirit of love to God, to Christ, and to one another, as springing from a sanctified heart, and a faithful, pure, and quiet conscience, purged from dead works by the blood of Christ, and from an inward principle of sincere faith, without the least hypocrisy; 6. From which grand scope and important ingredients of practical religion some having wandered, have turned aside into a course of vain talking of things altogether unprofitable, and serving only to stir up animosities, strifes, and doubtful disputations; 7. Affecting to set up for doctors and interpreters of the law, and to impose it upon the Gentiles, while in reality they neither understand the true scope and design of it, nor what they say in their confident pretensions to explain it. 8. But we who, through the knowledge of the gospel, are enlightened in the principal design and tendency of the whole Jewish dispensation, are fully convinced that the law is a good appointment of God for answering good purposes, if it be properly used as a mean of bringing us to Christ; and that even the ceremonial law is of great use, if we consider it as a typical representation of Christ and the gospel church, and now fulfilled and abolished; and that the law in its own nature is holy, just, and good, and is of admirable use to convince us of our sin and misery, and to make us flee to Jesus Christ; and, as a rule of obedience, to direct us how to depend on him, and gratefully improve the benefits which we receive from him! 9-11. Fully satisfied that the moral law, though still continuing in force as the law of Christ's kingdom, is not designed to condemn a true believer, who is made the righteousness of God in him, and who, from a principle of faith, has an impartial respect to all his commandments, but stands in force for the condemnation of all impenitent, unbelieving, and obstinate transgressors, particularly those who have no fear of God in their hearts, no desire after him, and no care to be subject to his authority; and for those who wilfully rebel against his laws, and worship false gods; those who, being destitute of true holiness, condemn God and religion; those who murder their near relations or others, or who indulge themselves in fornication, adultery, sodomy, or other unnatural lusts; those who steal men or women, that they may either use or sell them as slaves; those who addict themselves to lying in jest, excuse, malice, or to procure gain; those who violate their promises, vows, or oaths, or swear falsely in courts of judicature; and, in fine, those who indulge themselves in any form of wickedness, contrary to the pure doctrines of revelation, and to the holy nature, design, and obligation of the gospel of our salvation through Christ, which so illustriously displays the glorious perfections, counsels, and operations of the infinitely happy, ever-blessed, and self-sufficient God, who communicates to creatures whatever happiness they enjoy—the preaching of which gospel was committed to me as a precious trust, to be faithfully preserved and dispensed wherever I come. 12. And while I think of the high honour of this important trust, I cannot but, from the very bottom of my soul, bless and praise our infinitely gracious Saviour and Lord Jesus Christ, who has qualified, authorized, and strengthened me as an apostle faithfully to minister the gospel of his grace; 13. Even me, who, before my heart was graciously and powerfully reached and converted, had been a furious blasphemer of his divine Person and doctrine, an outrageous persecutor of his members, a most injurious reviler of his name, people, and interests. But my transcendent wickedness, proceeding from ignorant and blind zeal, not from any desperate and malicious opposition to the Holy Ghost's clear convictions of his Messiahship, to the everlasting astonishment of angels and men, and especially my own, I, after all, freely received forgiving and converting mercy, and was graciously put into the apostleship. 14. Yea, the free favour of the infinitely compassionate Lord Jesus to me-ward superabounded all expectation, estimation, or conception, in awakening and convicting my unbelieving heart, and developing deep and strong love to him, his people, and cause, to which I had formerly been so inveterate an enemy; and in the conversion of multitudes to himself by my ministrations. 15. Thus my own experience, as well as the whole tenor of the gospel revelation, bears witness, for the encouragement of sinful men, that its grand or summary article may be depended on as infallibly true and faithful, and every way worthy to be universally believed and affectionately embraced by all men, viz. That the great end of Christ's assuming human nature, and coming into the world under the character of a Saviour, to fulfil the law, and suffer and die for them, and of his being offered to them in the gospel, was and is that he might deliver them, Gentiles as well as Jews, from sin and wrath, and bring them to that eternal salvation which is in him—a transcendent and amazing instance of which has appeared in me, who exceeded all other sinners, however notorious, in my malignant blasphemy of Christ and persecution of his members. 16. And for encouraging the most enormous transgressors to believe in him, it must be remarked, that this astonishing instance of free, loving, and abounding grace towards me, was designed, by the infinite wisdom and goodness of God, not merely for the salvation of my soul, but that in me first of all, and as the very chief of sinners, Jesus Christ might set forth a distinguished example to what amazing length his patience and mercy can extend—as an encouragement to every sinner who shall ever, by his grace, be led to trust in him alone for pardon and eternal life. 17. Let therefore that infinitely gracious Lord Jesus, who is the Sovereign of all things, and head over all things to his church—everlasting, incorruptible, and purely spiritual; and who, together with his Father and blessed Spirit, is the infinitely and only wise God, and Giver of all wisdom to creatures—be henceforth and for ever magnified and adored in the loftiest strains.—18. The above charge I have committed to your special care, that, according to some prophetic intimations concerning you before you entered on the ministry, you may be more excited to improve your superior gifts and miraculous powers in acting the part of a diligent, courageous, and faithful soldier of Jesus Christ, in fighting under him against sin, Satan, and the world, and valiantly standing up for the truth against all opposition; 19. Holding fast the doctrines of the gospel in a firm faith and constant profession thereof, and holding it forth to others in your ministry, and studying to be conscientiously upright in preaching it, and living answerably to it; which some neglecting and rejecting, have, to their inexpressible danger, loss, and damage, entirely renounced its doctrines and their profession of it, and abandoned themselves to error and immorality; 20. Of which apostates I mention two infamous ringleaders, that you, and all other Christians, may beware of them, and bear testimony against them; namely, Hymeneus and Alexander, whose notorious subversion of the faith and holiness of the gospel, and dangerous errors and immoralities, laid me under the disagreeable necessity of apostolically casting them out of the visible church, and delivering them up to Satan, as his subjects—that by means of such awful discipline, they might be brought to a conviction and repentance of their wickedness, at least deterred from persisting in their blasphemous defamations of the name, doctrines, and ways of the Lord.

Ver. 3. When I went into Macedonia. This journey was made after Paul's release from his first imprisonment in Rome, which took place about A.D. 63. Immediately after his release, he probably carried out his intention of visiting Spain; then he turned again eastward, and after a missionary tour through Asia Minor, settled down for a time at Ephesus. He left Ephesus perhaps about A.D. 66, and wrote this epistle from some place in Greece, after passing through Macedonia. I think its date can scarcely be earlier than the close of the year 66. P.

Ver. 4. The 'genealogies' of the Jews were intricate and traditional pedigrees, whereby they sought either to establish their offices as priests or Levites, their rank as descendants of David or the princes of tribes, their titles to properties, as descendants of the original owners; and, in other cases, the origin and preservation of their vain traditions, which they asserted they had received, and affected to trace, from Joshua and the elders. —Note. Even so, till this hour, does the popedom assert a 'genealogy' ascending to Peter, vainly denominated 'prince of the apostles.' And, though even tradition fails to establish any uniform consent as to the imaginary line of 'apostolic succession,' yet upon that unsettled, and therefore endless 'genealogy,' does Rome found her claim to supremacy over all churches, and infallibility in all doctrines. C.

CHAPTER II.

1 That it is meet to pray and give thanks for all men, and the reason why. 9 How women should be attired. 12 They are not permitted to teach. 15 They shall be saved, notwithstanding the testimonies of God's wrath, in child-birth, if they continue in faith.

EXHORT<sup>1</sup> therefore, that, first of all, <sup>a</sup>supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men;

2 For kings, and for all that are in <sup>2</sup>authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life <sup>b</sup>in all godliness and honesty.

3 For <sup>c</sup>this is good and acceptable in the sight of <sup>d</sup>God our Saviour;

4 Who<sup>e</sup> will have all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of the truth.

5 For <sup>f</sup>there is <sup>g</sup>one God, and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus;

6 Who<sup>h</sup> gave himself a ransom for all, to be testified<sup>3</sup> in <sup>i</sup>due time.<sup>4</sup>

7 Whereunto<sup>j</sup> I am ordained a preacher, and an apostle, (<sup>k</sup>I speak the truth in Christ, and lie not;) a teacher of the Gentiles in faith and verity.

† Ro. 1.9; 9.1.2 Co. 1.18,23; 11.11,31. Ga. 1.20.2 Th. 2.5,10.

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

6 ch. 3.1; 4.9. 2 Ti. 2.11. Tit. 3.2,8.

c Mat. 9. 13; 18. 11. Lu. 19. 10. Ro. 3. 24-26; 5. 6-10. 1 Jn. 3. 5,8. Jn. 1. 29,36. Mat. 1. 21; 20. 28.

d 1 Co. 15. 9. Ep. 3. 8. e ver. 13. 1s. 1. 18; 43. 25; 44. 22. Je. 31. 20.

f Ro. 15. 4. Ac. 13. 39. He. 7. 25. Jn. 6. 37. 1s. 1. 18; 55. 1,7.

g 1 Ch. 29. 11. Ps. 10. 16; 145. 3. Da. 7. 9,14. 1 Jn. 4. 12. Jn. 1. 18. He. 11. 27. Ro. 1. 23; 16. 27. ch. 6. 15,16. Jude 25.

i ver. 3,19; ch. 4. 14,16. 12. 13. 2 Ti. 2. 3; 4. 1,7. Phil. 10. Phil. 2. 25. Ep. 6. 12.2 Co. 10. 3-5.

j ch. 3. 9. Phil. 1. 27; 3. 16; 4. 1. Jude 1. Pr. 23. 23. Re. 2. 13; 3. 3,8,10,11. Tit. 1. 9.

k Phil. 3. 18, 19. see ver. 4,6; ch. 6. 3-6. 2 Ti. 4. 3,4. Ac. 20. 29. 1 Jn. 2. 19.

5 'Which some having put from them'—this refers only to the 'good conscience'; having set its warnings and dictates aside, they had no longer any guide, and consequently made shipwreck of their Christian profession.—P.

6 Put away. Rather, 'rejected or repelled.'—C.

7 2 Ti. 2. 17; 4. 14, 15. Ac. 19. 33. n 1 Co. 5. 4,5; 4. 21; 11. 32. 2 Co. 10. 6; 13. 7, 10. Mat. 18. 17.

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

CHAP. II.

1 Or, desire.

a Ja. 5. 16. Ps. 122. 6-9. Je. 29. 7. Eze. 6. 10.

2 Or, eminent place.

b Ac. 24. 16. 2 Co. 1. 12. Lu. 1. 6. 1 Th. 2. 10. Tit. 2. 10-14; 3. 8, 14. Ro. 12. 10-21; 13. 1-14. Ep. iv.-vi. Col. iii. iv. 1 Th. v. 1 Pe. iii. iii.

c Ep. 4. 1; 5. 9,10. Col. 1. 10, 22. Phil. 1. 11; 4. 8, 18. He. 13. 16. 1 Pe. 2. 5, 20. ch. 5. 4. 1 Th. 4. 1, 3, 7.

d ch. 1. 1; 4. 10. Lu. 1. 47. Tit. 1. 3; 2. 10, 13; 3. 4. Jude 25. De. 32. 15. 1 Sa. 2. 1. 1s. 12. 2; 45. 17, 22.

e 1s. 55. 1, 7. Eze. 18. 23. Jn. 3. 15, 16. Tit. 2. 11. 2 Pe. 3. 9. Ro. 3. 20, 30. Ga. 3. 28. Col. 3. 11. Mal. 1. 11.

f De. 6. 4. 1s. 44. 6. Jn. 17. 3. Ro. 3. 29, 30; 10. 12. 1 Co. 8. 6. Ga. 3. 20. He. 9. 13, 8, 6, with Job 9. 33.

g Mat. 20. 28. Jn. 10. 15. Mar. 14. 24. 1s. 53. 6. 2 Co. 5. 14, 15, 21. Ep. 5. 21. 7. 1 Pe. 1. 18. Re. 5. 9. He. 9. 12. Tit. 2. 14. He. 2. 9. 1 Pe. 2. 24; 3. 18. 1 Jn. 2. 1, 2, 10, 14.

h Or, a testimony, 1 Co. 1. 6.

i Ga. 4. 4. Ep. 1. 10; 3. 5. Ro. 16. 26. Col. 1. 26.

j Literally, 'the testimony, or thing to be testified, in its own times'—'the fullness of the times.'—C.

k See Ro. 1. 1, 5; 11. 13; 15. 16, 19. Ac. 9. 15; 13. 23; 22. 21; 26. 16-18. Ga. 1. 16. 2 Ti. 1. 11. Ep. 3. 8.

respect to all sorts or ranks of men—Jews or Gentiles, high or low; 2. Particularly for emperors, kings, or other magistrates, though heathens,—that their persons and ministrations may be blessed, that they may be enabled to rule in the fear of God; that, under their protection, and encouraged by their example and influence, we may safely and peaceably exercise ourselves in public, private, and secret acts of piety towards God, and of honourable honesty and virtue towards every man. 3. For thus to pray, and live in a manner becoming Christians, is agreeable to the good and holy nature and will of God, and through Christ well pleasing in his sight, who has manifested himself to us sinful men under the endearing character of a Saviour; 4. Who, for the more illustrious display of the goodness, blessedness, variety, and abundant riches of his grace under the gospel dispensation, seeks effectually to save men, of all sorts and ranks, greater or lesser sinners; and has for this purpose appointed that the gospel of salvation be preached to every creature under heaven. 5. And it is the more proper that prayers and thanksgivings be made for all sorts of men through Christ, in whom all nations shall be blessed, since God now manifests himself equally the one only God of both Jews and Gentiles, and Jesus Christ, God-man, is set forth as the only Mediator, able, willing, and appointed to make up the breach between God and sinful men; 6. Who having an infinite dignity in his person, and being lord of his own life, offered up himself, soul and body, an atoning sacrifice and to keep for men the broken law of God, in the room of men of all sorts and ranks, to deliver them from the bondage of sin, Satan, the law, and death, that their salvation might be published to them, especially under the gospel; 7. For the publishing of which, I solemnly avow myself a faithful and sincere teacher, chiefly of the Gentiles, manifesting to them the infallible truths and faithful promises of God for their salvation. 8. And therefore, in the name of my glorious Master, the Saviour of mankind, I insist that ministers and Christians, without regard to any ceremonial sanctity of places, pray for all sorts of persons, as above directed, with fervour, purity, and elevation of heart to God, without any wrathfulness of temper against either Jews or Gentiles, and without doubting of or disputing against his fulfilment of his promises to all them that believe.—9. I moreover insist upon it, that women at all times, and especially in your religious assemblies, appear in a garb suitable to the modesty of their sex, and with an air of reverence to God and sacred things; and not after the manner of lewd women, with curiously plaited hair, or in showy deckings of embroidered, rich, or gaudy apparel, which mark the vanity and pride of their own heart, and tempt the beholders to frothiness or unchastity. 10. But let them, as women who profess godliness, and a superlative regard to the things of another world, labour to adorn themselves with such graces, tempers, and practices as fulfil God's law, honour his name, and prove useful to others.

11, 12. And let no woman dare to preach in public assemblies, or in any case usurp authority over her husband or his sex, but learn, according to the dictates of nature and the law of God, to be duly submissive and obedient: 13. For the woman being at first formed after and out of the man, plainly intimated that she was made for him, not he for her; and that she ought to depend on and be subject to him, not he to her. 14. And being first seduced by the devil, that old serpent, in paradise, and made the primary instrument in the ruin of mankind, is a further reason for her humility and subjection. 15. Nevertheless, notwithstanding the particular threatenings issued forth against them immediately after the fall, women are generally preserved in the agonies of childbirth, and shall be saved as well as the man, yet generally in the endurance of this superior effect of the curse; yea, through the incarnation of Jesus Christ, the promised one, all of them shall be saved, with an everlasting salvation, who exercise themselves in true faith in God through Christ, and in love to him, his people, and cause, and in a holy, chaste, sober, meek, and temperate behaviour.

Ver. 1. Supplications for the averting of evil.—Prayers for obtaining blessings.—Intercessions on behalf of others.—All men, both believers and unbelievers—in opposition to the narrow bigotry of the Jews. C.

Ver. 4. All men. Men of all nations and of all ranks—Jews and Gentiles, rich and poor, without 'respect of persons.' C.

Ver. 5. One God. In opposition to the many idols and false gods of the heathen.—One Mediator. In opposition to angel and saint mediation. C.

Ver. 8. That men. Rather, 'the men,' as distinguished from 'the women,' ver. 9.—Everywhere. In opposition to the Jewish doctrine that confined acceptable prayer to the temple, synagogue, or oratory. C.—The leading idea in this passage is, that wherever and whenever public prayer is offered up, it is the province and duty of the men (not the women) to offer it. I do not think there is any reference to Jewish ideas or prejudices regarding special places for prayer. That point does not seem to have been before the apostle's mind here at all. P.

Ver. 9. Broidered hair, or gold. The Greek has 'plaits and gold,' doubtless in allusion to a mode of adorning the hair still common in Syria. It is trained down the back in numerous long, thin plaits, each plait having fastened upon it a row of small gold coins. P.

Ver. 15. Notwithstanding she shall be saved in child-bearing. The Greek of this difficult passage seems to me to convey the idea that her salvation, whatever may be implied in it, was to be by the agency of (not through or during) child-bearing. The noun has also the article, so that the proper rendering is, 'Yet she shall be saved by means of the child-bearing.' I agree with Ellicott that this has reference to the birth of the Messiah. The first Messianic prophecy was—'It (the seed of the woman) shall bruise thy head.' By the relation in which the woman stood to the Messiah, therefore, in giving birth to him, and thus being more closely related to him than man, she should be saved. P.

REFLECTIONS.—Nothing can more testify our love to men than much fervent prayer for them. And none ought to have a more certain share in our prayers than the rulers in church and state. It is greatly advantageous for the success and honour of the gospel when magistrates rule well, and are a terror to evil-doers, 15 This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief.

16 Howbeit for this cause I obtained mercy, that in me first Jesus Christ might show forth all long-suffering, for a pattern to them which should hereafter believe on him to life everlasting.

17 Now<sup>h</sup> unto the King eternal, immortal, invisible, the only wise God, be honour and glory for ever and ever. Amen.

18 This<sup>i</sup> charge I commit unto thee, son Timothy, according to the prophecies which went before on thee, that thou by them mightest war a good warfare;

19 Holding<sup>j</sup> faith, and a good conscience; which<sup>k</sup> some<sup>5</sup> having put away,<sup>6</sup> concerning faith have made shipwreck:

20 Of<sup>i</sup> whom is Hymeneus and Alexander; whom I have delivered unto Satan, that they may learn not to blaspheme.

Ver. 9. The law is not made for a righteous man. Rather, 'the law does not lie against a righteous man,' either in its precepts, which he loves, Ps. 119. 97; He. 8. 10, or in its curse, from which Christ has set him free, Ga. 3. 13. C.

Ver. 13. These words, if interpreted by themselves, might lead to the conclusion that the apostle's ignorance and unbelief contributed in some way to his salvation; and so they have been interpreted: but taken in comparison with other Scriptures, the grace and good pleasure of God, and not any peculiarity in the state of the sinner, will be found the moving cause of salvation. The verse will be more easily understood, in accordance with the analogy of other scriptures, if arranged thus: 'Who was before a blasphemer, and a persecutor, and injurious (but I obtained mercy), because I did it ignorantly in unbelief.' See, accordingly, ver. 16, which ascribes the divine mercy entirely to the divine wisdom and purpose. C.

Ver. 18. Prophecies. Some 'prophecies,' not elsewhere recorded, that prognosticated the future zeal and faithfulness of Timothy.—That thou (encouraged) by them, &c. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Solemn and important, honourable and delightful, is that trust which God has committed to gospel ministers. But they have need of abundant grace and mercy from Christ and his Father, to fit them for and assist them in their work, and support them under the trials they must undergo on account of it. For in manifold shapes of vain jangling, legal prattling, horrid blasphemy, and cruel persecution, Satan always labours to oppose the gospel, and them who faithfully preach it. And careless and erroneous teachers are great plagues to churches, and murderers of souls. It is absurd to inculcate or expect obedience to God's law without repentance and reliance on the Spirit of God, our consciences sprinkled with Jesus' blood, and an abiding principle of true faith be exerted within us. And it is the highest folly for unbelievers to seek happiness by that law which cannot but condemn them for their wickedness. Thrice happy are they who are delivered from it as a broken covenant, and are only under it in Christ as a binding rule of duty. Infinite is the excellency, and powerful the virtue of the glorious gospel. From an infinitely gracious God it springs, and to his high honour and praise it tends. Its matter is Christ, and all that is in or done by him. It suits, it extends to, and ought to be earnestly received by every hearer. The most guilty and obstinate ought to yield to its almighty force. And happy is it when ministers can recommend it from their own remarkable experience of its pardoning, regenerating, sanctifying, comforting, and self-abasing influence! But, alas! infinite is their danger who persevere in opposing it, or apostatize from their wonted profession of it.

CHAPTER II. Ver. 1. As some judaizing Christians, through prejudice against the Gentiles, reject the authority of heathen magistrates, I therefore, as the apostle of the Gentiles, insist on it, as a matter of high importance, that Christians, in all their prayers, public, private, or secret, deprecate evils inflicted or feared; plead for every necessary mercy; and give thanks for favours received or promised—through Christ; with 8 I will therefore that men pray every where, lifting<sup>n</sup> up holy hands, without wrath and doubting.

9 In like manner also, that women adorn themselves in modest apparel, with shamefacedness and sobriety; not with broidered<sup>5</sup> hair, or gold, or pearls, or costly array;

10 But (which becometh women professing godliness) with good works.

11 Let<sup>a</sup> the woman learn in silence with all subjection.

12 But I suffer not a woman to teach,<sup>6</sup> nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence.

13 For<sup>r</sup> Adam was first formed, then Eve.

14 And<sup>s</sup> Adam was not deceived,<sup>7</sup> but the woman being deceived, was in the transgression.

15 Notwithstanding<sup>t</sup> she shall be saved in child-bearing,<sup>8</sup> if they continue in faith and charity and holiness with sobriety.

CHAPTER III.

2 How bishops, and deacons, and their wives, should be qualified, 14 and to what end Saint Paul wrote to Timothy of these things. 15 Of the church, and the blessed truth therein taught and professed.

THIS is<sup>a</sup> a true saying, If a man desire<sup>b</sup> the office of a bishop,<sup>1</sup> he desireth a good work.

2 A<sup>c</sup> bishop then must be blameless, the husband of one wife, vigilant, sober, of good behaviour,<sup>2</sup> given to hospitality, apt to teach;

3 Not<sup>d</sup> given to wine,<sup>3</sup> no striker, not greedy of filthy lucre; but patient, not a brawler, not covetous;

4 One<sup>e</sup> that ruleth well his own house, having his children in subjection with all gravity;

5 (For if a man know not how to rule his

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

1 Ps. 65. 2. Mal. i. 11. Jn. 4. 21-24.
n Ps. 134. 1. Is. i. 15. Mat. 5. 24; 16. 12, 14, 15. Phi. 2. 14. Ja. i. 6. He. 10. 22; 11. 15.
o Tit. 2. 3, 5. 1 Pe. 3. 3-5. Is. 3. 16-26. Zep. i. 8.
p Or, plotted.
q Pr. 31. 31. Lu. i. 6. Ac. 9. 36. ch. 5. 10.
r 1 Co. 14. 34. Ge. 3. 16. Ep. 5. 22, 24, 33. Col. 3. 18. 1 Pe. 3. 1, 4.
s That is, in the church, as bearing ministerial rule in it.
t Or, plotted.
u Ge. i. 27; 2. 7, 18, 22. 1 Co. 11. 8, 9.
v Ge. 3. 6, 13. 2 Co. 11. 3.

3 Eve was 'deceived.' Adam was not 'deceived' either by his wife or by the serpent—he knew what he did when he took the forbidden fruit.—C.

7 In child-bearing. Rather, 'through, or during the time of, child-bearing'—the sorrows of which were the immediate penalty of the woman's transgression, Ge. 3. 16.—C.

CHAP. III.

a ch. i. 15; 4. 9. 2 Ti. 1. 1. Tit. 3. 8.
b Ac. 1. 20, 28. Phi. 1. 1. ch. i. 11, 12. 2 Ti. 1. 11. ch. 2. 7; 5. 17. 1 Pe. 2. 2. Ep. 4. 11. 1 Co. 12. 28.
c 1. Bishop. Literally, 'an overseer.' See Ac. 20. 17, comp. with ver. 38.—C.

d Tit. 1. 6-9. 2 Ti. 2. 24. Ro. 12. 13. ch. 4. 12. e Or, modest.
f Tit. 1. 7. 2 Ti. 2. 24. 1 Pe. 5. 2. Is. 56. 10-12. Mi. 3. 5. Le. 10. 9. Je. 6. 13. Tit. 3. 2. Eze. 44. 21.

3 Or, Not ready to quarrel and offer wrong, as one in wine.
g Ge. 18. 19. Jos. 24. 15. Ps. 101. 2-8. Tit. 1. 6.

* The oldest and best MSS. are against the reading Of, which is consequently given up by all critics of eminence. Of is the true reading, and the clause ought to be translated, 'Who was manifest in the flesh;—i.e. Christ, the sublime mystery (see Col. 1. 27), the God-man, the Omnipotent Redeemer. The giving up of the reading 'God' does not in the very slightest degree weaken the evidence of the fundamental doctrine of our Lord's divinity.—P.

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

4 Or, one newly come to the faith, Nu. 4. 3. 1 Sa. 1. 24. 1 Pe. 2. 2.
5 Job 40. 11, 12. Pr. 18. 18; 18. 12; 29. 23. Ps. 138. 6, with Jude 6. 2 Pe. 2. 4. Mat. 25. 41. Is. 14. 13.
6 Ac. 22. 12; 6. 3. 1 Sa. 2. 24. 1 Co. 5. 12. 1 Th. 4. 12.
7 ch. 6. 9. 2 Ti. 2. 26.

8 Phi. 1. 1. Ac. 6. 3, 5, 6, see ver. 2, 3. Le. 10. 9. Eze. 44. 21.

9 ver. 16; ch. 1. 19. Ep. 1. 9. Tit. 1. 9. Re. 3. 10, 11. Pr. 23. 23. Jude 1, 3. Phi. 1. 27. He. 4. 14; 10. 22; 23. 2 Jn. 9. 10. 3 Jn. 4.

1 ch. 5. 22. 1 Jn. 4. 1. 2 Ti. 2. 2. Ac. 6. 3.
m ch. 5. 9. Ro. 16. 1. Tit. 2. 3, 4. ch. 2. 10.

n ver. 2, 4. Tit. 2. 6. Pr. 22. 6. Ge. 18. 19. Jos. 24. 15. Ps. ci.

o Ro. 12. 8. Mat. 25. 21. 2 Co. 1. 12. Ac. 23. 1; 24. 16.

p Or, ministered.
q 2 Ti. 2. 1.
r ch. 4. 13. 1 Co. 11. 34. 2 Jn. 12. 3 Jn. 14. Phil. 1. 24.

s Mat. 13. 52.
t 2 Ti. 2. 20. He. 3. 2, 3. 5, 6. Mat. 16. 18. u Je. 10. 10. 1 Th. 1. 9.
v Is. 55. 19; 2. 2, 3; 43. 10, 21. Jude 3.

6 Or, stay.
w ver. 16. Ga. 3. 1. ch. 4. 6. 2 Ti. 1. 13. Jn. 18. 37.
x 1 Co. 2. 7.
y Is. 7. 14; 9. 6. Jn. 1. 14. 1 Jn. 1. 2. Ga. 4. 4. Ro. 8. 3.

3 See note * in first column.
2 Mat. 3. 16. 2 Co. 13. 4. 1 Pe. 3. 18. Ro. 1. 4. Jn. 16. 8-10. 1 Jn. 5. 6.

a Mat. 4. 11; 28. 2. Lu. 2. 13. Jn. 20. 12. Ps. 68. 17; 47. 5. Ep. 3. 10. 1 Pe. 1. 12.

b Ac. 13. 46, 48. Ep. 5. 6, 8. Col. 1. 6, 23, 27. Ro. 10. 12, 18.

c Col. 1. 6, 23. Re. 7. 9. d Mar. 16. 10. Lu. 24. 51. Ac. 1. 9. Ps. 110. 1. He. 1. 3; 14. 8, 1.

8 Received up into glory in human nature. See Jn. 17. 5.—C.

own house, how shall he take care of the church of God?)

6 Not a novice,<sup>4</sup> lest being lifted up with pride, he fall into the condemnation of the devil.

7 Moreover<sup>h</sup> he must have a good report of them which are without; lest he fall into reproach and the snare of the devil.

8 Likewise must<sup>i</sup> the deacons be grave, not double-tongued, not given to much wine, not greedy of filthy lucre;

9 Holding<sup>k</sup> the mystery of the faith in a pure conscience.

10 And let these also first be proved; then let them use the office of a deacon, being found blameless.

11 Even<sup>m</sup> so must their wives be grave, not slanderers, sober, faithful in all things.

12 Let the deacons be the husbands of one wife, ruling their children and their own houses well.

13 For<sup>o</sup> they that have used<sup>5</sup> the office of a deacon well, purchase to themselves a good degree, and great boldness in the faith which is in Christ Jesus.

14 These things write I unto thee, hoping to come unto thee shortly:

15 But if I tarry long, that thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself in the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground<sup>6</sup> of the truth.

16 And, without controversy, great is the mystery of godliness: God was manifest in the flesh,<sup>7</sup> justified<sup>8</sup> in the Spirit, seen of angels, preached unto the Gentiles, believed on in the world, received up into glory.<sup>8</sup>

and a praise to them that do well. The extent of God's grace, and of Christ's mediation, to all sorts and ranks of men, should excite us cheerfully and powerfully to pray for them. And infinite is the mercy that in God's grace and Jesus' merit there is room for us all. The gospel and ordinances of God are now confined to no place in the world; but faithful ministers may preach it to every creature; and men may everywhere have full access to God in his worship. But let us always remember the holiness and reverence with which we ought to approach him.—Since sin entered by a woman, what reason have women to be remarkably holy and humble, and to avoid all ostentation of dress, which is but a badge and memorial of sin! And there is need of faith and love, and a holy conversation, in order to their safe and sanctified endurance in childbirth.

CHAPTER III. Ver. 1. And with respect to offices in the Christian church, it is certain that he who, having suitable qualifications, is inclined, from a regard to the glory of God and the edification of souls, to enter upon the office of a pastor or overseer in it, aims at a very honourable, important, and useful, though laborious office: 2. It is nevertheless necessary that you, and all others concerned in their admission, take care that their qualifications be truly proper and edifying. Every pastor or ruler in the Christian church ought to be of an unexceptionable moral character; must never be connected with more than one wife at once; must be very circumspect and diligent in his work; watchful against Satan and all his instruments, and over his own spirit, words, and actions, and for the souls of those committed to his charge. He ought to be very moderate in his appetites, passions, and pleasures; to be affable, courteous, prudent, and engaging in his behaviour; to be ready, according to his ability, to relieve the necessities of the poor, and entertain godly ministers, or others properly recommended; and should be furnished with a good stock of Christian knowledge and experience, that he may be capable of expressing his sentiments with freedom, clearness, and propriety, for the instruction of others, and for supporting and defending the truths of the gospel on all suitable occasions. 3. He must by no means be given to long or frequent drinking, nor be of a furious and quarrelsome temper; nor so fond of earthly riches as to be ready to procure them by unworthy means; but should be of a meek, calm, peaceable, and forbearing spirit: not abusive, noisy, and clamorous, in talking or disputing; nor covetous of what belongs to his neighbour; nor inordinately attached to the things of this world. 4. And if he have a family, he must be one who maintains a prudent authority over his children and servants, obliging them to submit to his lawful commands respecting either religion towards God or decent behaviour towards men. 5. For if a man do not govern his own family right, it cannot be expected that he has prudence or resolution enough to be a ruler in the more high and difficult affairs of the church of God, where everything must be conducted with decency and order. 6. Nor ought he to be a raw upstart; nor, in ordinary cases, one newly converted to the faith of Christ; lest, being lifted up with a high conceit of his own abilities, early honour, or popular applause, he should, through the instigation of Satan, fall by pride into eternal ruin, as the devil did. 7. Moreover, he ought to have a clear reputation among the unbelieving world around, whether Jews or Gentiles, who earnestly watch for the halting of church-officers, lest the stain of his character should bring a reproach upon the name, doctrine, and ways of the Lord, and so the devil seize an advantage against him, to the hurt of his own soul, the marring of his usefulness, the discredit of religion, the triumph of its adversaries, the grief of the godly, and the stumbling of young converts.—8. The deacons also, whose office it is to manage the public funds of the church, ought to be men of a grave, decent, and venerable behaviour, and of good report; not given to speak one thing while they mean another, nor to talk contrarily at different times to serve a turn; not indulgers of themselves in the too free use of intoxicating liquors, which would blemish their character, and render them unfit for their work; not of an avaricious temper, that might tempt them to withhold from the poor, or apply it to their own use. 9. And as to their religious character, they ought to be steadfast adherents to the pure, unmixed, but mysterious and incomprehensible truths of the gospel, with all the sincerity of a heart purified by faith, and purged from an evil conscience by the blood of Christ. 10. And it is proper that their qualifications, moral and religious, be well tried and manifested before they be admitted to their office. 11. And if they are in a married state, their wives, for the credit of religion and of their husbands, ought to be of a grave, chaste, and decent behaviour, free from all lightness of temper, words, dress, or deportment; not slanderers, nor injurious tale-bearers, but watchful over their tongues and tempers; moderate in eating and drinking, and frugal in their management; faithful to God, to their husbands, and every trust committed to them. 12. The deacons also, as well as the pastors, must have but one wife at a time, and should avoid all unlawful divorces; and, for an example to others, should rule their own children and servants in a truly Christian manner. 13. And to these things they ought carefully to attend, as their faithful and prudent execution of their office, for a considerable time, will render them highly respected in the church, and increase their gifts and graces answerably to their station, and will em-

CHAPTER IV.

1 He foretelleth that in the latter times there shall be a departure from the faith. 6 And to the end that Timothy might not fail in doing his duty, he furnisheth him with divers precepts belonging thereto.

NOW the Spirit <sup>a</sup>speaketh expressly, that in the latter times <sup>b</sup>some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils;<sup>1</sup>

2 Speaking<sup>c</sup> lies in hypocrisy; having their conscience <sup>d</sup>seared with a hot iron;

3 Forbidding<sup>e</sup> to marry, <sup>f</sup>and commanding to abstain from meats, which God hath created to be received with thanksgiving of them which believe and know the truth.

4 For<sup>h</sup> every creature of God is good, and nothing to be refused, if it be received with thanksgiving:

5 For<sup>i</sup> it is sanctified by the word of God and prayer.

6 If <sup>j</sup>thou put the brethren in remembrance of these things, <sup>k</sup>thou shalt be a good minister of Jesus Christ, nourished up in the words of faith and of good doctrine, whereunto thou hast attained.

A.M. cir. 4069. A.D. cir. 65.	A.M. cir. 4069. A.D. cir. 65.
CHAP. IV.	1 ch. 1.4; 6.20. 2 Ti. 2.16, 23; 4.4. Tit. 1.14; 3.9. 1 Co. 9.24. Ac. 24.16. Tit. 2.11-13; 3.8, 14.
a 2 Th. 2.3. 2 Ti. 3.1-5. 2 Pe. 2.1. 1 Jn. 2.18. Jude 18. Da. 7.8, 20, 24, 25; 11.35-39.	b Mat. 15.8. He. 13.9. Col. 2.23. Is. 1.11-15. Je. 6.20. Am. 5.21, 22. 1 Co. 8.8. Mat. 6.6, 7; 7.22, 23.
b Mat. 24.5-12. 2 Pe. 2.1. Re. 13.3, 8. 1 Jn. 2.18. Jude 3, 4, 18. 2 Th. 2.3, 4, 7, 9-11. Re. 9.2, 11; 13.5, 13, 14; 16.14; 17.5; 18.2.	c Or, for a little time.
c The Greek words signify 'teachings of devils,' and not 'doctrines about devils,' or 'demon-worship.' That many of those false doctrines which prevailed in the early church, and still prevail, had their origin in the teachings or suggestions of Satan and his angels, cannot be questioned. It is to this Paul here alludes.—P.	d De. 28.3-12; 30.9. Ps. 1.3; 37.4, 29; 84.11; 91.10; 97.11; 112.2, 3; 119.161; 118.145; 119.37, 163; 135.9. Ec. 8.12. Is. 3.10; 32.17. Mat. 6.16, 33; 19.29. Ro. 8.28; 14.17. 1 Co. 3.22. ch. 6.6. Re. 3.12, 21.
d Ep. 4.19. Ro. 1.28.	e ch. 1.15; 3.1. 2 Ti. 2.11. Pr. 22.20.
e He. 13.4. 1 Co. 7.39.	f 1 Co. 4.9-13; 9.26. 2 Co. 4.8-10; 6.1-10. 2 Ti. 3.10, 11.
f Ge. 1.29, 30; 9.3. 1 Co. 10.30. Mat. 14.19. Ro. 14.6. Ec. 5.18. ver. 4.	g Ga. 2.16. Ac. 15.11. Pr. 3.5, 6. Ps. 37.3-7.
h Ge. 1.31. Ro. 14.14, 20. 1 Co. 10.25. Tit. 1.15. Ac. 10.15.	s Ps. 36.6; 107.13-20. Ac. 14.17; 17.25, 28.
i ch. 6.17. 1 Co. 7.14. Ge. 1.29; 9.3. Ac. 10.15. Mat. 4.4.	t Is. 45.17, 22. 2 Co. 5.21.
j Ro. 15.15. 2 Ti. 1.6; 2.15. 2 Pe. 1.12, 13, 15; 3.1. Jude 5.	u ch. 6.14. 2 Ti. 4.2. Tit. 2.15; 3.8.
k 2 Ti. 2.15; 3.10, 14-17; 13. Col. 3.16. Je. 15.16. 1 Pe. 2.2. Ps. 119.11, 18, 97-100; 1.2, 1. Co. 1.5.	v 1 Co. 16.10, 11. Tit. 2.7, 15.

7 But<sup>l</sup> refuse profane and old wives' fables, and exercise thyself <sup>m</sup>rather unto godliness.

8 For bodily exercise profiteth <sup>n</sup>little:<sup>2</sup> but godliness is profitable unto all things, <sup>o</sup>having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come.

9 This<sup>p</sup> is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptance.

10 For<sup>q</sup> therefore we both labour and suffer reproach, because we <sup>r</sup>trust in the living God, who is the <sup>s</sup>Saviour of all men, <sup>t</sup>especially of those that believe.

11 These<sup>u</sup> things command and teach.

12 Let<sup>v</sup> no man despise thy youth;<sup>3</sup> but be thou an <sup>w</sup>example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity.

13 Till<sup>y</sup> I come, give attendance to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine.

14 Neglect<sup>z</sup> not the gift that is in thee, which was given thee by prophecy, with the laying on of the hands of the presbytery.

15 Meditate<sup>a</sup> upon these things; give thyself bolden them to an open, free, and courageous profession of the doctrines of Christ, and of their faith in him, by which they have derived grace from him, to render them faithful in fulfilling their trust for his glory.

—14. These things I write for the present direction of you or others, hoping, ere long, to see you at Ephesus, or somewhere else, and give you further instructions.

15. But if our interview should be deferred beyond my expectation, this letter will serve to direct your behaviour in that religious society which the only living and true God has formed and established, for his own spiritual residence and honour, of credible professors of his truths, animated by his Spirit; and which holds forth and maintains the doctrines of the glorious gospel upon which it is founded, and of which Jesus Christ is the sum and substance. 16. For, without all controversy, that doctrine which furnishes us for and animates us to the strictest piety towards God and love to our neighbour, is a great, glorious, and incomprehensible mystery, viz. that the eternal Son of God, one in nature and equal in glory to his Father and blessed Spirit, was manifested in his incarnation and debasement in this world; and having honoured God's law and justice by his obedience, sufferings, and death, was set apart and made of God as the Saviour and righteous Head of his church; and being by the Holy Ghost raised from the dead for our justification, was honourably attested in the miraculous confirmation and success of the gospel; and as angels had all along admired and ministered to him, they did, in his resurrection and ascension, and will at his great coming, attend him; and being raised from the dead, and ascended to heaven, he was, is, and will be, preached to both Jews and Gentiles, and by faith received by multitudes of them, particularly the latter, as their only and all-sufficient Saviour: yea, as he was gloriously received up to his Father's right hand to receive all glory and power, so he has been and shall be gloriously received, owned, and professed by multitudes under the glorious dispensation of his Spirit; and shall, after his judging the world, be solemnly introduced, with all his mystical body, into all the inexpressible glories and felicities of the eternal state.

Ver. 2. Blameless. Furnishing the enemies of the gospel no just cause of accusation.—The husband of one wife. Not conforming to the Jewish or heathen custom of having more at once than one wife, or having married another after an arbitrary repudiation of a former wife. Some have supposed the apostle to prohibit a bishop from marrying a second time, arguing chiefly from the parallel phrase ch. 5. 9. The authority of expositors, however, is in favour of the former view.—Sober. Rather, 'sober-minded,' prudent, able to govern his passions.—Of good behaviour. Grave and decorous in his speech and manners. C.

Ver. 3. Not given to wine. Not attached to wine as matter of habit. The word also signifies what is generally consequent upon inordinate drinking—'imperious, abusive, insolent.'—No striker. Not quarrelsome. C.

Ver. 15, 16. Were not translations in favour of the present punctuation, the meaning would seem more plain, and the structure of ver. 15 and 16 more natural, by adopting the following change, viz. 'But if I tarry long, (I write) that thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself in the house of God, which is the church of the living God. The pillar and the ground of truth, and great, without controversy, is the mystery of godliness: God was manifest in the flesh,' &c. C.

Ver. 16. God was manifest in the flesh. In favour of this reading it has been irrefragably proved by Matthæi and Burton (Testam. p. 141, &c.), that it is, upon the whole, supported by the testimony of the Greek fathers; and the false reasoning of Griesbach and Belsham has been fully exposed in the British Critic, v. ii. p. 297. See also Bengel, Renck, Bull, Magee, Nolan, and Henderson; the last of whom, in particular, appears to have settled the criticism of the question for ever. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Highly should we esteem the Christian church, which, animated by his Spirit, is the peculiar dwelling of the Most High. Yea, God, in infinite mercy, has provided for her officers to manage both her spiritual and temporal concerns. Earnestly then should such labour for the important qualifications of solid experience, knowledge, blameless character, faithfulness, gravity, generosity, and affability; and be the most exemplary in the regular government of their passions, appetites, tongues, and families. And the more faithful, prudent, and diligent they are in discharging the duties of their office, they will be the more honoured in the church, and bold in their holy profession.—While the church holds forth and maintains the truth, upon what a glorious mystery of godliness is she herself founded! Unfathomable is the depth, importance, and glory of it, as it shines forth in God manifested in the flesh, to make atonement for sin, and mediate between God and men: raised from the dead, received up into glory, and attested by the Holy Ghost, in the glory of his person and cause, and of believers in him; beheld, witnessed, ministered to, and adored by angels; preached far and wide to and believed on by multitudes of Jews and Gentiles; exalted to his Father's right hand, and to be head over all things to the church; and at last, after the final conquest of the world, entering heaven with all his angels and ransomed saints!

CHAPTER IV. Ver. 1. And to stir you and others up to a steadfast adherence to this mystery of godliness, and to the rules which Christ issues forth for the government of his church, know that the Spirit of God has revealed to me, as well as to the ancient prophets, that in some future period of the Christian dispensation many professors will apostatize from the doctrines of Christ, and give heed to such as shall seduce them into idolatrous principles and practices, viz. the worshipping of angels and saints as a kind of subordinate gods or mediators; 2. And who, under hypocritical pretences of zeal for religion, will utter falsehoods to delude their followers and establish their own authority; and will refuse nothing, however wicked or absurd, to carry on their corrupt designs—their consciences being as unaffected with the guilt or dreadful consequences of sin as flesh seared with a hot iron is incapable of feeling; 3. And will forbid clergymen or others to marry, thus exposing them to temptations to unchastity; and will prohibit the use of those wholesome meats which God at first created for the sustenance of mankind, and which now, under the gospel dispensation, he allows all Christians their full freedom to use: 4. For everything, as God made it, is answerable to the purposes for which he created it; and nothing that is proper for food ought to be forbidden or scrupled, providing it be received with religious acknowledgments of God as the author and giver of it: 5. For it is sanctified to our lawful use of it by the gospel of God, which has removed all ceremonial uncleanness from it, and by his commanding a blessing on it, in answer to our prayers before and after our meals. 6. If you, my dear son in the faith, warn the Christian brethren of this great apostasy, and other things which I have mentioned to you, you will act the part of a useful, wise, and faithful servant of Jesus Christ, ordering your ministrations suitably to the circumstances and dangers of the times, and as one who has thoroughly digested and experienced the pure doctrines of faith in Christ. 7. But as for the fabulous traditions and useless genealogies, either of Jews or heathens, have nothing to do with them; but exercise yourself with the utmost labour, diligence, and vigour in promoting and exemplifying the doctrines and duties of true piety and obedience to God through Jesus Christ: 8. For no labour, in the mere external acts of religion, is either acceptable to God or useful to the souls of men; but evangelical, vital, and practical godliness in heart and life is every way profitable, having manifold blessings annexed to it, by the promise of God, in this life and that which is to come. 9. And these promises of divine favours, temporal, spiritual, and eternal, are glorious in their accomplishment, and worthy of our highest regard, esteem, and entertainment, as they afford a rich encouragement to serve the Lord, and cleave to him, amidst all difficulties, oppositions, and dangers. 10. Yea, in virtue of our assured trust in these promises of God—who has all life in himself, and is the Bestower and Preserver of all created life; and who is the providential Deliverer of all men, and the spiritual and eternal Saviour of the world—we patiently and cheerfully undergo the greatest fatigues and most abusive revilings in our holy ministrations, to advance his glory, interest, and kingdom, and gain souls to him. 11. These things therefore fully explain, and, by the authority of Christ, inculcate upon the consciences of your hearers. 12. Endeavour also, by his gracious assistance, to acquit yourself therein with such diligence, gravity, good judgment, prudence, and wholly to them; <sup>b</sup>that thy profiting may appear to all.<sup>4</sup>

16 Take<sup>c</sup> heed unto thyself, and unto the doctrine; continue in them: for in doing this thou<sup>d</sup> shalt both save thyself, and them that hear thee.

CHAPTER V.

1 Rules to be observed in reproof. 3 Of widows. 17 Of elders. 23 A precept for Timothy's health. 24 Some men's sins go before unto judgment, and some men's do follow after.

REBUKE not<sup>a</sup> an elder,<sup>1</sup> but entreat him as a father; and the younger men as brethren;

2 The elder women as mothers; the younger as sisters, <sup>b</sup>with all purity.

3 Honour<sup>c</sup> widows that are widows indeed.

4 But if any widow have children or nephews,<sup>2</sup> let<sup>d</sup> them learn first to show piety<sup>3</sup> at home, and to requite their parents: for that is good and acceptable before God.

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

δ Mat. 5.16. Phi. 2.15.
16. ver. 11, 12.
4 Or, in all things.
c Ac. 20.28. 2 Ti. 4.2.
Tit. 2.7, 15. 1 Pe. 5.2, 3.
d Eze. 33.9; 3. 19, 21.
Da. 12.3. 1 Co. 9. 22, 27.
Ro. 10.10-17; 11. 14. Ja.
5.20. 1 Th. 2.19, 20.

CHAP. V.

a 1c. 19. 3. 32. ver. 19.
2 Ti. 2.24, 25; 4.2. Mat.
18.15-17. Ga. 6.1, 2.
1 An elder, being here distinguished from 'the younger men,' does not signi-fify a presbyter by office, but merely an elder by years.—C.
δ ch. 4.12. 2 Ti. 2.22. 2
Co. 6.6. 1 Th. 5.22.
c Ex. 22.22. Ps. 68. 5.
1 Pe. 3.3. Ac. 6.1. ver. 4.
5.10, 16.
2 Or, grandchildren.
d Ge. 45.10. 11.47. 12.
Mat. 15.4. Ep. 6.1, 2.
Ru. 2.18.
3 Or, kindness.
e ch. 3.13. Ep. 4.15.
9.10. Col. 1.10. Phi. 4.8.
18. He. 13.16; 6.10.

* Family bereavements are intended to lead the desolate heart of the widow to Him who has pro-

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

misied to be her husband; and many have never known the joys of religion till the sorrows of separation from all they loved on earth have led them to 'set their affections on things above.'—C.

g Lu. 2.36, 37; 18.1. 1
Co. 7.32. Ep. 6.18.

4 See note * in first column.

h Lu. 16. 19. Mat. 8.
22. Re. 3.1. Ja. 5.5.

i Or, delicately.

j ch. 1.3; 4.11; 6.17. 2
Ti. 4.2. Tit. 2.15; 1.15.
ch. 4.16. Ja. 1.27.

k 1s. 58.7. Ga. 6. 10. 2
Co. 12.14. 2 Ti. 3.5. Tit.
1.16. Lu. 12. 47, 48.

l Or, kindred.

m Or, chosen.

n The number, not of deaconesses—as Epiphanius shows—but of those who are to be supported by the charity of the church. See ver. 16.
—C.

o ch. 3.2, 12. Tit. 1. 6.
Lu. 2.36.

p Ac. 9.39. ch. 3. 4, 7.
12. 1 Pe. 4.9. He. 13.2.

q Ge. 18.4; 19.2. Lu. 7.38.
44. Jn. 13.5, 14. Ac. 16.
15, 16. Ro. 12.15. Phi. 4.
8. Lu. 1.6.

5 Now<sup>9</sup> she that is a widow indeed, and desolate, trusteth in God, and continueth in supplications and prayers<sup>4</sup> night and day.

6 But<sup>h</sup> she that liveth in pleasure<sup>5</sup> is dead while she liveth.

7 And<sup>i</sup> these things give in charge, that they may be blameless.

8 But<sup>j</sup> if any provide not for his own, and specially for those of his own house,<sup>6</sup> he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel.

9 Let not a widow be taken<sup>7</sup> into the number<sup>8</sup> under threescore years old, <sup>k</sup>having been the wife of one man,

10 Well<sup>l</sup> reported of for good works; if she have brought up children, if she have lodged strangers, if she have washed the saints' feet, if she have relieved the afflicted, if she have diligently followed every good work.

fidelity, and such evidence of your faith, and experience of what you preach to others, that none may have occasion to slight and condemn your person or admonitions, your office, or administrations of it, on account of your youth. And to prevent this, study to be always an amiable and shining example to other believers, in the excellency of your doctrine and edifying discourse; in the regularity of your religious and moral behaviour; in the sincerity and ardour of your love to God, to Christ, and to immortal souls; in your spiritual-mindedness, fervent zeal for God, and abounding in the fruits of the Spirit; in a steady and lively exercise and profession of your faith, and maintenance of the doctrines thereof; and in all chastity and purity of heart. 13. And, till I have an opportunity of seeing and further directing you, addict yourself to and spend much of your time in reading and praying over the Holy Scriptures, for the improvement of your own soul in gifts, graces, and comforts, that you may be the better qualified to instruct, exhort, and comfort others, for their conversion, or their establishment and growth in grace. 14. Yea, as God has richly furnished you with extraordinary gifts for his service, according to the predictions of the Spirit of God concerning you, and in consequence of your solemn ordination to your office by a meeting of church-rulers, constituted in the name of Christ his Son, take care that you stir them up, and exercise and improve them to the best advantage. 15. Let the things which I have just now mentioned, and other important articles of divine revelation, be the constant subject of your most earnest meditation; let your attention to, ministration of, and prayer for, a blessing upon them be the entire and delightful business of your life, that your proficiency in wisdom, gifts, and grace, and the experience of God's love, may in all things appear evident to all about you. 16. And if you wish your ministerial labours to succeed, see that your heart be right with God, in its principles, frame, temper, motives, and ends; that your gifts be duly cultivated, and the whole of your behaviour towards himself or your fellow-creatures be well-pleasing in his sight through Christ; and then take heed what doctrine ye preach—that it be sound, clear, important, and seasonable; evangelical and practical; and that it be well explained, confirmed, defended, and applied. And in a constant, persevering, and increasing study of this kind you will, under the influence of the Holy Ghost, be instrumental in promoting the spiritual and eternal salvation of yourself, and others who attend your ministry.

Ver. 1. Latter times—the times of the last or Christian dispensation. See 2 Ti. 3. 1; Ja. 5. 3; 2 Pe. 3. 3; Jude 18.—Devils (demons). The worship of mahuzzim, angels, or the departed spirits of men and women, as foretold by Daniel, ch. 11. 38, and authorized in the Popedom. See the Creed of Pius IV. C.

Ver. 3. Forbidding to marry. The Encratites, Manichees, and Montanists all agreed in denouncing marriage as unfavourable to holiness; and in this description they are therefore, in some degree, included. But, in a special sense, the prophecy refers to the Popedom, which, by the enforced and authoritative celibacy of the priesthood, alone 'forbids' what these earlier heretics merely slighted or condemned. C.

Ver. 5. Sanctified, set apart for use.—By the Word of God, which authorizes the use.—And by prayer, which brings down the blessing. C.

Ver. 8. Bodily exercise. Not formal worship, as some, nor bodily mortification, as others imagine; but those gymnastic exercises which the athleta practised to prepare them for the Grecian games—which exercises were profitable 'for a little' vainglory, or 'for a little' time, till the hard-earned praise was transferred to another, or the ear of the ambitious closed in death. See ver. 10; 1 Co. 9. 25. C.

Ver. 10. The Saviour—that is, the preserver of all men: of some, naturally, by his providence; and of the faithful, by his grace. C.

Ver. 14. By—rather, 'according to prophecy' pointing thee out as 'a chosen vessel.'—The presbytery—the eldership who had joined with Paul in the act of ordination, 2 Ti. 1. 6; comp. Ac. 8. 17, 18. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Dreadful plagues to the Christian church are apostasy and error, especially those of the Romish antichrist! and yet what a verification are they of the divinity of the Scriptures in fulfilling their predictions! Seducers in a most fearful manner turn things upside down, pretending sin to be duty, and what is lawful to be sinful. But no uncertain traditions must be regarded in religion, and no bodily service must be rested in.—It is only lively practical religion that entails present or future blessings on men by the promise of God. And the more we labour for the spiritual edification of others, the more shall we be edified and fitted for our work.—With determined courage may ministers, or even Christians, both labour and suffer, if they trust firmly in God himself. And great exemplariness in faith, in love, in all holy conversation—much study of divine truth—much self-excitement—and heedfulness of their own state, temper, practice, and doctrine, is necessary to render ministers accepted of God in their work, or useful to souls. But it is infinitely absurd and criminal for ministers to indulge idleness, or apply themselves to worldly business, when their own and other men's eternal salvation so much depends upon their fidelity and diligence in their awful employment.

CHAPTER V. Ver. 1, 2. And as the most decent behaviour is necessary to protect you, who are so young, from contempt, take care that you reprove aged professors, and especially church-rulers, when they fall into any sinful infirmity, with the utmost humility and meekness, treating them with all honour and respect; but such as are young rebuke in a more free, yet meek, affable, affectionate, and evidently modest and pure manner. 3. Take care that Christian widows who are poor, and have no relations able and willing to support them, be honourably provided for by the church. 4. But if any religious widows have children or grandchildren who are able to supply their necessities, let those children from a conscientious regard to God, and gratitude to their mothers for their labour, care, and kindness about them when young, exert themselves to provide for them; for such behaviour is in itself equitable, worthy, honourable, and well-pleasing to God. 5. Now, a widow, who is a proper and encouraging object of the church's charity, is one who, being destitute of relations to relieve her, trusts her temporal and eternal concerns to the care of God, and in consequence thereof is addicted to daily and fervent prayer for his gracious fulfilment of his promises. 6. But the widow who gives up herself to a jovial, loose, and voluptuous manner of life under the power of carnal inclinations, appears dead in trespasses and sins, while she enjoys a natural life, and renders herself unworthy of the care of either her friends or the church. 7. These things are of such importance to the edification of professors, and to the reputation, beauty, and order of churches, that you ought solemnly to declare and enforce them in your public and private ministrations—that such persons may walk orderly, and occasion no reproach to the church for misapplying her charity. 8. And if any professor unnaturally neglect, or refuse to do what he can for the support of his near relations, and chiefly his aged parents, wife, and children, he ought to be held as a practical renouncer of the gospel of Christ, and worse than a mere heathen. 9. Let no widow be admitted as an assistant to the deacons, in helping and administering to the poor and sick, unless she be at least sixty years of age, and have lived in a chaste and faithful manner with her own husband. 10. Nor, indeed, unless she be well known to have faithfully and prudently discharged the duties of the married state, in the careful and religious education of her own children, and in hospitable and kind entertainment of strangers, particularly ministers and saints; and in tender compassion to the afflicted; and, in fine, unless she has laboured with care and diligence to perform every good office toward God or men, as opportunity offered. 11. But let no younger widows be admitted; for they will perhaps grow voluptuous and lascivious, contrary to their profession of Christ, and consult their own ease and pleasure rather than his glory; and at last, to get rid of their restraints and labours, marry into a heathen family; 12. And thus expose themselves to shame and condemnation in the view of the world, to the censures of the church, and even to the righteous judgments of God here and hereafter, because of their rejection of their former Christian profession of faith in Christ, and desertion of the trust committed to them. 13. And, moreover, young widows addicted to pleasure soon contract a habit of idleness, and trifle away their time in gadding abroad for their amusement; nay, they even grow impertinent, flirting, loose, and foolish talkers, officious pryvers and intruders into other people's affairs, and thus invent and carry about reports hurtful to the reputation and peace of their neighbours. 14. Instead therefore of admitting younger widows into the public service of the church, let them be allowed to marry in the Lord, if a proper opportunity offer itself; and in that station carefully educate the children which the Lord may give them, and manage their household and relative affairs with such faithfulness, prudence, diligence, sobriety, and modesty as shall oblige their enemies to forbear reproaching them, or the ways of Christ on their account. 15. I speak the more particularly and earnestly on this point, as some young widows have, by the instigation of Satan, already turned aside from their Christian profession, and followed the sinful courses which I have just mentioned. 16. And I again insist, that if any have mothers or grandmothers, or other near relations in widowhood, if capable, they shall supply their necessities, that the church stock, being eased of that burden, may be the more sufficient for the relief of such as have no friends able or willing to assist them. 17. It is very necessary that church-

11 But the younger widows refuse: for when they have begun to wax wanton against Christ, they will marry;

12 Having<sup>o</sup> damnation, because they have cast off their first faith.

13 And withal<sup>r</sup> they learn to be idle, wandering about from house to house; and not only idle, but tattlers also, and busybodies, speaking things which they ought not.

14 I will therefore that the younger women marry,<sup>a</sup> bear children, guide the house, give none occasion to the adversary to speak reproachfully.<sup>9</sup>

15 For some<sup>r</sup> are already turned aside after Satan.

16 If<sup>s</sup> any man or woman that believeth have widows, let them relieve them, and let not the church be charged; that it may relieve them that are<sup>t</sup> widows indeed.

17 Let<sup>u</sup> the elders<sup>1</sup> that rule well be counted worthy of<sup>v</sup> double honour,<sup>2</sup> especially they who labour<sup>x</sup> in the word and doctrine.<sup>3</sup>

18 For the scripture saith, <sup>v</sup>Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn. And, The labourer<sup>is</sup> worthy of his reward.

19 Against an elder receive not an accusation, but before<sup>4</sup> two<sup>z</sup> or three witnesses.

20 Them that sin<sup>a</sup> rebuke before all, that others also may fear.

21 I<sup>b</sup> charge thee before God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, and the<sup>c</sup> elect angels,<sup>5</sup> that thou observe these things<sup>d</sup> without preferring<sup>6</sup> one before another, doing nothing by partiality.

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

<sup>n</sup> De. 32.15. Ho. 13.6.
<sup>o</sup> He. 6.4.6; 26-31.
38. Re. 2.4.
<sup>p</sup> Tit. 2.3.5. Le. 19.
16. Pr. 11.13. 20.19; 18.8;
26.20.22. Eze. 22.9.2
Th. 3.10.11.14.
<sup>q</sup> 1 Co. 7.9. ver. 8. Ep.
6.4. Tit. 2.8.
<sup>r</sup> Gr. for their railing.

<sup>s</sup> Phil. 2.21; 3.17.18.2
Ti. 1.15; 2.8; 4.10. Ga.
3.1.

<sup>t</sup> See ver. 3.5.9.10.
<sup>u</sup> Ro. 15.27. 1 Co. 9.
14. Ga. 6.6. Phil. 2.29. 1
Th. 5.12.13. Pr. 3.9. He.
13.7.17.1 Co. 12.28.

<sup>1</sup> Elders, from the description of their work, must here be presbyters in office,
Ac. 20.17.28.—C.

<sup>v</sup> Ac. 28.10.2 Ki. 9.
18.40.2. Je. 16.18; 17.18.
Zec. 9.12.

<sup>2</sup> Double honour—equivalent to 'liberal support'.—C.

<sup>x</sup> Ro. 12.6-8. Ep. 4.
11. 1 Co. 1.14-17. Ac. 6.
2.4.2. Ti. 4.2. ch. 4.16.

<sup>3</sup> Elliott remarks on this verse: 'The concluding words certainly seem to imply two kinds of ruling presbyters, those who preached and taught, and those who did not'.—P.

<sup>y</sup> De. 25.4. 1 Co. 9.9.
Mat. 10.10. Le. 19.13.
De. 24.14.15. Lu. 10.7.

<sup>4</sup> Or, under.
<sup>z</sup> Mat. 18.16. Jn. 8.
17.2 Co. 13.1. He. 10.28.
De. 17.6; 19.15.18.

<sup>a</sup> Ga. 2.11.14. Le. 19.
17. De. 13.11. Tit. 1.13;
2.15.2. Ti. 4.2.

<sup>b</sup> ch. 6.13. 1 Th. 5.27.
2 Ti. 1.4.1. Ga. 1.20.
<sup>c</sup> Re. 12.7-9.

<sup>5</sup> Elect angels. In opposition to the apostate angels, 2 Pe.
2.4. The 'ministering spirits' to the 'heirs of salvation', and, therefore, proper witnesses of the apostle's charge.—C.

<sup>d</sup> Le. 19.15. De. 1.17;
17.4; 19.18. Pr. 18.5.2
Th. 2.5.

<sup>6</sup> Or, without prejudice.

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

<sup>e</sup> Ac. 6.6; 13.3. ch. 4.
14.2. Ti. 1.6; 2.2.
<sup>f</sup> ch. 3.10. Jos. 9.14.
Ep. 5.11. ch. 4.12. 2 Jn.
11.

<sup>h</sup> Ps. 104.15. Pr. 31.6.
Ep. 5.29.

<sup>i</sup> That is, water alone.—C.

<sup>j</sup> Ac. 8.18; 1.16.17.
Ga. 3.19.20.

<sup>k</sup> Manifest without any need of witnesses. See ver. 19.
—C.

<sup>9</sup> Are discovered only after long acquaintance, or by providential occurrences bringing their secret sins unexpectedly to light.—
C.

<sup>j</sup> Ga. 5.22.23. Phi. 4.
8.1. Pe. 3.8-16.

<sup>1</sup> They that are otherwise—whose good works are not yet manifest, 'cannot (long) be hid'; so that by a little attention the excellence of their character will be clearly discovered.—C.

CHAP. VI.

<sup>a</sup> Ep. 6.5-8. Col. 3.22
-25. 1 Pe. 2.16.18. Tit. 2.
5-10. Ne. 5.9. 2 Pe. 2.19.
Is. 52.5. Eze. 36.23. Ro.
2.24.

<sup>1</sup> Servants. Christians who were slaves to the heathen.—C.

<sup>b</sup> Ga. 3.28. Col. 3.11.
<sup>2</sup> Or, believing.

<sup>3</sup> Because they who enjoy the benefit of their service are believing and beloved brethren.—
Note. This apparent toleration of slavery among Christians by no means sanctions negro slavery, which originated in, and is supported by, man-stealing; nor any form of absolute and uncontrolled property in the persons and families of servants.
—C.

<sup>c</sup> ch. 1.3. Ro. 16.17.
Ga. 1.6.7. 2 Ti. 1.13; 4.3.
Tit. 1.13; 2.1. 10-14; 3.

<sup>d</sup> Pr. 25.14. 1 Co. 8.1.
2. Ga. 6.3. ch. 1.4.7. 2
Ti. 2.23. Tit. 1.14; 3.9.
Pr. 13.7. 1 Co. 11.16. Ja.
4.1.

<sup>4</sup> Or, a fool.
<sup>5</sup> Or, sick.

22 Lay<sup>e</sup> hands<sup>s</sup> suddenly on no man, neither be partaker of other men's sins: keep thyself pure.

23 Drink<sup>h</sup> no longer water,<sup>7</sup> but use a little wine for thy stomach's sake and thine often infirmities.

24 Some<sup>i</sup> men's sins are open<sup>8</sup> beforehand, going before to judgment: and some men they follow after.<sup>9</sup>

25 Likewise<sup>j</sup> also the good works of some are manifest beforehand; and they that are otherwise<sup>k</sup> cannot be hid.

CHAPTER VI.

1 Of the duty of servants. 3 Not to have fellowship with new-fangled teachers. 6 Godliness is great gain, 10 and love of money the root of all evil. 11 What Timothy is to flee, and what to follow, 17 and whereof to admonish the rich. 20 To keep the purity of true doctrine, and to avoid profane janglings.

LET as<sup>a</sup> many servants<sup>1</sup> as are under the yoke count their own masters worthy of all honour, that the name of God and his doctrine be not blasphemed.

2 And they that have believing masters, let them not despise them, because they are brethren; but rather do them service, because they are faithful<sup>2</sup> and beloved, partakers of the benefit.<sup>3</sup> These things teach and exhort.

3 If<sup>c</sup> any man teach otherwise, and consent not to wholesome words, even the words of our Lord Jesus Christ, and to the doctrine which is according to godliness; on ministers! They are Christ's deputies, and to him they must give an account. With great prudence, faithfulness, tenderness, courage, and impartiality, must they therefore proceed in rebuking the scandalous, or ordaining other church-officers. And the undoing or salvation of souls is deeply connected therewith. An ignorant, careless, and scandalous ministry is a great plague and reproach to a church. And it is hard for the most faithful to keep themselves from being partakers in other men's sins. But great is the mercy that Jesus', their Master's, blood cleanseth from all sin. Yea, he kindly allows them a moderate use of creature refreshments as their labours and bodily infirmities require.

4 He<sup>d</sup> is proud,<sup>4</sup> knowing nothing, but<sup>5</sup> dotting about questions and strifes of words, whereof cometh envy, strife, railings, evil surmisings,

CHAPTER VI. Ver. 1. As some judaizing teachers, to the discredit of religion and the violation of natural rights, encourage slaves or other servants, when converted, to renounce their servitude. I earnestly admonish you, on all proper occasions, to instruct and urge servants, however enslaved, to honour, reverence, and obey their heathen masters; that so the honour of God and credit of the gospel may not be reproachfully stained, as if it discharged men from their just obligations, and the natural or civil duties of their station. 2. And if any Christian servants are so happy as to have masters of their own religion, let them prize it as a great privilege, and honour and obey them the more cheerfully, affectionately, and diligently, because they are faithful believers, beloved of God, and partakers of all the blessings of redemption through the blood of his Son. 3. If any man teach what is contrary to these directions, and does not, in heart, speech, and behaviour, embrace and practise the pure and salutary doctrines of the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ, concerning his person and offices, which is formed, designed, and blessed for promoting practical religion in all the branches of piety towards God, and relative duties towards men, from regard to his authority; 4, 5. Notwithstanding all his pretences, profession, or stato their office; beware lest, by any precipitant and unadvised steps, you render yourself a partaker in the guilt and mischievous influence of unsound and ungodly ministers. 24. For as some men's erroneous principles and practices are so notoriously sinful as renders it a plain duty to refuse them admission to any office in the church, so there are others who can artfully conceal their sentiments and wickedness till after they have obtained a call or admission. 25. In like manner, the religious sentiments, gifts, graces, and moral temper and behaviour of some men are so remarkably good and manifest as to render their admission perfectly clear, while it will require much prudent, tender, and close converse with others, of a bashful and recluse temper, to satisfy a conscientious inquirer whether they be fit or not.

Ver. 12. This cannot be intended as an absolute condemnation of a Christian widow for marrying again, for such marriages were sanctioned by the law of God; nor can it refer to widows who have entered into vows of celibacy, for such entangling vows are nowhere mentioned or sanctioned in the New Testament; but the reference is to widows who have 'cast off their first faith' to Christ. See ver. 15. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Aged persons, and such as are in office in the church, should be treated with great veneration even when overtaken in a fault. And with kind concern should the very youngest be cautioned and reproved for their sins of infirmity. Friends and church-rulers should take great care of poor widows. And it is necessary for the credit of religion that all widows behave in a grave, prudent, orderly, and holy manner. Alas! that any of them, unaffected with their husbands' departure into eternity, should ever wax wanton against Christ and his law!—It is not merely in acts of devotion, but in all our business, and particularly in managing our families, that we should serve God.—Church governors, particularly preaching elders, have a divine right, from both Old and New Testaments, to high respect and a liberal maintenance from their people, according to their ability. And what awful obligations to faithfulness in their work lie

5 'Perverse' disputings of men of corrupt minds, and destitute of the truth,<sup>7</sup> supposing that gain is godliness: from such withdraw thyself.

6 But<sup>9</sup> godliness with contentment is great gain.

7 For<sup>3</sup> we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out.

8 And<sup>i</sup> having food and raiment, let us be therewith content.

9 But<sup>i</sup> they that will be rich<sup>8</sup> fall into temptation and a snare, and into many foolish and hurtful lusts, which drown men in destruction and perdition.

10 For<sup>k</sup> the love of money is the root of all evil; which while some coveted after, they have erred<sup>9</sup> from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows.

11 But thou, 'O man of God, flee these things; and follow after righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness.

12 Fight<sup>n</sup> the good fight of faith, lay hold on eternal life, whereunto thou art also called, and

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.
e 1 Co. 11. 16. Ro. 16.
17. 18. ch. 1. 6. 19. 1s. 5. 6.
11. 2 Pe. 2. 3. Tit. 1. 11.
14. 16. 2 Ti. 3. 5. 8. 2 Jn.
10. Tit. 3. 10. 2 Th. 3. 6.
14. Re. 18. 4.
6 Or, Gallings one of another.
7 Who dispute not for truth but victory.
—C.
8 Ps. 37. 16. Is. 33. 16.
ch. 4. 8. Pr. 8. 21; 15. 16;
16. 8; 17. 1. 2 Co. 9. 8. He.
13. 5.
9 Job. 21. Ps. 49. 17.
Ec. 5. 15.
10 Ge. 28. 20. Ps. 55. 22;
35. 28; 30. 8. Mat. 6. 25;
13. Phil. 4. 11. He. 13. 5. 1
Pe. 5. 7.
11 Pr. 11. 28; 15. 27; 20.
21; 28. 20. 22. Mat. 13. 22.
Ja. 5. 1. ch. 3. 7.
12 They that will be rich — by whatever means — by whatever neglect of their souls, and sacrifice of religious principle. — C.
13 Ex. 23. 8. De. 16. 19.
1 Ki. 21. 2-16. Mat. 26.
15. Ac. 5. 3. Tit. 1. 11. with Ec. 11. 8. Ps. 109. 8
— 19. Ja. 5. 1-3.
14 Or, been seduced.
15 De. 33. 1. 1 Sa. 2. 27.
2 Ki. 1. 9; 4. 16. 405. 5. 8. 2
Ti. 1. 17. 2. 22-26. ch. 4.
12. 1 Th. 2. 10. Phil. 4. 8.
16 2 Ti. 4. 7. 1 Co. 9. 25.
26. 2 Co. 10. 3-5. 4. 7. 8.
Phil. 3. 12. 14. Re. 3. 12.
21. 2 Pe. 1. 5, 10.
* Who quickeneth all things that are quickeneth, and is therefore able to raise

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.
from the dead all who suffer for truth and godliness. — C. e He. 10. 23.
p ch. 5. 21. 1 Th. 5. 27.
2 Ti. 4. 1. De. 32. 39. 1 Sa.
2. 6. Ac. 17. 25. Jn. 5. 21.
1 See note * in first
column.
q Mat. 27. 11. Jn. 18.
36. 37. Re. 1. 5; 3. 14. 1s.
55. 4.
2 Or, profession.
r ch. 4. 11-16. 2 Ti. 3.
14. Tit. 2. 7. 10-15. Phil.
1. 6. 10; 2. 15. 1 Th. 3. 13;
5. 23. 1 Co. 1. 8. 2 Th. 2. 1.
3 Which in his own (good) times he shall reveal. — C. s ch. 1. 11. 17. De. 10.
17. Ps. 136. 2. 3. Re. 17.
14. 19. 16. Ps. 83. 18; 10.
16. Da. 4. 34. 35.
t ch. 1. 17. Ro. 1. 23. Jn.
5. 26; 6. 57. Je. 10. 10. De.
32. 40.
u 1 Jn. 1. 5. 7. 2 Ch. 6.
1; 5. 13. 14. Ex. 40. 35.
Re. 1. 16. 17; 15. 8.
v De. 4. 12. Jn. 1. 18. 6.
46; 5. 37. 1 Jn. 4. 12. 20.
Ex. 33. 20.
w Ro. 16. 27. Ep. 3. 21.
Phil. 4. 20. ch. 1. 17. 2 Pe.
3. 18. Jude 25. Ke. 1. 6; 4.
11. 5. 12. 13; 17. 10. 12.
y ch. 1. 34. 1. 2 Ti. 2.
14. Ps. 119. 46.
z Ps. 62. 10. Pr. 23. 5.
Ro. 11. 20; 12. 16. Phil. 3.
2. 4.
a Ps. 62. 10; 52. 7. Job 31. 24. Pr. 11. 28. Mat. 6.
33. 34. Mar. 4. 19; 10. 24.
Lu. 12. 15-20. Pr. 23. 5.
4 Gr. the uncertainity of riches.
b ver. 16; ch. 3. 15; 4.
10. 1 Th. 1. 9. Je. 10. 10.

hast 'professed a good profession before many witnesses.

13 I<sup>p</sup> give thee charge in the sight of God, who quickeneth all things,<sup>1</sup> and before Christ Jesus, who before Pontius Pilate<sup>q</sup> witnessed a good confession;<sup>2</sup>

14 That<sup>r</sup> thou keep this commandment without spot, unrebukeable, until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ:

15 Which in his times he shall show,<sup>3</sup> who is 'the blessed and only Potentate, the King of kings, and Lord of lords;

16 Who 'only hath immortality, 'dwelling in the light which no man can approach unto; 'whom no man hath seen, nor can see: 'to whom be honour and power everlasting. Amen.

17 Charge<sup>y</sup> them that are rich in this world, 'that they be not high-minded, 'nor trust in uncertain riches,<sup>4</sup> but in the 'living God, 'who giveth us richly all things to enjoy;

18 That<sup>d</sup> they do good, that they be rich in c Ec. 5. 18. 19. Ac. 14. 17; 17. 25. Mat. 6. 33. 1 Co. 3. 22. d Lu. 12. 21. Ja. 2. 5. 16. Ec. 11. 1. 2. 2 Co. 8. 3. 12; 9. 7. He. 13. 16. De. 15. 7. Mat. 5. 42. Ro. 12. 8. 13. Tit. 3. 8.

tion in the church, he is but a haughty, self-conceited creature, puffed up by the vanity of his own mind, who knows nothing aright of the truth of the gospel, or of his own duty to God or to men; but, like a brain-sick person, is madly fond of impertinent, useless, and entangling questions, and empty disputes about words rather than matter; and which are fit for nothing but to kindle and inflame invidious thoughts and passions, angry debates, blasphemous and reproachful railings, injurious and ill-grounded jealousies, preposterously curious, vain, and froward disputings—proper only for persons of erroneous minds and vicious inclinations, who are utter strangers to Christ and the gospel, and to the reality of grace in their hearts, and reckon religion only so far valuable as it is subservient to their carnal views. Have nothing to do with such persons; abhor their principles and practices; and if they continue obstinate therein, let them be excluded from the church. — 6. But whatever such carnal men think, true practical godliness, in which all suitable graces are exercised, in worshipping and serving God through Jesus Christ, under the influence of his Spirit, according to the gospel, attended with a holy and gracious contentment and satisfaction in the disposals of Providence towards us in this life, is the most pleasant, satisfying, and profitable course that can be conceived, and incomparably preferable to an affluence of temporal enjoyments, which at best are empty, precarious, and perishing; 7. For as we brought none of these earthly enjoyments with us into this world in our birth, but hold them by the mere bounty and gracious disposal of God, so we must quickly leave them all behind us at death. 8. If then the kind providence of God supply us in this world with necessary food, raiment, and dwellings, we ought to be fully contented with our lot, and thankful for what we enjoy, as very good, nay, best for us. 9. But they whose hearts are set upon riches, and resolve to have them at any rate, as if they were their chief good, plunge themselves into manifold temptations to dishonesty and other wickedness, and into the deep defilement of many foolish and hurtful lusts and passions, which will effectually swallow them up in temporal and eternal destruction: 10. For an inordinate esteem of and affection for wealth is the pregnant source of all sinful, injurious, and miserable principles and practices, in which, while some have indulged themselves, they have apostatized from their Christian profession and practice; and, instead of finding the satisfaction they expected, have plunged themselves into the most painful agonies of mind and distress of body. — 11. But do you, Timothy, whom God hath so richly endowed with the gifts and graces of his Spirit, and who have solemnly devoted yourself to his service, abhor and flee from these corrupt principles, inclinations, and practices, and, in the strength of grace, earnestly endeavour after the richest attainments of the knowledge and exercise of righteousness in all your behaviour towards men; and of strict and evangelical piety in all your dealings with God; of faith in Christ, and in God through him; of that love which is the fruit of faith; of patience amidst wants, perplexities, and sufferings; and of a humble and gentle temper towards all men. 12. In this manner contend earnestly for the doctrines of faith; and, in the exercise of faith, fight, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ, against the devil, the world, and the flesh: press forward in faith and holiness, till you obtain the full possession of that eternal life to which you are tenderly called by the gospel, and to the honour of which ye have, in your ordination, preaching, conversation, and sufferings, borne the most public and solemn testimony. 13. And as this matter is of infinite importance to the glory of God and the salvation of men, I solemnly charge you, in the name, and before the face of that all-seeing and almighty God who quickens dead souls, and will quickly raise the dead to the last judgment; and by the authority and in the presence of Jesus Christ the great Messiah, at whose awful tribunal you must quickly give an account of your conduct; and who, when arraigned before Pontius Pilate the Roman governor, set you a glorious example of courage and steadfastness, in bearing a free and open testimony to the truth, when he knew it would cost him his life. — 14. That you faithfully and diligently, and to the end of your life, perform your ministerial work, and sincerely and exactly follow the instructions which I have given you, in the full expectation of the glorious appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ to judge the world, and of the account we must give to him of our whole conduct; 15. Which appearance he will make in the most public view of angels and men in the appointed season thereof—who in himself is the infinitely happy and all-sufficient God, the only supreme and almighty Ruler over and source of all authority to all kings and lords on earth, being infinitely more glorious and excellent than any of them; 16. And who alone has an absolutely eternal life of glory and blessedness, originally, necessarily, unchangeably, and independently in himself, and is infinitely pure and inconceivable in his nature, and manifests himself on his heavenly throne in inexpressible and unapproachable glories. 17. In view of the importance of your trust, and of that awful account which you and others are to give of your conduct, solemnly and faithfully charge those Christians who have some share of worldly riches to beware of being lifted up with pride, self-sufficiency, and contempt of others, or of trusting in earthly possessions, which are so precarious and fleeting; and teach them to put their whole confidence in the only living and true God, who, through active faith, freely bestows upon us all the blessings of time and eternity. 18. Charge them also that, instead of hoarding up their riches, or lavishly mispending them on themselves, they do all the good they can with them; and study to abound in better riches, to their own and others' advantage, even in every good work which their affluence renders them capable of—cheerfully and liberally bestowing it in supplying the necessities of the poor, and promoting the cause of Christ: 19. Making Christ, and him crucified, the sole foundation of their hopes of eternal life, as a blessed possession, and proving and exercising their faith in works of liberality, which, through Christ, shall be for ever graciously rewarded in heaven, when they shall have obtained the full possession of eternal life. — 20. And, as it is a matter of infinite importance, let me conclude with solemnly beseeching you, my dear son and brother in Christ, carefully to maintain and hold fast the doctrines of the gospel pure and uncorrupted, and employ to the utmost all your gifts and graces in fulfilling your ministerial office according to the directions I have given you, as a sacred trust committed to you by the Lord Jesus, to be managed in his name and for his glory, and of which you must give him an account; and for this purpose avoid and detest the impious, trifling, and noisy talk of judaizing teachers, as well as the vain philosophy of the Greeks, by both which, under the name of knowledge, they wickedly carry on an opposition to the gospel of Christ; 21. And by an attachment to which, some professed Christians have already lost sight of and renounced the doctrines of revelation. — And to direct, establish, and prosper you in all your important work, may the love and favour of God through Christ, in all its manifestations and fruits, be abundantly vouchsafed to you.

REFLECTIONS. — It is a great honour and encouragement to believing servants, that in Christ and the new kingdom they are on a level with the highest. But it is base and reproachful to their profession to abuse this privilege as a reason of disregard to their masters, whether profane or religious. The gospel was never designed to destroy civil distinctions, but to make men truly adorn them in performing the duties thereof. And the more kind and condescending masters are, the more respectful and obedient servants ought to be. Relative duties make a very important article of true Christian religion. And they who teach otherwise, or propagate any doctrine contrary to a holy practice, are evidently but troublesome, selfish, and worldly-minded seducers. But they who are fond of disputes in religion are seldom tender in their practice. — There is no true godliness but what springs from gospel principles; no true contentment with our lot but what springs from true godliness; no true care but where our soul is our first and chief concern. — What a poor empty world is this, where no enjoyment is certain to us for a moment! Nature is satisfied with little, grace with less, and covetousness with nothing, however much! The love of money, and hastening to be rich, is very ruinous to men's souls and characters, and even to their estates. What need then have the rich to be humble amidst their affluence, good works, ready to distribute, willing to communicate;<sup>5</sup>

19 'Laying<sup>6</sup> up in store for themselves a good foundation against the time to come, that they may <sup>7</sup>lay hold on eternal life.

20 O Timothy, <sup>8</sup>keep that which is committed to thy trust, avoiding profane and vain bab-

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

5 Or, sociable.

6 Mat. 6. 20. Lu. 12. 33; 16. 9. ver. 18. Mat. 10. 40. 41. Ga. 6. 8, 9.

6 'Treasuring up for themselves a good foundation,' even Christ and his righteousness (1 Co. 3. 11), 'against the time' (of storm that is yet) 'to come' (Mat. 7. 25), that having by the grace of God loosed their hold from temporal things (Ga. 6. 14); they may lay hold of eternal life.—C.

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

7 ver. 12. Phi. 3. 12, 14. 2 Ti. 4. 7, 8. 1 Pe. 1. 4.

8 Re. 3. 3, 10, 11. 2 Ti. 1. 14. 2. 14, 16, 23. ch. 1. 4; 4. 7. Tit. 1. 9, 14; 3. 9. Col. 2. 8. 1 Co. 1. 20; 3. 18—20.

1 ch. 1. 6, 19. 2 Ti. 2. 18.

blings, and oppositions of science falsely so called;

21 Which some professing 'have erred concerning the faith. Grace be with thee. Amen.

¶ The first to Timothy was written from Laodicea, which is the chiefest city of Phrygia Pacatiana.

which tempts so many to pride, and to place their faith, hopes, and delights, not in wealth, but in God through Christ!—And carefully should they prove the sincerity of their faith by such genuine charity as will entail a gracious but everlasting reward. Large measures of gifts, grace, cares, and labours are necessary for ministers, to render them duly useful and faithful. For the opposition they will meet with is great, and their account very awful and solemn.

CONCLUDING REMARKS ON THE FIRST EPISTLE TO TIMOTHY.

There is generally in the human mind a strong desire to pry into the private life of individuals, especially of distinguished characters. Hence, on the death of such persons, every source of information is explored; and especially every letter, to any person, or upon any topic whatsoever, is sought out and published as a memorial and mirror of the mind of the dead. And when the eye of curiosity has discovered such relics, and they are published to the world, how many trifles do they often contain! how many 'unthought-of frailties' do they often reveal! and how many occasions do they furnish for the exultation of malice, the tear of pity, or the veil of charity!

To this ordeal Paul is here subjected. This epistle furnishes the first specimen of his private letters to his familiar friend. It admits us as to a mirror in which we can discover the most secret workings of his spirit. And oh, what a glorious discovery! What love, what holiness, what self-sacrifice! And then the church! Its most secret springs, its entire spiritual machinery, all laid bare! Its bishops and deacons, its old and young, its unmarried and its widows, its masters and servants, its rich and poor!—all are arrayed, not for public exhibition, but for private, most secret, and confidential inspection! And if any one can read this secret disclosure, without acknowledging the unparalleled holiness of the Christian system, his eyes may be blinded by the practical imperfections and sins of its professors, but he has not examined the glories of the system itself! Indeed, if any one will read this epistle, and thereby observe, not the outward garniture of the temple, but penetrate into its most secret chambers, it would appear impossible for him to deny that its 'builder and maker was God.' C.

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO TIMOTHY.

That this epistle was written while Paul was a prisoner is evident from ch. 1. 17. That it indicates a second imprisonment appears more than probable from the following considerations. In the first imprisonment he 'dwelt two whole years in his own hired house, and received all that came to him,' Ac. 28. 30, 31; but when he wrote this epistle he was closely confined, ch. 2. 9, so that Onesiphorus had considerable difficulty in discovering him, ch. 1. 16, 18, and his situation was extremely dangerous, ch. 4. 6, 8, 16, 18. At his first confinement Timothy was with Paul, and is joined with him in writing to the Colossians, Philippians, and Philemon; but the present epistle shows that he was absent in Asia. During his first imprisonment Demas was with him, Phile. 24; now he had forsaken him and gone to Thessalonica, ch. 4. 10. During his first imprisonment Mark also was with him, Col. 4. 10, 11; Phile. 24; but at the date of this epistle Timothy is directed to bring Mark with him, ch. 4. 11. In the former epistle Paul looked confidently forward to his speedy liberation and departure from Rome, Phi. 2. 24; Phile. 22; but in this he is 'ready to be offered, and the time of his departure is at hand,—he has finished his course;' from which it is concluded that this epistle was written a short time before his martyrdom, which is generally referred to the 29th June, A.D. 66. And, as the apostle requests Timothy to come to him before winter, ch. 4. 21, the epistle was most probably written in the summer of A.D. 65. Like the former epistle its chief object is to instruct a young minister in the nature and importance of his office and duties in the church, and prepare him, if need be, for sustaining the persecution of the world. It is written with all the affection of a parent, and with all the solemnity of a man about to die. It contains references to Ex. 7. 11, 12; 8. 18; 9. 11; Mat. 26. 24; Ac. 14. 22; 2 Pe. 1. 20, 21. C.

The cause of Paul's second imprisonment at Rome appears to have been a charge made against him, as leader of the Christians, for being implicated in the burning of the city. This false and absurd charge was probably preferred when the apostle was in Nicopolis, a city of Epirus, Tit. 3. 12. He was there seized and sent to Rome, where he was no longer treated as one accused merely of breaking Jewish law, but as a common criminal, charged with a capital offence. He seems to have felt that his fate was certain; and one chief object in writing this epistle was to prepare Timothy for the trials and persecutions to which he knew the church would soon be exposed. Another object was to secure, if possible, a farewell visit from Timothy. He was now almost alone; all had left him except faithful Luke, ch. 4. 11. He was worn down by care, and sorrow, and bodily weakness; his end, his martyrdom, was drawing near; and yet 'in no epistle does the true, loving, undaunted, and trustful heart of the great apostle speak in more consolatory, yet more moving accents: in no portion of his writings is there a loftier tone of Christian courage than that which pervades these, so to speak, dying words; nowhere a holier rapture than that with which the reward and crown of faithful labour is contemplated as now exceeding nigh at hand.' P.

CHAPTER I.

1 Paul's love to Timothy. 6 He is exhorted to stir up the gift of God which was in him, 8 to be steadfast, and patient in persecution, 13 and to persist in the form and truth of that doctrine which he had learned of him. 15 Phygellus and Hermogenes, and such like, are noted, and Onesiphorus is highly commended.

PAUL, an<sup>a</sup> apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, according to <sup>b</sup>the promise of life which is in Christ Jesus,

A.M. cir. 4070.
A.D. cir. 66.

CHAP. I.

a Ro. 1. 1. Ga. 1. 1. Ep. 1. 1. Col. 1. 1. Ac. 9. 15; 26. 16—18; 13. 9.

b Ep. 3. 6. 1 Jn. 2. 25; 5. 10—13. 2 Co. 1. 20. Ac. 10. 43. Jn. 17. 3; 6. 40—57. Ac. 4. 12.

c See 1 Ti. 1. 1, 2, 18. 1 Co. 4. 15.

A.M. cir. 4070.
A.D. cir. 66.

d See Ro. 1. 7. 2 Co. 13. 14. 1 Pe. 1. 2. Ep. 1. 2.

3 e 2 Th. 1. 3. 1 Th. 1. 2; 5. 18. Ep. 5. 20. Col. 3. 17. See Ro. 1. 8.

f Ac. 24. 14, 16; 23. 1; 22. 3; 26. 4; 27. 23. Ro. 1. 9. 2 Co. 1. 12. He. 13. 18. Ac. 20. 18—35. 1 Th. 2. 10.

1 See note on Ac. 23. 1.—C.

2 See 1 Th. 1. 2; 3. 10.

2 To Timothy, my <sup>e</sup>dearly beloved son: <sup>d</sup>Grace, mercy, and peace, from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Lord.

3 I<sup>e</sup> thank God, whom <sup>f</sup>I serve from my forefathers with pure conscience,<sup>1</sup> that<sup>h</sup> without ceasing I have remembrance of thee in my prayers night and day;

4 Greatly<sup>i</sup> desiring to see thee, being mindful of thy tears, that I may be filled with joy;

5 When I call to remembrance the <sup>j</sup>unfeigned faith that is in thee, which dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and thy <sup>k</sup>mother Eunice; and I am persuaded that in thee also.

6 Wherefore I put thee in remembrance <sup>l</sup>that thou stir up the gift of God, which is in thee by the <sup>n</sup>putting on of my hands.

7 For<sup>o</sup> God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind.

8 Be<sup>p</sup> not thou therefore ashamed of the testimony of our Lord, nor of me his prisoner: but be thou partaker of the afflictions of the gospel according to the power of God;<sup>2</sup>

9 Who <sup>q</sup>hath saved us, and called <sup>us</sup> with an holy calling, <sup>r</sup>not according to our works, but according to his own purpose and grace, which was given us in Christ Jesus, before the world began;

10 But<sup>s</sup> is now made manifest by the appearing of our Saviour Jesus Christ, who hath abolished<sup>t</sup> death,<sup>3</sup> and hath brought life and immortality to light through the gospel:

A.M. cir. 4070.
A.D. cir. 66.

f ch. 4. 9, 21. Ro. 10. 12; 15. 30-32. Phi. 1. 8; 2. 24. 1 Th. 2. 17-20.

g 1 Ti. 1. 2, 5; 4. 6. Tit. 1. 1. Ga. 5. 6. Ep. 2. 8. Col. 2. 12. 1 Th. 1. 3. Ja. 2. 5.

h Ac. 16. 1. Ex. 15. 2. 1 Co. 7. 14. Ps. 22. 10; 71. 17.

i See 1 Ti. 4. 14. ch. 2. 1; 4. 2, 5. 1 Th. 5. 19, 20.

j Ac. 6. 6; 8. 17; 13. 2, 3, 23; 19. 6. 1 Ti. 4. 14; 5. 22.

k Ro. 8. 15. 1 Jn. 4. 18. He. 2. 15. Lu. 24. 49. Ac. 1. 8; 9. 22, 29; 14. 3; 18. 9; 21. 13. 1 Co. 10. 13. 2 Co. 1. 3-10. 12; 6. 7; 10. 4. Ga. 4. 3-7. Col. 1. 11. ch. 2. 1; 4. 17.

l Ro. 1. 16. Mat. 10. 33. Mar. 8. 38. Ac. 5. 41. 1 Co. 1. 6; 2. 2. Ep. 3. 13; 6. 20. 1 Ti. 1. 18. ch. 2. 3, 9; 10. 4. 5. Col. 1. 24.

m See note * below

n Mat. 1. 21. 1 Ti. 1. 1; 2. 3, 4. 10. 1 Co. 1. 9. Phi. 3. 14. Ro. 8. 28, 30. 1 Pe. 2. 9. He. 3. 1.

o Ro. 9. 11; 13. 24; 5. 20, 21; 8. 29. De. 7. 7. Ep. 2. 8; 1. 4, 9, 11; 3. 11. Tit. 3. 4-7; 1. 2. Ro. 16. 25.

p Is. xxv. Ro. 16. 25, 26. Col. 1. 26, 27. Mar. 16. 15. Ep. 1. 9; 3. 9. Tit. 1. 2. 1 Pe. 1. 20, 21.

q Is. 25. 8. 1 Co. 15. 54, 55. He. 2. 14. Jn. 5. 24-29.

r He has 'abolished death' in its sting, its fear, and its power.—C.

* More literally: 'But (on the contrary, instead of feeling ashamed of me a prisoner, charged with a foul crime) join with me in suffering hardship for the gospel (if possible come to me at Rome and stand by me; and wherever you may be located, fear not any trial that a faithful preaching of the gospel may entail, in accordance with the power of God' (that power which God has manifested in our salvation, and will manifest in supporting us at all times).—P.

A.M. cir. 4070.
A.D. cir. 66.

u See Ac. 9. 15; 22. 21; 26. 16-18. Ro. 1. 5; 11. 13; 15. 16, 19. 1 Ti. 2. 7.

v ver. 8; ch. 2. 9, 10; 3. 10-12; 4. 16, 17.

x Ep. 3. 1; 13. 4; 16. 20. Col. 1. 24. Ac. 20. 24; 21. 13; 41. Ro. 1. 10; 5. 3-5. 2 Co. 1. 3-10. Ac. 27. 23, 25. Ps. 91. 2.

y Or, trusted.
z 1 Pe. 4. 19. ch. 4. 8. He. 7. 25. 1 Pe. 1. 5. Jn. 10. 28, 29.

a His body and spirit.—C.

b Pr. 23. 23. Phi. 1. 27. Ro. 6. 17. 1 Ti. 1. 10, 14. 6. 3, 14, 20. ch. 2. 23; 14. 4; 3. 1. 1 Jn. 2. 1. 8 Jn. 2. 24; 27. 2. Jn. 1. 6, 9, 10. Re. 2. 11, 25. Jude 3.

c 1 Ti. 6. 20; 4. 14. ch. 2. 1, 15; 3. 14, with Ro. 8. 11. Jn. 14. 17, 26. 1 Co. 3. 16, 17; 6. 19, 21.

d ch. 4. 10, 16. Ac. 19. 10. Phi. 2. 21.

e All the Asiatic Christians dwelling at Rome, being moved by shame or fear. See ver. 16; ch. 4. 16.—C.

f Mat. 10. 41, 42; 25. 35-40. 1 Ki. 17. 13, 24. 2 Ki. 19. ch. 4. 19.

g ver. 8. Ac. 28. 20. Ep. 6. 20; 3. 13; 4. 1.

h Ac. 28. 16. Mat. 25. 35, 36, 40.

i Mat. 5. 7. Ac. 3. 19. Ro. 15. 25; 2 Th. 1. 10. ch. 4. 8. He. 6. 10.

11 Whereunto<sup>u</sup> I am appointed a preacher, and an apostle, and a teacher of the Gentiles.

12 For the which cause I also <sup>v</sup>suffer these things: nevertheless <sup>w</sup>I am not ashamed: for I know whom I have believed,<sup>4</sup> and I am persuaded that <sup>y</sup>he is able to keep that which I have committed<sup>5</sup> unto him against that day.

13 Hold<sup>z</sup> fast the form of sound words, which thou hast heard of me, in faith and love which is in Christ Jesus.

14 That<sup>a</sup> good thing which was committed unto thee, keep by the Holy Ghost which dwelleth in us.

15 This thou knowest, <sup>b</sup>that all they which are in Asia<sup>6</sup> be turned away from me; of whom are Phygellus and Hermogenes.

16 The<sup>c</sup> Lord give mercy unto the house of Onesiphorus; for he oft refreshed me, and <sup>d</sup>was not ashamed of my chain.

17 But when he was <sup>e</sup>in Rome, he sought me out very diligently, and found me.

18 The Lord grant unto him <sup>f</sup>that he may find mercy of the Lord in that day: and in how many things he ministered unto me at Ephesus, thou knowest very well.

CHAPTER I. Ver. 1. I Paul,—called and qualified to be an apostle of Jesus Christ, by the free and gracious appointment of God the Father, to bear witness to, and preach the once crucified, but now risen and exalted Saviour, among Jews, and especially Gentiles; according to the promise of eternal life, which was given in him before the foundation of the world, and in due time made to Abraham, to be fulfilled in his divine seed, by whom that life is secured and dispensed, and in whom it is deposited; and which is obtained through faith in him,—2. To Timothy, my dear son in the faith, of whose conversion to Christ, and appointment to the ministry, God made me the honoured instrument,—wish the most abundant and manifold manifestations and effects of God's full favour and infinite compassion; and all peace and prosperity, temporal, spiritual, and eternal, from God the Father, as the first Mover in the work of our salvation, and from Jesus Christ, our common Lord and Saviour, as the mediatorial Redeemer and Bestower thereof. 3. I heartily thank and praise that only true God, whom, after the example of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and other pious ancestors, I now religiously worship and adore, with a heart and conscience purified by faith in the blood of his Son, that, in my daily prayers, morning, evening, or at noon, I am particularly led out to recommend you to his grace and care. 4, 5. Being exceedingly desirous to see you once more before my approaching death, that I may leave with you my dying charges and paternal instructions;—and my desire is much inflamed by my deep and lively remembrance of that affectionate and filial grief which you manifested at our last parting, and by the manifold evidence you have given of that sincere and unfeigned principle of faith which dwells in your heart, as it did in the heart of your worthy mother and grandmother.—6. Therefore, in my great affection for you, and in consideration of God's distinguished favour in so remarkably fitting you for ministerial service, I again earnestly beseech you, by diligent reading, meditation, and prayer, to cherish, improve, and stir up to action those spiritual gifts which were so plentifully and freely bestowed upon you in your ordination to the sacred office of an evangelist. 7. And let no opposition of adversaries discourage you from or in the exercise of it: for God has not formed in us a cowardly temper of fear or timidity, but a spirit of holy fortitude and undaunted courage to encounter all difficulties and dangers,—and of fervent love to Christ, his cause, people, and the souls of men,—and of a sober and judicious government of ourselves, in steadfastly adhering to, and patiently suffering for, the gospel of Christ.

8. Never then be discouraged in or ashamed of bearing a bold and open testimony to our Lord Jesus, and to his gospel, in which he attests his own character and work by the declarations and influences of his Spirit,—or of owning, vindicating, and visiting me his imprisoned apostle; but let your whole soul be animated to sympathize with me and others in our persecutions, and cheerfully to endure the like yourself for the sake of the gospel, in an humble dependence upon the supporting, encouraging, and strengthening assistance of that God of infinite mercy and grace; 9. Who, to express his love and fit us for every good word and work, has provided for us an almighty Saviour, and a full, infinite, and everlasting salvation in him,—and has by the gospel, and the influences of his Spirit, tenderly called us to holiness and happiness,—not as influenced by any natural goodness in us, but because of our saving faith in his ever blessed Son our Saviour, in whom his love was fixed upon all sinful men before the world was created: 10. Which gracious purpose lay, from eternity, as a secret in the mind of God, and was long concealed under dark types and predictions, but is now discovered, with illustrious brightness, by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ to secure and fix our redemption;—who by dying for our sins in our nature and stead, and rising again as our conquering Head, has taken away the sting of death, broken its power, and turned it into a blessing to them that believe, and delivered them from eternal death;—and who, by the preaching of the gospel, has made a certain and plain revelation of a blessed, excellent, spiritual, and eternal state of happiness and glory for both soul and body in the heavenly world, and of the proper means of our arriving at it through him.—11. For the ministration of which glorious gospel I am immediately furnished and commissioned by Jesus Christ, as an authentic publisher and inspired messenger, to declare unto men, especially the Gentiles, the glad tidings of salvation therein contained, that they may hear and believe to the saving of their souls: 12. And it is for my faithfulness and zeal in discharging that office that I now actually suffer all the disgrace and severities of my present imprisonment, and am daily expecting martyrdom; but, in consideration of the glorious excellency of the cause, instead of being ashamed of Christ, or of his or my sufferings, I glory in them, and have the most joyful expectation of a happy issue of them in the future state:—for, in the light of God's word, and upon long trial and experience, I well know what a gracious, all-sufficient, faithful, and divine Saviour he is whom I have received and relied on by faith,—and on the most certain and infallible grounds am persuaded that he has a firm purpose, full power, authority, and will, to secure my soul, and all its eternal concerns, with which I have intrusted him, against the day of the last judgment, in which the everlasting misery or happiness of every man will be publicly, solemnly, and unalterably decided. 13. Whatever trials therefore you meet with, or may expect in the cause of Christ, see that, encouraged by my example of faith, patience, and hope, you keep in memory, cleave to, and resolutely profess and publish, the platform of the uncorrupted, wholesome, nourishing, and healing doctrines of the gospel, so productive of faith and love, which I have taught you by word or writing—as things which you, through Christ's grace, heartily believe and love,—and in order that faith in and love to him may be produced among your hearers. 14. And those useful and edifying gifts and doctrines, and that ministerial office which have been committed to you in your ordination, see that you faithfully maintain and improve, by the assistance of the Holy Ghost, who, in his person and influences, dwells in us, and other faithful ministers and believers, to enable us to fulfil the duties of our station in the face of all opposition and danger.—15. In these things you ought to be the more faithful and diligent, as you cannot but know, to your grief, that the generality of the Asian professors of Christianity, at least those here at Rome, have shamefully deserted me in my present sufferings, as being afraid or ashamed to stand by me in them. 16-18. But may the God of all grace multiply his merciful favours, temporal, spiritual, and eternal, upon the family of Onesiphorus, as a return of his distinguished kindness to me; for, notwithstanding the cowardice of pretended friends, and the fury of open enemies, with a truly Christian courage and compassion he often relieved, comforted, and refreshed me in my various distresses, by his kind visits and necessary supplies.—Yea, instead of being ashamed of me, or my ignominious imprisonment and reproach, from love to Christ and his cause, and to me, when he came to Rome, he took great pains to inquire after and obtain access to me.—May that Lord Jesus, for whose sake he showed me this kindness, according to the riches of his grace, reward him, not only in this world, but especially in that which is to come, mercifully owning him in the last judgment before his Father and an assembled world, and publicly adjudging him to eternal life.—And you know that at Ephesus, in many instances and forms, he supplied and comforted me under my trouble.

Ver. 1. By the will of God. As it was an eternal purpose in Christ, Ep. 1. 4-11, and as it was revealed in time by his Spirit Ac. 13. 2. C.

CHAPTER II.

1 He is exhorted again to constancy and perseverance, and to do the duty of a faithful servant of the Lord in dividing the word aright, and staying profane and vain babblings. 17 Of Hymeneus and Philetus. 19 The foundation of the Lord is sure. 22 He is taught whereof to beware, and what to follow after, and in what sort the servant of the Lord ought to behave himself.

THOU therefore, <sup>a</sup>my son, <sup>b</sup>be strong in the grace<sup>1</sup> that is in Christ Jesus.

Ver. 3. From my forefathers. 'After the custom of my ancestors.' See Ac. 24. 14. This reference is intended as an answer to the Jews who accused him of forsaking the law of Moses. C.

Ver. 4. Tears of a believer's sympathy with Christ crucified—of a penitent's sorrow at the recollection of his sins—or of a son's distress at the last parting from his more than father. C.

Ver. 6. Stir up. Either as the fire on the altar, or the lamps on the golden candlestick. This ministerial stirring up is to be effected by reading, prayer, meditation, godly converse, and diligence in every duty.—The gift of God. Whether special and miraculous, or common as well as official, does not appear; wherefore it may justly be concluded that every form of gift so conveyed is included. See ver. 14. C.

Ver. 9. Not according to our works. The works of unrenewed men being selfish, are therefore sinful, and consequently cannot be the moving cause of their salvation. That cause is found only in the universal love and abounding grace of a wise and merciful God. C.

REFLECTIONS.—It is delightful for ministers to have a clear call from Christ to their work, remarkable success in it, and a habitual practice answerable to it. It is a singular mercy to have religious parents; and great is the blessing when God's grace is continued from age to age in a family. Happy they who receive the gospel with unfeigned faith and love, and serve God with pure hearts, after the example of pious progenitors, and diligently apply themselves to propagate it to others. For O the transcendent excellency of the gospel! It promises eternal life through Christ; it lays open the gracious mind of God; it is the mean of our blessed hope by his power and grace; it manifests death conquered, and immortal blessedness secured for men in Christ. Who would not delight to be an authorized teacher of it! Who would not, without fear or shame, cheerfully undergo the severest persecution for the sake of it and its blessings! Who would not, on the footing of it, commit his eternal salvation to the care of God!—A deep concern to discharge their office and improve their gifts; a holy fortitude, love, sobriety, wisdom, and sound judgment; great regard of, love to, sympathy with, and earnest prayers for their fellow-labourers, should signalize every minister of Christ. And infinite is the mercy, that, when some shamefully desert the cause of Christ and his persecuted servants, others are, by his grace, emboldened to own and regard them; nor shall they, in the last judgment, lose their gracious reward.

CHAPTER II. Ver. 1. Considering therefore the importance of your work, and the danger of mistakes in it or apostasy from it, I beseech you, my dear son in the faith, fellowship, and ministry of the gospel, not to be self-confident, nor to trust in any grace that you have already received; but always to depend on the inexhaustible fund of grace which is treasured up in Christ your Head, and in the full favour of God, residing, manifesting, and exhibiting itself in him, that out of his fulness you may continually receive grace for grace. 2. And, setting out in this strength for every duty, and for propagating the true doctrines of the gospel, which are so abundantly attested by the law and the prophets, and which, in a most public manner, I committed to your trust at your ordination,—take heed that you transmit them pure and uncorrupted to such other ministers as manifest themselves faithful believers, who have the glory of Christ and the welfare of souls at heart, and are furnished with knowledge and utterance, gifts and graces, to dispose and qualify them for explaining, proving, defending, and applying the whole counsel of God to their hearers. 3. And, as your office and work are so honourable, let no difficulties nor dangers discourage you; but, considering your sufferings as lying in the way to victory and triumph, act always with holy resolution, vigour, and courage, like a good soldier, that voluntarily fights in the cause and under the banner of Jesus Christ, who is able and willing to support you under and carry you through all your toils and troubles, and to crown them with everlasting honours. 4. And, to carry on the allusion, you must give yourself wholly to your ministerial work; must not follow any civil calling, unprofitable reading, or unnecessary diversion, to entangle your thoughts or swallow up your time; but your whole time, thoughts, words, and actions must be occupied in the spiritual service of Christ your gracious Lord, that you may acquit yourself agreeably to his will, who has appointed, called, and persuaded you to fight the good fight of faith, till you lay hold on eternal life. 5. And, in allusion to the laws of combatants in the Grecian games, you, who have entered into the service of Christ, must exert yourself with the utmost labour and diligence, according to the prescriptions of his Word, for overcoming all the opposition of sin, Satan, and the world, as ever you expect that Christ should crown you with a glorious reward. 6. Yea, again, to allude to labourers in a field or vineyard, you must first be laborious in preaching the gospel for the glory of Christ and good of souls, and wait with patience for the coming of the Lord, when you shall abundantly share the fruits of your work. 7. Consider these things seriously, that you may look on yourself as a soldier, combatant, and husbandman in the work of the Lord, and may expect labours and hardships in attending your service, but comfortably hope for a blessed and gracious reward at the end of it. And may the Lord Jesus enable you thoroughly to understand and practise these instructions, and every other thing which concerns you as a Christian or minister of Christ. 8. The grand article which I enjoin you constantly to bear in mind, for your own support and encouragement under your trials and sufferings, and to preach to others for their conversion and establishment in the faith and hope of the gospel, is that Jesus, the anointed Saviour, who, according to the flesh, proceeded from the loins of David the renowned king of Israel, having suffered unto death as a sacrifice for sin, was raised from the dead for our justification, according to those glad tidings of salvation which I have laboured to preach chiefly among Gentile sinners: 9. For the preaching of which I am at present persecuted and restrained as an evildoer, not fit to live; but thanks be to God, that though I am restrained from preaching the gospel in my wonted manner, yet it is still published far and wide with remarkable success by others, and even confirmed by my patient and joyful sufferings for its sake. 10. And, in view of that which God hath and will do by the ministrations of it, I cheerfully submit to all the distresses which are or can be laid upon me, from a principle of love and zeal for the spiritual and eternal welfare of those whom God has from love called to salvation, through belief of the truth under the power of the Spirit,—that they, encouraged by my example, may be induced to believe, cordially embrace, and boldly profess the truth and excellence of the gospel, notwithstanding the violence and persecution of the times; and may, in this way of God's provision, arrive at the full possession of that eternal blessedness and glory which is secured by and reserved in Christ, and to be enjoyed in immediate fellowship with him. 11. Nor is this doctrine of Christ's death and resurrection, and the future glory of his people, more important than true and comfortable; for if, in conformity to him in his death, and by virtue derived from him, we, in our state of vital union with him, be dead to sin and to this world, and willing to lay down our lives for his sake, we also, in conformity to him, in and by the power of his resurrection, shall certainly be quickened, and raised up to a glorious and eternal life with him in the heavenly state. 12. If we patiently endure reproach and trouble for his sake, as he did for ours, we shall also be exalted to sit with him on his throne, as kings and priests unto God; but if, for fear of losing our worldly honours, ease, wealth, liberty, or life, we, as ashamed of him, renounce our profession of his truth, or give up our Christian practice, he also will be ashamed of us, and publicly profess, before an assembled world of angels and men, that he never knew of nor accounted us his children or servants. 13. And whether we believe these comfortable truths on the one hand, or awful denunciations on the other, he, who is the God that cannot lie, the faithful and true Witness, will certainly

2 And 'the things that thou hast heard of me among<sup>2</sup> many witnesses,<sup>3</sup> the same 'commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also.

3 Thou therefore 'endure hardness, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ.

4 No<sup>9</sup> man that warreth entangleth himself perform his gracious promises to all true believers, and execute his just threatenings on apostates. For it is not consistent with the perfections of his nature or will to act contrary to his settled declarations of mercy or judgment.—14. Of these points, so closely connected with the eternal salvation of souls, seriously and solemnly, on the authority and as in the presence of Christ, put them in mind, who are in or may be admitted to the ministerial office; that they may attend to what is really substantial, and not to trifling debates, which tend only to puzzle men's minds, and pervert them from the truth of the gospel. 15. And let it be your constant care to yield and manifest yourself as a faithful and approved servant of God, who has no occasion to be ashamed on account of neglect, unskillfulness, unfaithfulness, or imprudence; but who, with care and judgment, separates between truth and error, things important and trifling; and applies the Word of God to men according to their circumstances; and, by ministration and example, marks out before them the right way of truth, holiness, and happiness. 16. But always avoid and oppose all irreverent, defiling, and noisy, but daring and empty discourses, which degrade the nature or perfections of God, or the purity of the gospel;—for these will gradually render men more and more erroneous and profane; 17. And will, by degrees, infect and, as it were, incurably eat out the whole system of truth, and vitals of religion in the church; as too plainly appears in the case of Hymeneus and Philetus. 18. Who, by such vain babblings, have been carried away from the truths of revelation into the most destructive errors, supposing that whatever Christ, or any of the inspired writers, have spoken of the resurrection of the dead, is to be taken mystically, with respect to some events already past, and not to any resurrection of the bodies of men at the last day; and by their bold and subtle reasonings they have seduced some from the truth which they once professed. 19. But notwithstanding all this, the doctrine of the general resurrection is certainly a fundamental truth of God, sealed by his miraculous approbation of the preachers of it. And notwithstanding such melancholy instances of apostasy, the blessed love and gracious promises of God—and Jesus Christ, as the sure foundation of eternal salvation, and the state and structure of grace built upon him—shall remain firm and unchangeable; plainly manifesting, that whatever becomes of others, the Lord will claim, and for ever keep, through faith unto salvation, those who cling to Christ and by constant watchfulness keep vitally united to him by faith; and that, as holiness and happiness are inseparably connected in the plan, and every step of the execution of it, all such as profess to trust in Christ for eternal happiness must labour in heart and life to keep at the farthest distance from sin. 20. But as in the houses of great men there are vessels of different materials, excellency, and use; so in the visible church there are ministers and professors, some excellent, honourable, and approved of God, and others who are mean, contemptible, dishonourable to and disapproved by him. 21. If any one, who claims a share in the blessings, privileges, and services of the great Lord of the church, keep himself from corrupt teachers, errors, and practices, he will appear formed for the noblest purposes, and purified, consecrated, and qualified by the Holy Ghost for whatever use he may be called to. 22. And if you, Timothy, would approve yourself to God, and to your own conscience, in the discharge of your work, labour diligently, by his grace, to flee from all youthful ambition, self-conceit, rashness, or sensuality, and in your preaching and practice pursue after what relates to righteousness before God and men, faith in and fidelity to Christ, and to God through him, and to a charitable and peaceable temper and carriage towards all those worshippers of him whose hearts are sincere and consciences purified by his blood. 23. But shun, as an infectious plague, all impertinent and fruitless inquiries and debates, knowing for certain that they tend only to beget angry contentions, to the disturbance of the church, and the hindrance of with the affairs of this life; that he may please him who hath chosen him to be a soldier.

5 And if a man also strive for masteries, yet is he not crowned, except he strive lawfully.

6 The<sup>h</sup> husbandman that laboureth must be first partaker<sup>4</sup> of the fruits.<sup>5</sup>

7 Consider<sup>i</sup> what I say; and <sup>j</sup>the Lord give thee understanding in all things.

8 Remember that Jesus Christ, <sup>k</sup>of the seed of David, <sup>l</sup>was raised from the dead according to <sup>m</sup>my gospel:

9 Wherein<sup>o</sup> I suffer trouble, as an evil-doer, even unto bonds; but <sup>p</sup>the word of God is not bound.

10 Therefore<sup>q</sup> I endure all things for the elect's sakes, that they may also obtain the salvation which is in Christ Jesus with eternal glory.

11 It is a faithful saying: For <sup>r</sup>if we be dead with him,<sup>6</sup> we shall also live with him:

12 If we suffer, we shall also reign with him: if<sup>t</sup> we deny him, he also will deny us:

13 If<sup>u</sup> we believe not,<sup>7</sup> yet he abideth faithful: he cannot deny himself.

14 Of<sup>v</sup> these things put them in remembrance, charging them before the Lord that they strive<sup>x</sup> not about words to no profit, but to the subverting of the hearers.

15 Study<sup>y</sup> to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, <sup>z</sup>rightly dividing the word of truth.

16 But<sup>a</sup> shun profane and vain babblings; for they will increase unto more ungodliness:

17 And their word will eat as doth a canker:<sup>8</sup> of whom is <sup>b</sup>Hymeneus and Philetus;

18 Who<sup>c</sup> concerning the truth have erred, saying that the resurrection is past already; and overthrow the faith of some.

19 Nevertheless <sup>d</sup>the foundation of God standeth <sup>e</sup>sure,<sup>1</sup> having this seal, <sup>f</sup>The Lord knoweth them that are his.<sup>2</sup> And, <sup>g</sup>Let every one that nameth the name of Christ depart from iniquity.<sup>3</sup>

the success of the gospel. 24. It is very unbecoming for any minister of the gospel of peace, or even private Christian, to engage in disputes with a litigious temper of spirit; yea, on the contrary, he ought to be kind and courteous towards all men, conveying the truth into their minds in the most clear and scriptural manner, patiently bearing with their infirmities, and even their prejudices. 25. Endeavouring to win upon the adversaries of truth by softness, calmness, and sweetness of temper, as well as by strength of argument,—in hopes that God, in due time, may convince them of their error, and lead them to embrace and boldly profess the truth as it is in Jesus; 26. And that by these means they may be awakened out of the ensnaring errors and practices by which they had been lulled asleep and intoxicated, and in which Satan had caught and held them fast as captives, to be enslaved, domineered over, and ruined by him, according to his malicious will and pleasure.

Ver. 8. Of the seed of David. Timothy is here specially required to witness for the incarnation of Christ, there being some early heretics, such as the Marcionites and Manichees, who totally denied his human nature.—Was raised from the dead. Here Timothy is required to insist on the resurrection of Christ as the proper evidence of his Godhead power, Ro. 1. 4. C.

Ver. 15. Rightly dividing. Either as a priest divided the

A.M. cir. 4070.
A.D. cir. 66.
4 Or, labouring first, must be partaker.
5 See note * below.
i 1 Ti. 4. 15. De. 32. 29.
He. 3. 1; 12. 3. Lu. 9. 44.
Ac. 16. 14.
j Pr. 2. 6. Col. 1. 9. Ep. 1. 18. 19; 3. 16–19. Jn. 16. 13. 14. 26. 1 Jn. 2. 20, 27.
k 2 Sa. 7. 11. Ps. 132. 11. Is. 11. 1. Je. 23. 5. 6. Eze. 34. 23. 24. Mat. 1. 1–17. 20; 15. 22. Lu. 1. 27. 32; 24. 7. Ro. 1. 3. 4. Re. 5. 5; 22. 16.
l Ac. 2. 24. Ro. 1. 4. 1. Co. 15. 1–8. Mat. xxviii. Mar. xvi. Lu. xxiv. Jn. xx.
m Ro. 2. 16; 1. 16; 15. 19. ch. 1. 10. 11. 1 Ti. 1. 11. 12; 2. 7.
n Ep. 3. 1; 13. 1; 16. 20. Phi. 1. 7. Col. 1. 24; 4. 3. 18. ch. 1. 8. 12. Ac. 24. 5. p Phi. 1. 12. 13. 2 Th. 3. 1.
q Ep. 3. 1. 13. Phi. 2. 17. Col. 1. 24. 2 Co. 1. 4. 6.
r 1 Ti. 1. 15; 3. 1; 4. 9. Pr. 22. 20. Tit. 3. 8. s Ro. 6. 5. 8; 17. 2 Co. 4. 10. Ga. 2. 20. 1 Pe. 4. 1. 2. 13. Phi. 3. 10. Jn. 16. 2. 32. Ac. 14. 22. Mat. 19. 28. 29. 24. 42; 50. 32.
6 If we be dead with him—by union with him in his dying. See Jn. 17. 21. Ep. 1. 23; 5. 30. 32.—C.
7 Mat. 10. 33. Mar. 8. 38. Lu. 9. 26; 12. 9.
8 Ro. 3. 39. 6. Nu. 23. 19. 2 Co. 1. 20. Tit. 1. 2. He. 6. 17.
9 If we believe not. Rather, 'If we be unfaithful.'—C.
10 Ro. 15. 11. 1 Ti. 5. 21; 6. 13. ch. 4. 1. 2 Pe. 1. 12–15.
11 Ac. 15. 24; 20. 30. 1 Ti. 4. 6. 4. Tit. 3. 9–11. 2 Pe. 2. 1.
12 y 2 Pe. 1. 10. Tit. 3. 2. 7. 8. 1 Ti. 4. 12–16. 1 Co. 2. 4. 13. 2 Co. 4. 2. Jn. 16. 12. Ac. 20. 27. Ep. 1. 19. 20. 1 Th. 1. 5; 2. 17. ver. 24. 25.
13 z Mat. 13. 52.
14 a 1 Ti. 1. 4; 4. 7. 6. 4. 5. 20. Tit. 1. 14; 3. 9. ch. 3. 13.
15 b Or, gangrene.
16 c 1 Ti. 6. 21; 1. 6. 1 Co. 15. 12. Col. 3. 1.
17 d Pr. 10. 25. Mat. 24. 24. Ro. 9. 11; 11. 7. 1 Ti. 6. 19. Job 19. 25. 26. 18. 28. 16; 40. 10. 1 Jn. 2. 19; 3. 9.
18 e Or, steady.
19 f The foundation truth of the resurrection standeth sure.—C.
20 g Na. 1. 7. Jn. 10. 14; 27; 13. 18. No. 8. 28–30; 33. 34; 11. 2. Nu. 26. 5.
21 h And whom therefore 'he will bring with him at his coming,' 1 Co. 15. 23.—C.
22 i Ps. 97. 10. 1 Pe. 1. 2. 7. 15. Tit. 2. 10–14; 3. 8. 2 Co. 7. 1. Ep. 5. 3–7. Col. 3. 5. 6. Lu. 1. 74. 75.
23 j From doctrinal iniquity—principles of error; from iniquitous men, and their practical iniquity.—C.
24 k The meaning of this verse will be better understood if the emphasis be laid, as it ought to be, on the word rendered 'that' sacrifice according to the Mosaic ritual—as a ploughman divided the furrow so as best to promote fruitfulness—or as the master of a feast divided the meat, furnishing to every one according to his age and necessities. C.

Ver. 17. The form of the doctrine here condemned is not precisely known. Still it is evident that these erroneous teachers must have asserted, either, (1) That the resurrection was altogether mental, and was 'past' when men believed; or, (2) That it was altogether personal to Christ, and was 'past' when he arose from the dead; or, (3) That it was altogether emblematical, and was 'past' in the act of baptism. One of these, or perhaps all three forms combined, constituted the error which the apostle here so forcibly condemns. C.

Ver. 21. If a man therefore purge himself from these. That is, from 'strifes about words, ver. 14, and 'profane and vain babblings,' ver. 16. C.

Ver. 23. Questions originated by men who, however imbued with worldly wisdom, are 'unlearned' in the 'truth as it is in Jesus.' C.

REFLECTIONS.—Ministers have need always to depend on, and receive constant supplies from, the inexhaustible grace of Jesus Christ. And transcendent is their encouragement to depend on, confess, and honour him. He is raised from the dead; his purpose, his promise, his love, secure his people's salvation, when, in the most endearing manner, they kindly persuade them to depart from iniquity. They who bravely suffer for him in this world, shall for ever gloriously reign with him in the next; and in the last

A.M. cir. 4070.
A.D. cir. 66.
laboureth.' 'The labouring husbandman (as distinguished from the idle and careless who spend no time or toil) ought first (before all others) to partake of the fruits.' (It is his right. He has laboured, and why should he not reap the fruits?) The fruits seem to be those rewards which God bestows, as well here as hereafter, on his faithful ministers.
—P.
4 Ro. 9. 21–23.
j Je. 15. 19. Is. 52. 11. 1 Jn. 3. 3. Ja. 4. 8. 2 Co. 7. 1. ch. 3. 17. Ep. 2. 10.
j Ps. 119. 9. Ec. 11. 9. 10. 1 Pe. 2. 11. k 1 Ti. 6. 11; 4. 12. He. 12. 14. 1 Co. 1. 2. 10. Ro. 14. 17; 15. 5. 6.
l ver. 16. 1 Ti. 1. 4. 6. 6. 4. 5. Tit. 2. 9; 1. 4. m Mat. 12. 19. 1 Ti. 3. 2. 2. 2. 3; 6. 11. Tit. 1. 9; 3. 2. with 1. 13. 2 Co. 13. 10.
o Or, forbearing.
p Ga. 6. 1. 1 Pe. 3. 15.
q Ac. 8. 22. 1 Ti. 2. 4. Tit. 1. 1.
r Is. 49. 25; 42. 6. 7. 1 Co. 15. 34. Col. 1. 13. Ac. 26. 18. 2 Co. 2. 11. 1 Ti. 3. 7. 1 Pe. 5. 8.
s Gr. awake.
t Gr. taken alive.
CHAPTER III.
a 2 Pe. 2. 1; 3. 3. Jude 17. 18. 1 Jn. 2. 18. Da. 7. 8. 20–25; 11. 36–39. 1 Th. 2. 3–12. 1 Ti. 4. 1–4. ch. 4. 3. 4. Re. vi. viii. ix. xi. xiii. xvii.
b Phi. 2. 21. 2 Pe. 3. 2. 12–19. Tit. 1. 11. Jude 11. 16. Ro. 1. 29–31. Re. 13. 5. 6.
c 2 Pe. 2. 10–12. Jude 4. 8. 12. Ro. 1. 31. Re. 13. 2. 5; 7. 11–17.
1 Or, makebates or devils.
d Mat. 10. 21; 24. 9. 10. Phi. 3. 19. Da. 7. 8. 20, 25; 11. 30–39. Re. 9. 8; 13. 5. 7. 17. 5.
e Tit. 1. 16. Mat. 7. 15. with Ac. 3. 13. Tit. 2. 12. 1 Ti. 5. 8.
f Ro. 16. 17. 18. 2 Th. 3. 6. 14. ch. 2. 16. 23. Tit. 3. 10. Mat. 18. 17. 2 Jn. 10. 1.
g 1 Ti. 1. 11. Mat. 23. 14. Mar. 12. 40. Ro. 16. 18. Ep. 4. 14.
2 This verse indicates to Timothy that while a great apostasy, accompanied with severe trials, would take place towards the close of the Christian dispensation, before the coming of the Lord, in his own times the elements of this apostasy were already manifesting themselves. In fact the elements of all the errors that have since sprung up in the Christian church were apparent to the close observer in apostolic times. It has been well remarked that the wily policy of attacking divine truth through female infirmity is as old as the fall.—P.
i ch. 4. 3. 4. Pr. 26. 14. De. 29. 4. Is. 27. 11.

20 But in a great house <sup>h</sup>there are not only vessels of gold and of silver, but also of wood and of earth; and some to honour, and some to dishonour.

21 If<sup>i</sup> a man therefore purge himself from these, he shall be a vessel unto honour, sanctified, and meet for the master's use, and prepared unto every good work.

22 Flee<sup>j</sup> also youthful lusts: but <sup>k</sup>follow righteousness, faith, charity, peace, with them that call on the Lord out of a pure heart.

23 But <sup>l</sup>foolish and unlearned questions avoid, knowing that they do gender strifes.

24 And <sup>m</sup>the servant of the Lord must not strive; but be gentle unto all men, apt to teach, patient,<sup>4</sup>

25 In<sup>o</sup> meekness instructing those that oppose themselves; <sup>p</sup>if God peradventure will give them repentance to the acknowledging of the truth;

26 And<sup>q</sup> that they may recover<sup>5</sup> themselves out of the snare of the devil, who are taken captive<sup>6</sup> by him at his will.

CHAPTER III.

1 He advertiseth him of the times to come, 6 describeth the enemies of the truth, 10 propoundeth unto him his own example, 16 and commendeth the holy scriptures.

THIS know<sup>a</sup> also, that in the last days perilous times shall come.

2 For men shall be <sup>b</sup>lovers of their own-selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy,

3 Without<sup>c</sup> natural affection, truce-breakers, false accusers,<sup>1</sup> incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good,

4 Traitors,<sup>d</sup> heady, high-minded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God;

5 Having<sup>e</sup> a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: <sup>f</sup>from such turn away.

6 For of this sort are they <sup>h</sup>which creep into houses, and lead captive silly women laden with sins, led away with divers lusts,<sup>2</sup> judgment he will proceed according to his promises and threatenings in his word. With great care and openness ought the gospel ministry to be committed to able and faithful persons. And with what careful disentanglement from secular affairs—what readiness to undergo the hardest labours or sufferings—what deep concern for the eternal salvation of believers—what desire to approve themselves to Christ, as faithful, diligent, and prudent—what zealous avoiding of dangerous errors—what exemplariness in practice—what care, by scriptural arguments and Christian tempers, to convince and reclaim the erroneous or unruly—ought they to begin and persevere in their work! Happy is it if by all these they become instruments of recovering souls out of the hand of the devil! Alas! how few, called ministers, have these things written on their heart, and exemplified in their conduct!

7 Ever<sup>i</sup> learning, and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth.

CHAPTER III. Ver. 1. And there is the more need that you and other ministers should act with the greatest faithfulness and caution, as, even in the gospel period, manifold troubles, persecutions, and especially corruptions in doctrines and manners, will gradually work in the church, till they issue in the great apostasy of men, towards the latter part of this dispensation.

8 Now as Jannes and Jambres withstood Moses, so do these also resist the truth: <sup>k</sup>men of corrupt minds, reprobate<sup>3</sup> concerning the faith.

9 But<sup>l</sup> they shall proceed no further: for their folly shall be manifest unto all men, as theirs also was.

10 But thou hast fully known<sup>4</sup> my doctrine, manner of life, purpose, faith, long-suffering, charity, patience, 11 Persecutions,<sup>n</sup> afflictions, which came unto me at Antioch, at Iconium, at Lystra; what

A.M. cir. 4070.
A.D. cir. 66.

<sup>j</sup> Ex. 7. 11, 22; 8. 7, 18.
<sup>k</sup> 1 Ti. 1. 19; 2. 5, 1. Tit.
1. 16. Ro. 1. 28. 2 Co. 13.
5. 6.
<sup>l</sup> Ex. 7. 12; 8. 18; 9. 11.
ch. 2. 10. Ps. 76. 10.

<sup>m</sup> Or, thou hast been a diligent follower of.
Phi. 2. 22. 1 Ti. 4. 6, 12, 6.
11, 12. ch. 2. 22, 24, 25.

<sup>n</sup> Ac. 13. 45, 50; 14. 2.
5, 6, 19, 20. 2 Co. 6. 8-11;
4. 8-12. 1 Co. 4. 9-13. Job
5. 18, 19. Is. 41. 10, 14; 43.
24, 26. 3. 4. Ps. 34. 19. 2 Co.
1. 10.

<sup>o</sup> Mat. 16. 24; 10. 17.
28; 23. 34. Jn. 17. 14; 16. 2.
3. 33. 1 Th. 3. 3, with Ro.
8. 29. Lu. 24. 26. Ac. 14.
22.

A.M. cir. 4070.
A.D. cir. 66.

<sup>p</sup> 2 Pe. 2. 20. ch. 2. 16.
<sup>q</sup> 1 Ti. 4. 1, 2. Th. 2. 11.
<sup>r</sup> Seducers. Dealers in pretended miracles.—C.

<sup>s</sup> ch. 1. 13. 1 Ti. 6. 14.
Jn. 15. 7. ch. 2. 2-4.
<sup>t</sup> Pr. 8. 17; 22. 6. 1 Sa.
2. 18. Ec. 12. 1. 2 Ch. 34.
3. Lu. 1. 15; 2. 40. ch. 1. 5.
1 Ti. 4. 6.

<sup>u</sup> The Jews were accustomed to put their children to the reading of the Holy Scriptures at five years of age.—C.

<sup>v</sup> Jn. 5. 39; 20. 31. Ac.
10. 43; 13. 29, 38, 39. Ro.
10. 17; 15. 4. Ps. 119. 11.
Col. 3. 16. 1 Pe. 1. 10-12.
1 Jn. 5. 11, 12. Re. 19. 10.

persecutions I endured: but out of them all the Lord delivered me.

12 Yea, <sup>o</sup>and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution.

13 But <sup>p</sup>evil men and seducers<sup>5</sup> shall wax worse and worse, deceiving, and being deceived.

14 But <sup>q</sup>continue thou in the things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them;

15 And<sup>r</sup> that from a child<sup>6</sup> thou hast known the holy scriptures, <sup>s</sup>which are able to make

2. For a set of men shall arise, under the Christian name, who shall be of a notoriously selfish spirit, aiming merely at their own secular honour and ease, without any regard to the good of others; insatiable in their desires and pursuits after the riches of this world; vain-glorious boasters of their own endowments, advantages, and merits; defamers of Christ's offices, people, doctrines, and ways; undutiful to parents, contemning their authority over their children; basely ungrateful to God, princes, and other benefactors; 3. Destitute of that natural affection due to relations and neighbours; perfidious violators of the most solemn engagements, promises, and contracts; false and diabolically malicious accusers of others; abandoned to ungovernable lusts and passions; furious and cruel in their tempers and treatment of others; contemnners and haters of persons or things that are good; 4. Betrayers of civil or sacred trusts, or of their neighbours and relations; headstrong, rash, daring, and precipitant in their words and behaviour; puffed up with self-conceit of their own excellencies or prerogatives; entirely addicted to sensual pleasures; 5. Cloaking and disguising their horrible wickedness with fair shows of holiness and zeal for Christ, and many external forms of piety and devotion, while they remain utter strangers and enemies, in both heart and life, to their powerful influences.—Such false pretenders to the Christian name abhor and reject, and hold no spiritual fellowship with them as church-members. 6. For many of them are extremely subtle in their insinuations; with a show of innocence they will, like snakes, wind themselves into families, pry into their secrets, and exercise an absolute tyranny over their estates and consciences, and surprisingly entice and ensnare the hearts and affections of weak women, or other simple and ignorant persons who are under the power of sinful lusts and passions, and are easily misled by everything which soothes and flatters their corrupt imaginations: 7. And so are always running after every new teacher, and imbibing every new doctrine; and hence never attain to any clear, judicious, and saving knowledge of the true gospel of Christ. 8. Now, as the two famous magicians of Egypt set themselves, by wicked reasonings and false miracles, to oppose Moses when he came by God's appointment to deliver the Hebrews from their bondage, so will these wicked or other false teachers set themselves in opposition to the Scriptures and truths of Christ, and to his servants whom he hath sent to preach spiritual deliverance to the captives of sin, Satan, and their lusts—having their minds altogether corrupted with ignorance, error, and vice, and quite alienated from the pure doctrines or grace of faith: 9. Nevertheless, God shall limit and restrain, and in due time stop their success, and manifest to all men the folly and madness of their sinful opinions, and the baseness of their conduct, as he did in the case of the Egyptian magicians. 10, 11. But, to guard you against all such seducers, and their corrupt principles and practices, I recommend to your imitation what you have seen in my behaviour; for having been so long my companion in travels and ministrations, you cannot but thoroughly understand the excellent doctrine, according to godliness, which I taught; and my self-denying, holy, and religious conversation, in a manner answerable to those doctrines; the sincerity and steadiness of my aims and pursuits for promoting the glory of God and the good of souls; my fidelity in preaching the pure gospel of Christ, under the power of that faith which I have in him, and endeavour to promote in others; the forbearance and lenity which I have all along shown toward the weak, ignorant, or unteachable; the love which I have shown to God, to Christ, and the souls of men, and the patience I have exercised, under all the abuse and persecution which I have in different places met with for the sake of the gospel; but under all which, for your and others' encouragement, the Lord graciously supported and at last delivered me. 12. And indeed such is the general corruption of mankind in every age, particularly in this, that whosoever will resolutely and perseveringly live in a truly religious manner, in a holy profession of Christ's name, in his strength, and after his example, and according to the rule of his Word, will be exposed to suffering for his sake; and God has appointed that all his faithful members, like himself shall, through much tribulation, enter into their eternal glory. 13. But hypocritical professors, and particularly seducers, instead of submitting to suffering for righteousness' sake, refuse nothing to avoid it, and are continually going further and further into error, violence, and wickedness, doing all they can to seduce others to follow them, while themselves are miserably deceived by Satan and their own lusts. 14. But whatever others do, see that you, Timothy, steadfastly and immovably continue in the belief, profession, and preaching of the pure, uncorrupted, and important doctrines of the gospel, which you have embraced upon the fullest conviction, having learned them from Jesus Christ, the faithful and true Witness, by the ministrations of me his immediately-commissioned and well-attested servant; 15. And which, by means of your early religious education, you cannot but perceive to be entirely consonant to the writings of the Old Testament, which were indited by the Holy Ghost, and delivered by holy men about holy things; and which contain all the principles of, and directions, obligations, and motives to holiness; and, together with those of the New, are, by the blessing of God, sufficient and effectual to instruct you in every important truth, and render you duly wise in everything necessary to the obtaining of eternal salvation through faith in Christ. 16. All these writings of the Old and New Testaments are of a divine original, God having by his Spirit directed and inspired holy men to deliver them exactly according to truth; and they are of manifold and excellent use for revealing important doctrines concerning himself and ourselves, our duty to him and to one another, and concerning our state by nature and grace, and the whole scheme of salvation through a Redeemer; or for reproving and convincing of and reclaiming from sins and errors; or for directing how to obtain righteousness in Christ, and derive renewing and sanctifying virtue from him, to render us holy in heart and life; 17. That, by this absolutely perfect rule of faith and practice, every Christian, and particularly ministers, may be perfected in knowledge, faith, and holiness, and thoroughly furnished, in their station, to instruct, convince, and comfort others.

Ver. 6. Laden with (the consciousness of) sins—which these self-interested teachers professed their power to forgive. See the whole mystery of the Romish confessional, as developed in Dens' Theology. C.

REFLECTIONS.—There is great need to be well furnished with the knowledge and grace of the gospel in these perilous times. And it is dreadful to think how many selfish, worldly-minded, vainglorious, proud, ungrateful, impious, profligate professors of Christianity are in the world. With wonderful art and assiduity seducers propagate their delusions and entice followers, especially the ignorant and unsettled. But great is the mercy that God has them under his control, and can confute, restrain, or expose their evil designs. And it is very necessary for ministers to avoid connection with them. It is a great honour and happiness for the church when Christ's ministers are proper patterns of soundness in doctrine; of steadfast regard to the honour of Christ and welfare of souls; of faith and faithfulness; and of lenity, love, and patience under troubles; and are sharers in happy and wonderful de-liverances. It is a mercy to have early instruction in the oracles of God, and to persevere in adherence to the truths therein contained. For complete is the authority, fulness, and fitness of the Scripture for instructing, directing, exciting, and encouraging men in every necessary sentiment, word, or work. May they make me wiser than my teachers, and be my heritage for ever!

CHAPTER IV. Ver. 1. Since therefore you are so much surrounded by enemies, and so richly furnished with the infinitely excellent and useful oracles of God, and the gifts and graces of his Spirit, I solemnly charge you, as in the immediate presence of the all-seeing God and heart-searching Saviour, and as you will answer it to him when he shall appear in all the glories of his divine and mediatorial dignity to judge the world, 2. Preach the inspired truths of God with the utmost earnestness, diligence, and perseverance on the Lord's-day, or other occasions: in times of peace and of persecution, in public or in private, as often as you have opportunity; and in a free, open, and faithful declaration of the whole counsel of God—with all meekness, patience, constancy, and perseverance—apply them, as occasion offers, for convincing, reproving, and reclaiming the erroneous and immoral, and for counselling, exhorting, and encouraging believers to go on in the way of righteousness. 3. For as already some Jews, so hereafter many pretended Christians, being, through their own pride, lusts, passions, and prejudices, provoked at and enraged against the wholesome, pure, unmixt doctrines of the gospel, will not endure to hear them, but will seek out and multiply to themselves such false teachers as will tickle their ears with new and unscriptural notions agreeable to their vitiated taste; 4. And through their love of novelties, to gratify their curiosity and corrupt inclinations, will turn a deaf ear to the truths of the gospel, and eagerly listen to, and favourably embrace, every vain, empty, or senseless story, to amuse themselves and keep their consciences easy. 5. Be therefore on your guard against such persons and their errors, and take every opportunity to confute them, and establish the truth in opposition to them; watch against all temptation, and over your own spirit and conduct, and for the souls committed to your care, in every circumstance. Bear with meekness and patience whatever tribulations your adversaries bring upon you; and notwithstanding all their attempts to dishearten and silence you, go on in the name and strength of the Lord, thoroughly performing all the parts of your ministry with fidelity, care, and diligence, to the edification of believers and the conviction of gainsayers. 6. For, as for me, I am on the point of pouring out my blood, as a martyr for Christ, and in confirmation of the doctrines which I have preached; and the time when my soul shall leave my body, and depart from earth to heaven, there to be for ever with the Lord, and my body to be dissolved into its original dust, is now at hand. 7. Yet in this situation I have the comfortable testimony of the Spirit of God and of my own conscience that I have been enabled to act, like a good soldier of Jesus Christ, with courage, fidelity, and success, in fighting under his banner and direction against all his and his church's enemies. I have held on my way, through all the trials, labours, and difficulties to which I have been called; and am just finishing my course of life, obedience, suffering, and services; and I have all along lived by faith on the pure doctrines of the gospel, and been faithful in professing, publishing, and defending them, and acting agreeably to them. 8. And the rich experience I have had of the grace of God assisting, animating, and succeeding me in my work, encourages my joyful hope and confidence that I shall in a little time receive that glorious reward which is thence unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus.

16 All<sup>t</sup> scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction,<sup>7</sup> for instruction in righteousness;

17 That<sup>u</sup> the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished<sup>s</sup> unto all good works.

CHAPTER IV.

1 He exhorteth him to do his duty with all care and diligence, 6 certifieth him of the nearness of his death, 9 willeth him to come speedily unto him, and to bring Marcus with him, and certain other things which he wrote for, 14 warneth him to beware of Alexander the smith, 16 informeth him what had befallen him at his first answering, 19 and soon after he concludeth.

I CHARGE<sup>a</sup> thee therefore before God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, <sup>b</sup>who shall judge the quick and the dead at his appearing and his kingdom;<sup>1</sup>

2 Preach<sup>c</sup> the word; be instant in season, out of <sup>2</sup>season; <sup>d</sup>reprove,<sup>3</sup> rebuke,<sup>4</sup> exhort,<sup>5</sup> with all long-suffering and doctrine.

3 For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine;<sup>6</sup> but after their own lusts<sup>7</sup> shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears;

4 And<sup>e</sup> they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables.

5 But<sup>9</sup> watch thou in all things, <sup>h</sup>endure afflictions, <sup>i</sup>do the work of an evangelist, <sup>8</sup>make full proof of<sup>9</sup> thy ministry.

6 For I am now <sup>j</sup>ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand.<sup>1</sup>

7 I<sup>k</sup> have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith:

8 Henceforth there is laid up for me <sup>l</sup>a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, <sup>m</sup>the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day: and not to me only, <sup>n</sup>but unto all them also that love his appearing.

9 Do<sup>p</sup> thy diligence to come shortly unto me:

10 For <sup>q</sup>Demas <sup>r</sup>hath forsaken me, having laid up in Christ and reserved in heaven—that perfection of holiness and happiness secured by his sacrifice, and which he, as the faithful and righteous Judge of the world, shall publicly and freely bestow upon me in the last judgment; and not only on me, but on all those who have by faith, and with pleasure and suitable preparation, waited, looked, longed, and hoped for his great and glorious appearing. 14, 15. Alexander the coppersmith has, by his false accusations and otherwise, proved a most malicious and bitter enemy to me. I therefore leave him, as an utter and irreclaimable apostate, to the righteous anger of God, to be punished according to his deeds in time and eternity. Beware of him, for he has violently set himself against and inflexibly opposed the gospel of salvation, which I preach to the Gentiles as well as Jews. 16, 17. At my last appearance to take my trial before the emperor Nero, none of my Christian friends, who might have been of use to me, had courage enough to own and countenance me, or to appear as witnesses on my behalf, but all deserted me, as his disciples did my Master Christ. I heartily pray the Lord may forgive them their sin in so doing, and render them deeply penitent for it. But, while they deserted me, my almighty and fast Friend, the Lord Jesus, appeared for me, and strengthened me by his Spirit to make such a bold and plain representation of my cause as fully manifested that the gospel, in its matter and success, is of God, and no way hurtful to the interests of civil government, and gave many of the Gentiles who were present an opportunity of hearing it; yea, he marvellously delivered me from the rage and cruelty of the emperor, who, under the influence of his father the devil, sought to destroy me. 18. And, by his Word and my past experience, I have an entire confidence in his power, faithfulness, and grace, that he will always keep me from doing anything unworthy of the Christian or minister, though it be to escape the most cruel persecutions or death, and enable me, with faith and patience, to persevere in his way till he transport me to his glorious kingdom above. 22. May the Lord Jesus dwell in and fill all the powers of your soul with his presence, graces, and influences—to guide, support, strengthen, comfort, and sanctify you.

Ver. 13. The cloak. As some think, a cloak-bag, or portmanteau. Whatever it was, the mention of it affords a striking evidence of the disinterestedness of the apostle, who now, at the close of a long and laborious ministry, needed to send to such a dis-loved this present world, and is departed unto Thessalonica; Crescens to Galatia, <sup>s</sup>Titus unto Dalmatia.

11 Only <sup>t</sup>Luke is with me. Take Mark, and bring him with thee; for he is profitable to me for the ministry.

12 And <sup>u</sup>Tychicus have I sent to Ephesus.

13 The cloak that I left at Troas with Carpus, when thou comest, bring with thee, and the books, but especially the parchments.<sup>2</sup>

14 Alexander<sup>v</sup> the coppersmith did me much evil: the Lord <sup>w</sup>reward him according to his works:

15 Of<sup>y</sup> whom be thou ware also; for he hath greatly withstood our words.<sup>3</sup>

16 At my first answer <sup>x</sup>no man stood with me, but all men forsook me: <sup>a</sup>I pray God that it may not be laid to their charge.

17 Notwithstanding<sup>b</sup> the Lord stood with me, and strengthened me; <sup>c</sup>that by me the preaching might be fully known, and that all the Gentiles might hear: and <sup>d</sup>I was delivered out of the mouth of the lion.<sup>4</sup>

18 And<sup>e</sup> the Lord shall deliver me from every evil work, and <sup>f</sup>will preserve me unto his heavenly kingdom: <sup>h</sup>to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

19 Salute <sup>i</sup>Prisca and Aquila, and <sup>j</sup>the household of Onesiphorus.

20 Erastus<sup>k</sup> abode at Corinth: but <sup>l</sup>Trophimus have I left at Miletum sick.

21 Do<sup>n</sup> thy diligence to come before winter. <sup>o</sup>Eubulus greeteth thee, and Pudens, and Linus, and Claudia, and all the brethren.

22 The<sup>p</sup> Lord Jesus Christ be with thy spirit. Grace be with you. Amen.

¶ The second epistle unto Timotheus, ordained the first bishop of the church of the Ephesians, was written from Rome, when Paul was brought before Nero the second time.

A.M. cir. 4070.
A.D. cir. 66.

1 2 Pe. 1. 21, 19, 20. 2 Sa. 23. 2. Ro. 15. 4. Tit. 1. 9, 11; 2. 11, 12. Ps. 119. 9, 11.
7 Correction of false opinions and practices.—C.
8 Or, perfected.

CHAP. IV.

a 2 Th. 2. 1. 1 Ti. 5. 21; 6. 13, ch. 2. 14.
b Ac. 10. 42; 17. 31. Jn. 5. 22. Re. 20. 11–13. Mat. 25. 31–40. Ro. 14. 9–12. 2 Co. 5. 10. 2 Th. 1. 7–10. He. 9. 28.
1 His kingdom of glory. His kingdom now being in humiliation, persecution, and patience, Re. 1. 9; 13. 10.—C.

c Lu. 14. 23. Ho. 8. 1. Pr. 25. 11. Ac. 20. 7. 1 Ti. 5. 20. Tit. 2. 15; 1. 9, 11, 13, ch. 2. 24, 25; 3. 10, 16. Col. 1. 28, 29. Ac. 20. 20, 21, 27, 31.
2 See note * below.
d See 1 Ti. 4. 1–3, ch. 3. 1–6. 1 Ki. 22. 8. Is. 30. 10. Am. 7. 12, 13. Mi. 2. 11, ch. 2. 16. 1 Ti. 6. 3–5, 20. Ro. 2. 8.

3 Reprove. Confute false teachers by sound scriptural argument.—C.

4 Rebuke. Cut to pieces and expose every structure of self-deception.—C.

5 Exhort. Comfort those who are troubled by doubts and fears and sorrows.—C.

6 They will rather listen to vain stories and fabulous legends. See ver. 4.—C.

7 See note † in second column.

e 1 Ti. 1. 4, 6, 7; 4. 7; 6. 20. Tit. 1. 10, 14, with 2 Pe. 1. 16.

f 1 Th. 5. 6. 1 Pe. 5. 8. Ac. 20. 28. 1 Ti. 4. 16. He. 13. 17.

g ch. 1. 8; 2. 3, 10; 3. 10–12; Ac. 21. 8. Ep. 4. 11.

h Or, fulfil, Col. 1. 25; 17. Ro. 15. 19. 1 Ti. 4. 12, 15.

i Rather, 'fully accomplish'—leave no part undone.—C.

j Phil. 1. 23; 2. 17. 2 Pe. 1. 14. 1 Sa. 20. 3.

k 1 Ti. 6. 12. 1 Co. 9. 24, 25. Ac. 20. 24. Phil. 3. 14. He. 12. 1, 2. Pr. 23. 23. Re. 2. 10, 11; 3. 10. Jn. 17. 4; 19. 30.

l 1 Co. 9. 25. Ja. 1. 12. 1 Pe. 5. 4. Re. 2. 10. He. 6. 10.

m 2 Th. 1. 6, 7. Ge. 18. 25.

n Ro. 8. 23. 1 Co. 2. 9. 2 Co. 5. 2. Tit. 2. 13. He. 9. 28.

o ch. 1. 4; ver. 21. q Col. 4. 14. Phil. 24. 7 ver. 16; ch. 1. 15. Phil. 2. 21. 1 Ti. 6. 10. 1 Jn. 2. 15.

* In season, out of season. Rather, 'in good times, or in evil times,' so the words

A.M. cir. 4070.
A.D. cir. 66.

literally signify; and how can the preaching of the gospel of Christ ever be 'out of season?'—C.

s Ga. 2. 1, 3, 2 Co. 2. 13. Tit. 1. 4.

t Ac. 16. 10. Col. 4. 14. Phil. 24. Lu. 1. 3. Ac. 1. 1. 12. 12, 25; 13. 5, 13; 15. 37–39. Col. 4. 10. 1 Pe. 5. 13.

u Ac. 20. 4. Ep. 6. 21. Col. 4. 7. Tit. 3. 12.

2 Perhaps original copies of his epistles.

v 1 Ti. 1. 20. Ac. 19. 33, 34.

x 2 Sa. 3. 39. Ps. 28. 4. Re. 18. 6. Is. 3. 11.

y Mat. 10. 16, 17; 7. 15. Phi. 3. 2.

z Or, our preachings.

2 ver. 10; ch. 1. 15. Mat. 26. 56. Je. 9. 3. Is. 14. 2, 4.

a Lu. 23. 34. Ac. 7. 60. b Ps. 109. 31. Is. 41. 10, 14, 15; 43. 2; 46. 4. Mat. 10. 19. Ac. 23. 11; 27. 23, 24, ch. 1. 7.

c Phil. 1. 12–14. Col. 1. 25, 26. Ro. 16. 25, 26.

d Ps. 22. 21. Is. 49. 25, 26.

4 Exposure to lions and other wild beasts in the amphitheatre was a common sentence against the early Christians—so that it is probable the apostle speaks literally of his merciful deliverance.—C.

e Ps. 121. 7. 1 Sa. 17. 37. 2 Co. 1. 10. 2 Pe. 2. 9. 1 Co. 10. 13.

f 1 Pe. 1. 5–7. Jude 1. Ps. xci. 17, 24.

g Ro. 9. 5; 16. 27. 1 Ti. 6. 16, 17.

h Ac. 18. 2, 26. Ro. 16. 3.

i ch. 1. 16–18. k Ac. 19. 22. Ro. 16. 23.

l Ac. 20. 4; 21. 29. m ch. 1. 4; ver. 9. Ro. 16. 21–23.

o 1 Co. 16. 20. 2 Co. 13. 13. Phil. 4. 21, 22. Col. 4. 14.

p Ga. 6. 18. Phil. 25. See 1 Ti. 6. 21.

+ Sinful practices always generate some erroneous opinions for their palliation or defence.

Nevertheless, 'God is not mocked'—what a man soweth, that shall he also reap. He that soweth to his flesh, shall of the flesh reap corruption.—C.

† More exactly—'I am already being offered.' The charges were already preferred and the processes begun against the apostle, which, he knew, must terminate in his death.

There was now no escape. His close imprisonment prevented him from helping his brethren as he had been accustomed to do.—P.

tance for an article apparently of so little value. Of the other articles—'books and parchments'—nothing certain can be discovered; and in all such cases conjecture is of little value. C.

Ver. 14. Surely this prayer of the apostle needs no such apologies as commentators have laboured to make for it. For if God will 'reward every man according to his works,' surely it cannot be wrong to pray that he would do soon what he has promised to do finally! If such a petition were an ebullition of passion, it were sin. As an appeal from man to a wise, merciful, and righteous God, it is piety. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Ministers, as well as others, have great need to be excited to their work by serious reflections on the last, the general judgment.—How extensive is their office! There is need of much activity, patience, perseverance, boldness, and impartiality—and happy and honoured are they who are faithful—in it. Christ stands by, assists, and delivers them in their warfare, and at last graciously rewards them and all his friends with inexpressible blessedness. And it is a mercy to have him with us when some basely desert or oppose us, or are necessarily at a distance from us. To what dreadful lengths in wickedness apostates from Christ will go! and to what certain ruin they expose themselves! But not the best can stand fast unless the Lord Jesus be with their spirit.

CONCLUDING REMARKS ON THE SECOND EPISTLE TO TIMOTHY.

This, though not the last in order of position, is probably the last the apostle ever wrote. About this time Nero, an emperor proverbially cruel, had set fire to Rome, and, in order to divert the public odium from himself, charged the crime against the Christians, and had them condemned to death in great numbers; some were crucified; others being covered with combustibles and burned as night-lights in his gardens; others covered with skins of wild beasts and exposed to dogs; others cast to the lions (Tacitus, Annales, lib. xv. cap. 44). Under these circumstances, and in prospect of some such death, the apostle wrote. And certainly it thus serves in an especial manner 'to show with what composure a Christian can die.' C.

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO TITUS.

This epistle, as well as the two preceding to Timothy, chiefly contains directions for those in the ministerial office. Titus, to whom it was written, was a Gentile, early converted to Christ, perhaps by Paul's ministry. Being found faithful and diligent in the improvement of his spiritual gifts and evangelical trusts, Paul left him in Crete—now Candia, a large island in the Mediterranean Sea—as an evangelist, to put in order the affairs of that infant church.—In this epistle he directs him to appoint proper officers, who might, by their life and doctrine, confute the judaizing preachers and wicked heathens, ch. i.; and to recommend, by his example and instruction, a truly religious behaviour to Christian professors in every station, answerable to that grace of the gospel which they had heard and experienced, ch. ii. iii.

[Of Titus nothing is certainly known than that he was a Greek, and one of Paul's early converts who frequently attended him in his journeys, ch. 1. 4; Ga. 2. 3; 2 Co. 2. 13; 7. 6, 7, 13, 15; 8. 16, 23; 12. 18; neither is there any certain record of the time when, or the individual by whom, Christianity was first introduced into Crete. But it is probable it was introduced at an early period; for, on the day of Pentecost, there were Cretians present, Ac. 2. 11, who would naturally carry with them the account of what they had seen and heard, and thus, either prepare the way of the gospel, by the excitement of curiosity and inquiry, or actually found the church which Titus was now instructed more perfectly to organize. Nor is there any account of Paul's labours in the island, except the bare fact of his visit, which may be inferred from this epistle, ch. 1. 5, though Luke mentions that he touched at the Fair Havens and Lasca on his voyage to Rome. It may therefore, with considerable probability, be inferred that Paul's ministry in Crete was subsequent to his first imprisonment at Rome, and previous to his second, about A.D. 64. It is evident that Paul must have found the inhabitants of the island considerably advanced in the knowledge of the gospel, or that his own ministry had been crowned with much success. But it appears that, from some cause unknown, he was hurried away, and was necessitated to leave Titus behind to assist in completing the apostolic organization of the infant churches. Titus is represented, in ecclesiastical records founded upon early traditions, to have continued in Crete till the age of 94, and to have died and been buried there. The epistle contains references to De. 7. 6; 14. 2; Is. 29. 13; Eze. 36. 25; Ac. 10. 45; Ro. 3. 20; Ep. 5. 2; 1 Ti. 3. 2; 2 Ti. 1. 9; He. 9. 14; 1 Pe. 2. 9. C.]

After his release from his first imprisonment from Rome Paul made a missionary tour among the various churches both in Europe and Asia. It was towards the close of this tour that he visited, apparently for the first time, the island of Crete. He did not remain long; and he left Titus there to complete the work of ecclesiastical organization which he had commenced. From Crete Paul appears to have travelled through the western part of Asia Minor, and then through northern Greece, on his way to Nicopolis, in Epirus, where he had determined to spend the winter. He wrote this epistle when on his way to Nicopolis, and probably about A.D. 66. P.]

CHAPTER I.

1 For what end Titus was left in Crete. 6 How they that are to be chosen ministers ought to be qualified. 11 The mouths of evil teachers to be stopped: 12 and what manner of men they be.

PAUL,<sup>a</sup> a servant of God, and an apostle of Jesus Christ, according to <sup>b</sup>the faith of God's elect,<sup>1</sup> and the <sup>c</sup>acknowledging of the truth <sup>d</sup>which is after godliness;

2 <sup>e</sup>In<sup>2</sup> hope of eternal life, which God, that cannot<sup>f</sup> lie, promised <sup>h</sup>before the world began;

3 But<sup>i</sup> hath in due times manifested his word through preaching, which is <sup>j</sup>committed unto me, according to the commandment of God<sup>k</sup> our Saviour;

4 To <sup>l</sup>Titus, <sup>m</sup>mine own son after the common faith: Grace, mercy, and peace, <sup>n</sup>from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ our Saviour.

A. M. cir. 4069.
A. D. cir. 65.

CHAP. I.

a Ac. 13. 9; 9. 15; 22. 21; 26. 16-18. Ro. 1. 5, 9. 11. Ja. 1. 1. 2 Pe. 1. 1. 1. b Ac. 13. 48. Jn. 10. 26. Ep. 2. 8. 2 Ti. 1. 5. Col. 2. 12. 1 See note * below. c 2 Ti. 2. 25. d 1 Ti. 3. 16; 6. 3. ch. 2. 11, 12. e Ro. 8. 24; 5. 2. 1 Pe. 1. 3. Ga. 5. 5. Col. 1. 23. 1 Th. 5. 8. He. 6. 18, 19. ch. 3. 7. f Or, For. g Nu. 23. 19. He. 6. 17. 18. 1 Sa. 15. 29. 2 Ti. 2. 13. h Ro. 1. 2; 16. 25. Ep. 1. 4. 9. 3. 9. Col. 1. 26. 2 Ti. 1. 9, 10. 1 Pe. 1. 20. Mat. 25. 34. i Ro. 10. 14, 15; 16. 26. Col. 1. 6, 23, 26. Ep. 3. 5. 8. 1 Co. 1. 21. Mar. 16. 15. j Ac. 20. 24. 1 Co. 9. 16. 2 Co. 2. 12; 4. 13. Ga. 1. 11; 2. 2, 7. 1 Ti. 1. 11, 12; 2. 7. 2 Ti. 1. 10, 11. 1 Th. 2. 4. k 1 Ti. 1. 12. 3. 4. 10. l 2 Co. 2. 13; 8. 6, 16; 12. 18. Ga. 2. 3. m 1 Ti. 1. 1, 2. 1 Co. 4. 15. n See Ro. 1. 7. 2 Co. 13. 11, 14. Phil. 3. 1 Pe. 1. 2. Col. 1. 2. * According to the faith of God's true ones, who are accepted by sanctification of the Spirit and belief of the truth, 2 Th. 2. 13. 1 Pe. 1. 2. C. —More accurately: 'For the faith of God's elect.' His work as an apostle of Christ was by preaching the gospel to lead men to the faith, to confirm and build them up in it.—P. p Ac. 27. 7, 12, 13. q 1 Co. 11. 34. 1 Ti. 1. 3. Ac. 14. 23. 2 Ti. 2. 2. 3 Or, left undone. r 1 Ti. 3. 2-7, 12. 1 Th. 2. 10. 1 Ti. 4. 12; 5. 10-12. 2 Ti. 2. 22. Ge. 18. 19. Jos. 24. 15. s 2 Co. 6. 3-10. 1 Co. 4. 12. Mat. 24. 45. 1 Ti. 3. 2, 3. t Pr. 26. 12, 16. 2 Ti. 2. 24, 25. Le. 10. 9. Ep. 5. 18. Eze. 44. 21. 1 Pe. 5. 2. 1s. 56. 10-12. 1 Ti. 3. 3, 8. u 1 Ti. 3. 2, 11. 1 Co. 6. 12. 2 Ti. 2. 22. v Or, good things. w 2 Th. 2. 15. 2 Ti. 1. 13. Pr. 23. 23. Jude 3. 1 Ti. 1. 10; 6. 3. ch. 2. 1, 2, 7, 8. x Or, in teaching.

A. M. cir. 4069.
A. D. cir. 65.

5 For this cause left I thee in <sup>u</sup>Crete, <sup>v</sup>that thou shouldest set in order the things that are wanting,<sup>3</sup> and ordain elders in every city, as I had appointed thee:

6 If<sup>4</sup> any be blameless, the husband of one wife, having faithful children, not accused of riot, or unruly.

7 For <sup>a</sup>a bishop must be blameless, as the steward of God; <sup>b</sup>not self-willed, not soon angry, not given to wine, no striker, not given to filthy lucre;

8 But <sup>c</sup>a lover of hospitality, a lover of good men,<sup>4</sup> sober, just, holy, temperate;

9 Holding<sup>v</sup> fast the faithful word, as he hath been taught,<sup>5</sup> that he may be able by sound doctrine both to exhort and to convince the gainsayers.

CHAPTER I. Ver. 1. Paul—who, as a Christian and minister, is the devoted servant of the ever-blessed God, and who is graciously dignified with the commission, qualifications, and powers of an extraordinary messenger of Jesus Christ, to preach his gospel of salvation in all its extent to Gentiles as well as Jews—according to the doctrine of faith which is embraced by, and the means of working faith in, all those who accept the Lord Jesus Christ as their Saviour, and by faith walk in him, and according to their knowledge, approbation, and confession of its infallible truth, which is suited, designed, and made real to them for pro-

10 For<sup>x</sup> there are many unruly and vain talkers and deceivers, specially they of the circumcision:

11 Whose<sup>y</sup> mouths must be stopped; <sup>z</sup>who subvert whole houses,<sup>6</sup> teaching things which they ought not, <sup>a</sup>for filthy lucre's sake.

12 One of themselves, even a <sup>b</sup>prophet of their own, said, The Cretians are alway liars, evil beasts, slow bellies.

13 This witness is true. Wherefore <sup>c</sup>rebuke them sharply; that they may be <sup>d</sup>sound in the faith;

14 Not<sup>e</sup> giving heed to Jewish fables, and commandments of men, that turn from the truth.

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

x Ja. 1. 26. Ac. 15. 15, 24; 20. 29. Ro. 16. 17, 18. Ga. 1. 6-8; 3. 1. Ep. 4. 14. 1 Ti. 1. 4, 6, 7; 6. 3-5. 20. Col. 2. 8, 18-22. 2 Ti. 4. 4; 3. 13. 2 Pe. 2. 1-3, 10-19. 1 Jn. 4. 1.

y ver. 9; ch. 3. 10. Re. 2. 2.

z Mat. 23. 14. 2 Ti. 3. 6.

6 See note * below.

a Is. 56. 11. Eze. 13. 10. Mi. 3. 5, 11. Ro. 16. 18. Phi. 3. 19. 1 Ti. 3. 3, 8; 6. 5, 10.

b Ac. 17. 28. Ro. 2. 14.

c 1 Ti. 5. 20. 2 Ti. 4. 2. ch. 2. 15.

d ch. 1. 2. 1 Ti. 1. 10, 19; 4. 6; 6. 3. 2 Ti. 1. 13. Re. 2. 13; 3. 8, 10.

e 1 Ti. 1. 4, 6, 7; 4. 7; 6. 3-5. 20. 2 Ti. 4. 4. Mat. 15. 9. Col. 2. 20-22. Is. 29. 13; 66. 3, 4.

* The connection will be more clearly observed if we translate thus:—<sup>a</sup> Whose mouths must be stopped, inasmuch as they overthrow whole houses. By their persevering efforts to propagate error, they ruin the faith of whole families.—P.

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

g Mat. 15. 11. Lu. 11. 39, 41. Ac. 10. 15. Ro. 14. 14, 20, 23. 1 Co. 6. 12; 10. 23, 25. 1 Ti. 4. 3, 4. Hag. 2. 13.

h Is. 29. 13; 58. 2. Eze. 33. 31. Ho. 11. 12; 6. 4, 7. Ro. 2. 17-24. 2 Ti. 3. 5, 7; 8. Jude 4. Ro. 1. 28-32.

7 Or, void of judgment.

CHAP. II.

a 1 Ti. 1. 10; 6. 3. 2 Ti. 1. 13; 4. 3. ch. 1. 9, 13; ver. 2, 11-14; ch. 3. 8.

b Pr. 16. 31. 1 Jn. 2. 13, 14. Job 17. 9. Pr. 4. 18. Ps. 71. 18; 92. 14. 1 Pe. 2. 5-8. De. 32. 29.

1 Or, vigilant.

15 Unto<sup>1</sup> the pure all things are pure: but unto them that are defiled and unbelieving is nothing pure; but even their mind and conscience is defiled.

16 They<sup>h</sup> profess that they know God; but in works they deny him, being abominable, and disobedient, and unto every good work reprobate.<sup>7</sup>

CHAPTER II.

1 Directions given unto Titus both for his doctrine and life. 9 Of the duty of servants, and in general of all Christians.

BUT speak<sup>a</sup> thou the things which become sound doctrine:

2 That<sup>b</sup> the aged men be sober,<sup>1</sup> grave, temperate, sound in faith, in charity, in patience.

moting practical godliness in heart and life, in all the duties thereof towards God or man: 2. Which truth is believed and professed, and godliness practised, in the exercise of a lively hope of the incorruptible and undefiled inheritance of eternal life, which the infinitely sincere and infallibly faithful JEHOVAH promised to all in Christ, as their blessed head, before the world began, and quickly after the fall published to our first parents in paradise; 3. And which now, in the fulness of time, he has clearly made known by the publication of his gospel, which is revealed and committed to me, as his apostle, to dispense it to Gentiles as well as Jews, according to the express commandment of Jesus Christ our divine Saviour, from sin and wrath:—4. To his dearly beloved Titus, of whose instruction in the principles of the Christian religion, spiritual regeneration, and saving faith, God made him the instrument, —heartily wishes all the abundant manifestations of divine favour, and all peace and prosperity, in time or eternity, from God the Father as the fountain of all good, and from our Lord Jesus Christ as the revealer, source, and bestower of it. 5. You well know that I left you at Crete, when I departed from it, that you might complete whatever remained unfinished with regard to the doctrine, worship, discipline, and manners in the Christian congregation there planted; and particularly that, as an evangelist, you might preside in the election and ordination of teaching and ruling elders or bishops to take the oversight of the professed Christians in every city there, and feed them with knowledge and understanding according to the orders which I left with you: 6. Remember therefore that these overseers ought by all means to be persons of an unspotted moral character, unblemished with polygamy or causeless divorce; careful to bring up their children in the nurture, admonition, and ways of the Lord; and never suffering them to live disgracefully in a luxurious, dissolute, refractory, ungovernable, disobedient manner. 7. For the nature of an evangelical office, the honour of religion, and the good of souls, require that church-rulers, particularly ministers, be under no reproach or scandal in their life and conversation, be not chargeable with neglect, unfaithfulness, or partiality in dispensing the mysteries of God; nor of a headstrong, conceited, obstinate, inflexible temper; nor of a hasty spirit, falling into a passion upon every slight provocation; nor lovers of nor addicted to immoderate drinking of liquor; nor contentious nor violent in their behaviour, ready to strike such as displease them; nor of a niggardly, sordid, covetous spirit, bent to catch and keep all that they can of base worldly gain, by which the consciences of men are so frequently defiled: 8. But persons who take pleasure, on all proper occasions, to exert themselves in acts of benevolence, particularly to religious strangers, travelling preachers, and persecuted Christians—being hearty lovers and encouragers of whatever is good, having a cordial affection for all sincere and pious men; and being modest and humble, grave and prudent, upright and faithful, in all they say and do; exemplarily holy in their whole conversation, and chaste and moderate in their desires and pursuits after the pleasures of this life.—9. They ought also to be well enlightened and established in their faith and profession of the pure truths of the gospel, as they have learned them from their inspired writers and publishers—that, by a due application thereof, they may be able to comfort believers, and excite them to their duty; and to confute the errors, silence the cavils, and rebuke the perverseness of opposers.—10. For in Crete, as well as in other places, I understand there are many pretenders to Christianity, especially Jewish zealots for the Mosaic ceremonies, who are refractory and disorderly, not submitting to any divine rule in their doctrines or manners; but are most pernicious, proud, self-conceited disputers about trifles, and crafty seducers of the simple: 11. Whose mouths ought to be stopped, and their errors confuted, by scriptural proofs, solid arguments, and good examples, since they are so indefatigable and subtle, insinuating themselves into Christian families, and carrying them off from Jesus Christ and the gospel to the ceremonies and law of Moses—teaching and urging upon them things utterly false, and inconsistent with the true method of salvation by Christ alone; and all this to procure for themselves the sordid and defiling treasures of this world, by methods suited to the lusts of the Cretians;—12. For you well remember that Epimenides, their own poet and supposed prophet, describes that nation as constantly addicted to lying, and as crafty and savage in their temper; luxuriously and even ravenously gluttonous, and exceedingly lazy and idle, and so exposed to every temptation. 13, 14. And indeed the perfidious, mischievous, and sensual conduct of the judaizing Christians and their disciples, still confirm the justness of that description. It is therefore necessary that you deal plainly and sharply with them, that neither seducers nor seduced may dare to persist any longer in their evil principles and practices, but be recovered to and settled in the true and uncorrupted doctrines of faith, and may no more attend to or believe, and be carried away with, the fabulous traditions of the Jews, or the imperious injunctions of men prejudiced against and gone off from the truth of the gospel—relative to ceremonial rites of clean and unclean meats or drinks, which are no longer obligatory under the New Testament dispensation.—15. By real Christians, whose hearts and consciences are, through faith, purged by the blood of Christ, every kind of wholesome food may be lawfully eaten; but by those who are still unregenerated, and under the power of unbelief with respect to gospel truths, and who are cleaving to Mosaic institutions instead of Christ, nothing, however good or lawful in itself, can be used without sin or defilement, as their own understanding and conscience, those leading and directive powers of their soul, are quite misguided and corrupted. 16. They indeed make high professions and boasts of their knowledge of God and his will; but their practices are a plain confutation of all such pretences, and manifest them to be detestable enemies to God and godliness, unbelievers of the gospel revelation, disobedient to its authority, and utterly injudicious and unfit for performing anything good; and so disapproved of God.

Ver. 3. In due times. Literally, 'in its own' or 'his own times'—the times eternally purposed in divine wisdom, and prophetically foretold by his Spirit through the prophets.—On comparing the phrase 'the commandment of God our Saviour' with the narratives of Paul's conversion and designation to the apostleship, Ac. 9. 15; 26. 16, it will be utterly impossible to deny that he believed Jesus Christ to be 'God manifest in the flesh.' C.

Ver. 5. After comparing ver. 3, in which Titus is appointed to 'ordain elders in every city,' with ver. 6, in which every such elder is required to be 'blameless,' and then with ver. 7, in which every such blameless elder is described as a 'bishop,' it will be difficult to deny that in the apostolic church 'elder' and 'bishop' were but two names for the same person—one the title of qualification derived from age, or its equivalents, wisdom and gravity; the other the title of office and duty, the rule and oversight of the church. C.

Ver. 9. Able—to convince, by refuting objections, unravelling sophistries, exposing misquotations, and establishing the truth on divine authority. C.

Ver. 11. Whose mouths must be stopped—not by secular power, for Titus had none, either on his side or at his command; but by quotation of Scripture, such as our Saviour employed against the Sadducees; and the unmasking of hypocrisy, such as he practised against the Pharisees, Mat. 22. 23-46. C.

Ver. 12. Jerome, Socrates, and Nicephorus apply this to Epimenides, who was born at Gnosus in Crete, and to whom several prophecies are ascribed, by Diogenes Laertes, Plato, and Cicero. The work in which the words are said to have been contained is lost. If he prophesied through mere human sagacity, and yet pretended to be an inspired prophet, the apostle merely gives him the title by which the Cretians recognized him; but if he was in any degree really inspired, and yet not a true follower of God, even so was Balaam, and so was Caiaphas: for the one 'loved the wages of unrighteousness,' and the other condemned to death the Lord of life and glory. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Nothing is of higher authority for our direction than such inspired epistles. Nor can anything be more honourable than to be a servant of God and an inspired messenger of Christ. Nothing is more answerable to our need or conducive to our happiness than grace, mercy, and peace: nothing more sure or comfortable than a promise of eternal life from God, who cannot lie. Nor can anything be better framed to convey these blessings to us than the gospel of Christ. As the work of preaching is of infinite importance, and the opposition to it strong and manifold, it requires many great qualifications in ministers, and great care in trying and setting them apart to their office.—False teachers and unruly professors create ministers much and hard work. But where wickedness abounds, professors are apt to be tainted with it. Men hardened in error need plain refutations; and stubborn sinners need severe rebukes. Such as have not right principles of grace abounding in their heart, and sound principles of truth in their belief, must necessarily err in their conduct. And it is not high professions, but holy lives, that characterize true Christians.

CHAPTER II. Ver. 1. While therefore so many deluding and deluded persons of corrupt minds and practices surround you on every side, take peculiar care to preach and insist upon such truths and duties as are agreeable to and put honour upon the solid, pure, wholesome, and soul-healing doctrines of the gospel of Christ, and which lay all the professors thereof under the strongest obligations to piety and virtue, of whatsoever sex or station they be. 2. Exhort therefore the more aged Christian brethren to be very watchful, circumspect, and sedate, in their temper and carriage;—to behave with a venerable gravity in their words, actions, deportment, and dress;—to be prudent in their conduct and temperate in eating and drinking;—to be sincere believers of the pure doctrines of the gospel, and to live answerably to them; fervent in love to God, to the saints, and to all men; not peevish, but patient, under weakness, tribulations, and offences. 3. Exhort aged women to be exemplary in their dress and deportment, as becomes the professors of religion and holiness;—not false accusers, slanderers, or backbiters of others;—not inclined or addicted to immoderate drinking of liquors;—but careful instructors of children and others in the solid truths of the gospel and laudable practices of virtue. 4, 5. And let them particularly instruct and encourage young women to be wise, cautiously avoiding everything that savours of lightness or lewdness, and, if married, to love their husbands and children in the most affectionate, endearing, and dutiful manner;—to be discreet, prudent, and obliging in their whole

3 The<sup>c</sup> aged women likewise, that they be in behaviour as becometh holiness,<sup>2</sup> not false accusers,<sup>3</sup> not given to much wine, teachers of good things;

4 That they may teach the young women to be <sup>4</sup>sober, <sup>5</sup>to love their husbands, to love their children,

5 To be discreet, chaste, keepers at home, good, obedient to their own husbands, that the word of God be not blasphemed.

6 Young men likewise exhort to be <sup>6</sup>sober-minded:<sup>5</sup>

7 In<sup>9</sup> all things showing thyself a pattern of good works; in doctrine showing uncorruptness, gravity, sincerity,

8 Sound<sup>h</sup> speech, that cannot be condemned; that he that is of the contrary part may be ashamed, having no evil thing to say of you.

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

c 1 Ti. 2. 9, 10; 3. 11; 5. 5, 10. 1 Pe. 3. 1-5. Phil. 4. 3. ver. 4.

2 Or, holy women.

3 Or, makebates or devils. 1 Ti. 3. 8, 11.

4 Or, wise. ver. 2. 6.

d ch. 3. 8. 1 Pe. 3. 5, 6.

Ep. 5. 22. Ac. 9. 36. 1 Ti. 5. 10, 14; 6. 1; 2. 11, 15.

ver. 3, 10. Ro. 2. 24; 13. 8-10.

e ver. 2, 4. Ec. 11. 9; 12. 1. 1 Pe. 5. 5. Pr. 1. 4; 2. 6.

5 Or, discreet.

g 1 Th. 2. 10. 1 Pe. 5. 3.

1 Ti. 6. 1, 12; 3. 4. 12. 16.

2 Th. 1. 3. 2 Co. 2. 17; 4. 13; 5. 10.

h 1 Ti. 5. 14; 6. 3, 20. 1

Pe. 2. 12, 15; 3. 16. with

Lu. 1. 6. Ac. 24. 16. Phil.

2. 14-16. 1 Th. 2. 16.

i Ep. 6. 5. Col. 3. 21. 1

Pe. 2. 18. 1 Ti. 6. 12.

6 Or, gainsaying.

j Ge. 31. 38, 39; 39. 6.

k Mat. 5. 16. Ep. 4. 11.

5. 8. Phil. 2. 15, 16; 1. 27; 4.

8; 1. 9, 10. 1 Th. 2. 12. 1

Ti. 5. 14; 6. 1. 1 Pe. 3. 15.

16. Ne. 5. 9.

l See 1 Ti. i. ch. 1.

3. n ch. 3. 4. Ro. 5. 15, 20.

21, or Ac. 20. 24; 27; 13.

26. Ep. 1. 13. Mat. 16. 15.

10. 15. 12. 1-3. He. 2. 3.

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

o Is. 2. 2, 3; 11. 9; 60. 1-3. Ps. 98. 1-3. Lu. 3. 6. Jn. 1. 9. Mar. 16. 15. Mat. 28. 19. Ro. 10. 18; 15. 8-10. Ep. 3. 6-8. Col. 1. 6, 23, 27.

7 Or, that bringeth salvation to all men, hath appeared.

p 2 Co. 7. 1. Ep. 5. 3-5.

2 Co. 3. 5-24. Ro. 8. 13;

xii. -xiv. 1 Pe. i. -v. 2 Pe.

1. 3-10. Lu. 1. 75. Phil. 1.

27; 2. 15; 3. 4; 4. 8. 2 Co. 1.

12; 7. 1. Ac. 24. 16. 1 Pe.

4. 2. 1 Jn. 2. 16.

q 1 Co. 1. 7. Phil. 3. 20.

21. Ac. 24. 15. Col. 3. 4. 2

Ti. 4. 1, 8. He. 9. 28. 2 Pe.

3. 12, 14. 1 Jn. 3. 2. Ro. 8.

23, 24. Ga. 5. 5. Mat. 24.

30; 31; 25. 31-46; 19. 28. 1

Th. 4. 10. Re. 1. 7; 20. 11, 12.

8 The glorious appearing of the great

God, even our Saviour Jesus Christ.

See Middleton, Gr. Art. -C.

r Mat. 20. 28; 26. 28.

Ga. 1. 4; 2. 20; 3. 13; 4. 4.

Ep. 5. 21; 7. 2. 10. Col. 2.

11-15. 1 Th. 1. 1; 5; 2. 6.

He. 9. 12, 14; 10. 12, 14; 7.

25, 26. 1 Pe. 2. 24; 3. 18. 1

Jn. 3. 5, 8.

s Ps. 130. 8. Ex. 19. 5.

6 Pe. 7. 6; 26. 18. 1 Pe. 2.

9. Ep. 2. 10. ch. 3. 6.

9 Exhort <sup>9</sup>servants to be obedient unto their own masters, and to please them well in all things; not answering again;<sup>6</sup>

10 Not<sup>j</sup> purloining, but showing all good fidelity; that they may <sup>k</sup>adorn the doctrine of <sup>l</sup>God our Saviour in all things.

11 For <sup>m</sup>the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath <sup>n</sup>appeared to all men,<sup>7</sup>

12 Teaching us, that, <sup>o</sup>denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly, in this present world;

13 Looking<sup>a</sup> for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ;<sup>8</sup>

14 Who<sup>r</sup> gave himself for us, <sup>s</sup>that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works.

behaviour; quite modest, virtuous, and chaste;—careful and industrious in their attention to their families; of a meek and humble temper;—kindly submissive and obedient to their husbands in everything lawful;—that so God and his gospel may not be reproached as encouraging disorderly practices. 6. In like manner, advise and excite young men professing Christianity to be considerate, chaste, meek, and sober, and to guard against the impetuous, rash, proud, wilful, and frolicsome temper common to youth. 7, 8. And if you would have these things believed and practised by others, be yourself an exact pattern of everything good and beneficial:—and in all your preaching, deliver nothing but the pure and unmixed doctrine of Christ, with a disinterested and single aim at the glory of God and good of souls; with becoming seriousness and gravity, with all simplicity and godly sincerity, and in plain, significant, scriptural, and determinate language,—that none may misunderstand it or be misled by it; that so your most critical, carping, and cavilling enemies may be put to shame, when they can find nothing to object either to your doctrine or practice.—9. And whereas some judaizing teachers attempt to persuade converted slaves that they are not bound to remain in subjection to their heathen masters, be you careful to inculcate on believing servants to continue, as much as ever, and from better principles, obedient to their masters in everything lawful; and to behave towards them in the most courteous, obliging, and diligent manner, cheerfully executing their commands without murmuring or disputing, and never returning any insolent or saucy answer when reproved or ordered to work. 10. Charge them to be strictly honest, never daring to waste, embezzle, or apply to their own use any part of their master's goods, money, victuals, or time, beyond their allowance;—but always faithfully obeying their orders, and doing all they can for their honour and advantage,—that thus they may be a credit to the gospel, and their profession of it, and may even strike conviction into the consciences of their heathen masters, of the excellency, purity, and power of it, to render men virtuous in every station of life.—11. For the gospel of the grace of God, particularly in the New Testament dispensation of it, which so clearly displays the full favour of God, and so powerfully works grace in men's hearts, as it brings glad tidings of deliverance from sin and misery of every form, and of eternal happiness, and shows the way of obtaining salvation by faith in Christ, has now shone forth upon all nations, and upon all sorts and ranks of men.—12. Instructing, and gloriously persuading and leading us who believe, that, renouncing, abhorring, and utterly forsaking all infidelity, idolatry, and impiety of every kind, contrary to the first table of the moral law, and all irregular inclinations and desires, which worldly men indulge and gratify, contrary to the second—we should carefully live in all purity and holiness, in a due government of our passions and appetites, and in a just, honest, and benevolent behaviour towards men, and in all acts of public and private devotion towards God, in the exercise of every grace, and celebration of all his ordinances, and observation of all his commandments, as long as we continue in this insnaring world.

13. Always encouraging and animating ourselves, by believing, expecting, and patiently waiting and longing for the perfect, all-comprehending, and everlasting felicity which is the great object of our hopes, and for the glorious appearing of the great and mighty God, even our Lord Jesus Christ, who at the last day will manifest himself on his throne of judgment, in all the majesty, beauty, grandeur, and brightness of his divine and mediatorial glory, and in all the glory of his Father, and of all his holy and surrounding angels, and to be glorified in his saints. 14. And what may we not look for and hope from him who so loved us as to give himself, soul and body, to the most painful ignominious death of the cross, that he might graciously redeem us from all the guilt, pollution, power, punishment, and in-being of our sins; and sanctify, cleanse, and separate us to himself, as his own loving, precious, and peculiar people, made his by his Father's love, his own sacrifice, and our free and full consent in the day of his grace—that we might, with the most fervent zeal, glorify him in the performance of every duty appointed in his Word, from the best principles and motives, and in the best manner, to the best ends. 15. These are things of such vast importance, and so vehemently opposed or corrupted by the enemies of Christ and his gospel, that you ought, in his name and authority, earnestly to explain and inculcate them, and sharply to confute and reprove the contrary errors and vices. And let your whole conduct be regulated with such prudence, faithfulness, and gravity as may raise you and your office above the contempt of your most inveterate and scornful enemies.

Ver. 4. To love their children. Not such a love as indulges the waywardness of their tempers and all the demands of their appetites, and thereby pampers them into future rebels against parental authority; but such a love as indeed sacrifices the ease of the parent for the comfort of the child, yet will not sacrifice the temporal interests of the child by the neglect of education: nor the interests of its immortal soul by the neglect of 'the nurture and admonition of the Lord.' C.

Ver. 8. Sound speech. Every man is bound carefully to watch over his words—inasmuch as 'for every idle word he shall give (a personal) account in the day of judgment;' but men holding public office in the church are doubly bound, inasmuch as an unguarded word, an unsound speech, is not merely a fault in themselves, but may either mislead their friends, who pay deference to their opinions, or give enemies, 'who watch for their halting,' an occasion to blaspheme. C.

Ver. 10. That they may adorn, &c. The Christian servant who is not himself 'adorned' with dress as his richer superior, may yet, by his cheerful obedience, command of tongue, and unshaken fidelity, 'adorn the gospel' which he professes, and commend it to his master, his children, his guests, and friends—so that, like the captive maid in the house of Naaman, who directed her master to the prophet of Israel and the cure of his leprosy, he may be the means of directing to a greater Prophet, and the removal of a more grievous malady. C.

REFLECTIONS.—With gravity, sincerity, faithfulness, authority, and Scripture evidence, ought ministers to preach the gospel, and apply it for exhortation, comfort, or reproof, as there is occasion. Nor can they expect that others will believe, or adversaries be silenced, unless their practice be answerable to their doctrine.—To adorn his profession, and honour the Lord Christ, every professor, according to his age or station in the world, must act up to God's commands himself, and promote holiness in others. The aged should be patterns and teachers of every Christian virtue and work; and the younger heartily disposed to receive their instructions and follow their advice. Sound principles, sober gravity, temperance, chastity, holiness, humility, diligence, honesty, and faithfulness, should deeply mark every Christian character. The grace of God, the tenor and scope of the gospel, the certain appearance of Christ to judgment, his death to redeem us from all iniquity, and the heavenly glory which he has prepared for us, in the strongest manner require and enforce our mortification of every lust, and earnest performance of every holy duty. A gospel of God's redeeming grace, manifested to all ranks and sorts of men, requires universal holiness from all. We cannot manifest grace to be in our heart unless we renounce every known sin. We can have no right hopes of heaven unless we are given to the study of holiness as the preparation for it. We have no marks of being Christ's redeemed while sin is our pleasure and work; and we can have no evidence of being his peculiar people, if, in our temper and conduct, we are conformed to the world that lieth in wickedness.

CHAPTER III. Ver. 1. And as the same judaizing teachers dissuade Christians from owning the authority of heathen magistrates, see that you earnestly admonish and charge your people to be peaceably submissive to their supreme or subordinate civil governors, as the deputies and ministers of God; and to pay a conscientious obedience to all their just laws; and to perform every duty becoming their stations, whether it relate to God or to men. 2. Caution them against reviling any, of whatever rank, nation, or religion, or charging things falsely upon them, or even exposing their real faults, but in so far as some valuable end is to be gained thereby. Warn them against a litigious quarrelsome temper and behaviour; and teach them, on the contrary, to be of an equitable, candid, yielding spirit; and to manifest a humble, mild, and good temper in all their words and actions towards all sorts of men, the very worst not excepted. 3. For indeed none can be worse than we once were, and should still have been, if left to ourselves; for in our unregenerate state we were destitute of all spiritual wisdom and knowledge relating to duty or happiness: were disobedient to God and his holy, just, and good laws; were wanderers from him and the way of life and peace—seduced by Satan, the world, and our own treacherous hearts; were perfect slaves to many diversified sinful inclinations and sensual pleasures; were foolishly spending our time in maliciously wishing and doing all the hurt we could to such as did not please us; and envying the honour or happiness of such as were above or around us; and, on the whole, were most hateful and detestable in ourselves to God and to all good men, and full of bitter and implacable enmity one against another, according to our different passions, interests, or nations. 4. But, while we were in these awful circumstances, the transcendent kindness and infinite mercy of God (the original Fountain of our salvation through Jesus Christ) towards men shone forth with reviving and almighty grace, in the preaching and power of the gospel, to make a holy and 15 These<sup>t</sup> things speak, and exhort, and rebuke with all authority. Let no man despise thee.

CHAPTER III.

1 Titus is yet further directed by Paul, both concerning the things he should teach, and not teach. 10 He is willed also to reject obstinate heretics: 12 which done, he appointeth him both time and place, wherein he should come unto him, and so concludeth.

PUT them<sup>a</sup> in mind to be subject to principalities and powers, to obey magistrates, to<sup>b</sup> be ready to every good work,

2 To<sup>c</sup> speak evil of no man, to be no brawlers, but<sup>d</sup> gentle, showing all meekness unto all men.

3 For we ourselves<sup>1</sup> also were sometimes foolish, disobedient, deceived, serving divers lusts and pleasures, living in malice and envy, hateful, and hating one another.

4 But<sup>g</sup> after that the kindness and love<sup>2</sup> of God<sup>h</sup> our Saviour toward man appeared,

5 Not<sup>i</sup> by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost;

6 Which<sup>l</sup> he shed on us abundantly,<sup>3</sup> through Jesus Christ our Saviour;

7 That, being justified by his grace, we should be made heirs according to the hope of eternal life.

8 This<sup>p</sup> is a faithful saying, and these things

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

1 Ti. 1.13; 5.7; 20.4; 12.2 Ti. 4.2; 2.14, 15; 1 Co. 16.11. ch. 1.9, 13.

CHAP. III.

a Ro. 13.1-6. 1 Ti. 2.1. 1 Pe. 2.1-17. Mat. 22.21. Je. 27.17. Pr. 24.21. Ec. 8.2; 10.4, with 2 Pe. 2.10. Jude 8.

b Ga. 6.9, 10. Ep. 2.10. ch. 2.14; ver. 8, 14. Phi. 4.8. Ga. 5.22, 23. 2 Pe. 2.5-8. Ps. xv.

c Ja. 4.11. 1 Pe. 2.15. 23; 3.9. 1 Ti. 3.3. ch. 1.10.

d 2 Ti. 2.24, 25. Ep. 4.2. Phi. 4.5. Col. 3.12, 13. Ga. 5.23; 6.1. 1 Th. 2.7.

e Ro. 3.9-18; 1.28-32. 1 Co. 6.11, 9, 10. Ep. 2.1-4. 12; 17-19; 5.3-8. Ga. 4.8; 5.19-21. Col. 1.21; 3.7. 1 Pe. 4.3.

1 See note * below.

g Ro. 5.20, 21. Ep. 2.4-10. 13-22. ch. 2. 11. 1 Co. 6.11.

2 Or, pity.

h 1 Ti. 1.1; 2.3; 4.10. ch. 1.3; 2.10. Jude 25. Lu. 1.47. Is. 12. 2. 2 Ti. 1.9.

i Ro. 3.20, 28; 11.16; 11.6. Ga. 2.10, 19-21. Ep. 2.9. 2 Ti. 1.9.

j ver. 4. Ep. 1.4; 2.4, 7. 8. Ro. 5.20, 21; 4.6. Ac. 15.11.

k Jn. 3.5. Eze. 36.25-27. Ep. 5.25, 26.

l Is. 44.3. Joel 2.28. Eze. 36.25, 27. Ac. 2.23; 10.45. Jn. 7.37; 6.45; 1.16. Ro. 5.5.

3 Gr. richly.

n Ro. 3.24, 28; 4.6; 5.15-21; 11.6. 1 Co. 6.11. Re. 1.5. Ep. 1.6, 7; 2.7. Col. 1.14.

o Ro. 8.17, 23, 24. Ga. 3.29. He. 1.14. Ja. 2.5. 1 Pe. 1.4. ch. 1.2.

p 1 Ti. 1.15; 3.1; 4.9. 2 Ti. 2.11. Pr. 22.20.

* 'We ourselves,'

i.e. the apostle and all those who, like

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

him, were now believers in Jesus, had once been as sinful as the Cretans.—P.

q ver. 1, 14; ch. 2.14. Ep. 2.10. Phi. 4.8; 2.15, 16; 1.11, 27. Ga. 5.6, 22-24. Ro. vi. xii. xiv. Ep. iv. vi. Col. iii. Lu. 1.74, 75. 1 Co. 15.58. Ps. 19.11. 15.3. 10.

r 1 Ti. 1.4, 6, 7; 4.7; 6.3-5. 20. 2 Ti. 2.14, 23. ch. 1.10, 14. 2 Pe. 1.16. Col. 2.4, 8, 18-23. 1 Co. 8.1; 13.2.

s Mat. 18.17. Ro. 16.17. 2 Th. 3.6, 14. 2 Ti. 3.5, 2. Jn. 10.1 Co. 5.4, 5, 13. 1 Ti. 1.20. Ga. 1.8, 9; 5.12.

t 1 Ti. 1.10; 4.1. 2 Ti. 3.8. He. 10.26. Jn. 3.20. Mat. 22.35. Lu. 7.30; 12.47. Ep. 6.21.

4 The meaning may be expressed as follows: 'As thou knowest (by the fact that solemn admonitions have been twice given to him in vain) that such an one is thoroughly perverted (prejudice or pride has upset his judgment, and seared his conscience), and sins being self-condemned.' (He has been twice warned, and therefore sinning now he sins against light. He is therefore his own judge).—P.

u See Ac. 20.4. 2 Ti. 4.12.

v 2 Ti. 4.9, 21.

x Ac. 18. 24. 1 Co. 1.12, 3. Jo. 6.

y Or, profess honest trades. 1 Th. 2.9. Ep. 4.28. 2 Th. 3.8. 1 Co. 4.12.

z ver. 8; ch. 2.14. Phi. 1.11; 4.17. 2 Pe. 1.8.

aa 1 Th. 5.26, 28. Col. 4.15, 18. Phi. 4. 21-23.

ab Ep. 6.23, 24. Ga. 6.18. 2 Co. 13. 12-14. 1 Co. 16.20-23. Ro. xvi.

I will that thou affirm constantly, that they which have believed in God might be careful to maintain good works. These things are good and profitable unto men.

9 But avoid foolish questions, and genealogies, and contentions, and strivings about the law; for they are unprofitable and vain.

10 A<sup>s</sup> man that is an heretic, after the first and second admonition, reject;

11 Knowing that he that is such is subverted, and sinneth, being condemned of himself.<sup>4</sup>

12 When I shall send Artemas unto thee, or Tychicus, be diligent to come unto me to Nicopolis: for I have determined there to winter.

13 Bring Zenas the lawyer and Apollos on their journey diligently, that nothing be wanting unto them.

14 And let ours also learn to maintain good works<sup>5</sup> for necessary uses, that they be not unfruitful.

15 All<sup>z</sup> that are with me salute thee. Greet them that love us in the faith. Grace be with you all. Amen.

¶ It was written to Titus, ordained the first bishop of the church of the Cretians, from Nicopolis of Macedonia.

happy change on us. 5. And it neither was nor could be any good work which we, who were so detestable and wicked, had performed, but really of his own full, self-moving, undeserved, nay, abused and provoked mercy, and its compassionate propensions, that he brought us out of that deplorable condition into a state of salvation, through repentance, faith, and regenerating grace, represented in baptism, and effected by a living faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, 6. Whom, in his gifts and graces, God the Father graciously and abundantly bestowed upon us, according to his promise, through the mediation, merit, exaltation, and intercession of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ; 7. That being, by the love of God, discharged from guilt and condemnation, and accepted as righteous unto eternal life on account of the righteousness of Jesus Christ imparted to us, we might be adopted into his family as his children, and made heirs of God and joint-heirs with Christ, according to the ground of hope laid down in the promises of the gospel given to us, and according to that grace of hope wrought in our souls by which we expect eternal life through our Redeemer.—8. The important things which I have mentioned are true and faithful, and to be firmly believed, and frequently insisted upon in your ministrations, that they who have believed in God through Christ, according to the gospel revelation, may be induced and excited, with all carefulness and diligence, to abound, excel, and lead the way to others, in all such works as are honourable to God, to Christ, and to their Christian character. And these doctrines, and the good works to which they manifestly tend, are every way excellent in their own nature; and though God cannot be profited by them, they are exceedingly useful and beneficial to mankind. 9. But avoid and discountenance all senseless and idle debates, of which judaizing teachers are so fond,—as about descent from this or that particular tribe or family of Israel, or about the sense and obligation of the ceremonial law, which they desire to introduce into the gospel dispensation.—10. If any professed Christian entertain and boldly assert such errors as overthrow the fundamental principles of the gospel, especially if he appear to do it from prejudice against the truths themselves, as directly contrary to his own lusts, or out of a proud inclination to make himself the head of a party, let him be, once and again, solemnly, and in the most convincing manner, admonished of his sin and danger; and if after all this he obstinately persist in his destructive errors, let him be excommunicated from the visible church, and all familiarity with him not required by the laws of nature be carefully avoided by her members; 11. For it is sufficiently manifest that such a man hath utterly turned away from Christ the foundation, and from all true goodness, and that he sins against his own soul, and against the divine authority, light, and truth of the gospel revelation, if not against the convictions of his own conscience. And his persisting to avow such error is sufficient proof against him; yea, thereby he practically condemns himself as not fit to have any fellowship with the true church of Christ.

Ver. 5. (1) Does 'the washing of regeneration' signify baptism, and does the apostle mean that 'the renewing of the Holy Ghost' necessarily accompanies or flows from it? or (2) Does 'the washing of regeneration' signify baptism as merely a ritual sign to all, and seal to believers of 'the renewing of the Holy Ghost?' or (3) Is 'the renewing of the Holy Ghost' merely expository of 'the washing of regeneration?' The first of these views is supported by Hooker, Beveridge, G. Ridley, &c.; the second, by Bishop's Bible, Hall, Wells, Brown, T. Scott, A. Clarke, &c. The first of these views we unhesitatingly reject; and to the second, though supported by such eminent names, we prefer the third, translating the passage 'by the washing of regeneration, even the renewing of the Holy Ghost.' See note on Jn. 3.5. C.

Ver. 9. Foolish questions—on matters of mere idle curiosity; on points that can never be absolutely ascertained; or of no practical use if discovered. C.

Ver. 10. The heretical man was one who, either by the adoption and propagation of fundamental errors, or errors of a minor character, caused divisions in the church. P.

REFLECTIONS.—Nothing is more absurd than for princes to hate and persecute true Christianity, which so truly renders men good subjects. For nothing can more actually influence men to every good word and work than the believing consideration of their marvellously gracious redemption by God, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. Dreadful is the wickedness in heart and life of every man by nature; and transcendent the grace, precious the blood, and almighty the influence that can save such sinners—that can without, nay, contrary to, their own deserts, renew their hearts after the image of God, justify their persons before him, and through faith give them eternal life. Base is our conduct if, after all, we willingly employ either heart or tongue, hand or foot, in iniquity. The doctrines of the gospel, believed with the heart, are the most real and effectual means of making us careful to maintain good works. Honourable would it be if every professed Christian were thereby distinguished from others. And happy would be the church if all useless controversies were shunned and stifled; every erroneous and schismatical person, after due pains taken for his conviction, were solemnly excommunicated; and faithful ministers were all of one mind, heart, and way in the truth as it is in Christ.

CONCLUDING REMARKS ON THE EPISTLE TO TITUS.

How much Christianity is intended to cultivate the domestic, the political, and the social virtues, appears from the admirable precepts of ch. ii. iii.; and how much the success of their cultivation depends upon ministerial faithfulness is obvious from the personal charges addressed to Titus, ch. 2. 7, 15; 3. 8. This epistle has also a special value in the authority which it furnishes for the exercise of a careful and efficient discipline, not merely over church-members guilty of gross immorality, as in 1 Co. 5. 4, 5, but also over such as adopt, assert, or propagate erroneous doctrines contrary to the Word of God. These the apostle instructs Titus to admonish; but, if obstinate, he commands him to reject them from the fellowship of the church. C.

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO PHILEMON.

This epistle is distinguished as an act of intercession, and furnishes a beautiful specimen of that deep interest which Christians in the higher ranks of life should take in the welfare of those whom Providence has placed in less favourable circumstances. C.

This epistle was written during Paul's first captivity at Rome, and probably just before the Epistle to the Colossians. Philemon seems to have been a member of that church (cf. ver. 10 with Col. 4. 9), and to have been converted by the preaching of Paul. 'The bearer of the epistle was a slave who had run away from, and, as it would seem, robbed Philemon (ver. 18), but who now, after having had the blessing of meeting with St. Paul at Rome, and by being converted to Christianity by him, was returning to the master he had wronged, changed and repentant.' The object of the epistle is evident:—it was to effect a complete reconciliation between master and slave. P.

<sup>4</sup> He rejoiceth to hear of the faith and love of Philemon, 9 whom he desireth to forgive his servant Onesimus, and lovingly to receive him again.

PAUL,<sup>a</sup> a prisoner of Jesus Christ, and Timothy <sup>our</sup> brother, unto Philemon<sup>1</sup> our dearly beloved, and fellow-labourer,

2 And to <sup>our</sup> beloved Apphia, and <sup>b</sup>Archippus our fellow-soldier, and to <sup>c</sup>the church in thy house:

3 Grace<sup>d</sup> to you, and peace, from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

4 I<sup>e</sup> thank my God, making mention of thee always in my prayers,

5 Hearing<sup>g</sup> of thy love and faith,<sup>2</sup> which thou hast toward the Lord Jesus, and toward all saints;

6 That <sup>h</sup>the communication of thy faith may become effectual by the acknowledging of every good thing which is in you in Christ Jesus.

7 For<sup>i</sup> we have great joy and consolation in thy love, because the bowels of the saints are refreshed by thee, brother.

8 Wherefore, though I might be much <sup>j</sup>bold in Christ to enjoin thee that which is convenient, 9 Yet for love's sake I rather beseech <sup>thee</sup>, being such <sup>k</sup>an one as Paul the aged, and now also a <sup>l</sup>prisoner of Jesus Christ.

10 I beseech thee for my son <sup>m</sup>Onesimus,<sup>3</sup> whom I have begotten in my bonds:

11 Which<sup>o</sup> in time past was to thee unprofitable,<sup>4</sup> but now profitable to thee and to me:

12 Whom I have sent again: thou therefore receive<sup>p</sup> him that is mine own bowels;

13 Whom I would have retained with me,

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

<sup>a</sup> Ac. 27.1; 28. 16, 17. Ep. 3. 1, 13; 4. 1; 6. 20. Phi. 1. 7, 13. Col. 4. 3. 2 Ti. 1. 8. ver. 9.

<sup>1</sup> This address has evident reference to the meaning of the several names: Philemon, 'affectionate, beloved.' Apphia, the title of affection from a brother to a sister; Archippus, 'the ruler of a horse'—consequently addressed as Paul's fellow-soldier. And it is not improbable he might have been such—as in our own days the army has trained up some of the most valiant and faithful soldiers of the Prince of peace.—C.

<sup>b</sup> Col. 4. 17. Phi. 2. 25. c Ro. 16. 5. 1 Co. 16. 19. Col. 4. 15.

<sup>c</sup> Ro. 1. 7. 1 Co. 1. 3. 2 Co. 1. 2; 13. 14. Ga. 1. 3. Ep. 1. 2. Phi. 1. 2. Col. 1. 2. 1 Th. 1. 1. 2 Th. 1. 2. 1 Ti. 1. 2. 2 Ti. 1. 2. Tit. 1. 4.

<sup>d</sup> Ep. 1. 16. Ro. 1. 8. Phi. 1. 3. Col. 1. 3. 1 Th. 1. 2. 2 Th. 1. 3. 2 Ti. 1. 3. 1 Th. 1. 15. Col. 1. 4. 1 Th. 1. 3. 2 Th. 1. 3. 2 Ti. 1. 5.

<sup>2</sup> Philemon's 'love and faith toward the Lord Jesus' is a phrase perfectly intelligible; so also is 'love toward all saints'; but what is the meaning of 'faith toward all saints?' even a faith that, taking Christ for the head, takes them for the members, and works toward them by love in every possible communication of good, ver. 6.—C.

<sup>3</sup> He. 13. 16; 6. 10; 10. 24. Ro. 12. 13. 2 Co. 8. 4; 9. 13. Ja. 2. 14, 17. Phi. 4. 8, 14; 15. 1. 5. 9. 11. 2 Pe. 1. 5. 8.

<sup>4</sup> 2 Co. 7. 4, 13. 1 Th. 3. 7. with 1 Co. 16. 18. 2 Ti. 1. 16.

<sup>5</sup> 1 Th. 2. 6. 1 Co. 15. 8. 1 ver. 10. n Col. 4. 9. 1 Co. 4. 15. Ga. 4. 19.

<sup>6</sup> See note <sup>a</sup> below. o 1 Pe. 2. 10. 4 ver. 18, 16. Perhaps lazy and thievish.

<sup>7</sup> Lu. 15. 20. Phi. 1. 8. Ro. 13. 8–10. Ga. 6. 1, 2. Mat. 18. 15, 21, 22, 35.

<sup>8</sup> Onesimus signifies 'useful'; whence, as in ver. 1, Paul refers to the name, formerly 'unprofitable' to you, now 'profitable' to me. Note. Let every man look to the name he bears, and if there be anything worthy in its meaning, or in the character of the friend from whom it was derived, let him act up to the meaning, or emulate the virtues of that friend. But if the name have no known or assignable meaning, or if he know nothing of the virtues of his friend, let him think of him 'from whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named'; and, recollecting how that name has been named upon him, let him see that he walk worthy of it.—C.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

<sup>9</sup> 1 Co. 16. 17. Phi. 2. 30. r 2 Co. 9. 7. 1 Ch. 28. 9; 29. 9.

<sup>10</sup> Ge. 45. 5–8; 50. 20. Ro. 8. 28. 2 Co. 4. 17. 1 Mat. 23. 8. 1 Ti. 6. 2. He. 3. 1, 13. 1. Col. 1. 2; 3. 22. 1 Co. 12. 12, 13, 27.

<sup>11</sup> Onesimus, though a slave, may have been actually of the kindred of Philemon, as many of the vassals and serfs of feudal times either were, or were accounted, the relatives of their chiefs.—C.

<sup>12</sup> Ja. 2. 5. 2 Co. 8. 23. Re. 1. 9. He. 3. 14. 1 Jn. 1. 3. 1 Co. 12. 12, 13, 27.

<sup>13</sup> Tit. 1. 4. 1 Ti. 1. 2. 1 Co. 4. 15. 9. 2. 2 Co. 3. 2. x ver. 7, 12. Phi. 2. 17, 28. 1 Th. 2. 19, 20; 3. 7–9. 2 Co. 7. 4–7.

<sup>14</sup> 2 Co. 7. 16. y Phi. 1. 25; 2. 24, with He. 13. 23. 2 Co. 1. 11. Ac. 12. 5. Ja. 5. 16.

<sup>15</sup> This seems to intimate that the epistle was written shortly before the apostle's deliverance from his first imprisonment (see Ac. 28. 30. Phi. 2. 24), and that he was then in full hope of his liberation.—C.

<sup>16</sup> Col. 1. 7; 4. 12. b See Ac. 12. 12, 25. Col. 4. 10, 14. Ac. 19. 29; 20. 4; 27. 2. 2 Ti. 4. 10, 11.

<sup>17</sup> Ro. 16. 20, 24. 1 Co. 16. 23. 2 Co. 13. 14. Ep. 6. 23, 24. Phi. 4. 23. Col. 4. 18. 1 Th. 5. 18. 2 Th. 3. 18. 1 Ti. 6. 21. Tit. 3. 15. He. 13. 25. Re. 22. 21.

<sup>18</sup> Your spirit—not the spirit of Philemon alone, but of all 'the church in his house,' as all actuated with one spirit of faith and love—a composite body, animated, as it were, with one soul.—C.

that in thy stead he might have ministered unto me in the bonds of the gospel:

14 But without thy mind would I do nothing; that thy benefit should not be as it were of necessity, but willingly.

15 For <sup>s</sup>perhaps he therefore departed for a season, that thou shouldest receive him for ever;

16 Not now as a servant, but above a servant, <sup>t</sup>a brother beloved, specially to me, but how much more unto thee, both in the <sup>u</sup>flesh, and in the Lord?

17 If thou count me therefore <sup>v</sup>a partner, receive him as myself.

18 If he hath wronged thee, or oweth <sup>w</sup>thee ought, put that on mine account;

19 I Paul have written <sup>x</sup>it with mine own hand, I will repay <sup>y</sup>it: albeit I do not say to thee <sup>z</sup>how thou owest unto me even thine own self besides.

20 Yea, brother, <sup>a</sup>let me have joy of thee in the Lord: refresh my bowels in the Lord.

21 Having<sup>y</sup> confidence in thy obedience I wrote unto thee, knowing that thou wilt also do more than I say.

22 But withal prepare me also a lodging: for <sup>z</sup>I trust that through your prayers I shall be given unto you.<sup>6</sup>

23 There salute thee <sup>a</sup>Epaphras, my fellow-prisoner in Christ Jesus;

24 Marcus,<sup>b</sup> Aristarchus, Demas, Lucas, my fellow-labourers.

25 The<sup>c</sup> grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit.<sup>7</sup> Amen.

¶ Written from Rome to Philemon, by Onesimus a servant.

Ver. 4–7. In reflecting on your well-known faith in Christ and love to all the saints, I heartily thank God for his kindness bestowed upon you; and pray that your faith and love may be still more and more effectual to render you still more generous and benevolent; that they who hear of, and especially they who receive your favours, may be excited to make the most grateful acknowledgments of those kind and holy dispositions which, by virtue derived from Christ, and to his honour, work for the relief and support of his servants and poor members for his sake.—It is a great comfort to me in my imprisonment, and to Timothy, my brother here, to understand that the hungry appetites of poor private Christians and holy ministers are abundantly relieved and satisfied by your charitable donations.

REFLECTIONS.—Faithful ministers affectionately care for and rejoice in one another's gracious comforts and success. And it is an honour for the wealthy to bestow abundantly on the cause, servants, and poor members of Christ. God can marvellously bring good out of great evil—can make robbery and the running away from lawful service an occasion of bringing a person to the gospel, attended by the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven; and sinful falls the means of bringing about saving conversion. What an inexpressible alteration for the better converting grace makes on a person! And readily we ought to forgive such as have offended and injured us if they return to their duty, and especially if God's grace has made them our brethren in Christ. A high esteem and affectionate regard should Christians show to the instruments of their conversion. And with earnestness and prudence ministers or others should interpose their influence in favour of those who penitently return to their duty. Thrice happy is that church where ministers and people are knit together in cordial affection, and labour for one another's welfare, temporal, spiritual, and eternal, by much fervent prayer; and where peculiar care is taken to refresh, comfort, and provide for the aged, poor, and persecuted.

CONCLUDING REMARKS ON THE EPISTLE TO PHILEMON.

This epistle possesses a special value, as it exhibits the true and only principle of human equality—union in Christ Jesus. Onesimus, the slave, is now a son to Paul, and a brother to Philemon; yet this epistle equally sustains the distinction of rights and ranks, and even Paul beseeches as a friend, but does not command as a superior, ver. 10, 13, 14. It also possesses a special value as teaching the doctrine of restitution, unless the injured party choose freely to forgive. Nor is it less remarkable as it depicts Paul not merely in the public character of an apostle, but in the private character of a domestic friend, and discovers him as truly amiable and childlike in the one, as he is great and manly in the other. C.

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE HEBREWS.

Ancient copies and translations, the testimonies of the highest ancient and modern authorities, the style of the writer's quotations from the Old Testament, his method of reasoning from them, his imprisonment in Italy, his intimate connection with Timothy, ch. 13. 23, as well as the manner of his closing benedictions—all concur in testifying that Paul was the writer of this epistle. The omission of his name and office, as well as of the residence and characteristics of the parties to whom he wrote, contrary to his uniform custom in his other epistles, is an objection of no weight against all this array of testimony. That the parties to whom it was sent were well and personally known to the writer, appears from ch. 10. 34: 13. 18, 19, 23; and that they were Jews converted to Christianity, is evident from the nature of the subjects handled, the scriptural evidence adduced, the hopes expressed, and the exhortations to constancy so earnestly enforced. That it was written from Italy appears from these words, 'they of Italy salute you,' and that it was near the end of his first imprisonment seems to be intimated by the confident manner in which he says, 'I beseech you the rather to do this, that I may be restored to you the sooner,' ch. 13. 19. The omission of the apostle's name and office, as well as of the parties to whom he wrote, has been accounted for on the supposition, that as the unconverted Jews were strongly prejudiced against Paul, and, by consequence, against his friends, nothing was put forward that might alarm their prejudices, and cause them to throw down the book unread. This supposition is highly probable; for the apostle, whom the light of Christianity had set free from all prejudices, felt great tenderness for the prejudices of others, and was always ready to sacrifice self, and, so far as a good conscience would permit, to become all things to all men, that he might gain some.

The substance of the epistle may be stated as follows:—1. The superiority of Christ's person, not merely above Moses, but above the angels, by whose ministry the Jewish institutions were promulgated—with the most careful enunciation, that while he was 'Jehovah who laid the foundations of the earth,' he was also 'partaker of flesh and blood.' These are the main objects of the first two chapters. 2. The superior dignity and perfect efficacy of Christ's priesthood, and the insufficiency of the priesthood of Aaron; together with the special advantages of Christ being a suffering Redeemer, instead of a temporal monarch, as the Jews had expected, occupy from the third to the end of the eighth chapter. 3. The emblematic nature and utter insufficiency of the Levitical ceremonies, farther than as shadows of the substance, copies of the original, with the perfect sufficiency of the sacrifice of Christ for the redemption of all that believe, is the purpose of the ninth and tenth chapters. 4. To obviate the Jewish objection, that to embrace Christianity was to apostatize from the religion of Moses, the old religion, he proceeds to show, in the eleventh chapter, that, since the beginning of the world, the servants of God have all acted upon one simple and identical principle—faith in the truth, promises, and personal attributes of God; and, consequently, that to embrace Christianity, so far from being apostasy, was merely a farther and more noble extension of the original and unchangeable principle of all true religion. 5. In the last two chapters he follows up all his reasoning with directions and exhortations to patience under persecution for the truth's sake, and closes with the benediction 'Grace be with you all.' C.

The Epistle to the Hebrews is in some respects unique. It is different from all the other epistles in the New Testament canon. In Paul's other epistles the name of the author is the first word. The same is the case in the Epistles of James, Peter, and Jude. The Epistles of John, though in one sense anonymous, are yet, by incidental evidence, as clearly shown to be his writings as if his name were attached. This epistle, however, is not merely anonymous, but there is not a particle of direct evidence pointing to its author. All the other epistles assume the epistolary form at the outset. In Hebrews no individual and no church is mentioned. The opening sentences resemble the introduction to a set oration, or a philosophical essay, more than a simple pastoral. The style is different from, and it surpasses in beauty and power, anything in the New Testament. The words and clauses are arranged with strictest grammatical accuracy, and with great rhetorical skill. It is only towards the close we find a few incidental allusions, and forms of speech, which suggest the idea that it is a letter.

In matter the epistle does not yield in importance to any book in the Bible. The fundamental doctrines of Christianity are asserted, defined, and defended with a clearness and ability nowhere surpassed. The Deity of Christ, his humanity, his atonement and intercession, and his supreme headship, are most convincingly demonstrated. They are demonstrated in a way peculiar to this book,—by testimonies adduced from the Old Testament. The epistle shows the perfect harmony which subsists between the law and the gospel; it proves that the Jewish and Christian dispensations are essentially one—that the latter is the full development of the former. P.

CHAPTER I.

1 Christ in these last times coming to us from the Father, 4 is preferred above the angels, both in person and office.

GOD, who <sup>a</sup>at sundry times and in divers manners, spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets,

2 Hath<sup>b</sup> in these last days spoken unto us

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

CHAP. I.

<sup>a</sup> Nu. 12. 6, 8. Ge. 3. 15; 6. 3, 13-21; 8. 15-22; 9. 1-17; 12. 1-3; 13. 14-17; xv. xvii. xviii. xxi. xxii.; 26. 2-5; 28. 12-15; 32. 24-30; 35. 9-13; 46. 2-4; xlix. Ex. iii. to De. xxxiii. Is. i. to Mal. iv. 1 Pe. i. 10-12. 2 Pe. i. 21.
<sup>b</sup> De. 18. 15. Ep. i. 10. Ga. 4. 4. 1 Pe. 1. 20. Jn. i. 14, 17; 15. 15. Mat. 21. 37;

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

11. 2. ch. 2. 3, 12; 3. 1, 6; 8. 6, 8; 9. 15. Mat. iv. to Ac. i.
<sup>c</sup> Ps. 2. 6-8. Is. 9. 6, 7; 42. 1-7; 49. 1-12; 53. 10-12. Ps. 22. 27-31; lxxii. xlv. xxi. xcvi.-c. cx. cxviii. lxxxix. Mat. 28. 18. Ps. 89. 26-29. Lu. 2. 11. Jn. 3. 35; 13. 3; 16. 15; 17. 2. Ac. 2. 36; 10. 36. Ro. 8. 17. 1 Co. 8. 6; 15. 27. Phil. 2. 9-11. Col. 1. 15-18. ch. 2. 9; 3.

by <sup>his</sup> Son, <sup>e</sup>whom he hath appointed heir of all things, <sup>d</sup>by whom also he made the worlds;

3 Who being <sup>e</sup>the brightness of <sup>his</sup> glory, and the express image of his person, and <sup>g</sup>upholding all things by the word of his power, when he had by himself purged our sins, sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high;<sup>b</sup>

<sup>d</sup> Ps. 33. 6. Jn. i. 3. 1 Co. 8. 6. Ep. 3. 9. Col. 1. 16, 17. <sup>e</sup> Phil. 2. 6. Zec. 13. 7. Col. 1. 15-17. Jn. i. 14. 14. 9. 10. 2 Co. 4. 4. 6. Is. 9. 6. Ro. 9. 5; 1. 4. <sup>g</sup> Col. 1. 17. Ps. 33. 9. Re. 4. 11.

4 Being made 'so much better than the angels, as he hath by inheritance obtained a more excellent name than they.

5 For unto which of the angels said he at any time, 'Thou art my Son, this day<sup>1</sup> have I begotten thee? And again, 'I will be to him a Father, and he shall be to me a Son?

6 And again, when he bringeth in the 'first-begotten into the world, he saith, 'And let all the angels of God worship him.

7 And of the angels he saith, 'Who maketh his angels spirits, and his ministers a flame of fire.

8 But unto the Son he saith, 'Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever: a sceptre of righteousness<sup>2</sup> is the sceptre of thy kingdom:

9 Thou<sup>a</sup> hast loved righteousness, and hated iniquity; therefore God, even 'thy God, 'hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows.

10 And, 'Thou, Lord, in the beginning hast

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

h ch. 9. 12-14, 26; 10. 72; 12. 2; 7. 27. Ps. 110. 1; 89. 27. Ep. 1. 20-22. 1 Pe. 3. 22; 1. 21. Re. 5. 6, 12; 3. 21. Mar. 16. 19. Col. 3. 1. ch. 4. 14; 8. 1. Ro. 8. 34.

i Ep. 1. 21. Phil. 2. 9. 10. Col. 1. 18; 2. 10. ch. 2. 9. 1. Pe. 3. 22. Re. 5. 11, 12.

j Ps. 2. 7. Ac. 13. 33. ch. 5. 5.

k See note on Ps. 2. 7.—C.

l 2 Sa. 7. 14. 1 Ch. 22. 10. Ps. 89. 26, 27.

m Ps. 2. 7. Pr. 8. 24, 25. Ro. 8. 29. Col. 1. 15, 18. Re. 1. 5.

n Ps. 97. 7. 1 Ti. 3. 16. Lu. 2. 9-14. Mat. 24. 31; 25. 31; xxviii. 1. Pe. 3. 22.

o Ps. 104. 4; 103. 20. Is. 6. 2. Ps. 68. 17. Da. 7. 10. 2 Ki. 6. 17.

p Ps. 45. 6, 7; 93. 1, 2; 72. 1-14; cx. cxlv. Is. 9. 6, 7; 32. 1, 2. Je. 23. 5, 6. Da. 7. 14. Re. 3. 21. Pr. 16. 12. Ge. 18. 25.

q Gr. rightness or straightness.

r ch. 7. 26. Mat. 3. 15. Lu. 24. 26. Da. 9. 24. 2 Co. 5. 21.

s Ps. 89. 26. Jn. 20. 17. Ep. 1. 3. 1 Pe. 1. 3.

t Is. 61. 1. Ps. 2. 6. Ac. 2. 28; 10. 38.

u Ps. 102. 25-27. Ex. 20. 11. Ps. 24. 1; 33. 6. Je. 32. 17. Is. 42. 5. Jn. 1. 3.

* Literally, '—Lest we flow aside;' i.e. from the things heard;—not attending to, not profiting by them.—P.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

u Is. 51. 6, 8. Ro. 8. 20-22. Is. 65. 17; 66. 22; 34. 4. 2 Pe. 3. 7, 10, 13. Re. 21. 4, 5.

v They shall be changed—not annihilated.—C.

w Mal. 3. 6. Ja. 1. 17. ch. 13. 8. 1 Ti. 1. 17; 6. 16. Is. 9. 6, 7; 41. 4.

x Ps. 110. 1; 118. 22. Mat. 22. 44. Lu. 20. 43; 19. 27. Ac. 2. 34, 36. 1 Co. 15. 25; 26. ch. 4. 14; 8. 1; 7. 26; 10. 12. Ps. 2. 6, 9; xxi. cx. xci. Re. xix. xx.

y Ps. 103. 20, 21; 104. 4; 34. 7; 91. 11. Ge. 19. 15, 16. Da. 7. 10. Mat. 18. 10. Ac. 5. 19; 12. 7; 16. 26.

z Ro. 8. 17. Ga. 3. 7, 9. 29. Ep. 3. 6. Tit. 3. 7. ch. 6. 12, 17. 1 Pe. 3. 7. Ja. 2. 5. Mat. 25. 34.

CHAP. II.

a ch. 1. 1, 2; 3. 6, 14; 4. 1, 11; 6. 6, 11; 10. 38; 12. 6, 15; 25; 13. 9. Ps. 119. 9, 11. Pr. 3. 21.

1 Gr. run out as leaking vessels.

2 See note * in first column.

b De. 33. 2. Ac. 7. 53. Ga. 3. 19.

c ch. 10. 28. De. 27. 26. Ex. 19. 21; 22. 18, 28; 31. 14; 32. 27. Le. 24. 14, 16. Nu. 4. 5, 15, 20; 15. 30-32; 25. 7. De. 13. 5, 6; 17. 2; 18. 20. 2 Sa. 6. 6. 1 Ki. 21. 20-24. Zec. 13. 3.

d ch. 4. 1, 11; 10. 29; 12. 25. Mat. 3. 7, 10, 12; 8. 12; 21. 40, 41; 22. 7; 23. 33, 37. 38. 1 Pe. 4. 17, 18. 2 Th. 1. 8, 9.

e Is. 45. 17. ch. 7. 25. Jn. 3. 16-18, 36. Ac. 2. 39; 13. 26. Ro. 1. 16. Ep. 1. 13. Tit. 2. 11.

laid the foundation of the earth: and the heavens are the works of thine hands:

11 'They<sup>u</sup> shall perish, but thou remainest: and they all shall wax old as doth a garment;

12 And as a vesture shalt thou fold them up, and they shall be changed:<sup>3</sup> but 'thou art the same, and thy years shall not fail.

13 But to which of the angels said he at any time, 'Sit on my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footstool?

14 Are they not all 'ministering spirits, sent forth to minister for them who shall be 'heirs of salvation?

CHAPTER II.

1 We ought to be obedient to Christ Jesus, 5 and that because he roushsafed to take our nature upon him, 14 as it was necessary.

THEREFORE we<sup>a</sup> ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should 'let them<sup>2</sup> slip.

2 For if the word spoken<sup>b</sup> by angels was stedfast, and every transgression and disobedience 'received a just recompense of reward;

3 How<sup>d</sup> shall we escape, if we neglect 'so takers of some office with Christ. Some prophets and priests, some priests and kings, &c., but none of them uniting, as he did, the three offices in one person. C.

Ver. 14. The Greek is more expressive than the English. It does not simply mean that angels have, in isolated and extraordinary cases, been sent on missions of mercy to man; but that they are ever thus being sent forth. It is their normal work. We have many cheering instances in Scripture. Angels took Lot out of Sodom; protected Elisha from the Syrians at Dothan; told the shepherds of Bethlehem that the Messiah had come; delivered Peter from prison, and Paul from shipwreck. The psalmist says, the 'angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them;' and Christ says of little children, that angels watch over them. P.

REFLECTIONS.—Blessed be God that he hath spoken so much in mercy and grace to men, and that we have so full evidence of the divine authority of both Old and New Testaments. Wisely hath he suited the manner of his revelations to the state of his church and the necessities of mankind. And now we enjoy the fullest, the clearest, and last discovery of his will that is to be expected on earth. Unbounded is the glory of our Redeemer, as the Son of God and our Mediator. Being essentially one God with, but personally distinct from and equal to his eternal Father, he is the creator, proprietor, and preserver of all things. His blood, infinitely precious and powerful, atoned for and purges away our sins; and in virtue thereof he is enthroned at the right hand of God: there he for ever reigns the self-existent JEHOVAH, the eternal and immutable God, the object of adoration to angels and men! How honoured then are his saints, who are members of his flesh, his blood, and his bones! Safe are they under his care, and guarded and ministered to by millions of his angels. And rich is their provided, their prepared, their faithfully secured inheritance of eternal salvation. How dead then ought they to be to this perishing world and all its concerns!

CHAPTER II. Ver. 1. Since Christ is thus infinitely superior to the ancient prophets, and even to the loftiest angels, it highly concerns us, who live under the more eminently glorious dispensation of the gospel, both in respect of duty and interest, to attend the more diligently, affectionately, and steadfastly unto—and with humble faith and love to esteem, embrace, meditate upon, and seriously improve—the everlasting doctrines thereof, which have been delivered unto us in the ministry of the Word; and to retain them carefully in our hearts and memories, and persevere in our holy profession of them—lest at any time, through the corruption, heedlessness, treachery, and prejudices of our hearts, or the temptations of Satan and the snares of this evil world, we should be carried away from the truth, and suffer it to slip out of our minds, and so should lose the benefit of it, and perish under its gracious administrations. 2. For if the law of Moses, which was given at Mount Sinai by the ministration of angels, acting as Christ's messengers, was established earth, who himself existed from eternity, and as unchangeable in himself, while he blesses all creatures for their good: 13. But which of the loftiest angels did ever God call to sit enthroned in majesty, power, and glory, at his right hand, till sin, Satan, death, and all his and his people's enemies should be subdued under his feet as vanquished rebels? 14. Nay, are not all these spiritual beings placed in an infinitely lower station, being no more than messengers and servants of Christ, whom he employs in revealing his mind to, and in protecting, serving, and assisting in life or death, all the faithful; who, under him, are, by faith and through grace, called to be highly honoured, and eternally to enjoy his complete salvation?

Ver. 1. More literally, '—In many parts and in many ways God, in ancient times, having spoken to the fathers through the prophets.' The four first verses form the general introduction to the book. In them Paul propounds his subject with great beauty of language, and with still greater rhetorical skill. His first object is to contrast the two dispensations—the New and the Old; and thereby to prove to the Jew the transcendent superiority of the former. The first point of comparison is as to the mode or manner of revelation. The Old was given 'in various parts and in various ways.' It was not revealed to one person, or at one time, or according to one uniform plan. This is indicated in the first verse. One thing is specially worthy of note in the present day. The apostle begins this sublime epistle by an acknowledgment of the divine authority of the whole of the Old Testament. God spake it all. He spake not merely by but in the prophets, as the Greek signifies. By his Spirit he took possession of them. Their words were thus made His words. This is, in fact, the foundation of Paul's whole argument. P.

Ver. 2. The words cannot mean the arrangement of dispensations, but the creation of the material and visible universe, agreeably to Jn. 1. 3, and likewise of its invisible powers, agreeably to Col. 1. 16, 17. C.

Ver. 4. Paul's object now is to institute a comparison between Christ, the Revealer of the New dispensation, and the angels through whose ministration, in some way which we cannot now fully discover, the Old dispensation was revealed, Ac. 7. 33. The degree of Christ's superiority to angels set forth in this verse consists—(1) In the name he obtained; and (2) In the way he obtained it. The name is SON, in its higher and peculiar sense, implying perfect equality with the Father. He obtained it by inheritance. Though Son from eternity in his divine nature, yet in his twofold nature, God-man, this name was not strictly his until it was conferred. He obtained the name therefore, but he obtained it by a right inherent in his divinity. P.

Ver. 6. And again, &c. Rather, 'But when he hath brought again the first-born into the world'—a manifest description of the resurrection of Christ, whereby he was demonstrated to be the Son of God with power, Ro. 1. 4. C.

Ver. 7. 'Who maketh his angels winds;' i.e. servants of his will, as the winds are—swift, powerful, unseen, in the execution of his purposes. 'And his ministers a flame of fire;' i.e. he makes them act by and through the lightning, carrying out the mysterious chemistry of nature, and often executing swift and terrible judgment. P.

Ver. 8. Thy throne, &c. With the view of evading the evidence afforded by these words to the Deity of Christ, they have been translated, 'God is thy throne for ever and ever.' But, in addition to the fact that the nominative is often in Greek used for the vocative, especially by the Attics, the Hebrew cannot be translated in any other way than as it is given in the authorized version. C.

Ver. 9. Thy fellows. Prophets, priests, and kings—all par-great salvation; which at the first <sup>a</sup>began to be spoken by the Lord, and was <sup>b</sup>confirmed unto us by them that heard him;

4 God<sup>i</sup> also bearing them witness,<sup>3</sup> both with signs and wonders, and with divers miracles, and gifts<sup>4</sup> of the Holy Ghost, according to his own will?

5 For unto the angels hath he not put in subjection the <sup>j</sup>world to come, whereof we speak.

6 But one in a certain place testified, saying, <sup>k</sup>What is man, that thou art mindful of him? or the son of man, that thou visitest him?

7 Thou<sup>l</sup> madest him a little lower than<sup>5</sup> the angels; thou crownedst him with glory and honour, and didst set him over the works of thy hands:

8 Thou<sup>n</sup> hast put all things in subjection under his feet. For in that he put all in subjection under him, he left nothing that is not put under him. But now we see not yet all things put under him.

9 But we see Jesus, who <sup>o</sup>was made a little lower than the angels, for<sup>6</sup> the suffering of death, crowned with glory and honour; that <sup>p</sup>he by the grace of God should taste death for every man.<sup>7</sup>

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

<sup>g</sup> Ro. 15.8. Mar. 1.14.
15. Mat. iv. to Ac. 1. ch.
1.2. Ps. 40.9, 10.
<sup>h</sup> Mar. 16.15, 20. Lu.
1.2; 24.47, 48. Ac. 1.2, 3;
8, 11. xi.
<sup>i</sup> Mar. 16. 17, 18, 20.
Ac. 2.22, 43; 14.3; 19.11.
12; 5.12, 15. Ro. 15. 19.
1 Co. 12.4, 11, 28.
<sup>j</sup> God being a co-witness—uniting his divine and infallible testimony with that of the apostles.—P.

<sup>k</sup> Or, distributions.
<sup>l</sup> ch. 1.4; 6.5; 8.6-13.
Re. 11.15, 2 Pe. 3.13.
<sup>m</sup> Ps. 8.4-6; 144.3. Job
7.17. Is. 40.17.
<sup>n</sup> Ps. 8.5. Ge. 1.26-29;
2.7-25. Ps. 2.6, 1 Pe. 1.
20, 21. Phil. 2.6-11. Lu.
24.26, 46. Is. 53.12. Ac.
5.31. Mat. 24.47.

<sup>o</sup> Or, a little while inferior to.
<sup>p</sup> Ps. 8.6. Ge. 1.28. 1
Co. 15.24, 27. Mat. 28.
18. Ep. 1.20-22. Phil. 2.
9-11. Col. 1.18; 2.10. 1
Pe. 3.22. ch. 1.2. Da. 7.
14. Mat. 17.27. Jn. 3.35;
13.3; 17.2.

<sup>q</sup> Is. 7.14; 11.1; 42.53;
2-12. Ro. 8.3. Ga. 4.4.
Phi. 2.7, 8. Mat. 1.17-
25. Lu. 3.5-7; 9.58. Mat.
1. i-xxvii. Mar. i-xv. Lu.
1. i-xxiii. Jn. i-xix.

<sup>r</sup> Or, by, Phi. 2.8, 9.
Jn. 5.27; 10.17. Ro. 14.9.
Ac. 2.33. Ps. 21.3-6. Is.
53.10-12.

<sup>s</sup> Jn. 3.16; 12.32; 4.9.
10; 1.12. 2 Co. 5.15. Re.
5.9. 1 Ti. 2.6. ch. 9.14, 28;
10.12, 14. Ro. 5.6-8, 10,
19. ver. 10-13.

<sup>t</sup> For every man of the many sons whom, as 'Captain of their salvation,' he conducts to glory.
See ver. 10, 11.—C.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

<sup>u</sup> Lu. 24. 26, 46. Ge.
18.25. Ex. 34.7. Ps. 11.6.
7. Ro. 3.25, 26. 1 Co. 1.
24; 2.7. Ep. 2.7; 3.10, 21.
1. ii. 2.14.
<sup>v</sup> Pr. 16.4. Ro. 11.36.
1 Co. 10.31; 8.6. 2 Co. 5.
18.
<sup>w</sup> Is. 2.3. Zec. 2.11.
Ro. 5.19-21. Re. 7.4, 9.
<sup>x</sup> Is. 55.4. Ac. 3.15; 5.
31. Phi. 2.9. ch. 5.9; 6.20; 12.2. Mi. 2.13.
<sup>y</sup> ch. 12. 2, 3; 5.8, 9.
Mat. 3.15. Lu. 13.32; 24.
26, 46.

<sup>z</sup> Perfect. As an example suited to his people in their present state of suffering, and a sacrifice sufficient to take away their sins.—C.

<sup>aa</sup> ch. 10.10, 14; 13.12.
Jn. 17.19, 21. Ga. 4.4. Jn.
1.14. Ac. 17.26.

<sup>ab</sup> Ps. 22.22; 18.2. Mat.
28.10. Jn. 20.17. Ro. 8.
29.

<sup>ac</sup> Ps. 18.2; 91.2; 28.8;
22.8. Is. 50.7, 9. ch. 12.2.
Is. 12.2.

<sup>ad</sup> Is. 8.18; 49.6; 53.10-
12; 55.5. Jn. 10.29; 17.6-12.

<sup>ae</sup> ver. 11. Is. 7.14; 11.
1. Jn. 1.14. Ga. 4.4. Ro.
8.3. Phi. 2.7, 8.

<sup>af</sup> Jn. 12.31. Col. 2.15.
1 Jn. 3.8. Is. 25.8. Ho.
13.14. 2 Ti. 1.10. 1 Co.
15.54, 55.

<sup>ag</sup> Lu. 1.74, 75. Ro. 8.
15. 2 Ti. 1.7. Is. 49.24-26.

<sup>ah</sup> Mat. 1.1-16. Lu. 3.
23-34. Ga. 3.16. Ge. 22.
18.

<sup>ai</sup> Gr. he taketh not hold of angels, but of the seed of Abraham
he taketh hold.

<sup>aj</sup> ver. 11.14, 16. Phi. 2.
7, 8. Jn. 1.14. Ro. 8.3.
Ga. 4.4, 5. ch. 4.15, 16; 5.
1, 2; 8.3; 9.14, 28; 10.10,
12, 14; 13.12.

10 For <sup>it</sup> became him, <sup>r</sup>for whom are all things, and by whom are all things, in bringing <sup>s</sup>many sons unto glory, to make <sup>t</sup>the Captain of their salvation <sup>u</sup>perfect<sup>8</sup> through sufferings.

11 For both <sup>v</sup>he that sanctifieth and they who are sanctified are all of one: for which cause he is not ashamed to call them <sup>w</sup>brethren;

12 Saying, I will declare thy name unto my brethren; in the midst of the church will I sing praise unto thee.

13 And again, <sup>y</sup>I will put my trust in him. And again, <sup>z</sup>Behold I and the children which God hath given me.

14 Forasmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, <sup>aa</sup>he also himself likewise took part of the same; that through death <sup>ab</sup>he might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil;

15 And<sup>c</sup> deliver them who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage.

16 For verily he took not on him the nature of angels; but he took on him <sup>a</sup>the seed of Abraham.<sup>9</sup>

17 Wherefore in all things it behoved him to be made <sup>like</sup>unto his brethren, that he might by divine authority and enforced with an awful sanction; and every contemptuous violation of any of its precepts, or act of wilful disobedience to the authority of God in it, was severely punished with death; 3. How can we expect to escape the judgments of God, in time or eternity, if, through carelessness or unbelief, we despise and reject the glorious gospel—which alone reveals, exhibits, and offers to us that spiritual, heavenly, and eternal salvation which was secured by the infinitely precious blood of Christ, and comprehends in it deliverance from so great sinfulness and misery, and an advancement to so great holiness, happiness, and glory as answers all our wants, and infinitely transcends all our conceptions: the first clear publication of which, without the veil of typical shadows, was begun in the personal ministrations of our Lord Jesus Christ himself on earth, and was further explained and confirmed to us Jews by his inspired apostles, evangelists, and others, who themselves heard him preach these glad tidings of salvation! 4. Yea, to assure us of the infallible certainty of their testimony, God himself attested their integrity and the truth of their doctrine by manifold miraculous operations and effects on the bodies of men, and by an abundant bestowal of spiritual gifts—such as prophecy, wisdom, knowledge, and utterance, speaking with or interpreting languages they never learned—which were dispensed by the Holy Ghost, in their different kinds and degrees, according to the insight of his infinite love. 5. But to proceed in our comparison of Christ with the holy angels, it is manifest that, in his mediatorial office, as well as in his divine Person, he is infinitely superior to them; for though God employed them as his heralds in publishing the law at Sinai, and employs them as ministering spirits to the heirs of salvation, yet he has not given them any headship or ruling power over the New Testament church, nor are its doctrines, ordinances, privileges, or blessings derived from or even published by them. 6-8. But the inspired psalmist David, when contemplating the magnificent works of God, breaks out into a rapture of admiration that God should so favour, support, and assist man; and, after a short debasement, constitute him the universal Lord and head of all his creatures, not one excepted—that he might conquer, subdue, and triumph over his enemies, overcoming all opposition and casting it beneath his feet. Now it is fully evident, from observation and experience, that never since the fall, neither mankind in general nor any particular one of them, has ever had an absolute and universal dominion over all things. 9. But though Jesus Christ has not yet put an end to all the opposition of his and his people's enemies, we certainly know, from the testimony of inspired writers, and from the marvellous effusion of the Holy Ghost in his miraculous gifts and graces, and the wonderful effects of the gospel in convincing and converting multitudes, that he, in consequence of his debasement, obedience, sufferings, and death, in the place of all the world, Jews and Gentiles, is exalted to the highest glory, power, and authority—that he might be in full capacity to accomplish the great end of his death in its complete salvation. 10. For however offensive the doctrine of his debasement may be to carnal Jews, who only look for a temporal deliverer, it infinitely well became, and tended to the singular glory of, the justice, holiness, wisdom, goodness, and other perfections of God the Creator, Preserver, and last End of all things, and of his holy law and government, in bringing all true, humble, and regenerated men to their complete happiness in heaven, to prepare and consecrate his only begotten Son, as their Prince, Leader, and Author of eternal salvation, to his heavenly work of intercession and government, by his suffering on their behalf and in their stead. 11. For both Jesus the Redeemer, who, by his blood, purges away the guilt and filth of all sin, and we, his redeemed, who have accepted Christ, are, by the constitution of the promise of grace, one in the view of the law; and are partakers of the same human nature, in the same condition of weakness, trouble, and mortality; on which account Christ, however great and glorious, does, and in the last day will, more openly avow us, however mean and despicable, to be his brethren; 12. Engaging in the great work by his personal ministrations, and by his servants, will make known the glory and celebrate the praises of his perfections and counsels among all people, faithfully gathering through their faith a loving people. 13. And, like one having communion with us in human affections, sufferings, and graces, he represents himself as trusting in God for support, assistance, success in, and reward of his work, and as ready to do whatever is necessary for our future or eternal salvation, who, as his spiritual children, were to be saved by faith. 14. Since therefore these children whom God has by faith called to be saved by him are equally partakers of immortal souls and mortal bodies as the rest of mankind, he also, having existed the Son of God from all eternity, did, in the fulness of time, assume a true human nature, with all its essential properties and sinless infirmities, into personal union with himself, that he, as their Kinsman-redeemer, in the same nature which sinned, might make a proper fulfillment to the law and justice of God; and that thus, by means of his meritorious death, which he suffered in their room and stead, to take away their sins and the curse of the law, and to secure their happy resurrection and eternal life—he might entirely conquer, overthrow, and make void the power of that great destroying adversary the devil, who, by means of Adam's first transgression, had brought sin and death upon men, and has a limited empire over death, to inflict it upon obstinate and incorrigible sinners, and to be their everlasting portion in eternal death; 15. And that through his suffering of death he might destroy death in its destructive influence; and deliver all people from the sting, dominion, and terrors of it, and in due time give them a complete victory and triumph over it—even though their inward sense of guilt, the terrors of the Jewish dispensation, or heathen ignorance of a happy immortality, had long rendered the thoughts of their death enslaving and terrible. 16. For, to accomplish these important ends, he did not lay hold upon the nature of angels, by taking it into personal union with his divine, as if he intended to recover any of them who fell from their original holiness and happiness; but, passing by them, he laid hold on, and personally united to himself, the far inferior nature of man, as derived from the patriarch Abraham, to whom God promised that in his seed all the nations of the earth should be blessed. 17. From which it is plainly evident that, in order to Christ's duly answering the great design of his office as their Redeemer and Saviour, it was thought fit and necessary that he should partake of their nature in all its essentials; and be made in suffering, and everything but sin, like unto the people whom he was to bring to glory—that so, by his own experience of sufferings in their stead, he might be the better qualified, and the more feelingly engaged, to act the part of a compassionate, tender-hearted High-priest for them towards God, in making answerable to his Father's justice for their sins, and in securing and procuring peace and reconciliation for them. 18. And having thus experimentally endured the temptations of Satan and troubles of this world, as well as the weight of all heinous sins, and triumphed over them, he is the more fit and inclined to sympathize with, support, comfort, and relieve his brethren, when exercised with any like temptations, afflictions, or trials.

Ver. 3. So great salvation. This salvation was 'great,' (1) In the love from which it sprung. (2) In the means by which it was accomplished—the incarnation, death, and resurrection of the Son of God. (3) In the means by which it is applied—the Spirit of the living God. (4) In the disease of sin and ruin of death from which it delivers. (5) In the rest and glory to which it conducts.

Ver. 5. The world to come is not the future state following death and judgment, but the times of Messiah in this world.

be a merciful and faithful high-priest in things pertaining to God, to make reconciliation for the sins of the people.

18 For<sup>g</sup> in that he himself hath suffered, being tempted, he is able to succour them that are tempted.<sup>1</sup>

CHAPTER III.

<sup>1</sup> Christ is more worthy than Moses, 7 therefore if we believe not in him, we shall be more worthy of punishment than hard-hearted Israel.

WHEREFORE,<sup>a</sup> holy<sup>b</sup> brethren, partakers of the heavenly calling, consider <sup>c</sup>the Apostle and High-priest of our profession, Christ Jesus;

2 Who was <sup>d</sup>faithful to him that appointed<sup>1</sup> him, as also <sup>e</sup>Moses was faithful in all his house.<sup>2</sup>

3 For<sup>g</sup> this man was counted worthy of more glory than Moses, inasmuch as he who hath builded the house hath more honour than the house.

4 For every house is builded by some man; but he that <sup>h</sup>built all things is God.

5 And <sup>i</sup>Moses verily was faithful in all his house, as a servant, for a testimony of those things which were to be spoken after;

6 But Christ <sup>j</sup>as a Son over his own house; whose<sup>k</sup> house are we, <sup>l</sup>if we hold fast the confidence and the rejoicing of the hope firm unto the end.

7 Wherefore<sup>n</sup> (as the Holy Ghost saith, <sup>o</sup>To-day if ye will hear his voice,

8 Harden<sup>p</sup> not your hearts, <sup>q</sup>as in the provo-

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

g Lu. 24. 26, 46; 4. 1-13. ch. 4. 15. 16; 7. 25, 26.
1 He succours them:
1. By giving them confidence in his love and power. 2. By thus enabling them to withstand temptations. 3. By giving them patience and comfort in trouble. 4. By sending in due time deliverance.—C.

CHAP. III.

a ch. i. 3; 2. 9, 10, 14, 17, 18.

b 1 Co. i. 2, 9. 2 Co. i. 1. Ep. i. 1, 4. 1. Phi. 3. 14. 15. Col. i. 2, 13. 2 Ti. i. 9. 1 Pe. 2. 9. 2 Pe. i. 3, 10. 1 Th. 2. 12. 2 Th. 1. 10. c Ro. 15. 8. Mat. 15. 24. ch. 2. 17; 4. 14; 5. 5; 6. 20; 8. 1; 9. 11; 7. 26; 10. 21, 22.

d ch. 2. 17; 5. 9; 7. 28; 10. 23. Is. 52. 13. Jn. 8. 29.

e 1 Gr. made; 1 Sa. 12.

f ver. 5. Nu. 12. 7. 1 Ti. 3. 15.

g ver. 1-5, 8-10; ch. 2. 9. Zec. 6. 12, 13. Mat. 16. 18.

h Is. 42. 5. ch. 1. 2, 10. Ep. 3. 9; 10. 2. Co. 5. 17.

i Nu. 12. 7. Ex. 14. 31. De. 3. 24. Jos. 1. 2; 8. 31. De. 13. 15, 18.

j Ps. 2. 6, 7, 12. 1 Ti. 3. 15, 16. Is. 9. 6, 7. ch. 4. 14; 10. 21. Jn. 8. 35, 36. Zec. 6. 12. Mat. 16. 18; 10. 25.

k 1 Co. 3. 16; 6. 19. 2 Co. 6. 16. Ep. 2. 19-22. 1 Ti. 3. 15. 1 Pe. 2. 5. Ep. 4. 12, 13. Col. 1. 27.

l Mat. 10. 22; 24. 13. Ga. 6. 9. Col. 1. 23. ch. 4. 14; 10. 23, 35, 39; 12. 1; 6. 11.

m 2 Sa. 23. 2. Mat. 22. 43. Ac. 1. 16; 2. 30. ver. 15; ch. 4. 7.

n Ps. 95. 7-11. ver. 15; ch. 4. 7. Pr. 27. 1. 2 Co. 6. 2. Lu. 19. 9. Ps. 119. 59. 60. Ec. 9. 10. Pr. 17. 15. 55. 6. ch. 2. 3; 12. 25.

o 2 Ch. 30. 8. Je. 4. 4. 14; 6. 8. Eze. 18. 30, 31; 33. 11. ver. 12, 13; ch. 12. 25.

p Ex. 17. 2. 7. Nu. 14. 22, 27; 20. 13. De. 6. 16; 29, 34.

q The argument of this section may be thus stated:—Moses was the executive head of the old dispensation. He was highly honoured of God, to whom he was a faithful agent. The Jews gloried in their law on this account. Paul shows that these were only types of the gospel realities. Christ is as much superior to Moses as the son and heir is to the slave; as the founder of a community is to the community itself; as the builder of a house is to the house; as the Creator to the creature.—P.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

r Ps. 78. 40, 41, 56. 1 Co. 10. 9.

s Ps. 95. 10. Ex. 14. 11, 12; 15. 24; 16. 2, 3; 17. 2, 3; 32. 7, 8. Nu. 11. 4, 14; 24. 11, 22; 16. 3, 19. 41; 20. 3; xxxi. 25. 1-3. De. 9. 7; 29. 4, 5. Ne. 9. 16, 17. Is. 63. 10. Ac. 7. 42, 44. Ps. lxxxviii. cxi. Eze. xx.

t ver. 18, 19; ch. 4. 3, 9. 11. Ps. 95. 11. Nu. 14. 20, 21, 23, 39, 35.

u Gr. If they shall enter.

v ch. 2. 1-3; 4. 1, 11; 10. 23; 12. 1, 15. Mar. 7. 21-23. Je. 2. 13; 17. 9. Ro. 7. 5. Is. 7. 9. Jn. 3. 18, 36.

w ch. 10. 24. 1 Th. 5. 14. Ps. 32. 7. Is. 55. 5. See ver. 7.

x Je. 17. 9. Pr. 28. 26. Ro. 7. 11. Ep. 4. 22. ch. 12. 1. Ja. 1. 14.

y Ep. 5. 30. Ro. 8. 17. ch. 1. 9; 4. 3; 6. 12.

z See ver. 6; ch. 6. 11. 1 Pe. 1. 5. Jude 1. Pr. 10. 25.

4 The full meaning of this passage may be ascertained by carefully comparing it with our Lord's words in Jn. 15. 1-6. Endurance—steadfastness in faith, is the evidence, not the cause of our union with Christ.—P.

a See ver. 7, 8, 13; ch. 4. 7. Ps. 95. 7-11.

b See ver. 9, 10. 1 Co. 10. 5-12. Nu. 14. 2-4, 11, 22; 26. 65.

c De. 1. 36, 38. Ro. 11. 4, 5.

d Nu. 14. 11, 22, 29, 37; 26. 64, 65. Ps. 106. 24-26. 1 Co. 10. 5-12. Jude 5.

e Nu. 14. 2-4, 11, 30. De. 1. 34, 35.

f ch. 4. 6. Nu. 20. 12. De. 1. 32. Jn. 3. 18, 36. Mar. 16. 16. 1 Jn. 5. 10. Is. 7. 9. 2 Ch. 20. 20.

cation, in the day of temptation in the wilderness;

9 When<sup>r</sup> your fathers tempted me, proved me, and saw my works forty years.

10 Wherefore<sup>s</sup> I was grieved with that generation, and said, They do alway err in <sup>t</sup>their heart; and they have not known my ways.

11 So I <sup>u</sup>sware in my wrath, They shall not enter<sup>3</sup> into my rest.)

12 Take<sup>v</sup> heed, brethren, lest there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God.

13 But <sup>w</sup>exhort one another daily, while it is called <sup>x</sup>To-day; <sup>y</sup>lest any of you be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin.

14 For we are made <sup>z</sup>partakers of Christ, <sup>4</sup>if we hold the beginning of our confidence steadfast unto the end;<sup>4</sup>

15 While it is said, <sup>a</sup>To-day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts, as in the provocation.

16 For<sup>b</sup> some, when they had heard, did provoke: howbeit <sup>c</sup>not all that came out of Egypt by Moses.

17 But with whom was he grieved forty years? <sup>d</sup>was it not with <sup>e</sup>them that had sinned, whose carcases fell in the wilderness?

18 And to whom sware he that they should not enter into his rest, <sup>f</sup>but to them that believed not?

19 So we see that <sup>g</sup>they could not enter in because of unbelief.

during which the prophecies concerning Jews and Gentiles will be all fulfilled. C.

Ver. 11. He that sanctifieth, does not here signify 'he that maketh holy,' but he that by his own death separates his people from the world and dedicates them to God. See Jn. 17. 19; He. 10. 10, 14.—Are all of one 'flesh and blood,' which his brethren had from Adam, which he received by the Holy Ghost, and by which, being himself without sin, he yet 'bore their sins in his own body on the tree.' See ver. 14. C.

Ver. 16. The word 'nature' is supplied by the translators, but the marginal reading is greatly preferable. Literally, it stands thus: 'For of angels he taketh not hold, but of the seed of Abraham he taketh hold.' C.

REFLECTIONS.—In the superior excellency of its principal preacher, in its manifold and marvellous attestation, and in the full and extensive salvation which it exhibits, the gospel far transcends the law of Moses. With great care and reverence, then, ought we to hear, receive, and retain it, and all the spiritual and eternal blessings which it conveys. To neglect so great a salvation is one of the most grievous sins, and exposes men to the most terrible wrath of God.—How astonishing is it that God should leave angels to perish in their sins, and fix his love upon men, and unite his Son to them! But never can we sufficiently adore the excesses of that love through which we behold him in our nature, for a time debased, suffering, and dead; and then gloriously exalted to his Father's right hand, as head over all things to his gospel church, and expecting till all his enemies be made his footstool. Infinite is the mercy that God should thus bring many sinful men, as his loved, blessed, and regenerated children, to eternal life through faith in Jesus Christ his Son. Yea, herein all his perfections are highly glorified, and his Son qualified to be an exalted intercessor and Captain of salvation. Delightful is Jesus' connection with us, as our elder Brother, and the source of all our sanctification, comfort, and victory over sin, Satan, fears, troubles, and death. And amazing is his Priesthood, and kind his manner of executing it. But great indeed are the effects of this love, that by the death of my divine Saviour I am made alive and free; and sin, devils, and death are conquered—that, by his temptations and trials, I am succoured under and delivered from mine! Since he, then, is merciful, let me always flee into his bosom; and since he is faithful, let me always adore and trust him.

CHAPTER III. Ver. 1. Since the great Author of the gospel is so much more excellent and useful than all the former prophets, and even angels, let me beseech you, my dear brethren by descent from Abraham, and, in the judgment of charity, brethren not only to me and all the saints, but even to Christ himself—separated to him by profession, devoted to his service, sanctified by his blood and Spirit, and tenderly called by the gospel to a state of union and fellowship with him, and to a full right to and anticipating possession of all the privileges of the new kingdom—more attentively to consider and seriously reflect upon the supereminent dignity of our Lord Jesus Christ, who, as the messenger of God, reveals to us the whole of the gospel truth which we profess, and as our great High-priest is the subject-matter thereof, who confirms and ratifies it by his death; and so is the author, life, and glory of our heavenly calling, and of our holy profession of his name, and of all our love to and hopes towards God through him; 2. Who being chosen, called, ordained, and sent by God to declare his whole will relative to the faith, worship, obedience, and salvation of the church, performed his work with a fidelity infinitely superior to Moses, his noted type, whom God himself attested as singularly faithful in publishing the whole system of laws and revelations given him, and in his whole government of his chosen people in the wilderness. 3. But, notwithstanding this honourable testimony, Christ is infinitely more honourable in himself, being not a mere man like Moses, but truly God-man in one person, and is worthy of infinitely greater honour, as he is the Former, Proprietor, Lord, and Head of the church, whereas Moses was but a member of it. 4. Nay, being the great Provider of all the materials, and Manager of all the affairs, of the Jewish or gospel church, for his own love, he can be nothing less than God himself. 5. And Moses indeed, not as a lord or proprietor, but as a servant, acted most faithfully in delivering the laws and ordinances of God about everything relative to the Jewish church, that he and they might be the distinguished figures of the far more excellent things which were to be more clearly revealed under the New Testament. 6. But though Christ graciously condescended to take upon him the form of a servant in his human nature and office capacity, yet, in what he has done relative to the church, he acted not merely as a servant, but as his Father's equal and only begotten Son, Heir of all things, and Lord of it, as his house or family, which he secured with his blood, gathered and formed, furnished, ordered, and governs, by his Word and Spirit; and of which all of us are members who, being truly united to him by faith, may, notwithstanding all the tribulations which befall us, steadfastly persevere in the faith, profession, hopes, comforts, and holiness of the gospel.—7. To warn such of you as are but nominal professors against utter apostasy, and quicken real believers to hold on and hold out to the end in their holy profession of Christ and his gospel, let me remind you of the charge given by the Holy Ghost to our fathers in the days of David. Now immediately, and without delay, while the present season of God's mercy and patience lasts, and his messengers are sent to you, if ye would attend to, regard, and embrace what he says by them, for your spiritual and eternal advantage, 8, 9. Take heed that ye do not wilfully shut your eyes against his light, nor stop your ears against his voice, and resist his Spirit, and so harden your hearts against his fear, and against all his methods of wisdom and love, for your present and future happiness, as your forefathers did, by their provoking unbelief, strifes, and murmurings in the wilderness of Arabia. I tried them by diversified dispensations of providence; and they for forty years, beholding my marvellous work of mercy and judgment, often put my faithfulness, power, kindness, patience, and just wrath to the trial; as if they had doubted my ability and willingness to fulfil my promises or threatenings. 10. Therefore, being all that time sorely displeased, and at length wearied out, with their re-

CHAPTER IV.

1 The rest of Christians is attained by faith. 12 The power of God's word. 14 By our high-priest Jesus the Son of God, subject to infirmities, but not to sin, 16 we must and may go boldly to the throne of grace.

LET us<sup>a</sup> therefore fear, lest, a promise being left us of entering into his<sup>b</sup> rest, any of you should seem to come short of it.

2 For<sup>d</sup> unto us was the gospel preached, as peated and aggravated unbelief and insolent behaviour, I solemnly declared them incorrigible in the error and perverseness of their hearts, and obstinately ignorant of and inattentive to my doctrines, laws, and ordinances, or any upright, holy, and peaceable conversation. 11. And, to render my threatening absolutely irreversible, I swear by myself, that, on account of their high and numberless provocations obstinately persisted in, not one of them, from twenty years old and upward, except Caleb and Joshua, who were men of another spirit, should ever enter into Canaan, which I had promised to Abraham and his seed, as a land of quietness, peace, and safety, in which I myself, in the ark of the covenant, would dwell among them; but should every one of them disgracefully die in the wilderness. 12. Being therefore warned by these awful examples, left for our admonition, and excited by a consideration of the dignity of Christ's person and office, and of our near concern with him, and of the rich advantages we may hope for from him, take heed, my dear Christian brethren, examine and watch over yourselves to the utmost, lest at any time, through the influence of Satan, the world, and your own corrupt hearts, unbelief—which, proceeding from an habitually sinful temper of soul, by distrusting God, and giving him the lie, reflects the highest dishonour upon his authority, sincerity, uprightness, faithfulness, power, and grace, and is the most noted and effectual spring and root of obstinate and final apostasy from God, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, who has all life in himself, and is the Author of all spiritual and eternal life to believers—should prevail in you. 13. And, as a mean of preventing this dreadful evil, not only guard against the first workings of unbelief and apostasy in yourselves; but, while your life and the day of gospel grace is continued with you, stir up and encourage one another, without delay, and upon every opportunity, to steadfastness in the faith, and to a holy and circumspect watchfulness against carnality of mind and negligence, and against the temptations of Satan, the allurements and terrors of the world, and everything which tends to carry you away from Christ and the gospel—lest any of you should be lulled asleep and stupified, and so led aside from him through the guileful and treacherous influence of indwelling corruption, magnifying the terror of sufferings for his sake, and the advantage of worldly ease, pleasure, affluence, or safety, and with fair pretences vanishing over the destructive ways of sin. 14. And it is of the utmost consequence for preserving us from this deceitfulness of sin and hardness of heart, to take heed that we be indeed real Christians; for it is manifest that we have a happy partnership with Christ in his righteousness, Spirit, grace, and benefits, as persons vitally united to him, and interested in all that he is and hath, when we hold fast our spiritual subsistence in him, and steadfastly maintain, and to the end of our lives persevere in our holy profession of him against all opposition and danger. 15. Take heed therefore now to yourselves, and do all that in you lies to fortify one another against apostasy; and if, while life and opportunity are continued, ye would believe and obey what God inculcates upon you for your good, beware of contracting an insensibility and hardness of heart, as your fathers did when they provoked the anger of the Lord against them by their unbelief and rebellion in the wilderness. 16. For most of them, after they had heard the law awfully published by God himself at Sinai, and had received the instructions relative to their ceremonial worship, instead of being suitably affected by it, indulged themselves in the highest provocation against God; nevertheless, Caleb and Joshua were men of a better spirit and conduct, and entered into the promised land. 17. But with whom of these Israelites was God so highly offended forty years as to exclude them from the promised land of Canaan? Was it not with those only who had repeatedly and notoriously rebelled against him through unbelief, and whose dead bodies, on account of their wickedness, lay slain, like miserable and detestable objects, in the Arabian desert through which they travelled to Canaan? 18. And against whom did God, in his just and awful indignation, swear that they should never be admitted to enjoy the privileges, peace, and blessings of that rest in Canaan? Was it not against those only who, notwithstanding all their professions and obligations, warnings and excitements, rejected God and his gifts by their unbelief? 19. It is therefore plain, from the whole, that unbelief was the root and spring of all their other provocations, by which they forfeited all right and claim to the promise of admission into the typical rest of Canaan.

Ver. 1. Holy. Separated from the world and dedicated to God. Such Christians are by profession, and, if that profession be sincere, such they are in reality. C.

Ver. 6. Over his own house. According as the Greek word is or is not aspirated, the translation will be 'over his house;' that is, over God's (ver 4) or 'his own house;' that is, over Christ's. — Whose house. House, in this place, evidently signifies 'family;' in which sense it is consequently to be understood, ver. 2-5, from which this is a conclusion. C.

Ver. 7. These words, quoted from Ps. 95, 7, were uttered and written, instrumentally, by David; they are, however, attributed directly to the Holy Ghost, because 'holy men of old spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost.' C.

Ver. 10. I was grieved. When 'grief,' 'wrath,' or other similar emotions are attributed to God, they are not to be represented as mere figures and accommodations and condescensions of God to the language of men; but are to be understood as exemplified in Jesus, 'God manifest in the flesh.' C.

Ver. 13. This 'deceitfulness' appears in many forms, especially the following: (1) The temptation promises a blessing, as Satan promised god-like immortality to our first parents. (2) Pleads that it is so little, it cannot be rigorously dealt with. (3) That it is infrequent and easily repented of. (4) That God is merciful, and will not rigidly enforce his laws. (5) Sin is disguised under fair names: pride is called spirit; covetousness, care; ungodliness is called thoughtlessness. C.

REFLECTIONS.—In dignity how far, how inconceivably far, Jesus, the God, the Maker, the Lord, the Proprietor and Governor of the church, transcends Moses, a mere man formed by himself, a member, a servant in it! Faithful was he to his Father, who constituted him mediator. And worthy is he to be contemplated, adored, trusted, and rejoiced in, and openly professed. But unworthy are those to be held members of his church who are not living by faith, sanctified by his Spirit, and resting daily in his grace. Alarming and earnest are God's calls and invitations to men; indispensably necessary is a present attention to his voice, and acceptance of his favours; and fearful is our guilt, and dreadful our danger, if we harden our hearts, and condemn his offers of grace. In nothing does the deceitfulness of sin more appear than in men's obstinate unbelief. If it reign in our heart, there is no apostasy but may be expected in our life, and no plague or remorse will be too dreadful for our reward. Alas! what multitudes of gospel hearers perish in this sin! And who knows what numbers are, by a holy God, consigned over to the power of it, and to irreversible condemnation for it, even in this life.

CHAPTER IV. Ver. 1. Since therefore God, as a warning to us, dealt so severely with our fathers for their disobedience and unbelief, it ought to be our deep concern to maintain an awful reverence of his greatness, holiness, and justice, and a religious dread of provoking him—not to dismay and dishearten, but to excite us to the most diligent use of all appointed means, in a humble dependence on his grace, for our own and others' preservation from apostasy and its terrible consequences—lest, when God, who is the contriver and author of, and who delights in, this rest, as recorded, exhibited, and given to us in the gospel, a gracious promise of admission to a state of peace and lively fellowship with him through Christ, in truly evangelical worship and obedience in this world, and of a glorious peace in the world to come, ye should, through sloth and unbelief, reject and forsake that promise or rest, or seem to faint in your Christian course towards it: 2. For the gospel of salvation has been now preached to us, as it was more obscurely to them; but the precious truth of God did not in the least turn to the real advan-well as unto them: <sup>e</sup>but the word preached<sup>1</sup> did not profit them, <sup>2</sup>not being mixed with faith in them that heard it.

3 For <sup>g</sup>we which have believed do enter into rest; as he said, <sup>h</sup>As I have sworn in my wrath, if they shall enter into my rest: although the works were <sup>i</sup>finished from the foundation of the world.

tage of many of them, when they heard it by Moses, or other inspired messengers of God; because they did not closely apply and appropriate the same to their hearts, and feed thereon by faith as the nourishment of their souls, and no more will that which we hear be eventually profitable to us unless we receive and digest it by faith. 3, 4. But as all entrance into God's promised rest is by believing, so those of us who have by a true and lively faith received and rested on Christ alone for salvation, do enter into a state of spiritual and evangelical rest and peace with God through him, according to the light and grace of the New Testament dispensation; and we now, by faith and hope, in gospel worship enter into the heavenly rest, as a pledge and assurance of our personal entrance into the full enjoyment of it in due time; for by comparing the several passages of Scripture which speak of God's rest, it is plain that there remains for us New Testament believers a rest far more excellent than that of Canaan. Even God's oath, excluding the unbelieving Hebrews from Canaan, supposed that all true believers should enter into his rest; so that here was a rest promised 2500 years after the rest of the creation had taken place, on the seventh day of the week and of time. 5. And, moreover, this oath, as it stands in David's psalm, must not be understood as merely relating to the Hebrews' entrance into Canaan, which had taken place more than 400 years before, but also to a rest which then remained to be entered into. 6. Since, then, God's threatening against them who believed not implied that some should actually enter in, and those to whom that typical rest was first preached, through their unbelief, did not enter; 7. Therefore God, by David, fixes another day of entering into his rest, and calls the Jews carefully to improve it, plainly intimating that what is there said related to a rest which was to be enjoyed long after they were in possession of the promised land: 8. For if Joshua, the son of Nun, that noted type of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, had put the Hebrews into the full possession of the rest ultimately intended in that psalm, the Holy Ghost would not, by David, have mentioned another season in which the Hebrews who dwelt in possession of Canaan were to seek a further rest, which could be no other than that which, being typified by the former, was to be introduced by Jesus Christ the Messiah. 9. Since therefore neither the rest of the seventh-day sabbath, nor the rest of the settlement in Canaan, could be intended by that TO-DAY mentioned by David, it is evident there must still remain, under the gospel state, a more complete and glorious rest, typified by the former, which is to be inherited by the true people of God, and which includes a spiritual rest by faith in Christ from Jewish ceremonies—from the law as a covenant—and the holy and joyful rest of the New Testament sabbath, in commemoration of his resurrection; and principally that heavenly rest of perpetual and immediate communion with Christ, of which all the preceding rests are but types, pledges, or foretastes. 10. For our Lord Jesus, having finished his obedience, sufferings, and death, rose again, and took possession of his heavenly glory, and so rested from his labours of securing our eternal redemption; even as God, when he had finished his work of creation, rested on the seventh day, and formed no more new kinds of creatures. And every believer who has entered into the spiritual rest of the gospel state and New Testament sabbath, ceases from loving or wilfully practising his former works of wickedness, and from resting on his once-beloved works of self-righteousness; and when, after finishing his course of obedience, conflicts, and trials, he enters into the complete and heavenly rest, he will perfectly cease from everything selfish, sinful, or troublesome. 11. Since, then, there remains for us a rest inexpressibly more safe, sweet, glorious, and lasting than that of Canaan, let us, in the use of all appointed means, and in dependence on divine grace, with the utmost diligence labour to overcome all difficulties, and break through all oppositions and discour-

4 For he spake in a certain place of the seventh day on this wise, 'And God did rest the seventh day from all his works.

5 And in this place again, 'If they shall enter into my rest.

6 Seeing therefore 'it remaineth that some must enter therein, and they to whom it<sup>3</sup> was first preached 'entered not in because of unbelief:

7 (Again, he limiteth a certain day, saying in David, 'To-day, after so long a time; as it is said, 'To-day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts.

8 For 'if Jesus<sup>4</sup> had given them rest, then would he not afterward have spoken of another day.

9 There remaineth therefore a 'rest<sup>5</sup> to the people of God.

10 For 'he that is entered into his rest, he also 'hath ceased from his own works, 'as God 'did from his.)

11 Let<sup>s</sup> us labour therefore to enter into that

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

1 Ge. 1.31; 2.2, &c.
2 Ps. 95.11. ch. 3.11.
3 ch. 3.16. Ro. 9.9-8;
11.1, 2, 5, 7. 21.2. 19. Jn.
10.27-9.

3 Or, the gospel.
4 ch. 3.18. 19. Ro. 11.
20.25. Jn. 3.18. 30.1 Jn. 5.
10.

5 Ps. 95.7. ch. 3.7. 15.
6 Jos. 1.-xxi. Ne. 9.
22.24. Ps. 78.55; 105.44;
135.12. Ac. 7.45.

7 Or, the gospel.
8 Joshua, whose name in Greek is Jesus.—C.

9 over. 1.3. Ga. 4.4-6; 5.
1. Is. 11.10. Zep. 3.17.
Eze. 34.14.25. Jn. 3.36.
Ac. 15.10. Re. 11.15; 17.
14-17; 14.13; 21.3.4. Is.
57.20. 19.20.

10 Or, keeping of a sabbath.
11 See ch. 1.3. 4.14; 8.
17.10.12.

12 Jn. 19.30. Re. 1.18.
Lu. 24.26. 46. or 1 Pe. 4.
1.2.

13 ver. 3.4. Ge. 2.1.2.
Ex. 20.11. 31.10.17.
14 See ver. 1. ch. 3.19.
2 Pe. 1.10. Mat. 7.13; 11.
12.28. Lu. 13.24.

* The dignity of the Jewish high-priest, his close converse with God, his sacrificial and intercessory work, all prescribed by divine authority, added vastly to the dignity of the Old Testament dispensation, and gave it a strong claim on the acceptance and veneration of the Jews.
Paul here proceeds to

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

show that to this also there is a parallel in the Christian dispensation. In it there is a high-priest infinitely more exalted in person, and more successful in work than the Jewish. The latter was only a type of
THE CHRIST—the divine High-priest.—P.

6 Or, disobedience.
7 Jn. 1.1.1 Jn. 5.7. Re.
10.13. or Jn. 6.63. Ps.
147.10; 119.11.

8 Ec. 12.11. Is. 11.4;
49.2; 55.11. Je. 23.29.
Ac. 2.37. 1 Co. 14.24.25.
2 Co. 2.16; 10.4.5. Ep. 6.
17. Re. 1.16; 19.21. Ro.
2.16.

9 Quick Living; receiving life from the Spirit of God.—C.

10 Job 26.6; 34.21. Ps.
33.13-15; 34.15; 90.8;
139.2. 11.12. Pr. 15.3.11.
Je. 23.23; 17.10. Jn. 21.
17. Re. 2.23.

11 Jn. 5.22.28. Ac. 17.
31. Ro. 14.9-12. 2 Co. 5.
10. Re. 20.12. Ec. 12.14.
y ch. 3.12. 17.26; 5.
10.6. 20.8; 1.9.12.24; 10.
21; 13.20. Ps. 110.4.

12 ch. 3.6. 14.6. 11; 10.
23; 12.1. 12; 13.7-9.

13 See note * in first
column.
14 ch. 2.17. 18. Ho. 11.
8. Is. 53.4.5. Lu. 22.28.
Phil. 2.7.8.

15 2 Co. 5.21. ch. 7.26;
9.28. 1 Pe. 2.22. 1 Jn. 3.5.
Dn. 9.24.

16 Ep. 2.18; 3.12. ch.
10.10-22. Mat. 7.7-11.
Jn. 16.23. 24. Is. 55.6.
Am. 5.4.

rest, lest any man fall after the same example of unbelief.<sup>6</sup>

12 For 'the word of God is 'quick,<sup>7</sup> and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discernor of the thoughts and intents of the heart.

13 Neither<sup>8</sup> is there any creature that is not manifest in his sight: but all things are naked and opened unto the eyes of him with whom we have to do.

14 Seeing<sup>9</sup> then that we have a great High-priest, that is passed into the heavens, Jesus the Son of God, let us 'hold fast our profession.<sup>8</sup>

15 For we have not an high-priest 'which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet 'without sin.

16 Let<sup>c</sup> us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need.

agements, that we may here enjoy all the refreshing and delightful privileges and blessings of the gospel state, and hereafter arrive at the still more refreshing and delightful heavenly glory; and stir up one another to seek after it—lest, through our slothfulness, carnal fear, and unbelief, we should fall short of it, as the Israelites in the wilderness, notwithstanding their distinguished relation to God, fell short of the rest in Canaan through their unbelief and cowardice. 12. And there is the greatest reason to maintain a godly jealousy over ourselves and one another, and there is noble encouragement for the utmost care and caution; for our Lord Jesus Christ, as the Word of life, has life in himself, and is the author of it to others; and the written Word, by the Spirit, has a quickening virtue to raise dead souls: yea, Christ, who is the almighty, omnipresent, omniscient, and heart-searching God, renders it a powerful mean of convincing the conscience, searching and affecting the whole heart, and subduing every thought and affection to the obedience of himself. 13. Nor can any of us escape his critical observation, or the searching influence of his Word, there being no creature, of whatever rank or kind, that lies concealed from his all-comprehensive view; but all persons and things, even the most secret thoughts, desires, hopes, and fears, tempers and dispositions, are most evidently exposed and clearly manifested to the critical and all-seeing eye of him to whom we must give an exact account of our state, qualities, inclinations, and conduct, in the last judgment. 14. Since therefore it is so dangerous to despise, neglect, or apostatize from the truths of the gospel, and since we have in this Jesus Christ, our present Observer and future Judge, so incomparable a High-priest, inconceivably great, divine, and excellent; thoroughly qualified for and exalted in his office—the most difficult and fundamental part of which he has performed on earth, and the remainder of which he is now executing in heavenly intercession for us,—let us be thereby encouraged in the exercise of faith, love, and holy obedience, and with steadfastness, diligence, and constant perseverance, to maintain a free and open confession of him, and professed subjection to him. 15. Nor is this our glorious High-priest less willing than able to sympathize with and relieve us under all our distresses; nor is he, even in heaven, insensible of or unaffected with our wants and weaknesses, miseries and dangers; but having, in his state of humiliation, experimentally known whatever we undergo in our temptations and troubles, though without sin, he is at once infinitely fitted to be our pattern in bearing them, and to sympathize tenderly with us in them, and to take away the iniquity which we unavoidably fall into by means of them. 16. Let us therefore, in view of his superlatively excellent and efficacious Priesthood, and his execution of it, in offering himself a sacrifice to honour God's justice, and make atonement for our sins, and his continual intercession for us at his right hand, boldly draw near to God by faith, in prayer and every other ordinance of gospel worship—since he is now seated, not on a throne of justice, to execute deserved justice upon us, but on a throne of free and condescending mercy and grace, to commune with and bless us—that, with familiar and holy freedom, and humble confidence in him, as our reconciled God and Father, we may ask of and receive from him the most merciful forgiveness of our sins, and compassionate relief under all our straits and miseries; and, finding favour in his sight, may obtain all gracious assistances and supplies, in every season of want, difficulty, trouble, temptation, or danger, especially the most perplexing.

Ver. 2. For unto us, &c. Rather, 'For we also have received good tidings as well as they—they of an earthly and typical rest; we of tribulation on earth, Jn. 16. 33, of peace and rest in heaven. C.

Ver. 3. For we who have believed do enter into rest, being read as a parenthesis, the union between ver. 2 and remainder of ver. 3 will be apparent. The Word preached did not profit the unbelievers, 'as he said, I have sworn,' &c.—The dignity of Moses was eminently displayed as the leader of Israel to the rest of Canaan. In this respect Christ is compared with him, and his glory, as antitype, shown to be infinitely greater than the type. Moses was not entirely successful; the rest of Canaan besides, even for those who survived to enter it, was imperfect and temporary. Christ's Leadership, on the other hand, is entirely successful; and the rest into which he conducts his people is perfect and eternal. P.

Ver. 9. There is a sabbatism, a holy rest, yet to come, distinct from the sabbath-rest of creation, which even unbelievers may enjoy, and distinct from the Joshua rest, from which unbelievers were, by the oath of God, excluded. C.

Ver. 10. He that is entered into his rest, is rendered by Brown and other eminent expositors 'every believer;' and 'his own works' are 'ver. 10: understood to signify his 'former works of wickedness, self-righteousness, conflicts and trials.' But surely if 'every believer' were already entered into the rest spoken of, there were no use in exhorting him to 'labour to enter' into it; see ver. 11. Nor can ceasing from 'works of wickedness' or 'self-righteousness' be justly drawn into comparison with God's ceasing from his works of creation! The rest spoken of is, therefore, that rest from labours and troubles into which they 'who die in the Lord' (Re. 14. 13) do immediately enter, 2 Co. 5. 8, and in which they shall be found 'when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with the angels of his power, 2 Th. 1. 7; Mat. 25. 32-46. C.

Ver. 12. The word of God. As Paul never calls Jesus 'the Word of God,' though that title is given to him by John (Jn. 1. 1; 1 Jn. 5. 7; Re. 19. 13), and as the phrase is justly applicable to the revealed Word, written or spoken, of the qualities of such revealed Word Paul appears here to speak. Nor is it reasonable, or agreeable to the manner of the Scripture, to interpret it, with Pyle and others, equally of Jesus, the Word incarnate, and of Scripture, the word written or uttered.—Soul, when contrasted with 'spirit,' signifies the living principle, with its appetites, desires, and feelings.—Spirit, when contrasted with 'soul,' signifies the thinking, immaterial part, which is separable from the body, and lives independently of destructible life, Ec. 12. 7; Lu. 24. 39. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Graciously has God maintained his gospel in the world all along since Adam's fall, though in different degrees of light. And when it is now set before us in its fulness and clearness, we ought carefully to beware of contemning and rejecting it. Alas! what multitudes hear it without ever being profited by it!—No hearing, without cordial believing, will avail to the salvation of our souls. And unless we immediately receive and digest what we hear, God may quickly swear in his wrath that we shall never enter into his rest.—Greatly preferable to that of Canaan, yea, infinitely excellent, is that spiritual, evangelical, and eternal rest into which true believers enter along with Christ!—Powerful and efficacious is God's written Word in the hand of Christ, the living and life-giving Word. With divine efficacy it penetrates into men's souls, for their conviction, reformation, and comfort; or for their condemnation and confusion. And infinitely awful, almighty, and heart-searching is he himself, to whom we must quickly give an account in the last judgment. But blessed be God, that while he is his Son, he is our great atoning and interceding High-priest and Almighty Saviour; and that, having had a sinless experience of our temptations and troubles, he is qualified with the tenderest compassion towards us, and is ascended into the highest heavens, now to appear in the presence of God for us. His character and work powerfully and delightfully encourage to steadfastness and openness in our Christian profession, and to familiar boldness in our dealings with God. Let then all my requests and hopes of pardon, help, comfort, and glory, depend on JEHOVAH's grace and Jesus' merits.

CHAPTER V. Ver. 1. To encourage us to improve the grace and power of our glorious and ascended, but affectionate and sympathizing High-priest, in such holy reverence and confidence in approaching to God, let us consider that, even under the typical dispensation, every high-priest was sanctified and set apart to his office from among the children of Israel, as one who partook of the same nature with themselves, and was appointed to represent and transact for men with God—that in their name and stead, and for their benefit, he might present to him all their legal offerings and sacrifices, animate or inanimate. 2. And thus the multitude of infirmities, sinful or natural, with which he was compassed about, did require, and, as it were, qualify him to bear with and readily atone for the sins of others, which had been committed through ignorance or mistake: 3. On account of which infirmities he was required to offer up sacrifices for his own sins, as well as for the sins of the people.—4. And it was further necessary that no man should assume to himself the office of priesthood till he had a most plain and manifest call from God to it, as Aaron and his sons had. 5, 6. In like manner Jesus Christ—who in our nature made atonement for our sins by the sacrifice of himself, that our persons and prayers might be accepted of God, as presented by and through him, and who, in his state of humiliation, experienced every sinless infirmity and temptation, that he might manifest the greatest forbearance and compassion to ignorant and wandering sinners; and who, having no sin, had no occasion to offer up any sacrifice for himself, but only for his people—

CHAPTER V.

1 The authority and honour of our Saviour's priesthood. 11 Negligence in the knowledge thereof is reproved.

FOR every<sup>a</sup> high-priest taken from among men is ordained for men in things pertain- ing to God, that he may offer both gifts and sacrifices for sins:

2 Who<sup>b</sup> can have compassion on<sup>1</sup> the ignorant, and on them that are out of the way; for that he himself also is compassed with infirmity.

3 And<sup>c</sup> by reason hereof he ought, as for the people, so also for himself, to offer for sins.

4 And<sup>d</sup> no man taketh this honour unto himself, but he that is called of God, as was Aaron.

5 So also 'Christ glorified not himself to be made an high-priest; but he that said unto him, Thou art my Son, to-day have I begotten thee.

6 As he saith also in another place, 'Thou art a priest for ever after the order of Melchisedec.

7 Who in the days of his <sup>h</sup>flesh, when <sup>i</sup>he had offered up prayers and supplications, with strong crying and tears,<sup>2</sup> unto him that was able to save him from death,<sup>3</sup> and <sup>j</sup>was heard in<sup>4</sup> that he feared;<sup>5</sup>

8 Though<sup>k</sup> he were a Son, yet learned he obedience by the things which he suffered;

9 And <sup>l</sup>being made perfect, he became <sup>n</sup>the

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

CHAP. V.

a ch. 2.17; 8.3, 4; 7.27; 9.9; 10.11; 14.14, with Ex. xxviii. 1, e. i. - xxvii. b ch. 2.18; 4.15, with Nu. 15.22-29; ch. 7.28. c 1 Or, can reasonably bear with. d Le. 4.31; 9.7; 16.6, 17. ch. 7.27. e 2 Ch. 26.16, 18. 1 Sa. 13.9. 2 Sa. 6.6, 7, with Ex. 28.1. Nu. 16.40. 1 Ch. 23.13. Je. 23.32. f Jn. 8.54, with Ps. 2.7. ch. 1.5. Ac. 13.33. Pr. 8.23-31. Mi. 5.2. Jn. 1.14; 16. Ro. 8.3. g Ps. 2.7; 110.4. ch. 6.20; 7.3. 15.17. ver. 10. h Ro. 8.3. Ga. 4.4. Mat. 8.20. 2 Co. 8.9. i Ps. xxii. lxxix. Mat. 26.38-44. 53; 27.46, 50. Jn. 17.12; 27. f. 2 The cause of the 'prayers,' supplications, strong crying and tears' of the incarnate Lord cannot be understood unless he is viewed as 'bearing our sins in his own body;' and the fuller description of his spiritual agonies may be found prophetically set forth throughout the book of Psalms. See Lu. 22.42, 43. Ps. xxii. &c. - C. 3 'To save him from death' does not signify to save him from the fear, but from the power of death, which earnest anxiety of our Lord was not simply personal, but included the deliverance of his whole church. - C. j Lu. 22.43. Ps. 22.21. Jn. 11.42. Mat. 27.47. k Or, for his piety. l Phil. 2.6-8. ch. 1.5. 8; 3.6; 2.10. Zec. 13.7. Mat. 3.15; 17.15. m Lu. 13.32. ch. 2.10. Da. 9.24. Jn. 17.4. n ch. 12.2. Ps. 68.18. Is. 45.17; 22.24; 25.55. 4; 49.6. Mat. 1.21. 1 Th. 1.10. Ps. 72.17. Jn. 10.28. ch. 9.1; 10.10, 14. o He feared—not as a sinner, not as a slave, but revered as an obedient Son. Such 'fear of the Lord' is the beginning of wisdom. - C. o Is. 1.19; 55.3. Zec. 6.15. Is. 62.12. Lu. 1.74. 75. Tit. 2.14. p ver. 6; ch. 6.20; 7.15; 17.3. Ps. 110.4. q Mat. 13.15. Jn. 16.12. 1 Co. 3.1. 2.2. Pe. 3.16. r Hard to be uttered. Hard to be explained; not on account of any special difficulty in themselves, but because of your dulness of hearing when we expound the Old Testament types of our Lord. - C. s 1 Co. 3.1-3. ch. 6.1; 10.32. 1 Pe. 2.1, 2, 9. 1 Ti. 3.16. 2 Co. 5.18-21. t Gr. hath no experience. u Ro. 1.16; 17.3. 21.2. Co. 3.9; 5.18-21. Ep. 1.13. Tit. 2.11-14. v 1 Co. 3.1, 2; 14.20. Ep. 4.14. 1 Co. 13.11. w Or, perfect. x Or, of an habit or perfection. y 1 Co. 2.6, 15; 13.1; 17.3. Ep. 4.13, 14. Phil. 15. z Therefore. Because you have been inattentive to spiritual things, and are still but babes. - C. a Phil. 3.12-15. ch. 5.12-14. Ep. 4.13, 14. 1 Co. 14.20; 2.6. b Or, word of the beginning. c Ep. 2.20. 1 Co. 3.10, 11. Mat. 7.24. d Is. 55.7. 3. Mar. 1.14. Ac. 2.38; 39; 19; 20.21. 1 Pe. 1.21. Jn. 14.1; 20.31. 1 Jn. 5.9-13. e ch. 9.14; 11.6. Ga. 5.19-21. Mat. 15.19. Ro. 1.28-32; 13.10-19; 7.5; 6.21, 23; 8.6. 1 Ti. 5.6. Re. 3.1. f Ac. 19.4-6; 8.16, 17. Mat. 28.19; 19.15, with Le. i. - xvi.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

CHAP. VI.

author of eternal salvation unto all them <sup>o</sup>that obey him;

10 Called<sup>p</sup> of God an High-priest after the order of Melchisedec.

11 Of<sup>q</sup> whom we have many things to say, and hard to be uttered,<sup>6</sup> seeing ye are dull of hearing.

12 For<sup>r</sup> when for the time ye ought to be teachers, ye have need that one teach you again which be the first principles of the oracles of God; and are become such as have need of milk, and not of strong meat.

13 For every one that useth milk is unskilful<sup>7</sup> in the <sup>s</sup>word of righteousness; for he is <sup>t</sup>a babe.

14 But strong meat belongeth to them that are of full age,<sup>8</sup> even those who by reason of use<sup>9</sup> have<sup>n</sup> their senses exercised to discern both good and evil.

CHAPTER VI.

1 He exhorteth not to fall back from the faith, 11 but to be steadfast, 12 diligent, and patient to wait upon God, 13 because God is most sure in his promise.

THEREFORE,<sup>1</sup> leaving<sup>a</sup> the principles of the doctrine<sup>2</sup> of Christ, let us go on unto perfection; not laying again the <sup>b</sup>foundation of 'repentance from <sup>d</sup>dead works, and of faith toward God, did not, in his incarnate state, by any private act of his own, assume to himself the honour of the gospel high-priesthood; but was from eternity called and appointed to it by his Father, by whom he was from eternity begotten, and by whom, in his resurrection from the dead, he was attested as his only necessary and essential Son; and who, in the most solemn manner, declared him an eternal Priest, without predecessor or successor, after the high order of Melchisedec, and not after the inferior order of Aaron; 7. Which glorious High-priest, while in our world, compassed about with the sinless infirmities of human nature, and overwhelmed with the most fearful pressures of divine work on our account—did, in the most fervent, humble, and pathetic manner, present his addresses and entreaties to God his almighty Father, who, if willing, could have delivered him from the terrors of death; and, on account of his holy reverence, had his prayers accepted; and, in answer to them, obtained proper assistance under, seasonable deliverance from, and the happy issue of, his sufferings in the glory of God, and the redemption of his church.—8. Though he was the eternal Son of God, the same in nature and perfections with the Father, and infinitely dear to him, yet, having condescended to the office of High-priesthood, and assumed our nature, that he might therein execute it, such was his zeal for the glory of God, and love to all men, that he submitted, in the exercise of faith, patience, self-denial, resignation, humility, and readiness of mind, practically to learn what and how good it is to obey his Father's commands, even unto the death of the cross; yea, to learn, by severe experience, what difficulties and distresses, and yet rich advantages, attend obedience; and how to sympathize with us in our sufferings. 9, 10. And having completed his whole obedience and suffering, and being thereupon fully consecrated to the high intercessory work of his Priesthood, he became the procuring and efficient cause of eternal salvation from everything sinful or miserable, and to everything holy and happy, to all such as diligently hearken and yield up themselves to him as the Captain of their salvation—whom God has represented and styled a Priest, not constituted after the order of Aaron, but after the superior order of Melchisedec: 11. Concerning whom, in his kingly, but especially in his priestly office, in which he typified our Redeemer, we gospel preachers have many important things to deliver, which, on account of your remaining sloth, ignorance, and rigid attachment to the ceremonial law, can scarcely be yet rendered plain to your minds. 12. For—when considering the great advantages for instruction which have been afforded you, and the time ye have enjoyed the gospel dispensation, ye ought to have been capable of instructing others in the knowledge of Christ—ye have made so little proficiency, that ye need to be taught over again the plain fundamental principles of the Christian faith, revealed in the infallible dictates of the Old and New Testaments; and some of you have so declined in knowledge, that no instructions can suit your capacity but the most easy and familiar articles of Christianity, being unable to understand the more mysterious points, how all the ancient types are accomplished in the person and offices of Christ. 13. For every one who has no appetite for or ability to understand anything but the first principles of the doctrines of Christ, is very inexpert at understanding, receiving, and improving the great truths of the gospel—in which the righteousness of God is revealed from faith to faith, and Christ is represented as the end of the law, moral and ceremonial, for righteousness to every one that believes, and in which we are taught to live in the practice of righteousness, as persons united to and justified in Christ. 14. But the more sublime doctrines are most fit for the nourishment of those believers who are far advanced in the knowledge of the truth, and who, by much consideration and experience, and by much reading, hearing, meditation, and prayer, have their spiritual senses qualified to discern and distinguish between what is good or bad, true or false, beneficial or pernicious, and know how to choose and embrace the one and refuse the other.

2 Of<sup>e</sup> the doctrine of baptisms, and of lay-

Ver. 4. Honour—that is, 'office,' as the Greek word is often used.—Note, This text can never be tortured into the service of the papal succession; for the question is merely concerning the appointment of a Jewish high-priest, who was superseded by Christ; and Christ, no doubt, has many ambassadors, but can have no successor, because 'he is a priest for ever,' ver. 6; ch. 7.24. C.

Ver. 8. Had the 'obedience' of Christ in his human nature been without learning and suffering, he had neither been an example nor a sacrifice for men in a state of learning and suffering. C.

Ver. 9. Made perfect. As 'an example,' by passing through all the conditions of human nature, yet without sin; as a 'sacrifice,' both in the spirit and in the body; and as a 'Saviour,' by finishing his appointed course of humiliation, and arising from the dead in power. C.

REFLECTIONS.—No sin can be pardoned without an atonement Saviour. And wonderful are the glories of Jesus Christ our great High-priest and atoning sacrifice! How divinely high, holy, and pure; and yet certainly bone of our bone, and flesh of our flesh, and compassed about with all our sinless infirmities! Solemn was his call to his work, and high his order, yet deep his condescension and self-abasement.—Fervent and successful his prayers, great his sufferings, and perfect his obedience. And by all these he becomes the complete Author of eternal salvation to all them that obey them. No true happiness can be had without holiness as an ingredient of it. Alas! that after all the discoveries of him in the gospel, many should have such indistinct conceptions of him, and be so indolent in improving the means of grace offered them! And transcendent is his mercy in providing food for weak as well as for strong Christians in his Word. But how great must be their presumption, their danger, who intrude themselves into the ministerial office, when Christ entered not on his without his Father's call!

CHAPTER VI. Ver. 1, 2. But since it is unworthy of Christians to be always babes in knowledge, let us, for the present, forbear insisting on the fundamental principles of Christianity—such as an evangelical grief for and turning from sinful courses, which mark men spiritually dead and prepare them for eternal death; and of a cordial belief of God's being and perfections, and humble trust in him for the accomplishment of all his promises (which two points were figured out by the ancient ceremonial washings, and the laying on of hands on the heads of the sacrifices); and of the resurrection of both righteous and wicked at the last day, to receive their everlasting reward; and of the general judgment consequent thereupon, in which men's eternal happiness and misery shall be finally and irreversibly determined by Christ: and let us discourse of, and embrace with holy care and diligence, those great mysteries of the gospel relative to the person and offices, particularly the High-priesthood of our Redeemer. 3. And this, by the direction and assistance of God, I shall quickly proceed to, in order to prevent your apostasy from him. 4-6. For if professed Christians, who have been once remarkably enlightened in the knowledge of gospel truths by his Word and Spirit, in his common and miraculous operations, and have had a remarkable inward experience of the powerful ing on of hands, and of resurrection of the dead, and of eternal judgment.

3 And<sup>h</sup> this will we do, if God permit.

4 For <sup>it</sup> is impossible for those who were once<sup>j</sup> enlightened,<sup>3</sup> and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost,

5 And <sup>h</sup> have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come,

6 If they shall fall away, <sup>to</sup> renew them again unto repentance; seeing they <sup>crucify</sup> to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put <sup>him</sup> to an open shame.

7 For<sup>o</sup> the earth which drinketh in the rain that cometh oft upon it, and bringeth forth herbs meet for them by<sup>4</sup> whom it is dressed, receiveth blessing from God:

8 But<sup>p</sup> that which beareth thorns and briers is rejected, and is nigh unto cursing; whose end is to be burned.

9 But, beloved, <sup>we</sup> are persuaded better things of you, and things that accompany salvation, though we thus speak.

10 For <sup>God</sup> is not unrighteous to forget your work and labour of love, which ye have showed toward his name, in that ye have ministered to the saints, and do minister.

11 And we desire that every one of you do

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

g See 1 Co. xv. Mat. 25. 30-46. Re. 20. 11-15. Ac. 17. 31; 26. 8.
h ver. 1. Ac. 18. 21. Ro. 15. 32. Ja. 4. 15. 1 Co. 4. 19; 10. 7.
i ch. 10. 26, 27, 29. Mat. 5. 13; 12. 31, 32, 45. Jn. 15. 6. 2 Pe. 2. 20, 21. 1 Jn. 5. 16. ch. 12. 15.
j ch. 10. 32. 2 Pe. 2. 20, 21. Nu. 24. 3, 15, 16; 23. 10. Mat. 7. 22. Lu. 10. 19. 1 Co. 12. 10. 1 Pe. 3. 12. ch. 2. 4.

3 This is not a description of the saving renewal by God's Spirit, but refers only to a clear and intellectual instruction in the principles of religion.—C.

4 Mar. 4. 16; 6. 20. Is. 6. 9. 1 Co. 12. 10. Ga. 3. 2, 3. 5. ch. 2. 4, 5.

5 Is. 1. 28. See on ver. 4. Ps. 51. 10.

n ch. 10. 29.

o Is. 3. 10; 55. 10-13. Ps. 65. 10. Ca. 8. 11, 12. Mat. 13. 12; 25. 29. 1 Co. 15. 38. Ga. 6. 9, 10.

4 Or, for.

p Is. 5. 6-24. Eze. xv. Je. 26. 6, 44, 22. Mar. 11. 14, 21. Lu. 13. 7-9. Mat. 25. 41. ch. 10. 27. 2 Th. 1. 8, 9.

q ch. 10. 39; 3. 1; ver. 10. Phi. 1. 6, 7; with ver. 4-6.

r De. 32. 4. Ps. 20. 3; Pr. 14. 31. Mat. 10. 42; 25. 40. Mar. 9. 41. Jn. 13. 20. Ro. 13. 8; 15. 26. 1 Co. 16. 15. 1 Th. 1. 3. 2 Th. 1. 6, 7. ch. 10. 32-34; 13. 3. Re. 2. 2.

* Two immutable things. Some think by a promise and an oath; but are they not rather the two oaths of God, the one confirming the promise to Abraham, and the other constituting Christ a Priest for ever? ch. 5. 6; 20. 7, 17, 20; 21. 28.—C.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

s Ro. 12. 11. 1 Co. 15. 58. 2 Pe. 1. 10; 3. 14. Phi. 3. 8-15. 1 Th. 5. 11, 12. t ch. 3. 6, 14; 10. 22, 35. Col. 2. 2. Ga. 5. 5. Phi. 1. 6.

u Ro. 12. 11. 1 Co. 15. 58. 1 Pe. 15. 19. 2 Pe. 1. 4-10. ch. 5. 11.

v ch. 12. 1, 2; 13. 7; 11. 8, 13. Ca. 1. 8. Ps. 45. 16, 17.

x Ge. 22. 16, 17; 17. 7; 12. 3. Ps. 105. 9. Mi. 7. 20. Lu. 1. 73. Eze. 16. 8.

y Ge. xii. -xxi. Ro. 4. 17-20; 2. 7. ch. 10. 36, 37. Hab. 2. 3, 4.

z Ge. 14. 22; 21. 23; 31. 53; 24. 3. Ex. 22. 11. De. 6. 13. Je. 4. 2.

a ver. 12; ch. 11. 7, 9. Ga. 3. 29. Ro. 8. 17. 1 Pe. 3. 7. Mat. 25. 34.

b Ps. 33. 11. Pr. 19. 21; 21. 30. Ja. 1. 17. Ro. 11. 29. Job 23. 13. Mal. 3. 6.

c Gr. interposed himself by an oath.

6 See note * in first column.

d Nu. 23. 19. 1 Sa. 15. 29. De. 32. 4. Tit. 1. 2. 2 Ti. 2. 13. Ro. 3. 3, 4.

e Is. 40. 1, 2; 49. 13; 51. 3, 12; 54. 1-17. 2 Co. 1. 3-5. 2 Th. 2. 16, 17.

f Nu. 35. 11. Ge. 19. 14, 17. Is. 45. 22; 60. 8; 55. 3, 7. Eze. 33. 11. Zec. 9. 12. Mat. 11. 28. Ro. 8. 24. 1 Ti. 1. 1; 6. 12. ch. 12. 1, 2, 22-24.

g See ver. 11. Ps. 130. 7; 42. 11; 43. 5. Je. 14. 8; 17. 17.

h Le. 16. 15. ch. 9. 3, 7, 24, 25; 10. 19, 20.

i The veil here referred to is that which covered 'the holy of holies,' and which was passed only by the high-priest once a year.—C.

j Jn. 14. 2. ch. 1. 3; 4. 14; 8. 19. 24. Ro. 8. 34. Jn. 12. 24. Re. 3. 21. Ep. 2. 5, 6.

k ch. 3. 1; 9. 11; 5. 6, 10; 7. 1-17. Ps. 110. 4. Ge. 14. 17-20.

*show the same diligence <sup>to</sup> the full assurance of hope unto the end:

12 That<sup>u</sup> ye be not slothful, but <sup>followers</sup> of them who through faith and patience inherit the promises.

13 For<sup>w</sup> when God made promise to Abraham, because he could swear by no greater, he sware by himself,

14 Saying, Surely blessing I will bless thee, and multiplying I will multiply thee.

15 And so, <sup>after</sup> he had patiently endured, he obtained the promise.

16 For men verily <sup>swear</sup> by the greater: and an oath for confirmation is to them an end of all strife.

17 Wherein God, willing more abundantly to show unto the <sup>heirs</sup> of promise <sup>the</sup> immutability of his counsel, confirmed <sup>it</sup> by an <sup>oath</sup>;

18 That by two immutable things,<sup>6</sup> in<sup>c</sup> which <sup>it was</sup> impossible for God to lie, we might have <sup>a</sup> strong consolation, <sup>who</sup> have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope set before us:

19 Which<sup>g</sup> <sup>hope</sup> we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast, and which entereth into that <sup>within</sup> the veil;<sup>7</sup>

20 Whither <sup>the</sup> forerunner is for us entered, <sup>even</sup> Jesus, <sup>made</sup> an High-priest for ever after the order of Melchisedec.

virtue and sweetness of God's word, and of the powerful operations of the Holy Ghost, peculiar to the New Testament church, wilfully apostatize from the profession of the gospel to Judaism or heathenism, they absolutely reject the only remedy which God has appointed for their recovery, and provoke him to abandon them to a desperate voluntary blindness of mind and hardness of heart, leaving no room for an effectual renovation and recovery to any true and saving repentance—because they practically approve the wickedness of those who crucified the eternal Son of God, and persecute him in his members; yea, manifest that they would again crucify him as a noted impostor, if they had opportunity; and after distinguishing trials of the power, excellency, and sweetness of his truths, openly renounce them, and him in them, as if they had found him as infamous and deceiving as ever his enemies pretended. 7, 8. For, to compare professed Christians to fruitful and barren soils, those who, being inwardly renewed by God's grace, bring forth fruits of righteousness, which are, by Jesus Christ, acceptable to God, and for the praise of his glory, shall be further owned and blessed of him with his spiritual favours and influences, that they may still more abundantly increase in faith, love, and holy obedience, and become more and more meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light; but they who partake only of the forementioned illuminations, external means and advantages, without a habit of true grace in their soul, and produce nothing but unbelief, impenitence, hardness of heart, and the entangling, hurtful, and self-ruining fruits of wickedness proceeding therefrom, are on the very point of falling under the immediate execution of God's curse upon them, and of being in time and eternity left to their own doings. 9. But as to most of you, whom I look upon and love as sincere believers, beloved of God, I am confident that ye have experienced better things than the above-mentioned privileges, attainable by reprobates—even the special and saving blessings of repentance, faith, justification, and others, which flow from vital union with Christ, and really secure and issue in eternal salvation; though, for your warning and the awakening of false professors, I have suggested to you what terrible apostasy and ruin men may fall into after distinguished appearances of grace. 10. And my persuasion of your perseverance and eternal happiness is founded on the stability of the promise of grace; for God, who is equity and truth itself, never did, nor will, unfaithfully violate his promises of gracious rewards, to be conferred through the faith of men; nor will he be unmindful of those acts of holiness and righteousness by which ye have manifested your faith in, love to, and regard of his person, honour, and authority; and particularly of that compassion, tenderness, and liberal assistance which ye have and still do manifest to his despised and afflicted saints, in these days of poverty, peril, and reproach. 11. But knowing that the end and means are related in his gracious purposes and promises, I earnestly beg of him, and beseech you to labour in his strength, that every one of you may constantly persevere, and more and more abound in such diligent care and endeavours to bring forth the genuine fruits of faith and love, till, by the blessing of God thereon, ye have a full and fixed assurance of your blessed interest in Christ and the promises of eternal life; 12. That to obtain it, and under the influence of it, ye may be excited to the utmost diligence in using the means of grace, and fulfilling the duties of your station, in imitation of and following after those believers in former ages who, notwithstanding manifold tribulations, have, through a fixed faith in God's promises, and patient waiting for the accomplishment thereof, got beyond all their sins and troubles, and entered into the possession of the heavenly inheritance. 13, 14. And to encourage your hope and perseverance in faith and patience, consider how God has condescended to give us the utmost assurance of his punctual and faithful accomplishment of his promises: for, to instance in one leading promise, upon which all the rest depend, when God promised to Abraham a seed from which the Messiah should descend, in whom all the nations of the earth were to be blessed, he confirmed it by an oath, as the strongest security for the fulfilment of it; and because he could not, like us in our oaths, appeal to a greater, he appealed to his own being and perfections, and, as it were, solemnly pledged them for the truth and performance of his promises—in which he engaged himself abundantly and certainly to bless Abraham with all the blessings of time and eternity, and to give him innumerable multitudes of descendants, temporal and spiritual. 15. And accordingly, after he had long waited with patience and hope, under manifold trials of his faith, God fulfilled his promise in blessing him with greater worldly prosperity, and in multiplying his children during his life, as an earnest of his divine and spiritual seed, and in admitting him at death, through faith in the Messiah, who was to spring from his loins, into the full possession of eternal life. 16. And herein God gave him the fullest assurance possible of his veracity, according to the most valid and approved method which men use for the satisfaction of their fellow-creatures as to the truth of what they affirm or promise; for, on important occasions, it is their custom to ascertain and fix their declarations and promises with an oath, in which they call the infinitely great God to attest their sincerity, and to punish them if they falsify their affirmation or engagement; and such an appeal is reckoned the most strong and decisive evidence that can be given of the truth of what they say, to the satisfying of all doubts, determining of all debates, and silencing of all contradictory testimonies. 17. In this strongest form of assurance, to put an end to all the doubts, fears, and disputes of his people, who are the heirs of the promised blessings, with respect to his promises of grace and salvation, and to give superabundant evidence that his free and eternal mind of love manifested in his promises, are unchangeably the same, and shall never be repealed, defeated, or falsified, if only his people are faithful to Christ; 18. That, by the unchangeable word and oath of the unalterably true and faithful God, we might have the firmest ground possible for the most abundant, prevailing, and solid comfort, to overcome all doubts and fears, and support us under all our afflictions and temptations, who have willingly, under a sense of guilt and danger, fled, with the utmost eagerness and speed, concern and vigour, for deliverance and safety to Christ, the promised seed, and to lay hold on him, and on all the blessings of salvation in him, as proposed to our faith and hope in the declarations and promises of the gospel: 19. Which object of hope, as laid hold on and trusted in by faith, secures our souls from destruction, and holds them fast and steady amidst all the dangers and troubles of this present life, since he hath passed into the highest heaven, and our hope in him penetrates through the visible heavens, and fastens upon him, and his Father through him, as exhibited in his promises; 20. Into which heavenly, blessed, and glorious state, Jesus, our exalted Head and Saviour, is entered, not alone, as the Aaronic high-priest, into the holy of holies, but as our Forerunner, to open for us an abundant entrance, notify our coming,

CHAPTER VII.

1 Christ Jesus is a priest after the order of Melchisedec, 11 and so far more excellent than the priests of Aaron's order.

FOR this <sup>a</sup>Melchisedec, king of Salem, priest of the most high God, who met Abraham returning from the slaughter of the kings, and blessed him;

2 To whom also Abraham gave a tenth part of all; first being by interpretation <sup>b</sup>King of righteousness, and after that also King of Salem,<sup>1</sup> which is, King of peace; and prepare mansions for us; and as our everlasting High-priest, after the order of Melchisedec, to make continual intercession for us, upon the footing of his righteousness, fulfilled in our stead.

Ver. 4. Tasted of the heavenly gift. Who have found that God's gift of his Son for the salvation of believers (Jn. 3. 16) is sweeter to the hungry soul than honey or the honey-comb to the bodily taste.—Partakers of the Holy Ghost, in his miraculous evidences by tongues and other miracles. C.

Ver. 5. Have tasted the good word. Felt and acknowledged their need of a Saviour, and of pardon through his blood.—The powers of the world to come. The terrors of the Lord in judgment, and the hopes of rest and glory. C.

Ver. 6. If they fall away. Rather, 'and having fallen away;' that is, having apostatized from the profession, and renounced the principles of Christianity.—To themselves. Rather, 'within themselves,' in their hearts, in which they have 'crucified the Lord' in purpose, as the Jews and Romans did in reality. C.

REFLECTIONS.—With great care we ought to learn the fundamental principles of the Christian religion. But not content with this, we should make daily progress in knowledge, for our spiritual edification, and establishment in faith, comfort, and holiness. Men may go great lengths even in a kind of experimental religion, and nevertheless remain destitute of the grace of God. But inexpressibly dangerous is apostasy from the truths of Christ after such high attainments. And hardened and loose professors terribly expose themselves to redoubled ruin in hell, if not also fearful miseries in this life. With great care and prudence should ministers faithfully awaken the secure, so as not to distress the weakest believer. Love to God, appearing in kindness to his poor saints, and in a holy conversation, is a certain mark of true grace in the heart; and diligence in religion is the way to thrive in it. And if we have any good hope of eternal salvation, we ought to labour after a full assurance in it. Faith and patience, exercised in our heart, will produce perseverance in our life. And the example of former saints should quicken us to it, while the promise and oath of God, and the exaltation of our Redeemer, give us the fullest and surest ground of encouragement in it. Rich, numerous, and suitable are the blessings which God has prepared for them that fear him; and marvellous is his condescension in giving such abundant security for the accomplishment of his kind purposes, and gracious promises of eternal life. Happy are they who, deeply convinced of guilt, and pursued by storms, have fled to Jesus Christ for refuge, and who, amidst all their troubles, have anchored their souls by faith and hope on him, as exalted to his Father's right hand to prepare a place for them. Storms of every kind can but drive them home to their High-priest and Saviour.

CHAPTER VII. Ver. 1. For this famous Melchisedec, of whom our Lord Jesus, in his kingly and priestly office, is the great antitype, was a renowned king of the ancient accursed Canaanites at Salem, and divinely called to officiate as a priest among them; and, meeting with Abraham in his return from the slaughter of Chedorlaomer's army, he not only refreshed his fatigued warriors with bread and wine, but, in the execution of his priestly office, authoritatively pronounced a blessing on him, and all those Jews or Gentiles who were represented by him as his seed; 2. To him Abraham, in acknowledgment of his superior character of priesthood, paid the tithes, or tenth part of all the spoil which he had taken in the war; and his name, and that of his abode, represents him as first a king of righteousness, and then king of peace; 3. Yea, his whole genealogy of ancestors or successors, and his birth, death, and the beginning and ending of his priesthood, are entirely concealed by the Holy Ghost in Scripture, that by this means he might be a more eminent type of the eternal Son of God, who is at once our most glorious, generous, and compassionate King and great a Ge. 14. 17-20. Ps. 76.2; 57.2; 78.35, 56. Da. 4.2; 5. 18, 21. Mi. 6. 6. Mar. 5. 7. Ac. 16. 17. Ge. 16. 14-16. Is. 41. 2, 3.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

CHAP. VII.

b With Is. 32. 1, 2; 9. 6, 7. Ps. 45. 6, 7; 72. 1-17. Je. 23. 5, 6; 33. 15, 16. Mi. 5. 2. Ep. 2. 14.

1 It has been the opinion of the Jewish commentators from the earliest ages that Salem was the ancient name of Jerusalem, their chief reason being that the name is given to the city in Ps. lxxvi. In this passage the apostle may possibly refer to a place; but the scope would rather indicate the contrary—namely, that he considered King of Salem a descriptive title, like King of Righteousness.—P.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

2 Or, without pedigree.

c Is. 7. 14. Je. 31. 22. Lu. 1. 34, 35. Ps. 2. 7. Jn. 1. 14. Ro. 8. 3. 1 Ti. 1. 17. ver. 17, 25-28.

d Ge. 14. 20. ver. 2, 6, 8.

e Ac. 2. 29; 7. 8.

f Nu. 18. 21-26. De. 18. 1. Jos. 14. 2. 2 Ch. 31. 5, 6. Ne. 13. 10-12.

h Jn. 10. 34. Ro. 3. 21.

High-priest, in and by whom all his faithful servants and people are blessed with all spiritual blessings, and to whom even the greatest acknowledge their dependence, and to whose superiority they submit; and who, being our righteousness and peace, rules in righteousness, and procures and bestows on all his subjects peace with God, with their consciences, and with one another; and who, being without mother as God, without father as man, has no predecessor or successor in his office, but, as immediately appointed by God, abides a Priest for ever, to make continual intercession for us. 4. Now that ye may have the more clear and exalted views of the excellency and dignity of Christ's priesthood, think seriously how great a man Melchisedec, who but typified him, must have been, when Abraham, the progenitor and covenant-head of the whole Hebrew nation, acknowledged him his sacred superior, by giving him the tithes of his spoil. 5-7. We cannot but observe also that the Jewish priests descended from Levi receive tithes only from their brethren and equals, and that by virtue of a law from God, assigning them that portion which belonged to God himself; but here one of a very different stock received tithes from Abraham, their most honoured progenitor, and authoritatively blessed him in the name of God; and common sense dictates that he who authoritatively blesses another must be superior to him in dignity. 8. Besides, the Levitical receivers of tithes are represented to us as mortal men, dying one after another; but this Melchisedec, by the veil cast over his history, is never represented as one dead, but only as living. 9, 10. And, moreover, all those Levites who by the Mosaic law receive tithes from their Hebrew brethren, really, though indirectly, paid tithes to Melchisedec, being all in the loins of Abraham, as their ancestor, covenant-head, and representative, when Melchisedec met him; and so must be greatly inferior to Melchisedec, who, after all, was no more than a type of our infinitely more excellent and dignified Jesus Christ, the great King and High-priest of his church. —11. Now, it is plain that if perfection of atonement for sin or acceptance with God, or in the form and fellowship of the visible church, and especially in holiness and happiness, could have been really and effectually obtained by the Levitical priesthood, in connection with which the Jews received and in part observed the law of Moses, there could have been no need to introduce a high-priesthood after another and higher order. 12. It therefore necessarily follows that the Levitical priesthood, and the ceremonial law connected with it, must be changed and abolished to make way for a better priesthood, and an evangelical dispensation, in the person of Christ; for if the priesthood established by and connected with the ceremonial law of Moses be altered, that law, the administration of which was chiefly confined to the Aaronical priesthood, must also be abolished, to make way for this evangelical constitution, which derives its efficacy from that more excellent and exalted order of priesthood. 13, 14. And as one evidence hereof, it is manifest that Jesus Christ, who was prefigured by Melchisedec, did not spring of the tribe of Levi, to which the legal priesthood was restricted, but of the tribe of Judah, none of which had any warrant from God to officiate as priests, in offering sacrifices, burning incense, or the like. 15-17. And another evidence that the Levitical priesthood, and the ceremonial law which depended on it, must be abolished, is, that there is now, according to ancient predictions, divinely raised up a High-priest after the different and more excellent order of Melchisedec—even a High-priest who is not appointed to his office according to the ceremonial law of carnal ordinances given by Moses, by which the frail and decaying descendants of Levi were appointed to theirs,

3 Without father, without mother, without descent,<sup>2</sup> having neither beginning of days, nor end of life; but made <sup>c</sup>like unto the Son of God, abideth a priest continually.

4 Now consider <sup>d</sup>how great this man was, unto whom even the <sup>e</sup>patriarch Abraham gave the tenth of the spoils.

5 And verily <sup>f</sup>they that are of the sons of Levi, who receive the office of the priesthood, have a commandment to take tithes of the people according to <sup>h</sup>the law, that is, of their

but by a far more excellent and abiding constitution, suited to that unchangeable life which he has in himself as the eternal Son of God, and to that eternal life of glory and honour to which he is now advanced as God-man Mediator; for, as hath been repeatedly hinted, God, by solemn oath, declared him, in his one person, a Priest for ever, after the order of Melchisedec. 18. And in this new and everlasting priesthood of Christ there is really, supposed or implied, an abrogation of the whole ceremonial law of Moses, as insufficient and unavailable to purge men's consciences from guilt, or to justify them to eternal life: 19. For that law was of itself quite incapable of perfecting its worshippers in anything belonging to their conscience and reconciliation with God, and was merely intended to prefigure Jesus Christ and his priestly character and work, and the gospel state of the church founded thereon—by the introduction of which is presented to us a better ground of confidence towards God, and a better, nearer, and more advantageous access to him, than ever the Jews, or even their priests, had by the law. 20, 21. And to assure us hereof, Christ was not chosen and installed in his priestly office in the less solemn manner of the Aaronic priests; but to mark the excellency, unchangeableness, and perpetuity of his priesthood, his Father constituted him a Priest for ever in his own person, with the irrevocable solemnity of an oath. 22. Yea, in proportion to the superior excellence of his priesthood to the Levitical, in its nature and form of installment, Jesus, our once crucified but now exalted Saviour, was divinely constituted the undertaker, promiser, and sponsor for us in the infinitely more excellent kingdom of grace, particularly with respect to its last dispensation under the gospel, when, by his death, it was put in force, and clearly dispensed to men in the form of a testament, in which all his secured blessings are freely given to all who believe. 23, 24. And further to manifest the weakness and unprofitableness of the legal or ceremonial dispensation, the priests, being all mortal, succeeded one another in their different generations, and could never after death resume their office; but Jesus Christ, being God-man, who could never die out of his office, but perpetually and everlastingly abides in the execution of it, without any interruption by his death, has, in his own single person, an unchangeable and everlasting priesthood, which cannot pass away from him to another. 25. From what has been said concerning Christ as our great High-priest, it necessarily follows that he has not only all divine ability originally in himself, but also all official power and authority, as well as willingness to give complete deliverance from all sin and misery, fears and dangers, and to advance to all the glory and blessedness of the heavenly state—to the utmost of their wants, desires, hopes, and capacities, and to the utmost boundaries of infinite duration—all those that, in prayer, or other parts of gospel worship, come unto God through him as their only Mediator,—seeing he ever liveth as God in their nature, and as their great High-priest and Advocate, to make continual intercession for them; pleading that, through the merits of his obedience and suffering, all the spiritual, temporal, and eternal blessings of the new kingdom may be given them in due time: 26. For such an excellent, almighty, and ever-living High-priest was necessary and alone fit for us, who is, in every respect and degree, pure from sinful pollution in heart and life, and who, in holiness, as well as in dignity, authority, and exaltation, far transcends all the holy angels and glorified saints in the heavenly state; 27. Who needed not, in the manner of the Aaronic priests, first to offer up sacrifice for his own sins, and then for the sins of his people, nor needed to repeat his sacrifice for their sins—his once offering of himself, as an atoning sacrifice, being brethren, though they come out of the loins of Abraham:

6 But he, whose descent<sup>3</sup> is not counted from them, received tithes of Abraham, and blessed<sup>j</sup> him that had the promises.

7 And without all contradiction<sup>k</sup> the less is blessed of the better.

8 And here men that die receive tithes; but there he receiveth them, of whom it is witnessed that he liveth.

9 And, as I may so say, Levi also, who receiveth tithes, paid tithes in Abraham.

10 For he was yet in the loins of his father when Melchisedec met him.

11 If<sup>o</sup> therefore perfection were by the Levitical priesthood, (for under it the people received the law,) what further need was there that another priest should rise after the order of Melchisedec, and not be called after the order of Aaron?

12 For the priesthood being changed, there is made of necessity a change also of the law.<sup>4</sup>

13 For he of whom these things are spoken pertaineth to another tribe, of which no man gave attendance at the altar.

14 For it is evident that our Lord sprang out of Juda; of which tribe Moses spake nothing concerning priesthood.

15 And it is yet far more evident: for that after the similitude of Melchisedec there ariseth another priest, 16 Who is made, not after the law of a carnal commandment, but after the power of an endless life.

17 For he testifieth, Thou art a priest for ever, after the order of Melchisedec.

18 For there is verily a disannulling of the commandment going before, for the weakness and unprofitableness thereof.

19 For the law made nothing perfect, but the bringing in<sup>5</sup> of a better hope did; by the which we draw nigh unto God.<sup>6</sup>

20 And inasmuch as not without an oath he was made Priest:

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

3 Gr. pedigree.
i Ge. 14.20.
j Ge. 12.3; 13.14-17.
Ro. 4.13; 9.4. Ga. 3.16.
Ac. 3.25.

k Ge. xxvii.lix. De.
xxxiii. Ep. 1.3, with ch.
1.4.

l ver. 3.16; ch. 5.6. Re.
1.18.

m Ge. 14.20. Ac. 7.8.

n ver. 18.19; ch. 10.1.
3; 8.7, 8, 10. Ga. 2.21; 3.
21.

o Ps. 110.4. ch. 5.6, 10;
6, 20; ver. 3.15, 17, 21.
Ge. 14.17-20, with Ex.
xxviii. l.e. viii. ix. i-
xvi. xxiii. Nu. xv.
xxviii. xxix.

4 A change of the law of the priesthood, and of the ceremonial and typical institutes, which departed as shadows when Christ, the body, came, ver. 14, 18; ch.
10.1. Col. 2.17; but not a change of the moral law, which is essentially unchangeable, because not a type of anything to come, but a moral image of the holiness of God.—C.

g Ge. 49.10. Is. 7.14;
11.1. Je. 23.5, 6; 33.15;
16. Mat. 1.3, 16. Lu. 3.
33. Ro. 1.3, 2. Ti. 2.8. Re.
5.5; 22.16.

r Ps. 110.4. ch. 5.6, 10;
6.20. ver. 3.14, 17, 21.

s ch. 9.9, 13; 10.1. Col.
2.5, 14, 20. Ep. 2.15. Ga.
4.3, 9.

t ver. 3.17, 21, 25, 28.
Re. 1.18.

u Ps. 110.4. ch. 3.6, 10; 6.20; ver. 1-3, 21. Ge. 14.
17-20.

v ver. 11, 12, 19; ch. 8.
7, 8, 15; 10.1-9. Ga. 4.9.
Ro. 8.3. Ps. 51.16. Is. 1.
11-16; 66.3.

x ch. 10.1, 2; 9.9. Ac.
13.30, 31, 38. Ro. 3.20, 28.
3. Ga. 2.16; 3.21, 24.

5 Or, but it was the bringing in.

y ch. 11.40; 2.3, 4, 4.
14; ver. 3.20-28. Ga. 2.
16. Ro. 8.3. Jn. 1.17. ch.
8.2, 6. 1 Ti. 1.1. Col. 1.
27.

z Ro. 5.2. Ep. 2.13, 18;
3.12. ch. 4.16; 6.18-20;
10.19-22. Jn. 14.6.

6 Verses 18 and 19
ought to be closely connected, and the first clause of ver. 19 placed in a parenthesis as follows:—'For besides (in proof of the general statements in ver. 15-17) there is (takes place) an abrogation of the preceding commandment because of its weakness and unprofitableness (for the law made nothing perfect), and an introduction of a better hope by which we draw nigh to God.'
This makes the passage plain, and preserves the connection with the context.
—P.

* The oath is referred to in ver. 21. It is mentioned in Ps. 109.
4, and was consequently recorded subsequently to the giving of the law.—P.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

7 Or, without swearing of an oath.

a Ps. 110.4. See ver.
11, 17, 28.

b Ps. 40.6-8. Is. 53.4-6, 10-12. Da. 9.24, 26.
Mat. 20.28. 2 Co. 5.21. 1
Pe. 2.24; 18.

c ch. 8.6; 9.15; 12.24;
11.40.

d 1 Ch. vi. xxiv. Ezz.
2.36-39. Ne. 7.39-42; 10.
2-8; 11.10-14; 12.1-21.

e Is. 9.6, 7. 1 Ti. 1.17.
Ro. 9.5; 9.9. Re. 1.18.
Jn. 12.34, with ver. 1, 3;
17, 21, 25, 28. Ps. 110.4. 1
Sa. 2.25. ch. 13.8.

f Or, a priesthood which passeth not from one to another.

g Is. 45.22; 63.1. Jude
24. Jn. 10.7, 9, 10; 14.6.
1 Pt. 2.13, 18. 1 Ti. 2.5. Jn.
6.37, 40-57.

h Or, evermore.

i Ro. 8.34. ch. 9.24. 1
Jn. 2.1, 2. Re. 8.3, 4.

j Ex. 28.36; 29.1. l.e.
viii. ix. xxi. 22.4-6. Is.
53.9. Lu. 1.35. Ac. 3.14;
4.27. 2 Co. 5.21. 1 Pe. 2.
22; 1.19. ch. 4.15; 9.12, 14.

k Mar. 16.19. Lu. 24.
51. Ac. 1.9; 3.21. Ro. 8.
34. ch. 1.34, 14, 15; 2, 10;
8, 19, 24; 10.12-14. 1 Pe.
3.22. Ep. 1.20-22.

l Higher than the heavens—inasmuch as he that sits upon is higher than the throne, ch. 8.1.—C.

2 The last clause refers to the kingly glory and power of Christ. As the church's Head he has universal dominion. This is necessary, 1, that he may be able to subdue all the church's enemies, and 2, take believers to heaven.—P.

k l.e. 9.7, 14; 3.16, 6, 11.
Ro. 6.10. ch. 1.3; 5.3; 8.
39, 7, 12, 28; 10.12, 14. 1
Pe. 2.24; 18.2 Co. 5.21.

3 For this (latter, and not both these things, namely, offering for his own as well as for the sins of the people) he did once.—C.

l ch. 5.1, 2. l.e. 4.3; 9.
7; xxi.

4 See note * in first
column.

n ch. 2.10, 14; 5.6, 9,
10; 7.3, 17, 21, 25. Ps. 110.
4.

5 Gr. perfected.

6 Or, perfected.

7 Or, perfected.

8 Or, perfected.

9 Or, perfected.

10 Or, perfected.

11 Or, perfected.

12 Or, perfected.

13 Or, perfected.

14 Or, perfected.

15 Or, perfected.

16 Or, perfected.

17 Or, perfected.

18 Or, perfected.

19 Or, perfected.

20 Or, perfected.

21 Or, perfected.

22 Or, perfected.

23 Or, perfected.

24 Or, perfected.

25 Or, perfected.

26 Or, perfected.

27 Or, perfected.

28 Or, perfected.

29 Or, perfected.

30 Or, perfected.

31 Or, perfected.

32 Or, perfected.

33 Or, perfected.

34 Or, perfected.

35 Or, perfected.

36 Or, perfected.

37 Or, perfected.

38 Or, perfected.

39 Or, perfected.

21 (For those priests were made without an oath;<sup>7</sup> but this with an oath by him that said unto him, 'The Lord sware and will not repent, Thou art a priest for ever after the order of Melchisedec:')

22 By so much was Jesus made a surety of a better testament.

23 And they truly were many priests, because they were not suffered to continue by reason of death:

24 But this man, because he continueth ever, hath an unchangeable priesthood.<sup>8</sup>

25 Wherefore he is able also to save them to the uttermost<sup>9</sup> that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them.

26 For such an High-priest became us, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, and made higher than the heavens;<sup>2</sup>

27 Who needeth not daily, as those high-priests, to offer up sacrifice, first for his own sins, and then for the people's: for this he did once,<sup>3</sup> when he offered up himself.

28 For the law maketh men high-priests which have infirmity; but the word of the oath, which was since the law,<sup>4</sup> maketh the Son, who is consecrated<sup>5</sup> for evermore.

CHAPTER VIII.

1 By the eternal priesthood of Christ the Levitical priesthood of Aaron is abolished. 7 And the temporal covenant with the fathers, by the eternal covenant of the gospel.

NOW of the things which we have spoken this is the sum: We have such an High-priest, who is set on the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in the heavens;

2 A minister of the sanctuary,<sup>1</sup> and of the true tabernacle, which the Lord pitched, and not man.

3 For every high-priest is ordained to offer gifts and sacrifices: wherefore it is of necessity that this man have somewhat also to offer.

4 For if he were on earth, he should not be a priest, seeing that there are priests that offer gifts according to the law:

5 Who serve unto the example and shadow of such infinite worth as to finish transgression, and make an end of sin, obtain eternal redemption, and perfect for ever them that believe. 28. For the ceremonial law appointed men priests who were sinful, weak, and mortal; but the oath of God, which was afterwards intimated, invested the eternal Son of God, who is absolutely unblemished and perfect, with a priesthood which is of perpetual duration and efficacy for the salvation of men.

Ver. 3. Without father, &c., is generally understood to signify 'without a father' who was a priest.—Without a mother who was daughter of a priest.—Without descent, without scriptural genealogy, ver. 6.—Beginning of days, any fixed period for commencing.—Nor end of life, any fixed period for denitting the priestly office, such as the descendants of Levi enjoyed. But, truly, since 'he abideth a priest continually,' and 'liveth for ever,' it seems difficult to arrive at any other conclusion than that he was a manifestation rather than a mere type of Christ, and such as Abraham subsequently enjoyed. See Ge. 15. 1-18; 17. 1-22. C.

Ver. 11. Perfection is predicated, through the remaining parts of this epistle, chiefly of the following subjects: (1) Of the priesthood of Christ, which is pronounced perfect, because he was sinless, ver. 26, 27; because his office was unchangeable, ver. 16, 24, 28; because in him sacrificial offering terminated, ch. 10. 10-12; because remission of the sins of believers was, by his sacrifice, completed, ch. 10. 16; because, by his ascent, access to God was opened, ver. 19; ch. 10. 19-22; and by his intercession the salvation of believers is made sure, ch. 7. 25. (2) Of the perfect promise exhibited and confirmed in Christ, ch. 8. 6-13; 9. 9-14. (3) Of the perfect inheritance secured to the children of God, ch. 9. 15. (4) Of the perfect condition of his church, whether as triumphant or militant, ch. 11. 40. (5) Of the perfect work of the Spirit to be wrought in believers on earth; and, (6) Of the perfect state of the saints in the glory of heaven, ch. 12. 22-24. C.

Ver. 27. Daily. Inasmuch as the high-priest did not offer 'daily,' but annually, on the day of expiation, it has been proposed to render the phrase, 'from time to time.' This, however, is a straining of the original, and is by no means necessary, inasmuch as the high-priest might justly be said to offer daily what he offered, not by himself, but by any of the other priests. See 1 Ki. 8. 62-64; 9. 25. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Superlative is the excellency and royal dignity of our great High-priest Jesus Christ. In his supernatural and divine call; his transcendent ability to fulfil all righteousness and bless his people; in the dignity and moral qualifications of his person; in the solemn manner of his instalment; and in the spiritual nature, marvellous efficacy, unchangeable and incommunicable nature and perpetual duration of his priesthood, he far transcends all Levitical priests of the Old Testament. Consider, O my soul, how great this God-man is! Never, by attempts towards self-righteousness, strive to put him from or deprive him of the honour of his priesthood. And while he lives as a Saviour, a righteous Advocate, with the Father, let nothing, not even sin itself, while felt and lamented over, hinder my boldest approaches to his throne of grace.

CHAPTER VIII. Ver. 1. Now all that I have said, in comparing Christ to Melchisedec and the Aaronic priests, may be summed up in this—that in him we have a transcendently more glorious High-priest, who, after offering himself as a sacrifice of infinite value and efficacy, is, in virtue thereof, advanced to the most glorious state of rest, dignity, power, and authority in heaven; 2. That there, in the heavenly sanctuary, and in the tabernacle of his own manhood, both of which were framed, not by human influence, but by the immediate operation of God himself, he may for ever carry on the intercessory work of his priesthood for the gracious promoting and securing of our eternal salvation. 3. For the special business of every high-priest, for which he is appointed and authoof heavenly things, as Moses was admonished of God when he was about to make the tabernacle: <sup>h</sup>for, See, saith he, that thou make all things according to the pattern showed to thee in the mount.

6 But<sup>i</sup> now hath he obtained a more excellent ministry, by how much also he is the Mediator of a better covenant,<sup>2</sup> which was established upon better promises.<sup>3</sup>

7 For<sup>j</sup> if that first covenant had been faultless, then should no place have been sought for the second.

8 For finding fault with them,<sup>4</sup> he saith, Behold,<sup>k</sup> the days come, saith the Lord, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah:

9 Not<sup>l</sup> according to the covenant <sup>that</sup> I made with their fathers in the day when I took them by the hand to lead them out of the land of Egypt; <sup>because</sup><sup>5</sup> they continued not in my covenant, and I regarded them not, saith the Lord.

10 For this <sup>is</sup> the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel<sup>6</sup> after those days, saith the Lord; I will <sup>put</sup><sup>7</sup> my laws into their mind, and write them in<sup>8</sup> their hearts: and <sup>I</sup> will be to them a God, and they shall be to me a people:

11 And they shall not teach every man his

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

<sup>h</sup> Ex. 25, 40; 26, 30; 27, 28. Nu. 8, 4. Ac. 7, 44. 1 Ch. 28, 19.
<sup>i</sup> 2 Co. 3, 6-11. Ga. 3, 10-29. ch. 7, 16, 22; 9, 15.
<sup>2</sup> Or, testament.
<sup>3</sup> Better promises. Greater, more spiritual, more precious, as developed in ver. 8-13.—C.
<sup>4</sup> ch. 7, 11-18. Ro. 8, 3. Ga. 3, 21.
<sup>5</sup> Finding fault with them. Both with the covenant and the people who continued not in it' (Gill). It seems better to understand it merely of the houses of Judah and Israel, as the phrase 'their fathers' (ver. 9) seems to require.—C.
<sup>6</sup> Je. 31, 31-34; 33, 14; 32, 40. Eze. 37, 26. Is. 55, 3, 7. ch. 10, 16. Ac. 3, 26; 13, 46. 1 Jn. 2, 7, 8.
<sup>7</sup> Jn. 1, 17. 2 Co. 3, 6-11.
<sup>8</sup> Ex. xii-xiv. xix. De. 1, 31. Ho. 11, 1, 3. De. 5, 2, 3; 24, 1.
<sup>9</sup> Je. 11, 7, 8; 22, 9. De. 29, 25; 32, 15. Ju. 2, 11. 2 Ki. 17, 15-20. Ne. 9, 26, 27. Ps. 78, 10, 57.
<sup>5</sup> See note <sup>3</sup> below.
<sup>6</sup> That this promise applies to all the spiritual Israel—the Christian church—is undoubted; but that it has a special and primary reference to the natural Israel cannot well be doubted or disputed.—C.
<sup>7</sup> De. 30, 6. Je. 31, 33; 32, 40. Eze. 11, 19, 20; 36, 26, 27. 2 Co. 3, 3; 5, 17. Ps. 40, 8. Ja. 1, 21. 1 Pe. 1, 23.
<sup>8</sup> Or, upon.
<sup>9</sup> Ex. 19, 5, 6. Ps. 50, 7; 81, 8, 10. Je. 24, 7; 30, 22; 32, 38, 40. Eze. 11, 20; 37, 27; 36, 28. Ho. 1, 10; 2, 23. Zec. 8, 8; 13, 9.
<sup>10</sup> How merciful and gracious is our God, who in the sins of the fathers does not, as in justice he might, find occasion utterly to cast off their rebellious race, but to make with their children a new covenant of oblivion for past transgression, and of grace and salvation for all time to come! —C.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

<sup>1</sup> Je. 31, 24. Is. 54, 13. Eze. 28, 26; 34, 30; 39, 28. Jn. 6, 45. 1 Co. 2, 10, 1 Jn. 2, 20, 27; 5, 20; 2, 13, 14. Joel 2, 28. Jn. 7, 39.
<sup>2</sup> Je. 31, 34; 33, 8; 50, 20. Is. 1, 18; 43, 25; 44, 22. Mi. 7, 18, 19. Ac. 10, 43; 13, 39. Ro. 11, 27. Ep. 1, 7. Col. 1, 14. ch. 10, 16, 17. Re. 1, 5. 1 Jn. 1, 3, 7, 9; 2, 12.
<sup>3</sup> 2 Co. 5, 17.
<sup>4</sup> ch. 7, 11, 12, 18, 19; 9, 10.

CHAP. IX.

<sup>a</sup> Le. i.-xxvii. Nu. iv-vi. viii. ix. xv. xix. xxviii. xxxix. De. vi.-xxvii. Ex. xii.-xl. ch. 8, 2, 13.
<sup>1</sup> Or, ceremonies.
<sup>2</sup> Ex. xxv.-xxvii. xxxv.-xl. Le. 24, 3. Nu. 7, 1; 8, 49. 15. 1 Ki. 7, 48, with Jn. 1, 14. Lu. 22, 30. Jn. 6, 32, 35.
<sup>3</sup> Or, holy.
<sup>4</sup> Ex. 26, 31, 33; 35, 12; 36, 35; 40, 21. 2 Ch. 3, 14.
<sup>5</sup> Le. 16, 12. Ex. 25, 10; 26, 33; 34, 28. Mat. 5, 17.
<sup>6</sup> Ex. 16, 33. Jn. 6, 32-57.
<sup>7</sup> Nu. 17, 10. Ps. 110, 2.
<sup>8</sup> Ex. 34, 29; 40, 20. De. 10, 2, 5. 1 Ki. 8, 9. 2 Ch. 5, 10.
<sup>9</sup> Ex. 25, 18, 22; 37, 7. 1 Ki. 8, 6, 7. Le. 16, 2. 1 Sa. 4, 4. Ps. 80, 1; 99, 1. Jn. 1, 51. 1 Pe. 1, 12. Ep. 3, 10.
<sup>10</sup> Je. 31, 7; 26, 34. Le. 16, 2. 14. Ro. 3, 24, 25. 1 Jn. 2, 1, 2. ch. 4, 16.
<sup>11</sup> Of the emblematic meaning of which cherubims it is not now necessary to speak in detail.—C.

neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, "Know the Lord: for all shall know me, from the least to the greatest.

12 For<sup>s</sup> I will be merciful to their unrighteousness, and their sins and their iniquities will I remember no more.

13 In that he saith, <sup>a</sup>A new covenant, he hath made the first old. <sup>Now</sup> that which decayeth and waxeth old <sup>is</sup> ready to vanish away.

CHAPTER IX.

1 The description of the rites and bloody sacrifices of the law, 11 far inferior to the dignity and perfection of the blood and sacrifice of Christ.

THEN verily the first covenant had also <sup>ordinances</sup><sup>1</sup> of divine service, and a worldly sanctuary.

2 For<sup>b</sup> there was a tabernacle made; the first, wherein <sup>was</sup> the candlestick, and the table, and the show-bread; which is called the <sup>2</sup>Sanctuary.

3 And,<sup>c</sup> after the second veil, the tabernacle which is called the Holiest of all;

4 Which <sup>had</sup> the golden censer, and the ark of the covenant overlaid round about with gold, wherein <sup>was</sup> the golden pot that had manna, and <sup>Aaron's</sup> rod that budded, and <sup>the</sup> tables of the covenant;

5 And over it the <sup>cherubims</sup> of glory shadowing the <sup>mercy-seat</sup>: of which we cannot now speak particularly.<sup>3</sup>

6 Now when these things were thus ordained,

rized of God, is to present oblations and sacrifices of atonement, which must be slain and offered before he carry the blood into the most holy place, and in order to his carrying it in: it was therefore absolutely necessary that Jesus, our great gospel High-priest, should have a sacrifice to offer answerable to the dignity of his person and the glory of his exalted state in heaven, where it must be presented before the throne of God.

4. For if Christ had continued still upon earth, he could not have executed that most glorious part of his priestly work which was to be performed in the sanctuary; since, according to the Jewish law, none could be admitted to present oblations in their holy of holies but the Aaronic high-priests; 5. Who, as ministers thereof, perform the whole service of that tabernacle and sanctuary, which were intended but as a typical draught of that true sanctuary and tabernacle in which our Lord Jesus now officiates as our interceding High-priest—as was obscurely intimated in God's giving Moses a heavenly model of it, and charging him to form everything, even the most minute, exactly according to that model. 6. But now our blessed Lord, in his exalted state, is, by virtue of his Father's compassion, actually engaged in a far more excellent, honourable, and beneficial ministration than ever any was before him—in proportion to the incomparably greater excellency and advantage of the spiritual dispensation, of which he is the only Mediator; for, taking away all differences between God and the people, and securing all its spiritual and eternal blessings for them, by his sacrifice of himself, and ratifying and securing to them all its promises and blessings, and helping them to accept of it, and yield up themselves to God, according to the tenor of it. And this covenant was authoritatively established upon more spiritual, advantageous, heavenly, and absolute promises, than were contained in the law or legal dispensation appointed at Sinai. 7. For if God's covenant of peculiar relation to the Israelites, or the legal dispensation of the covenant of grace which they there received, had been every way sufficient in light, grace, and efficacy, for perfecting the state of the church on earth or in heaven, there had never been any ground for God to contrive or establish, or his people to desire, another more spiritual and complete administration of the covenant of grace on earth, as it is plain there was. 8. For after accusing and reproving the Jews for their breaches of that covenant under which they were, and which did not secure their obedience, in a most solemn manner he promises irrevocably to establish, with all his true people, Jews or Gentiles, a new-covenant dispensation of free and absolute promises; 9. Which should be inexpressibly more gracious, spiritual, effectual, and lasting than that covenant of peculiar relation which he had made with the Israelites, after he had, by almighty influences and unnumbered miracles, delivered them from their miserable bondage in Egypt; or than the legal dispensation of the covenant of grace to which they were subjected—both of which, through the treachery of their own hearts and the temptations of Satan and the world, they had despised and violated, and had thereby provoked God justly to reject them from being his peculiar people, and to cast them out of his land. 10. In which new covenant, made with his spiritual Israel of all nations, God promises to send the Lord Jesus Christ to save them and help them savingly to discern the laws, doctrines, and promises of his Word; and, by his Holy Spirit, to impress also upon their conscience, will, and affections, the duty of repentance; and to be a God to them, being all to them, and doing all for them that is necessary to their temporal, spiritual, and eternal happiness; and by his grace to enable and assist them to believe in, love, and devote themselves to him, and own and serve him, as persons redeemed through faith in him; 11. And thus to give such experimental, believing, affectionate, and practical knowledge of his own perfections, counsels, and will, and of the way of salvation through the Messiah to all of them, that few or none of them shall need to be taught the fundamental principles of religion: 12. And for preventing all obstruction of the saving benefits promised, to give them a full, free, and glorious pardon of all their sins, original or actual, through faith in the Son of God. 13. Now this very promise of a more gracious, spiritual, and efficacious dispensation of the covenant of grace under the gospel, plainly intimates the weakness and unprofitableness of the Mosaic dispensation; and that it was to be set aside and disannulled as a thing out of date; and, indeed, being already almost useless, it will, with all its rites, ceremonies, and institutions, be quickly and utterly abolished, in the destruction of your temple and the dispersion of your nation.

Ver. 4. Some consider Christ to have been a priest on earth when 'he once offered up himself a sacrifice;' others think he did not become a priest till he presented himself in heaven. The preference of either view does not seem a matter of much importance to those who sincerely hold that 'he was delivered for our offences, and raised for our justification.' It is obvious, however, that on earth he could not have been a Levitical priest, ch. 7, 14; and as the Melchisedecan priesthood with which he was invested was to endure 'for ever,' and be 'unchangeable,' ch. 7, 24, 25, it would seem necessary that he should have risen from the dead, and passed the boundaries of change, before he could properly be said to have entered upon his peculiar priestly office. C.

Ver. 11. These words render it certain that, until this blessed time arrives, every Christian man is authorized and bound to teach his neighbour to know the Lord. Note, 'They shall not teach,' that is, be required, as now, to teach men negligent, averse, obstinately ignorant; but 'all shall know,' because all, even from childhood, shall be found willing learners of the Word, 2 Ti. 3, 15. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Contemplate, O my soul, in what an exalted and blessed manner Jesus my High-priest has ascended to his Father's right hand, and, in my nature, continually intercedes for men—for me—upon the footing of his own great sacrifice. In a most delightful manner the shadowy priests and offerings are now abolished by him and his righteousness and intercession; and firmly hath he established his blessed promise of grace and gospel dispensation, in which God binds himself to give all necessary instruction, renovation, and forgiveness, and is himself ALL in ALL. Unchangeable and lasting are its blessings, and issuing in the eternal happiness of all who accept Christ by faith. —

CHAPTER IX. Ver. 1. But, to return to our comparison of the earthly and heavenly sanctuary—the Sinai covenant of God's peculiar headship over Israel, and the legal dispensation of the covenant of grace therewith connected, had various typical ordinances of God's appointment for religious worship, and a magnificent tent or temple for the celebration of those ordinances formed by men out of earthly materials. 2. In the first or eastern apartment of this tent or temple stood the golden candlestick, with its seven burning lamps, representing Christ, his Spirit, oracles, and ordinances as the light of the church; and the golden table, with its twelve loaves of show-bread, the priests went <sup>always</sup> into the first tabernacle, accomplishing the service of God.

7 But into the second went the high-priest alone <sup>once every year</sup>, not without blood, which he offered for himself, and for the errors of the people:

8 The Holy Ghost this signifying, <sup>that</sup> the way into the holiest of all was not yet made manifest, while as the first tabernacle was yet standing:

9 Which <sup>was</sup> a figure for the time then present, in which were offered both gifts and sacrifices, that could not make him that did the service perfect, as pertaining to the conscience;

which represented him as the abundant, suitable, and never-failing provision of his people, and them as in him presented before God in their respective generations. 3, 4. Passing through this eastern apartment, called the sanctuary, you entered into the western, called the ORACLE, or HOLY OF HOLIES, where was the golden censer, in which the high-priest carried the burning coals from the altar of burnt-offering, to burn the incense before the ark on the day of expiation, as a representation of Jesus' intercession, founded on and deriving its virtue from his atoning sacrifice; and the ark, which contained the law of the covenant made with Israel, and represented Christ as the reconciler and rest of JEHOVAH, and end of the law for righteousness to believers; and the golden pot of manna, which represented him as the true and ever-living bread which came down from heaven; and the budding rod, with which Aaron and Moses had wrought many miracles, and which represented Jesus Christ as growing out of dry ground, but manifested to be our ever-glorious and flourishing High-priest; and, in fine, the two tables on which God at Sinai wrote the ten commandments of the moral law, lodged in the midst of the ark, intimating their fulfilment in Christ, as a covenant, for the justification of his people, and their continuing an unchangeable and perpetual rule of holy obedience in his hand. 5. And above the ark were two glorious cherubims of gold, which represented holy angels and gospel ministers as looking into, admiring, and ready to promote our redemption to God through the righteousness of his Son. —But these things not being so directly to my purpose, I shall not insist upon them.—6. Now this sacred tent or temple, being thoroughly prepared, according to the divine model given to Moses or David, the ordinary priests, in their turns, entered into it every day, to offer sacrifice, burn incense, and dress the lamps. 7. But the high-priest alone, and only upon the day of the great annual expiation, entered into the holy of holies, and that not without blood of expiatory sacrifices, one for himself, and another for the Israelites' sins of infirmity and ignorance: 8. By this restricted access to the holy of holies, the Spirit of God plainly signifying that the access of believers to the throne of grace, or heavenly state, was not, as now, clearly revealed, while the ceremonial tabernacle, temple, and services thereof, continued to be established and observed by divine institution. 9. For these structures, and all the services pertaining to them, were, by the appointment of God, no more than temporary, imperfect, and figurative representations of those good things which have been manifested and fulfilled under the gospel. None of their oblations, bloody or unbloody, having the smallest influence to remove the moral guilt of sin from their conscience, but only to remove the ceremonial defilement and prevent temporal punishment: 10. Consisting in meat-offerings and drink-offerings, manifold washings and sprinklings, and numberless other ceremonies, which only removed external ceremonial pollutions, and consecrated to external service; and which, because of their insufficiency to purify the conscience, and perfect the state of the church, were appointed to continue no longer than till the Messiah, being come, should establish in the church a complete state of spirituality and holiness, light and grace. 11. But he, having at last actually appeared in our nature as a High-priest, hath accomplished what had been long prefigured by ceremonial ordinances, and secured and procured for his people the expected blessings of grace and glory, by officiating in his transcendentally excellent manhood, and in the heavenly state, both of which were formed by the immediate operation of God himself. 12. Nor did the sacrifice, by virtue of which he entered into the heavenly state, in dignity and excellency less transcend the Levitical sacrifices; for it was not, as in the case of the Jewish sacrifices, by the blood of mean, though useful, animals, but by his own precious blood, that he, through the vail of his own flesh, entered into the heavenly oracle—to present himself God-man, with the merit of his perfect and ever-available sacrifice for us, before the immediate presence of God: having thereby purchased and secured for us, not a figurative pardon or annual reprieve, but a complete and everlasting forgiveness, and deliverance from sin, Satan, and the broken law, the incensed wrath of God, a present evil world, and death; and a full and unchangeable right and title to an eternal inheritance of all blessedness and glory. 13. For if the blood of bulls and goats, and other mean and insignificant animals, or the ashes of a heifer mingled with running water, were, by God's appointment, effectual to purify men from the external ceremonial impurities of their bodies, and give them a re-admission to public worship in the tabernacle or temple, and into the congregation of the Lord, from which they had been excluded on account of their defilement, 14. How much more effectually and gloriously shall Jesus' finished righteousness, his unblemished and infinitely valuable sacrifice of himself—which he, through the infinite dignity and supporting influence of his divine nature sanctifying his gift, and through the unmeasurable unction and inconceivable influence of the Holy Ghost, did, with the utmost readiness and submission to his Father's will, with entire trust and confidence in him, with fervent zeal for his glory, and with the most amazing love and compassion to his people, fulfil and offer up to God, as an offended Judge—purge your consciences from all the guilt and defilement of your unprofitable, abominable, and destructive works of wickedness, and free you from all dreadful apprehensions of condemnation and wrath on their account; and animate and enable you, with confidence and cheerfulness here, and in perfection hereafter, to believe in, worship, and obey the only living and true God. 15. And for bringing about this great end, he undertook and executes the office of Mediator of the new and better covenant, and particularly of the New Testament dispensation of it—that by means, not of legal sacrifices, but of his own death, as an atonement for the sins of those under the Old as well as New Testament, who, in whatever period, have been or are tenderly called into a state of union to and fellowship with him, they might, in a free and honourable manner, be made partakers of the blessings of grace here and glory hereafter. 16, 17. And the new covenant, as dispensed to us, being of a testamentary nature, in which Jesus Christ, who secured all possible blessings, and, as Trustee of the covenant, has them all lodged in his hand, actually bequeathes them to sinful men: his death was also necessary to render this testamentary disposition firm and irrevocable, and of full force to all them who by faith claim their title under him. 18–20. And it was chiefly in order to prefigure this that the Sinai covenant, and establishment of the legal dispensation, was ratified and confirmed by the blood of typical sacrifices; and that Moses, the typical mediator, having recited to the Israelites the principal laws of the covenant respecting them as a church and nation, did, in a solemn manner, sprinkle the book in which those laws were written,

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

Ex. 28.3. Da. 8. xi.
12.
Ex. 30.10. Le. 16.2.
15.34. ch. 5:37-27; 10.
19.20. ver. 24.25.
Jn. 10.7.9:14.6. Ep.
2.18. ch. 4.16:10.19-22.
Col. 2.17. ch. 7.11.
18.19; 10.1.11; 11.16.
Ac. 13.39; 15.10. Ga.3.
21. Ps. 40.6.7:51.16-19.
Le. i. ix. xi. xvi.
Nu. xv. xix. xxviii. xxix. ch. 7.11.16. Col. 2.
16.20. Ro. 14.17.
4 Or, rites or ceremonies.
Ga. 4.4. ch. 2.5; 6.5.
Ep. 1.10.
Ga. 4.4. Jn. 1.14. ch.
2.17; 1.3:3.1; 4.14.15; 5.
6.10; 6.20:8.17.15.17.22.
28:10.1; ver. 12-15.26.
28; 10.5-22. Tit. 2.14.
Ep. 5.2.
5 ch. 8.2. Mat. 1.20.
Lu. 1.35. Jn. 1.14.1.31.
32.15.4.2.
Ac. 20.28. Ep. 1.7.
Col. 1.14. Tit. 2.14.1. Pe.
1.18.19. Re. 1.5:5.9. ch.
10.4.9.10.12.14.19:1.3.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

Le. i. xvi. Nu. xix.
ch. 10.4. Ps. 51.7. Ac. 15.
9.1. Pe. 1.22.
5 The remaining part of this chapter is a development of the proof, and an exposition of the reason and mode, of this great truth, that Christ obtained for us eternal redemption. It has been brought out briefly, but very clearly, by a recent German writer as follows:—
The blood of Christ purifies inwardly fitting for the worship of God (ver. 13, 14). His death is the inauguration of a new covenant (ver. 15-23). His entrance into heaven is the final act—the completion of his atonement (ver. 24-26).
His second coming will result in the realization of his redemption (ver. 27, 28).
—P.

10 Which stood <sup>only</sup> in meats and drinks, and divers washings, and carnal <sup>ordinances</sup>, imposed on them until <sup>the</sup> time of reformation.

11 But Christ <sup>being</sup> come an High-priest of good things to come, by <sup>a</sup> greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands, that is to say, not of this building;

12 Neither <sup>by</sup> the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood, he entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us.

13 For <sup>if</sup> the blood of bulls and of goats, and the ashes of an heifer sprinkling the unclean, sanctifieth to the purifying of the flesh;

and all the representatives of the people, with the blood of the sacrifices offered on that occasion—solemnly intimating that that sprinkling of blood was a divinely instituted confirmation of the covenant between God and them, whereby his faithfulness for fulfilling his promises, and their obedience in performing the duties of it, were mutually engaged.—21. Moreover, when the tabernacle was first erected, and afterwards once every year on the great day of expiation, it, and all the vessels of service therein, were ceremonially purged from defilement, and consecrated to their sacred use, by a sprinkling of sacrificed blood. 22. Nay, so important was the blood of sacrifices under that dispensation, that almost all purification from ceremonial defilement was effected by the offering and sprinkling of it; and without the bloodshedding of typical sacrifices, no typical forgiveness of sin, or removal of temporal judgments, could be obtained. 23. Now, if it was necessary that the book and the people, the tabernacle and its furniture, which were but figurative representations of spiritual and heavenly things, should be purified and consecrated to their sacred use by typical sacrifices and sprinklings, it was certainly proper that Jesus Christ and his people, and all the spiritual and heavenly things, places, and furniture, should be consecrated by the infinitely more excellent sacrifice and blood of God's only begotten Son: 24. For Jesus Christ, the anointed High-priest of his church, has not, like the Jewish high-priest, entered into holy places formed by the art and labour of men, which were but mere figures of the heavenly sanctuary; but has, in his human nature, ascended into heaven itself, that there, in the immediate presence of God, he might continually present himself as our Representative, and the merits of his blood as securing our eternal salvation. 25, 26. Nor was it necessary that Christ, like the Jewish high-priests, should repeat his atoning sacrifice, that he might again and again enter into the heavenly sanctuary; for had that been the case, it had been necessary very often since the fall of man to have suffered unto death, that he might make atonement for one generation after another: but such is the infinite dignity, perfection, and virtue of his sacrifice, and such its extensive influence to former, present, and future generations, that his single manifestation of himself, in the end of the ceremonial dispensation and beginning of the gospel period, to offer his soul and body as personally united to his divine nature, was absolutely sufficient and able to pardon the guilt and abolish the power and fruits of all the sins of the world. 27. And as, by the righteous appointment of God, all sinful men must, in the ordinary course of nature, once die, and after that appear before the judgment-seat of Christ, that a final and decisive sentence, relative to their eternal happiness or misery, may pass upon them, according to their qualities, thoughts, words, and actions: 28. So Christ, to fulfil the law of God as a broken covenant, and to abolish the curse and secure eternal happiness, was once, and but once, offered in sacrifice, to bear the awful iniquities and suffer because of the sins of the unnumbered millions of sinful people; and unto them who, by faith, hope, desire, and love, expect and patiently wait for his coming again to judge the world, he will at the last day appear, not, as formerly, charged with sin or bearing the punishment of it, but in the most transcendent glory and majesty, to give them the complete enjoyment of that heavenly and eternal happiness which he secured for them by his death.

14 How much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without spot<sup>6</sup> to God, purge your conscience from dead works to serve the living God?

15 And<sup>b</sup> for this cause<sup>7</sup> he is the Mediator of the new testament, that by means of death, for the redemption of the transgressions that were under the first testament, they which are called might receive the promise of eternal inheritance.

16 For where a testament is,<sup>9</sup> there must also of necessity be the death of the testator.

17 For<sup>c</sup> a testament is of force after men are dead: otherwise it is of no strength at all while the testator liveth.

18 Whereupon<sup>d</sup> neither the first testament was dedicated<sup>2</sup> without blood.

19 For when Moses had spoken every precept to all the people according to the law, he took the blood of calves and of goats, with water, and scarlet<sup>3</sup> wool, and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book, and all the people, 20 Saying, This is the blood of the testament which God hath enjoined unto you.

21 Moreover<sup>j</sup> he sprinkled likewise with blood both the tabernacle and all the vessels of the ministry.

22 And<sup>k</sup> almost all things are by the law

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

1 See ver. 12. Ac. 20. 28. 1 Pe. 1. 19. 1 Jn. 1. 7. 2. 2.
2 Ro. 1. 4. 1 Pe. 3. 18. Is. 42. 1. Jn. 3. 34.
3 Is. 53. 1. Da. 9. 24. Mat. 20. 28. Ro. 3. 5. 4. 25. 5. 6-10. 6. 10. 8. 3. 34. Ga. 1. 4. Ep. 5. 2. 1 Th. 5. 10. Tit. 2. 14. 1 Pe. 2. 24. 3. 18. 1. 19. 20.
4 Le. 22. 20. Nu. 19. 2. 11. De. 15. 21. 17. 1. Is. 53. 9. Da. 9. 24. 26. 2 Co. 5. 21. 1 Pe. 1. 19. 22.
5 Or, fault.
6 Re. 1. 5. 1 Jn. 1. 7. ch. 13. 12. 10. 22. 6. 1. Lu. 1. 74. 75. 1 Pe. 4. 2.
7 1 Ti. 2. 5. ch. 7. 22. 2. 10. 8. 6. 12. 24. Ps. 40. 6-8. Is. 53. 4-10. Ro. 7. 4. 8. 2-4. 1 Pe. 1. 19. 3. 18. 2. 24. Re. 5. 9. 2 Co. 5. 21.
8 And for this cause. Rather, 'this end.'—C.
9 Redemption. Rather, 'expiation.'—C.
10 Ac. 13. 39. Ro. 3. 25. 1 Jn. 2. 21. 7. 13. 8. 4. 10.
11 Ro. 8. 30. 1. 13. 16. 9. 23. 24. 2 Co. 5. 1. 21. Ga. 3. 13. 14. Ep. 1. 7. 13. 14. 1 Th. 5. 9. 10. 1 Pe. 1. 2-4. Ro. 8. 17. 18.
12 See note * below.
13 Or, be brought in.
14 Ga. 3. 15.
15 Ex. 12. 22. 24. 5-8. Le. 1. 1. xvi. Nu. xxviii. xix.
16 Or, purified.
17 Ex. 24. 5. 6. Le. 14. 4. 49. 10. 14. 15. 18.
18 Or, purple.
19 Ex. 24. 8. Zec. 9. 11. Mat. 26. 28. ch. 13. 20.
20 Ex. 29. 12. 36. Le. 8. 15. 16. 14. 16. Eze. 43. 18-26.
21 Le. 1. xvi. 22. 6. 17. 11. Nu. 31. 23. Le. iv. v. xvi.
22 The Greek word translated 'testament' in ver. 15. 16. 17. has a double meaning; it signifies both a covenant and a testament. In ver. 15 it ought to be rendered 'covenant,' for reference is made to the new or Christian covenant, and to the old or Jewish. In ver. 10. 17. however, it manifestly means 'testament,' for we find the statement, 'For a testament is of force after men are dead.'—P.

A.M. cir. 4008.
A.D. cir. 64.

1 Ver. 9. 10. ch. 10. 1. Col. 2. 17.
2 ch. 8. 2. 5. ver. 11; ch. 10. 4. 10-17. Da. 9. 24. Tit. 2. 14. Re. 5. 9. 1. 5. 1 Pe. 1. 18. 19. 3. 18.
3 ver. 9. 23; ch. 10. 1. Col. 2. 17.
4 Ps. 68. 18. Mar. 16. 19. Lu. 24. 51. Ac. 1. 9. 11. 3. 21. Ro. 8. 34. ch. 1. 3. 9. 20. 7. 25. 26. 8. 2. 5. ver. 12; ch. 10. 12-14. 1 Jn. 2. 1. 2. Re. 8. 3. 1 Ti. 2. 5. Ep. 2. 8.
5 Ex. 30. 10. Le. 16. 2-34. ver. 17.
6 ch. 7. 27; 10. 10. 14. Ro. 9. 10. 1 Pe. 3. 18. 19. 20. Ga. 4. 4. Ep. 1. 10. 1 Co. 10. 11. Da. 9. 24.
7 And of the world. Rather, 'conclusion of the ages,' or 'dispensations.'—C.
8 Ge. 2. 17. 3. 19. Job 30. 23. Ec. 12. 7. Ro. 5. 12.
9 Ec. 12. 14. Ro. 14. 12. 2 Co. 5. 10. Mat. 25. 31-46. Re. 1. 7. 20. 11-14. 2 Th. 1. 6-9. Ac. 17. 31.
10 Mat. 20. 28. 26. 28. Is. 53. 12. Ro. 5. 6. 8. 15. 6. 10. 4. 25. 1 Pe. 3. 18. 2. 24. 1 Jn. 2. 1. 23. 5.
11 Tit. 2. 13. 2 Pe. 3. 12.
12 ch. 4. 15. 7. 26. 1 Jn. 14. 3. Ac. 1. 11. Re. 1. 7. 18. 25. 9. 35. 4. Mat. 25. 34. 46.
13 Without (bearing) sin as a sacrifice, 1s. liii.—C.

CHAP. X.

a ch. 8. 5; 9. 9. 11. 23. Col. 2. 17. ch. 9. 9. 13. 14; 7. 11. 18. ver. 3. 11-14.
1 Shadow. A mere outline.—Image. The completed form, the finished design, the reality.—C.

purged with blood; and without shedding of blood is no remission.

23 It was therefore necessary that the patterns of things in the heavens should be purified with these; but the heavenly things themselves with better sacrifices than these.

24 For Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands, which are the figures of the true; but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us:

25 Nor yet that he should offer himself often, as the high-priest entereth into the holy place every year with blood of others;

26 For then must he often have suffered since the foundation of the world: but now once in the end of the world<sup>4</sup> hath he appeared, to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself.

27 And<sup>s</sup> as it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment;

28 So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many; and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time, without sin, unto salvation.

CHAPTER X.

1 The weakness of the law sacrifices. 10 The sacrifice of Christ's body once offered, 14 for ever hath taken away sins. 19 An exhortation to hold fast the faith, with patience and thanksgiving.

FOR the law, having a shadow<sup>1</sup> of good things to come, and not the very image of the things, can never with those sacrifices which Ver. 1. In this chapter Paul compares, in some of their more important details, the two covenants or dispensations—the Jewish and Christian; demonstrating at every step the transcendent glory of the latter. 'In one point above all is this comparison shown calculated to set forth the superiority of the Christian—the supreme efficacy of the blood of Christ as set against the nullity of the blood of bulls and of goats to purge away sins.' The whole argument is most instructive, throwing much light not merely upon the typical rites of the Mosaic law, but upon the fundamental doctrines (especially the doctrine of substitution) of Christianity. P.—A worldly sanctuary. An earthly place of worship, prepared of perishable materials and by human skill, as distinguished from the 'greater and more perfect tabernacle not made with hands,' ver. 11. C.

Ver. 4. The golden censor is not mentioned by Moses (Le. 16. 12), but it is described by Josephus (Antiq. b. iii.), and it appears to have been left in the holiest from one anniversary till another. —W'arren, &c. See note on 1 Ki. 8. 9, in which the mode of reconciling the apparent discrepancies seems decidedly preferable to that of Deyling, Stuart, and others, who consider the apostle to speak of the tabernacle as furnished by Moses, and the historian in 1 Ki. 8. 9 to speak of the temple as ordered by Solomon. C.

Ver. 7. Once—that is, upon one day; for it is evident from the Old Testament that he entered twice on the day of expiation, Le. 16. 12-15, which statement is followed by Philo, p. 591, though the rabbins say he entered four times; but for this they adduce no certain scriptural authority.—Errors. Sins of ignorance, as distinguished from sins of presumption, for which the law provided no atonement, Nu. 15. 30, 31; Ps. 19. 12, 13; He. 10. 28. C.

Ver. 11. Good things to come—after the incarnation of Christ; viz. access to God by a new and living way; the ever-living intercessor, ver. 8; a perfect pardon for sin, ver. 12; peace of conscience, ver. 9; and eternal blessedness, ver. 15.—'By' (that is, by means of his appearance and services in) 'a greater and more perfect tabernacle,' even the heavens of glory, ver. 12, 23, 24.—Not of this building. Rather, 'not of this creation,' not of earthly, but heavenly structure. C.

Ver. 13. Such sacrifices restored the unclean to domestic companionship with his friends, and social worship in the tabernacle, Le. xix. C.

Ver. 14. Through the eternal Spirit he was raised from the dead, 1 Pe. 3. 18, and so 'offered' in his body 'without spot' before his Father. C.

REFLECTIONS.—The great things concerning Jesus Christ and salvation through him were gradually, but for a long time obscurely, and by dark shadows, revealed to the church. But infinitely glorious and useful must he be, our great High-priest—to prefigure whom, in his person and service, so many ancient types were necessary. Unbounded is the value and efficacy of his atoning sacrifice, and extensive its virtue through time and through eternity. Full of blessings to sinful men, and infinitely full, firm, and glorious are the promises of the new covenant ratified by his death. And necessary for his honour and for our salvation is his intercession at his Father's right hand; and how efficacious and successful! Certain and unavoidable are death and judgment. Happy are they who, having all their sins forgiven through faith, are looking for his glorious appearance to judge and save them.—Quickly shall he, my soul, who bore the curse, hung on the cross, and lay in the grave, sit down on his great white throne to judge and save me.

CHAPTER X. Ver. 1. From the hints which I have suggested, it is plain that the Mosaic law, with its ceremonial institutions, being, as it were, mere representations of the shadows of Christ's person, office, work, sufferings, and blessings, the most noted sacrifices thereof, offered every year on the great day of general atonement, could never free the worshippers from the guilt of sin, or bring them into a state of friendship, acceptance, and perfect conformity to God. 2. For if these important ends had been perfectly obtained by those yearly sacrifices of national atonement, they would never have been repeated; as the worshippers concerned in them, being once completely cleansed from their guilt, and accepted of God to eternal life, could never more have had any perplexing or condemning fears on account of sin in their own conscience. 3. But so far was this from being the case, that in the very offering of those sacrifices there was every year, on the day of general expiation, a repeated, solemn, and public confession of the Israelites' iniquities, even of those which preceded the former annual expiation, as well as of those which were committed after it, in order that they might afflict their souls for them. 4. For indeed such is the infinite disproportion between the demerit of sin, or the satisfaction demanded for it by the law and justice of God, and the worthless sacrifices of bulls and goats, that no rules of wisdom or justice could admit them as sufficient to make a true, proper, and effectual atonement for sin. 5-9. And it is plain that the insufficiency of legal sacrifices to atone for sin, or render men acceptable to God, is represented in Ps. xl. as the occasion of God's preparing a perfect human nature for his own Son to obey and suffer in; and of Christ's cheerful and solemn engagement to fulfil the law, and satisfy justice, in the room and stead of his people, according to his will and purpose in the covenant of grace; 10. By which will of God, as perfectly fulfilled in Jesus' sinless offering, not of bulls and goats, but of himself, we are really and effectually purged and delivered from the guilt, power, and defilement of our sins, and are dedicated to the service of God. 11-14. Every Aaronic priest, in token of humble reverence, and of readiness for further service, stands before God, frequently offering the same kind of sacrifices, daily, weekly, monthly, or annually, which can never make atonement for nor remove the guilt or pollution of sin; but so incomparably superior is the dignity of our gospel High-priest in his person and sacrifice, that, after finishing his one atonement for all the sins of the world, he rose from the dead to immortal honour, and with majesty, glory, and acceptance entered on a state of the highest dignity, rest, and authority—thenceforward never repeating his sacrifice; but joyfully expecting the fulfilment of his Father's promise, and exercising all power in heaven and earth, till sin, Satan, the world, and death be actually, universally, and completely subdued, trampled on, and triumphed over, by him.—For by that one offering of himself upon the cross he has obtained a perfect, unchangeable, and eternal deliverance from guilt, and a fitness for the enjoyment and service of God in the nearest relation and access to him, and in the most perfect state of the church, for all those who are dedicated to God, and purged from their sins, through faith in him. 15-17. And this the Holy Ghost in Scripture plainly testifies, in his representation of the new covenant which Christ hath fulfilled and established, and all the blessings of which he hath completely secured—in which, after a gracious promise effectually to inscribe the doctrines of his revelation in his people's hearts and minds, he adds an absolute, infinitely free, and authoritative promise of such perfect pardon of all their swervings from and transgressions of his law, as that they never more shall be held guilty of or upbraided for them. 18. Now, where there is such complete and everlasting forgiveness of all trespasses established in the new covenant, and attested by the Holy Ghost, it is manifestly impossible that there can be any need of any further atoning sacrifice for sins, or of Christ's repeating the sacrifice of himself. 19. Since therefore, my dear brethren by nation, and in the Lord, we who cordially believe in him have such solid grounds of free liberty, they offered year by year continually make the comers thereunto perfect.

2 For then would they not have<sup>2</sup> ceased to be offered? because that the worshippers<sup>b</sup> once purged should have had no more conscience of sins.

3 But<sup>c</sup> in those sacrifices there is a remembrance again made of sins every year.

4 For<sup>d</sup> it is not possible that the blood of bulls and of goats should take away sins.

5 Wherefore, when he cometh into the world, he saith, 'Sacrifice and offering thou wouldst not, but a body<sup>3</sup> hast thou<sup>a</sup> prepared me:<sup>4</sup>

6 In burnt-offerings and sacrifices for sin thou hast had no pleasure.

7 Then said I, 'Lo, I come<sup>i</sup> (in the volume of the book it is written of me) to do thy will, O God.

8 Above, when he said, Sacrifice and offer-

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

2 Or, they would have, &c.
b ch. 9. 14. 1 Jn. 1. 7. Ps 103. 12. Is. 4. 25; 44. 22; 1. 18. Mi. 7. 19.
c Le. 10. 21, 34. ch. 7. 27.
d Le. 16. 14. Nu. 10. 4. Is. 1. 11-15; 66. 3. Ho. 6. 6. Mi. 6-8. ch. 9. 9, 13. 1 Pe. 1. 18. ver. 5, 11. 1 Jn. 1. 7.
e Ps. 40. 6-8. Je. 6. 20. 7. 22, 23. Am. 5. 1. ver. 4. Ho. 6. 6. Mi. 6. 7. Ps. 50. 9; 51. 16. Is. 1. 11; 66. 3.
f See note<sup>1</sup> below.
g Je. 31. 22. Mat. 1. 20. Lu. 1. 35. Ro. 1. 3; 8. 3. Ga. 4. 4. 2 Ti. 2. 8.
h Or, thou hast fitted me.
i Ge. 22. 13, 14. 1 Sa. 15. 22. Ps. 40. 8. Jn. 4. 34. 5:30; 18. 11; 17. 4.
j 1 Pe. 1. 20. Pr. 8. 23. Ac. 10. 43. Lu. 24. 27, 44. Jn. 1. 45; 2 Co. 1. 20. 1 Co. 13. 4. Ge. 3. 15; 49. 10.
k The Hebrew words in Ps. 40. 6 differ from the apostle's quotation, which is taken from the LXX; but the apostle gives the exact meaning of the passage. To 'bore the ear' was to make a voluntary bond-servant for ever. But in Greek, a bond-servant was called δούλος, 'a body,' because he was as subject as a mere body to the will of his master. Hence, to 'bore the ears,' and 'provide a body' came alike to signify appointment to a perpetual voluntary service.—C.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

j Le. 1. xvi. Nu. xxviii. xxix. xv.
k The first. The Levitical sacrifices, in which he had no pleasure.—The second. The sacrifice of his dear Son, in whom he was well pleased.—C. l ch. 2. 10, 11; 9. 12-14. 26; 27. 27; 13. 12. Jn. 17. 19. Ro. 3. 24; 4. 25; 5. 19; 7. 4. 8. 34; 33. 34. 1 Co. 1. 30. 2 Co. 5. 21. 1 Jn. 1. 7. ver. 14.
m Sanctified. Separated from the world, and dedicated to God.—C.
n Nu. 28. 3. 4. Ex. 29. 38-42. 14. 8. 11, 12. Le. 1. xvi. Nu. xxxiii. xxix. ch. 7. 11, 18; 9. 9; ver. 14. Ps. 50. 8-13. Is. 1. 11. n ch. 1. 3. 13; 4. 14; 6. 19, 20; 7. 26; 8. 19, 12, 24. Ps. 110. 1, 5. Ac. 2. 33, 34; 3. 21. Ep. 1. 20. Col. 3. 1. 1 Co. 15. 25. 1 Pe. 3. 22. Mar. 16. 19. Lu. 24. 51. o Ps. 110. 1. 1 Co. 15. 25. ch. 1. 13. Da. 2. 44. p ver. 1, 10, 12; ch. 2. 10, 11; 17. 27; 23. 14.

ing and burnt-offerings and offering for sin thou wouldst not, neither hadst pleasure therein; which are offered by the law;

9 Then said he, Lo, I come to do thy will, O God. He taketh away the first,<sup>5</sup> that he may establish the second.

10 By<sup>k</sup> the which will we are<sup>6</sup> sanctified, through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all.

11 And<sup>l</sup> every priest standeth daily ministering, and offering oftentimes the same sacrifices, which can never take away sins:

12 But<sup>n</sup> this man, after he had offered one sacrifice for sins for ever, sat down on the right hand of God; and rich encouragements for holy freedom and confidence, in our approaches to God as our reconciled Father, and of entering by faith, or even by actual admission, into heaven itself, through the inestimably precious blood of Jesus Christ, our ascended High-priest, Forerunner, and Advocate; 20. Even by the newly opened, perpetually excellent, living, and life-giving way of the covenant of grace, which he has prepared, dedicated, and established for us, through his righteousness, and the death of his human nature in our stead; 21. And since we now have a great and glorious High-priest, of incomparable, nay, infinite dignity in his person, office, and exaltation, and of unbounded authority, as the Head of his church militant on earth and triumphant in heaven—where he, and his Father, and the blessed Spirit, reside in a far more exalted manner than in the Jewish tabernacle—22. Let us, encouraged by these considerations, and by the assistance of his Spirit, humbly approach to God, as our reconciled Father in him, in prayer, and every other act of religious worship, or exercise of grace, with integrity and uprightness, a heart established in the truth of the gospel, and with a lively and fully assured exercise of faith on the all-sufficiency and excellency of Christ, in his person, office, and fulness, and the infallible accomplishment of his promises to us—having our whole souls purged from the stupidity and treachery of an unfaithful conscience, and from the disquietude and defilement of a guilty, terrifying, and condemning conscience by an application of Jesus' blood; and our whole man and whole conversation renewed and purified by the sanctifying influences of the Holy Ghost. 23. And answerable hereto, let us, notwithstanding whatever we may suffer on that account, steadfastly and invariably persist in maintaining our solemn profession and open confession of Christ and his truths, and of our faith in them, and in the belief of every gospel doctrine, and the practice of every holy duty, without any distrust, hesitation, or perturbation of mind; for he who has promised to pardon our sins, write his laws in our hearts, and be our God, being unchangeable in his truth and faithfulness, may be fully depended on for all necessary and seasonable supplies of grace for that effect, and for the fulfilment of all his promises, unto our complete salvation. 24. And to promote one another's steadfastness in the faith and profession of the gospel, let us, with joint concern, seriously consider our own and their respective wants, infirmities, temptations, and dangers, on the one hand, and the grounds of hope and encouragement that are in Christ and his promises on the other—that by example, exhortations, and cautions, we may stir up one another to the most fervent and faithful love to God, to Christ, and his truths, and to an affectionate union and communion one with another; and, in fine, to every evangelical and moral duty becoming our Christian character. 25. And as ever we would be steadfast in the profession of our faith, and in love and good works, let us earnestly beware of indulging the smallest remissness or indifference with respect to attendance on the stated and occasional meetings of the church for the celebration of God's ordinances, in the manner of some who have begun to backslide, or who have at last openly and shamefully deserted them, and renounced their profession; but let us, with earnest care and diligence, cheerfulness, and constancy, frequent our religious meetings, and admonish, excite, and encourage others to do so, as the time of the utter destruction of Jerusalem, and the dispersion of your nation, and of death and judgment, is drawing nigh; which will be inexpressibly dreadful to apostates. 26. For if any of us professed Christians, through unbelief, prejudice, pride, or worldly-mindedness, deliberately, resolutely, and wilfully reject the doctrines and laws of the gospel dispensation, and turn back to Judaism, heathenism, or profaneness, after we have been enlightened and convinced of the truth and excellency of them, we have perfidiously rejected the last and only sacrifice of Christ for remission of sins—can have no interest in it, nor any hope of pardon or acceptance with God; 27. But all that remains for us, as our dreadful portion, is a terrible foreboding in our own consciences of the most righteous, but tremendous and everlasting wrath of God, to torment and consume us in this world, and especially in that which is to come. 28, 29. And nothing can be more just; for if one who presumptuously violated even the ceremonial laws of Moses was appointed to death, if the fact could be clearly proved, how much more inexpressibly dreadful and lasting punishment must your reason and conscience allow to be due to, and shall be inflicted upon, such resolute and wilful apostates from Christ and his truth, who, contrary to clear convictions of the truth, light, and grace of the gospel, have, with the vilest insolence and contempt, trampled upon the person, authority, mediation, oracles, and ordinances of the eternal Son of God, as if he had been an impostor; and who, instead of trusting for justification and salvation to his precious blood, by which the condition of the covenant of grace was fulfilled, its blessings secured, and its promises and the New Testament dispensation ratified; and by which he was consecrated to and prepared for his exalted work of mediation; and themselves apparently justified, sanctified, and set apart to the service of God,—have profanely slighted and injuriously treated it, as if less holy than the blood of bulls and goats, or as if the blood of a malefactor; and who have spitefully, maliciously, and contemptuously opposed, affronted, and vilified the person, operation and graces of the graciously-conferred and grace-bestowing Spirit of God! 30. Now we know that the sovereign Lord of heaven and earth, whose equity and truth are uncontrollable, and power irresistible, hath solemnly claimed it, as his high and distinguished prerogative, to vindicate his own honour, and to resent the injuries done him, particularly by perfidious revolvers from his government. 31. How inexpressibly tremendous then must be the punishment of those wilful apostates, when they fall as victims into the hands of his justice, without any mixture of mercy, to be punished by the immediate and almighty arm of that great and terrible God whose existence, power, and activity continue invariably and for ever to execute wrath to the uttermost on the despisers of his Son, Spirit, and grace, as well as to complete the happiness of those who persevere in grace! 32. But to encourage your watchfulness against the very smallest beginnings of apostasy, let me beseech you seriously to reflect upon that solid satisfaction and hope which ye formerly experienced in the time of your conversion to Christ—in which, as soon as ye were enlightened in the knowledge of Christ, and the way of salvation through him, assisted of God, ye patiently sustained, with Christian fortitude, a multitude of severe persecutions from your own countrymen; 33. Partly while ye were maliciously accused, contemptuously disgraced, virulently derided, and cruelly oppressed, for righteousness' sake; and partly while ye tenderly sympathized and mourned with, courageously owned and assisted, your fellow-Christians, and the apostles and servants of Christ, when they were abused and persecuted. 34. For when I myself was imprisoned for the sake of Christ, ye boldly acknowledged and stood by me, kindly sympathized with me, prayed for me, and, to the utmost of your power, supplied my wants; yea, for the sake of Christ and his cause, ye cheerfully endured the loss of the conveniences and necessities of life, which were violently wrested from you by furious persecutors—being fully satisfied, from the promise of God, and your own happy experience, that there is laid up for you, in the new covenant and in heaven, the more substantial, durable, and enriching treasure of everlasting life, secured for you by Christ, and graciously given to you as your reward in adhering to his cause. 35. Animated therefore by a lively faith in the promises of the gospel, and by the remembrance of your holy fortitude in suffering for him hitherto, take heed lest, through the continuance or increase of your persecutions, and the workings of your own fear and unbelief under them, ye should relinquish your holy boldness, freedom, and courage in professing and following of Christ, and your joyful hopes of eternal life through him, which, for the present, afford you noble support and satisfaction under your trials, and shall quickly issue in your enjoyment of eternal happiness above, which will infinitely more than compensate all the troubles you can endure for the sake of Christ on earth: 36. For, according to the wise and holy appointment of God, the declaration of his Word, and the disposals of his providence, such is your present state of afflictions and persecutions, that ye absolutely need, and must have, grace to enable you to live in the constant exercise of a calm, quiet, humble, and resigned submission to the sovereign will of God in them—that after cheerfully yielding up yourselves, through the whole course of your lives, to the commanding and disposing will of God in the most difficult instances of it, ye may receive the promised blessing of eternal life at the end of your spiritual race and warfare. 37. For, according to an ancient prediction applicable to the Messiah in all his remarkable appearances, it is but a very short time, and he will certainly come to destroy your Jewish adversaries, and deliver you from their oppression;

13 From henceforth expecting<sup>o</sup> till his enemies be made his footstool.

14 For<sup>p</sup> by one offering he hath perfected for ever them that are sanctified.

15 Whereof<sup>a</sup> the Holy Ghost also is a witness to us: for after that he had said before,

16 This<sup>a</sup> is the covenant that I will make with them after those days, saith the Lord; I will put my laws into their hearts, and in their minds will I write them;

17 And their sins and iniquities will I remember no more.

18 Now <sup>a</sup>where remission of these is, there is no more offering for sin.

19 Having<sup>t</sup> therefore,<sup>7</sup> brethren, boldness<sup>8</sup> to enter into the holiest by the blood of Jesus,

20 By<sup>u</sup> a new and living<sup>9</sup> way, which he hath consecrated<sup>1</sup> for us, through the veil, that is to say, his flesh;

21 And<sup>v</sup> having an High-priest over the house of God;

22 Let<sup>r</sup> us draw near with a true heart, in full assurance of faith, having our hearts sprinkled<sup>2</sup> from an evil conscience, and our bodies washed with pure water.

23 Let<sup>y</sup> us hold fast the profession of our<sup>3</sup> faith<sup>4</sup> without wavering; (for he is faithful that promised;)

24 And<sup>a</sup> let us consider one another, to provoke unto love and to good works:

25 Not<sup>b</sup> forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another: and so much the more as ye see the day approaching.

26 For <sup>a</sup>if we sin wilfully<sup>5</sup> after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins, 27 But<sup>d</sup> a certain fearful looking for of judgment, and fiery indignation, which shall devour the adversaries.

28 He<sup>e</sup> that despised Moses' law died without mercy under two or three witnesses:

29 Of<sup>g</sup> how much sorer punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the <sup>h</sup>blood of the covenant, wherewith <sup>i</sup>he was sanctified,<sup>6</sup> an unholy thing, and hath done <sup>j</sup>despite unto the Spirit of grace?

30 For we know him that hath said, <sup>k</sup>Vengeance belongeth unto me, I will recompense, saith the Lord. And again, <sup>l</sup>The Lord shall judge his people.

may, when he will come to the last judgment, for the utter destruction of all unbelieving and impenitent sinners, and to put you into the full possession of eternal life; nor will he tarry one moment beyond the time fixed on as best for his work and your advantage in his loving purpose. 38. And for your further incitement, remember that, according to a subsequent prediction, whoever are justified through, and purified in heart by faith, may, by means of that grace, persevere in a life of fellowship with God, obedience to his law, and patient submission to his providence on earth, and be admitted to a life of blessedness and glory with Christ for ever; but if any man, after making a profession of faith in Christ, through pride and unbelief, apostatize from him, and renounce the profession of his name, God will certainly loathe, abhor, and miserably destroy him. 39. But we who are sincere in our profession of Christ, and are truly before God what we appear before men, are not of the number of those hypocritical and treacherous professors who revolt from him to their own everlasting destruction; but of those who, having truly believed with our heart, shall steadfastly persevere in holiness, kept by the power of God, through a faith which receives, and may certainly issue in the eternal salvation of our soul.

Ver. 14. By one offering, &c. Where is, then, use or room for the figment of the Romish mass as an unbloody but expiatory sacrifice for sin? The doctrine of expiation by a bloodless sacrifice contradicts ch. 9. 22; 10. 18. The doctrine of any second or continued sacrifice contradicts the everlasting perfection of 'the one offering.' C.

Ver. 38. Any man is not in the original; but any professing Christian is evidently implied, as the apostle immediately proceeds, in the very next verse, to distinguish between those that draw back to perdition, because they merely professed, and those who persevered to salvation, because they believed. C.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

q 2 Pe. 1. 21. ch. 3. 7.
Re. 2. 7. 11. 17. 29. Ac.
28. 25. 2 Sa. 23. 2.
r See ch. 8. 8. 10. 12.
Je. 31. 33. 34. Ro. 11. 27.
Is. 1. 18; 43. 25; 44. 22; 55.
7. Je. 23. 8; 50. 20.
s ver. 14. 17.

t In. 10. 7; 14. 6. Ro.
5. 2. Ep. 2. 13. 15. 18; 3. 12.
ch. 4. 16; 9. 8. 12. 1 Pe. 3.
18. Re. 5. 9; 1. 5. 6.

7 The practical conclusion of the epistle begins with this verse.
It is in every way worthy of the noble argument which precedes it. The duty devolving upon all believers in the grand truths developed is set forth with great solemnity and power.
They are cheered on by the memory of past triumphs and by the blessed hopes of Christ's coming.—P.

8 Or, liberty.
u In. 10. 7; 14. 6. ver.
19. 2. Ti. 1. 10. ch. 9. 8.

9 The sacrifices of the law, as the way of a sinner to God, were dead; Jesus, as a way to the Father, 'liveth for ever.'
—C.

1 Or, new made.
v ch. 2. 17; 3. 16; 4. 14-16; 5. 5. 6. 10; 6. 20; 7. 3. 17.
21. 25; 8. 19. 11. ver. 12. 1
Ti. 3. 15. Mat. 16. 18. 1
Pe. 2. 5. Ep. 2. 19-22.
Ga. 6. 10.

x ch. 4. 16. Ja. 1. 6; 4. 8.
In. 4. 23. 24. Ep. 3. 12. 1
Ju. 3. 21. Phi. 3. 3. Eze.
36. 25. 1 Co. 6. 11. ch. 9.
14. Re. 1. 5. 1. Ju. 1. 7; 2. 1.
Le. 16. 4.

2 'Sprinkled as to our hearts' (so as to be pronounced clean)
'from' (the leprosy of) 'an evil conscience,' Le. 14. 7.—C.

y ch. 4. 14; 3. 14. Pr. 23.
23. Jude 3. Re. 3. 11. 3.
Ep. 4. 14. 1 Pe. 3. 14.

3 Gr. hope or confidence.
4 Our faith. Rather,
'our hope' in Jesus, 1 Ju. 3.—C.

z 1 Co. 1. 9; 10. 13. 2
Co. 7. 1. 1 Th. 5. 24. 2 Th.
3. 3. ch. 11. 11. Nu. 23. 19.
1 Sa. 15. 29. Tit. 1. 2. ch.
6. 18.

aa ch. 6. 10; 12. 14; 13. 1.
1 Th. 5. 14. 15. ch. 3. 13.
Pr. 27. 1.

bb Ac. 2. 42. 1 Co. 11.
20. Jude 19. 2 Pe. 3. 9, 11.
14. 1 Pe. 4. 7. ch. 3. 13.
Ro. 13. 11-14.

cc Nu. 15. 30. Mat. 12.
31. ch. 6. 4. 6. 2 Pe. 2.
20. 21. 1 Ju. 5. 16. Ro. 6.
16. ch. 9. 26.

dd Sin wilfully. By rejecting the evidence of gospel truth, and refusing Christ as a Saviour.—C.

ee Le. 10. 2. Nu. 16. 35.
Eze. 36. 5. Zep. 1. 18; 3.
8. ch. 2. 3; 12. 25. 29. 2 Pe.
3. 7; 3.

ff In. 8. 15. Mat. 18.
16. In. 8. 17. 2 Co. 13. 1.
with Ex. 19. 21; 22. 18.
20. 26; 31. 14; 32. 27. Le.
24. 11. 14. Nu. 4. 5; 15. 20;
15. 32; 25. 7; 35. 30. De.
13. 6. 8; 17. 2-13; 27. 26. 1
Sa. 6. 10.

gg ch. 2. 3; 12. 25. 1 Co.
11. 29. Ac. 3. 9.

hh ch. 13. 20; 20. Mat.
26. 28. Zec. 9. 11. Ex. 24.
8.

ii ch. 2. 10; 9. 11. 12. Ju.
17. 19.

jj The blood of the covenant wherewith he (Christ) was sanctified.—C.

kk Mat. 12. 31. 32.
l De. 32. 35. Ro. 12.
19. Ps. 94. 1. 2. Na. 1. 2. 6.

mm De. 32. 36. Ps. 50. 4;
135. 14.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

nn Lu. 12. 5. ch. 12. 29.
2 Th. 1. 9. Ps. 70. 7; 90. 11.
Na. 1. 6. Is. 33. 14.

oo To fall (as impenitent sinners and determined rebels) into the hands of the (ever) living God, whose 'mercy is (at length) clean gone,' and whose judgment abideth for ever.—C.

pp ver. 25; ch. 6. 4. Ga.
3. 4. Phi. 1. 29. 30. Col. 2.
1. 2. Ju. 8.

qq 1 Co. 4. 9. Phi. 1. 7; 4.
14. 1 Th. 2. 14.

rr Mat. 5. 12. 41. Ja. 1.
2. Ac. 5. 41; 21. 33. Ep. 3.
1. 13; 4. 1; 6. 20. Phi. 1. 7.
13. Col. 4. 3. 18. Phil. 10.
13. ch. 13. 3. 2 Ti. 2. 9. 10. 1
Th. 2. 14.

ss Mat. 5. 12; 6. 19. 20; 19. 21. Lu. 12. 33. 1 Ti. 6.
19. 1 Pe. 1. 4. 2 Co. 5. 1. 1
Ju. 3. 2.

tt ch. 2. 13. 12; 4. 1. 14;
12. 15. with Mat. 5. 12;
10. 32; 11. 6. Ps. 19. 11. 1
Co. 15. 58. ch. 11. 26.

uu Lu. 21. 19. Mat. 10.
22; 24. 13. Ga. 6. 9. ch. 12.
1. 1 Pe. 1. 6. 9. 13; 5. 10.
Col. 3. 24. Ro. 2. 7. 10.
ch. 6. 12. 15. Ro. 8. 25.

vv Hab. 2. 3. 4. Hag. 2.
7. Lu. 18. 8. 2 Pe. 3. 8. 9.
1s. 26. 20; 60. 22.

ww He that shall come. Rather, 'he that is coming.'—C.

xx Hab. 2. 4. Ro. 1. 17.
Ga. 3. 11.

yy Ps. 85. 8. ch. 6. 4-6;
ver. 26. 27. 2 Pe. 2. 19-22.

zz 1 Th. 5. 9. 12. 2 Th.
2. 13. 14. ch. 6. 9. Ju. 3. 16;
6. 40. 1 Pe. 1. 5.

CHAP. XI.

aa ver. 13. Ps. 27. 13; 42.
11. Ju. 20. 29. 1 Th. 1. 5.
Ro. 8. 24. 25. 2 Co. 4. 18;
5. 17.

1 Or ground or confidence.
2 In this 11th chapter Paul breaks off into one of those di-gredient so characteristic of his style.
He was led to it by the mention of faith in the close of ch. x.

After a clear and logical definition of it, he describes its effects in language of almost unparalleled pathos and eloquence. After recording a few of the brightest examples of faith's power, he bursts forth into a grand comprehensive summary, as if the fulness of his enthusiasm would no longer permit him to dwell on individual instances. The meaning of this first verse is well brought out in the translation given by Alford:—'Now faith is confidence of things hoped for, demonstration of matters not seen.'—P.

bb ver. 4-39.
cc Ge. 1. Ps. 33. 6. Ju. 1.
3. Ro. 4. 17. ch. 1. 2. 2 Pe.
3. 3.

dd Literally 'the ages,' including everything that exists under conditions of time and place.—P.

ee Ge. 4. 4. 5. 10. Mat.
23. 35. ch. 12. 24. 1 Ju. 3.
12. with Le. 9. 24. 1 Ki.
18. 38.

ff Or, is yet spoken of.
gg Ge. 5. 24. 24. with 2 Ki. 2. 11. Lu. 24. 51. Ac.
1. 9.

hh Ro. 14. 23. Ju. 3. 18.
36; 6. 40. ch. 10. 22. De. 4.
29. Ps. 20. 4; 40. 16; 106.
21-24. Je. 29. 13. Am. 5.
4. Zec. 8. 22. ch. 10. 35; 7.
25.

31 It<sup>n</sup> is a fearful thing to fall<sup>7</sup> into the hands of the living God.

32 But<sup>o</sup> call to remembrance the former days, in which, after ye were illuminated, ye endured a great fight of afflictions;

33 Partly, whilst ye were made <sup>a</sup>a gazing-stock, both by reproaches and afflictions; and partly, whilst ye became companions of them that were so used.

34 For<sup>a</sup> ye had compassion of me in my bonds, and took joyfully the spoiling of your goods, knowing in yourselves that <sup>a</sup>ye have in heaven a better and an enduring substance.

35 Cast<sup>s</sup> not away therefore your confidence, which hath great recompense of reward.

36 For<sup>t</sup> ye have need of patience, that, after ye have done the will of God, ye might receive the promise.

37 For yet <sup>a</sup>a little while, and he that shall come<sup>s</sup> will come, and will not tarry.

38 Now <sup>v</sup>the just shall live by faith: <sup>a</sup>but if any man draw back, my soul shall have no pleasure in him.

39 But <sup>v</sup>we are not of them who draw back unto perdition, but of them that believe to the saving of the soul.

CHAPTER XI.

1 What faith is. 6 Without faith we cannot please God. 7 The worthy fruits thereof in the fathers of old time.

NOW faith<sup>a</sup> is the substance<sup>1</sup> of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.<sup>2</sup>

2 For<sup>b</sup> by it the elders obtained a good report.

3 Through faith we understand that 'the worlds<sup>3</sup> were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear.

4 By faith <sup>a</sup>Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain, by which he obtained witness that he was righteous, God testifying of his gifts: and by it he, being dead, yet speaketh.<sup>4</sup>

5 By faith <sup>a</sup>Enoch was translated that he should not see death; and was not found, because God had translated him: for before his translation he had this testimony, that he pleased God.

6 But<sup>g</sup> without faith it is impossible to please

REFLECTIONS.—In their number, their repetitions, and their frequently spreading the ceremonial defilement, was deeply marked the insufficiency of legal sacrifices and washings to remove our sin, or recommend us to the favour of God. But infinitely meritorious and blessed is the sacrifice of Christ, who, in consequence of God's loving purposes, covenant engagements, and ancient promises, appeared in our nature, and fulfilled all righteousness in his obedience unto death. The blessed ratification of all his promises, full forgiveness, gracious sanctification, delightful access to God; yea, eternal redemption—are hereby made possible for all. Diligently should we, then, improve these blessings in the most familiar devotion; in mutual excitement to love and good works; by constancy in church-fellowship and public worship, and in watchfulness against the first and smallest beginnings him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him.

7 By faith Noah, being warned of God of things not seen as yet, <sup>5</sup> moved with fear, <sup>6</sup> prepared<sup>a</sup> an ark to the saving of his house; by the which he condemned the world,<sup>7</sup> and <sup>8</sup> became heir of the righteousness which is by faith.

8 By faith <sup>9</sup> Abraham, when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obeyed; and he went out, not knowing whither he went.

9 By faith he <sup>10</sup> sojourned in the land of promise, as in a strange country, dwelling in tabernacles with Isaac and Jacob,<sup>8</sup> the heirs with him of the same promise:

10 For he looked for <sup>11</sup> a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God.

11 Through faith also <sup>12</sup> Sara herself received strength to conceive seed, and was delivered of a child when she was past age, because she judged him faithful who had promised.

12 Therefore<sup>o</sup> sprang there even of one, and

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

5 Or, being wary.
6 Rather, 'taking forethought'—foreseeing by faith what was about to take place, and making preparations accordingly.—P.
7 He condemned the world virtually by setting them an example of what all ought to have done, and by the omission of which they brought upon themselves that divine judgment which he showed them how they might have avoided.—P.

8 Ge. 6.13-22; 5.23. 1 Pe. 3. 20. 2 Pe. 2. 5. Eze. 14.14,20. Mat. 24. 37. Lu. 17.26.

9 Is. 45. 24; 54.17; 61. 10. Ro. 3.22; 4.13; 5.15-19. Phi. 3.9. 2 Co. 5.21. 1 Co. 1.30.

10 Ge. 11.31; 12.1,4; 15.14; 17.5. Ne.9.7. Ac.7.2-8. Is. 41.2.

11 ver. 10. Ge. 12.7,8; 13. 3, 12, 15-18; 17.8; 18. 1,2,6,9,10; 23.4. Ac. 7.5.

12 Jacob was fifteen years old when Abraham died.—C.

13 Ch. 3.4; 13.14; 12.22, 28. Re. 3.12; 21.2,10,19. 2 Co. 5.1-8.

14 Ge. 17.17,19; 18.13, 14; 21.1,2. Lu. 1.36,45. Ro. 4.19-21. ch. 10.23. 2 Ch. 20.20. Is. 7.9.

15 Ge. 13.16; 5.18; 18; 22.17; 26. 4; 32. 12. Ro. 4. 17-19. Nu. i. xxvi. 1 Ch. xxi. xxiii.—xxviii. 2 Ch. xiii. xvii.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

8 Ju. 8.56. Ge. 48.21; xlix. 30. 24.
9 Or, according to faith.
1 And embraced them; rather, 'saluted or hailed them' when seen in the distance. Delitzsch thus explains the expression:—'From afar they saw the promises in the reality of their fulfilment; from afar they greeted them as the wanderer greets his longed-for home even when he only comes in sight of it at a distance, drawing to himself, as it were magnetically, and embracing with inward love that which is yet afar off.'—P.

2 Ge. 23.4; 47.9. 1 Ch. 29.15. Ps. 39.12; 119.19. 1 Pe. 1.17; 2.11. 2 Pe. 1.17. 17.16. Ge. 49.18, 2 Co. 4. 18; 5.1-7. Ro. 8. 23-25. Lu. 2.29. Phi. 1. 23.

3 Ge. 11.28,31. Jos. 24. 2. Ne. 9.7. Ac. 7.2. 7 Ge. 24. 4-6,8; 28. 5; 35.26.

4 ver. 14. 2 Co. 4.18; 5. 1-7. Ro. 8.23-25. Lu. 2. 29. Phi. 1. 23. ch. 13.14; ver. 8.

5 Ex. 3.6. 15. Mat. 22. 32. Mar. 12.26. Lu. 20. 37. Ac. 7.32.

6 ver. 8,10; ch. 13.14; 12.22. Re. xxi. xxii. 1 Co. 5.1. Ju. 14.2,3. Mat. 25.34. Lu. 12.32. Phi. 3. 20.

7 A city. An abiding rest in heaven, as distinguished from their movable tabernacles on earth, ver. 9.—C.

him as good as dead, so many as the stars of the sky in multitude, and as the sand which is by the sea-shore innumerable.

13 These<sup>p</sup> all died in faith,<sup>9</sup> not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them,<sup>1</sup> and <sup>2</sup> confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth.

14 For they that say such things declare plainly that they <sup>3</sup> seek a country.

15 And truly, if they had been mindful of <sup>4</sup> that country from whence they came out, <sup>5</sup> they might have had opportunity to have returned:

16 But now <sup>6</sup> they desire a better country, that is, an heavenly: wherefore <sup>7</sup> God is not ashamed to be called their God; <sup>8</sup> for he hath prepared for them a city.<sup>2</sup>

17 By<sup>v</sup> faith Abraham, when he was tried, offered up<sup>3</sup> Isaac: and he that had received the promises offered up his only begotten son, of apostasy, or contempt of him and his grace. Patiently and in hope should we persevere under our manifold sufferings for his sake; tenderly sympathize with his suffering servants; and steadfastly cleave to him, and live upon him by faith. His comforting promises, refreshing presence, and eternal rewards, will more than balance all our adversities on earth.—But, alas! inexpressible is the guilt and danger of those who willfully reject or apostatize from him! O my soul, exceedingly fear and quake! Alas! how far and how long I may proceed in the appearances of religion, and, after all, with Judas sink into the depths of hell!

18 Of<sup>4</sup> whom it was said, <sup>5</sup> That in Isaac shall thy seed be called:

3 Offered up—in purpose, and in obedience to the divine command.—C. 4 Or, To. 5 Ge. 22.1-12. Ja. 2.21. 2 Co. 8.12. 4 Or, To. 5 Ge. 22.12. Ro. 9.7. Ga. 3.29.

CHAPTER XI. Ver. 1. Now, to give you a summary account of the excellent nature and effects of that faith by which men believe unto salvation, it gives a sort of present subsistence in the mind to, and a confident expectation of, future blessings, which, by the infallible promise of God, are as fully ascertained and realized, to the believer's comfort, as if he actually possessed them. And, merely on the credit of divine revelation, it gives us as clear and convincing a demonstration of invisible things as if they were ever so plainly exhibited to our natural sight: 2. For, by this realizing and evidencing exercise of faith, our godly ancestors, all along from the time of the first promise till now, obtained an honourable testimony from God, part of which is contained in his Word.—3. Though, from reason and observation, we are obliged to conclude the wonderful fabric of this world to have been the workmanship of God, yet it is by faith in his Word, as the evidence of things not seen, that we certainly know that God formed all things by a mere act of his will, and that in such beautiful order, out of the mere chaos once covered with absolute darkness. 4. By faith in God's first promise of Christ's incarnation and sufferings, and in his appointment of sacrifices to prefigure them, Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain—by which he humbly acknowledged his own guilt, and prefigured the death of the Messiah, as the Lamb of God, to make atonement for the sins of the people; and hence, by some visible token from heaven, as well as by inward intimations to his conscience, God testified to him that his person was justified, and his sacrifice accepted, through Christ. And by means of this faith, as his case stands recorded in the book of God, Abel, though dead long ago, still instructs us that the only way of a sinner's justification before God is through faith in the atoning sacrifice of Jesus Christ; and that the murder of innocents, and especially of faithful saints, shall be terribly punished. 5. By faith, which rendered him accepted in the Beloved, and purified his heart from dead works to perfect holiness, in the most close walking with God, Enoch, the seventh from Adam, was miraculously translated to heaven, soul and body, without undergoing the ordinary change of death; and, even before he was rapt up into heaven, God attested to his conscience, and perhaps to his neighbours, that his person and works were accepted in his sight. 6. But without such realizing and evidencing faith in Christ it is impossible to please God; for he that approaches him in prayer, or any other religious worship, must, upon the ground of revelation, believe that God really exists as the only true God, and that he freely gives himself, and all blessings of grace and glory, as an exceeding great and gracious reward, to those that humbly, earnestly, perseveringly, and with their whole heart, seek his face and favour in Christ, in the means of his own appointment, and in reliance on his covenant promises. 7. By faith Noe, who was righteous before God, and walked with him, crediting his threatening to destroy the old world, and his promise to preserve him and his family, built an ark, wherein they, and a remnant of animals, were saved from the general deluge; by which faith in the truth, power, justice, and mercy of God revealed to him, and by his building the ark in obedience to God's command, and by his repeated preaching of righteousness, he doctrinally and practically condemned the inhabitants of the old world; and by his faith in the Messiah, who was typified by his ark as the only mean of salvation, he became heir of the world, renewed after the flood, and of the righteousness of Christ received by faith, and of all the blessings, temporal, spiritual, or eternal, secured by it. 8. It was by faith in the authority of God, and in his promise to give to him and to his seed a land figurative of the heavenly inheritance, that Abraham, the friend of God, and father of the Jews and of all believers, at his call, left his native country of Chaldea, and set out on a journey to a land which he knew nothing of—no, not so much as its name, or the way to it. 9. It was by faith in the promise and protection of God that he, with Isaac and Jacob, his fellow-heirs of the promised Canaan, contentedly wandered, as a stranger and pilgrim, in that country, among the heathen inhabitants, dwelling only in movable tents. 10. For God having promised to be his exceeding great reward, and his God for ever, and that in his seed all the nations of the earth should be blessed, he by faith looked through the figurative Canaan to the earnestly desired and expected, highly privileged, great, glorious, regular, firmly fixed, and everlasting blessedness of heaven, of which God himself is the contriver, former, and even the very substance. 11. It was also by faith, in the faithfulness and power of God engaged in the promise, that Sara, the beloved wife of Abraham, after her recovery from her unbelief, was enabled, beyond all expectation, and all ordinary influence of second causes, to conceive and bear a son, after she had continued barren till the ninetieth year of her age.

12. And in virtue of their faith, a prodigiously numerous offspring descended from them, after both of them had appeared beyond all possibility of having any.

13. And not only did Abraham, Sara, Isaac, and Jacob, live by faith in God's promises and perfections, under their trials on earth, but died also in the full and comfortable persuasion, that however little they had experienced of the fulfilment of the promises on earth, God would completely accomplish them—in giving themselves an immediate entrance into the blessedness of heaven; and in increasing their posterity, and settling them in Canaan as his peculiar people; and in bringing the Messiah from their loins to be the common Saviour of men: and they avowed that they looked on themselves as no more than aliens and strangers in this world, passing through it in their way to the heavenly country. 14. And this avowal, that their hearts and hopes, interest and happiness, were not placed on any earthly concerns, manifested to all around them that they looked and hoped for, desired and earnestly sought after, the large and delightful abodes of heaven, as their native home, in which they should for ever dwell with God as their Father and Friend. 15. And it is evident that the country which they sought after was not their native home in Chaldea, where their friends and relations continued; for, if they had been inclined to return thither, they had time, liberty, and power enough to do it with safety. 16. But all their desires and expectations centred on that transcendently more excellent, satisfying, glorious, abiding, incorruptible, and undefiled heavenly inheritance; wherefore God, in his infinite love, condescended to avow himself to be their God in a peculiar and distinguished manner; and, answerably to this high relation, has graciously appointed, laid out, framed, and fitted up the heavenly mansions for their whole persons, soul and body, to dwell with himself. 17-19. It was by faith in the promises of God to him and to his seed, particularly that which concerned the Messiah and his extensive salvation, that Abraham—when required, for the eminent trial of his faith and obedience, to offer up in a burnt-offering his only son Isaac, whom he had obtained by such a miraculous conception and birth, and in whom the promises were to be fulfilled—so readily complied, and proceeded in this work till stopped by God himself; accounting and concluding in his own mind, that though Isaac should be slain and burned to ashes, God easily could and would raise him from the dead, in order to fulfil the promises in him and his seed. And, indeed, as at first he received him from his own and Sara's dead bodies, on that occasion he received him back from that death to which he had been, without any hope to the contrary, heartily devoted. 20-22. It was by faith in the promises of God

19 Accounting<sup>a</sup> that God was able to raise him up, even from the dead; from whence also he received him in a figure.<sup>5</sup>

20 By faith <sup>b</sup>Isaac blessed Jacob and Esau concerning things to come.

21 By faith Jacob, when he was a dying, blessed<sup>c</sup> both the sons of Joseph; and worshipped, leaning upon the top of his staff.

22 By faith <sup>d</sup>Joseph, when he died, made mention of<sup>e</sup> the departing of the children of Israel; and gave commandment concerning his bones.

23 By faith <sup>f</sup>Moses, when he was born, was hid three months of his parents, because they saw he was a proper child; and they were <sup>g</sup>not afraid of the king's commandment.

24 By faith <sup>h</sup>Moses, when he was come to years, refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter;<sup>7</sup>

25 Choosing<sup>i</sup> rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season;

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

<sup>a</sup> Ro. 4.17, 19-21. ver.

11, 12.

<sup>b</sup> See note * below

<sup>c</sup> Ge. 27.27-40.

<sup>d</sup> Ge. 48.5-20; 37.9-47.

31.

<sup>e</sup> Ge. 50.24, 25. Ex. 13.

13, 19. Jos. 24.32. Ac. 7.

16.

<sup>f</sup> Or, remembered.

<sup>g</sup> Ex. 2.2; 1.16, 22.

Ac. 7.20.

<sup>h</sup> Ps. 56.4; 118.6, 15.2.

12, 13; 51.7, 12; 41.10, 14.

Mat. 10.28.

<sup>i</sup> Ex. 2.1-15. Ac. 7.21

-24.

<sup>7</sup> This fact, though not recorded in sacred history, was believed by the Jews as an authentic tradition, and is mentioned by their historians.—P.

<sup>5</sup> Ps. 84.10. Ac. 7.23.

25. Job 20.5. Lu. 16.25.

Mat. 5.10-12. Ro. 5.3.

<sup>6</sup> The interpretation of this verse is difficult. It may be translated as follows:

—'Reckoning that God is able even to raise from among the dead, from whence he also (Abraham) received him (Isaac) back in a parable,' or figuratively. Alford explains the meaning of the last clause, in which the great difficulty lies, thus:—

'The true identification of the "parable" is, I am persuaded, to be found in the figure under which Isaac was sacrificed, viz.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

the ram, as already hinted by Chrysostom. Abraham virtually sacrificed his son. God designated Isaac for the burnt-offering, but provided a ram in his stead. Under the figure of that ram Isaac was slain, being received back by his father in his proper person, risen from that death which he had undergone in parable, in, under, the figure of the ram.

—P.

<sup>8</sup> Or, for Christ, ch.

13. 13. Ac. 9.4. 2 Co. 1.5.

Col. 1.24.

<sup>9</sup> Ch. 10.35. 2 Ti. 2.11.

12. Mar. 8.38. Ro. 8.17.

2 Co. 4.10. 1 Pe. 4.19.

<sup>10</sup> Ex. 10.28, 29; 12.31

-47; 13.17-21, with 3.2,

10.6. 3-8. Ver. 13.

<sup>11</sup> Ti. 1.17.

<sup>12</sup> Ex. 12.2-30.

<sup>13</sup> Ex. 14.13-30. Ps. 78.

136.6; 136.11-15. Ne.

9.11.

<sup>14</sup> Jos. 6.1-20.

<sup>15</sup> Jos. 6.23-25; 2.2-21.

Ja. 2.25.

<sup>16</sup> Or, that were dis- obedient.

<sup>17</sup> Ju. vi.-viii.

<sup>18</sup> Ju. iv.-v.

<sup>19</sup> Ju. xiii.-xvi.

<sup>20</sup> Ju. xi.-xii.

<sup>21</sup> 1 Sa. xvi. - xxvii.

xxx.2 Sa. i.-xxiv. 1 Ch.

xi.-xxix.

<sup>22</sup> 1 Sa. i. iii. vii. - xii.

xxv.

<sup>23</sup> Nu. xxi. Jos. vii.-

xiii. 2 Sa. v. viii. x. 1 Sa.

12.3-5.

26 Esteeming the reproach of Christ<sup>8</sup> greater riches than the treasures in Egypt: <sup>9</sup>for he had respect unto the recompense of the reward.

27 By<sup>k</sup> faith he forsook Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king: for he endured, as seeing <sup>h</sup>him who is invisible.

28 Through faith <sup>a</sup>he kept the passover, and the sprinkling of blood, lest he that destroyed the first-born should touch them.

29 By faith <sup>o</sup>they passed through the Red sea as by dry land; which the Egyptians assaying to do, were drowned.

30 By faith <sup>n</sup>the walls of Jericho fell down, after they were compassed about seven days.

31 By faith <sup>a</sup>the harlot Rahab perished not with them that believed not,<sup>9</sup> when she had received the spies with peace.

32 And what shall I more say? for the time would fail me to tell of <sup>r</sup>Gideon, and of <sup>s</sup>Barak, and of <sup>t</sup>Samson, and of <sup>u</sup>Jephthae; of <sup>v</sup>David also, and <sup>w</sup>Samuel, and of the prophets;

33 Who through faith <sup>y</sup>subdued kingdoms, that Isaac, by prophetic influence, assigned to Jacob the principal, and to Esau the subordinate, blessings for themselves and their seed; and that Jacob, when very feeble, in like manner foretold the fate of Joseph's two sons, assigning the principal glory to Ephraim the younger; and that Joseph, when dying, assured his brethren that God would certainly preserve them in, and in due time bring them out of Egypt; and in testimony of his faith herein, appointed them to carry his bones with them to Canaan, and bury them there. 23. It was by faith in God's promises of their preservation in and deliverance from Egypt, that Moses' parents, observing something extraordinary in their child, dared, contrary to the commandment of Pharaoh their king, to conceal him three months after his birth. 24-26. By faith in the same promises of God, made to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and in the invisible things of the heavenly state, Moses, when forty years old, and extraordinarily qualified with learning and wisdom, renounced his adoptive relation to Pharaoh, which might have issued in his succession to the crown of Egypt, quitted the court, and associated himself with his Hebrew brethren—choosing rather to undergo the severest oppression, suffering, and trouble, with God's own peculiar people, than to gratify his flesh with the enjoyment of all the uncertain and perishing grandeur, affluence, and sensual pleasures of a pompous, idolatrous, and luxurious court; deliberately reckoning reproach, derision, and persecution, for the sake of Christ, and in communion with him and his people, more valuable and useful, for the honour of God and his own spiritual interests, than all the wealth and honours that the kingdom of Egypt could afford: for he looked off from those perishing riches on the one hand, and beyond those temporal hardships on the other, to the immortal and inexpressible glories reserved for him in heaven, which he knew would more than recompense all the reproaches, wants, and sufferings he could undergo for the sake of a good conscience on earth. 27. By faith in the command and promise of God, about forty years after he returned from Midian; and, fearless of King Pharaoh's threatenings and wrath, demanded his permission for the Hebrews to leave the country; and at last, regardless of his furious pursuit, led them forth to liberty, by faith depending entirely on the invisible God. 28. By faith in the promise of God to deliver his people from Egypt, and in the promised Messiah typified by that divinely appointed ordinance, he, and the children of Israel, directed by him, observed the passover, and sprinkled the blood on their upper lintels and door-posts, that the angel who, that very night, destroyed all the first-born of the Egyptians, might not hurt them. 29. And it was chiefly by his faith in the promise and command of God that the Red Sea was divided, and a passage opened for the Israelites from Egypt to the Arabian wilderness—in which Pharaoh and his army, attempting to follow them, were every one of them drowned. 30. It was by the faith of Joshua, Caleb, and others, in the promise, faithfulness, power, and command of God, that the walls of Jericho miraculously fell down while the Israelites shouted, after they and the ark of God had compassed the city seven days. 31. It was by faith in the God of Israel, and his grant of the land of Canaan to his favourite Jews, that Rahab, a Gentile, who had been a harlot, kindly received the spies whom Joshua sent to view the city, and so, together with her friends, escaped, when the rest of the inhabitants, who disregarded what they had heard or seen of God's miraculous appearances for Israel, perished in a general slaughter. 32. But why should I multiply further instances of the power and triumphs of faith? Both my time, and the intended limits of this epistle, forbid me to give a particular account—how, by faith in the promise and command of God, Gideon reformed his city, and, with a handful of unarmed men, routed the Midianites; Barak and Deborah, with ten thousand undisciplined troops, vanquished the formidable army of Jabau, king of Canaan; Jephthah overthrew the Ammonites; Samson, in his life, and at his death, destroyed the Philistines; David endured manifold trials, conquered giants and nations; Samuel, by miracles, delivered and terrified his people; Elijah, Elisha, and other prophets, patiently endured their troubles, boldly declared their messages, and, when necessary, confirmed them by miracles;—33. How, through faith in God's promise and providence, Moses and Joshua subdued the Canaanites, and David the nations around; and they and others not only kept the commandments of God themselves, but reformed their nation, and governed them with great equity and impartiality; or by remarkable appearances of providence obtained the actual accomplishment of particular promises made to them: Daniel stopped the mouths of lions in the den; Samson slew one, David another, and Benaiah a third: 34. Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego restrained the force of Nebuchadnezzar's fiery furnace; they, and Elijah, Elisha, and others, escaped the murderous plots and attempts of cruel tyrants; others, as Hezekiah, were recovered from desperate distempers; or, as Gideon and David, from weakness and cowardice, became valiant conquerors. 35-38. By means of faith, the Shunammite and widow of Zarephath beheld their deceased sons restored to life; and many, in the persecutions of Ahab, Jehoram, Ahaz, Manasseh, Jehoiakim, or others, courageously endured the most exquisite sufferings and cruel deaths, in hopes of a resurrection to eternal life, refusing to redeem their lives by the smallest apostasy from the truth; while Isaac, Elisha, Joseph, Samson, Micaiah, and Jeremiah, or others, underwent the most cruel derision, scourging, or imprisonment; and Naboth, Zechariah, Uriah, and others, were murdered in different cruel and barbarous forms; and others, of whose converse, admonitions, and prayers, the wicked inhabitants of the world were not worthy—as David, Elijah, and others—were obliged to flee about as vagabonds from place to place, and hide themselves in deserts, dens, and caves of the earth. 39, 40. But though these ancient saints and servants of God, by means of their faith, have obtained an honourable testimony in the infallible records of God's Word, and embraced and relied upon the promise of the Messiah, yet they never lived to see him come in the flesh, fulfil the work of our redemption, and introduce the glories of the gospel state of the church—God having provided for us who now believe these better things, that their ancient state of religious worship and privileges might not be perfected without some exhibition of Christ in the flesh, fulfilment of all righteousness, and exceeding riches of grace, which are manifested in their transcendent light, glory, and efficacy in the gospel dispensation which we now enjoy.

Ver. 1. The apostle had asserted 'ch. 10. 36, that believers had always 'need of patience,' because they received not 'their recompense' in present possession, but in future promise. He then proves, by prophetic authority, that 'the just shall live by faith;' and proceeds (ch. 11. 1) to define faith as πίστις, 'the firm confidence' (of the reality) 'of things hoped for,' as if they were in actual possession.—Ελεγχος, 'the revelation of things not seen,' as if they were already before the eyes; whereby he proves that as faith always embraces things future and invisible, it can never be separated from that patience which waits for them.

Ver. 2. In proof of the foregoing statement, Paul now adduces the example of 'the elders' (as well those anterior as posterior to Abraham), who obtained 'a good report' both of God and of posterity—not through the ceremonial law, in which the unbelieving Jews trusted for righteousness, but through one common faith, and under the uniform influence of unwearied patience. C.

Ver. 13. These all. Abraham and Sarah, who had come out from their country at the call of God, ver. 15, and Isaac and Jacob, who accompanied him in his unsettled wanderings. C.

Ver. 21. The Romanists, following the Vulgate translation, and rejecting the Greek of the apostle, render this passage—'he adored the top of his staff;' whereby they obtain an apparent countenance for image worship. But all the Greek MSS. agree in ἐπὶ ἄκρον, which can be translated in no other manner than 'upon the top.' The Hebrew word translated 'staff' may, however, be also translated either 'staff' or 'bed's head,' according as it is pointed; and the latter would be accordant with the authorized version, Ge. 47. 31, and is supported by all the ancient versions except the LXX., and by modern expositors of the highest order of learning. Still, as the Greek ῥάβδος will bear no other meaning than 'staff' or 'sceptre,' its apostolic adoption from the LXX. should surely entitle it to be retained as the true translation of the Hebrew. C.

Ver. 26. The reproach of Christ—for expecting whom as a deliverer the Hebrews were ridiculed and reproached. C.

Ver. 27. He forsook Egypt—not when he fled to Midian, Ge. 2. 14, 15, but when he led out the Israelites, and forsook all his property and prospects of advancement, as 'the son of Pharaoh's daughter.' And this he did, 'not fearing the wrath of the king,' whom he, most probably, expected to pursue him and his undisciplined host with his army. C.

Ver. 31. The harlot Rahab. That is, who had been a harlot (for the word, whether in Hebrew or Greek, will bear no other meaning), but who, having come to a knowledge of the true God, had 'brought forth fruits meet for repentance.' Thus 'Simon the leper' and 'Matthew the publican' retain their names, when the one had been healed and the other had become an apostle. C.

Ver. 40. That they without us should not be made perfect in their knowledge of the mysteries of redemption [Mat. 11. 11; 13.

THRESHING SCENE AT HELIOPOLIS—WHERE MOSES WAS EDUCATED AND JOSEPH MARRIED. [ROMANS, xi: 26.]—Reference is made in the 29th verse of the 11th chapter of Romans to Jacob. We give the above illustration of a threshing scene at Heliopolis because it was in this region that Jacob lived during the time he spent with his son Joseph in Egypt. At Heliopolis was situated the greatest university of ancient times. Here Moses was educated and Joseph married the daughter of Potipherah, the controlling priest in the temple of the sun at Heliopolis. It was in this neighborhood that Jacob and Joseph met when the ancient patriarch came down from Canaan with his household. It was here also that Joseph and Mary came to shun the fury of Herod during their sojourn in Egypt.

DRAWING WATER FROM THE NILE. [ROMANS, ix:17.]—It is remarkable how intimately related to the history of the Hebrews is the land of Egypt. No sooner had Abraham come up from Ur of Chaldees into Canaan than he made his way to Egypt. It was to Egypt that the Israelites always looked in time of famine for supplies. And for four hundred and thirty years Egypt was the Holy Land, for this was the length of the period that God's people lived in Egypt. Hence so much reference is made in Scripture to the Pharaohs. Above we have a view of a native drawing water from the Nile to irrigate the land. A yoke of oxen is hitched to a round frame-work, which in turn is attached by rude cogs to another wheel, which in turn causes the jars to revolve, bringing the water from below wrought righteousness, <sup>2</sup>obtained promises, stopped<sup>a</sup> the mouths of lions,

34 Quenched<sup>b</sup> the violence of fire, <sup>c</sup>escaped the edge of the sword, <sup>d</sup>out of weakness were made strong, waxed valiant in fight, turned to flight the armies of the aliens.

35 Women<sup>e</sup> received their dead raised to life again: and others were tortured, not accepting deliverance; that they might obtain a better resurrection:

36 And<sup>f</sup> others had trial of cruel mockings and scourgings, yea, moreover, of bonds and imprisonment:

37 They<sup>h</sup> were stoned, they were sawn asunder, were tempted, <sup>i</sup>were slain with the sword: they<sup>j</sup> wandered about in sheep-skins and goat-skins; being destitute, afflicted, tormented;

38 (Of<sup>k</sup> whom the world was not worthy:<sup>1</sup>) they<sup>l</sup> wandered in deserts, and in mountains, and in dens and caves of the earth.

39 And these all, <sup>m</sup>having obtained a good report through faith, received not the promise;<sup>2</sup>

40 God<sup>n</sup> having provided<sup>3</sup> some better thing for us, that they without us should not be made perfect.

CHAPTER XII.

1 An exhortation to constant faith, patience, and godliness. 22 A commendation of the new testament above the old.

WHEREFORE, seeing we also are compassed about with <sup>a</sup>so great a cloud of witnesses, <sup>b</sup>let us lay aside every weight, and 17; Ep. 3. 10, or in their numbers as members of the body of Christ, and children of the family of God, Ep. 1. 22; He. 13. 2. C.

REFLECTIONS.—What a noble grace is unfeigned faith dwelling in the heart! and how extensively useful! Through the infallible declarations of God it realizes invisible and future things, and gives them a kind of subsistence in our soul. By receiving and resting on the person and righteousness of Christ, it renders us and our services accepted with God.—Crediting his warnings, and obeying his directions, it delivers from danger and death; it weans the heart from this world, and sets it on things above; it enables us to wait for the accomplishment of promises, however unlikely and long delayed; it animates to the most trying obedience; qualifies for a joyful and devout entrance into the eternal state; enables to look into futurities, upon God's authority and credit; and to prefer sufferings with his people, and for his sake, and an exact obedience to his law, to everything earthly: and after exploits unnumbered, it issues in eternal rest and triumph.—Tender is God in giving it, or its various degrees, to all who accept Christ by simple faith, and in exposing his dearest saints to the most singular trials and heaviest troubles on earth to exercise it. But if he be for us, who can be against or hurt us? And it is highly unworthy for us Christian believers, notwithstanding our greatly superior advantages, to be so much inferior to some ancient saints in the vigour and distinctness of our faith.

CHAPTER XII. Ver. 1. Since, from the preceding instances of the excellency and power of faith to support under and triumph over all difficulties and dangers, it appears that we are surrounded on every side with multitudes of glorified believers, who unite in testifying the duty and advantage of an entire reliance upon the infinite wisdom, power, faithfulness, and goodness of God, in the greatest trials, let us, animated by and in imitation of their example, and as under their eye, cast off the works of darkness, inordinate care about this present world, and the load of ceremonial observances, and, by the influence of God's grace, disentangle ourselves from the power of indwelling corruption, and of every sin to which, through our natural depraved constitution, and our peculiar circumstances, company, and situation in life, we are most easily disposed, and especially that great sin of unbelief, which stands in direct opposition to faith, and is the root of all apostasy; and, thus disencumbered from every load of temptation or corruption, let us, with persevering fortitude, quietness, and patient resignation to the holy and sovereign will of God under our manifold sufferings, hold on our way with speed, steadiness, and vigour, till we finish that course of faith, affliction, and unreserved obedience which is appointed for us by God, and marked out in his Word and the examples of his saints, till we arrive at the mark of his high calling, and obtain the crown of life; 2. Always by faith looking off from sin, self, and the allurements and terrors of this world, or whatever else would retard and dishearten us, and looking forward to Jesus Christ—that we may derive grace and strength from him to enable us to follow his most perfect pattern, who is not only an unparalleled example, but the efficient Cause, Leader, and Captain of our faith, to begin, encourage, increase, and perfect it, and crown it with eternal glory—even as he himself, in the joyful prospect and hopes of the honour to God, salvation to men, and reward of mediatorial glory to himself, which would issue therefrom, calmly submitted to, and with astonishing meekness and patience endured, the agonizing and lingering pains of his crucifixion, and overlooked all the ignominy and reproach of that scandalous form of death, and all the contempt and derision attending it; for now, in consequence, and as the just reward of all this, he, in that very nature which suffered, is exalted as a triumphant conqueror over sin, Satan, the world, death, and hell, to a state of the most perfect, glorious, and everlasting rest, honour, and authority. 3. To prevent dejecting discouragement, impatience, or weariness under your manifold tribulations and apprehensions of danger, seriously consider and contemplate the person and office of Jesus Christ, in all their circumstances, and particularly in his invincible patience and undisturbed composure of mind wherewith he for your sakes bore the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us,<sup>1</sup>

2 Looking<sup>c</sup> unto Jesus<sup>2</sup> the <sup>3</sup>author<sup>4</sup> and finisher of our faith; who, <sup>d</sup>for the joy that was set before him, endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God.

3 For consider him that <sup>e</sup>endured such contradiction of sinners against himself, lest ye be wearied and faint in your minds.

4 Ye<sup>f</sup> have not yet resisted unto blood, striving against sin.

5 And ye have forgotten the exhortation <sup>h</sup>which speaketh unto you as unto children, My son, despise not thou the chastening of the Lord, nor faint when thou art rebuked of him:

6 For <sup>i</sup>whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth.

7 If<sup>j</sup> ye endure chastening, God dealeth with you as with sons; for what son is he whom the father chasteneth not?

8 But<sup>k</sup> if ye be without chastisement, whereof all are partakers, then are ye bastards, and not sons.

9 Furthermore, we have had fathers of our flesh which <sup>l</sup>corrected us, and we gave them reverence: <sup>m</sup>shall we not much rather be in subjection unto the Father of spirits, and live?

10 For they verily for a few days chastened us after their own pleasure; <sup>n</sup>but he for our

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

2 Ga. 3. 16.

a Ju. 14. 5. 1 Sa. 17. 34.

Da. 6. 22.

b Da. 3. 24. 25.

c 1 Sa. xx. 1 Ki. xix.

d 2 Ki. 6. 16; 20. 7. Job

42. 10. Ju. 15. 15. 1 Sa.

xiv. Ju. 21.

e 1 Ki. 17. 22, 23. 2 Ki.

4. 35-37. Ac. 4. 19; 22. 24.

29. ver. 25, 26.

f 2 Ki. 2. 23. Ju. 16. 25.

Je. 20. 2; 37. 15. Ge. 39.

20. 1 Ki. 22. 24. Ac. 16.

23; 22. 24.

h 1 Ki. 21. 13. 2 Ch. 24.

21. Ac. 7. 59.

i 1 Sa. 22. 18, 19. 1 Ki.

19. 10. Je. 26. 23. Ac. 12.

12. Mat. 23. 35, 37.

j 2 Ki. 1. 8. Mat. 3. 4.

k Ps. 16. 3. Pr. 12. 26.

Ge. 7. 1. Ja. 2. 5. Re. 1. 5.

6.

l The world cast them out as unworthy of a residence; yet in the judgment of God 'the world was not worthy of them.'

—C.

m 1 Sa. 22. 1; 23. 19; 24.

1. 1 Ki. 17. 3; 18. 13. 2 Ki.

6. 1.

n ver. 2-38. 1 Pe. 1. 12.

Lu. 10. 23, 24. ch. 10. 36.

o These all (though) bore witness to by their faith (though their faith was so firm and so constant), yet did not receive the promise, i.e. CHRIST, who was the sum and substance of all the Old Testament pro-misses.—P.

p Ro. 11. 26. ch. 7. 19.

22; 8. 6; 12. 22-24. Re. 6.

11.

q Or, foreseen.

CHAP. XII.

a ch. 11. 2-38.

b Mat. 10. 22; 16. 24; 24.

13. Lu. 4. 59-62; 14. 26-

33. Ro. 6. 4; 12. 1; 13. 11-

14. 1 Co. 9. 24; 7. 24. 2 Co.

7. 1. Ep. 4. 22; 5. 3. Col. 3.

5. 8. ch. 2. 13; 6. 12; 4. 1;

6. 12; 10. 19-39; xi. Ja. 1.

3. 1 Pe. 2. 1; 2. 4. 2. Phil. 3.

8-14.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

1 The figure is taken from the Grecian games, where those who strove for the crown were surrounded by a dense crowd of spectators, who gazed upon them with intense interest, encouraging them by their presence and by their plaudits. So the glorified saints of God, who have already gained their crowns, are represented as surrounding the struggling

Christians in the arena of life.—P.

c Ju. 1. 29. 2 Co. 3. 18.

ch. 9. 28. 2 Ti. 4. 8. Ep. 2.

8. 1 Co. 1. 8. Phil. 1. 6. 1

Pe. 1. 2, 3.

d Looking off all other things, and looking unto Jesus, is the literal import of the passage.—C.

e Or, beginner.

f Author. Rather,

'founder.'—C.

g Ps. 110. 1. Lu. 24. 26, 46. Ac. 3. 15; 5. 31. Phil. 2.

7-11. ch. 1. 3; 13. 2. 10; 3.

6; 7. 26; 5. 9; 8. 1; 9. 12; 24;

10. 12. 1 Pe. 1. 11; 3. 22.

h Mat. 12. 24; 9. 34; 27.

39-47; 20. 65-68. Ju. 7.

12; 8. 48; 9. 10; 10. 20. Ga.

6. 9. 1 Co. 15. 58. Re. 2. 3.

i 1 Co. 10. 13. ch. 10.

32-34.

j Job 5. 17. Pr. 3. 11,

12. ch. 5. 11; 6. 11. Re. 3.

19.

k Ps. 94. 12; 119. 75.

Pr. 3. 11; 13. 24. Ja. 1. 12;

5. 11. Re. 3. 19. 1s. 27. 9.

l De. 8. 3. 5. 2 Sa. 7. 14.

Pr. 13. 24; 19. 18; 22. 15;

23. 13; 29. 15. Jn. 16. 20,

33. Ac. 14. 22. 1 Th. 3. 3. 1

Pe. 2. 20. 2 Ti. 3. 12.

m Ps. 73. 14. 15. 1 Pe. 5.

9. Re. 3. 19.

n Pr. 13. 24; 19. 18; 22.

15; 23. 13; 29. 15. Ep. 6. 4.

Le. 19. 3. Mal. 1. 6.

o Mal. 1. 6. Nu. 16. 22;

27. 16. Job 12. 10. Ec. 12.

1. 7. 1s. 42. 5; 57. 16. Zec.

12. 1. Ac. 17. 25.

p Ps. 119. 67, 71, 75.

Pr. 29. 15. Le. 11. 44; 19.

2. De. 8. 3. 5. Mat. 7. 11.

1 Pe. 1. 4-16; 2. 5, 9.

profit, that we might be partakers of his holiness.

11 Now<sup>p</sup> no chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous: nevertheless, afterward it yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby.

12 Wherefore <sup>q</sup>lift up the hands which hang down, and the feeble knees;

13 And<sup>r</sup> make straight<sup>s</sup> paths for your feet, lest that which is lame be turned out of the way; but let it rather be healed.

14 Follow<sup>s</sup> peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord:

15 Looking<sup>t</sup> diligently lest any man fail of<sup>6</sup> the grace of God; lest any <sup>u</sup>root of bitterness springing up trouble you, and thereby many be defiled;

16 Lest<sup>v</sup> there be any fornicator, or profane person,<sup>7</sup> as Esau, <sup>w</sup>who for one morsel of meat sold his birthright.

17 For ye know how that afterward, <sup>y</sup>when he would have inherited the blessing, he was rejected: for he found no <sup>8</sup>place of repentance,<sup>9</sup> though he sought it carefully with tears.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

<sup>p</sup> Ps. 89. 32. Ja. 3. 18.
Is. 32. 17. 2 Co. 4. 17. See ver. 10.

<sup>q</sup> Job 4. 3. 4. Is. 35. 3. 1 Th. 5. 14. ch. 6. 12.
<sup>r</sup> Pr. 4. 25, 27. Ga. 6. 1. 5 Or, even.

<sup>s</sup> Ps. 34. 14. Mat. 5. 8. Ro. 12. 18; 14. 17. Ex. 19. 10. 2 Co. 7. 1; 6. 17. 1 Th. 3. 11-13. 2 Ti. 2. 22. Ep. 5. 5, 26. ch. 2. 11; 10. 10, 24. 1 Pe. 1. 15, 16; 2. 1. Re. 22. 14, 15; 21. 8, 27. 1 Co. 6. 9. Ga. 5. 19. De. 29. 19.

<sup>t</sup> ch. 4. 1, 11; 6. 11; 3. 12; 10. 23; 2. 1, 2. 2 Co. 6. 1. 2 Pe. 1. 10.

<sup>u</sup> Or, fall from, Ga. 5. 4.

<sup>v</sup> De. 29. 18. Ac. 17. 13. Ga. 5. 9, 12. 2 Ti. 2. 17. 1 Co. 5. 6. Ge. 27. 28.

<sup>w</sup> 1 Co. 6. 9, 10, 13, 18; 10. 8. 2 Co. 6. 14-17. Ep. 5. 3-5. Col. 3. 5, 6. 1 Th. 4. 3-7. ch. 13. 4.

<sup>x</sup> A man of low and sensual views, who has no just conception of high and noble things—who cannot look beyond the passing moment of present gratification.—P.

<sup>y</sup> Ge. 25. 29-34.

<sup>z</sup> Ge. 27. 34, 38. ch. 6. 6; 10. 26, 27, 29.

<sup>8</sup> Or, way to change his mind.

<sup>9</sup> Alford has brought out the true meaning of this much controverted passage. The repentance refers to Esau himself, and it means that <sup>u</sup>he found no way open to reverse what had been done by repentance; the sin had been committed and the consequence entailed irrevocably. He might change, but the penalty could not, from the very nature of the circumstances, be taken off. So that repentance, in its full sense, had no place. And such is the meaning of the locus penitentiae wherever occurring. We do not mean by it an opportunity to repent in a man's own bosom, to be sorry for what he has done, for this may be under any circumstances, and this might have been with Esau; but we mean, a chance, by repenting, to repair.—P.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

<sup>z</sup> Ex. 19. 10, 12-19; 20. 18; 24. 17. De. 4. 11, 12; 5. 22, 23. Ro. 6. 14; 8. 15. 2 Ti. 1. 7.

<sup>a</sup> Ex. xx. 19. 16, 19. De. 5. 5, 24; 18. 16, 19.

<sup>b</sup> Ex. 19. 13, 16. Ga. 3. 10. Ro. 7. 9-13.

<sup>c</sup> Ge. 28. 17. Ju. 6. 22; 13. 22. Da. 8. 17, 27; 10. 7, 8, 11, 17. Mat. 17. 6. Re. 1. 17.

<sup>d</sup> Ga. 4. 26. Re. 3. 12; 20. 9, 23; 21. 2, 10. Phi. 3. 20. Ps. 48. 1.

<sup>e</sup> De. 33. 2. Ps. 68. 17. Da. 7. 10. Re. 5. 11.

<sup>f</sup> Je. 31. 9. Re. 7. 4, 9; 14. 1, 4. Lu. 10. 20. Phi. 4. 8. Re. 13. 8; 17. 8. Is. 4. 3. Ex. 4. 22. Nu. 3. 40.

<sup>1</sup> Or, enrolled.

<sup>h</sup> Ge. 18. 25. Ps. 50. 4, 6. 2 Th. 1. 5-7. Mat. 5. 12. ch. 6. 10, 12. Is. 57. 2. 1 Co. 15. 49, 54.

<sup>i</sup> 1 Ti. 2. 5. ch. 7. 22; 8. 6, 9, 15; 10. 4-14.

<sup>2</sup> Or, testament.

<sup>j</sup> Ex. 24. 8. ch. 9. 14; 10. 22; 13. 12. 1 Pe. 1. 12, with ch. 11. 4. Ge. 4. 10.

<sup>k</sup> Ex. 23. 21. Mat. 17. 5. Is. 55. 3.

18 For ye are not come unto <sup>2</sup>the mount that might be touched, and that burned with fire, nor unto blackness, and darkness, and tempest,

19 And<sup>a</sup> the sound of a trumpet, and the voice of words; which voice they that heard entreated that the word should not be spoken to them any more:

20 (For they could not endure that which was commanded, <sup>b</sup>And if so much as a beast touch the mountain, it shall be stoned, or thrust through with a dart:

21 And<sup>c</sup> so terrible was the sight, that Moses said, I exceedingly fear and quake:)

22 But ye are come unto <sup>d</sup>mount Sion, and unto the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to an <sup>e</sup>innumerable company of angels,

23 To<sup>f</sup> the general assembly and church of the first-born, which are written<sup>1</sup> in heaven, and to <sup>h</sup>God the judge of all, and to the spirits of just men made perfect, 24 And to Jesus <sup>i</sup>the mediator of the new covenant,<sup>2</sup> and to <sup>j</sup>the blood of sprinkling, that speaketh better things than that of Abel.

25 See<sup>k</sup> that ye refuse not him that speaketh.

the days of our youth, we all submitted to the chastisements of those natural parents from whom we derived our frail, corrupt, and mortal bodies, and who, under God, provided for their subsistence and safety, have we not infinitely stronger reasons to submit to the sovereign authority and disposal of him who is the immediate Creator, Preserver, and Governor of our immortal souls, and renews them by his regenerating grace; and meekly, and even thankfully, to accept of his fatherly chastisements for our iniquities, being ashamed of and turning from the causes thereof, that so we may live in holy fellowship with and devotedness to him here, and in heavenly glory with him hereafter? 10. For truly our natural parents, during the short time of our minority, were apt to correct us in an arbitrary manner, through humour, passion, pride, or weakness, without duly aiming at our good, or at least mistaking the proper season or measure of the rod; and all the benefit we received from it was confined to this life. But God corrects us, in infinite wisdom and compassion, in order that he may graciously promote our spiritual and eternal benefit, by subduing and purging away our sin, and rendering us more and more like to himself in knowledge, righteousness, and true holiness. 11. It is true indeed that even fatherly chastenings are in themselves irksome and distressing while we are under them; yet, being sanctified by God, and, in consequence thereof, dutifully endured by us, they render us more wise, humble, watchful, prayerful, more circumspect in our walk, more weaned from this world, and more spiritual, holy, and heavenly-minded than before; and work for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory. 12. Since, therefore, these are the gracious ends and advantages of God's correcting you with such manifold sore afflictions, beware of giving way to dejection and despondency under them, or of disheartening one another, but encourage yourselves and each other, in the Lord your God, to hold on in his ways with alacrity, vigour, joy, and triumph. 13. And that your afflictions be suitably improved, in a close adherence to Christ, and a conversation becoming the gospel, remove all hindrances and stumbling-blocks out of your own and your brethren's way to eternal life, that ye and they may walk uprightly, and run steadily in the paths of truth and holiness—lest through temptation, ignorance, or fear of suffering, or the cunning craftiness of Satan and his agents, any weak Christians among you should be turned aside from Christ and his paths of righteousness and grace; but rather let it be your earnest care that such may be duly informed, directed, encouraged, strengthened, and confirmed in the profession, faith, hope, and holiness of the gospel. 14. Study, by all means, to pursue and maintain peace with all men, Jews or Gentiles, friends or enemies, and to promote universal holiness in heart and life, in conformity to the image and will of God—since, without a conscientious regard to this, no man, be his pretences or profession what they will, can be fit for, or, in the nature of things, or according to the constitution of the gospel, ever be admitted to immediate fellowship with Christ and God in him. 15. Therefore let each of you carefully inspect your own principles, temper, and conduct, and watch over one another, lest any of you, through sloth, carnality, or unbelief, should live destitute of an interest in the special favour of God, and of a real work of heart-changing grace; lest any apostate, or any corrupt principle of apostasy in doctrine or practice, offensive to God and ruinous to men, should spring up among you, to the hurt of the infected, and the grief and trouble of others, and thereby many be defiled with erroneous principles, or divisive or profane practices, marring the beauty, purity, peace, and order of the church: 16. Lest any of you who make a profession of Christ's name should abandon himself to whoredom or other uncleanness, or profanely undervalue the special blessings of the new-covenant and gospel state of the church—as Esau, who, for one morsel of meat to gratify his sensual appetite, sold his birthright, and all the peculiar honours and blessings attending it—the consequences of which were very tremendous and irremediable. 17. For ye cannot but have learned from Scripture, that when he earnestly wished to have recovered it, in order to obtain his father's principal blessing, his most importunate and mournful entreaties were, through the direction of God, absolutely rejected by his father Isaac; and so will every empty professor of Christianity at the last day hopelessly cry for mercy, and hewail his condition, when God shall make him feel the terrible effects of his irreversible sentence of condemnation. 18. The transcendent excellency of the blessings of the gospel above those of the ceremonial dispensation, renders it also the more sinful and dangerous to come short of, or slight them; for ye are not called to covenant or hold fellowship with God in the manner of your fathers, at the material mountain of Sinai, and when covered with flaming fire, thick clouds of smoke, and storms of thunder—which represented that dispensation as carnal and movable, terrible in its threatenings, dark in its manifestations, and severe in its curses and punishments; 19. And where the thunders and the voice by which the ten commandments were published were so terrible, that your fathers entreated that God would no more speak to them in so immediate and awful a manner, but communicate his mind and will by the ministry of Moses, as a mediator between him and them. 20. Conscious to themselves that they were utterly incapable of perfect obedience to God's commandments, or of being justified by their imperfect obedience, they could not even bear up under those dreadful appearances of God, which were displayed in the manner of publishing them; for, as an awful indication of his inaccessibility to sinners, according to the tenor of this law, and of the vengeance to be executed upon the violators of it, if either man or beast but touched Mount Sinai during that solemnity of the Divine Presence, he or it was to be stoned to death, or pierced through and slain. 21. Nay, so alarmingly dreadful were the tokens of the Divine Majesty, that Moses, notwithstanding his eminent sanctity, his office of mediator between God and the people, and all the familiar converse which he had with him, was overwhelmed with the utmost terror and consternation.— 22. But, as a prelude of, and as a step of advance towards the inexpressibly delightful happiness of the heavenly and eternal state of the church, ye are brought, under the gospel dispensation, into delightful fellowship with God, in his most excellent state of ordinances, in which is the perfection of beauty and joy of the whole earth, and in which God, who has all life in himself, and bestows all life on others, calls all the people, Jews and Gentiles, into a comely and orderly society, endowed with glorious privileges, and governed and protected by himself—a society the original, nature, privileges, and tendency of which are heavenly, and in which ye are admitted to a most noble and exalted communion, in love and service, with astonishing multitudes of holy angels, 23. And into a spiritual and holy fellowship with the delightful assembly of all true believers in earth or heaven who are born again by the Spirit of God, and adopted into his family as heirs of himself and joint-heirs with Christ, the Lamb slain from before the foundation of the world, and who in these last days is manifested that he might take away the sins of all who believe; and to God the Judge of all, as your reconciled Father, who has accepted you in his beloved Son, and will quickly vindicate your character and reward your services: and, though not yet personally admitted to heaven, ye have spiritual communion in faith, love, joy, worship, and obedience, with all the separated spirits of all the saints of former ages, which, having departed from their bodies, do now live perfectly free from sin, sorrow, temptation, trouble, or danger, and enjoy perfect holiness and happiness in

For if they escaped not who refused him that spake on earth, much more shall not we escape if we turn away from him that speaketh from heaven:

26 Whose voice <sup>then</sup> shook the earth: but now he hath promised, saying, Yet once more I shake not the earth only, but also heaven.

27 And this word, <sup>Yet</sup> once more, signifieth the removing of those things that are shaken,<sup>3</sup> as of things that are made, that those things which cannot be shaken may remain.

the vision and enjoyment of and likeness to God—being children of the same Father, united to the same Head, Christ, as living members of his mystical body, animated by the same Spirit, and entitled to the same everlasting inheritance; 24. And ye are brought not to Moses, a typical mediator, but to Jesus, the only true and effectual Saviour and Mediator between God and men, with whom the covenant of grace was made, by whom its conditions are fulfilled, and its blessings administered; and ye have communion with God and his Son, angels and people, not by bloody sacrifices of beasts, but by faith in the virtue of Jesus' precious blood, which was shed for many, and is divinely applied to your consciences for justification, sanctification, spiritual comfort, and eternal salvation, and which speaks better things than Abel's own blood, which cried for just vengeance on Cain his murderer, and still speaks warnings of wrath to all persons of a persecuting spirit; nay, better things than the blood of Abel's sacrifice, which only availed for his own acceptance;—whereas this blood of Jesus pleads for pardon and everlasting life to his betrayers and murderers, and to all sorts of sinners who believe in him.—25. Since therefore the gospel state of the church is so incomparably more excellent than the Jewish, as ye regard the glory of God or your own salvation, take heed lest temptations, worldly-mindedness, unbelief, or excessive attachment to ancient ceremonies, should make you reject, refuse, or turn away from that blessed Mediator of the new covenant, who, in the most gracious and endearing manner, speaks to you in his preached gospel, and by the miraculous influences of his Spirit which attend it; for if your fathers, who rebelled against Moses, and refused to receive the laws of God at his mouth, did not escape distinguished punishments, how much more impossible is it that any of us should escape who, through unbelief, reject, despise, and disobey him who is the Lord from heaven, and who, being ascended to heaven, thence publishes to us the glad tidings of eternal salvation, in all their spirituality, light, and glory, by his Word and Spirit. 26. Whose voice of thunder and awful majesty at the giving of the law made Mount Sinai and the people around it to quake and tremble; but now, in order to introduce the full happiness of the gospel dispensation, he has promised to remove and destroy the whole Jewish constitution, civil and ecclesiastic. 27. And his words, yet once more, plainly intimate that the Jewish constitution, in which so many things were made by the hands of men, should be removed, that the glorious and unalterable privileges, worship, and ordinances of the gospel, which are introduced in their stead, might abide till the end of the world. 28. Since therefore we by faith actually receive the blessed and fixed state of the gospel church, with all its privileges and blessings, under Christ our Royal Prince and Head, let us, according to the nature, provisions, and encouragements of this kingdom, hold fast our profession, and, in a careful and conscientious use of the ordinances of Christ, receive and improve those free favours which God has bestowed upon us, to excite and enable us to serve, worship, and glorify him in an acceptable manner through Jesus Christ, under a deep sense of our meanness and vileness, and of his holiness, power, and majesty; 29. For he, who is our covenant God—by visible dispensations, as we are professed Christians, and by special grace, as we are true believers—is still infinitely jealous for his own glory with respect to his worship; and his righteous indignation burns against those who reject him and the blessings of his kingdom, by unbelief and daring contempt.

Ver. 1. 'The sin that doth most readily entangle us'—an allusion to the inconvenience of long flowing robes in a race. The specific sin intended must be unbelief, seeing faith is the particular grace required. C.

Ver. 4. You have not yet suffered as martyrs, as did the prophets of old, and so many of your fellow-Christians in your own days. C.

Ver. 5. A quotation from Pr. 3. 11, 12, which is of great importance, not merely on account of the practical exhortation it contains, but as showing, upon apostolic authority, that God, and not Solomon, is the speaker—a fact of primary value in the interpretation of the book of Proverbs. C.

Ver. 11. This fruit is not yielded to them that suffer chastisement, but 'to them that are exercised thereby'—exercised in watchfulness, self-examination, prayer, and patience. C.

Ver. 14. Without which (holiness) no man shall see the Lord. This speciality is important—as to attain, or even 'follow peace,' may, at times, be utterly impossible, or even unlawful, Jude 3-18. C.

Ver. 18. For ye are not come, &c.; therefore your privileges being so much greater than those of Israel at Sinai, how much greater must be your judgment should you, like so many of them, disbelieve and apostatize. C.

Ver. 21. This saying of Moses is not found in Scripture, but is probably a reference to the unrecorded speech Ex. 19. 19.—Note. Such an instance affords no countenance to the Romish doctrine of unwritten tradition, for this is recorded upon apostolic authority. C.

Ver. 24. According to R. Baxter, Doddridge, &c., 'which crieth not against us as Abel's blood did for revenge, but saveth us by satisfying vindictive justice.' But how could the blood of Abel shed by Cain be said, in this or any sense, to have spoken good things? for that is implied, if any blood speak 'better things.' By 'the blood of Abel,' therefore, must be understood 'the blood of Abel's sacrifice,' which spoke the language of faith in an atonement to be made, whereas 'the blood of sprinkling' speaks of salvation accomplished. C.

REFLECTIONS.—There is need of much care and activity in imitating ancient saints, and especially in imitating Jesus our Forerunner, in persevering faith, patience, and holiness. And great is our encouragement in his success, and from his furnishing, directing, and strengthening us for our work. What kindness and care the Lord shows in afflicting us only for our great honour and benefit! And yet we rarely either relish or behave aright under afflictions, especially if they are severe. There is need of watchfulness, mutual excitement, and assistance in our Christian course, and that the strong should bear with and help the weak.—And delightful is the appearance, and happy the end, when peace and holiness are properly united in our conduct. But, alas! fearful and desperate is the issue of unconcern under the means of grace, or of apostasy from gospel truth.—Delightful is the state of the gospel church, of the new covenant, and of heaven; and how much superior to that under the law and the ceremonies! Firm is its establishment, and sweetly our exalted Redeemer speaks to us therein. With earnest attention and holy awe ought we then to hear his voice, and perform the duties of his worship. No covenant relation or gospel grace can render him less holy, just, jealous, awful, or majestic. And great fear is due unto him in the meeting of his saints.

CHAPTER XIII. Ver. 1. And, as ye have begun, let it be your earnest care and endeavour to maintain an abiding and growing exercise of brotherly love, and an affectionate temper and behaviour, in all offices of friendship one towards another, and towards all your fellow-Christians, who are members of the same spiritual family, children of the same heavenly Father, partakers of the same grace, and heirs together of the same glory. 2. Extend your brotherly compassion also to strangers, especially those who for righteousness' sake are driven from their homes, or go about voluntarily preaching the gospel: receive them into your hearts and houses, and supply them with everything needful. This conduct will at once honour God, relieve your distressed brethren, and tend to your own satisfaction and advantage; for by this generous temper Abraham, Lot, and others, had the honour and benefit of entertaining angels instead of strangers. 3. And as ye have had compassion on me in my bonds, I earnestly recommend to you to bear on your hearts, sympathize

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

1 ch. 2, 2, 3, 17; 10, 28, 29.
H Ex. 19, 18. Hag. 2. 6, 7, 23. ver. 19, 27.
o Ps. 102, 26, 27. Mat. 24, 35. 2 Pe. 3. 10. Mat. 16, 18. ver. 28. Re. 21, 1.
30 Or, may be shaken.
p Is. 9, 7. Da. 2, 44; 7, 14. Lu. 1. 33; 17, 20, 21. Mat. 16, 18. 1 Pe. 1, 4; 2, 5, 9. Mat. 25, 34.
4 Or, hold fast.
q Phi. 4. 13. Zec. 10. 12; 12, 10. 1 Co. 15, 10. 2 Co. 1. 12. Tit. 2. 11-14. Ps. 89, 73, 66, 4-9.
r Ex. 24, 17. De. 4, 24; 9, 3. Ps. 50, 3. 2 Th. 1, 8. Ex. 19, 18. Nu. 11, 1; 16, 35. De. 32, 22. Ps. 97, 3. Is. 66, 15. Da. 7, 9. ch. 10. 27.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

CHAP. XIII.
a ch. 6, 10, 11; 10, 24. Jn. 13, 34, 35; 15, 17. Ac. 2, 1, 44-46; 4, 32. Ro. 12, 9, 10. Ga. 5, 6, 13, 22. Ep. 4, 3; 5, 2. Phi. 2, 1-3, 1 Th. 4, 9, 10, 2 Th. 1, 3, 1 Pe. 1, 22; 2, 17; 3, 8; 4, 8. 2 Pe. 1, 7, 1 Jn. 2, 9, 10; 3, 10-18, 23; 4, 7-11, 20, 21; 5, 1, 2 Jn. 5, 6. Re. 2, 4.
1 This chapter seems to be an appendix or postscript to the epistle, added for the purpose of pressing home upon those addressed a number of social duties.—P.
b Ro. 12, 12. 1 E. 10, 34. 1 Pe. 4, 9. De. 10, 19, 15. 58, 7. Mat. 25, 35. Lu. 14, 13. Tit. 1. 8. 1 Ti. 3, 2; 5, 10.

28 Wherefore we receiving <sup>a</sup>a kingdom which cannot be moved, let us have<sup>4</sup> grace, <sup>whereby</sup> we may serve God acceptably with reverence and godly fear:

29 For <sup>r</sup>our God is a consuming fire.

CHAPTER XIII.

1 Divers admonitions, as to charity, 4 to honest life, 5 to avoid covetousness, 7 to regard God's preachers, 9 to take heed of strange doctrines, 10 to confess Christ, 16 to give alms, 17 to obey governors, 18 to pray for the apostle. 20 The conclusion.

LET brotherly<sup>a</sup> love continue.<sup>1</sup>

2 Be<sup>b</sup> not forgetful to entertain strangers:

with, pray for, and, as far as in you lies, contribute to the relief and comfort of those faithful ministers or professors who are imprisoned, or otherwise persecuted, for righteousness' sake, considering yourselves as members of the same mystical body, and still liable to the like afflictions in your present mortal state. 4. Marriage, when duly entered into by proper persons, ought to be reckoned an honourable ordinance of God, for producing a lawful offspring, for connecting families, and for the good of society, and as a proper remedy against all uncleanness; but fearful are the punishments which they who indulge themselves in whoredom and adultery may expect from God in this world, and especially in the last judgment and eternal state. 5. And to promote your exact performance of the duties which I have mentioned, see that none of you indulge immoderate desires or pursuits after the things of this world, either in excessive or unjust eagerness to obtain them, or in grudging proper expenses for the reasonable support of yourselves and families, or in unwillingness to communicate to the necessities of others; and study always to be heartily pleased with and thankful for the circumstances, however mean and afflicted, into which God, your infinitely wise and gracious Father, puts you; for he himself, who is almighty, all-sufficient, and unchangeable in faithfulness, has, for your encouragement in troubles and temptations, solemnly promised that he will at no time, and on no account, leave you to yourselves or your enemies; but will be with you to strengthen, help, uphold, guide, and bring you to glory. 6. So that, resting by faith upon this comprehensive promise, as applicable to ourselves, we may, and ought, each for himself, with humble confidence, sweet composure, and holy boldness, to avow that, in all our straits, wants, and troubles, the almighty and all-gracious JEHOVAH is our support, succour, and defence, and on our side, to take our part, revive our soul, and overrule everything for our good; and therefore we will not be afraid of the very worst that our most powerful, subtle, and inveterate enemies on earth can do against us. 7. And to promote your performance of such duties, and assured faith in such promises, see that ye pay a due regard to them who have been your faithful ministers and spiritual guides, under Christ their great Lord and Master; and in imitation of their faith and faithfulness, keep in mind, embrace, and adhere to those doctrines, commands, and promises which they, according to the Word of God, delivered to you, as the only rule of your faith, worship, and obedience—seriously reflecting on the peaceful and joyous manner in which they finished their course of holiness, and obtained a happy dismissal from and victory over every trouble and danger by death, and on the glorious scope and object of their ministration and walk. 8. Even Jesus Christ, our anointed Saviour, who, in his divine person, offices, and saving virtue, is unchangeably the same in all the periods of the church, past, present, and to come. 9. Take heed therefore, lest, by departing from this unchangeable Saviour, as preached and exemplified to you by your former pastors, ye should, like ships in a storm, or clouds in the air, be carried away with notions about Jewish ceremonies different from, foreign to, and inconsistent with the simplicity of the gospel of Christ; for it is incomparably better to have your souls fully persuaded of and steadfastly fixed in a dependence on the free favour of God in Christ, revealed in the gospel, for the remission of sin, peace of conscience, and acceptance with God, unto eternal life, and your heart fortified against wavering about the truth and importance of this doctrine by an experience of its renewing, quickening, and comforting efficacy, than to expect that blessings can be obtained by ceremonial ordinances relative to sacrifices, meats, and drinks, which never, for thereby some have entertained angels unaware.

3 Remember<sup>d</sup> them that are in bonds, as bound with them; and them which suffer adversity, as being yourselves also in the body.

4 Marriage<sup>e</sup> is honourable in all, and the bed undefiled: <sup>g</sup>but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge.

5 Let<sup>h</sup> your conversation be without covetousness; and be content with such things as ye have:<sup>2</sup> for<sup>i</sup> he hath said, I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee.

6 So that we may boldly say, <sup>j</sup>The Lord is my helper, <sup>k</sup>and I will not fear what man shall do unto me.

7 Remember them which have the rule<sup>3</sup> over you, who have spoken unto you the word of God: whose faith follow, considering the end of their conversation:

8 Jesus<sup>l</sup> Christ the same yesterday, and to-day, and for ever.

9 Be<sup>n</sup> not carried about with divers and strange doctrines: <sup>o</sup>for it is a good thing that the heart be established with grace; not with meats, which have not profited them that have been occupied therein.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

c Ge. 18.3; 19.2. d Mat. 25.36. Ro. 12.
15. Ne. 1.4. 1 Co. 12.26.
Col. 4.18. ch. 6.10; 10.34.
1 Pe. 3.8. Ga. 6.1.2.

e Pr. 5.15-23. Ge. 2.18
-24. 1 Co. vii. 1 Ti. 2.15; 3.2.4.

g 1 Co. 6.9. Ga. 5.19, 21. Ep. 5.5. Col. 3.5,6.
ch. 12.16. Re. 22.15; 21.
8. Mal. 3.5.

h Col. 3.5. Mat. 6.25,
34. Ex. 23.8. De. 19.16. 1
Ti. 6.6,8. Phil. 4.11,12. 2
Co. 5.11.

i De. 31.6,8. Jos. 1.5.
Ge. 28.15. 1 Sa. 12.22. 1
Ch. 28.20. Is. 41.10-17;
43.2; 46.4. Ps. 37.25,28.
Pr. 10.3,16,17; 5.16.

j Ps. 127.1-3; 56.4,11;
118.6,8.
k ver. 17,24. 1 Th. 5.
12. ch. 6.12. 1 Ti. 5.17. 1
Co. 11.1. Ca. 1.8.

l Or, are the guides.

m Phil. 1.21; 3.7-11. 1
Co. 1.24; 30; 2.23,11. 2
Co. 4.11. Ep. 4.5. Re. 11.
4.5,8.

n Je. 28.8. Mat. 24.4, 24. Ro. 16.17. Col. 2.4,8,
20. 2 Th. 2.2. 1 Jn. 4.1.
Ep. 4.14; 5.6. 1 Ti. 4.1-
36. 3.5,20; 2 Ti. 2.16; 3.
13. Jude 3. Ac. 20.30.

o Jn. 6.27. Ac. 20.24,
32. Tit. 2.11,12. Ro. 14.
17. 1 Co. 6.13; 8.8. Col. 2.
16.2. Ti. 1.12; 2.1,2; 15.3;
14. ch. 12.28; 9.10.

* The ideas of 'submission' and 'rule' certainly imply that spiritual discipline over church members lies in the hands of spiritual watchmen.
See note on ver. 7.-C.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

p 1 Co. 9.13; 10.18.
Col. 2.17. Ep. 5.2. 1 Jn.
2.2. Col. 3.11. Ga. 3.26,
27; 5.4. Mat. 8.11,12.

q We have an altar,
&c.—that is, an altar-offering—even Jesus Christ.—C.

r Ex. 29.14. Le. 4.12, 21; 6.30; 9.11; 16.27. Nu.
19.3.

s Jn. 19.17, 18. Mar.
15.20,22.

t Ca. 4.8; 3.11. ch. 11.
26; 12.2,3. Phil. 2.17. Ac.
5.41; 17.58. 1 Pe. 4.14.

u Without the (Jewish) camp. Forsaking all trust in legal righteousness, let us join ourselves to the Lord.—C.

v De. 12.9. Mi. 2.10.
Phi. 3.20; 1.23. 2 Co. 4.
17,18; 5.1-8. ch. 4.9; 11.
10,16; 12.22.

w 1 Pe. 2.5; 4.11. Ep.
5.20. 1 Th. 5.18. Le. 7.
12. 2 Ch. 29.31; 33.16. Ps.
34.1,2; 50.14,23; 51.19;
69.30; 107.22; 116.17; 66.
13-15; cxlv. Ho. 14.2.
Ps. cxlvi.

x Or, confessing to.
y Ro. 12.13. 2 Co. 9.
12. ch. 6.10. Mat. 25.40.
Phi. 4.18.

z See ver. 7. 1 Th. 5.
12,13. 1 Ti. 5.17. 1 Pe. 5.
5.

a Or, guide.

b See note * in first column.

c Eze. 3.17-19; 33.2,7.
8. Ac. 20.24,26. 1 Co. 4.1,
23,26. 1 Pe. 4.10; 5.2,3.
Tit. 1.7. Phil. 2.16,29. 1
Th. 1.9,20. Is. 49.4,6.

d Unprofitable. RATHER, 'very hurtful,' inattention, self-sufficiency, and insubordination being insurmountable impediments to growth in grace.—C.

e Ro. 15.30. Ep. 6.19, 20. Col. 4.3. 1 Th. 5.25.
2 Th. 3.1.

f Ac. 23.1; 24.16. 2
Co. 1.12; 2.4.

10 We<sup>p</sup> have an altar,<sup>q</sup> whereof they have no right to eat which serve the tabernacle.

11 For<sup>r</sup> the bodies of those beasts, whose blood is brought into the sanctuary by the high-priest for sin, are burned without the camp.

12 Wherefore<sup>s</sup> Jesus also, that he might sanctify the people with his own blood, suffered without the gate.

13 Let<sup>s</sup> us go forth therefore unto him without the camp,<sup>5</sup> bearing his reproach.

14 For<sup>t</sup> here have we no continuing city, but we seek one to come.

15 By<sup>u</sup> him therefore let us offer the sacrifice of praise to God continually, that is, the fruit of our lips, giving thanks to<sup>6</sup> his name.

16 But<sup>v</sup> to do good and to communicate forget not: for with such sacrifices God is well pleased.

17 Obey<sup>x</sup> them that have the rule over<sup>7</sup> you, and submit<sup>8</sup> yourselves: <sup>y</sup>for they watch for your souls, as they that must give account; that they may do it with joy, and not with grief: for that is unprofitable<sup>9</sup> for you.

18 Pray<sup>z</sup> for us: for we trust <sup>a</sup>we have a good conscience, in all things willing to live honestly.

even under the Old Testament, were of any spiritual and saving advantage to those that were most occupied therein. 10. We members of the New Testament church have an incomparably better altar and sacrifice in our Lord Jesus Christ, which furnishes an incomparable feast of spiritual and eternal blessings to our faith, which they who still cleave to and rely on ceremonial observances have no authority or claim to partake of, any more than the priests had to eat any part of the more noted sin-offerings. 11. For, according to the appointment of God, the bodies of those sacrificed animals, the blood of which was carried by the high-priest into the holy of holies on the great day of national atonement, were wholly burned without the camp. 12. In evident fulfilment of which type, as well as to prefigure his leaving the Jewish nation to miserable ruin, Jesus Christ, our great High-priest, that he might really make atonement for the sins of the whole world, and consecrate all who accept Christ to God by the shedding of his blood, suffered his painful and ignominious crucifixion on Mount Calvary, without the gates of Jerusalem. 13. Let us therefore who profess his name and look for salvation through him, go forth, by faith and hope, desire and love, to him, leaving the Jewish temple, altars, and all the legal institutions pertaining to them, and all the concerns, allurements, and enjoyments of this present world, behind us, as things which we have no further expectations from or concern with, and cheerfully and boldly own and confess a crucified Redeemer, notwithstanding all the shame, contempt, and scorn we may suffer for his sake. 14. For as the city of Jerusalem, which succeeded the camp in the wilderness as the seat of ceremonial worship and political ordinances, will quickly be destroyed by the Romans, so we believers have no durable state of happiness or settled residence in this lower world; but, as strangers and pilgrims on earth, we realize by faith, earnestly desire, look, and long for, and, by all the ways and means of God's appointment, seek for a state of everlasting rest and peace, honour and safety, harmony and delight, in the future blessedness of heaven. 15. In consideration therefore of Christ's having redeemed and consecrated us to God by his own blood, let us at all times, in all circumstances, and for everything, especially for the blessings of redemption, offer up—through him as our only High-priest, Sacrificer, Advocate, and Altar that sanctifies our gifts—the sacrifices of grateful acknowledgments, praises, and thanksgivings. 16. And while your hearts and lips are full of gratitude and praise to God through Christ, be careful to cultivate a merciful, kind, and generous temper, and to abound in all acts of beneficence towards your fellow-creatures, especially the poor; for this, as well as thankful praise, is, through Christ and his only meritorious oblation, very acceptable to God as your reconciled Father. 17. And as ever ye would improve the appointed means of evangelically discharging the above-mentioned duties, not only regard the faith and holiness of your deceased pastors, but religiously regard the doctrines and precepts of those who are, or may hereafter be, your spiritual guides; and, as far as the Word of God permits, receive and submit to their instructions, exhortations, admonitions, and reproofs; for, if faithful, they, with all diligence, watch over you in the Lord, that they may inspect your principles, tempers, and behaviour, and guard and caution you against all iniquity, error, and spiritual danger, and apply themselves to promote the edification and eternal salvation of your souls, in the affecting view of giving an account to Christ, in the last judgment, of their faithfulness, diligence, and success—which they wish to do with joy, that their labours have issued in your eternal welfare; not with grief, that they have issued in your aggravated condemnation and ruin. 18. Sensible of the awfulness and difficulty of our work, and of our insufficiency for it, we ministers of the gospel earnestly request your continual importunate prayers for us—that whatever our success be, we may be found faithful in the day of Christ; for, notwithstanding our sufferings, and the suggestions of our enemies, our consciences bear us witness that we uprightly intend the honour of Christ and the good of souls, and are heartily desirous, and determined, through his strengthening us, to live soberly, righteously, and godly, suitably to our Christian and ministerial character, in all our behaviour towards God or man. 19. And I particularly beg your united prayers for my own direction, support, and protection under my present trials, and for the blessing of God upon the services in which I am now engaged; and that, if it be for his honour, he may deliver me from my present confinement, and allow me an opportunity of paying you another visit, to our mutual comfort and edification.—20. And for this, and all other useful purposes, may our reconciled God, Father, and Friend, the author and giver of all true peace and prosperity—who, by an act of supreme authority, judicially discharged, and raised from the dead our Lord Jesus Christ, as a public person, who had represented and fully satisfied his law and justice for all the world, and whom, in all his offices, he constituted the great Shepherd of his ransomed people, to gather, guard, lead, feed, and bring them safe to eternal glory, through faith in his sufferings and death, whereby he fulfilled the condition, secured the blessings, and confirmed the promises of the new and everlasting covenant of grace; 21. Rectify every disorder of your souls and of your society, that ye may be thoroughly prepared, disposed, and enabled to perform every good work relative to himself, yourselves, or others, in a holy, spiritual, and evangelical manner, from principles of faith and love, according to the rule of his Word, in obedience to his command, and for his glory; and work in you to will and to do everything as in his sight, conformably to his image, agreeably to his holy nature and will, and acceptably to him, as the effects of his own grace through the merits and mediation of Christ.—22. And now let me beseech you, my dear countrymen and fellow-Christians, that, laying aside all prejudice, ye readily receive, consider, and improve these exhortations, consolations, instructions, and cautions which I have given you in this letter, as briefly as the number and importance of the contents, and my ardent concern for your real advantage, could permit. 23. And know, for your comfort, that Timothy, who was for a time my fellow-prisoner in Christ, is now released, and gone from this place upon important business; and, if he come quickly back, I intend, if the Lord grant me a release, to come along with him to visit you. 24. Meanwhile, let such of you to whom this letter comes present my affectionate and Christian respects to all your church-rulers and fellow-Christians who behave as sanctified by the Spirit of God. 25. And may the free love and favour of God through Jesus Christ, with all the blessed manifestations, fruits, and effects of it, attend all and every one of you, for your growth in grace and in the knowledge of Christ, and for your direction, preservation, and comfort, till ye arrive at his heavenly kingdom.

Ver. 1. An exhortation peculiarly necessary to the Jews, who had many prejudices against the Gentiles, and also suitable to the Jewish converts, who, being persecuted by their former friends, were in danger of supposing themselves set free from the ties of charity. C.

Ver. 7. Remember them, &c. A distinct evidence that the apostle recognizes the preachers of the Word as 'rulers' over their brethren in the Lord, and that spiritual discipline in the hands of such rulers is an essential mark of an apostolic church.—Whose faith follow, &c. 'Whose faith follow' (considering the end of their conversation)—which faith is, 'Jesus Christ the same,' &c. This seems to be the true connection, though some eminent modern expositors consider ver. 8 not a reference to ver. 7, but a preface to ver. 9. C.

Ver. 20. This does not signify that our Lord Jesus Christ was brought from the dead through the blood of the everlasting covenant, but that he was constituted 'the great Shepherd of the

ST. PAUL'S ROAD. [HEBREWS, xii:25.]—The epistle to Hebrews was written by St. Paul from Italy. We have here a picture of a road which St. Paul passed directly after landing in Italy. This is about midway between Naples and Puteoli. This view was taken on June 5th, 1894. We are looking toward the east, and when the artist took the picture, Vesuvius, sending up its volume of eternal smoke, was in plain view. Grim and precipitous rocks rise straight up from the ground on either side of the road, but nature has so mantled and clothed these with her flowers and vines that they are relieved of their rugged, barren look. Nature makes it her duty to illuminate with flowering plants every old ruin and rock in this region, thus relieving what is rugged, and softening what is sharp.

19 But<sup>b</sup> I beseech you the rather to do this, that I may be restored to you the sooner.

20 Now 'the God of peace, that <sup>d</sup>brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, 'that great Shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant,<sup>1</sup>

21 Make<sup>g</sup> you perfect in every good work to do his will, working<sup>2</sup> in you that which is well-pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ; <sup>h</sup>to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

22 And <sup>i</sup>I beseech you, brethren, suffer the

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

<sup>d</sup> Phil. 22. Phil. 1. 19.
20; 2. 24. Ro. 15. 30; 31; 1.
12.
<sup>e</sup> Ro. 15. 33; 16. 20. 1
Co. 14. 33. 2 Co. 13. 11.
Phil. 4. 9. 1 Th. 5. 23. 2 Th.
3. 16.

<sup>d</sup> Ac. 2. 24. 32; 3. 15. 26;
4. 10; 5. 30; 10. 40; 13. 30;
17. 31. Ro. 1. 4; 4. 24. 25; 8.
11. 1 Co. 6. 14; 15. 15. 2
Co. 4. 14. Ga. 1. 1. Ep. 1.
20. Col. 2. 12. 1 Th. 1. 10.
ch. 10. 29; 9. 12. 1 Pe. 1.
21. Zec. 9. 11.

<sup>e</sup> Is. 40. 11; 49. 9. Eze.
34. 23; 37. 24. Jn. 10. 11.
14. 1 Pe. 2. 25; 5. 4.

1 Or, testament.

<sup>g</sup> 2 Co. 3. 5. Phil. 2. 13.
1 Th. 5. 23. 1 Pe. 5. 10.

A.M. cir. 4068.
A.D. cir. 64.

2 Or, doing.
<sup>h</sup> See Re. 1. 5. Ro. 16.
27. 1 Ti. 1. 17. Ps. 72. 18.
19; 115. 1.

<sup>i</sup> ch. 2. 1; 3. 1; 4. 1. 2 Co.
5. 20; 6. 1; 10. 1. Ps. 78. 1.

<sup>j</sup> 1 Pe. 5. 12. Ga. 6. 11.
2 Th. 3. 17.

<sup>k</sup> Ac. 16. 1-3; 17. 14;
19. 22; 20. 4. Ro. 16. 21. 1
Co. 4. 17. Phil. 2. 19. 16. 1
Ti. 1. 2. 18. 2 Ti. 1. 5. Re.
7. 17. Ro. xvi. 1 Co. 16.
14-21. 2 Co. 13. 12, 13.

3 See notes on ver.
7. 17.—C.

<sup>l</sup> Ro. 16. 20, 24. 1 Co.
16. 23. 2 Co. 13. 14. Ga. 6.
18. Ep. 6. 24. Phil. 4. 23.
Col. 4. 18. 1 Th. 5. 28. 2
Th. 3. 18. Re. 22. 21.

word of exhortation: <sup>j</sup>for I have written a letter unto you in few words.

23 Know ye that our <sup>k</sup>brother Timothy is set at liberty; with whom, if he come shortly, I will see you.

24 Salute all them that have the rule <sup>3</sup>over you, and all the saints. They of Italy salute you.

25 Grace<sup>l</sup> be with you all. Amen.

¶ Written to the Hebrews from Italy by Timothy.

sheep through the blood of the everlasting covenant.' Some connect ver. 20, 21 thus—'Make you perfect, &c., through the blood, &c.;' but the construction of the original seems unfavourable to this arrangement. C.

REFLECTIONS.—It is very delightful when professed Christians are remarkable for mutual and fervent charity; for kind hospitality, tender sympathy, seasonable liberality; for untainted chastity; for contentedly living on God as their portion; for imitation of deceased ministers; obedience to and fervent prayer for living ministers of Christ; and for steadfast adherence to truth, and readiness to suffer for and serve their dying Redeemer.—What an all-sufficient Saviour is he to, and what marvellous things hath he done for us, to lead us to love, trust in, and cleave to him!—Awful is the office, work, and account of gospel ministers, and infinite is the mercy that a reconciled God of grace, and a risen Saviour and chief Shepherd, have, by the new covenant, provided proper furniture and assistance, as well as rewards, for both ministers and people who uprightly aim at his honour.

CONCLUDING REMARKS ON THE EPISTLE TO THE HEBREWS.

The epistles to the Romans, Galatians, and Hebrews, furnish three great gospel lights for illuminating the dark pages of the law. That to the Hebrews seems to have been directed to parties exclusively Jews, for all its arguments are drawn from purely scriptural sources; and while they evidence the intimate familiarity of the writer with the most minute ordinances of the law, they imply an equal acquaintance with them in the parties to whom they are addressed. The great object of the epistle seems reducible to three points:—1. Christ was superior to angels in nature; 2. To Moses as a lawgiver; 3. To Aaron as a priest; and, if proved superior to them, the conclusion must be inevitable with a Jew—he must therefore be the only true God. C.

THE GENERAL EPISTLE OF JAMES.

James wrote this epistle to his Hebrew brethren of the twelve tribes, who were dispersed in the several provinces of the Roman empire; many of whom had been converted to the Christian faith. The scope thereof is to stir them up to manifest their faith by their good works;—to bear their trials with cheerfulness and patience;—maintain honourable thoughts of God;—watch over their turbulent passions;—receive the word of God with meekness, and put it into practice, ch. i.:—conduct themselves impartially to the rich and kindly to the poor, ch. ii.: to guard against reviling, censorious, and imperious language, ch. iii.: and a litigious, proud, worldly, and envious spirit, and overlooking of God's providence, ch. iv.: and against luxury, injustice, and profane swearing;—and to patience, mutual confession of faults, fervent prayer, and a diligent study to promote one another's spiritual welfare, ch. v.

[James the son of Alphaeus, the brother of Jude, and the near relation of our Lord—called also James the Less, Mar. 15. 40, either on account of inferiority in stature or age to James the son of Zebedee—is generally esteemed the writer of this epistle. Ecclesiastical history, confirmed by the Acts of the Apostles, ch. 12. 17; 15. 13; 21. 13; and some of the Epistles, 1 Co. 15. 7; Ga. 1. 19; 2. 9, 12, represents him as residing generally at Jerusalem superintending the churches, till the time of his martyrdom, A.D. 62. This epistle is found in the ancient Syriac version, which was completed in the end of the first or beginning of the second century. It is alluded to by Clemens Romanus, Hermas, and Ignatius, and directly cited by Origen, Jerome, and Athanasius, which allusions and citations concur with its internal evidence, to attest its inspired character. It is called general, because not addressed to any particular church, but 'to the twelve tribes scattered abroad.' It contains references to Ge. 15. 6; 20. 17; 22. 9-12; De. 9. 18-20; Jos. 2. 1; 1 Ki. 3. 9, 11, 12; 8. 46; 17. 1; 18. 42-45; Job 1. 21, 22; 42. 10; Ps. 94. 12; Is. 41. 8; Je. 29. 12, 13; Mal. 3. 6. C.]

I am led by a close examination of evidence to the conviction, that James, the son of Alphaeus, and James who is styled in Ga. 1. 19 'the brother of the Lord,' were different persons (see Jn. 7. 3; Mat. 13. 55). The former was an apostle; the latter does not seem even to have been a believer in Christ at all till after the resurrection. Immediately on his joining the little Christian church, however, he took a prominent position, being president of the council at Jerusalem. It is my opinion, from the statements made in Scripture, that James was son of Joseph and Mary; and consequently, as stated by Paul, 'the brother of our Lord.' He was the author of this epistle. James' usual place of residence was Jerusalem, and there are several incidental allusions in the epistle which show that it was written in Palestine, ch. 3. 12; 1. 6; 5. 17, 18. Its date cannot be definitely fixed, but probably it was written at a comparatively early period—not later than A.D. 50. P.]

CHAPTER I.

1 We are to rejoice under the cross, 5 to ask patience of God, 13 and in our trials not to impute our weakness, or sins, unto him, 19 but rather to hearken to the word, to meditate in it, and to do thereafter. 25 Otherwise men may seem, but never be truly religious.

JAMES, <sup>a</sup>a servant of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ, <sup>b</sup>to the twelve tribes which are scattered abroad, greeting.

A.M. cir. 4064.
A.D. cir. 60.

CHAP. I.

<sup>a</sup> Mat. 10. 3; 13. 55.
Ac. 1. 3; 15. 13; 21. 18.
Ga. 1. 19; 9. 12. Jude 1.
Tit. 1. 1. Ro. 1. 1. 23.
<sup>b</sup> Jn. 7. 35. Ac. 2. 5-11;
8. 1, 4; 15. 13, 29; 26. 7. 1
Pe. 1. 1. De. 32. 26; 28. 64.
<sup>c</sup> De. 8. 2, 3. Mat. 5. 11.
12. Ac. 5. 41. Ro. 5. 3.
He. 10. 34; 15. 1 Co. 10.
13. Phil. 1. 29. 1 Pe. 1. 6; 4.
13-16. 2 Pe. 2. 9. Lu. 8.
13; 22. 28.

A.M. cir. 4064.
A.D. cir. 60.

<sup>d</sup> Mat. 2. 7; 5. 3; 4. 8. 25.
28; 15. 4. 2 Co. 4. 17. Col.
1. 11. 2 Th. 1. 4; 3. 5. He.
10. 36; 12. 1. 1 Pe. 1. 7.
<sup>e</sup> Mat. 10. 22; 5. 12. 48.
Lu. 8. 15; 21. 19. 2 Pe. 1. 4
-10. Job 17. 9. Pr. 4. 18.
Ga. 6. 9.
<sup>f</sup> 1 Ki. 3. 9, 11. Pr. 2. 3-6. Je. 29. 12, 13. Da. 2. 20.
Mat. 7. 7, 11; 21. 22. Lu.
11. 9. Jn. 14. 13; 15. 7; 16.
23. ch. 3. 17; 5. 16. 1 Jn. 3.
22; 5. 14.

2 My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations;

3 Knowing<sup>d</sup> this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience.

4 But<sup>e</sup> let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing.

5 If<sup>g</sup> any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him.

6 But<sup>h</sup> let him ask in faith, nothing wavering. For he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea, driven with the wind and tossed.<sup>1</sup>

7 For let not that man think that he shall receive any thing of the Lord.

8 A<sup>j</sup> double-minded man is unstable in all his ways.<sup>2</sup>

9 Let the brother of low degree rejoice<sup>3</sup> in that he is exalted:<sup>4</sup>

10 But<sup>l</sup> the rich, in that he is made low: because as the flower of the grass he shall pass away.

11 For the sun is no sooner risen with a burning heat, but it withereth the grass, and the flower thereof falleth, and the grace of the

A.M. cir. 4064.
A.D. cir. 60.

h Mar. 11. 24. i Ti. 2. 8. Ro. 14. 23. He. 11. 6. i Ep. 4. 14. He. 13. 9. 2. Pe. 2. 17. Jude 12, 13. Ge. 49. 4. Ps. 66. 18. 1 See note * below. j Ho. 10. 2; 7. 8, 11. 1. Ki. 18. 21. Ps. 12. 2. Is. 29. 13. 2 Ki. 17. 41. 2 Verses 7 and 8 are closely connected in sense:—'Let not that man (the man who doubts) think he shall receive anything of the Lord; he is a man of two minds, unstable in all his ways.' He has no decision, no faith.—P. 3 Or, glory. A Ro. 8. 17. Phi. 3. 14. 2 Th. 1. 11. He. 3. 9. ch. 2. 5. i Pe. 2. 9. Re. 1. 6. Ac. 5. 41. i Pe. 4. 16. Phi. 1. 29. 4 Exalted to be an heir of God, and joint-heir with Christ.—C. i Ti. 6. 17, with Job 14. 2. Is. 40. 6. i Co. 7. 31. i Pe. 1. 24. i Jn. 2. 17. ch. 4. 14. Ps. 103. 15; 37. 2, 10, 35; 36. 7, 18; 90. 5, 6; 102. 12. * Doubt, as opposed to faith, is what is here strongly condemned. Let him

A.M. cir. 4064.
A.D. cir. 60.

ask in faith, nothing doubting.—not doubting God's power, faithfulness, or mercy. This doubt is a kind of middle place between faith and absolute unbelief. Alford well describes it:—'While faith says Yes, and unbelief says No, "doubt" is the union of the two, having, however, the force of the negative slightly preponderating.'—P. j Job 5. 17. Ps. 94. 12. Pr. 3. 11, 12. He. 12. 5. Re. 3. 19. Ps. 119. 67, 71, 75; 34. 19. Ro. 5. 3. i Pe. 1. 6, 7; 4. 10. ver. 2. 20 Mat. 10. 22; 19. 28, 29. Ro. 2. 7, 10. 2 Ti. 4. 8. He. 12. 11. i Co. 9. 25. Lu. 22. 28–30. Mat. 5. 10; 25. 34. i Pe. 1. 7; 13. 14; 4. 12; 135. 4. Re. 2. 10; 3. 21. Is. 64. 4. ch. 2. 5. Ex. 20. 6. i Co. 10. 13. Ps. 5. 4–6. Hab. 1. 12, 13. Je. 44. 4. 9 Ro. 7. 11. Co. 6. 5. Mat. 15. 19. 2 Ti. 3. 13. Is. 44. 20. 2 Pe. 2. 11. Tit. 3. 3. Ho. 13. 9. j Job 15. 35. Ps. 7. 14. Ro. 6. 21–23; 7. 5. Eze. 18. 4. Ge. 2. 17. Ps. 9. 17.

fashion of it perisheth: so also shall the rich man fade away in his ways.

12 Blessed<sup>n</sup> is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him.

13 Let<sup>p</sup> no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man:

14 But<sup>a</sup> every man is tempted, when he is drawn away of his own lust, and enticed.

15 Then<sup>r</sup> when lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin: and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death.

16 Do<sup>s</sup> not err, my beloved brethren.

17 Every<sup>u</sup> good gift and every perfect gift is s Ga. 6. 7. Col. 2. 4, 8.

t ver 19; ch. 2. 5. He. 13. 1.

n Pr. 2. 6. Jn. 3. 27. Ro. 11. 36. i Co. 4. 7.

CHAPTER I. Ver. 2. My fellow-descendants from Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and fellow-believers in Christ scattered through the Roman empire or other places of the world, never be discouraged by the various afflictions which ye meet with for the trial and excitement of your grace, and the persecutions which ye endure for the sake of Christ and the gospel; but rather esteem it your honour and joy that ye are called and enabled thus to bear a faithful testimony for him, to his glory, and to your own and others' spiritual advantage; 3. Being fully persuaded in your own minds, from the infallible oracles of God and your own experience, that they are designed and managed by God for trying, proving, and rendering approved, the truth and efficacy of your faith in Christ, and your constancy in your profession; and that thereby, through the concurring influence of the Holy Ghost, there may be produced and increased in you a calm submission and persevering resignation to the sovereign will and holy providence of God in the most afflictive dispensations. 4. Let patience therefore, with the most meek, humble, composed, resigned, and cheerful frame of spirit, fully exercise itself, without any check or disturbance from your sinful passions; and persevere therein, notwithstanding the number, weight, diversity, or continuance of your troubles—that, in the issue, ye may become perfect in every grace, and be admitted to the complete holiness and happiness of the heavenly state. 5. And if any of you, under your afflictions, find a want of spiritual wisdom to direct you to judge of, behave under, and rightly improve them, let such, under an humbling sense of their own weakness, and of the insufficiency of all creatures to conduct them, by earnest prayer, in the name of Christ, apply to the God of all light and grace—who is so ready to bestow every needful blessing upon men, and who bountifully distributes his favours to all, especially to humble supplicants, without ever upbraiding them with their ignorance, folly, unworthiness, or misimprovement of former favours—for the directions of his Word, providence, and Spirit, and they shall, without fail, be granted. 6. But to obtain this gracious answer, you must present your requests with a firm dependence on Christ, and on the wisdom, power, faithfulness, and goodness of God in him, for a performance of his promises, without any staggering at them through unbelief; for he that gives way to distrust and sinful jealousies, whether God can or will perform his gracious promises or not, is altogether unsteady and restless in his principles and practice. 7. And it is quite absurd for any one who has such a diffident and fluctuating temper of spirit, which is so dishonourable to the promises and perfections of God, to expect that his unstable and unbelieving prayers shall ever bring him any important favours from God. 8. A man whose heart is thus divided between hope and despondency, or between God and the world, is always unsettled in religion, continually hesitating, fickle, and perplexed in all his thoughts, words, and actions, and so can never expect to speed in his prayers. 9–11. But as all they who are united to Christ and born of the Spirit may warrantably plead for and expect every promised blessing, let such as are poor, oppressed, and persecuted, and whose minds are brought down to their lot, rejoice and glory, that amidst their poverty they are advanced to the spiritual dignities and privileges of the new covenant, and are honoured to suffer for the sake of Christ and his gospel; and let them whose circumstances are easy or affluent, rejoice that God has given them low thoughts of themselves and all their earthly enjoyments, or calls them to part with them—as the wealthiest, the most grand and honourable, must quickly die away from whatever they have, and are often like flowers or grass in the midst of their carnal projects, prosperity, and honour. 12. But happy are they who are enabled in a Christian manner to bear losses and tribulations here for the sake of Christ; for when they have endured them with faith, patience, humble submission, and holy fortitude, they shall be graciously rewarded with that immortal and incorruptible blessedness and glory which the Lord Jesus, and God in him, has freely promised, and will certainly give at the last day to all those who, from a principle of faith in Christ, supremely esteem and delight in him, and look and long for his glorious appearance to complete their salvation.—13. Let no man under his afflictions fret and murmur, or pretend that God thereby tempts him to sin; for God is so infinitely holy in his nature and will, purposes and works, that it is absolutely impossible for him to be influenced to anything sinful, or to entice, persuade, influence, or necessitate any to commit the least moral evil. 14, 15. But when men, under afflictions or otherwise, are drawn into acts of sin, it is entirely owing to the violent and beguiling influence of their own inward lusts and corruptions, which drag them off from the ways of truth and holiness, and by the deceitful appearances of carnal ease, pleasure, or profit, decoy them into sin. And it is only when these inward corrupt inclinations have gained the approbation and free consent of the will that they produce actual sin; and when actual sin is completed, allowed of, persisted in, and indulged in impenitence and unbelief, it not only renders liable to, but will certainly issue in, everlasting misery, as its proper wages and fruit. 16. Beware therefore, my dear brethren, lest any of you apostatize from the truth of the gospel, or indulge such abominably erroneous, blasphemous, and injurious conceptions of God or his ways, as if he could do anything to promote or encourage sin. 17. On the contrary, everything that is naturally, morally, or supernaturally good, every blessing of creation, providence, and grace, and nothing but what is good, proceeds from this infinite, eternal, and unchangeable Fountain, Author, and Bestower of all light, knowledge, holiness, and happiness, grace or glory. 18. And we believers have the most endearing proof of his being the Fountain and Author of everything holy and useful; for not on account of or by any wisdom, power, or merit in us, but merely of his own impartial grace and compassion, by means of the gospel, he has implanted vital principles of grace in our hearts, and thus begotten us to a lively hope of an everlasting inheritance, that we might be rendered his most excellent creatures, consecrated to his service, and a pledge and earnest of his converting multitudes to his Son. 19, 20. Wherefore, my Christian brethren, according to your character and obligations, as new creatures, be always attentive to what he declares in his Word concerning himself or his ways, and never be rash in your thoughts or speeches concerning God and his ways of providence or grace; or even in turning preachers, and giving your views of difficult passages of Scripture: and never, no not in disputing for gospel truths, indulge a wrathful and passionate treatment of such as differ from you; for unguarded heat and intemperate passion, proceeding from pride, selfishness, and impatience of contradiction, are so far from serving God's righteous cause, or recommending to others the method of justification through the imputed righteousness of Christ, or the practice of righteousness which God's law requires, that they render men incapable of speaking aright for him, and prejudice the minds of others against what is really true and good. 21. Wherefore cast away with abhorrence all these corrupt affections and overflowings of malice, which are exceedingly sinful, and render your souls unfruitful in anything good; and with all humility, modesty, and submission of your understandings, consciences, hearts, and affections to the authority of God in his Word, cordially embrace it with faith and love—that being, as it were, vitally united with your souls, it may, under the influence of the Holy Ghost, be instrumental in conforming your hearts and lives more and more to its own holy likeness, and in efficaciously nourishing you up in grace, till you arrive at the complete possession of the heavenly blessedness. 22. And that it may have this happy effect upon you, see that it influence you to practise its excellent and holy principles in your lives; and never delude yourselves, or cheat yourselves out of your eternal happiness, by giving it a bare hearing, assent, or place in your notions. 23, 24. For, let your pretences be what they will, if you merely hear the truths of God, and do not by faith and love reduce them to practice in your whole conversation, ye can only have some notions and transient convictions of your guilt, depravity, danger, and need of Christ and his grace, and will quickly lay aside your concern, and go on in your impenitence, unbelief, and wicked practices as before. 25. But if you accurately search into the gospel revelation, in which our spiritual deliverance from the broken law and ancient ceremonies is so clearly manifested and perfectly bestowed, and heedfully persevere in the faith and practice of it, living in the exercise of every grace and discharge of every duty answerable to it, ye shall have great happiness at the end of your Christian course. 26. And remember that, if you make ever so much pretence to, show of, or talk about religion, yet, if you indulge yourselves in profane and abusive language, or in railing against, reviling, censuring, or slandering your neighbours, and flatter yourselves as if zeal for God would justify your proud, passionate, bitter, and injurious words, your religion is all a mere farce, and will never do you any real service. 27. Pure religion, that is unmixed with human inventions or with carnal principles, motives, and ends, and which is according to the law and influence of God, and exercised as in his sight, and with a view to his glory, disposes and engages Christians to be tender, kind, and compassionate to the needy and distressed, in doing all they can for the relief and comfort of poor fatherless children and destitute widows, and to behave in a holy and circumspect manner, free from the pollutions of this evil and insnaring world, that they may not bring any shame upon their conscience, and disgrace upon their hopes or character, by the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye, or the pride of life.

from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning.

18 Of his own will begat he us with the word of truth, that we should be a kind of first-fruits of his creatures.

19 Wherefore, my beloved brethren, let every man be swift to hear,<sup>5</sup> slow to speak, slow to wrath:

20 For the wrath of man worketh not the righteousness of God.

21 Wherefore lay apart all filthiness and superfluity of naughtiness, and receive with meekness the engrafted word, which is able to save your souls.

22 But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves.

23 For if any be a hearer of the word, and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a glass:

24 For he beholdeth himself, and goeth his

A.M. cir. 4064.
A.D. cir. 60.

v Ge. 1.2, 3, 14, 15. Jn. 1.9. 1 Jn. 1.5. Ep. 1.17. Mal. 3.6. Ps. 102.26, 27. Nu. 23. 19. 1 Sa. 15. 26. Is. 14. 24, 27; 46. 10. Ro. 11. 29.

x Jn. 1.13; 3.5. 1 Jn. 3.9; 5.18. Ga. 4.19. 1 Co. 4.15. 1 Pe. 1.3, 23. Ep. 1.4. 12. He. 12. 23. Je. 2. 3. Re. 14. 4.

y ver. 16. Ec. 5.1, 2; 7.9. Ps. 4.5. Pr. 10. 19; 13.3; 17.27. Mat. 5.22. Ga. 5.20-23. Ep. 4.26, 31. Col. 3.8, 15. 1 Ti. 2.3, 8. Pr. 10.32. Job 6. 25. with ver. 18, 21; ch. 3. 1, 13.

z Because it is the word of truth (ver. 18). 'let us be swift to hear,' that we may learn.—Slow to speak, lest we should mislead through want of thought.—C.

z Ec. 7.9. with Ps. 11.7; 33.5. 1 Co. 15.34. Ep. 4.25. 2 Ti. 4.8.

a Ro. 13.12, 13. Col. 3.5-8. 1 Pe. 2.12, 11. He. 12.1.

b Ps. 25.9. 1 Th. 1.5; 13. Ro. 1. 16. 1 Co. 1.21; 15.1-4. Ep. 1.13. Ac. 13.26. Tit. 2.11. He. 2.3. 1 Pe. 1.9. Jn. 6.63, 68. 2 Co. 6.1, 2; 12.16. He. 4.2.

c Mat. 7. 21, 24-27. 1 Lu. 6.46; 11.28. Ro. 2.3. 13. Col. 2.4. 1 Jn. 3.7. 2 Ti. 3.13.

d Lu. 6. 47-49. ch. 2.14-26. 2 Co. 13.5. Tit. 1.16.

A.M. cir. 4064.
A.D. cir. 60.

e 2 Co. 3.6, 17, 18. Jn. 13.17. Ro. 8.15. ch. 2.12. Mat. 5.19. He. 7.19; 9.9. Ps. 119.45.

f Lu. 6.47; 11.28. Jn. 13.17. Ps. 119.11. 1 Co. 15.58. Ro. 2.7, 8. Re. 14.13.

g Or, doing.

h Ps. 34.13; 39. 1, 2. 1 Pe. 3.10. ch. 3.6. Ps. 39.1.

i Mat. 5.8. Jn. 15.3. 2 Co. 1.12. 1 Ti. 1.5.

j God even the Father.—C.

k Is. 1. 10. 17; 58.6, 7. Mat. 25.30. 1 Jn. 2.15; 3.17. ch. 2.14-16. Ps. 68.5.

l Jn. 17.14. ch. 4.4. 1 Jn. 2.15. 16. Ga. 6.14. Ro. 12. 2. Ep. 5.7, 11. Col. 3.1, 2, 5. Pr. 23.5. Ps. 17.14. 1 Jn. 5.4, 5, 18.

m Himself. Rather, 'one's self'.—C.

n Or 'by the world.' True religion consists in universal benevolence and purity of heart and life; the gospel conforms all who receive it in love to the image of God, the fountain of innumerable excellence.—Comp. Fam. Bible.

CHAP. II.

a Ro. 1.8. 1 Ti. 1.5, 19. Tit. 1.1. Jude 3.

b 1 Co. 2. 8. Phil. 2.9.

c He. 1.3. Ac. 7.2. Ps. 24.7-10. Tit. 2.13.

d Le. 19.13. De. 1.17; 16.19. Pr. 24. 23; 28.21. Ro. 2.11. Jude 16.

way, and straightway forgetteth what manner of man he was.

25 But whoso looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work, this man shall be blessed in his deed.<sup>6</sup>

26 If any man among you seem to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, this man's religion is vain.

27 Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father, is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world.<sup>9</sup>

CHAPTER II.

1 It is not agreeable to the Christian profession to regard the rich, and to despise the poor brethren; 13 rather we are to be loving, and merciful; 14 and not to boast of faith where no deeds are, 17 which is but a dead faith, 19 the faith of devils, 21 not of Abraham, 25 and Rahab.

MY brethren, have not the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord of glory, with respect of persons.

Ver. 2. Temptations—trials and tribulations, ver. 3, 12; Lu. 8.13; 22.28; 2 Co. 8.2. This joy in 'temptations' is perfectly consistent with the petition, 'Lead us not into temptation;' for while it is the believer's privilege to pray for exemption from trial before it comes, it is his duty to submit to it when God actually sends it; and, moreover, to rejoice in it as an additional evidence of God's fatherly love, He. 12.6, and an instrument employed by the Spirit for his advancement in grace, 2 Co. 4.15, 16, and increase of glory, 2 Co. 4.17. C.

Ver. 10. Made low in his own estimation—having been enabled to form a just estimate of the fading nature, and brief and uncertain tenure, of all earthly possessions. C.

Ver. 13. When he is tempted. The word 'tempted' here refers not to those trials by poverty or persecution (ver. 9) that arise from Providence, as means of growth in grace, but to those solicitations to sin that arise from an evil heart, and tend to perdition, ver. 14. Both are indeed temptations, but they arise from different sources, and have different ends. C.

Ver. 17. Variableness. An astronomical term descriptive of the varying positions and aspects of the heavenly bodies at different seasons of the year.—Shadow of turning, either the sun's apparent annual turning at the tropics, or the daily turning of the shadow on the dial.—Note, While time is thus measured by changes, God is the Lord; he changes not. Jesus is the same yesterday, to-day, and for ever! C.

Ver. 21. Filthiness. The original is applied to the production of ulcers—emblematic of offensive and infectious conversation or example.—Superfluity of naughtiness—the overflowing of a malicious spirit, in which the unregenerate live 'hateful and hating one another.' C.

Ver. 25. The perfect law of liberty. Rather, 'the perfect law—that of liberty.' A reference most probably to Ps. 19.7, where the word 'law' signifies, not the Mosaic law, but the whole doctrine of revelation. From comparing this passage with Jn. 8.32, 36; Ro. 8.21; 2 Co. 3.17; Ga. 5.1, 13, 'the law of liberty' will be found to be a name for the whole gospel revelation, because Christ has therein declared us free from the Mosaic ordinances and the wrath and curse of an offended God.—Note, The term 'law' is employed to signify the gospel revelation by the figure antanaglasia, or allusion. See S. Glassius, p. 929, &c., and Carson on Fig. of Speech, p. 80. C.

REFLECTIONS.—God takes care of his people, be they scattered how or where they will. Their tribulations for his name's sake may be great, but should be joyfully borne, as they shall be overruled for the trial and improvement of their present grace, and for the enhancement of their eternal glory. All the fulness of this world is but a fading portion when compared with the exalted and immortal blessedness of humble Christians. Great is the need of spiritual wisdom to direct our behaviour under our diversified trials; and infinite the mercy that our heavenly Father is so ready to grant it if asked. But, alas! many, by their unbelief and inconstancy, hinder the success of their own prayers. Great is the folly of charging our sins on God, who is infinitely and unchangeably holy. Regenerating grace and everything good comes from God's loving kindness, and ought to redound to his praise and honour; but all evil comes from ourselves. What need, then, have we to mortify our lusts, and to watch against our pride, passion, and hard thoughts of God!—With great humility, reverence, and faith, ought we to hear, receive, and improve his Word. And with deep concern should we guard against deceiving our souls in matters of eternal consequence. We have to do with a God who requires truth in the inward parts. It is not high pretences, but a renewed heart and holy life, that can evidence us to be real Christians. And an unruly tongue, disregard of the poor, or attachment to carnal persons and things, may prove us graceless amidst the most splendid glare of a high profession.

CHAPTER II. Ver. 1-7. Beware of taking up with such an empty profession of the truths, and of faith in Jesus Christ, our infinitely glorious and highly exalted Lord, the fountain and bestower of all glory upon us, as leaves you under the power of a partial, unjust, and carnal regard to men—not according to their religious characters, or the merits of their cause, but according to their higher or lower circumstances in life.—A preferring of one richly dressed in your religious meetings or judicial decisions, and pouring contempt upon another who is meanly dressed, can proceed from nothing but a shameful partiality, and a carnal and biased manner of judgment.—And nothing can be more unreasonable among Christians, who cannot but remark that God has generally chosen mean persons to enrich them with faith and all the other graces of his Spirit, and to render them heirs of his heavenly kingdom; while great and rich men are generally unmindful of him, and thus by their own hearts' lusts, to be persecutors of his people and blasphemers of his name and religion. 8-11. If, from a principle of faith in and love to Jesus Christ, your Lord and King, ye obey his high and supreme law, treating all your neighbours, particularly your fellow-Christians, with as much kindness, equity, and mercy, in their various circumstances, as ye wish in like cases to be exercised towards yourselves, ye act a truly honourable and becoming part; but if ye regard persons merely or chiefly on account of their different worldly circumstances, ye stand convicted and condemned by that excellent law of God which requires the most strict regard to equity: and remember that though ye should keep all the other commandments, yet by a single breach in any particular point, ye break the whole law, as ye trample on that divine authority which connects together, and is the foundation of the whole law, and counteract that love which is the fulfilment of the whole law, particularly of the second table of it. 12, 13. Let your whole conversation towards God and men, in disposition, thought, word, and deed, be such as becomes them who live under the dispensation of the gospel, and who expect to be judged at the last day according to the tenor of it; for they who, contrary to its grace and obligations, neglect to exercise compassion towards their poor brethren, shall have a severe sentence of condemnation and wrath fixed on themselves; and they who, from true faith and love, exercise kindness towards them, shall have occasion to rejoice in their own deliverance from condemnation and wrath, and even in the hopes of it; and God's mercy shall, according to the gospel promises, triumph in their salvation. 14-26. And remember that if you have only a notional and lifeless faith, which does not effectually influence you to grant relief to your poor destitute brethren, and to the universal practice of righteousness and holiness, it is really naught, and no better than the faith of devils before God. For however insufficient good works be to justify our persons, or entitle us to eternal life before God as a righteous Judge, yet they are absolutely necessary to prove our faith unfeigned, and to manifest us justified before the world, and even in our own consciences—as is manifest from the case not only of Abraham the father of the faithful, but of Rahab the Canaanitish harlot; both of whom manifested their true faith and divine justification by their good works which proceeded therefrom.

Ver. 2. With a gold ring. Rather, 'having his fingers adorned with gold rings'—which might be evidences of riches, or perhaps, badges of office and honour. C.

Ver. 4. In the several members of ver. 3 and is uniformly retained and translated 'and;' wherefore it is not easy to discover why and is altogether omitted in the beginning of ver. 4, or why the members of ver. 3 being affirmative, ver. 4 should be rendered interrogative. Would it not be more literal, and in accordance with the use of the word by James (ch. 1.6), as well as in other places (e.g. Ro. 14.23), to translate it thus:—'And have not wavered' (or hesitated) 'within yourselves, and have become judges of' (who have adopted) 'erroneous reasonings.'—Note, Luther, in the German, retains the 'and,' and renders the verse affirmatively. C.

Ver. 8. Royal law. 'Pre-eminent law,' as the word βασιλικός frequently signifies.—Note, The law of brotherly love our Lord delivers as 'a new commandment' (Jn. 13.34; see note—a commandment not new in principle, but new in measure; for the Mosaic law had said, 'Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself;' but Christ hath said, 'Love one another as I have loved you.' See also Jn. 15.12. C.

Ver. 13. Against judgment. Rather, 'over judgment.' Not as if mercy were contrary to judgment; for in Christ 'mercy and truth have met together; righteousness and peace have embraced each other;' but the words represent that 'joy in heaven' which the holy angels, together with all 'who have obtained mercy,' feel and express 'over every sinner that repenteth,' who has fled to mercy in Christ, and escaped from the 'judgment to come.' C.

REFLECTIONS.—Decent respect is due to persons on account of their civil stations. But to prefer the rich, graceless, and gay, as such, especially in matters of religion or equity, is highly unchristian, and striking against the whole authority of the lawgiver, and that universal love required in his law, amounts to a breaking of all his commandments, and leaves little hopes of mercy to the guilty in the great day of account. It is chiefly among the poor that true Christians are found, and God's grace enriches and ennobleth them. Why, then, should we despise them! Rich persons are too generally blasphemers of God's name and religion, persecutors of his saints, and oppressors of their inferiors. Why, then, should we partially caress them! It is not fine words of pity and compassion, and empty wishes of relief, but needful supplies, according to our ability, that God demands from us to our poor brethren, and in denying these we basely act the part of inhuman hypocrites. The best notions and professions of faith without good works thereby produced, are but dead, devilish, and abominable before God. No good works of ours can indeed justify our persons before

2 For if there come unto your assembly<sup>1</sup> a man with a gold ring, in goodly apparel, and there come in also a poor man in vile raiment;

3 And<sup>a</sup> ye have respect to him that weareth the gay clothing, and say unto him, Sit thou here in a good place;<sup>2</sup> and say to the poor, Stand thou there, or sit here under my footstool:

4 Are<sup>e</sup> ye not then partial in yourselves, and are become judges of evil thoughts?

5 Harken, <sup>9</sup>my beloved brethren, <sup>h</sup>hath not God chosen the poor of this world <sup>i</sup>rich in faith, and heirs of the<sup>3</sup> kingdom, which he hath promised to them that love him?

6 But <sup>j</sup>ye have despised the poor. Do not rich men oppress you, and draw you before the judgment-seats?

7 Do<sup>k</sup> not they blaspheme that worthy name by the which ye are called?

8 If ye fulfil the <sup>l</sup>royal law, according to the scripture, <sup>n</sup>Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself, ye do well:

9 But<sup>o</sup> if ye have respect to persons, ye commit sin, and are convinced<sup>4</sup> of the law as transgressors.

10 For<sup>p</sup> whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all.

11 For <sup>q</sup>he that said,<sup>5</sup> Do not commit adultery, said also, Do not kill. Now if thou commit no adultery, yet if thou kill, thou art become a transgressor of the law.

12 So<sup>r</sup> speak ye, and so do, as they that shall be judged by <sup>s</sup>the law of liberty.<sup>6</sup>

13 For<sup>t</sup> he shall have judgment without mercy that hath showed no mercy; and mercy <sup>u</sup>rejoiceth<sup>7</sup> against judgment.

14 What doth it profit, my brethren, <sup>v</sup>though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? can faith save him?

15 If a brother or sister be naked, and destitute of daily food,

16 And<sup>w</sup> one of you say unto them, Depart in peace, be ye warmed and filled; notwithstanding ye give them not those things which are needful to the body; what doth it profit?

17 Even<sup>y</sup> so faith,<sup>8</sup> if it hath not works, is dead, being alone.<sup>9</sup>

A.M. cir. 4064.
A.D. cir. 60.

1 Gr. synagogue.

d Ac. 22. 3; 23. 4. Jude 16.

2 Or, well or seemly.

e ch. 3. 16; 4. 11. Mat. 7. 1-5.

g ch. 1. 16; ver. 1; ch. 3. 1.

h Mat. 5. 3; 11. 25. Lu. 6. 20. 1 Co. 1. 26-28. Jn. 48.

i Lu. 12. 21, 32; 22. 29.

1 Ti. 6. 18. 19. Re. 2. 9.

Ex. 20. 6. Pr. 8. 17. 1 Sa. 2. 30. Mat. 5. 3. ch. 1. 12.

3 Or, that.

j 1 Co. 11. 22. ch. 5. 4.

6. Ac. 13. 50.

k Ps. 73. 9, 11; 111. 9.

Job 21. 14, 15. Re. 13. 5.

6. with Phil. 2. 9.

l ch. 1. 25; 4. 12. De. 4. 21; 31. 5. 32.

n Le. 19. 18. Mat. 22. 39. Ro. 13. 8. 9. Ga. 5. 14.

Ep. 5. 2. 1 Th. 4. 9.

o ver. 1. Le. 19. 15. De. 1. 17; 16. 19; 10. 17.

4 Convinced—convicted.—C.

p De. 27. 26. Mat. 5. 19, 20. Ga. 3. 10. ver. 11.

q Ex. 20. 13, 14. De. 5. 17, 18. Ga. 3. 10.

5 Or, that law which said.

r Phi. 4. 8. Jn. 13. 17.

ch. 1. 25, 27. Mat. 5. 48. 1 Pe. 1. 15, 16. 2 Pe. 1. 4-8.

s ver. 8; ch. 1. 25. Ro. 7. 12, 14. Ps. 119. 14, 16.

32, 45; 116. 16.

t See note on ch. 1. 25.—C.

u Ge. 42. 4, 21. Ju. 1. 7.

Job 22. 5-10; 24. 9, 10. Pr. 21. 13. Mat. 6. 15; 7. 1, 2.

18. 30; 25. 41, 42. Lu. 16. 25. ch. 5. 4.

v Ps. 85. 10. Mat. 25. 35; 5. 7. 1 Jn. 4. 17, 18.

7 Or, glorified.

w ch. 1. 23. Mat. 7. 26.

1 Ti. 3. 5. Tit. 1. 16. 1s. 29.

13; 58. 2-4. Ac. 8. 13. Jn. 12. 42.

x Job 31. 20. Lu. 3. 11; 6. 35. Ga. 6. 10. 1 Ti. 6. 18.

He. 13. 16. 1 Jn. 3. 17, 18.

Pr. 3. 27, 28; 21. 13.

y ver. 14, 19, 20, 26. 1 Co. 13. 3. with Ga. 5. 6. 1 Ti. 1. 5.

8 Even so faith, &c.

That is, the faith without works, which vain men say they have, is dead. See ver. 14, 20.—C.

9 Gr. by itself.

* This verse appears to be closely connected with ver. 16—a full exposure, in fact, of the absurd idea that faith can exist without, or apart from, works. They are and must be inseparable. Faith can never be exhibited but by works; and where good works do not exist, true faith can have no place in the soul.—P.

† This is intellectual faith—it is simply the assent of the understanding to a dogmatic truth. It involves no moral quality. Any intelligent being may have this faith.—P.

‡ The word 'only' is the emphatic word in this verse. It is the key to the meaning of the whole. It solves the supposed discrepancy between James and Paul. It shows the real connection between faith and works. James does not deny that a man is justified by faith—nay, he indirectly affirms it; but he shows that true faith can never exist without works.—P.

A.M. cir. 4064.
A.D. cir. 60.

1 Some copies read by thy works.

2 Ga. 5. 6. 1 Ti. 1. 5. 2 Co. 7. 1. Tit. 2. 11, 12. 2 Pe. 1. 4-8. Mat. 7. 17. ch. 3. 12, 13.

3 See note * in first column.

4 De. 6. 4. Mat. 8. 20.

Mar. 1. 24; 5. 7. Ac. 16. 17; 19. 15. Phil. 2. 10. 11. 2 Pe. 2. 4. Jude 6. Re. 20. 10.

5 See note † in first column.

6 Job 11. 12. Ps. 94. 8.

11. 1 Co. 8. 2. Ga. 6. 3.

c ver. 14, 17, 18, 24, 26.

2 Pe. 1. 4-8. Ga. 5. 6.

d Mat. 12. 37. ver. 18.

with Ge. 22. 9, 12. He. 11. 17.

4 When he had offered (in purpose of obedience) his son Isaac.—C.

5 Or, Thou seest.

e ver. 18, 14, 20. Ga. 5. 6. 1 Ti. 1. 5. Mat. 7. 17.

ch. 3. 13. with He. 11. 17, 19.

6 Made perfect—as a fruit-tree when its fruit is ripened.—C.

7 The faith of Abraham in God's power, truth, and love, led of necessity to the act of offering up his son, which in purpose he performed. Had he not done that act it would have been an evidence that he had no true faith. In this respect, viewed ab extra, the faith was perfected by the act.—P.

8 Ge. 15. 6. Ro. 4. 3, 6.

10, 22, 23. Ga. 3. 6.

h 2 Ch. 20. 7. Is. 41. 8.

Ge. 22. 16-18. Jn. 15. 14.

15. Ro. 5. 1, 10. 2 Co. 5. 19. Ep. 2. 13-19. Re. 5. 9.

i ver. 14, 17, 18, 20, 22.

26. Re. 20. 12.

2 See note ‡ in first column.

j ver. 18. See ver. 24.

Mat. 21. 31.

k Jos. 2. 1-21; 6. 23, 25.

He. 11. 31.

9 Or, breath.

l See ver. 20, 14, 18.

22, 24. with Ga. 5. 6. 1 Ti. 1. 5. Ac. 8. 13. Jn. 12. 42.

Tit. 1. 16.

CHAP. III.

a Ec. 7. 16. Mat. 7. 1.

2; 23. 8, 10, 14. Lu. 6. 37.

38. Ro. 2. 1-3, 20, 21. 2 Co. 1. 24. 1 Pe. 5. 3. Pr. 16. 18. Lu. 12. 47, 48.

Mat. 11. 22, 24.

1 Or, judgment.

b 1 Ki. 8. 46. Pr. 20. 9.

Ec. 7. 20. 1 Jn. 1. 8. 1s. 64.

6.

2 Offend. Rather, 'fail,' 'stumble'.—C.

3 More literally, 'For oftentimes we all offend' in one form or another; in word, or thought, or action.—P.

c Ps. 34. 13; 39. 1, 2. ch. 1. 26. Pr. 13. 3; 15. 1; 25. 8.

Mat. 12. 36, 37. 1 Pe. 3. 10.

d Ps. 32. 9. Is. 37. 29.

Pr. 26. 3. Ps. 39. 1.

e Ps. 107. 25-27. Jonah 1. 4. Ac. 27. 14, 15, 27.

g Ps. 10. 3; 12. 3, 4; 73. 8, 9. Job 21. 14, 15. Pr. 12. 18; 15. 1, 2. Re. 13. 5, 6.

4 The tongue. That is, the tongue of the natural, unrenewed man.—C.

5 Or, wood.

18 Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: show me thy faith without thy works,<sup>1</sup> and <sup>2</sup>I will show thee my faith by my works.<sup>2</sup>

19 Thou<sup>a</sup> believest that there is one God; thou doest well: the devils also believe, and tremble.<sup>3</sup>

20 But wilt thou know, <sup>4</sup>O vain man, that <sup>e</sup>faith without works is dead?

21 Was not Abraham our father <sup>d</sup>justified by works, when he had offered Isaac his son<sup>4</sup> upon the altar?

22 Seest thou<sup>5</sup> how<sup>e</sup> faith wrought with his works, and by works was faith made <sup>6</sup>perfect?<sup>7</sup>

23 And the scripture was fulfilled which saith, <sup>9</sup>Abraham believed God, and it was imputed unto him for righteousness: and he was called <sup>h</sup>the Friend of God.

24 Ye see then how that <sup>i</sup>by works a man is justified, and not by faith only.<sup>8</sup>

25 Likewise also was not Rahab the harlot <sup>j</sup>justified by works, <sup>k</sup>when she had received the messengers, and had sent them out another way?

26 For as the body without the spirit<sup>9</sup> is dead, so <sup>l</sup>faith without works is dead also.

CHAPTER III.

1 We are not rashly or arrogantly to reprove others: 5 but rather to bridle the tongue, a little member, but a powerful instrument of much good, and great harm. 13 They who be truly wise be mild, and peaceable, without envying, and strife.

MY brethren, <sup>a</sup>be not many masters, knowing that we shall receive the greater condemnation.<sup>1</sup>

2 For<sup>b</sup> in many things we offend<sup>2</sup> all.<sup>3</sup> If <sup>c</sup>any man offend not in word, the same is a perfect man, and able also to bridle the whole body.

3 Behold, <sup>d</sup>we put bits in the horses' mouths, that they may obey us; and we turn about their whole body.

4 Behold also the ships, which though they be so great, and <sup>e</sup>are driven of fierce winds, yet are they turned about with a very small helm, whithersoever the governor listeth.

5 Even<sup>9</sup> so the tongue<sup>4</sup> is a little member, and boasteth great things. Behold how great a matter<sup>5</sup> a little fire kindleth!

God; but they are absolutely necessary to manifest our justification before men.

CHAPTER III. Ver. 1. Take heed, my dear Christian brethren, that none of you affect to be teachers of others, without proper qualifications for it; or give way, like your Jewish doctors, to a magisterial and censorious temper in matters of religion; for if ye do, your sin will be very aggravated, and your condemnation at the last day inexpressibly dreadful. 2. For all, even the best of us, are guilty of manifold transgressions of both tables of God's law, offending him and our fellow-creatures, which should make us very humble and modest in our thoughts of ourselves or censures of others; but if any one be enabled by grace to restrain his tongue from idle, opprobrious, false, and other sinful language, it marks him a true believer, and a person of great attainments in knowledge and experience, integrity and holiness, capable of managing himself and his whole behaviour to the benefit of the society he is connected with, religious or civil. 3-6. For as horses are governed by small bits, and large ships by small rudders, so a man's tongue, when properly managed, under the influence of divine grace, is of great use for regulating his whole behaviour—even as, under the influence of a carnal heart, it extravagantly talks away and contemns others; and I entreat you carefully to observe how often a little injurious language kindles a flame of contention and confusion all around it. And indeed scarcely anything can be more mischievous or productive of wickedness than an unruly, furious tongue. It vents a great deal of sin, is the outlet of the whole source of wickedness which lies in a man's heart, and produces much iniquity among others; by its exorbitant licentiousness, it spreads guilt and defilement through the whole man; and as a fire kindled and blown up by the diabolical influence of the father of lies and accuser of the brethren, it raises such wrath and anger in our own and other people's passions, as throws the whole course of the moral world into a pernicious ferment, and continues from one period of life, and even one generation, to another. 7, 8. No savage, venomous, or voracious beast is so hard to be tamed as a lying, reviling, malignant tongue, actuated by strong, furious, and vile passions. In the most ungovernable manner it vents forth the most devilish and destructive pride, malice, envy, reproach, and falsehood. 9-12. And very often among professed Christians it is at one time honourably employed in praising God the Father of mercies, and of Christ, and of us in him, or in praying to or commending him; and at another time basely prostituted to pour forth revilings, or even horrid imprecations, against our fellow-creatures, for whom we ought to have a reverence, as they were originally

6 And<sup>h</sup> the tongue is a fire, a world of iniquity: so is the tongue among our members, that it defileth the whole body, and setteth on fire the course of nature; and it is set on fire of hell.

7 For every kind<sup>6</sup> of beasts, and of birds, and of serpents, and of things in the sea, is tamed, and hath been tamed of mankind.<sup>7</sup>

8 But the tongue can no man tame;<sup>8</sup> it is an unruly evil, full of deadly poison.

9 Therewith<sup>j</sup> bless we God,<sup>9</sup> even the Father; and therewith curse we men,<sup>1</sup> which<sup>k</sup> are made after the similitude of God.

10 Out<sup>l</sup> of the same mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing. My brethren, these things ought not so to be.

11 Doth a fountain send forth at the same place<sup>2</sup> sweet water and bitter?

12 Can<sup>n</sup> the fig-tree, my brethren, bear olives? either a vine, figs? so can no fountain both yield salt water and fresh.

13 Who<sup>o</sup> is a wise man and endued with knowledge among you? let him show out of a good conversation his works with meekness of wisdom.

A.M. cir. 4064.
A.D. cir. 60.

<sup>h</sup> ch. i. 26. Pr. 16. 27; 15. 1; 17. 4. Ro. 3. 13, 14. Ps. 5. 9; 64. 3; 149. 2. Mat. 15. 11-20. Mar. 7. 23, 25, 26-23. ver. 2. Ec. 7. 6.
<sup>6</sup> Gr. nature.
<sup>7</sup> Gr. the nature of man.
<sup>8</sup> The tongue cannot be 'tamed'; but as an agent of 'the body,' must be 'mortified,' Ro. viii.—C.
<sup>9</sup> See ver. 6. Ps. 55. 21; 57. 4; 59. 7; 58. 4; 64. 3, 4; 140. 3. 4. Ro. 3. 13, 14. Ec. 10. 11.
<sup>j</sup> Ps. 145. 21. Is. 29. 13.
<sup>k</sup> It is, when renewed by his Spirit.—C.
<sup>l</sup> It is, when renewed by God's Spirit, & led by our own.—C.
<sup>o</sup> Ge. i. 27; 9. 6. i Co. 11. 7.
<sup>p</sup> Ge. 49. 4. i Ki. 18. 21. Is. 48. 2. 4. Je. 7. 4, 9, 10. Mi. 3. 11. Lu. 6. 46. Ps. 50. 16. ver. 9.
<sup>2</sup> Or, hole.
<sup>3</sup> Mat. 7. 16-18; 12. 33. Lu. 6. 44. Ga. 5. 19-23.
<sup>4</sup> Ps. 107. 43. 110. 14. 9. Mat. 5. 10. Ep. 5. 8, 9, 15. Phil. 1. 27; 2. 15; 4. 8. Ro. xii. Col. iii. 1 Th. v. 1 Ti. 6. 11, 12. 2 Ti. 2. 22-25. Tit. 2. 11, 12; 3. 8, 14. ch. 1. 21; 18. 1 Pe. 3. 15.

* This verse is often misinterpreted. It is thought to signify that in the church, in society, in doctrine, there must be purity before there can be peace—before peace is allowable. The Greek has no such meaning. Paul gives the characteristics of those who are divinely wise in order—purity, peace, &c. Peace is as essential as purity, and compassion as essential as either.—P.

<sup>1</sup> Ge. 49. 4. i Ki. 18. 21. Is. 48. 2. 4. Je. 7. 4, 9, 10. Mi. 3. 11. Lu. 6. 46. Ps. 50. 16. ver. 9.
<sup>2</sup> Or, hole.
<sup>3</sup> Mat. 7. 16-18; 12. 33. Lu. 6. 44. Ga. 5. 19-23.
<sup>4</sup> Ps. 107. 43. 110. 14. 9. Mat. 5. 10. Ep. 5. 8, 9, 15. Phil. 1. 27; 2. 15; 4. 8. Ro. xii. Col. iii. 1 Th. v. 1 Ti. 6. 11, 12. 2 Ti. 2. 22-25. Tit. 2. 11, 12; 3. 8, 14. ch. 1. 21; 18. 1 Pe. 3. 15.

* This verse is often misinterpreted. It is thought to signify that in the church, in society, in doctrine, there must be purity before there can be peace—before peace is allowable. The Greek has no such meaning. Paul gives the characteristics of those who are divinely wise in order—purity, peace, &c. Peace is as essential as purity, and compassion as essential as either.—P.

A.M. cir. 4064.
A.D. cir. 60.

<sup>p</sup> Ro. 13. 13. 2 Co. 12. 20. Ga. 5. 15, 20, 21, 26. <sup>q</sup> Ro. 2. 17-23. 2 Ti. 3. 5. Je. 7. 4, 9. ch. i. 21. 1 Pe. 2. 1, 2.
<sup>r</sup> Je. 4. 22. 1 Co. 2. 7; 3. 3. Jude 19. Ga. 5. 19, 20. Phil. 3. 19. Ro. 8. 7.
<sup>s</sup> Or, natural.
<sup>t</sup> Ga. 5. 15, 20, 21, 26. 1 Co. 3. 3. ch. 4. 1.
<sup>u</sup> Gr. tumult or unquietness.
<sup>v</sup> Co. 2. 6, 7. ch. 1. 5. 17. Mat. 5. 7, 8. 1 Th. 4. 8. Lu. 6. 36. 1 Ti. 1. 5. Ro. 6. 9. 2 Co. 6. 6. Ga. 5. 22; 6. 9. He. 12. 4. 1 Th. 4. 3. 4. 9. ch. 1. 19, 21, 26, 27. 1 Pe. 1. 22; 2. 1. ch. 2. 1, 4.
<sup>w</sup> See note * in first column.
<sup>x</sup> Or, strangling.
<sup>y</sup> Pr. 11. 18. Is. 32. 17. Ho. 10. 12. 2 Co. 9. 10. Mat. 5. 9. Phil. 1. 11. 11. 12. 11.
<sup>z</sup> For the meaning of gospel 'righteousness,' see note on Ro. 4. 11; and for 'the fruit of righteousness,' see Ro. 5. 1, 2. C.

CHAP. IV.

<sup>a</sup> Ga. 5. 15, 20. Mat. 15. 19. Jn. 8. 44. 1 Ti. 6. 4. 9, 10. ch. 1. 14. Je. 17. 9. Ro. 8. 7. Ge. 6. 5. ch. 3. 14-18.
<sup>1</sup> Or, bravlings.
<sup>2</sup> Or, pleasures.
<sup>3</sup> Ro. 7. 23. Ga. 5. 17. 1 Pe. 2. 11.
<sup>4</sup> Hab. 2. 5. ch. 5. 3, 4. 6. 1 Ti. 6. 9, 10. Ec. 1. 8.
<sup>5</sup> Or, envy.
<sup>6</sup> ch. 1. 5. Phil. 4. 6. Is. 43. 23.
<sup>7</sup> Job 27. 9. Ps. 18. 41. Pr. 1. 28. Is. 1. 15. Mi. 3. 4. Zec. 7. 13. Je. 11. 14; 14. 12. Eze. 8. 11. Mat. 20. 22. Ps. 66. 18. with ch. 1. 5, 6. Ro. 8. 26. 1 Jn. 3. 22; 5. 14.
<sup>8</sup> Or, pleasures.

14 But if ye have <sup>p</sup>bitter envying and strife in your hearts, <sup>q</sup>glory not; and lie not against the truth.

15 This<sup>r</sup> wisdom descendeth not from above, but is earthly, sensual,<sup>3</sup> devilish.

16 For<sup>s</sup> where envying and strife is, there is confusion<sup>4</sup> and every evil work.

17 But<sup>t</sup> the wisdom that is from above is first pure,<sup>5</sup> then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality,<sup>6</sup> and without hypocrisy.

18 And<sup>u</sup> the fruit of righteousness<sup>7</sup> is sown in peace of them that make peace.

CHAPTER IV.

<sup>1</sup> We are to strive against covetousness, <sup>4</sup> intemperance, <sup>5</sup> pride, <sup>11</sup> detraction, and rash judgment of others: <sup>13</sup> and not to be confident in the good success of worldly business, but mindful ever of the uncertainty of this life, to commit ourselves and all our affairs to God's providence.

FROM whence<sup>a</sup> come wars and <sup>1</sup>fightings among you? come they not hence, even of your lusts<sup>2</sup> that<sup>b</sup> war in your members?

2 Ye<sup>c</sup> lust, and have not: ye kill,<sup>3</sup> and desire to have, and cannot obtain: ye fight and war, yet ye have not, because ye <sup>d</sup>ask not.

3 Ye<sup>e</sup> ask, and receive not, because ye ask amiss, that ye may consume it upon your <sup>4</sup>lusts.

created after the image of God, in knowledge, righteousness, and holiness, and are still formed in some likeness to him in the natural faculties of their soul; and many of them, by his grace, renewed after his image in regeneration.—Nothing can be more contrary to our Christian obligations, profession, and character, or even more unnatural and absurd in itself. 13. If any of you therefore would approve yourselves to God, and show yourselves to the world as truly wise and prudent, and endowed with a true knowledge of yourselves, of Christ, and of God, his laws and ways, let them earnestly practise all manner of good works in the whole course of their conversation, with a meek and humble spirit. 14. But never be fond or boast of envious, quarrelsome, and contentious dispositions and designs, which will torment your souls, and sting and wound others, and are directly contrary to the meek and humble spirit of the gospel. Never dare, either in thought, word, or deed, to varnish over such wickedness, or to pretend to sincerity and prudence in indulging it; 15, 16. For, think as you will, this wisdom springs not from, nay, is detested by God, and arises from an excessively earthly and sensual inclination to worldly enjoyments, and is excited by the devil, bears his image, delights his heart, and promotes his mischievous designs and interests; for whenever an envious, censorious, and litigious spirit is indulged, and breaks forth in words, it tends to disturb and destroy the peace and happiness of a man's own soul, and of all about him, and leads to everything wicked. 17. But that heavenly and divine wisdom which God bestows leads men to a strict regard to purity of doctrine and manners, in heart, speech, and behaviour; it disposes to peacefulness, mildness, and courteousness in our treatment of others; it renders our mind open to conviction, easily persuaded to that which is good, and attentive to all considerations, forward to condescension and forbearance, and inclined to acts of kindness and compassion to the poor and afflicted; it renders us impartial and generous in judging and condemning of others; and sincere, free from any allowed dissimulation. 18. And this righteous, holy, and peaceable temper and conversation, by the grace of God, issues in our own and our neighbour's happiness in this world, and in our everlasting happiness and peace hereafter.

Ver. 2. Perfect, in its absolute sense, is applicable to God alone; in its comparative sense, it is the highest endowment of man, the chiefest grace of the Spirit. See it prophetically described as a special mark of the Messiah, Is. 42. 19.

Ver. 6. The course of nature. The whole circle of human life from boyhood to old age, which, unless delivered from the power of Satan, and kept by the power of God, is continually excited by surmises, misrepresentations, falsehoods, and calumnies, whereby the fires of jealousy, envy, wrath, and malice, are continually fed, and frequently blown into a fierce and devouring flame. C.

REFLECTIONS.—An assuming, arrogant, and censorious temper fearfully presages our future condemnation to hell. And the deeper sense we have of our own sinfulness and weakness, the less rash shall we be in condemning others.—It is very honourable and advantageous for Christians to have grace to govern their tongue. But how hard to rule it! and yet, if ungoverned, it kindles and spreads infinite and eternal mischiefs all around. Scarcely can anything be more inconsistent with the character of a Christian, more dishonourable to God, or more ruinous to men, than an unbridled tongue, and an envious malicious heart.—But great is the excellency of true and spiritual wisdom, in its origin, nature, properties, and fruits.

CHAPTER IV. Ver. 1-3. To dissuade you from a carnal and wrathful temper, seriously think how all the strifes and contentions which prevail among you take their rise from indulged lusts; and how the indulgence of corrupt affections renders your very prayers altogether unsuccessful, and wicked in their principles, motives, and ends. 4. And remember that whosoever of you professed Christians indulge such eager appetites after the pleasures and enjoyments of this world as alienate your hearts from God, are guilty of an adulterous breach of covenant with him, and of admitting his rival into your heart instead of him; for an excessive fondness for the things of this world, and of conformity to worldly men, stands in direct opposition to the holy nature and will of God, and is utterly inconsistent with that supreme love and affection which ye owe to him. 5. Do ye think the Scriptures of the Old Testament unworthy of your regard, which so strongly remonstrate against pride, envy, and covetousness, and represent our inward corruptions as so impetuous in their pursuits after earthly things, as to make us envy every one who hath more than ourselves?—Or do ye think that the Spirit of God, who dwelleth in all of us who are true believers, would excite such a worldly disposition in us! 6. No, he, and God by him, increases our humility, self-denial, love, and goodness, and thus disengages us from the gratification of corrupt affections; and therefore, to encourage our hopes and prayers for all needful assistance, he declares in his Word that he sets himself to oppose and debase them who are ambitious, haughty, self-conceited, and self-sufficient, placing their whole confidence and happiness in the things of this life, or in their own wisdom, strength, or deserts; but freely bestows more and more grace, comfort, and blessings, upon such as have humble thoughts of themselves, and of the emptiness of all earthly enjoyments, and place their whole happiness in himself. 7. In humble dependence therefore on his free favour and gracious influence, yield up yourselves obedientially and unreservedly to his direction, disposal, authority, and will, manifested in his Word and providence, and be content with such things as ye have. And if Satan, by subtle devices or furious temptations, attempts to dishearten you in or draw you off from the ways of duty, give not place to him, but exercise all your graces in opposition to him, and he will flee from you as a conquered enemy. 8. And if ye would maintain your ground, prevail against and get rid of temptations; be much employed in humble and fiducial approaches to God, through Christ, in the way of duty, and he will graciously come near to you, directing, relieving, and comforting you according to his promise. And whereas, through the influence of Satan and your own hearts, some of you have rendered yourselves notorious sinners before God, see that by faith ye apply the Word, blood, and Spirit of Christ for your purification, and beg of him to reform you from violence, murder, extortion, bribery, and other like wickedness of practice; and to purge your hearts from pride, envy, covetousness, and other indwelling lusts, and so thoroughly renew you in heart and life, that your cares and services may no longer be divided between him and the world. 9, 10. Instead of that jollity, mirth, and gaiety with which ye have shamefully gratified your sensual appetites, apply yourselves to deep penitential sorrow and evangelical religious mourning, on account of your provocations, and for fear of God's judgments—deeply humbling yourselves before him, whom ye have so often and so highly offended, and who knows and principally regards the secret workings of your hearts; and he, in his own time and way, will revive your drooping souls with a sense of his pardoning and the influence of his recovering grace, and will raise you above all your fears and troubles, and exalt you to honour and comfort in this world, and to immortal glory in the next. 11. And always carefully avoid rash censuring and reviling of one another, aggravating and needlessly exposing one another's infirmities, or raising and propagating false reports to each other's prejudice; for, if ye slander, rashly judge, and condemn your neighbours or fellow-Christians, ye practically condemn the wisdom, equity, and holiness of God's law, which forbids such conduct, and perhaps allows what you condemn; and if once ye pretend to censure God's law, ye plainly renounce all obedience to it, and exalt yourselves as judges above it. 12. When the almighty God, who has infinite power and authority to reward the obedient 4 Ye<sup>9</sup> adulterers and adulteresses,<sup>5</sup> know ye not that <sup>h</sup>the friendship of the world is enmity with God? whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God.

5 Do ye think that the scripture saith in vain, The<sup>i</sup> spirit that dwelleth in us lusteth <sup>6</sup>to envy?<sup>7</sup>

6 But he giveth more grace. Wherefore he saith, <sup>8</sup>God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace unto the humble.

7 Submit<sup>k</sup> yourselves therefore to God. <sup>9</sup>Resist the devil, and he will flee from you.

8 Draw<sup>n</sup> nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. <sup>10</sup>Cleanse your hands, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double-minded.

9 Be<sup>n</sup> afflicted, and mourn, and weep: let your laughter be turned to mourning, and your joy to heaviness.

10 Humble<sup>a</sup> yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up.

11 Speak<sup>r</sup> not evil one of another, brethren. He that speaketh evil of his brother, and judgeth his brother, speaketh evil of the law,<sup>8</sup> and judgeth the law: but if thou judge the law, thou art not a doer of the law, but a judge.

12 There<sup>s</sup> is one lawgiver,<sup>9</sup> who is able to save and to destroy: <sup>10</sup>who art thou that judgest another?

13 Go<sup>* to</sup> now, ye that say, To-day or to-morrow we will go into such a city, and continue there a year, and buy and sell, and get gain:

14 Whereas, ye know not what shall be on the morrow. <sup>11</sup>For what is your life? It is<sup>1</sup> even a vapour, that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away.

15 For that ye ought to say, <sup>12</sup>If the Lord will, we shall live, and do this, or that.

16 But<sup>7</sup> now ye rejoice in your boastings: all such rejoicing is evil.

17 Therefore<sup>z</sup> to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin.

A.M. cir. 4064.
A.D. cir. 60.

A.M. cir. 4064.
A.D. cir. 60.

g Ps.73.27. Mat. 12.39;16.4.
5 See note * below.
h Jn.15.19;17.14. Ro.8.7. Ga.1.10. 1 Jn.2.15,16. Ps.17.14.
i Ge.6.5;8.21. Nu.11.29. Pr.21.10. Ec.4.4.
8 Or, curiously.
7 There is no such passage in Scripture as seems here to be a quotation. The difficulty, however, may be removed by a slight change in the punctuation: 'Think ye that the Scripture speaketh in vain? (in condemning friendship with the world). Doth the spirit that hath dwelt in us incline to envy?' On the contrary (for so the de may properly be translated), he giveth more grace.'

j Job 22.29. Pr. 3.34; 29.23. Mat.23.12. 1 Pe.5.5. Lu.1.51,52; 14.11; 18.14. Ps.138.6.

k La. 3.27. 2 Ch. 30.8.1 Sa.3.18. 2 Sa.15.20. Job 1.21.

l Ep. 4.27;6.11,12. 1 Pe.5.8,9. Re.12.11.

n Is.1.18;55.7. 2 Ch.15.2. Je.29.12;13. Ho.6.1,2. Ps.145.18;34.15,17;73.28. Zec.1.3. Mal.3.7.

o Ps.26.6. Is.1.15,16. 1 Ti.2.8. Je.4.14. Mat.23.26. ch.1.8.21. 1 Ki.18.21. 1 Jn.3.3.

p Ps.119.136. Mat.5.4. Je.1.18. Lize.6.9;7.10;16.63. ch.5.11.

q Job 22.29. Lu. 14.11. 1 Pe.5.6. Ps.10.17. Pr.29.23. Mat.18.4;23.12. Lu.18.14.

r Ep.4.31. 1 Pe.2.1. Tit.2. Mat.7.1. Lu.6.37. Ro.2.13. Co.4.5.

s Speaketh evil of the law—as of a power unworthy of obedience; 'and judgeth' condemneth 'the law,' as requiring too much, or commending something wrong or unnecessary.—C.

t Is.33.22. Mat. 10.28.

9 There is one Lawgiver. But if you 'speak evil of his law,' you speak evil of him; if you 'judge his law,' you usurp his prerogative.—C.

7 Mat.7.1,2. Ro.14.42.1.

u Pr.27.1. Lu.12.18—20.

v Job 7.7. Pr.3.28;27.1. Is.40.6. 1 Co.7.31. ch.1.10. 1 Pe.1.24. 1 Jn.2.17. Job 14.1.

1 Or, For it is.

x Ac.18.21. Ro.1.10. 1 Co.4.19; 16.7. Phi.2.24. He.6.3.

y 1 Co.5.2,6. Is.47.7. 8.10. Re.18.7. Ps.52.1.

z 1 Lu.12.47,48. Jn.9.41; 15.22. Ro.1.20,21,32;2.17,18,23.

* Ye adulterers, &c., must, from the context, be understood as descriptive of such a forsaking of God, through love of the world, as is described, condemned, and punished (Ho. ii., &c.), that backsliders, being chastened, may be graciously restored to 'their first love.'—C.

CHAP. V.

a Pr.10.15;11.28. Am.6.7. Lu.6.24. ver.6; ch.2.6;4.9. Is.22.12,13. 1 Ti.6.9,10.

b Je.17.11. Mat.6.19,20. Job 13.28. Is.51.8. Ho.5.12.

c Ps.21.9. Is.30.27;33.11. Ro.2.5.

d Le.19.13. De.24.14,15. Job 24.10,11. Je.22.13. Is.5.7. Ex.22.23,27. Hab.2.11. Mal.3.5.

e Job 21.13. Ps.73.7;119.69,70. Ec.11.9. Is.5.11,12;22.13;47.8. Je.5.8. Am.6.4—6. Lu.16.19,25. 1 Ti.5.6.

f Pr.7.14;17.1. Is.2.13. Eze.39.17.

h Mat.23.34,37;35.29. Jn.16.2. 1 Th.2.15. He.10.32—34; 11.36,37.

i He (Jesus the just one) doth not resist you now—but the day is at hand, ver.8.

j He.11.36;12.1. Ro.5.3,4;8.25;15.4. Ga.5.5; 6.2. 2 Th.1.3. ver.8.—C.

2 Or, Be long patient, or Suffer with long patience.

7 De.11.14. Je.5.24. Ho.6.3. Joel 2.23. Zec.10.1.

k ver.7. 1 Co.10.11,12. Phi.4.5. He.10.25—37. 1 Pe.4.7. Re.22.20.

3 Gr. Groan or Grieve not, ch.4. 11. Ga.5.14,20,26.

l Mat.24.33. 1 Co.10.11. Phi.4.5. Re.3.20; 22.12,20;16.15.

m Mat.15.12;23.34. 37. He.11.35—38.

o ch.1.12. Da.12.12. Mat.5.10,11. He.10.36; 11.25. Ps.94.12.

p Job 1.21,22; 42.10—12.

q Ps.103.13. Is.63.7,9. Joel 2.18. 2 Ch.30.9. Ne.9.17,31. Ps.103.8; 116.5; 117.2. Je.3.12.

Joel 2.13. Lu.6.36. Nu.14.18. Mi.7.18.

r Mat.5.34—37;23.16,20. 2 Co.1.17,18, with Ex.20.7. De.5.11.

4 Profane swearing is one of the most common and palpable forms of sin in the East. The very language is polluted by it. One seldom hears a sentence uttered, or sees one written in any ordinary book, without some form of oath or imprecation.

One never hears a simple affirmative from an Arab; it is always accompanied by an oath—often by a form of imprecation that makes one shudder. It was this wicked practice, no doubt, which called forth the solemn command of James.—P.

CHAPTER V.

1 Wicked rich men are to fear God's wrath. 7 We ought to be patient in afflictions, after the example of the prophets, and Job; 12 to forbear swearing, 13 to pray in adversity, to sing in prosperity: 16 to acknowledge mutually our several faults, to pray one for another, 19 and to reduce a straying brother to the truth.

GO to<sup>a</sup> now, ye rich men, weep and howl for your miseries that shall come upon you.

2 Your<sup>b</sup> riches are corrupted, and your garments are moth-eaten.

3 Your<sup>c</sup> gold and silver is cankered; and the rust of them shall be a witness against you, and shall eat your flesh as it were fire. Ye have heaped treasure together for the last days.

4 Behold,<sup>d</sup> the hire of the labourers who have reaped down your fields, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth, and the cries of them which have reaped are entered into the ears of the Lord of sabaoth.

5 Ye<sup>e</sup> have lived in pleasure on the earth, and been wanton; ye have nourished your hearts, as in <sup>9</sup>a day of slaughter.

6 Ye<sup>h</sup> have been condemned and killed the just; and he doth not resist you.<sup>1</sup>

7 Be<sup>i</sup> patient<sup>2</sup> therefore, brethren, unto the coming of the Lord. Behold, the husbandman waiteth for the precious fruit of the earth, and hath long patience for it, until he receive <sup>3</sup>the early and latter rain.

8 Be<sup>k</sup> ye also patient; stablish your hearts: for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh.

9 Grudge not<sup>3</sup> one against another, brethren, lest ye be condemned: <sup>4</sup>behold, the Judge standeth before the door.

10 Take, my brethren, the prophets, who have spoken in the name of the Lord, <sup>5</sup>for an example of suffering affliction, and of patience.

11 Behold,<sup>6</sup> we count them happy which endure. <sup>7</sup>Ye have heard of the patience of Job, and have seen the end of the Lord; that <sup>8</sup>the Lord is very pitiful, and of tender mercy.

12 But<sup>r</sup> above all things, my brethren, <sup>4</sup>swear

and punish the disobedient, is the alone Lawgiver and Lord of men's consciences, who can enact and execute laws as he pleases, how presumptuous is it for you, foolish, weak, fallible, and sinful creatures, to take upon you to judge and condemn any for that in which they are accountable only to God? 13, 14. And why are any of you so self-sufficient, and insensible of your dependence on him, as to promise yourselves long life or prosperity, and much trade on earth, without regard to him, when you, and all that you have, are in the most precarious and uncertain condition, entirely dependent on his sovereign will and providence, and may suddenly and unawares be cut off. 15—17. Nothing ought therefore to be either projected or pursued by you but in express submission to the favour, direction, assistance, and blessing of God; and your sinful and confident boasting, as if your life and transactions were independent of him, is extremely unchristian and shameful; and it is the more aggravated in your case, as the Scripture, as well as your own consciences, certainly testify to you that an humble and submissive manner of forming and declaring your intentions is alone right and good, acceptable to God, and suited to the relations in which he stands to you.

REFLECTIONS.—What dreadful work do the lusts of pride, covetousness, and envy make in the world! They create contention and strife in societies, religious or civil, or even in a man's own mind; excite wicked desires and attempts; lead to the neglect of prayer, or sinful and carnal requests; and produce an adulterous alienation of the heart from God, by an undue attachment to the world. Very hateful are they to God, contrary to the influences of his Spirit, and inconsistent with our dependence on him, either as men or Christians.—Extensive is the work of a Christian. Humbly should he submit to and hold familiar fellowship with God; resolutely guard against and resist the temptations of Satan; purify his heart and conversation, by a believing improvement of Jesus' Word, Spirit, and blood; humbly bewail and repent of his sinfulness; guard against all reviling or rash censuring of others, from a regard to God's authority; and in all his ways acknowledge and resignedly depend on his sovereign will.

CHAPTER V. Ver. 1. Be alarmed, ye rich, unbelieving Jews. Dreadful calamities shall quickly overtake you except ye repent, and bereave you of whatever you have on earth, yea, of life itself, in the general destruction of your nation; which shall also be followed with inexpressibly more dreadful miseries in hell. 2, 3. Your ill-gotten and ill-employed treasures being cursed of God, instead of profiting you in the day of his wrath, shall, by the loss of them, torment your minds; shall tempt your enemies to ravage your country, pillage your houses, and murder your persons; and shall occasion you more terrible torments in hell. 4. The Most High, who ruleth over all creatures, has heard the complaints of your poor labourers, whom ye have fraudulently deprived of their wages, and will render that which ye have unjustly withheld from them a plague and mean of terrible destruction to yourselves. 5, 6. Ye have luxuriously and sensually rioted on the bounties of God's providence, as if every day had been a festival; and, under pretence of law, have condemned and murdered the righteous Lord Jesus and many of his faithful servants, who never offered you the least violence or injury. But the time is at hand when God shall fully punish these and your other abominations.—7, 8. As God therefore permits and overrules these unrighteous persecutions for the trial of your faith and patience, do you, my Christian brethren, labour to bear them without murmuring at his holy hand therein; and with patience, meekness, fortitude, and calm composure of mind, steadfast faith, and resolution to bear testimony for him and his ways, wait till the Lord Jesus, by executing his purpose on your nation, deliver you from their cruel persecutions, and, by death and the last judgment, usher in your complete and everlasting happiness. 9. And since he, the great Judge of the world, is so ready to punish your persecutors, let none of you expose yourselves to a share in their condemnation and punishment, by venting any envious, fretful, and revengeful not, neither by heaven, neither by the earth, neither by any other oath: but let your yea be yea, and your nay, nay; lest ye fall into condemnation.

13 Is<sup>s</sup> any among you afflicted? let him pray. Is any merry? <sup>4</sup>let him sing psalms.<sup>5</sup>

14 Is any sick among you? let him call for the<sup>u</sup> elders of the church; and let them pray over him, <sup>u</sup>anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord:

15 And<sup>r</sup> the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and <sup>u</sup>if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him.

16 Confess<sup>r</sup> your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed.

A.M. cir. 4064.
A.D. cir. 60.

<sup>s</sup> Ps. 50. 15; 91. 15. Mat. 26. 38, 39. 2 Ch. 33. 12. Jonah 2. 2.
<sup>7</sup> Ep. 5. 19. Col. 3. 16, 17.
<sup>8</sup> The connection between this injunction and the preceding appears to be this, that when their feelings were excited either by deep sorrow or great joy, they were not, as is common in the East, to give expression to clamorous and profane exclamations, but they were to conduct themselves in a calm and rational manner, such as became followers of Christ.—P.
<sup>u</sup> 1 Ti. 5. 17. 1 Pe. 5. 1.
<sup>7</sup> Mar. 6. 13; 16. 18, with 1 Co. 12. 28, 30.
<sup>s</sup> Ps. 50. 15; 91. 15; 18. 6; 34. 6; 116. 8. Jn. 5. 19; 9. 2, 3. 1 Co. 11. 30–32.
<sup>y</sup> Is. 33. 24. Mat. 9. 2. 1 Jn. 5. 14. 1 Co. 11. 36.
<sup>z</sup> Ac. 19. 18. Mat. 18. 15, 16. 1 Ti. 2. 1. Ep. 6. 18–20.

A.M. cir. 4064.
A.D. cir. 60.

<sup>a</sup> Ge. 20. 17; 32. 28. Ex. 15. 25; 17. 11; xxxii. –xxxiv. Nu. 11. 2; 14. 20. 1 Ki. 13. 6; 17. 21, 22. 2 Ki. 4. 4, 33. 2 Ch. 14. 11, 12; 32. 20, 21. Ps. 34. 15, 19. 9. 18. Pr. 15. 29. Ho. 12. 4. Jn. 9. 31. 1 Jn. 3. 22. Mat. 7. 7–11; 21. 22. Is. 45. 11. Da. 2. 18. Ps. 10. 17; 107. 6, 13, 28; 145. 18, 19. Je. 15. 1.
<sup>b</sup> Ac. 14. 15; 10. 26.
<sup>6</sup> That is, Elias was human, with human weakness, and failings, and sins. He was naturally no better, and inherently no greater, than other men. His power with God, therefore, did not arise from anything in himself as man, but from his faith and implicit trust in God.—P.
<sup>c</sup> 1 Ki. 17. 1. Re. 11. 6.
<sup>7</sup> Or, in prayer.
<sup>8</sup> Sins of the person saved, which are covered by the blood of Christ, in whom he has been led to believe—also sins of the person who prays.—P.

<sup>a</sup>The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much.

17 Elias was a man <sup>b</sup>subject to like passions as we are,<sup>6</sup> and <sup>c</sup>he prayed earnestly<sup>7</sup> that it might not rain; and it rained not on the earth by the space of three years and six months.

18 And <sup>d</sup>he prayed again, and the heaven gave rain, and the earth brought forth her fruit.

19 Brethren, <sup>e</sup>if any of you do err from the truth, and one convert him;

20 Let him know, that he which converteth the sinner from the error of his way <sup>f</sup>shall save a soul from death, and shall <sup>h</sup>hide a multitude of sins.<sup>8</sup>

<sup>d</sup> 1 Ki. 18. 42–45.

<sup>e</sup> Mat. 18. 15, 16. De. 22. 1, 2. Le. 19. 16, 17.

<sup>f</sup> Ro. 11. 14. 1 Co. 9. 22. 1 Ti. 4. 16. Jude 23.

<sup>h</sup> Pr. 10. 12. 1 Pe. 4. 8. Ps. 32. 1.

complaints or wishes against them for the injuries they do you. 10, 11. And to encourage you to such a becoming conduct, reflect much on the behaviour of the ancient prophets under their sore trials—with what patience and courage they endured the manifold persecutions which they suffered for adherence to the truth. And learn, especially from the singular afflictions of Job, his marvellous patience under them, and the merciful issue thereof in redoubled honours and happiness, what a God of infinite compassion and kindness ye have to uphold you under, carry you through, and give you the blessed fruits of all your trials and afflictions. 12. As your unbelieving brethren are so dreadfully addicted to that unprofitable, Heaven-daring, and soul-ruinous sin of profane swearing, I beseech you earnestly to guard against every rash, passionate, or unnecessary oath, whether by God himself or by his creatures; and let your whole conversation be so evidently honest and upright that your plain affirmation or denial may gain you sufficient credit. 13. If any of you be in afflicted circumstances, let him exercise himself much in solemn and fervent prayer, for support under, relief from, and a sanctified improvement of them. And if any be surrounded with the blessings of providence and grace, let him express his gratitude to the God of his mercies in cheerful thanksgivings and praises. 14, 15. If any of you appear to have any bodily distemper inflicted on him, as the punishment of some remarkable sin, let him desire the rulers of the church, especially such as are vested with miraculous powers, to meet together and pray over him; and let them, in the name and authority of the Lord Jesus, from regard to his appointment, and in dependence on his influence, anoint him with oil, as a mean of his recovery; and in answer to their prayer of faith Jesus Christ shall render the means effectual for his relief, and shall, through the man's own exercise of faith in his blood, pardon the sinful cause of the trouble, as to its temporal or eternal punishment. 16–18. Always show a readiness to acknowledge whatever offences you have given one to another, or even other sins which lie heavy on your consciences, in order that ye may cheerfully forgive, sympathize with, and affectionately and earnestly pray for each other, as your distresses of body or mind require. And to encourage your fervent prayer for one another, observe, from the miraculous drought or rain procured by Elijah's prayer, what a wonderful power and success the prayer of true and lively saints hath, when, under the influence of the Holy Ghost, it is excited, conducted, and animated by a sacred warmth of heart. 19, 20. And if any of you are successful in your endeavours for the recovery of some apostate or backslider from the truth, and from his erroneous notions or sinful practices, thank God for it, as a high honour, that thereby you are made instrumental in the salvation of an immortal soul, in recovering him from spiritual and eternal destruction, and in leading a neighbour into the way of life, pardon, and peace; and thereby preventing a multitude of sins which he and others, tempted by his example and influence, would have committed.

Ver. 1. Ye rich men. Not those who are rich, and have learned to use their riches, but those who trust in riches, live in luxury, and forget their God. C.

Ver. 2. Riches. Not silver or gold, but 'corn, and wine, and oil,' the emblems of luxury, 'corrupted' through keeping for revelry, instead of being timeously distributed in generous charity, ver. 5. C.

Ver. 5. As in a day of slaughter. When all your vengeful passions being let loose, ye revelled in the death of the defenceless. C.

Ver. 7. Be patient. The simple mention of the word 'patient' shows that the apostle is addressing the sufferers. C.

Ver. 14. This 'anointing' was evidently the symbol of miraculous healing, for the person prayed for was to be certainly 'raised up' as evidence that the sin of which the sickness was the punishment was as certainly forgiven as the disease was healed, 1 Co. 11. 29, 30; Mar. 2. 5, 10, 11. Therefore, to continue the ordinance of anointing without the miraculous power, and for the purpose of healing, is an act of wilful perversion, and not of divine obedience. C.

Ver. 16. Confess, &c. This mutual confession is as general as mutual prayer; and to confine confession to him who is called priest, as the Romanists do, is, by consequence, to confine prayer for the sick to him also: an absurdity this against which nature and revelation equally protest.—Effectual fervent prayer. Rather, 'the earnest supplication.' Some would render it 'the inwrought prayer'—inwrought by the Spirit; but all Christian prayer must be so, Ro. 8. 26, 27; and there appears no sufficient authority for such translation, nor does the context point to it. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Worldly riches are an unavoidable snare to a covetous carnal heart. Often are they abused in luxury and oppression, and hasten their owners into eternal perdition. For the cries of the poor and oppressed infallibly draw down the vengeance of Heaven upon their oppressors. There is great need of patience in this world, where wickedness and distress abound. Nor, as repeated instances manifest, can anything issue more honourably or happily.—It is base and criminal for any, but especially professed Christians, to swear rashly, ignorantly, unrighteously, or in common conversation.—But very honourable is it to accommodate our religion to our lot; to give ourselves to effectual fervent prayers for ourselves and others; to be always ready humbly to acknowledge our own faults, and carefully to prevent or reclaim our neighbours from sin. Lord, if this be practical Christianity, how little of it is to be found on earth!

CONCLUDING REMARKS ON THE GENERAL EPISTLE OF JAMES.

The abrupt termination of this epistle, so unlike the apostolic formality of its opening, has led many to conclude that it was never finished, but was cut short by the sudden martyrdom of the apostle. The conjecture is a probable one, and, whether accurate or not, may well serve to remind every man to 'work while it is called to-day.'

The mind of the attentive reader can scarcely fail to be struck with the peculiarity of the style, which may be called catenated: that is, the third verse, by the word 'trying,' is linked, as it were, into the second, by the word 'temptations;' the fourth into the third verse by the word 'patience;' the fifth into the fourth by the words 'wanting' and 'lack,' &c.—a peculiarity that continues to be largely exemplified throughout the whole epistle. Nor are peculiarities without their value. (1) Peculiarities of style are well suited to peculiarities of minds; and he that may be little impressed with one mode of diction, may have his attention rivetted by another. In this respect nature and revelation agree. Nature presents an object of study and interest to every peculiarity of taste—a similar variety is presented in the teaching of the Spirit. (2) Peculiarities of style serve to demonstrate that the apostles were not imitators of each other; and, if compared with all pretended revelations—in which the stamp of one mind, or the concerted plan of two or more, is easily and certainly detected—the mere variety of Scripture style will go far to prove that the writers have delivered no 'cunningly devised fable.' That they wrote independently of each other, at different times and places, and with different objects, while yet their agreement is such, and so complete, that it can be rationally accounted for upon no other principle than that they wrote under the guidance of one common Spirit. (3) The apparent discrepancy between Paul and James, on the subject of justification by faith, will also serve, when carefully examined, to illustrate the same fact—the most accurate agreement without the possibility of concert;—for had there been concert, there could never have been such an approach to apparent contradiction; while it will further demonstrate the wisdom of God in the progressive development of the Scriptures, whereby the obscurities of one book are illustrated by the light of another, and the misapprehension or abuse of one doctrine corrected by a practical commentary, so soon as the misapprehension or abuse had budded, and before it could take root in the field of the church. C.

THE FIRST EPISTLE GENERAL OF ## PETER.

Peter had been originally a fisherman in Galilee, but was among the first called by Jesus Christ to be one of his attendants and missionaries. About A.D. 35 or 66 he wrote this first epistle to the Jewish converts scattered through Lesser Asia, or other parts of the Roman empire, and the second about two years after. The scope of the first is, (1) To establish them in the faith of Christ, and to comfort them under their severe persecutions, ch. i.; 2. 1-8. (2) To direct and animate them to an honourable, conscientious, and edifying behaviour in a faithful discharge of all the duties of their civil or family relations, ch. 2. 9-25; 3. 1-7; and to the exercise of brotherly love, personal holiness, and a faithful discharge of their respective duties in the church, ch. 3. 8-22; iv. v. The scope of the second is to represent how gospel privileges and revelations ought to be improved in a growth in holiness of heart and life, ch. i.; to warn them against the seduction of false teachers, and all apostasy from the truth, ch. ii.: and to represent the proper preparation for Christ's appearance to destroy the Jewish nation, and to judge the world, ch. iii.

[That Simon Peter, or Cephas, the son of Jonas,—originally a fisherman of Galilee, and called to be an apostle of our Lord—was the author of this epistle has always been admitted; and its genuineness and canonical authority are confirmed by its being referred to or quoted by Polybius, Clemens Romanus, the Martyrs of Lyons, Theophilus of Antioch, Papias, Irenæus, Clemens Alexandrinus, and Tertullian. It is addressed to 'the strangers scattered abroad,' more literally to 'the strangers of the dispersion,' which seems peculiarly to point to the Jews (see also ch. 2. 9-12; 4. 3, 4) as the special objects of his ministry, Ga. 2. 7, 8. In matter and object it is nearly akin to the epistle of James; adverting to the persecutions by which the Christians were assailed, and exhorting to patience, perseverance, and holiness. Of the history of Peter, subsequent to his residence at Antioch, A.D. 46, nothing is related in the New Testament. Jerome, however, states that he suffered martyrdom at Rome, in the end of the reign of Nero, A.D. 67 or 68; and that his remains were interred in that city, near the triumphal way;—a statement corroborated by Procopius, Hist. p. 195. On the other hand it has been argued, from the internal evidence of the Acts and Epistles, as well as from the want of sufficient external authority from early history, that Peter never was at Rome. But such historical questions are of little importance to him whose 'religion is the Bible,' and who seeks for the marks and authority of the true church of Christ, not in the 'vain traditions' of uninspired men, but in the imperishable records of inspired evangelists and apostles. See Jn. 20. 30, 31; 1 Ti. 3. 16, 17. In the course of the epistle, the apostle alludes to the following portions of the Old Testament:—Ge. 6. 7; 18. 12; Ex. 19. 5, 6; De. 7. 6; Is. 10. 12; 28. 16; 40. 6, 8; 48. 9, 10; liii.; 57. 15; 61. 6; Je. 23. 22; Eze. 9. 6; 34. 4; Da. 2. 44; 8. 13; 9. 26; Ho. 1. 9, 10; Hag. 2. 7; Zec. 13. 9. C.]

CHAPTER I.

1 He blesseth God for his manifold spiritual graces: 10 showing that the salvation in Christ is no news, but a thing prophesied of old: 13 and exhorteth them accordingly to a godly conversation, inasmuch as they are now born anew by the word of God.

PETER,<sup>a</sup> an apostle of Jesus Christ, to <sup>b</sup>the strangers scattered throughout Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia,

2 Elect<sup>c</sup> according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, <sup>d</sup>through sanctification of the Spirit, <sup>e</sup>unto obedience and sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ: <sup>f</sup>Grace unto you, and peace, be multiplied.

3 Blessed<sup>h</sup> be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which <sup>i</sup>according to his abundant<sup>1</sup> mercy <sup>j</sup>hath begotten us again unto a lively hope <sup>k</sup>by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead,

CHAPTER I. Ver. 1, 2. I, Simon Peter, whom Jesus Christ has constituted his inspired messenger, especially to my own countrymen—to you my Jewish fellow-Christians, dispersed by divine providence through the several countries of Lesser Asia, whom God the Father has, through faith in his Son, made partakers of eternal happiness, through the renovation of their hearts and lives by the Holy Ghost, and the application of Jesus' blood to their consciences for the remission of their sins,—wish the most diversified, manifest, abundant, and ever-increasing discoveries of God's free love and favour, and the fullest enjoyment of all prosperity, spiritual and temporal. 3, 4. Eternal and high praises, thanksgivings, and adorations, be to that great JEHOVAH, who is the God and Portion of our Lord Jesus Christ, as Man and Mediator, and his Father, as he is the second person in the Godhead—that, according to the wonderful riches and multitude of his free and tender mercy, he has, through the virtue of the death and resurrection of Christ, by his Spirit, made possible the principles of faith and hope, and every other saving grace, and thereby rendered us capable of and fitted for, as well as by adoption entitled to, an inexpressibly pure, permanent, rich inheritance of heavenly glory, inconceivably preferable to any in the earthly Canaan; and which, by the immutable purpose and promise of God, and the merits and intercession of Christ, is solely laid up in heaven for you who through faith accept Christ; 5. Who, notwithstanding your weakness, and the innumerable temptations and dangers which surround you, are, by God's almighty power, and through the continued exercise of faith on Christ and his Word, tenderly preserved in your gracious state, nature, and course, till you obtain the full and everlasting deliverance from all evil, and enjoyment of everything good, which shall be manifested in all the riches and delights thereof in the last judgment; 6. In the believing views and hopes of which preservation and eternal glory ye do, and may, and will hereafter, exceedingly rejoice and exult, though, in this present imperfect state of weakness, sin, and sorrow, if it be needful for God's glory and your own good, ye are grievously, though comparatively lightly, afflicted by a variety of trials from sin, Satan, the world, and your own weakness; 7. In order that your faith and other graces, after being proved genuine, and greatly excited, improved, and increased, may, at the appearance of Christ to destroy your nation, and especially to judge the world, be evidently and honourably manifested, approved, and graciously rewarded with honour and glory by him: 8. Whom, though ye never saw in the days of his humiliation on earth, yet, through the manifestations of him to you by his Word and Spirit, ye sincerely love, highly esteem, and delight in; and though he is at present quite beyond the reach of your bodily sight, yet, discerning, realizing, and appropriating him to yourselves, and trusting in him by faith, ye, in the most ravishing manner, rejoice, exult, and glory in his person, offices, relations, and fulness, and 9 Receiving<sup>t</sup> the end of your faith, even the salvation of your souls.

10 Of<sup>u</sup> which salvation the prophets have inquired and searched diligently,<sup>3</sup> who prophesied of the grace that should come unto you:

11 Searching what or what manner of time the<sup>v</sup> Spirit of Christ which was in them did signify, when it testified beforehand the sufferings of Christ, and the glory that should follow.

12 Unto whom it was revealed, that not unto themselves, but unto us, they did minister the things which are now reported unto you by them that have preached the gospel unto you with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven; which things the angels desire to look into.

13 Wherefore gird up the loins of your mind, be sober, and hope to the end<sup>4</sup> for the

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

1 Ro. 6.22. Ac. 15.11.
2 Ti. 1.12. with He. 11.
136.12.
u Mat. 13.17. Lu. 10.
24. Ge. 49.10. Da. 2.44;
9.3.24. Hag. 2.7. Zec. 9.
12.13.9.9. Mat. 3.14.2.
Mat. 11. 13. 2 Pe. 1.19.
21.

3 Searched diligently. Like miners searching for precious minerals, as the original implies.—C.

v ch. 3.18.19. 1 Co. 3.16. Ga. 4.6. Ro. 8.9. 2 Pe. 1.21.

x Ps. xxii. xxi. lxxix. lxxii. cx. cxviii. ls. lili. 52.13-15; liv. lxxvi. Da. 9.24. 26. Lu. 24.20.27. 44. Ac. 26.22.23.

y Da. 9.24; 12.9.13. He. 11.13.39.40.

z Jn. 15.26; 16.7-15. Ac. 2.4.33.4.8.31.10.44. 2 Co. 1.22. Joel 2.28.1s. 44.3-5. Pr. 1.23.

a Ex. 25.20. Ep. 3.10. Lu. 15.10. Da. 8.13; 12.5.6.

b Ex. 12.11. 1 Ki. 18.46. 2 Ki. 4.29. Job 38.3; 40.7. Is. 11.5. Je. 1.17. Lu. 12.35; 17.8. Ep. 6.14.

c Lu. 21.31. Ro. 13.13. 1 Th. 5.6. 2 Ti. 4.5. He. 3.6.14; 10.35. Tit. 2.12. 13.

4 Gr. perfectly.

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

d Ep. 1.6.7; 2.4-8. Ro. 5.21. ch. 3.7. ver. 7.2 Th. 1.7. 2 Ti. 4.8. He. 9.28.

e Ep. 4.1. 18.22; 2.2. Ro. 12.2. ch. 4.2.3. Tit. 3.3. Ac. 17.30.

f 1 Co. 1.9. 2 Ti. 1.9. ch. 2.9.2 Pe. 1.3.

h 2 Pe. 3.11.14.17.18; 1.4-10. 1 Th. 5.23; 4.7. Mat. 3.15.5.48. Ep. 5.4. 2. Phil. 1.27; 2.15. Lu. 1.74.75. 2 Co. 7.1. Tit. 2.12.3.8.14. He. 12.14.28; 13.9.

i Le. 11.44; 19.20.7. Mat. 5.48.

j Mat. 6.9; 7.7-11. Ep. 1.17.3.14.

k De. 10.17. 2 Ch. 19.7. Job 34.19. Mat. 3.9. Ac. 10.34.35. Ro. 2.10. 11. Ga. 2.6. Ep. 6.9. Col. 3.11.25. Ga. 2.6; 3.28.

l Ch. 29.15. Ps. 39.12. Jn. 15.19.17.16.2 Co. 5.6.7. 1. Phil. 2.12. He. 11.13.14.12.28. ch. 2.11.

m 1 Co. 6.19.20; 7.23. ver. 7. Ps. 49.7.

n Ro. 1.22. Eze. 20.18. Ac. 7.51.52. Ps. 94.13. 14.

o Is. 52.14.15; 53.4-12. Da. 9.24. Zec. 13.7. Mat. 20.28. Jn. 1.29.36. Ep. 1.7.5.2. Col. 1.14. 20. Ac. 20.28. He. 9.12. 14.10.12.14. 1 Ju. 1.7; 2.1. Re. 1.5; 5.9.7.14. ch. 2.22.24; 3.18. He. 4.15; 7.26. 1 Co. 5.7. Ex. 12.5.

<sup>d</sup> grace that is to be brought unto you at the revelation of Jesus Christ;

14 As<sup>e</sup> obedient children, not fashioning yourselves according to the former lusts in your ignorance:

15 But as he which <sup>g</sup> hath called you is holy, <sup>h</sup> so be ye holy in all manner of conversation;

16 Because it is written, <sup>i</sup> Be ye holy; for I am holy.

17 And if ye <sup>j</sup> deal on the Father, <sup>k</sup> who without respect of persons judgeth according to every man's work, <sup>l</sup> pass the time of your sojourning here in fear:

18 Forasmuch as ye know that <sup>m</sup> ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your <sup>n</sup> vain conversation received by tradition from your fathers;

19 But<sup>p</sup> with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot:

in the assured hopes of your eternal and immediate enjoyment of him, 9. Of which ye have already received the pledges, earnest, and beginnings, and which ye shall, in a little time, fully receive as a gracious reward, answerable to all the expectations of your faith—even the complete salvation and eternal happiness of your whole person, soul and body. 10. Into the nature, qualities, and circumstances of which complete and glorious salvation, the ancient prophets—who many ages ago foretold what rich and eminent blessings of light and grace, pardon, purity, peace, hope, and joy, should be manifested to and conferred upon you by the gospel—made the most diligent inquiry; 11. Searching out the particular circumstances and manner of those things which the Holy Ghost, proceeding from and imparted by Christ to them, had solemnly and infallibly declared concerning Jesus' incarnation, humiliation, exaltation, and work, and concerning the effusion of himself, the erection and state of the gospel church, and the holiness, comfort, and happiness of Christ's true members, as believing in his atoning sacrifice: 12. Unto whom it was suggested by the Holy Ghost, that, however much their own souls might be refreshed, and their faith supported by their predictions, yet they were not to be fulfilled in their times, or the blessings conferred on themselves, but on us who live under the New Testament dispensation, and to whom they are declared and offered by apostles and others, who publish the gospel of God's grace in all its light, liberty, grace, and glory; which has been divinely attested and confirmed by the plentiful outpouring of the Holy Spirit, in his gifts and graces, by our exalted Redeemer, according to his promise; and which unfolds things so excellent, profound, and engaging, that even the holy angels earnestly pry into the mysteries contained in it. 13. Having therefore such revelations and encouragements relative to future and eternal blessedness, never wax weary or faint in your minds, but, shaking off the cares and encumbrances of this life, moderating your appetites to and making a temperate use of the things of this world, with holy vigilance carefully maintain a sincere, unshaken, growing, and persevering trust and hope in Christ, to the end of your days, temptations, and conflicts; with joyful confidence and assured expectation of all that blessedness and glory of the heavenly state which is now graciously revealed in the gospel, and shall be freely bestowed upon you at his second coming. 14. Behave therefore answerably to your spiritual, high, and noble birth, privileges, and hopes, as children entirely subject to the authority of your heavenly Father; and never fall in with or conform yourselves to the corrupt inclinations, desires, schemes, principles, practices, language, and fashions of the men of this world, particularly in this degenerate age, as ye did formerly, while you remained under the power of your sinful lusts, ignorant of Christ and the gospel: 15, 16. But as God, who has called you by his grace into the faith and fellowship of his Son, is perfectly holy in his nature and conduct, study, according to his command, always, and in every relation and circumstance, to imitate him in the holiness of your hearts and lives.

17. And if, answerably to your religious profession, ye from the heart sincerely worship him as your Father in Christ, who, without regard to any external consideration, will impartially try and pass sentence on every man's work at the last day, see that ye maintain a holy and humble reverence of him, and fear of offending him, and a holy jealousy over your own hearts, while ye are travelling through this world, as pilgrims and strangers, to your better and eternal inheritance in heaven. 18-21. And ye ought to be the more earnest and courageous in this holy imitation and fear of God, since all you believers certainly know that your redemption, from the corrupt and defiling manners and customs handed down to you by your ancestors, was not purchased by the perishing riches of this present world, which can redeem from slavery and bondage among men, but by the infinitely more valuable obedience and sufferings of the pure and unspotted Son of God in our nature, whom he, from all eternity, being our Father, appointed to be our Mediator and Saviour, and has, in the end of the Jewish dispensation, and last age of the world, manifested in the flesh, and made to obey and suffer for your sins; who, through him, as your only Mediator, trust and hope in God as your reconciled God and Father—since, in testimony of his being fully satisfied with what his Son did and suffered for you, he has raised him from the dead, exalted him to his own right hand, and made him Head over all things to the church, that ye might be encouraged, through him, thus to trust in God, as reconciled in him, for all the blessings of grace and glory. 22. And since, through a believing acceptance of gospel truth, under the powerful influence of the Holy Ghost, ye have been enabled to mortify and subdue those corruptions which formerly defiled your souls, and to become holy in heart and life, and have been brought to a sincere and hearty affection to your fellow-Christians, see that ye daily more and more cultivate this brotherly kindness in all its genuine and substantial effects, with all the intense fervour of a regenerated heart purified by faith; 23. And as persons who are not merely the natural descendants of Abraham, but have new, vital, and incorruptible principles of grace and holiness implanted in you, by means of the incorruptible, quickening, and unchangeable word of the living, life-giving, and unchangeable God. 24, 25. For all fleshly descent, with its fairest fruits, all natural and acquired endowments, all external privileges, ornaments, and honours, are very unsubstantial and transient; but Christ, the essential Word, and the word of the Lord preached to you in the gospel, and the new creature produced by means of it, remain always the same in their nature and effects.

Ver. 2. Elect, not merely to 'the privileges of the gospel' (Bloomfield), but to 'salvation' on earth through 'the power of God,' and 'an inheritance incorruptible . . . reserved in heaven,' ver. 4-9. C.

Ver. 3. A living hope—a hope, as De Wette observes, which has life in itself, gives life, and looks for life as its object. This hope has for its foundation, its surety, its earnest, the resurrection of Christ. P.

Ver. 6. Wherein. In which circumstance of your preservation—as in a fortress—by the electing love and power of almighty God, 'ye greatly rejoice.'—If need be. Rather, 'since thus it is right' that your faith should be tried and purified. C.

Ver. 7. It seems probable from the reference to 'gold' that one great trial of the Christians' 'faith' was the loss of all their riches; and the nature of some of the subsequent exhortations evidently shows that before their conversion they had lived in much luxury and splendour: see ch. 3.3; 4.3, 4. But grace can enable the Christian either to use riches without abuse, or, if need be, for conscience' sake, to resign them without repining. C.

Ver. 11. What time. At what period of time.—What manner of time. Whether of prosperity or adversity in the Jewish or Gentile nations.—Note, This 'inquiry' and 'diligent search' must have been directed to the Scriptures, such as Da. 9.22-27—thus furnishing both an example and an encouragement to every humble, diligent, and prayerful student of 'the more sure word of prophecy.' C.

Ver. 12. Which things, &c. Rather, 'Upon which things the angels delight to look down.' Supposed to contain an allusion to the attitude of the cherubim at the mercy-seat. C.

Ver. 17. The construction of the Greek seems to me to require the following interpretation:—'And if ye call upon as Father (addressing yourselves to him as children—looking to him as your Father) him who judgeth impartially (i.e. Christ, to whom all judgment has been committed), according to each one's work, in fear conduct yourselves during the time of your sojourning.' That is, in filial fear—a fear that will restrain from any offence against Christ or his holy law. P.

Ver. 18. Redeemed. Ransomed as captives from slavery.—Vain conversation. The vain traditions of the elders, Mat. 15.3, &c.; Ga. 1.14. C.

Ver. 21. By him. Rather, 'through him,' as preached to you by his apostles. C.

Ver. 23. By. The Greek preposition translated 'by' expresses agency, not inherent and original power. The Word of God is the agency in regeneration; God himself—God the Spirit—is the power. P.—Which liveth—being quickened into faith by the Spirit, Ro. 10.17.—It is matter of question whether the apostle describes 'the word of God,' that is, the gospel, or God himself, as 'living and abiding for ever.' In support of the latter view the translation in the LXX. of Da. 6.26 is adduced; but the structure of the original, and the quotation that follows, seem to ascribe the attributes of life (He. 4.12) and permanence to the gospel. C.

REFLECTIONS.—No dispersion can separate believers from the love or care of Christ and his faithful ministers. The love of the Father, the redemption of the Son, and the sanctification of the Holy Ghost, delightfully harmonize in helping to faith and holy obedience here, in order to complete salvation hereafter. And according to God's unbounded mercy, and by his infinite love alone, we are blessed with new principles of grace, fitted for and carried through trials unnumbered, to the heavenly inheritance, to his praise and honour. Marvellously he tries, strengthens, and honours the graces of his people by means of their troubles. And, amidst them all, boldly may they triumph in the assured views and hopes of their bright glories and complete salvation through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. Wonderful and excellent is the gospel, which exhibits and offers us this great salvation; and with earnest care and ravishing delight prophets and angels pry into the mysteries of it. What a solid foundation have we for our faith in him whom God from eternity appointed our Saviour, whom the ancient prophets foretold, and whom the gospel clearly reveals and makes over to us! In the most astonishing wisdom and grace he gave his life a ransom for us, rose from the dead, and ascended to glory, that we might be emboldened to believe and trust in God as our reconciled Father in him. Affectionately, then, ought we to love this once suffering and now exalted Redeemer, doing ye may put to silence<sup>8</sup> the ignorance of foolish men:

16 As<sup>d</sup> free, and not using<sup>9</sup> your liberty for a cloak of malice, but as the servants of God.

17 Honour<sup>1</sup> all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear<sup>h</sup> God. Honour the king.

18 Servants,<sup>i</sup> be subject to your masters with all fear; not only to the good and gentle, but also to the froward.

19 For<sup>j</sup> this is thankworthy,<sup>2</sup> if a man for conscience toward God endure grief, suffering wrongfully.

20 For what glory is it, if, when ye be buffeted for your faults, ye shall take it patiently? but if, when ye do well, and suffer for it, ye take it patiently, this is acceptable<sup>3</sup> with God.

21 For<sup>k</sup> even hereunto were ye called: because Christ also suffered for us,<sup>4</sup> leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps:

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

8 Put to silence.
More literally, 'muzzle,' 1 Ti. 5.18.—C. d Jn. 8.32, 36. Ro. 6.18, 22. 1 Co. 7.22. Ga. 5.1, 13. Ja. 1.25; 2.12. 2 Pe. 2.10, 19. Jude 4, 8.

9 Gr. having.
e ch. 5.5. Ro. 13.7; 12.10. Phil. 2.3.

1 Or, Esteem.

g Jn. 13.35. Ro. 12.10; 13.8. Ga. 6.10. Ep. 4.3. He. 13.1. ch. 1.22; 3.8; 4.8. 2 Pe. 1.7. 1 Jn. 3.11-17; 23; 4.20.

h Ps. 111.10. Pr. 1.7; 23.17; 24.21. Ec. 8.2. Mat. 22.21. See ver. 13, 14.

i Ep. 6.5-7. Col. 3.22-25. 1 Ti. 6.1-3. Tit. 2.9, 10. 1 Co. 7.20-24.

j Mat. 5.10-12. 2 Ti. 1.12. ch. 3.14, 17; 4.14-16. ver. 20.

2 Or, thank (Lu. 6.32), or grace.

3 Or, thank, &c.

k Mat. 10.38; 16.24. Jn. 16.33. Ac. 14.22. 1 Th. 3.4, 2 Ti. 3.12.

l ch. 3.18; ver. 21-24. Jn. 13.15. Mat. 16.24. Phil. 2.5. 1 Jn. 2.6; 3.16. Re. 12.11. 1 Co. 11.1. Ep. 5.2.

4 Some read for you.

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

n Is. 53.9. Lu. 23.41. Jn. 8.46; 14.30. 2 Co. 5.21. He. 4.15; 7.26, 27; 9.28; 1.9. 1 Jn. 2.13-5.

o Mat. 27.39-44. Lu. 23.34-46. Jn. 8.48, 49. He. 12.3. Is. 50.6-9.

5 Or, committed his cause.

p See ch. 1.19. Is. 53.4-6, 11, 12. Mat. 8.17. He. 9.28. 2 Co. 5.21. Ro. 8.3. Mat. xxvi. xxvii. Lu. xxii. xxiii. Ga. 3.13.

6 Or, to.

q Lu. 1.74, 75. Ro. 6.2, 6, 10-12; 7.4, 6. Tit. 2.14. Ga. 2.20. Jn. 7.19. Ep. 5.25, 26. Is. 53.5.

7 That we, being dead to sins—as members of his mystical body when he died, Jn. 17.20-23. Ep. 1.22, 23; 3.30, 32.—C.

r Ps. 119.176. Is. 53.6. Je. 50.6. Ec. 34.16. Lu. 15.4. Mat. 18.12.

s ch. 5.4. Ec. 34.23; 37.24. Is. 40.11. Jn. 10.11, 14, 16. He. 13.20. Re. 7.17.

CHAP. III.

a Ge. 3.16. Ep. 5.22, 24. Col. 3.18. Tit. 2.4, 5.

b 1 Co. 7.16; 9.10-22. Mat. 5.16; 18.15. Pr. 11.30. Ja. 5.20. Phil. 2.15, 16; 3.8, 9.

22 Who<sup>n</sup> did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth:

23 Who,<sup>o</sup> when he was reviled, reviled not again; when he suffered, he threatened not; but committed himself<sup>5</sup> to him that judgeth righteously:

24 Who<sup>p</sup> his own self bare our sins in his own body on<sup>6</sup> the tree, that we, being dead to sins,<sup>7</sup> should live unto righteousness: by whose stripes ye were healed.

25 For ye were <sup>r</sup>as sheep going astray; but are now returned unto <sup>s</sup>the Shepherd and Bishop of your souls.

CHAPTER III.

1 He teacheth the duty of wives and husbands to each other, 8 exhorting all men to unity and love, 14 and to suffer persecution. 19 He declareth also the benefits of Christ toward the old world.

LIKEWISE, ye<sup>a</sup> wives, be in subjection to your own husbands; that, if any obey not the word, <sup>b</sup>they also may without the word be won by the conversation of the wives;

tion of your nature, and exert themselves by your body; and being contrary to the liberty, peace, and honour, purity and holiness, of your renewed souls, perpetually do their utmost to defile, disturb, ensnare, and destroy them. 12. And since ye live among profane and idolatrous heathens, study that all your words and actions may be decent, honourable, and commendable, every way worthy of your holy profession—that whereas they take all occasions to reproach you, as a refractory, useless, and mischievous people, they may be effectually confuted by your universally regular, blameless, holy, benevolent, and lovely deportment, and brought to admire God's grace in you, and to imitate your good conversation, when he by his mercy shall visit them with the light and power of the gospel, and make it powerful for their salvation. 13, 14. And though some of your countrymen inveigh against all obedience to heathen magistrates, see that ye, from a regard to the command, example, and honour of Christ, conscientiously submit to, cheerfully obey, and readily pay tribute to the civil rulers, supreme or subordinate, whom God in his providence has, by the agency of men, set over you for the restraint and punishment of the open contemners or injurers of God or men, and for protecting, encouraging, favouring, and rewarding such as are orderly, sober, honest, and religious; 15, 16. For it is the command and delight of God, and tends to his honour, that, by a holy, regular, and commendable behaviour, ye should refute the unreasonable and wicked calumnies which men of weak and prejudiced minds, strangers to God and to your true character, are apt to raise against you and your religion, as if it made you bad subjects; always conducting yourselves as persons delivered from the tyranny of sin and Satan, from the ceremonial law, and from the moral law as a broken covenant of works, and from all human impositions on your conscience in matters of religion; but never abusing this freedom as an encouragement to or cover of sedition, or any other malignant wickedness, but as an excitement to the most faithful and diligent service of God in holiness and righteousness. 17. Under the influence of a truly religious, filial, and reverential fear of God, and answerable to the character of true worshippers of him, always study to pay a suitable respect to all men, be of what rank they will; cultivate the most tender and affectionate love, and be ready to perform every kind office to your fellow-believers, Jews or Gentiles; and, as loyal subjects, pay all civil homage and respect to kings and other magistrates, as the deputies and vicegerents of God. 18-20. Such of you as are household servants, whether slaves or hired, always study an humble submission, becoming reverence, and ready and faithful obedience, in all things lawful, to your masters—not only to such as are generous, kind, meek, and merciful in their temper and behaviour, but also to them who are austere and morose, especially if it be only because ye are become Christians; for this is acceptable to God, and praiseworthy, if, for the sake of your religion, and from a conscientious regard to his command and honour, ye patiently suffer injurious and abusive treatment, without having given any just provocation by your faults. But there is no honour to Christ, your religion, or yourselves, in your tame submission to the severe punishment of your neglects, infidelity, and misdemeanours. The criminal cause makes your sufferings a reproach to all concerned. But if, while ye are diligent and faithful in the duties of your station, ye patiently bear sufferings, inflicted for your conscientious regard to Christ and his Father, this evidences a truly excellent and holy temper, which God freely gives, and is highly pleased with. 21. For when ye became Christians ye were called patiently and publicly to submit to injuries and reproaches, for the sake of Christ and the gospel, because he himself, in his infinite love to us, willingly underwent the severest sufferings and most infamous revilings for us, not only to pardon our sins and secure our eternal happiness, but also to leave us a most perfect pattern of patience in suffering—that we, in love and duty, might imitate him in this and other parts of his holy and blameless behaviour; 22, 23. Who, notwithstanding all the false and malicious accusations of his enemies, never was found guilty of the smallest fault, or the least insincerity, deceit, or falsehood, in his words or doctrine; and who, when he was shamefully reproached as a blasphemer, an impostor, and one possessed by the devil, and most insolently and barbarously abused by his enemies, never returned the smallest reproach, nor threatened to revenge the injuries done him; but calmly referred the cause between him and his persecutors to his heavenly Father; and even prayed that, instead of avenging, he would graciously forgive their murderous wickedness through his atoning blood; 24. Who, being altogether sinless in himself, cheerfully, as our Surety, submitted to all his sufferings, as the punishment of our sins imputed to him, and to be borne by him in his death, in order that, through the merits and virtue of his sufferings, we might have our sins pardoned and subdued, and all our spiritual maladies healed, and might live in all holy obedience, and bring forth fruits of righteousness to God through him. 25. For, in our unconverted state, we were inclined to and actually running astray from God, and from his fold, ordinances, commandments, and ways of truth and peace, into every sinful and dangerous path leading to eternal destruction; but now, through faith and the renewing operations of the Holy Ghost by the gospel, ye are brought back to Christ, as the great Shepherd and kind Overseer of your precious and immortal souls, that he may care for, feed, nourish, guide, govern, heal, and defend you from all evil, and conduct you safe to his eternal glory.

REFLECTIONS.—The pure doctrines of Christ are most nourishing provision to a regenerated soul. But great mortification of lusts, and earnest exercise of faith and love, are necessary in making use of it. And the more knowledge and experience we have of God's transcendent grace, the more ardently shall we desire it. Whatever Christ be to others, he is infinitely precious, honourable, useful, and establishing to his own people; and sweet is the light, the life, the honour, the confirmation, the holiness, the usefulness, the acceptableness, they derive from him. Astonishing is his love, his condescension, in cheerfully bearing our sins, enduring our punishment, and in recovering us, when lost and strayed, to himself! With sincere regard to his Word as our rule—to his example as our pattern—ought we, by a holy, honest, and virtuous conversation, to recommend his religion in the world, and to refute the reproaches cast upon it by the wicked. With earnestness should we subdue and mortify every sinful lust. And with great cheerfulness ought we to perform every relative duty to magistrates, masters, or others, and to undergo whatever injuries we may be called to suffer for his sake. But bad neighbours, rebellious and unruly subjects, and imperious and unfaithful servants, can never be good Christians.

CHAPTER III. Ver. 1, 2. And while Christian subjects and servants are careful to honour their religion by a conscientious performance of the duties of their station, do you, Christian wives, behave with the most obliging and affectionate submission to your husbands in all things lawful—that if any be ignorant, regardless, or contemners of the word and ordinances of God, those ordinary means of conversion, they may, by your meek, humble, sweet, and engaging temper and carriage, and your pure, sober, chaste, modest, and reverential deportment, influenced by a religious reverence of God, and regard to his authority, be allured and gained over to a good esteem of Christ and his ways: 3, 4. And labour to recommend yourselves and your religion to your husbands, not by the external ornaments of dress, but by knowledge, virtue, truth, grace, and holiness of heart, manifested by good works in your life, which are far more beautiful, excellent, advantageous, and lasting—particularly by a modest, humble, gentle, calm, tractable, and peaceable temper of spirit, free from pride and turbulent passion, which, however overlooked by vain minds, is inexpressibly valuable in God's account. 5, 6. For in this endearing and submissive manner the ancient holy women, who trusted in God for his blessings of time and eternity, endeavoured to ingratiate themselves with their husbands—particularly Sara, who in the very name she gave to her husband Abraham marked her high respect for him—whose daughters, not only in a natural, but in a moral and spiritual sense, ye are while ye behave rightly towards your husbands and others, without being deterred from your religion through fear of their displeasure, and without any unbelieving confusion or doubt relative to God's fulfilment of his promises.—7. And do you husbands on all occasions live with your wives in a faithful, friendly, and familiar manner, treating them with that decency, kindness, and cheerfulness which prudence and knowledge of the gospel require—delighting in their persons, consulting their comfort and happiness, supporting their credit and authority in the family,

2 While they behold 'your chaste conversation coupled with fear.

3 Whose<sup>a</sup> adorning, let it not be that outward adorning of plaiting the hair, and of wearing of gold, or of putting on of apparel;

4 But let it be the hidden man of the heart, in that which is not corruptible, even the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price.

5 For<sup>a</sup> after this manner, in the old time, the holy women also, who trusted in God, adorned themselves, being in subjection unto their own husbands:

6 Even<sup>b</sup> as Sara obeyed Abraham, calling him lord: 'whose daughters<sup>1</sup> ye are as long as ye do well, and are not afraid with any amazement.<sup>2</sup>

7 Likewise,<sup>k</sup> ye husbands, dwell with them according to knowledge, giving honour unto the wife, as unto the weaker vessel, and as being heirs together of the grace of life; 'that your prayers be not hindered.

8 Finally, be ye all of one mind, having compassion one of another; love as brethren,<sup>3</sup> be pitiful, be courteous:

9 Not<sup>e</sup> rendering evil for evil, or railing for railing; but contrariwise blessing; knowing that 'ye are thereunto called, that ye should inherit a blessing.

10 For 'he that will love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile:

11 Let him 'eschew evil, and do good; let him seek peace, and ensue it.<sup>4</sup>

12 For<sup>s</sup> the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open unto their

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

c ch. 2. 11, 12. Ep. 5.

33. d 1 Ti. 2. 9, 10. Tit. 2.

3. Is. 3. 10-24. Zep. 1. 8.

e Ro. 2. 29; 7. 22. Lu.

17. 21. Ps. 45. 13. 2 Co. 4.

16. Tit. 2. 11, 12. Ps. 25. 9;

149. 4. Mat. 5. 5. 1 Sa. 10.

7. Ps. 51. 6.

g 1 Sa. 1. 2, 10. Tit. 2.

3. with De. 32. 7.

h Ge. 12. 5; 18. 6, 12.

i Jn. 8. 39. Ro. 9. 7, 8.

Phil. 4. 8. Tit. 2. 12.

1 Gr. children.

j ver. 14. Is. 8. 12, 13;

51. 7, 12, 13. Phil. 1. 28.

k Literally, 'And are not afraid of any sudden fear'—probably the meaning is, that their conduct is so uniformly consistent and pure that they can never be suddenly terrified by the dread or threat of exposing some secret sin.—P.

l 1 Co. 7. 3. Ep. 5. 25.

m 28. 29, 31, 32. Col. 3. 19.

n Ps. 101. 2. 1 Co. 14. 35;

12. 23. Ga. 3. 28, 29, with

2 Co. 4. 7. 1 Th. 4. 4.

o 1 Ti. 2. 8. Job 42. 8.

p Mat. 5. 23, 24, 18, 19. Ps.

66. 18.

q Le. 19. 18. Ro. 12.

10, 15, 16; 15. 5. 1 Co. 1.

10. 2 Co. 13. 11. Ep. 4. 32.

r Phil. 2. 1, 2; 3. 16; 4. 2.

s Col. 3. 12. 1 Th. 4. 9. He.

10. 34; 13. 1-3. ch. 1. 22;

t 4. 8. 2 Pe. 1. 7. 1 Jn. 3. 11.

u 16-18.

v Or, loving to the brethren.

w Ro. 17. 13; 20. 22; 14.

x Th. 5. 15. Mat. 5. 39, 44.

y Ep. 4. 32. ch. 2. 23. 1 Co.

4. 12, 16.

z 1 Ti. 4. 8. Mat. 25. 34.

aa Ep. 1. 3.

ab Ps. 34. 12-16. Ja. 2.

ac 26. Ps. 32. 2. Re. 14. 5. ch.

2. 1, 2.

ad Is. 1. 16. Ps. 37. 27;

ae 34. 14. Ro. 12. 18; 14. 19.

af He. 12. 14. 3 Jn. 11.

ag 'Pursue it'—follow after peace, the peace of God, and never give up the pursuit until he has gained it.—P.

ah Ps. 34. 15, 16; 33. 18; ai 11. 766. 18. Job 36. 7. Ja.

5. 16.

* It is not, therefore, the mere external rite of baptism which is here referred to. The parenthesis is, as Alford well observes, a protest against such an opinion. It is the washing of regeneration, of which the sacrament of baptism is the sign, and,

when accompanied by faith, also the seal.

It is effected by the

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

Spirit of God; and its immediate result is

'the inquiry of a good conscience after God'

—seeking after God with the whole soul and heart, so as to love, honour, and obey him. It is important to observe the typical character of the deluge, i. e. like other great historic events recorded in the Pentateuch, was designed to foreshadow one of the fundamental doctrines of the gospel.

—P.

aj Je. 44. 11. Am. 9. 4.

ak Jn. 9. 31.

al Gr. upon.

am Pr. 10. 7. Ro. 8. 28.

an Job 5. 22.

ao Mat. 5. 10. ch. 2. 19, 20; 14. Ja. 1. 12.

ap Is. 8. 12, 13. Mat. 10.

aq Jn. 14. 1. 8. Phil. 1. 28.

ar Jn. 14. 27. 15. 5, 12, 13.

as y Is. 8. 13. Ps. 89. 7.

at Re. 15. 4. Job 1. 21.

au z Ps. 119. 46. Ac. 4. 8-12, 19, 20; 5. 29-32; xxiv.

av xxvi. Col. 4. 6. 2 Ti. 2. 25.

aw Ja. 3. 13.

ax Or, reverence.

ay a ch. 2. 12, 15, 19. 2 Ti.

1. 19. Ti. 2. 8. Ac. 23. 1; az 24. 16. Phil. 4. 8; 3. 2 Co.

10. 12.

ba 7 Having. Rather,

'Maintaining.'—C.

bb b ch. 2. 19, 20; 4. 14, 15.

bc Ac. 14. 22. 2 Ti. 3. 12.

bd ver. 14, 16.

be c Ro. 5. 6-11; 3. 25; 4.

25. He. 9. 26, 28, 12, 14;

bf 10. 10, 12, 14. 2 Co. 5. 21.

bg Ep. 2. 18; 3. 12. See ch.

1. 19; 2. 21, 24. Is. 53. 4-12.

bh d ch. 4. 1. 2 Co. 13. 4.

bi Jn. 1. 14. Ti. 3. 16. Ro.

1. 4. 4. 23. 8. 11. 6. 4. Ac. 3.

bj 15. Jn. 10. 18. Re. 1. 5, 16.

bk c Ge. 6. 3. ch. 1. 11, 12;

bl 4. 6. 2 Pe. 2. 5. He. 11. 7.

bm g Is. 42. 7. Lu. 16. 23. 2

Pe. 2. 4.

bn h Ge. 6. 1-5, 11-13.

bo Job 22. 15, 16. He. 11. 7.

bp Mat. 24. 38. Lu. 17. 20. 2

Pe. 2. 5, 3. 6.

bq See note * in first column.

br This last clause is connected with the first, the intervening words being an explanatory parenthesis. Baptism, the baptism explained above, saves us by the resurrection of Jesus Christ. By it

we are made one with him, and participate therefore in the results of his resurrection—namely, an immediate restoration to spiritual life and activity, and a final resurrection of the body.—P.

prayers: but the face of the Lord is 'against' them that do evil.

13 And<sup>u</sup> who is he that will harm you, if ye be followers of that which is good?

14 But<sup>v</sup> and if ye suffer for righteousness' sake, happy are ye: and 'be not afraid of their terror, neither be troubled;

15 But 'sanctify the Lord God in your hearts; and be ready always 'to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you with meekness and fear.<sup>6</sup>

16 'Having<sup>7</sup> a good conscience; that, whereas they speak evil of you, as of evil-doers, they may be ashamed that falsely accuse your good conversation in Christ.

17 For<sup>b</sup> it is better, if the will of God be so, that ye suffer for well-doing than for evil-doing.

18 For 'Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God, 'being put to death in the flesh, but quickened by the Spirit:

19 By which also he went and 'preached unto the spirits in 'prison;

20 Which<sup>h</sup> sometime were disobedient, when once the long-suffering of God waited in the days of Noah, while the ark was a preparing, 'wherein few, that is, eight souls, were saved by water.

21 The<sup>j</sup> like figure whereunto, even baptism, doth also now save us, (not the putting away of the filth of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience toward God,<sup>8</sup>) 'by the resurrection of Jesus Christ:<sup>9</sup>

22 Who<sup>i</sup> is gone into heaven, and is on the

i He. 11. 7. Ge. 7. 7; 8. 12. 2 Pe. 2. 5. j Ac. 22. 16. Mar. 16. 16. Ep. 5. 26. Tit. 3. 5. Ac. 8. 37. Ro. 10. 10; 6. 4-6. Ga. 3. 27. Phi. 3. 9, 10. k Ro. 4. 25; 8. 11; 6. 4-6; 7. 4. 1 Co. 15. 20. Ep. 2. 6. Jn. 14. 19. l See ch. 1. 21. Ps. 68. 18; 47. 5; 110. 5. Mar. 16. 16. Lu. 24. 51. Ac. 1. 9-11; 3. 21. Ro. 8. 21, 34. 1 Co. 15. 24. Col. 3. 1. He. 1. 3; 2. 8; 4. 15; 6. 19, 20; 7. 26; 8. 19; 24; 10. 12. Ac. 7. 56. Ep. 2. 20-23; 1. 21. He. 2. 14. Mat. 28. 18.

providing honourably for them, putting due confidence in them, and sympathizing with and helping them under their manifold infirmities, that, if Christians, they may be honoured and encouraged, as heirs of eternal happiness, equally with yourselves; and if not, may be allured to the Christian religion, and every proper method taken to promote your joint worshiping of God, by yourselves and with the family, in a manner comfortable to you and acceptable to God. 8, 9. In fine, let all of you who profess to believe in Christ labour to cultivate a mutual agreement in the important doctrines of the gospel, and answerable thereto, and a harmonious temper, feelingly sympathizing with one another in all afflictions.—As children of the same heavenly Father, maintain and exercise an affectionate brotherly love, in thought, word, and deed, towards each other. Manifest the most tender sympathy towards such as are under weakness or afflictions, temporal or spiritual. And let your whole carriage be affable, friendly, and engaging to every one. Never return injuries or reproaches to such as have injured or reproached you, but earnestly pray for blessings to them, and watch for opportunities to do them real favours—knowing that ye are called, by the authority and example of Christ, to this amiable conduct, as a mean of his gracious bestowal of temporal, spiritual, and eternal blessings upon you, as his children and heirs of his promises. 10, 11. For nothing can be more plain, from the oracles of God, than that they who wish for peace, comfort, and prosperity in this world, ought to guard against all profane, filthy, opprobrious, false, or deceitful language, and to abhor and carefully avoid everything sinful in itself and prejudicial to others, and practise everything good and beneficial—labouring to the utmost of their power, and as far as they can with a good conscience, to live peaceably with all men, and studying to promote peace among neighbours, friends, or enemies. 12, 13. For the great Lord of all takes special notice of, dearly loves, and kindly watches over and cares for such as, being clothed with Jesus' blessed righteousness, are upright, holy, and righteous in their hearts and lives; and he is graciously attentive to and ready to answer all their prayers which are offered to him in humility, faith, and fervency; but in a terrible manner he manifests his just indignation against such as indulge themselves in wickedness. And if he be your Friend and Protector, what man or devil can do you any real hurt, while, depending on his grace, and devoted to his service, ye imitate him and his saints in goodness and holiness? Nay, what man would be so malicious or cruel as to seek the hurt of an inoffensive and beneficent neighbour? 14-16. But if God should permit any to reproach and persecute you for adherence to Christ and his gospel, his love and favour will render you happy under such treatment; never therefore be terrified, discouraged, or perplexed, as if their threatenings or abuse would issue in your disgrace or ruin, but always preserve high thoughts and a reverential fear of God in your hearts, and entire trust in his infinite wisdom, power, mercy, and faithfulness, for your security, and for ordering every event to your everlasting honour and joy. And in a dependence on his direction and assistance, be always ready, by word or deed, in courts of judicature, and everywhere else, to defend and account for the grounds of your hopes of salvation, according to the gospel, for which ye willingly suffer. And let this be done with a meek and modest air, temper, and language, and with a holy reverence of God and fear of offending him by unfaithfulness, and even with a cautious fear of offending those to whom ye speak by anything disrespectful—in everything conscientiously studying that if your enemies will reproach you as injurious to society or public welfare, your blameless, humble, and benevolent practice, springing from faith in Christ, may effectually confute them, and force them with shame to retract their slanders. 17. For if it please God that you should suffer for your adherence to his truths and ways, this is far more honourable, advantageous, and comfortable, than if you were to suffer for your own crimes and follies. 18. For in patiently and boldly suffering for righteousness' sake, ye are conformed unto your great Lord and Saviour, who, though infinitely holy and righteous in his divine nature, and perfectly pure in his manhood, did, once for all, offer up himself in his sufferings as an atoning sacrifice, in the room of us unrighteous and ungodly sinners, that he might reconcile us to God, and bring us to spiritual fellowship with him here, and immediate enjoyment of him hereafter—he having been crucified in his manhood, but quickly after raised again to an immortal life of blessedness and glory by the influence of his divine nature and of his Holy Spirit. 19, 20. By whom, through the ministry of Noe, in manifold admonitions and strivings, he preached the righteousness of faith, and the necessity of repentance and reformation, to those ungodly sinners who lived on the earth before the flood, but are now shut up in the prison of hell, for the punishment of their obstinate rebellion against God, and contemptuous abuse of his long-continued mercies and patience. 21, 22. And as then Noe and his family were saved out of, and even by means of, water, so baptism, not as a mere washing of our body with water, but as it represents and seals the application of Christ's blood and Spirit to our conscience, purifying it from right hand of God; angels and authorities and powers being made subject unto him.

CHAPTER IV.

1 He exhorteth them to cease from sin by the example of Christ, and the consideration of the general end that now approacheth: 12 and comforteth them against persecution.

FORASMUCH then as Christ hath suffered for us<sup>1</sup> in the flesh, <sup>2</sup>arm yourselves likewise with the same mind: for <sup>3</sup>he that hath suffered in the flesh hath ceased from sin;

2 That<sup>4</sup> he no longer should live the rest of his time in the flesh to the lusts of men, <sup>5</sup>but to the will of God.

3 For<sup>6</sup> the time past of our life may suffice us to have wrought the will of the Gentiles, when we walked in lasciviousness, lusts, excess of wine, revellings, banquetings, and abominable idolatries;

4 Wherein<sup>7</sup> they think it strange that ye run not with them to the same excess of riot, speaking evil of you:

5 Who<sup>8</sup> shall give account to him that is ready to judge the quick and the dead.

6 For,<sup>9</sup> for this cause was the gospel preached also to them that are dead, <sup>10</sup>that they might be judged according to men in the flesh, but live according to God in the spirit.<sup>2</sup>

7 But<sup>11</sup> the end of all things is at hand: <sup>12</sup>be ye therefore sober, and watch unto prayer.

8 And<sup>13</sup> above all things have fervent charity
1 Th. 5. 6, 17. ch. 5. 8. Mat. 26. 41. Lu. 21. 34-36. Ep. 6. 18, 19. Col. 4. 2. 1 Th. 5. 17. ch. 1. 13. 2 Pe. 3. 9, 11, 14. Re. 1. 3, 22. 10-15. 16. 15. 1 Co. 13. 1-13. Col. 3. 14. He. 13. 1. ch. 1. 22. 17. 3. 8. Ro. 12. 12, with Pr. 10. 12. Ja. 5. 20.

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

CHAP. IV.

<sup>a</sup> See ch. 1. 18, 19; 3. 18; 2. 24.
<sup>1</sup> As Christ hath suffered for us—out of love to us.—C.
<sup>b</sup> ch. 2. 21. Phi. 2. 5. Ro. 6. 2, 6, 8, 11-13; 8. 13. Ep. 6. 11. Ga. 2. 20; 5. 24. Col. 3. 13; 8.
<sup>c</sup> Ro. 6. 2, 7, 9, 10. Ga. 2. 19, 20. Ro. 7. 4. He. 9. 14.
<sup>d</sup> ver. 3. 2 Co. 5. 15. Ro. 13. 11-14; 14. 7. Ep. 4. 17-19, 22. ch. 1. 14. Col. 3. 5, 8.
<sup>e</sup> Ro. 6. 11; 7. 4; 14. 8. 2 Co. 5. 15. Ga. 2. 19, 20. 1 Th. 5. 10, 14. 3-7. Ex. xx. Ro. xii. Ep. iv. vi. He. 9. 14.
<sup>f</sup> Eze. 44. 6, 45. 9. Ro. 13. 11-14; 14. 21-32; 2. 21, 23. 3. 10-18. 1 Co. 5. 11; 6. 9-11; 8. 7, 10, 11; 12. 2. Ep. 2. 2, 3, 11, 12, 14, 17-19; 5. 3-11. 15. 18. Ga. 5. 19; 6. Col. 3. 5-8. Tit. 3. 1. Th. 4. 5. ch. 1. 14, 18. 1 Jn. 5. 21.
<sup>g</sup> Is. 8. 18. Ac. 13. 45. 1 Co. 4. 13. Ja. 2. 7. ch. 2. 12; 3. 9, 10.
<sup>h</sup> Ec. 12. 14. Ro. 2. 6, 16; 14. 10, 12. 2 Co. 5. 10. Re. 20. 12. Ac. 10. 42; 17. 31. 1 Co. 15. 51, 52. 2 Ti. 4. 1. He. 10. 37. Ja. 5. 8. Phi. 4. 5. Re. 1. 7; 22. 7, 12, 20. Jn. 5. 29.
<sup>i</sup> ch. 3. 19, or Re. 14. 13. 1 Th. 4. 14. Job 5. 25. Ep. 5. 14.
<sup>j</sup> Mat. 24. 9. Ps. 103. 14. Phi. 2. 19. Ro. 7. 22. 2 Co. 4. 16, or Ro. 8. 17. Jn. 16. 33. Ac. 14. 22. 2 Ti. 2. 12. ch. 4. 13, 14; 5. 10; 1. 6, 7. Re. 7. 14-17; 14. 13.
<sup>k</sup> Phi. 4. 5. 1 Jn. 2. 18. Ja. 5. 8, 9. Ro. 13. 12. He. 10. 25, 37. Re. 22. 12.
<sup>2</sup> This is one of those passages which have given rise to much controversy. Grammatically it may be interpreted in two ways; but by the analogy of faith, or, in other words, the analogy of Scripture, it is capable of only one of these two. The 'dead' means those who are now really dead. The gospel was preached to them, not after they died, but

A.M. cir. 40-9.
A.D. cir. 65.

before it. Peter is addressing those who were suffering persecution. He encourages them by the declaration that in former times many had suffered persecution from men, and were put to death, but still lived to God. He says here that the design in preaching the gospel to them was that though they might be judged and put to death by earthly persecutors, yet in respect to their souls—their higher nature—they lived to God. This appears to me to be the only true interpretation of this passage.—P.
<sup>3</sup> Or, will.
<sup>4</sup> Ro. 12. 9, 13. He. 13. 2, 16. Phil. 14. Phi. 2. 14. 2 Co. 9. 7. 1 Sa. 25. 11.
<sup>5</sup> Ro. 12. 6-8. 1 Co. 12. 4-11, 28. Ep. 4. 11, 12. Mat. 25. 14, 15. Lu. 19. 11. Fr. 3. 28. Ac. 8. 4. 2 Co. 8. 11.
<sup>6</sup> Mat. 25. 45. Lu. 12. 42. 1 Co. 9. 17; 4. 1, 2. Tit. 1. 7. 1 Co. 12. 4, 7; 15. 10. Ep. 4. 11; 3. 2.
<sup>7</sup> Je. 23. 22, 28. Ro. 12. 6-8. 1 Co. 3. 10. Ep. 6. 20. 1 Th. 2. 13.
<sup>8</sup> Ezr. 2. 69. Ne. 5. 8. Ac. 11. 29. 2 Co. 8. 3.
<sup>9</sup> 1 Co. 10. 31. Ep. 5. 20. 1 Ti. 6. 16. 2 Ti. 4. 18. ch. 2. 55. 11. Re. 1. 5, 6; 5. 9-13. Ps. 115. 1. Sec Ro. 16. 27.
<sup>10</sup> See ch. 1. 6, 7. Ps. 17. 3. 66. 10. Is. 48. 10. Je. 9. 7. Da. 11. 35. Zec. 13. 9. 1 Co. 3. 13.
<sup>11</sup> Mat. 5. 13. Ac. 5. 41. He. 10. 34. Ja. 1. 2, 11. Ro. 5. 3, 2 Co. 1. 5. Phi. 3. 10. Col. 1. 24. 2 Ti. 2. 10, 12. Re. 1. 9. Ro. 8. 17, 18.
<sup>12</sup> Mat. 25. 31. ch. 1. 6, 7, 13. 1 Co. 1. 7, 2 Th. 1. 7. Lu. 17. 30. Mat. 19. 28, 29.
<sup>13</sup> Mat. 5. 10, 11. Ja. 1. 12. ch. 2. 20; 3. 14, 16.
<sup>a</sup> Is. 11. 2. 2 Co. 12. 9. b Ja. 2. 7. Phi. 2. 28.
<sup>c</sup> ch. 2. 14, 20; 3. 14, 17. 1 Th. 4. 11. 1 Ti. 5. 13.
<sup>d</sup> ver. 13, 14; ch. 3. 14, 17. 2 Ti. 1. 12; 3. 10, 12. Phi. 1. 29. Ac. 5. 41. Mat. 5. 12.

among yourselves: for charity shall<sup>3</sup> cover the multitude of sins.

9 Use<sup>4</sup> hospitality one to another, without grudging.

10 As<sup>5</sup> every man hath received the gift, even so minister the same one to another, <sup>6</sup>as good stewards of the manifold grace of God.

11 If<sup>7</sup> any man speak, let him speak as the oracles of God; <sup>8</sup>if any man minister, let him do it as of the ability which God giveth; <sup>9</sup>that God in all things may be glorified through Jesus Christ, to whom be praise and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

12 Beloved, think it not strange concerning <sup>13</sup>the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you:

13 But<sup>14</sup> rejoice, inasmuch as ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings; <sup>15</sup>that, when his glory shall be revealed, ye may be glad also with exceeding joy.

14 If<sup>16</sup> ye be reproached for the name of Christ, happy are ye; <sup>17</sup>for the Spirit of glory and of God resteth upon you: <sup>18</sup>on their part he is evil spoken of, but on your part he is glorified.

15 But<sup>19</sup> let none of you suffer as a murderer, or as a thief, or as an evil-doer, or as a busy-body in other men's matters.

16 Yet<sup>20</sup> if any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God on this behalf.

dead works, and making us to act answerably to our solemn obligation to be the Lord's (therein contracted), is now a noted representation and mean of our salvation, by the death and resurrection of Christ our only Saviour, who, as a pledge, earnest, evidence, and security of it, and as our Forerunner, to open our way and prepare mansions for us, is now ascended into heaven, enthroned at the right hand of God, and invested with all power over angels, magistrates, and every other creature.

Ver. 2. With fear. Not slavish fear, but 'respectful deportment.' C.

Ver. 3. Whose adorning, &c. To be understood in a comparative sense; that is, for 'not,' read 'not so much as' (Bloomfield). It is, however, by no means clear that any scriptural example, even Mat. 9. 13, will fully bear out this comparative sense of ovx. See Robinson's Gr. Lex. ovx, b. The prohibition is easily understood by giving the emphasis to 'adorning,' when, compared with 1 Ti. 2. 9, the meaning will appear thus: 'whose adorning'—that is, all beyond what is necessary for comfort and decency, and a due regard to rank and circumstances—'let it not be that outward adorning,' &c. C.

Ver. 6. And are not afraid. Induced by any timidity to deny the truth, as even Sarah did, Ge. 18. 15. Imitate her graces, avoid her faults. See ver. 14. C.

Ver. 7. According to (your) knowledge of what is becoming in believers of the gospel.—That your prayers be not hindered. Through any want of domestic harmony.—Note. If a man do not seek to preserve peace with his own family, how can he imagine that he is seeking 'peace with God?' C.

Ver. 12. The righteous. 'The just (the justified) who live by faith' on Jesus the Son of God and Saviour of sinners. C.

Ver. 15. Sanctify. Venerate, glorify 'the Lord in your hearts,' in the midst of all the troubles he may please to send. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Modesty, meekness, and humility, from a principle of faith in God, are the most engaging ornaments of women, married or unmarried. And an honourable, humane, and tender treatment of a wife is the most substantial evidence of a husband's affection. Never ought a family to exist without much daily fervent prayer, both secret and private. And it is an honour to the Christian religion, and a comfort and happiness to professors, when harmony in sentiment, unanimity in affection, readiness to render good for evil, useful converse, a steadfast cleaving to every good principle and practice, and readiness to account or suffer with meekness for their religion, constantly and everywhere prevail.—A holy, humble, benevolent, and circumspect practice is the best confutation of every calumny. And the more we live in the fear of God the less we shall be influenced by the fears or reproaches of men.—Why should we ever repine at suffering for Christ, that God-man who suffered for us, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God? Deep was his debasement, and high his glory that followed. And rich, full, and extensive is that salvation from sin and wrath which he secured and gives. How important an ordinance is baptism! Alas! unhappy is the thought that many rest on it, as if it were a Saviour, while others use it as a mere ceremony or fancied charm!

CHAPTER IV. Ver. 1, 2. Now, since Jesus Christ has thus patiently and extremely suffered in his manhood for us unjust sinners, to bring us to God, let his noble and endearing example arm you against all impatience and fainting under what ye suffer for his sake; for if, in the virtue of his death in our stead, we have crucified our inward corruptions, and have cheerfully and patiently endured outward sufferings for his sake, and in conformity to him, we shall be disposed to renounce all our former sinful principles and practices, and with grief and hatred to turn from them to God with full purpose of heart, that we may not spend the remaining part of our time in the exercise of carnal and sinful lusts, after the example of evil men, but in holy dispositions and practices, which God commands and delights in, as tending to his glory; 3-5. For we have already spent too much of our time, like heathens, in diversified forms of uncleanness, drunkenness, gluttony, and the most shameful and detestable idolatries.—On account of your unexpected withdrawal from which dissolute lewdness, luxury, and intemperance, ye and your religion are vilified by your wicked neighbours, as if it had made you quite unsociable, stiff, precise, and humoursome; but quickly must they answer for all these reproaches to the Lord Jesus himself, upon whom they ultimately fall, and who is authorized to, and will, ere long, judge all that have ever lived on the earth, to the great joy of his saints and terror of his enemies. 6. For to this end was the gospel preached to those who are now dead in Christ, as well as to them who now live on the earth—that through divine influences attending it, their inward corruptions being thoroughly mortified and subdued, and they, being condemned and censured by carnal men, might in their souls, quickened and animated by the Holy Ghost, live after a spiritual and joyful manner, according to the command and pattern of God, and in fellowship with him, and to his glory; and be at last raised to an eternal and full enjoyment of him. 7. But consider, for your encouragement and caution under your present trials, that your Jewish nation must quickly be altogether destroyed, and your death, and even the dissolution of this lower world, take place; be therefore always wise, sober, and temperate, constantly watching against temptations and the workings of indwelling corruption, and for opportunities of and spiritual assistances in prayer, for whatever blessings, deliverances, graces, or comforts you need. 8. And influenced by the transcendent love of God in Christ to you, earnestly cultivate a warm, cordial, and brotherly affection one towards another in these perilous times; for as he, in his infinite kindness and mercy, has freely forgiven you all your innumerable transgressions, so your fervent love to one another, for his sake, after his example, and in obedience to his command, will make you readily forgive and conceal the numerous failings of each other. 9. And be always ready with cheerfulness to entertain and lodge religious strangers, especially such as go about preaching the gospel, or are, by persecutors, deprived of their property, and driven from their homes. 10, 11. Let all such as have gifts and offices in the church carefully, faithfully, and prudently employ those graciously bestowed gifts, and execute those offices, for the edification of others, as stewards accountable to God for their trusts.—If some be called to preach the gospel, let them, in a becoming, serious, solemn, reverential, fervent, faithful, spiritual, and holy manner, declare the mind of God, and nothing else, according to his Word. If others be called to collect, take care of, and distribute the church's stock, for the relief of the poor, the maintenance of ministers, and defraying the necessary expense of divine ordinances, 17 For<sup>e</sup> the time is come that judgment must begin at the house of God: <sup>a</sup>and if it first begin at us, what shall the end<sup>4</sup> be of them that obey not the gospel of God?

18 And<sup>b</sup> if the righteous scarcely be saved, where<sup>i</sup> shall the ungodly and the sinner appear?

19 Wherefore, let them that <sup>j</sup>suffer according to the will of God <sup>k</sup>commit the keeping of their souls to him in well-doing, as unto a faithful Creator.

CHAPTER V.

1 He exhorteth the elders to feed their flocks, 5 the younger to obey, 8 and all to be sober, watchful, and constant in the faith: 9 to resist the cruel adversary the devil.

THE elders<sup>a</sup> which are among you I exhort, who am also an elder, and a <sup>b</sup>witness of the sufferings of Christ, and also <sup>c</sup>a partaker of the glory that shall be revealed:

let them attend to their work with all fidelity, prudence, tenderness, and diligence, as they have ability and opportunity—that all the spiritual and temporal affairs of the church may be so conducted as to promote the glory, praise, and adoration of God, through the merit and mediation of Christ, our ever-exalted, praised, and adored Redeemer. 12. My dear brethren, fellow-sufferers for Christ's cause, while you reflect on the imperfection of your present state, and the depravity of mankind, which fills them with enmity against everything good, and on the warnings of our blessed Saviour, ye ought never to be discouraged nor surprised at the severest troubles and persecutions wherewith God exercises you—not to destroy, but to refine you, try and purify your graces, and purge away your sinful corruptions, as if they were unexpected, uncommon, and foreign to the methods of his love to his children; 13. But rather think of and stand prepared to meet them with holy joy, as therein ye have Christ's sympathy and comforts promised and secured to you, and are, in suffering for him, conformed to him—that, when he appears in all his glory at the last day, ye also may rejoice and triumph in and together with him. 14. If with patience, courage, and joy, ye endure reproaches and abuse for his and the gospel's sake, this manifests your union to and fellowship with him; and will, through his merit and gracious influence, issue in your unspeakable advantage; for the glorious Spirit of God, who bestows all grace and glory on men, is with you, to support, deliver, and reward you.—By your persecutors, he and our Redeemer are blasphemously reproached; but by your faith and patience, and courageous confession of the truth, they are honoured and glorified. 15. Nevertheless, I beseech you to beware of bringing any trouble on yourselves by any criminal conduct of your own—as murder, dishonesty, sedition, injuring of neighbours, neglect of your own affairs, or intermeddling with those of other men. 16. But if any of you be enabled, with faith, patience, and courage, to suffer indignities, reproaches, and cruelties, merely for your profession of Christ and his gospel, look not on it as a disgrace, but as a real honour conferred upon you, on account of which ye ought to praise and glorify God. 17. For the time is at hand when not only Jerusalem and your Jewish nation shall be fearfully destroyed by the just judgments of God, but even the New Testament church shall be visited with terrible persecutions and troubles. Now, if his severe judgments be first inflicted on his ancient and long peculiar people, and on us real believers, in whom he dwells by his Holy Spirit, what extremity of wrath must fall upon obstinate unbelievers who disregard and reject his gospel? 18. And if, in the general ruin of our nation, or other public calamities, they who are clothed with the righteousness of Christ, and are renewed and sanctified by his Spirit unto all holy obedience, have but a narrow though sure escape by his providence and grace, what dreadful, unavoidable, insupportable, inexpressible, and everlasting misery must come upon those impenitent unbelievers who obstinately persist in their sins! 19. Reflecting upon these awful events, which carry so much encouragement to you and terror to your enemies, do you who, in a Christian manner, by the assistance of God's Spirit, endure persecutions and afflictions, as appointed for you by him, believingly commit your lives, your souls, and all your concerns, in time or eternity, to him—in a course of holy walking with him, and of doing good to all around you, friends or foes; trusting in him, that he, as your almighty Creator and Preserver, will, through Christ, perform his promise, in protecting, supporting, comforting, and delivering you in the worst of times.

Ver. 1. 'Arm yourselves with the same mind (of self-sacrifice, out of love to him; for he that hath suffered in the flesh hath reckoned himself dead with Christ, Ro. 6. 6-11) hath ceased from sin.' C.

Ver. 6. To them that are dead for the gospel's sake, ch. 2. 20, 21; 3. 14, 17, 18. The word 'dead' cannot be understood of 'the dead in trespasses and sins,' but must be taken in the same sense in which it appears in the preceding verse. So suddenly to change the meaning from natural to spiritual death, without any evident intimation of change, would overturn every principle of legitimate interpretation.—That they might be judged μὴν indeed, &c. Judged as guilty of 'strange' irrational conduct, and subjected to every form of 'evil speaking,' ver. 4.—In the spirit. In their own spirit, having 'the same mind' that was in Christ, ver. 1, by the renewal of the Spirit of God. C.

Ver. 7. This epistle was written about A.D. 67, shortly after the war with the Romans commenced, which ended in the burning of the temple, the destruction of Jerusalem, and the total ruin of the Jewish state. But there is another and universal sense in which 'the end of all things is at hand' to every man—the hour of death—that separates him for ever from all he loves, or hates, or fears, or possesses, or hopes for in time, and brings him into immediate contact with the unchanging realities of eternity. C.

Ver. 18. And if the righteous scarcely rather, hardly, with difficulty be saved. This difficulty arises from many sources, but mainly, 1. From the necessity of 'cutting off the right hand' and 'plucking out the right eye'—mortifying the deeds of the body, that they may live. (2) From the constant watchfulness to be maintained, and the tendency to slumber to be resisted. (3) From the hopes to be sacrificed, and the fears to be overcome. (4) From the deceitfulness of sin itself, which, like Satan its author, is always transforming itself 'into an angel of light.' (5) From the many persecutions inflicted by an evil world. (6) And specially, and above all, from the contentions of sense with faith. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Nothing so effectually mortifies sin as believing views of Christ's sufferings for it. And the will of God, not our vile affections, must be our guide in all our conduct. An affecting remembrance of former sinfulness powerfully dissuades from a return to it. And not men's thoughts, but Christ's judgment, ought to determine our practice. If we live according to God in the Spirit, no matter what sufferings from carnal men we undergo for his sake.—Our views of approaching calamities, and especially of the last judgment, should produce in us great sobriety, and watching unto prayer, fervent charity, cheerful hospitality, and a ready and proper use of our gifts. Faithfully should believers, under the impression of it, regard the glory of God; endure with patience, boldness, and joy, in suffering for Christ; and be careful to give their enemies no proper ground of offence, seriously committing themselves to God in well-doing. Abundant is the comfort that all sufferings for Christ shall be richly rewarded in an eternal enjoyment of him, and that his blessed Spirit abides on and shares with us in all such afflictions. But if saints thus suffer on earth, how miserable must sinners be in time or eternity! If they who strive to enter in at the strait gate be saved with difficulty, how impossible is it for careless sinners to escape the reward of their doings!

CHAPTER V. Ver. 1-4. And as for you who are the spiritual rulers and pastors of the Christian church, I—who am one myself, and who, after being an eye-

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

ε Is. 10. 12. Je. 25. 29;
49. 12. Eze. 9. 6. Am. 3. 2.
Da. 9. 27. Mal. 3. 5. Mat.
24. 9. 14. Jn. 16. 2.
g Lu. 23. 31; 10. 12-15;
21. 23. 24. Mat. 24. 21.
h If it first begin at us (Christians),
'what shall be the end' of our unbelieving brethren?—C.
i ch. 5. 8. Pr. 11. 31.
Je. 25. 29. Eze. 18. 24.
Zec. 13. 9. Mat. 24. 22-24. Mar. 13. 20-22. Lu.
23. 31. Ac. 14. 22; 27. 24.
31. 42-44. 1 Co. 10. 12.
He. 4. 11. 10. 38, 39.
i Ps. 1. 4. 5. Lu. 15. 1.
Ro. 1. 18; 5. 6. 8. 2 Pe. 2. 5.
63. 7. Jude 15.
j See ch. 3. 14, 17; ver.
14. 16. 2 Ti. 3. 12.
k Ps. 31. 5; 37. 5. Lu. 23.
46. 2 Ti. 1. 12. Re. 2. 10.

CHAP. V.

a Ac. 14. 23; 15. 6. 23;
20. 17. 28. 1 Ti. 5. 17. 19.
Tit. 1. 5. 7. 2 Jn. 1. 3 Jn. 1.
Phile. 9.
b Lu. 24. 48. Ac. 1. 8.
2. 2. 32; 3. 15; 5. 32; 10.
39. 41.
c Re. 1. 9. Ro. 8. 17. 18.
2 Ti. 2. 11. 12. 1 Jn. 3. 2.
Col. 3. 4. ver. 4.

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.

d Jn. 21. 15-17. Ac. 20.
20. 28. 1 Co. 9. 17; 4. 1. 2
Ti. 4. 2. 5.
e 1 Or, as much as in you is.
f 1 Ti. 3. 3, 8, 16. Tit. 1.
7. 2 Co. 12. 14, 15. Ac. 20.
33. 34.
g Mat. 20. 25. 26. 2 Co.
1. 24. 1 Co. 3. 5. Ja. 4. 12.
2 Or, overruling.
h De. 32. 9. Ps. 33. 12;
74. 2; 135. 4. Eze. 34. 4. 1
Co. 3. 9; 16. 19. 20. Tit. 2.
14. Re. 5. 9. Ac. 20. 28.
i Phi. 3. 17. 2 Th. 3. 9. 1
Ti. 4. 12. Tit. 2. 7.
j Is. 40. 11. Eze. 34. 23;
37. 24. Jn. 10. 11. He. 13.
20. ch. 2. 25.
k Tit. 2. 13. Mat. 25.
31-46. Ac. 17. 31. 2 Th. 1.
7-10. Re. 1. 7; 20. 11, 12.
l 1 Co. 9. 25. 2 Ti. 4. 8.
Re. 2. 10; 3. 11. ch. 1. 4.
m Le. 19. 32. 1 Ti. 5. 1. 2. n Ro. 12. 10. 16. Phi. 2.
3. Ep. 5. 21. ch. 3. 4.
o Job 37. 24. Pr. 3. 24;
6. 16. 17; 16. 5, 18, 19; 18.
12; 22. 4; 29. 23. Is. 2. 11;
13. 11; 57. 15. Mat. 23. 12.
Lu. 1. 51. 52; 14. 11; 18.
14. Ja. 4. 6.
p Is. 57. 15. Job 22. 29.
Ja. 4. 7, 10. Je. 13. 18. Ps.
50. 15. 91. 15. Pr. 29. 23.
Mat. 23. 12. Lu. 1. 52.

2 Feed<sup>d</sup> the flock of God which is among you,<sup>1</sup> taking the oversight thereof, not by constraint, but willingly; <sup>e</sup>not for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind;

3 Neither<sup>g</sup> as <sup>2</sup>being lords over <sup>h</sup>God's heritage, <sup>i</sup>but being ensamples to the flock.

4 And when the <sup>j</sup>chief Shepherd <sup>k</sup>shall appear, ye shall receive <sup>l</sup>a crown of glory that fadeth not away.

5 Likewise, <sup>n</sup>ye younger, submit yourselves unto the elder. Yea, all of you <sup>o</sup>be subject one to another, and be clothed with humility: for <sup>p</sup>God resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble.

6 Humble<sup>q</sup> yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time:

witness of the sufferings of Christ, have boldly preached them as the ground of men's salvation, at the hazard of my life, in the assured hopes of being, in a little time, a partaker with him in that glory which he secured thereby, and which he has taken possession of, as my Head, Representative, and Forerunner, and will openly manifest and bestow—beseech you diligently and faithfully to teach and govern those souls which he secured by suffering and has committed to your care, personally inspecting their principles, temper, and conduct, and looking after their spiritual concerns with wisdom and meekness—not from external motives of fear, shame, or regard to worldly advantages, as your governing end, but with freedom and delight, purely for the honour of Christ and welfare of souls; and not with ambitious views of honour to yourselves, or in an imperious, haughty, and domineering manner, as if ye had the rule over the faith and consciences of God's peculiar people; but as examples of humility, self-denial, holiness, and righteousness to them—that when Jesus, who secured them by sacrifice, and saves them by his power and grace, and under whom ye act, and to whom ye are accountable, appears to judge the world at the last day, ye may receive from him a great but gracious reward of everlasting glory and honour. 5. And ye who are younger, or in private stations, or at least inferiors in some respect, study to be always attentive and submissive to the admonitions, cautions, and reproofs of your superiors in age, wisdom, experience, or station, particularly your church-rulers, treating their persons, characters, and instructions with due esteem and reverence. And let all of you beware of self-conceit or obstinacy, behaving with due respect one to another, and yielding to each other as far as your rank and circumstances can possibly permit. And let an unfeigned humility appear in your whole conduct, as its great ornament and a cover to its defects. 6. And considering what a great, sovereign, almighty, and just God ye have to do with, and what terrible judgments he is about to execute, in the course of his providence, on your nation and the Christian church, as an emblem of still greater in the world to come, yield up yourselves to his almighty, sovereign, and holy will, under all the sufferings and troubles you meet with for your trial, that when he has gained the wise and gracious ends of his chastenings, he may lift you up above all tribulations, and advance you to all those honours or delights which are for your spiritual or eternal advantage. 7. Yea, whatever be your distressing burdens, anxieties, fears, and cares, with respect to yourselves, families, friends, or the church of Christ, commit them all by faith and prayer to him, relying on his power and goodness for seasonable relief; for he has all your concerns at heart, and will pity, succour, strengthen, and comfort you, and, in his own time and way, give you a happy deliverance from and issue of all your troubles, in your everlasting salvation. 8. But amidst all the difficulties and dangers of your present warfare, labour always to maintain a wakeful, sober, and humble temper of mind, in modest thoughts of yourselves, and in moderating your affections towards earthly enjoyments; and watch unto prayer, and unto the performance of all the duties of your station, and against temptations to sin and apostasy; for your busy and powerful adversary the devil, like a fierce, savage,

7 Casting<sup>r</sup> all your care upon him, for he careth for you.

8 Be<sup>s</sup> sober, be vigilant; because <sup>t</sup>your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour:

9 Whom<sup>u</sup> resist, steadfast in the faith, knowing that <sup>v</sup>the same afflictions are accomplished in your brethren that are in the world.

10 But the <sup>w</sup>God of all grace, <sup>x</sup>who hath called us unto his eternal glory by Christ Jesus, <sup>y</sup>after that ye have suffered a while, make you perfect, stablish, strengthen, settle you.

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.
r Ps. 37. 55, 56. Mat. 6. 25-34. Lu. 12. 12. 1 Co. 9. 9, 10. Phi. 4. 6. 1 Ti. 6. 8. He. 13. 5. s Lu. 21. 34, 36. 1 Th. 5. 6, ch. 1. 13; 4. 7. Ro. 13. 11-14.
t Job 1. 7; 2. 2. Re. 12. 9, 12; 20. 2. Lu. 22. 31.
u Ep. 4. 27; 6. 11, 13. Ja. 4. 7.
v Ja. 1. 16, 23. Ac. 14. 22. 1 Th. 3. 3. 2 Ti. 3. 12. ch. 1. 6; 2. 20, 21; 3. 14; 4. 1, 12. Re. 1. 9, 6. 11; 7. 14; 13. 7.
x Ex. 34. 6, 7. Ps. 86. 5, 15. Mt. 7. 18, 19. 2 Co. 13. 11. Ep. 1. 6, 7; 2. 4, 7.
y ch. 2. 9. 2 Pe. 1. 3. 1 Co. 1. 9. z 2 Co. 4. 16, 17. ch. 1. 6, 7. Ro. 16. 25. 2 Co. 13. 11. 2 Th. 2. 17; 3. 3. 1 Ti. 6. 12. He. 10. 36, 37; 13. 21. Jude 24. Zec. 10. 6, 12. Ps. 138. 7, 8.

A.M. cir. 4069.
A.D. cir. 65.
a See Ro. 16. 27. 1 Ti. 1. 17, 18. 16. 2. Ti. 4. 18. Ep. 3. 21. ch. 4. 11. Re. 1. 6; 5. 13.
b 1 Th. 1. 1. 2 Th. 1. 1. 2 Co. 1. 19. Ac. 15. 22, 27. 40. c He. 13. 22. Ep. 3. 3. d Ga. 1. 8, 9. Tit. 2. 11. Ac. 20. 24. ch. 1. 13; 2. 3. Ro. 5. 2. 2 Co. 1. 24. He. 13. 9. 1 Co. 15. 1.
e Ge. 10. 10. Da. 4. 30. Ps. 87. 4, with ch. 1. 2, 9.
f Ac. 12. 12, 25; 13. 5. 13. 15. 37, 38. Col. 4. 10. 2 Ti. 4. 11. Phil. 2. 24.
g Ro. 16. 16. 1 Co. 16. 20. 2 Co. 13. 12. 1 Th. 5. 26.
h See ch. 1. 2. Ep. 6. 23. 2 Pe. 1. 12. Jude 2.
i Ro. 8. 1. 1 Co. 1. 30. Ep. 1. 1. Col. 1. 2; 3. 1, 3. 4. Ga. 2. 20. 1 Th. 1. 1. 2 Th. 1. 1. Jude 1.

11 To<sup>a</sup> him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

12 By <sup>b</sup>Silvanus, a faithful brother unto you, as I suppose, I have written <sup>c</sup>briefly, exhorting, and testifying that this is the <sup>d</sup>true grace of God wherein ye stand.

13 The church that is at <sup>e</sup>Babylon, elected together with you, saluteth you; and so doth <sup>f</sup>Marcus my son.

14 Greet<sup>h</sup> ye one another with a kiss of charity. <sup>i</sup>Peace be with you all that are in Christ Jesus. Amen.

and hungry lion, is indefatigably restless in his contrivances and endeavours, by persecutions, frauds, and evil suggestions, to wound, tear, and ruin immortal souls; 9. Whom ye must courageously resist—steadfastly maintaining the pure doctrines of faith, and your holy profession of the same, in a firm dependence on the power and grace of Christ to vanquish him. And to prevent your being disheartened in the combat, remember that ye are only meeting with such a conformity to Christ in sufferings as your Christian brethren everywhere meet with in this evil world. 10. May therefore that God, who is rich in mercy, and who of his own great love is the fountain and giver of all grace, and who, by his Word and Spirit, has tenderly called us to the promised, prepared, and infinitely blessed inheritance of eternal glory, through the merits and mediation of Jesus Christ, after and by means of these your transient afflictions, render you perfect in knowledge and practice; establish you immovably in the faith, hope, profession, and holiness of the gospel; strengthen you with all might unto all patience, obedience, and suffering; and settle your souls with unshaken peace, safety, and comfort, on that foundation laid in Sion. 12. By Silas, whom I can recommend as a faithful brother, and whom I expect you will find such, I have sent you this short letter, to exhort and encourage you to abide by the testimony which I have herein given you for the confirmation of your faith, assuring you that this is the true gospel of the grace of God relating to salvation by Christ alone—in the doctrine, belief, and profession of which ye have lived, and I hope shall continue to stand fast, notwithstanding all the terrors and artifices of your enemies to bring you off from it.

Ver. 1. An elder. Rather, 'a co-presbyter;' a title adopted by Peter—1. Because elder was a name of office better known among the Jews than almost any other, and completely setting aside the Romish claim of priesthood in the sense of 'sacrificer.' (2) That the Spirit by whom he wrote might, as by a prophetic anticipation, rebuke those proud titles and assumptions of superiority by which, in virtue of an original supremacy asserted for Peter, the popes of Rome, styling themselves his successors, have continued a terrible 'lordship over God's heritage,' ver. 3, except where the Alpine and Pyrenean churches in Europe, the Christians of St. Thomas in Asia, and a few other scattered churches, continued to preserve the truth of the gospel and their ecclesiastical liberties till the blessed Reformation restored the Bible, and light and liberty to the benighted churches and enslaved kingdoms. C.

Ver. 2. Taking the oversight (ἐπισκοποῦντις), 'exercising the episcopate'—discharging your duties as bishops. See Ac. 20. 17. C.

Ver. 5. The term 'elders' is here, as in ver. 1, official. It signifies the ministry of the church. Consequently the word younger must mean the flock, the people, the laity, as contradistinguished from the ministry. P.

Ver. 10. Make you perfect. Joint you completely together as the timbers of a building.—Stablish, by supporting each part by means of its fellow.—Strengthen. Cramp and bind all the parts together.—Settle, by bringing all to rest on an even and firm foundation. The phrases are all architectural, and seem to be a beautiful reference to ch. 2. 5. C.

Ver. 12. As I suppose. Rather, 'as I regard him.' C.
Ver. 13. Babylon. In apostolic times Babylon was still inhabited, and contained a large Jewish community. Doubtless it was while labouring among them Peter addressed this epistle to his brethren in other regions. P.

REFLECTIONS.—With an exemplary spirit and conversation, humbleness of mind, disinterestedness, cheerfulness, and diligence, ought ministers to inspect, instruct, warn, exhort, comfort, and govern the souls committed to their care by Christ, who redeemed them by his blood. And glorious, but free, is the reward that awaits them if they be found faithful. With great humility, submission to one another, self-humiliation under God's mighty hand, and casting our cares upon him, ought every one of us professed Christians to adorn our profession, and prepare for the eternal state. And constant should be our sobriety, watchfulness against and vigorous resistance of Satan, and resignation to our share of sufferings for Christ. It is a mercy that the saints' sufferings are so short and light, their assistance under them so great, and their reward after them, from the God of all grace, so inestimable and everlasting. Their standing for a little time in the faith and love, profession and practice, of the gospel, will quickly issue in their eternal triumphs in his praise.

THE SECOND EPISTLE GENERAL OF PETER.

The design of this epistle is merely to follow up the former with some additional illustrations and encouragements. It must be understood, however, as addressed equally to Jewish and Gentile converts, 'to all who had obtained like precious faith.' And though the references seem generally to imply that the parties were perfectly familiar with the Old Testament Scriptures, yet as the Old Testament had already been translated into Greek, there can be little reason for imagining that the Gentile converts would not be as well acquainted with them as the Jews. This brief epistle contains the following numerous references to the other Scriptures: Ge. 1. 6-9; 7. 1-9, 11, 16, 22, 23; 19. 16, 24, 25; Nu. 22. 5, 7, 21, 23, 28; Jos. 23. 14; 2 Sa. 23. 2; Ps. 102. 26; Is. 5. 19; 65. 17-19; Mat. 17. 1-5; Paul's epistles; and probably Re. xxi. C.

CHAPTER I.

1 Confirming them in hope of the increase of God's graces, <sup>5</sup>he exhorteth them, by faith, and good works, to make their calling sure: 12 whereof he is careful to remember them, knowing that his death is at hand; 16 and warneth them to be constant in the faith of Christ, who is the true Son of God, by the eye-witness of the apostles beholding his majesty, and by the testimony of the Father, and the prophets.

SIMON PETER,<sup>a</sup> <sup>b</sup>a servant and an apostle of Jesus Christ, to them that have obtained like<sup>c</sup> precious faith with us <sup>d</sup>through the righteousness of God and our Saviour<sup>1</sup> Jesus Christ:

A.M. cir. 4071.
A.D. cir. 67.
CHAP. 1.
a See 1 Pe. 1. 1. Mat. 10. 2. b Jn. 20. 21; 21. 15-17. Mat. 28. 18-20. Mar. 16. 15. 1 Co. 12. 28. Ep. 4. 11, 12. 1 Pe. 5. 1.
c Ac. 11. 17; 15. 9. Ro. 1. 12. 2 Co. 4. 13. Ep. 4. 5. Tit. 1. 4. Jude 3. d Phil. 1. 11. Ep. 2. 8, with Ro. 1. 17; 3. 21-26; 5. 15-21. 1 Co. 1. 30. 2 Co. 1. 12. 2 Co. 4. 13. Ep. 4. 5. Tit. 1. 4. Jude 3.
1 Or, our God and Saviour. Tit. 2. 13.
e Da. 4. 16, 25. Nu. 6. 24-26. Ro. 1. 7. Ps. 28. 9; 29. 11. Jude 2. See 1 Pe. 1. 12. Jn. 17. 3. 1 Jn. 2. 20-27; 5. 15, 13.

A.M. cir. 4071.
A.D. cir. 67.
2 Knowledge. Rather, 'acknowledgment.'—C.
g Ps. 34. 10; 84. 11; 85. 12. Ro. 8. 28, 32. 1 Co. 3. 22. 1 Ti. 4. 8, 9.
h Jn. 13. 17. 1 Jn. 2. 20, 27; 5. 20. ch. 3. 18. See ver. 2.
i 1 Co. 1. 9. 2 Ti. 1. 9. Ga. 1. 6, 5. 8. Ep. 4. 1, 4. 1 Pe. 2. 9, 21; 1. 3-5. 1 Th. 4. 7.
3 Or, by.
4 Whereby. Rather, 'by which;' that is, by 'all things,' &c., ver. 3.—C.
j 2 Co. 7. 1. Ga. 3. 16. Ac. 3. 26. 15. 56. 5. Ro. 8. 15, 32. Ps. 147. 19.

2 Grace<sup>e</sup> and peace be multiplied unto you through the knowledge<sup>2</sup> of God, and of Jesus our Lord,

3 According as his divine power hath given unto us <sup>g</sup>all things that pertain unto life and godliness, <sup>h</sup>through the knowledge of him that hath <sup>i</sup>called us to<sup>3</sup> glory and virtue:

4 Whereby<sup>4</sup> are<sup>j</sup> given unto us exceeding great and precious promises; that <sup>k</sup>by these ye

<sup>k</sup> Eze. 36. 26. Jn. 3. 6; 1. 12, 13. Ja. 1. 18. 1 Pe. 1. 3, 22, 23. 2 Co. 3. 18. Ep. 4. 23, 24. Col. 3. 10. He. 12. 12. 1 Jn. 3. 2, 3. ch. 2. 18, 22.

might be partakers of the divine nature,<sup>5</sup> having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust.<sup>6</sup>

5 And beside this, giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge;

6 And<sup>n</sup> to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness;

7 And<sup>o</sup> to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness charity.

8 For if these things be in you, and abound, they<sup>p</sup> make you that ye shall neither be barren<sup>7</sup> nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ.

9 But he that lacketh these things is<sup>q</sup> blind, and cannot see afar off, and hath forgotten that he<sup>r</sup> was purged from his old sins.<sup>8</sup>

10 Wherefore the rather, brethren, give diligence to make your calling and election sure: for if ye do these things, ye shall never fall:

11 For<sup>s</sup> so an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly<sup>9</sup> into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

12 Wherefore<sup>t</sup> I will not be negligent to put you always in remembrance of these things,

A.M. cir. 4071.
A.D. cir. 67.

5 See note * below.

6 Rather, 'in lust,' i.e. consisting in lust, which is one of the great elements of sin.—P.

7 Pr. 4. 23. Phil. 3. 13, 14; 12. 4. 8; 19. ch. 3. 18. Ro. 5. 3-5; 12. 10-21.

8 Jn. 13. 17. Ga. 5. 23. 1 Co. 9. 25. 11e. 10. 36; 12. 1. Ja. 1. 4. 5. 7. 8. 1 Ti. 4. 7. Tit. 2. 12. 1 Pe. 1. 15, 16. Ge. 5. 24; 17. 1.

9 Jn. 13. 34, 35. He. 13. 1-3. 1 Pe. 1. 22. 1 Th. 4. 9. 3. 12; 5. 15. 1 Jn. 4. 20. 1 Co. 13. 1-8. Ga. 6. 10. Ro. 12. 10. 1 Pe. 3. 8.

10 Jn. 13. 17; 15. 2-6, 8, 16. Tit. 2. 12, 14; 3. 8, 14. Ps. 119. 32.

7 Or, idle.

9 Is. 6. 9, 10; 59. 10. Jn. 9. 39, 41. 2 Co. 4. 3, 4. 1 Jn. 2. 9-11. Jn. 3. 19.

8 ver. 4; ch. 2. 18, 20.

8 Hath forgotten that he was purged from his old sins, emblematically, in his baptism. Was a professor, not a believer.—C.

5 He. 3. 1. 1 Pe. 1. 2, 3.

7 ch. 3. 17. Ro. 12. 1, 2, 11. Phil. 2. 12, 13. 1 Jn. 3. 19. Re. 22. 14. Phil. 1. 27; 4. 8, 9. 13. 14. 2 Th. 2. 13. 1 Pe. 1. 12.

11 Re. 3. 10, 11. 1 Pe. 1. 5.

12 Jn. 10. 9, 10, 28. 2 Co. 5. 1, 2. 1 Ti. 4. 8. Re. 3. 21; 2. 26. Mat. 25. 34.

9 Abundantly.—Richly, triumphantly.—C.

11 Ro. 15. 14, 15. Phil. 3. 1. ch. 3. 1. Jude 3. ver. 13, 15.

* Partakers of the divine nature' signifies partakers of that knowledge, love, righteousness, and holiness which are the characteristics of God.—P.

1 Jn. 2. 21. 1 Pe. 5. 9, 12. ch. 3. 17. Re. 3. 10.

2 2 Co. 5. 1, 4. ch. 3. 1. Heb. 13. 3.

3 De. 4. 21, 22; 31. 14. 1 Ki. 2. 12. Ti. 4. 6. Jn. 21. 18, 19. Pr. 27. 1.

1 This epistle, therefore, must have been written towards the close of the apostle's life, and about the year A.D. 68.—P.

8 De. 31. 16, 19, 28. 2 Ti. 2. 2. ch. 3. 1; ver. 12.

11 Co. 1. 17, 23; 2. 1, 14, 13; 4. 20. 2 Co. 2. 17; 4. 2, 5; 6. 7. ch. 3. 4.

12 Jn. 1. 1, 14; 4. 14. Mat. 17. 1-5.

13 Jn. 20. 17. 2 Co. 1. 3; 11. 31. Ep. 1. 3; 4. 6. 1 Pe. 1. 2, 3.

14 Mat. 17. 5; 3. 17. Mar. 1. 11; 9. 7. Lu. 3. 22; 9. 35. Jn. 12. 28. Ep. 1. 6. Col. 1. 13. Is. 42. 1.

15 Mat. 17. 12, 6, with Ex. 3. 5. Jos. 5. 15.

17 Is. 8. 20. Jn. 5. 39. Ac. 17. 11. Ps. 19. 9. Lu. 16. 29, 31.

2 The scriptures of the Old Testament afford a more sure testimony to the divine mission and work of our Lord than the voice from heaven, inasmuch as it embraces a wider range of evidence, it affords many lines of proof from prophecy, type, and detailed description.—P.

3 Ps. 119. 105. Pr. 6. 23. Jn. 5. 35. Ac. 2. 25-30; 13. 26-46. 2 Co. 4. 6. Ro. 13. 12. Re. 2. 28; 22. 16.

though ye know them, and be established in the present truth.

13 Yea, I think it meet, as long as I am in<sup>z</sup> this tabernacle, to stir you up, by putting you in remembrance;

14 Knowing<sup>a</sup> that shortly I must put off this my tabernacle, even as our Lord Jesus Christ hath showed me.<sup>1</sup>

15 Moreover, I will endeavour that ye may be able after my decease to have these things always in remembrance.

16 For<sup>c</sup> we have not followed cunningly-devised fables, when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but were<sup>d</sup> eye-witnesses of his majesty.

17 For he received from God the Father honour and glory, when there came such a voice to him from the excellent glory, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

18 And this voice which came from heaven<sup>h</sup> we heard, when we were with him in the holy mount.

19 We<sup>i</sup> have also a more sure word of prophecy;<sup>2</sup> whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place,

CHAPTER I. Ver. 1, 2. Simon Peter—divinely called to be a ministering servant, and honoured to be an inspired messenger of Jesus Christ, in founding and forming the gospel church—to those Jews scattered in and about Lesser Asia, who, in the lovingly gracious dispensations of God, have been made partakers of a saving faith, of the same excellent nature and kind, as to its causes, acts, objects, fruits, and benefits, which we apostles and other believers have received; not through our goodness, but through faith and through the merit of that everlasting sacrifice which was brought in by the obedience and sufferings of Jesus Christ our divine Saviour—wishes all the blessings of grace and peace may abound, in their richest variety and fulness, to all and each of you, through your believing, experimental, and increasing acquaintance with our common Lord and Redeemer, and with God as our reconciled Father in him; 3. According as, in his almighty power and free favour, he has already bestowed upon us all those blessings which are requisite for maintaining and improving our spiritual life, till it be perfected in eternal life; and for every exercise of grace, in acts of piety towards God, till it be completed in glory; through the efficacious knowledge and faithful acknowledgment of him, and of the Father in him,—who has by the gospel, and through a living faith in Jesus Christ, tenderly called us to an inheritance of eternal glory, and to a courageous profession of our faith and hope of it; 4. By which divine Persons, and the glorious operations of their power through the gospel, are lovingly, freely, and graciously given to us the most inconceivably great, rich, valuable, honourable, and everlasting promises of the new covenant, fully furnished with all the transcendent blessings of grace and glory, that, by the application and fulfilment of these promises in all their variety, riches, and extent, ye might have fellowship with God, and have implanted in you a new nature, derived from him, conformed to him, and tending to and delighting in him,—ye having, as an introduction to and as a part and evidence of it, renounced and with vigour and abhorrence fled from the corrupt principles and practices which spread and prevail among unregenerate men, through the power of their depraved inclinations and inordinate affections to carnal things. 5-7. In consideration therefore of what ye have already received, ye ought, with the utmost care and diligence, to increase more and more in every grace and duty in their due order; particularly in active faith,—Christian courage in your holy profession and practice,—spiritual knowledge, wisdom, and prudence;—the due regulation and government of your passions and appetites, and weakness of heart from the alluring objects of sense;—patience under tribulations, in a calm resignation to the will of your heavenly Father;—holy reverence of God, and conscientious attention to every ordinance of his worship, from a principle of love to him, in obedience to his command, and for his glory;—an affectionate love, tenderness, sympathy, and compassion, with all proper expressions thereof towards your fellow-Christians as brethren in Christ;—and a universal benevolence to all mankind, as partakers of the same human nature with yourselves, endeavouring to promote their temporal and spiritual welfare, whether they be friends or enemies: 8. For if these excellent graces be found in you, and be lively and enlarged in their exercise, they will render you thriving, active, and useful Christians; vigorous, diligent, and abounding in every good word and work relating to God, yourselves, and others, answerably to your fiducial knowledge and acknowledgment of Christ as our only Lord and Saviour. 9. Whereas those professors, who are destitute of the forementioned graces, or have no sensible experience of the exercise of them, are, amidst all their pretences to knowledge, in spiritual darkness; their eyes being shut against the light, or having only a glimmering, confused, and short sight, which cannot penetrate into the beauty and glory of Christ, his truths and ways;—and they have practically renounced their baptismal blessings and obligations, and remain unconcerned about the pardon and destruction of their natural corruptions and early wickedness. 10. Since the difference between real and nominal Christians is so great, and since so many take up with a profession, without the experience of true grace, do you, my beloved brethren, exert yourselves to the utmost in the use of all the appointed means of grace, to make sure your blessed calling to Christ, and renovation of your nature, that you may have a good hope, through faith in the sacrifice of Christ, of entering into everlasting life; for if it be manifested by the habitual exercises of the above-mentioned graces, whatever trials, failings, and infirmities may attend you, ye shall never finally apostatize from Christ, or fall into everlasting ruin; 11. But instead thereof, shall have an abundant measure of hope and joy in your way to the full enjoyment of God; and at last have, in death, a triumphant entrance into all the sublime dignity, affluence, and delights of that eternal kingdom of glory, which Christ has secured and taken possession of for the world, and which he invites all through faith to enter. 12-15. As these things are of so much importance, and yet so much opposed, I cannot but remind you of them, and urge them upon your consciences,—that, as ye have already known and firmly believed them, ye may be more and more affected with them and practise them; nay, while I continue living in this mortal body, and sojourning in this world, I must, in justice to these truths, and to your souls, repeatedly remind you of them, and earnestly urge you to practise them, lest, through the treachery of your memories or hearts, ye should forget and neglect them.—And I am the more solicitous to do this now, as I know that I must quickly leave this mortal state, and seal my testimony with my blood and death, as our dear Lord and Saviour long ago intimated to me.—And I am deeply concerned to leave behind me this, as well as my former epistle, in order to establish you in these truths, and stir you up to the practice of them, after I shall, by death, have departed from this state of sin, sorrow, and mortality, into a perfectly holy and blessed state of everlasting life with Christ. 16. For in making known to you the divine authority, power, and glory in which our Lord Jesus will come to judge the world at the last day, we have not craftily framed, nor artfully related to you, sophistical and idle stories, like many of the Jewish rabbins, or like the heathen romancers,—but that of which we had an emblem and earnest presented to our eyes and ears on the mount of transfiguration. 17, 18. Where we distinctly heard God the Father, who is infinitely glorious in himself, and dwells in the inaccessible light and glory of heavenly mansions, expressly attest our Redeemer as his dearly beloved and eternal Son; in whose person, offices, undertakings, and performances, he was exceedingly delighted; as he also is with all those who are united to him by faith, and clothed with his righteousness. 19. But beside this emblematic and presumptive proof of Christ's future appearance in divine power and majesty to judge the world, we have many more plain declarations of it in the Scripture, to which ye ought carefully to attend, as to a light to guide and direct you amidst the remaining darkness of Judaism, heathenism, and carnal ignorance of heart,—till at last the glorious appearance of Christ himself dissipate all obscurity or doubt about what was intimated by the vision on the mount, and is thus further confirmed by the predictions of Scripture. 20, 21. Meanwhile, ye may confidently depend on the prophetic attestation of Christ's glorious appearance,—being, first of all, fully satisfied that no prophecy of Scripture is the product of human invention, the ancient prophets themselves often not thoroughly understanding the meaning of their predictions;—for none of these ancient prophecies were either delivered or written according to the contrivance, will, and pleasure of the prophets themselves;—but those holy men, whom God set apart and sanctified for his service, spake and until the day dawn, and the day-star arise in your hearts:

20 Knowing this first, that <sup>k</sup>no prophecy of the scripture is of any private interpretation.

21 For <sup>l</sup>the prophecy came not in old time<sup>3</sup> by the will of man: but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost.

CHAPTER II.

1 He foretelleth them of false teachers, showing the impiety and punishment both of them and their followers: 7 from which the godly shall be delivered, as Lot was out of Sodom: 10 and more fully describeth the manners of those profane and blasphemous seducers, whereby they may be the better known, and avoided.

BUT there<sup>a</sup> were false prophets also among the people, even as <sup>b</sup>there shall be false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even <sup>c</sup>denying the Lord that bought them, and bring upon themselves swift destruction.<sup>1</sup>

2 And<sup>d</sup> many shall follow their pernicious<sup>2</sup> ways; by reason of whom the way of truth shall be evil spoken of.

3 And <sup>e</sup>through covetousness shall they with feigned words<sup>3</sup> make merchandise of you: whose<sup>g</sup> judgment now of a long time lingereth not, and their damnation slumbereth not.

4 For if <sup>h</sup>God spared not the angels that sinned, but cast them down to hell, and de-wrote only those things which were suggested to them by the Holy Ghost, whose immediate influence excited them to utter the ideas which he had raised in their minds, and to express them in words which exactly convey the true sense of them.

Ver. 5. Virtue. Ἀρετή, when spoken of man, signifies 'virtue,' in the sense of diligence, laboriousness, energy, fortitude. C.

Ver. 8. The knowledge of Christ is well explained by Alford:—'The knowledge of him is the imitation of him; for as it is true that hereafter seeing him as he is will insure our being perfectly like him, so it is true that here the only way in any degree increasingly to see him as he is, is to become increasingly like him. He only can declare Christ who reflects Christ.' P.

Ver. 10. Give diligence, &c. As, for example by self-examination on love to Jesus, according to that scripture, Jn. 14. 23, 'If a man love me, my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him.' C.

Ver. 18. 'And this voice which came from heaven we [the three apostles, as witnesses] heard; and we have the prophetic word [concerning our Lord thereby more manifestly] confirmed.' C.

Ver. 20. 'No prophecy of Scripture thus manifested to be real and confirmed comes from any man's own discovery or private [unauthorized] exposition.' C.

Ver. 21. This verse gives the reason for the statement made in the preceding, that prophecy is not the offspring of human intellect—the prophets themselves not always knowing the full meaning of utterances. They spake by the inspiration and at the will of the Holy Spirit. The verse ought to be translated as follows:—'For prophecy was never sent after [in accordance with] the will of man; but men spake from God [commissioned by him], impelled by the Holy Spirit.' P.

REFLECTIONS.—It is a high honour to be instrumental in the conversion and sanctification of God's people. What precious faith, and multiplied grace and peace, come to them through Jesus' righteousness and the powerful operations of his Spirit! Tenderly he calls all people to a most glorious inheritance in heaven, and to a holy profession and practice in the way to it. Rich is that fulness of salvation which is given to them in the gospel promises: and great the deliverance from sin, and transformation into the likeness of God, thereby effected. Spiritual sloth indulged is as inconsistent with the gospel as the belief of man's merit of eternal happiness. Grace must be added unto grace, and we must grow in each. Nothing less will prove our devotion, manifest our title to heaven, or make us meet for it. So apt are professors to mistake or apostatize from the truth, that these things cannot be too often considered and inculcated; and the apprehended approaches of death ought to render both ministers and people the more active in their proper work. The truths of the gospel are too important to be dallied with, too certain to be discredited. And the more experience we have had of divine things ourselves, the more are we qualified to teach and recommend them to others. But it is on no human testimony, but on the infallible oracles of God, that our faith must be founded or practice regulated.

CHAPTER II. Ver. 1. But as there were false prophets among your Jewish ancestors who laboured to seduce them from the Lord into idolatry and other wickedness, so there will be, especially among your Jewish nation, false teachers, who, under various pretences, will covertly and craftily introduce the most pernicious errors, tending to the sudden, unexpected, and eternal destruction of both teachers and receivers, as they will both doctrinally and practically deny the glory and renounce the wisdom, authority, grace, and holiness of their Lord and Master, discovered in the gospel revelation of him—whom they boast of as their ancient deliverer from Egypt, and marvellous preserver for many ages afterward, and who is the acknowledged Saviour and Redeemer of all the world. 2. And through the natural depravity and enmity of their hearts against God and his ways, many nominal professors of Christ's name shall be seduced into their licentious and destructive principles and practices—on account of which the truths of the gospel, and the way of holiness and happiness therein prescribed, will be blasphemously reproached by its enemies; 3. And by flattering speeches shall these seducers, influenced by their covetous inclinations, labour to deceive you, in order to promote their own secular advantages. But, from the examples of others, it is manifest that the terrible judgments of God, long ago determined and threatened, hasten apace towards them, and shall in due season be executed upon them. 4. For if God did not show favour to nor abate the punishment of those angels that are of a far higher rank, who, through pride and envy, transgressed that law which he had given them for the rule and trial of their obedience, but, for their first offence, hurled them down, with righteous indignation, from their holy, happy, and honourable habitation in heaven, and confined them in a state and region of horror and despair, till, at the general judgment, they shall receive their public condemnation, and have their full torment begun; 5. And if he had no pity on the inhabitants of the old world who had despised all his solemn and gracious warnings by Noe, that faithful preacher of righteousness, repentance, and reformation, and of the righteous judgments of God against the impenitent, who, with seven only of his family, was saved, livered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved unto judgment;

5 And <sup>i</sup>spared not the old world, but saved Noah the eighth person, a preacher of righteousness, bringing in the flood upon the world of the ungodly;

6 And <sup>j</sup>turning the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah into ashes, condemned them with an overthrow, making them an ensample unto those that after should live ungodly;

7 And <sup>k</sup>delivered just Lot, <sup>l</sup>vexed with the filthy conversation of the wicked:

8 (For that righteous man dwelling among them, in seeing and hearing, vexed his righteous soul from day to day with their unlawful deeds;)

9 The<sup>n</sup> Lord knoweth how to deliver<sup>4</sup> the godly out of temptations, and to <sup>o</sup>reserve the unjust unto the day of judgment to be punished:

10 But<sup>p</sup> chiefly them that walk after the flesh in the lust of uncleanness, and <sup>q</sup>despise government:<sup>6</sup> presumptuous are they, self-willed; they are not afraid to speak evil of dignities.

11 Whereas<sup>r</sup> angels, which are greater in power and might, bring not railing accusation against them<sup>7</sup> before the Lord.

A.M. cir. 4071.
A.D. cir. 67.
k Ro. 12. 6. 2 Ti. 3. 16.
l 2 Ti. 3. 16. 1 Pe. 1. 11. m Ki. 4. 27. Am. 7. 14. 15.
n Lu. 16. 28. 23. 12. 20. 26. 2.
o Lu. 23. 2. Lu. 1. 70. Ep. 2. 20.
3 Or, at any time.

CHAP. II.

a De. 13. 1-3. 1 Ki. 18.
b 2 Ti. 2. 26. Is. 56. 10. 11.
c Je. 14. 14. 23. 16. 25. 26.
d Eze. 13. 3-6. 16. 17. Ho. e 9. 8. Mi. 2. 11. 3. 5. 11.
f Mat. 24. 5. 11. 24.
g Ac. 20. 29. 30. 1 Co. 11.
h 19. 1 Ti. 4. 1. 2. 1 Jn. 4. 1.
i Re. 2. 9.
j Jude 4. 18. De. 32. 6.
k Phi. 3. 19. ver. 3. 9.

1 See note * below.
d Ac. 20. 30. 1 Ti. 3. 1-6. 4. 3. 4. 2 Th. 2. 3. 1 Jn. 2. 18. 19. Re. 11. 21. 3. 3. 4. 7. 17. 2. Mat. 24. 11. 24.
2 Or, lascivious, as some copies read.

e ver. 14. Eze. 13. 19.
f Mi. 3. 11. Lu. 22. 47. Ro. 16. 18. Tit. 1. 11. 1 Ti. 6. 5. with 1 Th. 2. 5. ch. 1. 16. 2 Co. 7. 2. 12. 14. 17. 2 Ti. 3. 6.
3 Feigned words. Fictitious legends and pretended miracles, whereby Christianity is still adulterated.—C.

g ver. 1. 9. Jude 4-7. 19. De. 32. 35.
h Job 4. 18. Lu. 8. 31. Mat. 8. 29. Jn. 8. 44. 1 Jn. 3. 8. Jude 6. Re. 20. 2. 10. Mat. 25. 41.

* But there were false prophets among the (Jewish) people (even as there shall be false teachers among you, who shall privily bring in destructive heresies), even prophets <sup>denying the Lord that bought them, bringing upon themselves swift destruction.</sup>

A.M. cir. 4071.
A.D. cir. 67.
This denial of 'the Lord that bought them' is a manifest reference to such passages as De. 7. 8; 15. 15; 24. 18; 32. 6-30; and the 'swift destruction' may be exemplified, Nu. 16. 16-21. 31-35. 45-48.—Note. The construction of the original, especially when the resumption of the future in ver. 2 is considered, seems not only to warrant, but to require, that the parenthesis in ver. 1 be confined to the false teachers, and the beginning and end to the false prophets.—C.

i Ge. ii. viii. Job 22. 16. 1 Pe. 3. 19. He. 11. 7. ch. 3. 6.

j Ge. 19. 24. 25. 28. De. 29. 23. Is. 13. 19. Je. 50. 40. Eze. 16. 49. Ho. 11. 8. 18. 1. 9. Am. 4. 1. Zep. 2. 9. Lu. 17. 29. Jude 7. Nu. 26. 10.

k Ge. 19. 10. 15. 16. 22. 24. Job 5. 19. Ps. 34. 19. 1 Co. 10. 13.
l Ge. 13. 13. 19. 7. 8. Je. 9. 1-6; 23. 9. Eze. 8. 17; 9. 4. Ps. 120. 5; 55. 5. 10. 11; 119. 136. 139. 158.

m 1 Co. 10. 13. Job 5. 19. Ps. 34. 15-19.

n Having delivered Noah from water and Lot from fire, he gave evidence of his will and power to deliver from all enemies.—C.

o Jude 14. 15. Job 21. 30. Pr. 16. 4. ver. 4. De. 32. 43.
p He. 13. 4. Jude 4. 7. 8. 10. 16. 1 Th. 2. 15. Tit. 1. 7.

q Despise government, whether of God or man.—C.

r Or, dominion.

s Ps. 103. 20; 104. 4. Jude 9. Da. 6. 22.

t Some read against themselves.

when God, by a universal flood of waters, drowned the rest of the inhabitants of the world for their obstinate wickedness; 6. And if, by fire and brimstone from heaven, he utterly destroyed Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboiim, on account of their horrid profligacy and unnatural lewdness, and set them up as a type or pattern of that final conflagration and eternal fire which shall consume all the wicked of the earth, that obstinate sinners of succeeding ages might see what they had to expect from his hand; 7, 8. While in distinguished kindness he plucked his righteous servant Lot as a brand out of the burning, who had been sorely grieved, fatigued, and oppressed in his own soul at the sight and report of the vile, dissolute, lascivious, obscene, and unnatural behaviour of that perverse and wicked people among whom he dwelt:—9. These undoubted facts invincibly prove that the almighty and infinitely wise Sovereign of the world perfectly knows at what time, and in what manner, and by what means, to extricate his faithful servants and worshippers out of all snares, troubles, and dangers, in the very worst of periods; and how to confine the wicked, though most powerful and crafty, under his supreme dominion, till the consequences of their sins come upon them in the judgment, when all reap the reward of their hearts and lives.—10. And according to his infinite wisdom and power, he will peculiarly reserve and punish those impious seducers who, answerably to their corrupt principles, live according to the carnal dictates and desires of their sensual minds, unrestrainedly gratifying their impure and lascivious inclinations, and insolently pouring contempt upon all regular government and authority over them that could put a check upon their vices. Daring, refractory, and headstrong, they seek only to please themselves, and make their own will their sole law, and fearfully and impudently reproach and rail at the apostles and other ministers of Christ, and at the civil magistrates whom God hath set over them to regulate and control their exorbitant passions, appetites, and manners; 11. While angels, who are far superior in dignity to these proud boasters, or any earthly magistrates, are so far from contemning or reviling these deputies of God, that they never use any opprobrious bitter language against the devils themselves. 12. But these presumptuous despisers of government, instead of imitating good angels, like furious beasts of prey, reproach, rage, and rail against persons and things, civil or religious, whose excellence they neither know nor approve; and therefore shall, by 12 But these, "as natural brute beasts, made to be taken and destroyed, speak evil of the things that they understand not; and shall utterly perish in their own corruption;

13 And<sup>t</sup> shall receive the reward of unrighteousness, as they that count it pleasure "to riot in the day-time.<sup>8</sup> Spots they are and blemishes, sporting themselves with their own deceivings, while they feast with you;<sup>9</sup>

14 Having<sup>n</sup> eyes full of adultery,<sup>1</sup> and that cannot cease from sin; beguiling unstable souls: an heart they have exercised with covetous practices; cursed children:

15 Which have forsaken the right way, and are gone astray, following the way of "Balaam the son of Bosor, who loved the wages of unrighteousness;

16 But<sup>y</sup> was rebuked for his iniquity: the dumb ass, speaking with man's voice, forbade the madness of the prophet.

17 These<sup>z</sup> are wells without water,<sup>2</sup> clouds that are carried with a tempest; to whom "the mist of darkness is reserved for ever.

18 For<sup>b</sup> when they speak great swelling words of vanity, they allure through the lusts of the flesh, through much wantonness,<sup>3</sup> those that were clean<sup>4</sup> escaped<sup>c</sup> from them who live in error.

19 While they promise them "liberty, they themselves are "the servants of corruption: for of whom a man is overcome, of the same is he brought in bondage.

20 For<sup>g</sup> if, after they have escaped the pollutions of the world, through the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, they are again entangled therein, and overcome, the latter end is worse with them than the beginning.

A.M. cir. 4071.
A.D. cir. 67.

<sup>r</sup> Jude 10, Ps. 94. 8. Je. 12. 3; 10. 21. ch. 3. 3, 4. Mat. 22. 29. 15. 27. 11; 3. 11.
<sup>s</sup> ver. 19, 22. Pr. 14. 32. ch. 1. 4. Jn. 8. 21. 1s. 66. 4. Je. 2. 19.
<sup>t</sup> Phi. 3. 19. Ro. 2. 8, 9. Re. 18. 7.
<sup>u</sup> Jude 12, 19. Ro. 16. 18. 1 Co. 11. 20, 21. 1 Th. 5. 7, 2 Ti. 3. 6.
<sup>8</sup> So dead to propriety that they are even dead to shame, and "count it a pleasure to riot in the day-time.—C.

<sup>9</sup> While they feast with you, at your "love-feasts"—intending for uniting the rich and poor in temperate hospitality, but which they scandalously pervert to purposes of sensual indulgence. See 1 Co. xi.—C.

<sup>v</sup> Je. 5. 8. Mat. 5. 28. Jude 4. 8, 11, 18. Mi. 3. 11. ch. 3. 3, 2 Ti. 3. 6.

<sup>1</sup> Gr. an adulteress.

<sup>x</sup> Nu. 22. 5, 7, 18, 22; 23. 3, 12, 26; 24. 1, 25, 1, 2. Jude 12. Re. 2. 14. Ac. 1. 18. 1 Ti. 6. 10.

<sup>y</sup> Nu. 22. 22—33.

<sup>z</sup> Jude 12, 13. Ep. 4. 14. Ja. 1. 6. ver. 3, 9, 13.

<sup>2</sup> Wells without water. Utterly disappointing all who hope to draw instruction from them—appearance without reality—pretension without performance.—C.

<sup>a</sup> ver. 4. Job 20. 26. Mat. 22. 13; 8. 12; 25. 30. Jude 6, 13.

<sup>b</sup> Ps. 73. 8. Jude 16. ver. 10, 19. 1 Pe. 2. 11. 2 Ti. 2. 22. 2 Co. 7. 1. Tit. 2. 12.

<sup>3</sup> It is unquestionable that in this manner Mohammed allured his followers; and it is by no means improbable that the system of "lasciviousness and error" which he perfected had begun at the period to which the apostle refers.—C.

<sup>4</sup> Or, for a little or a while.

<sup>c</sup> Ac. 2. 40. ch. 1. 4. ver. 20. Mat. 13. 20, 21.

<sup>d</sup> Ga. 5. 13. 1 Pe. 2. 16.

<sup>e</sup> Jn. 8. 34. Ro. 6. 16. Jude 19.

<sup>f</sup> Mat. 12. 43—45. Lu. 11. 24—26. He. 6. 4—8; 10. 26, 27, 38. Ps. 125. 5. with ch. 1. 2, 4.

* "That by the word of God the heavens were (created) of old, and the earth co-existing (with the heavens) out of the

A.M. cir. 4071.
A.D. cir. 67.

water (on the third day of creation, Ge. 1. 9) and in the water (at the deluge, Ge. 6. 11, 10), by which (to wit, by the heavens pouring forth the waters separated on the second day of creation, Ge. 1. 7; 7. 11, 19—23) the then world, being overflowed by water, perished.—C.
<sup>h</sup> Mat. 11. 23, 24. Lu. 12. 47, 48. Jn. 9. 41; 15. 22. 1 Pr. 12. 28.
<sup>i</sup> Pr. 26. 11. Mat. 12. 43—45. Lu. 11. 24—26. He. 6. 4—8; 10. 26, 27, 38.

CHAP. III.

<sup>a</sup> ch. 1. 12—15. Ro. 15. 14, 15. Phi. 3. 1. Jude 3.
<sup>1</sup> This second (and by implication, first and second) epistle, &c.—C.

<sup>b</sup> 1. Ja. 1. 2, 3, 22, 23; 2. 1. Ja. 1. 21, 27. ch. 1. 3—8. He. 3. 1.

<sup>2</sup> Pure. Literally, "sun-dried."—C.

<sup>c</sup> ch. 1. 19. Jude 17, 18. Ac. 17. 11. Jn. 5. 39. 1s. 8. 20. Ps. 119. 105. 1s. 34. 16. De. 6. 6, 7.

<sup>d</sup> 1 Ti. 4. 1. 2 Ti. 3. 1. Jude 18. ch. 2. 1, 10—18. 1s. 5. 19; 28. 14, 15, 22.

<sup>e</sup> 1s. 5. 19. Je. 17. 15. Eze. 12. 22—27. Mal. 2. 17. Mat. 24. 48. Lu. 12. 45. 1 Co. 15. 12. 2 Ti. 2. 17.

<sup>f</sup> Ps. 28. 5; 33. 6; 24. 2; 136. 6. He. 11. 3. Ge. 1. 6, 9. Job 38. 4—11. Ex. 20. 11.

<sup>3</sup> See note * in first column.

<sup>4</sup> Gr. consisting.

<sup>5</sup> For this escapes them of their own accord, that the heavens were from of old, and that the earth was formed out of the water and by means of the water, by the word of God.—C.

At first, as stated in the beginning of Genesis, the surface of the whole earth was covered with water; but God by the atmosphere separated the water above the earth's surface from that upon it, and thus prepared rain by which the earth is nourished. He also collected the waters on the earth's surface into one place, and thus made the dry land appear from the water.—P.

<sup>h</sup> See ch. 2. 5. Ge. 7. 10, 11, 21. Job 22. 16.

<sup>i</sup> Ps. 102. 26. 1s. 34. 4; 51. 6; 65. 17. He. 1. 11. Mat. 13. 40; 25. 41. Ps. 50. 3. Zep. 3. 8. Th. 1. 8. ver. 10.

21 For<sup>h</sup> it had been better for them not to have known the "way of righteousness, than, after they have known it, to turn from the holy commandment delivered unto them.

22 But it is happened unto them according to the true proverb, "The dog is turned to his own vomit again; and the sow that was washed to her wallowing in the mire.

CHAPTER III.

1 He assureth them of the certainty of Christ's coming to judgment, against those scorers who dispute against it: 8 warning the godly, for the long patience of God, to hasten their repentance. 10 He describeth also the manner how the world shall be destroyed: 11 exhorting them, from the expectation thereof, to all holiness of life: 15 and again, to think the patience of God to tend to their salvation, as Paul wrote to them in his epistles.

THIS "second<sup>1</sup> epistle, beloved, I now write unto you; in both which I stir up your "pure<sup>2</sup> minds by way of remembrance:

2 That ye "may be mindful of the words which were spoken before by the holy prophets, and of the commandment of us the apostles of the Lord and Saviour:

3 Knowing<sup>a</sup> this first, that there shall come in the last days scoffers, walking after their own lusts;

4 And saying, "Where is the promise of his coming? for since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation.

5 For<sup>g</sup> this they willingly are ignorant of, that<sup>3</sup> by the word of God the heavens were of old, and the earth standing<sup>4</sup> out of the water and in the water:<sup>5</sup>

6 Whereby<sup>h</sup> the world that then was, being overflowed with water, perished:

7 But<sup>i</sup> the heavens and the earth which are now, by the same word are kept in store, re-means of their own indulged corruption and wickedness, be utterly and eternally destroyed; 13. Yea, shall be fearfully but justly punished for their complicated crimes, as persons who glory and delight in the most shameless intemperance and unchastity, and are a reproach to the Christian name, gratifying their luxurious inclinations, with their own deceived or deceiving devices, and cheating and imposing upon you, while, under pretences of love and friendship, they partake with you in your ordinary or religious feasts. 14. Their eyes are continually and insatiably employed in wanton and adulterous looks, to discover their own lewd inclinations, and to excite the like in others, or to find out proper objects for inflaming and gratifying the vilest affections. They cannot refrain from contriving or committing sin, or endeavouring to draw others into it; and so, by their enticements in word and deed, they ensnare such unguarded persons as are not established in the truth and holiness of the gospel, nor fortified with grace against their guileful arts. As children of wrath falling to destruction under the rule of God's righteous law, their hearts are entirely engaged in contriving how to fulfil their covetous desires after the riches and honours of this world. 15, 16. They have renounced the only true way of salvation through Jesus Christ, and of walking before God in faith and holy obedience, and have wandered into the ways of sin and error which lead to eternal misery, treading in the paths and copying the example of Balaam, who, amidst all his fair pretences, laboured to curse God's Israel, and directed how to seduce them into uncleanness and idolatry, in order that he might obtain worldly riches and honour; and was, by his own ass, when miraculously enabled to speak, sharply reprov'd for his infatuation and wickedness. 17. Amidst great pretences to and appearances of knowledge, they are really void of true wisdom and grace; and, instead of being truly useful, for the refreshment and fructifying of the church or their followers, they are carried about by the violence of their corruptions from one error and sin to another, till at last they shall be shut up in that infernal darkness, misery, and despair coming to them as their everlasting portion. 18. For hy their high pretences to holiness and wisdom, they only vent the pride and vanity of their own hearts, and accommodating themselves to the sensual and lascivious inclinations of depraved nature, they ensnare such as had been once brought off from the errors of Judaism or heathenism, and had for a time shunned the conversation and practices of such as lead wicked lives according to their erroneous principles. 19. And while they promise their followers full liberty in indulging their vicious inclinations, they themselves are the worst of slaves to their own corrupt lusts, being entirely overcome and conquered by them. 20—22. For if, after they have been externally reformed from the gross and scandalous practices of the men of this world which lieth in wickedness, through the notions which they had received concerning Jesus Christ as a Saviour and Sovereign, they are again ensnared and involved in these abominations, and yield up themselves to the practice of them, their case is more aggravated, guilty, dangerous, and hopeless than it was before they knew anything of Christ and the gospel, and especially than it was when they had the first conceptions of these things; for their sin and punishment would really have been less had they never heard nor known anything of him, and his righteousness or law, than when, after acquaintance with his law, they revolt from that pure and holy doctrine which had been preached to them with a divine authority to bind it upon their consciences.—But, agreeably to a well-known proverb—as dogs lick up their own vomit, and swine, after being washed, return to wallow in the mire—so, their natures though being changed, they, after conviction of and reformation from their wicked practices, return to them with as much pleasure and eagerness as ever.

REFLECTIONS.—We must never expect a perfect church on earth. Deceivers, for the sake of worldly advantages, will always creep into the ministry, and always find followers. And often they fearfully pervert the gospel, and constructively deny that God who has wrought so great providential deliverances for themselves and others. Yea, notwithstanding repeated and tremendous warnings of providence in the destruction of their patterns in guilt, under the most specious pretences of wisdom and piety, they entice, ensnare, defile, enslave, and ruin unstable professors, and carry on the vilest covetousness, pride, luxury, and unchastity. Dreadfully criminal and dangerous is it to return to that wickedness which the knowledge of divine truth had rendered detestable; and fearful remorse in hell, if not also misery on earth, awaits, and unceasingly hastens forward to, such, while God will certainly, seasonably, and marvellously deliver his saints from their seduction, example, and punishment.

CHAPTER III. Ver. 1, 2. In this, as well as my former epistle, I chiefly aim at awakening and warning you who are still sincere in the faith to be on your guard against false teachers and their destructive schemes and attempts to overthrow your faith and hope, holiness and comfort, and to excite you seriously to remember and reflect on the predictions and doctrines which have been delivered to you by the prophets, served unto fire against the day of judgment and perdition of ungodly men.

8 But, beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day.

9 The<sup>k</sup> Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness; <sup>but</sup> is long-suffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance.<sup>6</sup>

10 But<sup>n</sup> the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night; in the which <sup>the</sup> heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat; the earth also, and the works that are therein, shall be burnt up.

11 Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved,<sup>7</sup> what<sup>p</sup> manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness, 12 Looking<sup>a</sup> for and <sup>hasting</sup> unto<sup>9</sup> the coming of the day of God, <sup>wherein</sup> the heavens, being on fire, shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat?

A.M. cir. 4071.
A.D. cir. 67.

<sup>1</sup> Ps. 90.4. Job 10.5; 36.26.1 Ti. 1.17; 6.16. Is. 57.15.
<sup>2</sup> Is. 46.13. Hab. 2.3. He. 10.37. Eze. 12.22. Mat. 24.48. ver. 4.
<sup>3</sup> Is. 30.18. Ro. 2.4. 1 Pe. 3.20. ver. 15. Eze. 18.23; 33.11. 1 Ti. 2.4. Re. 6.10. Ps. 86.15.
<sup>4</sup> Long-suffering to us-ward, not willing that any (of us) should perish, but that all (who believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, Jn. 6.37; 39, 40, 44, 65) should come to pardon, and salvation, ver. 15.—C.

<sup>5</sup> 1 Th. 5.2. Mat. 24.42, 43. Re. 3.16; 16.15.
<sup>6</sup> Ps. 102.26; 96.11; 98.7; 50.3. Is. 51.6. Mat. 5.18; 24.35, 44. Lu. 12.39. 1 Co. 13.13. 2 Th. 1.8. Re. 20.11; 21.1.

<sup>7</sup> See note * below.
<sup>8</sup> Mat. 24.42. Lu. 21.34, 36. Tit. 2.12, 13. 1 Pe. 1.15. ch. 1.8. Phil. 4.8. Am. 4.12. ver. 14.

<sup>9</sup> Mat. 25.6. Tit. 2.13. 2 Ti. 4.8. He. 9.28. Lu. 12.35. 1 Pe. 1.13.

<sup>10</sup> Or, Hasting the coming.

<sup>11</sup> Hasting unto. 'Earnestly desiring.'—C.

<sup>12</sup> Ps. 50.3. Is. 64.1; 34.4. Mi. 1.4. 2 Th. 1.8. ver. 10.

<sup>13</sup> Dissolved, not annihilated; but it may be to be employed as the constituents of the new heavens and the new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness.

A.M. cir. 4071.
A.D. cir. 67.

ness,' ver. 13. The Lord knoweth now, and his people shall know hereafter.—C.

<sup>14</sup> Is. 65.17; 66.21; 26.2; 66.22. Re. 21.1, 27.11e.2.5.

<sup>15</sup> See ver. 11. Mat. 24.42. Ro. 5.1, 10.1 Co. 1.8; 15.58. Ep. 1.4; 5.27. Phil. 1.10; 2.15. Col. 1.22. 1 Th. 3.13; 5.23. Jude 24.

<sup>16</sup> Ro. 2.4. He. 9.18; 10.36. 1 Pe. 3.20. ver. 9; 2 Ro. 1.5. 1 Co. 2.7. 16. Ep. 3.4. Col. 1.25-27. 1 Co. 15.10.

<sup>17</sup> Ro. 8.19-24. 1 Co. xv.2 Co. 5.10. 1 Th. 4.15-17; v.2 Th. 1.5-10; 3.3. 2 De. 29.29; 30.11. Ps. 10.8; 119.105. Pr. 6.23. ch. 1.19. He. 5.13.

<sup>18</sup> In which (epistles) are some things hard to be understood. Such as the general resurrection, intercession of Christ, overthrow of Satan, the Lord's coming to judgment with angels and fire, the heavenly country, &c.—C.

<sup>19</sup> Unlearned. Rather, 'unteachable.'—C.

<sup>20</sup> Mar. 13. 23. Ep. 4.14. ch. 1.10, 12; 2.1, 17, 18. Jude 12, 13. Ja. 1.8.

<sup>21</sup> Beware. Be on your guard as soldiers in a besieged fortress.—C.

<sup>22</sup> ch. 5-8. Ep. 4.13. 15, 16. Mat. 13.23. 2 Th. 1.3. 1 Pe. 2.2. Col. 1.10.

<sup>23</sup> Ro. 16.27. 1 Ti. 1.17. 2 Ti. 4.18. 1 Pe. 4.11. Re. 1.6; 13.

<sup>24</sup> For ever. Rather, 'till the day of eternity.'—C.

13 Nevertheless we, according to his promise, look for <sup>new</sup> heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness.

14 Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, <sup>be</sup> diligent that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot, and blameless.

15 And account that <sup>the</sup> long-suffering of our Lord is salvation; even as our beloved brother Paul also, according to <sup>the</sup> wisdom given unto him, hath written unto you;

16 As <sup>also</sup> in all his epistles, speaking in them of these things; in which are <sup>some</sup> things hard to be understood,<sup>1</sup> which they that are unlearned<sup>2</sup> and unstable wrest, as they do also the other scriptures, unto their own destruction.

17 Ye therefore, beloved, <sup>seeing</sup> ye know these things before, beware<sup>3</sup> lest ye also, being led away with the error of the wicked, fall from your own steadfastness.

18 But<sup>a</sup> grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. <sup>To</sup> him be glory, both now and for ever.<sup>4</sup> Amen.

and more lately by us apostles, whom Christ, the Saviour and King of his church, appointed for that effect, particularly what relates to his second coming to judgment, that ye may be fortified against the pernicious influence of secret and open seducers; 3, 4. Especially as ye have been fully warned, that, in this last stage of God's dispensations towards his church, there would arise profane despisers and deriders of the most important points of revelation—abandoning themselves to their own carnal devices and corrupt inclinations, and pretending, in a taunting manner, that the continuance of the world, in the same form as when those ancient predictions were given out, effectually proves that no such thing as a general resurrection or final judgment need be expected: 5-7. For they wilfully shut their eyes against the Scripture account of the alterations which the power of God has already made in the creation of this world, in the drowning of the old world by means of those waters which he had created in connection with the earth; and that the aerial heavens and this earth, as subsisting in their present forms, are, by the same almighty influence of God's will, upheld, and, as it were, treasured up, to be, at the end of the world, dissolved, not by water as formerly, but by a dreadful fire, to the torment and terror of all the wicked who have ever lived. 8. To fortify your minds against their cavils, drawn from the apparent delay of Christ's second coming, consider this, that one day and a thousand years are equally before God as any individual point of time, and that, in his reckoning, the longest space is infinitely less than a single day in ours. 9. Nor is the seeming delay of the promised coming of Christ to judgment any evidence of God's dilatoriness, or that it shall never happen; but it is intended as an exercise of his long-suffering towards us, who are faithful to his blessed Son—that all of us, in our several generations, may be delivered from eternal destruction, and brought to a true and evangelical peace when we turn from our iniquities. 10. But how long soever God may delay this great day of the last judgment, in which Christ shall appear in all his glory, it will certainly come, in its appointed season, in a most sudden, unexpected, and, to the wicked, in a most terribly ruinous manner. And on it the whole frame of this lower world shall be amazingly altered, and purged from all the effects of sin and the curse; and the earth, that so much beloved portion of carnal men, shall be utterly burned to ashes. 11-14. Since, then, we have sufficient reason to look for this great alteration of nature, and for the formation of new heavens and a new earth out of the ashes of the former, into which nothing but what is righteous and holy can enter, it becomes us, with the utmost watchfulness, care, and circumspection, to study the most perfect holiness and righteousness in heart and life, expecting, looking, longing, and preparing for that great event, and labouring that we may then be found united to and accepted in his person, washed in his blood, and sanctified and comforted by his Spirit.—15, 16. And to encourage you to this study of the most perfect holiness, fix it in your minds, that the great patience and forbearance of our Lord towards a sinful world is intended to promote your salvation and that of all other persons—even as Paul, that divinely inspired apostle, has hinted in his epistle to you; as he has also, in his other epistles, warned both Jews and Gentiles of this second coming of Christ, and its momentous consequences, and that believers should patiently wait for it—among which things there are some doctrines so sublime and spiritual in their nature, that weak and prejudiced persons cannot easily apprehend or receive them; and which, through their ignorance, pride, and other inward corruptions, they who are never taught of God, or are sceptical and unsettled in their principles, rack and torture to a wrong meaning, perverting the sense and use of them, as they do many other passages of the Old and New Testaments, to their own everlasting and aggravated destruction. 17. Since, then, you, my dear Christian brethren, are forewarned of these things, and assuredly know and believe that Christ will certainly come to judgment, and surely punish all the ungodly, take the most earnest heed lest any of you should, along with other apostates, be drawn aside from him and his ways of truth and holiness by the false notions, deceitful insinuations, and vile practices of impious, immoral, lawless men, and fall from that stability in the doctrines, purity, and profession of the gospel in which ye have hitherto persisted. 18. But to prevent all declensions and revolts, let it be your earnest prayer and endeavour, in the use of all proper means, to obtain a growing persuasion and sense of God's free favour, to wax stronger and stronger in the habits of grace, and more and more to abound in the exercise thereof; and in a clear, fiducial, practical, and experimental acquaintance with the person, offices, relations, doctrines, promises, and commandments of our divine Lord and all-sufficient Saviour Jesus Christ, and with your own personal interest in him.

Ver. 5. For this they willingly are ignorant of. Rather, 'For it is hid from the notice of those who so wish;' to wit, who wish that the promise of the Lord's coming should never be verified. C.

Ver. 10. The contrast between the water and fire distinctly shows that the apostle is speaking of a literal elementary destruction; for to contrast a literal with a figurative event, without any note of difference, were to take away the key of all interpretation. C.

REFLECTIONS.—The very best of Christian professors have need to be repeatedly stirred up to their duties, to be reminded of all the doctrines and commandments of Jesus Christ, and cautioned against the errors and evil practices of wicked and designing men. And the purer men's minds are, it is the more wicked to corrupt them.—How precisely the Scripture foretells the conduct of its adversaries, our own deists not excepted, and thereby renders their wicked opposition a proof of its own divine inspiration! But notwithstanding all the scoffs of his adversaries, with amazing patience does God delay the seasons of his wrath, particularly the last judgment, that sinners may have full space to repent and embrace his salvation. And delay of years is quite insignificant when compared with his absolute eternity.—In the most tremendous manner will Jesus come at last.—The heavens shall perish before him; the elements melt away; and the earth, with all that is therein, be burned up! How terrible for carnal men to have that world which they had chosen for their portion universally kindled into flames, to give them a final adieu, and fearful introduction into hell! But blessed is the change which shall then be made in the purification of our lower world, and in forming out of its ashes new heavens and a new earth, for the everlasting happiness of ransomed men. In the faith and contemplation of these great events, how circumspect, holy, and religious ought we to be! Fully should we be weaned from the world; be steadfast in our profession and practice; fervent in prayer for necessary supplies; and earnest to grow in grace, and in the knowledge of Christ our Lord.

CONCLUDING REMARKS ON THE FIRST AND SECOND EPISTLES OF PETER.

The principal object of Peter's first epistle was to shield the hearts of Christian converts against the arrows of persecution;—and that of the second, to shut their ears against the delusions of heresy. It is important, therefore, to observe how the apostle deals, first, with persecutors; and secondly, with false teachers. In the case of persecution he finds the believers rejoicing 'that they are counted worthy to suffer,' 1 Pe. 1. 6. (1) He then teaches them submission to authorities, so as to put evil speakers to silence, 1 Pe. 2. 15. (2) To stand by conscience, and suffer without threatening or reviling, 1 Pe. 2. 19, 23; 3. 9. (3) Not to be afraid while the Lord is their trust, 1 Pe. 3. 14. (4) To take Christ, in his sufferings, as their example and support, 1 Pe. 3. 18; 4. 1, 12-14. In all this, the chief practical duties he inculcates and enforces are submission and patience. But, in the case of 'false teachers' and their 'destructive heresies' introduced in his second epistle, does he enjoin silence or submission? No;—he teaches to 'give place by subjection, no, not for an hour;' but in the same decisive tone in which our Lord denounced his woes against the Scribes and Pharisees, does he denounce 'their pernicious ways'

(2 Pe. 2. 2); pronounce them 'spots and blemishes' on the fair garment of Christianity; and declare that 'their judgment lingereth not, their condemnation slumbereth not.' And although this language of our Lord and his apostle will by no means authorize any one to adopt the language of passion, or self-will, or reviling against the adversaries of the truth, yet it equally forbids him who is 'thoroughly persuaded in his own mind' to adopt the language of indifference, or of spurious charity, either towards false teachers themselves, or their destructive doctrines. C.

THE FIRST EPISTLE GENERAL OF JOHN

Was probably written about twenty years after the destruction of Jerusalem, and chiefly to the Jewish Christians. The scope of it is to establish their faith in Christ, as the eternal Son of God, and promised Messiah; to lead them into affecting views of his and his Father's love in the work of our redemption, and thereby engage their love to God and to one another, and sweetly constrain them to depart from all iniquity, and yield a cheerful obedience to all his commandments, answerably to their high privileges, hopes, and obligations;—and, in fine, to exhibit a system of infallible marks for trying the reality of our grace.

[Although the name of the writer is not found in this epistle, yet, by the consent of all ecclesiastical history, it has been uniformly ascribed to John, the author of the Gospel; and the similarity of thought and expression between the epistle and Gospel, especially in the inculcation of love, points to 'the disciple whom Jesus loved,' and affords an ample confirmation of the acknowledged authorship. The date of the epistle is uncertain, and conjecture is useless. From ch. 2. 14, however, it would appear that there were, when the apostle wrote, several 'fathers' still alive who had 'known him that was from the beginning,' and that, consequently, the epistle was written previous to the destruction of Jerusalem.

It is worthy of special and constant remark that, besides its community of subject with the other books, every book of Scripture has its own peculiar subject and object. This epistle, accordingly, while it opens with the fundamental topics of the divine perfections, man's depravity, and Christ's propitiation; and while it interweaves throughout its whole texture many other great truths of the gospel, yet steadily keeps in view one special object—the evidences of a personal and saving interest in the Lord Jesus Christ, whereby believers may judge, and are enabled to 'know that they have eternal life, and that they may (should) believe on the name of the Son of God,' ch. 5. 13. These evidences, originating as from a fountain, in 'fellowship with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ,' ch. 1. 3, 7, run continuously throughout the whole epistle, so that it forms a personal test by which every sincere inquirer may be able 'to examine himself whether he be in the faith, prove his own self, and know (if a believer, however weak and fearful) that Christ is in him'—'the hope of glory.' The following Scriptures are more or less directly referred to throughout the epistle:—Ge. 4. 4-8; De. 13. 13; 1 Ki. 8. 46; Job 19. 26; 42. 8; Ps. 16. 11; 41. 9; Ec. 7. 20; Is. 9. 6; liii. 5; 55. 7; 61. 1; Je. 31. 33, 34; Mi. 6. 8; Ro. 3. 24. C.]

CHAPTER I.

1 He describeth the person of Christ, in whom we have eternal life, by a communion with God: 5 to which we must adjoin holiness of life, to testify the truth of that our communion and profession of faith, as also to assure us of the forgiveness of our sins by Christ's death.

THAT which<sup>a</sup> was from the beginning, which<sup>b</sup> we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon, and our hands have handled, of 'the word of life';<sup>1</sup>

2 (For 'the life'<sup>2</sup> was 'manifested, and we have seen it, and bear witness, and show unto you that eternal life, which was 'with the Father, and was manifested unto us;)

3 That which we have seen and heard declare we unto you, that ye also may have 'fellowship

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

CHAP. I.

α Pr. 8. 23. Mi. 5. 2. Jn. 1. 1, 2; 8. 56. ch. 2. 13. Ps. 2. 7. Re. 1. 8; 21. 6; 22. 13. Is. 41. 4; 44. 6.
β 2 Pe. 1. 16, 18. Jn. 1. 14. ch. 4. 14. Ac. 4. 20. Mat. 3. 16, 17. Lu. 24. 39. Jn. 20. 27; xiii.
γ Jn. 1. 1, 4, 14; 5. 26. ch. 5. 7. Re. 19. 13. δ ver. 1. Jn. 1. 4; 11. 25; 5. 25; 26; 10. 28; 14. 6. He. 5. 9. ch. 5. 11, 20.
ε Jn. 1. 14; 17. 3; 3. 13; 7. 34; 21. 24. 1 Ti. 3. 16. ch. 3. 5; 8. 14. Ac. 2. 32; 3. 15; 5. 32; 10. 41. Ro. 16. 26. Col. 1. 26, 27. 2 Ti. 1. 10. Tit. 1. 2.
ζ Ps. 2. 7, 8. Pr. 8. 23-31. Jn. 1. 1, 2, 18; 3. 13, 31; 7. 29. Ga. 4. 4. Ro. 8. 3. Zec. 13. 7. Jn. 10. 30. ch. 5. 7.
η Jn. 17. 21; 14. 21, 23; 15. 10. 1 Co. 1. 9, 30. ch. 2. 24; ver. 7.
θ Ver. 1-4 contain a general introduction to the whole epistle, in which John lays down the great object of apostolic teaching—Christ; affirms his own apostolic office and authority; and states the object of his writing. The Word of Life is the personal Logos, the Lord Jesus, the only fountain and giver of life.—P.
ι Jn. 15. 11; 16. 24. 2 Jn. 12. 15. 61. 10. Hab. 3. 17, 18. Ro. 15. 13. Phi. 3. 4. Lu. 1. 47, 48. 2 Co. 1. 12, 24.
κ ch. 3. 11. 1 Co. 11. 23. Mat. 28. 20.
λ Jn. 1. 4, 9; 8. 12; 9. 5; 12. 35, 36. Ja. 1. 17. 1 Ti. 6. 16. ver. 7. Job 11. 7. Ps. 147. 5. Ex. 15. 11. Hab. 1. 12, 13.
μ ch. 2. 4. 2 Co. 6. 14. Ps. 5. 4-6; 94. 20.
ν Jn. 12. 35. 2 Jn. 4. 3. Jn. 4. Col. 2. 6. Tit. 2. 12. Ep. 5. 8, 9, 15. Col. 1. 9, 10. 1 Th. 5. 5-8. 1 Pe. 1. 15, 16.
ο 1 Co. 6. 11. Ep. 1. 7. He. 9. 14. 1 Pe. 1. 19. ch. 2. 1, 2, 12, 24. Re. 1. 5; 7. 14.
π 1 Ki. 8. 46. 2 Ch. 6. 36. Pr. 20. 9. Ec. 7. 20. Job 9. 2; 15. 14; 25. 4; 14. 4. Ps. 143. 2. Ja. 3. 2; 2. 10. ch. 2. 4; ver. 6, 10.

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

with us: and truly our fellowship is with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ.

4 And these things write we unto you, 'that your joy may be full.

5 This<sup>3</sup> then is the message which we have heard of him, and declare unto you, that 'God is light, and in him is no darkness at all.

6 If<sup>4</sup> we say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not the truth:

7 But if we 'walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and 'the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin.

8 If<sup>5</sup> we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us.

CHAPTER I. Ver. 1-3. It is not upon slender and doubtful grounds, but on the most full assurance from hearing, seeing, and handling him, both before his death and after his resurrection, and upon the most remarkable spiritual experience of his power, glory, and grace, as well as by the infallible inspiration of the Holy Ghost, that we have preached unto you Jesus Christ, the eternal Son of God, who has all life originally in himself, and has, when manifested in our nature, secured life for us, and for ever bestows it upon us, in order that ye might have partnership and communion with us, as one spiritual and holy body, in all the gracious promises, ordinances, influences, blessings, and privileges which belong to the gospel state, in which we have communion with the Father in all the blessings of his love, communicated to us through faith in Christ, his eternal and dear Son, in all his righteousness and all the blessings of his sacrifice, and so also with the Holy Ghost in all his graces and comforts, as the earnest of our eternal and immediate fellowship with God in heaven. 4. And these great things I write unto you that ye may have a fulness of solid satisfaction and joy in this delightful and holy fellowship with God. 5. Now, as the knowledge of what God is, and who shall inherit this grand promise of eternal life, is necessary to your having comfortable fellowship with him, know that Jesus Christ and his Holy Spirit have taught us, that we might publish it unto you, that God is an absolutely perfect Spirit, infinite in wisdom, purity, blessedness, and glory, without the least mixture of anything defective or sinful. 6. It is therefore plain that all pretences to hold comfortable fellowship with him, or hopes of the eternal enjoyment of him, while we indulge ourselves in ignorance, error, or any sinful practices, are but an evidence of our hypocrisy, give the lie to our Christian profession, and are a practical contradiction to the nature and will of God, and to the whole tenor and design of the gospel, and even to the very nature and truth of things. 7. But if, as children of the light, we, according to our profession, habitually, delightfully, and progressively think, speak, and act under the direction and influence of his Spirit, in the ways of truth and holiness, according to the rule of gospel revelation, and after the pattern of God himself, in knowledge, wisdom, holiness, and comfort, then we,

Copyright 1914 by J. M. Bain

SMYRNA FROM THE TOMB OF POLYCARP. [I. JOHN, I.]—Smyrna is a celebrated seaport town of Ionia, in Asia Minor. It was one of the richest and most powerful cities of Asia. The inhabitants were much given to luxury and indolence, but notwithstanding this they were hardy and warlike. Homer is said to have been born here. The church in Smyrna was one of the seven churches in Asia to which St. John referred in Revelation. There are to-day in Smyrna about 300,000 inhabitants, and it is the center of the trade of the Levant. There are a great many prosperous Jews living here who, perhaps, control the trade of the city. We see before us but one minaret, which indicates the small influence of the Mahometans. Smyrna is a beautiful and well-built city.

9 If<sup>a</sup> we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

10 If<sup>r</sup> we say that we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us.

CHAPTER II.

1 He comforteth them against the sins of infirmity. 3 Rightly to know God is to keep his commandments, to love our brethren, 15 and not to love the world. 18 We must beware of seducers: 20 from whose deceits the godly are safe, preserved by perseverance in faith, and holiness of life.

MY little<sup>a</sup> children, these things write I unto you, <sup>b</sup>that ye sin not. And if any man sin, <sup>c</sup>we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous:

2 And <sup>d</sup>he is the propitiation for our sins: and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world.

3 And <sup>e</sup>hereby we do know that we know him, if we keep his commandments.

4 He<sup>g</sup> that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him.

5 But<sup>h</sup> whoso keepeth his word, in him verily is the love of God perfected: hereby know we that we are in him.

6 He<sup>i</sup> that saith he abideth in him ought himself also so to walk, even as he walked.

7 Brethren, <sup>j</sup>I write no new commandment unto you, but an old commandment, which ye had from the beginning. The old commandment is the word which ye have heard from the beginning.

8 Again, <sup>k</sup>a new commandment I write unto you; which thing is <sup>l</sup>true in him and in you: because <sup>m</sup>the darkness is past, and the true light now shineth.

9 He <sup>n</sup>that saith he is in the light, and hateth his brother, is in darkness even until now.

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

q Job 33.27,28.Pr.28.13. Ps.51.1,2;32.5. Ac.10.43. Je.3.12,13. 1 Co.6.11.
r ch.5.10. Job 14.4; 15.14. Ps.130.3; 143.2. Ro.3.23. Ja.3.2; 2.10. See ver.8.

CHAP. II.

a 1 Co.4.15. Ga.4.19. ver.12,13,28; ch.3.7,18; 4.4; 5.21. 3 Jn.4. Jn.13.35.

b Tit.2.11,12. 1 Pe.1.15,16. Phi.4.8.

c Ro.8.34. 1 Ti.2.5. He.7.24,25; 9.24. 1 Pe.3.18,22.

d Ro.3.24,25; 6-11. 15-19. Jn.1.29; 4.42; 11.51. 2 Co.5.18-21. Col.1.20. 1 Pe.2.24; 3.18. He.2.17. ch.1.7; 14.10,14.

e ver.4-6; ch.5.3. Lu.6.46. Jn.14.15,23,24; 15.10,14. He.5.9. Ps.119.6,32.

f ch.1.6; 4.20; 5.10. g Jn.14.15,21,23; 13.35. ch.4.12,13. Ps.119.9,11. Tit.2.11,12,14.

h Jn.6.56; 15.4,5,10; 13.15. 1 Pe.2.20,21. 1 Co.11.1. Ep.5.2. ch.1.7.

i ch.3.11. 2 Jn.5. Le.19.18. Mat.5.43. Jn.15.12.

j Jn.13.34. ch.4.21. k ch.3.16. Jn.15.12. 13. Ep.5.2. 1 Pe.2.21.

l Ro.13.12. 1 Th.5.5.8. Ac.17.30. Mat.4.16. 1 Pe.2.9,11. Jn.1.9; 8.12; 12.35. Ep.5.8. ch.1.7. Tit.2.11,12. 2 Ti.1.10.2 Co.4.4,6.

m 1 Co.13.2. 2 Pe.1.9. ch.3.14,15. Jn.12.35. ver.11.

* Afford well remarks on the two short addresses in the first part of this verse.—The proper attribute of youth is, to carry on the active parts of life; if soldiers, to be engaged in all active service; that of age, to contemplate and arrive at sound and matured knowledge. The latter having conquered as well, but the burden and heat of their struggle is past. The wicked one is he in whom, in whose power, the whole world lieth. . . . He is conquered once and for all by those who have passed from darkness to light.—P.

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

p ch.3.14. Ps.119.165. Jn.12.35. Ro.14.13. 2 Pe.1.10. q Gr. scandal.

r Le.19.17. Tit.3.3. ch.3.14,15. with ver.9. Pr.4.25. Jn.12.35. 2 Co.4.4.

s Ps.25.11. Lu.24.47. Ac.4.12; 10.43; 13.38. ch.1.7,9. Ep.1.7. Col.1.14.

t 1 Co.10.15; 14.20. with ch.1.1; 5.20. Da.7.9. Ps.90.2.

u ver.14. Ep.6.10,12. 1 Pe.5.8,9. ch.4.4; 5.4; 15.16. 20.8. 13.7; 24.25.

v See note * in first column.

w Jn.14.7,9. Ga.1.8. 9. Phi.3.1. 2 Pe.3.11,12. 15. 18. 28. 10. He.5.12. 14.6. 1.17. 2 Ti.2.1.

x Jn.5.38; 8.31; 15.7. Col.3.16. Ps.119.11. Je.31.33. Re.2.7.

y Ro.12.2. Col.3.1,2. Mat.6.24. Lu.16.13. Ga.1.10,16. Ja.4.4. 1 Co.7.31. ver.16.

z Ro.13.13,14. Ec.5.10-12. Ep.2.2,3. Tit.3.3. 2 Pe.2.10. Ps.119.37; 73.6.

a Ps.39.6; 90.9; 102.2. 1s.40.6. Ja.1.10; 4.14. 1 Pe.1.24. 1 Co.6.13; 7.31.

b Jn.6.58. Ps.125.1,2. Pr.10.25. Jn.10.28,29. 1 Pe.1.5. Jn.4.14.

c He.1.2. d Mat.24.5, 11. 24. Jn.5.43. Ac.20.29,30. 2 Ti.3.12. 1 Ti.4.1-3.

e 2 Ti.3.1-5; 4.2. 2 Pe.2.1. ch.4.3; ver.19. 2 Jn.7. Re.ix.

f See note on ch.4. 3.—P.

g De.13.13. Ps.41.9; 55.12-14. Ac.20.29,30. 1 Co.11.19.

h The distinction here drawn is most important. The difference between true Christians and hypocrites can only be tested from the human standpoint, by the fact that the former remains steadfast in profession and practice, while the latter fall off. The very same truth is brought out in Jn.15.

i—P. The persons alluded to in this verse, though formally attached to the Christian church, were never real members of it. If they had been so they must have remained. Such is the meaning of the words.

—P. Job 17.9. Ps.125.1. 2. Pr.10.25. Mat.24.24. Jn.6.37; 10.28,29. 2 Ti.2.19; 3.9. 1 Pe.1.2-5. He.10.39. Jude 1. Jn.4.14.

10 He<sup>p</sup> that loveth his brother abideth in the light, and there is none occasion of <sup>q</sup>stumbling in him.

11 But<sup>r</sup> he that hateth his brother is in darkness, and walketh in darkness, and knoweth not whither he goeth, because that darkness hath blinded his eyes.

12 I write unto you, little children, because <sup>s</sup>your sins are forgiven you for his name's sake.

13 I write unto you, <sup>t</sup>fathers, because ye have known him that is from the beginning. I write unto you, <sup>u</sup>young men, because ye have overcome the wicked one.<sup>2</sup> I <sup>v</sup>write unto you, little children, because ye have known the Father.

14 I have written unto you, fathers, because ye have known him that is from the beginning. I have written unto you, young men, because <sup>w</sup>ye are strong, and the word of God <sup>x</sup>abideth in you, and ye have overcome the wicked one.

15 Love<sup>y</sup> not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him.

16 For<sup>z</sup> all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world.

17 And<sup>a</sup> the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: but <sup>b</sup>he that doeth the will of God abideth for ever.

18 Little children, it is the <sup>c</sup>last time: <sup>d</sup>and as ye have heard that antichrist shall come, even now are there many antichrists; whereby we know that it is the last time.<sup>3</sup>

19 <sup>e</sup>They<sup>4</sup> went out from us, but they were not of us; for <sup>f</sup>if they had been of us, they would no doubt have continued with us: but as well as our fellow-Christians, share in a joint interest, communication, intimacy, and intercourse with him; and the foundation of this fellowship is, that the infinitely precious atoning blood of Jesus Christ, our anointed Saviour, his eternal and eminently beloved Son, is continually efficacious for cleansing us from the guilt, condemnation, and power of all our sins, and at last from all the inbeing and effects of it. 8. If any of us who pretend to be cleansed by the blood of Christ are so ignorant, proud, and vain as to imagine that, in this present state of weakness and mortality, we are perfectly purified from all the inclinations and workings of sin, we certainly deceive our own souls; and neither the truth of God's Word, which declares the contrary, nor any true light of knowledge, grace, or holiness, is found in us. 9. But if, under an humbling sense of our sinful imperfections and works, we sincerely confess them to the Lord, with faith in Christ's propitiatory sacrifice for the forgiveness of them, and with penitential shame, contrition, and abhorrence of them, and full purpose of heart by his grace to forsake them, he, in the faithful accomplishment of his promises, and in justice to the merit of his Son, will, for his sake, freely and fully forgive us all our sins, original and actual, and cleanse us from all the reigning power and defilement thereof, that we may be fitted for communion with him in this world and in that which is to come. 10. If we pretend that we have not transgressed the law of God, so as to need pardon by the blood, and sanctification by the Spirit of Christ, we deny the truth of what he has testified concerning every man in his Word, and thereby show that the truth of the gospel, which supposes us sinners, and leads us to Christ for salvation from sin, has no place in us.

Ver. 1. From the beginning. The difference between ἐκ ἀρχῆς (Jn. 1. 1, 'in the beginning' of creation, and consequently before creation—from eternity) and κατ' ἀρχαίς (1 Jn. 1. 1) is obvious. And though some eminent expositors would render κατ' ἀρχαίς 'from eternity,' yet as it is connected, not with ἀρχὴν τῆς ζωῆς, but with ὁ ᾧ ('what occurred'), that interpretation is inadmissible, and the meaning must be 'from the beginning' (of the preaching of the gospel). See Jn. 15. 27; 1 Jn. 2. 7, 24; 3. 11; 2 Jn. 5, where this view is rendered certain by analogy. C.

Ver. 5. The first division of the epistle begins here, and its principal subject or theme is mentioned at the outset—God is light. This theme is developed in its nature and effects in regard to God's people. Light is a noble emblem of God. 'It unites in itself purity and clearness, and beauty and glory, as no other material object does; it is the condition of all material life and growth and joy.' P.—God is light, not to the bodily, but to the intellectual eye (2 Co. 4. 6)—the spirit. Now, light is defined by Paul, 'whatsoever maketh manifest,' Ep. 5. 13. 'Light' is therefore a just definition of 'God,' inasmuch as both good and evil, even all things within these limits of human knowledge, are 'made (more or less) manifest' just in proportion as men see more or less of God. C.

Ver. 6. Darkness. Theoretical or practical ignorance of the real difference between good and evil, Mi. 6. 8. C.

Ver. 7. If we walk, &c. 'If we (on earth) walk in the light (of Jesus the incarnate Word, Jn. 1. 7-9) as he (our Father in heaven) is (dwelling and manifested) in the light.'—One with another. God with us in giving the light of his Son; we with God, as walking and rejoicing in that light. C.

REFLECTIONS.—It is delightful when ministers preach Christ from experimental knowledge of him. But incontestable is the evidence we have of the gospel revelation concerning him and his benefits, and glorious is the fellowship which believers are thereby led into with him and his Father.—There is an absolute necessity of justification through his blood, and of holiness in heart and life, in order to have delightful fellowship with an infinitely high and holy JEHOVAH. And absurd is it to pretend that we either are or have been without sin in this world, or that we have fellowship with God, while we indulge ourselves in any sin. It is a great comfort, under all our felt and detested pollutions, that Jesus' blood is sufficient to cleanse us, and God, as faithful to his promise and just to his Son, must pardon and sanctify us. What an encouragement is this to gospel repentance, cordial confession, and earnest reformation!

CHAPTER II. Ver. 1. My inexpressibly dear fellow-Christians, I have written this to you to prevent your giving way to any known iniquity, or being surprised into it by temptation, or living in the practice of it; and that when, through infirmity and temptation, any of you fall into sin, ye may not despair of mercy or relief, but by faith rely on the glorious and prevalent intercession of Jesus Christ, in which he pleads our cause with his Father, the Judge of all, against all the charges of law and justice, and all the accusations of Satan, that our iniquities may neither be punished on nor suffered to prevail and reign in us, even upon the ground of his own finished and infinitely perfect righteousness, performed in our room and stead, by which he made a full and complete atonement for all the sins of the world, and calling all to believe, not only Jews but Gentiles, scattered everywhere in the world. 3. And let us rest assured that, if we have any saving knowledge of Christ, or faith in or love to him, it will powerfully influence us to a sincere, cheerful, and unreserved obedience to all his laws and gospel institutions. 4. To pretend to know, love, or believe on him, or to have had communion with him, without making conscience of keeping his holy commandments, gives the lie to our profession, and to the Word of God, and manifests that neither the gospel nor the they went out, that they might be made manifest that they were not all of us.

20 But<sup>h</sup> ye have an unction from the Holy One, and ye know all things.

21 I have not written unto you because ye know not the truth, but because ye know it, and that no lie is of the truth.

22 Who<sup>j</sup> is a liar, but he that denieth that Jesus is the Christ? He is antichrist, that denieth the Father and the Son.<sup>5</sup>

23 Whosoever<sup>k</sup> denieth the Son, the same hath not the Father: [but] he that acknowledgeth the Son hath the Father also.<sup>6</sup> true grace of God has any place in our hearts. 5. But if we duly regard, hold fast, and carefully observe the doctrines, ordinances, and duties contained in his Word, we are undoubtedly under the eminently governing influence of a supreme love to God, and have sufficient evidence that we are vitally united to Christ, and interested in all his benefits. 6. Every one therefore who professes to be united to and interested in Christ, or to hold fellowship with him, is indispensably obliged to live a holy and righteous life in imitation of his.—7, 8. And in my earnestly pressing you to imitation of Christ, particularly in love to God and to one another, I impose no new commandment, but only remind you of a divine precept which, as to the substance of it, was delivered as early as any Old Testament revelation, and was enforced by our dear Saviour in the beginning of his ministry, and preached to you at your first belief and profession of the gospel. Nevertheless, I further explain and inculcate this duty of brotherly love under new obligations, motives, encouragements, and assistances, as enjoined by Christ, in a more spiritual, extensive, and cordial view, and as exemplified by him in an unparalleled manner; because the darkness of the Jewish dispensation, and of your former state of ignorance, error, and sin, is in a great measure past, and the clear light of the gospel, or of Christ in it, is now displayed in its full glory, and shines into your hearts. 9-11. Let men make what professions they will of Christian knowledge, faith, holiness, or comfort, their habitual indulgence of an uncharitable, malicious, and revengeful temper of spirit towards their neighbours, and especially fellow-Christians, infallibly marks them in a state of sin and error, destitute of all evangelical light and grace, quite ignorant of the way that leads to eternal life, and going on in errors and evil practices, without discerning or considering the fearful tendency thereof.—But they who affectionately love their brethren for Christ's sake, manifest themselves as awakened, and renewed by the grace of the gospel, and neither do they lay stumbling-blocks in the way of others to hinder them from their duty, nor shall any difficulties hinder them from their own.—12-14. These admonitions, cautions, and encouragements, I write to you all, particularly to you my dear weak believers; because that your faith being true, however weak, ye have received the full and gracious forgiveness of all your sins through Jesus' blood, to the glory of his grace; and ye have been brought to a fiducial and affectionate knowledge of God, as your heavenly Father in him: and to you who have had a long standing in Christianity, and have attained a large stock of knowledge and experience; because, taking pleasure to meditate on the deep things of God, ye have with great judgment, faith, and love, understood much of him, and of his eternal effort and provisions for your salvation; and to you who, by zeal, activity, and spiritual attainments, are remarkably fitted for the Christian race and spiritual warfare; because ye have encountered, wrestled against, and obtained glorious victories over Satan and your lusts, and have the Word of God deeply rooted in you, enabling you to perform the most difficult duties—beseeching all of you to act answerably to your privileges and characters, in obedience to the whole divine law, particularly in loving God and one another. 15. And in order hereunto, never let your affections be engaged to this present evil world as your portion or rest, nor entangled with, engrossed by, or inordinately carried out after any of its allurements; for if your hearts be supremely set upon worldly enjoyments, of whatever kind, ye can have no true love of God, the Father of Christ, and of all true believers in him. 16. For however enticing the things of this world are to the irregular desires of men's hearts, whether consisting in pleasures suited to gratify lewd, intemperate, and luxurious inclinations; or in riches, estates, and possessions suited to the covetous eye which cannot be satisfied with them; or in honours, dignities, and preferments, grand houses or furniture, calculated to feed pride and ambition—their perverting and insinuating influence is not from God the Father of mercies, nor according to his design in giving them, nor affected by his love to or his grace in his people; but it proceeds from the malignant influence of the things of this world upon men's carnal hearts, and their own corrupt inclinations to them. 17. And to arm you against all temptations, and take off all your inordinate affections from earthly things, think how uncertain, unsatisfying, fleeting, fading, and perishing they are, and how quickly they, and all our inclinations towards or gratification by them, will come to an end; whereas they who, from a principle of faith, persist in a steadfast course of obedience to God's will, are possessed of substantial, satisfying, and abiding realities, and stand fixed in the everlasting favour of God, and in a state of grace, and shall for ever live in the full possession of all durable and heavenly happiness. 18. My dearly-beloved fellow-Christians, the many deceivers that have arisen in the world, in opposition to the person, doctrines, and laws of our Lord Jesus Christ, as forerunners of the Romish antichrist, plainly manifest that we are already entered on the perilous times of God's last dispensation of mercy to men. 19. Their utter revolt from the faith and fellowship of the gospel, after they had made plausible appearances of being sincere converts, and separating themselves from our church communion that they might broach and spread their errors or infamous practices, fully manifest that they were never faithful followers of Christ as we are, but mere hypocrites and false-hearted professors. 20. But ye who are true believers have, through the intercession and influence of our infinitely holy and sanctifying Saviour, been richly endowed with the Holy Ghost in his gifts and graces, by means of which ye are led into an experimental and practical knowledge of everything necessary for your preservation from seduction, or your eternal salvation. 21. I therefore write to you, not as to persons ignorant of the fundamental truths of the gospel concerning Christ, but as to those who already know, believe, and esteem them, and are well assured that no fraud, deceit, or error, such as these seducers promote, can proceed from the gospel, or be consistent with it—in order that I may further confirm and establish you in it. 22, 23. And none more certainly manifest themselves impostors and false teachers than they who, contrary to all the evidence given by the prophets and apostles, and by his Father's and his own declarations, miracles, and conduct, deny Jesus of Nazareth to be the eternal Son of God and promised Messiah come in the flesh; and, in so doing, deny the Father as connected with him in his divine character and mediatorial office.—Whereas they who cordially own, believe, and confess him to be the Father's co-equal and co-eternal Son, and the only Saviour of lost sinners sent by him, duly honour both Father and Son, and have a right knowledge of the Father, and a special interest in his favour through his Son. 24. Let therefore the true doctrine concerning Christ and his Father, in which ye were instructed from the very beginning of your Christian profession, be still embraced, held fast, and fixed in you, as an abiding principle: thus shall ye manifest yourselves saints indeed, and shall 24 Let<sup>t</sup> that therefore abide in you, which ye have heard from the beginning. If that which ye have heard from the beginning shall remain in you, ye also shall "continue in the Son,"<sup>7</sup> and in the Father.

25 And<sup>o</sup> this is the promise that he hath promised us, even eternal life.

26 These<sup>p</sup> things have I written unto you concerning them that seduce you.

27 But<sup>q</sup> the anointing which ye have received of him abideth in you, and "ye need not that any man teach you:"<sup>8</sup> but as the same anointing teacheth you of all things, and is truth, and is have abiding union and fellowship with Christ, and his Father through him, to your complete salvation; 25. And shall inherit that whole extent of eternal life, in grace here and glory hereafter, which is secured by Christ, promised in the Scriptures, and offered in the gospel. 26. These hints I have given you, to establish, comfort, and fortify you against those adversaries of Christ who, by subtle and insinuating artifices, labour to corrupt your principles and practices, and draw you away from the simplicity of the gospel. 27. But I need not insist upon them, because the Holy Ghost, who is incapable of and infinitely hates all deceit and falsehood, in his person, gifts, and graces, does and shall perpetually dwell in you, to enlighten, guide, govern, and lead you into the knowledge of all things necessary to salvation, and assist you to be steadfast in Christ and his truth. 28. I beseech you therefore, my dear little children, carefully to adhere to Christ and the pure doctrines of the gospel, and your holy profession thereof, that, at his glorious appearance to judge the world, our expectations of you may not be disappointed, but we may have the satisfaction to see you appear with him in glory, as persons truly converted to him, and built up in him, by our ministrations. 29. And since we trust ye have right thoughts of Christ, our righteous Mediator, who also bestows righteousness upon his people, ye cannot but know that every one who, through a living faith and love to him, habitually practises what is right, and lives in imitation of and obedience to him, is, by his regenerating Spirit, endued with abiding principles of saving grace, and is by adoption made a child of God and heir of eternal glory.

Ver. 1. We have (not 'he has') an advocate. For while it is a Christian duty to exhort a sinner to repent and pray that his sin may be forgiven, Ac. 8. 22, the object of the apostle here, as in ch. 5. 16, is to encourage believers who have not sinned after the similitude of others to intercede for them at the throne of grace, even as Christ prayed for Peter in the prospect of Satanic temptation, Lu. 22. 31, 32. C.

Ver. 2. Propitiation. Atoning sacrifice—not to dispose God to become merciful: 'for God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son'—but so to 'put away sin' that 'God might be just, while the justifier of him (the sinner) that believeth in Jesus.'—And not, &c. 'And' but not for our sins only 'who are Jews'; but also for 'the sins of the whole world' of the Gentiles likewise, 'who have received like precious faith with us,' 2 Pe. 1. 1, and, with us, 'walk in the light, as he is in the light'—'have fellowship with the Father and with his Son Jesus Christ,' whose 'blood cleanseth (both) us (and them) from all sin,' ch. 1. 3, 7. C.

Ver. 18. Antichrist. Rather, 'the antichrist shall come.' This word may signify one who puts himself into the place of Christ, or one that stands in opposition to him; and which last will be found the meaning by comparison with 2 Th. 2. 4, where opposition to God is the essential character of 'the man of sin.' This 'antichrist' may be either some eminent individual perfecting a long-continued system of opposition to Christ, of whom his predecessors were so many inferior types; or a personification of many by whom the system was successively sustained. It is evident from ver. 19, as well as from 1 Ti. 4. 1, that the chief characteristics of antichrist are—(1) Apostasy from apostolical, scriptural Christianity. (2) Opposition to Christ—whether to the doctrine of his deity or humanity; whether it be opposition to his priestly office, by setting up new modes of atoning for sin, or other mediators between God and man; whether it be against his kingly office, by claiming authority to enact laws in his church superadded or contrary to the Scriptures, or to relax or dispense with any of his commandments; or whether it be against his prophetic office, by claiming authority over the reading of his Word, or to add to, alter, or take away from it. C.

REFLECTIONS.—The gospel at once delightfully dissuades from sin, and provides relief under the oppressive sense of it. And happy is it that Jesus' ever-prevalent intercession for his people is founded on his infinitely valuable and all-efficacious atonement. But it is absurd to pretend knowledge of Christ, or union or fellowship with him, without conscientiously keeping his commandments and following his holy example.—Though now under the gospel the law of brotherly love has new mani-

A.M. cir. 4094. A.D. cir. 90.	A.M. cir. 4094. A.D. cir. 90.
h ver. 27; ch. 4. 13. 2 Co. 1. 21, 22. Is. 44. 3, 4. Eze. 30. 27. Zec. 12. 10. Jn. 7. 38, 39; 14. 16, 17, 20; 15. 26; 16. 7-13. 1 Co. 2. 15. Pr. 28. 5. Mat. 11. 25. i ch. 1. 4; 5. 13; ver. 12 -14. 26. j 2 Th. 2. 3, 4, 9, 12. ch. 4. 3, 2 Jn. 7. k See note on ch. 4. 3.—P. l ver. 22. Lu. 12. 9. Jn. 6. 53; 8. 19; 14. 9, 10; 10. 30; 15. 23. 2 Th. 2. 12. ch. 4. 15. 3 Jn. 9. m The words in italics are not found in the best MSS., and ought to be omitted. n 2 Ps. 119. 11. Pr. 23. 23. Jn. 15. 7. Col. 3. 16. Lu. 9. 44. Re. 3. 11. He. 3. 6. 14. 2 Jn. 6. Jude 3. o Jn. 14. 23; 15. 9, 10; 17. 21-24. ch. 1. 3, 7; 4. 15, 16.	7 In the Son, &c. —See ver. 5.—C. p Is. 45. 17; 54. 8, 9, 19. Mat. 19. 29. Jn. 3. 14-17. 30; 6. 32-58; 8. 51; 17. 2, 3; 5. 24. Ro. 5. 10, 15-21. Tit. 1. 2. ch. 1. 2; 5. 11. q ch. 3. 7. 2 Jn. 7. Ac. -o. 29, 30. Phi. 3. 2. Col. 4. 8, 18. 2 Pe. 1. 12-15; 2. 1; 3. 1, 17. r See ver. 20; ch. 3. 24. Ro. 8. 9. Ga. 4. 6. 1 Co. 2. 1, 2. 1 Ti. 1. 14. s Je. 31. 33, 34. He. 8. 10, 11. Jn. 14. 26; 16. 13. 1 Co. 2. 15. t Ye need not that any man teach you any new doctrine, or new explanation of an old one. This does not preclude the duty of 'exhorting one an- other daily, test any be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin,' He. 3. 13.—C.

no lie, and even as it hath taught you, ye shall abide in him.<sup>9</sup>

28 And now, little children, <sup>a</sup>abide in him; that, <sup>t</sup>when he shall appear, we may have confidence, and not be ashamed before him at his coming.

29 If ye know<sup>1</sup> that he is righteous, ye know<sup>2</sup> that <sup>u</sup>every one that doeth righteousness is <sup>v</sup>born of him.

CHAPTER III.

* 1 He declareth the singular love of God toward us, in making us his sons: 3 who therefore ought obediently to keep his commandments, 11 as also brotherly to love one another.

BEHOLD,<sup>a</sup> what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, <sup>b</sup>that we should be called the sons of God: therefore <sup>c</sup>the world knoweth us not, because it knew him not.<sup>1</sup>

2 Beloved, <sup>d</sup>now are we the sons of God; and <sup>e</sup>it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but <sup>g</sup>we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him;<sup>2</sup> for we <sup>h</sup>shall see him as he is.

3 And <sup>i</sup>every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure.

4 Whosoever committeth sin transgresseth also the law: <sup>j</sup>for sin is the transgression of the law.

5 And ye know that <sup>k</sup>he was manifested to take away our sins; and in him is no sin.

6 Whosoever<sup>l</sup> abideth in him sinneth not:<sup>3</sup> whosoever sinneth hath not seen him, neither known him.

7 Little children, <sup>n</sup>let no man deceive you: he that doeth righteousness is righteous, even as he is righteous.

8 He<sup>o</sup> that committeth sin is of the devil; for the devil sinneth from the beginning. <sup>p</sup>For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, that he might destroy the works of the devil.

9 Whosoever is born of God <sup>q</sup>doth not commit sin; for his <sup>r</sup>seed remaineth in him: and he cannot sin, because he is born of God.

10 In<sup>s</sup> this the children of God are manifest, <sup>q</sup> ch. 2, 29; 18. Ro. 7. 15-24. <sup>r</sup> 1 Ki. 14. 8. Eze. 36. 26. Job 19. 28. Jn. 3. 3, 5, 6. 1 Pe. 1. 23, 2 Pe. 1. 4, 2 Co. 5. 17. Ep. 2. 5, 10; 4. 23, 24. <sup>s</sup> ch. 2, 29, 2 Co. 1. 12. Jn. 8. 44. Ac. 13. 10. ch. 4. 8.

A.M. cir. 494.
A.D. cir. 90.

<sup>9</sup> Or, it.
<sup>s</sup> Jn. 15. 4-7. Col. 2. 6.
<sup>t</sup> ch. 3. 2. Col. 3. 4. 1
Pe. 5. 4. Lu. 21. 36. Mar.
8. 38. ch. 4. 21. Is. 25. 9. 2
Ti. 4. 8. He. 9. 28. Re. 22.
14.
1 See note * in second column.
2 Or, know ye.
<sup>u</sup> ch. 3. 7, 10. Je. 13.
23. Mat. 7. 10-18. 2 Co. 1.
12. Ga. 5. 22, 23. 1 Pe. 1.
15. Tit. 2. 12, 14.
<sup>v</sup> Eze. 36. 26. Jn. 1. 13;
3. 3, 5, 6. Ja. 1. 18. 1 Pe. 1.
3, 23. 2 Pe. 1. 4. ch. 3. 9; 5.
18.

CHAP. III.

<sup>a</sup> Jn. 3. 16. Ep. 2. 4, 5.
Ps. 36. 6, 7; 89. 1, 2, 28. Je.
31. 3. Ro. 5. 8. ch. 4. 9, 10,
16, 19. Mat. 5. 45.
<sup>b</sup> Je. 3. 4, 19. Jn. 1. 12.
Re. 21. 7. 2 Co. 6. 18. Ro.
8. 16, 17.
<sup>c</sup> Col. 3. 3. Jn. 15. 18, 21; 16. 3, 17, 25.
1 In the best MSS.
this verse reads as follows:—<sup>d</sup> Behold that manner of love the Father hath given unto us, that we should be called children of God. And we are so:
on this account the world doth not know us, because it did not know him. The full sense of John is brought out here very clearly.—<sup>e</sup> P.
<sup>d</sup> Is. 56. 5. Ro. 8. 14-
18. Ga. 3. 26, 29; 4. 6, 31.
<sup>e</sup> Ps. 31. 19. 1 Co. 2. 9.
Ro. 8. 18. 2 Co. 4. 17.
<sup>f</sup> 2 Co. 5. 1-7. Ep. 1.
14. Ro. 8. 28, 29. 1 Co. 15.
49. Phi. 3. 21. 2 Pe. 1. 4.
Col. 3. 4. Ep. 5. 26, 27.
Jude 24.

2 More literally the middle clause of the verse may be thus translated:—<sup>f</sup> And it has not yet been manifested what we shall be. We know that if it were manifested, we shall be like him, &c.—<sup>g</sup> P.
<sup>h</sup> Job 19. 26, 27. 1 Co.
13. 12. Mat. 5. 8. Ps. 17.
15; 16. 11. Jn. 17. 24. Re.
22. 4, 5.
<sup>i</sup> 2 Co. 7. 1, 2. Pe. 1. 4, 3;
14. Col. 1. 12. ch. 4. 17.
He. 12. 14; 26.
<sup>j</sup> Ro. 4. 15; 7. 12, 14. ch.
5. 17.

<sup>k</sup> Is. 5. 4-12. Mat. 1.
21; 20. 28. Ro. 3. 24-26; 4.
25; 5. 6-21. 2 Co. 5. 21. 1
Pe. 2. 22, 24; 3. 18. 1 Ti. 1.
15. Tit. 2. 14. ch. 1. 7; 4. 9.
10. Re. 1. 5. Ep. 5. 2, 25;
27. He. 1. 34. 15; 26, 28;
7. 26. Lu. 23. 41. Jn. 8. 46;
14. 30. ch. 2. 1.
<sup>l</sup> Jn. 15. 4-7; 8. 34, 36. 1
Co. 1. 30. Col. 1. 2; 2. 6.
ch. 5. 18; 2. 44. 8. 3. Jn. 11.
3. <sup>m</sup> Sinneth not. Is not guilty of avopia
(ver. 4), a wilful, presumptuous, and habitually casting off of the law of God.—<sup>n</sup> C.
<sup>n</sup> 1 Co. 6. 9. Ga. 6. 7.
ch. 2. 26, 29; ver. 10; ch.
iv. 1-3. 21. 2 Jn. 6.
Eze. 18. 5-9. Ro. 2. 13.
<sup>o</sup> Jn. 18. 44. Mat. 13.
38. Ep. 2. 2. ch. 5. 19.
<sup>p</sup> See ver. 5. Mat. 12.
29. Lu. 10. 18. Jn. 12. 31;
16. 11. Col. 2. 15. He. 2.
14.

A.M. cir. 494.
A.D. cir. 90.

<sup>t</sup> ch. 1. 5; 2. 7.
4 Or, commandment.
<sup>u</sup> Jn. 1. 34, 35; 15. 12.
Le. 19. 18. Mat. 22. 39.
Ga. 6. 2. Ep. 5. 2. 1 Th. 4.
9. 1 Pe. 1. 22; 3. 8; 4. 8. Ja.
2. 8. ch. 4. 21; ver. 16, 23.
<sup>v</sup> Ge. 4. 4-8. Jude 11.
He. 11. 4. Pr. 25. 8, with
Jn. 15. 19. 1 Pe. 4. 4. Pr.
29. 27.
<sup>w</sup> His brother's righteousness, through faith in the 'Lamb of God', He. 11. 4.—<sup>x</sup> C.
<sup>x</sup> Jn. 15. 18, 19; 17. 14, 2.
3. 12. Jn. 16. 33. Ac.
14. 22.
<sup>y</sup> ch. 2. 10; 5. 13; ver. 15.
Jn. 5. 24; 13. 35, with ch.
2. 11; 4. 7, 8, 20, 21. 1
Th. 4. 9.
<sup>z</sup> Le. 19. 17. Mat. 5.
21, 22. Tit. 3. 3. ch. 4. 20.
Ga. 5. 21.
<sup>a</sup> ch. 4. 9, 10. Jn. 3. 16;
15. 13. Ro. 5. 8. Ep. 5. 2,
25. Jn. 10. 15. Tit. 2. 14.
Mat. 20. 28. 1 Pe. 1. 18,
19; 2. 24; 3. 18. Re. 1. 5; 5.
9.

<sup>b</sup> Ro. 16. 4. Phi. 2. 17.
<sup>c</sup> Lu. 3. 11. ch. 4. 20; 5.
1. De. 15. 7. Jn. 2. 15.
<sup>d</sup> Ro. 12. 9. Ja. 2. 15,
16. 1 Pe. 1. 22; 3. 8; 4. 8.
ver. 11, with Eze. 33.
31.
<sup>e</sup> See ver. 14; ch. 5. 1,
2; 4. 17, 20, 21. Jn. 13. 35;
18. 37; 8. 31, 32. 1 Ti. 1. 11,
12.
<sup>f</sup> Gr. persuade.
<sup>g</sup> Ro. 2. 15. Ps. 50. 16
21; 90. 8. 1 Co. 4. 4.
<sup>h</sup> For if your heart condemn us of any deficiency of brotherly love, and we feel that we would not, if need were, 'lay down our lives for the brethren' (ver. 16), then God, who 'knoweth all things,' will surely condemn us
likewise.—<sup>i</sup> C.

<sup>j</sup> Job 27. 6. Ps. 101. 2.
2 Co. 1. 12. He. 10. 22. ch.
2. 29; 17; ver. 22.
<sup>k</sup> Ps. 10. 17; 34. 15; 66.
18; 145. 18, 19. Pr. 15. 29;
28. 9. Je. 29. 12. Mat. 21.
22; 7. 7, 8. Mar. 11. 24.
Lu. 11. 9. Jn. 15. 7; 9. 31;
14. 13; 16. 23. Ja. 1. 5; 5.
16. ch. 5. 14.
<sup>l</sup> Je. 18. 15-19. Jn. 6.
29; 17. 3. Ps. 2. 12. Jn. 3.
14-16; 9. 31; 14. 1. Mar.
16. 15, 16. Ac. 16. 31. 1 Ti.
1. 15.
<sup>m</sup> Le. 19. 18. Mat. 22.
39. Ep. 5. 2. 1 Th. 4. 9. 1
Pe. 4. 8; 3. 8. ch. 4. 12, 21;
ver. 11. Jn. 13. 34, 35; 15.
12.
<sup>n</sup> Jn. 14. 23; 15. 10; 6.
54, 59; 17. 21. ch. 4. 12.
<sup>o</sup> Ro. 8. 9, 14. ch. 4. 13;
2. 30, 27. Eze. 37. 27.
Zec. 12. 10. Is. 44. 3-5.

<sup>p</sup> If (rather, 'since') ye know. Every one that doeth righteousness, who 'provides' (Lu. 12. 23), acquires it by receiving it as a gift from God (Ro. 5. 17), the only sense in which it is possible, consistently with Scripture, for any man to become righteous, or to do righteousness.' See
Ro. 3. 10, and comp.
with Jn. 6. 29.—<sup>q</sup> C.

and the children of the devil: whosoever doeth not righteousness is not of God, neither he that loveth not his brother.

11 For <sup>t</sup>this is the message<sup>4</sup> that ye heard from the beginning, <sup>u</sup>that we should love one another.

12 Not as <sup>v</sup>Cain, who was of that wicked one, and slew his brother. And wherefore slew he him? Because his own works were evil, and his brother's righteous.<sup>5</sup>

13 Marvel not, my brethren, <sup>w</sup>if the world hate you.

14 We<sup>y</sup> know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not his brother abideth in death.

15 Whosoever<sup>z</sup> hateth his brother is a murderer: and ye know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him.

16 Hereby<sup>a</sup> perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us: and <sup>b</sup>we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.

17 But <sup>c</sup>whoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?

18 My little children, <sup>d</sup>let us not love in word, neither in tongue; but in deed and in truth.

19 And<sup>e</sup> hereby we know that we are of the truth, and shall assure<sup>6</sup> our hearts before him.

20 For<sup>g</sup> if our heart condemn us,<sup>7</sup> God is greater than our heart, and knoweth all things.

21 Beloved, <sup>h</sup>if our heart condemn us not, then have we confidence toward God.

22 And<sup>i</sup> whatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in his sight.

23 And <sup>j</sup>this is his commandment, That we should believe on the name of his Son Jesus Christ, <sup>k</sup>and love one another, as he gave us commandment.

24 And <sup>l</sup>he that keepeth his commandments dwelleth in him, and he in him. <sup>n</sup>And hereby festations and enforcements, it was always the same in substance. And it is impossible for men either to be or live like Christians without practising it. In Christ's family on earth what different degrees are there of grace and experience! But the weakest saints have their sins fully forgiven them, and love their heavenly Father. And the more they grow in grace, the more established are they in the faith, and capable of resisting and conquering the devil and his instruments; while the ripest for glory have the deepest acquaintance with God and his counsels.—But, alas! the prevailing love of this world is a fatal enemy to all true practical religion. Its precarious, empty, and perishing pleasures, riches, and honours, often carry off men's hearts from everything eternal and divine. Crafty seducers and ruinous errors greatly plague the church in every age. And how many, by their apostasy from the practice and profession of the gospel, manifest that they love the world more than God, nor rest not in his Son! Infinite, then, is the mercy that the Holy Ghost, by his enlightening and attractive influences, convicts sinners and leads to Christ, so that none of them need ever fully or finally apostatize from his truths or ways, and that his blessed promise of eternal life secures their growth in holiness and honourable appearance before his tribunal.

CHAPTER III. Ver. 1. Behold with attention, admiration, gratitude, joy, and praise, what free and transcendent love and mercy the great JEHOVAH hath bestowed on us in making us, who are in ourselves altogether worthless, mean, vile, and contemptible sinners, his regenerated and adopted sons, heirs of himself and all the blessings of his new kingdom! No wonder the carnal and wicked men of this world do not esteem, love, or own, but hate us who bear his image, since they are ignorant of his nature and will, and do not esteem, approve, nor acknowledge either Father or Son. 2. My dear fellow-Christians, notwithstanding our many natural and sinful infirmities, and our apparently despicable meanness, we are already the sons and heirs of God by regeneration, adoption, and marriage union to his Son; and therefore, though neither worldly men around us, nor even ourselves, can as yet conceive the excellency of our station, or the full glory and happiness that are annexed to it, yet, by faith and by the witness of his Spirit, we certainly know that when Jesus Christ shall appear in his glory to judge the world, we, by the views and influences of his divine and mediatorial glory, then fully revealed, shall be made and appear like him in light, and love, holiness, happiness, and glory. 3. And wherever the true and well-grounded hope of this is, it powerfully influences to aim at, and endeavour through grace to attain, all possible purity in heart and life, in imitation of and conformity to him and his superlative purity and holiness. 4. But whoever wilfully lives in any known sin, not only rebels against the light, grace, and obligations of the gospel, but manifestly violates the moral law, which is holy, just, and good; for the strict and proper notion of sin is a deviation from or contrariety in disposition, thought, word, or deed, to the law of God, that unchangeable rule of righteousness which is a transcript of his holy nature and will. 5. And nothing can be more evident than that the allowed practice of any sin is inconsistent with a good hope of being glorified together with Christ at his second coming, since the whole gospel shows that the end of his first appearance in the flesh was, that, by his sacrifice of himself, he might deliver us from the guilt, power, pollution, and inbeing of our sins; and his perfect holiness caused all sacrifice for himself to be needless, and renders it impossible for him to have fellowship with wilful sinners. 6. Such therefore as abide in him by vital union and gracious fellowship cannot sin deliberately, habitually, presumptuously, and wilfully. And if any professor sin in this manner, he has not then any spiritual knowledge of or faith in Christ, nor any experimental and saving fellowship with him. 7. Let we know that he abideth in us, by the Spirit which he hath given us.

CHAPTER IV.

1 He warneth them not to believe all teachers, who boast of the Spirit, but to try them by the rules of the catholic faith: 7 and by many reasons exhorteth to brotherly love.

BELOVED, believe<sup>a</sup> not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are of God: because many false prophets are gone out into the world.

2 Hereby<sup>b</sup> know ye the Spirit of God: Every spirit that confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh is of God:

3 And<sup>c</sup> every spirit that confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh is not of God: and this is that spirit of antichrist, whereof ye have heard that it should come; and even now already is it in the world.<sup>1</sup>

4 Ye<sup>d</sup> are of God, little children, and have overcome them: because <sup>e</sup>greater is he that is in you, than <sup>f</sup>he that is in the world.

5 They<sup>h</sup> are of the world: therefore speak they of the world, and the world heareth them.

6 We<sup>i</sup> are of God: <sup>j</sup>he that knoweth God heareth us; he that is not of God heareth not us. <sup>k</sup>Hereby know we the spirit of truth, and the spirit of error.

7 Beloved,<sup>l</sup> let us love one another: <sup>m</sup>for love is of God; <sup>n</sup>and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God.

8 He<sup>p</sup> that loveth not, knoweth not God; <sup>q</sup>for God is love.

9 In<sup>r</sup> this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through him.

A.M. cir. 494
A.D. cir. 90.

CHAP. IV.

a Ac. 17. 11. 1 Th. 5. 21. Re. 2. 2. Je. 29. 8, 9. Mat. 7. 15, 16; 24. 4, 5, 24. Ep. 5. 6. Phil. 1. 10. 2 Pe. 2. 1, 18. 2 Jn. 7. Ac. 20. 29, 30. Col. 2. 8, 18. b ch. 5. 1, 2. 1 Co. 12. 3. c ch. 1. 18, 22, 23; 5. 10. 2 Jn. 7. 2 Th. 2. 7. d See note below. e ch. 3. 9; 5. 18-20; 4. 5. Ro. 8. 37. Re. 12. 11. ch. 2. 13; ver. 16. f Jn. 10. 28-30. 1 Pe. 1. 5, ch. 3. 24. Ep. 3. 17. g Jn. 12. 31; 14. 30; 16. 11. 1 Co. 2. 12, 16, 2, 3. h 2 Pe. 2. 10-17. Jude 16. Jn. 3. 31; 15. 19; 17. 14. 7. 7. i Ro. 1. 1. 2 Pe. 1. 1. Ja. 1. 1. Jude 1. j Jn. 8. 47; 10. 27; 18. 37. 1 Co. 14. 37. 2 Co. 10. 7. k Is. 8. 20. Ac. 17. 11. Jn. 14. 11. l See ch. 3. 11, 18, 23; 5. 1; ver. 20, 21. m Phil. 1. 29. Ga. 5. 6. Ro. 5. 5. De. 30. 6. n ch. 3. 14; 2. 29. o ch. 2. 4; 3. 6; ver. 20. p ver. 16. 2 Co. 13. 11. Ps. cxxxvi.; 86. 5. 15. Ex. 34. 6, 7. Mi. 7. 18, 19. q Jn. 3. 16; 6. 51. Ro. 5. 8; 8. 32. ch. 3. 16; 5. 11. r The word antichrist occurs only in the epistles of John, and there only five times—once in the plural, and four times in the singular. The first passage has both the singular and plural forms, ch. 2. 18. In that passage the singular term must signify a person, and one of whose coming those addressed had previously heard, probably from 2 Th. 2. 3-10. The plural form is an appellation, intended to describe those who, in the apostle's own time, showed the spirit and held the dogmas of the coming antichrist. In the context it is indicated that while they had at one time professed to belong to the church, they were not true members; and they had even given up profession. In ch. 2. 22 the word is again used to distinguish all such as exhibit identity of character and principles with the antichrist. The same may be said of this verse. The only other place in which the term occurs is 2

A.M. cir. 494
A.D. cir. 90.

Jn. 7. There a class is alluded to all the individuals of which show the same characteristics. In all these passages the signification of the term is the same—it means one who denies Christ; who denies the glory of his person, the dignity of his office, and the result of his work. Antichrist, therefore, is one who opposes the fundamental doctrines of Christianity:—especially, (1.) The incarnation, and all that resulted from it. (2.) The historical facts of the life, sufferings, death, and resurrection of our Lord. (3.) The possibility of such a union of God and man as was exhibited in Christ. Antichrist is also called a deceiver; that is, one who, while professing to belong to the church, and professing to give some honour to Christ, would yet undermine the fundamental doctrines of Christ and his church, and thus fatally deceive mankind.—P. s De. 7. 7, 8. Jn. 15. 16. Ro. 8. 3, 4, 32; 3. 24, 25; 5. 8, 10, 20, 21. 2 Co. 5. 19-21. Col. 1. 20. Tit. 3. 4. ch. 2. 2; ver. 19. t Mat. 18. 33. Jn. 15. 12, 13; ch. 3. 16, 17, 23. u Ex. 33. 20. De. 4. 12. Jn. 1. 18. 1 Ti. 1. 17; 6. 16. v Jn. 17. 21. 1 Co. 13. 13. ch. 3. 24; 5. ver. 18. x See ch. 3. 24; 2. 20, 27. Jn. 14. 20, 23, 26; 17. 21. ver. 15, 16. y ch. 1. 12; 2. 1, 2; 3. 5. 16. Jn. 1. 14; 3. 14-17. Ga. 4. 4, 5. Mat. 1. 21; 20. 28. Lu. 19. 10. z Ac. 8. 37. Ro. 10. 9. ver. 2; ch. 5. 1, 5. 1 Co. 12. 3. a ch. 3. 6, 24. Jn. 14. 20, 23; 17. 21. b ch. 3. 1, 16; ver. 9, 10. He. 11. 13. Ac. 15. 11. Ga. 2. 20. Ps. 18. 1-3; 14. 2, 5. c See ver. 8, 12, 13. d ch. 2. 5; 3. 3; ver. 12, 18. e Ja. 2. 13. ch. 3. 19, 21; 5. 14. f Ro. 8. 29. 1 Co. 15. 48, 49. 1 Pe. 1. 15, or 2 Ti. 2. 12. Mat. 10. 25. Jn. 15. 20. g 2 Ti. 1. 7. Lu. 1. 74. h He. 12. 28, 29. ver. 12, 17.

10 Herein<sup>s</sup> is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins.

11 Beloved, <sup>t</sup>if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another.

12 No<sup>u</sup> man hath seen God at any time. <sup>v</sup>If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us.

13 Hereby<sup>x</sup> know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he hath given us of his Spirit.

14 And<sup>y</sup> we have seen, and do testify, that the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world.

15 Whosoever<sup>z</sup> shall confess that Jesus is the Son of God, <sup>a</sup>God dwelleth in him, and he in God.

16 And<sup>b</sup> we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. <sup>c</sup>God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him.

17 Herein<sup>d</sup> is our love<sup>e</sup> made perfect, <sup>f</sup>that we may have boldness in the day of judgment: because <sup>g</sup>as he is, so are we in this world.

18 There<sup>h</sup> is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear; because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love.

19 We<sup>i</sup> love him, because he first loved us.

20 If<sup>j</sup> a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?

21 And<sup>k</sup> this commandment have we from him, That he who loveth God love his brother also.

i Lu. 7. 47. Jn. 15. 16. Ps. 116. 1, 12, 16; 119. 32. 2 Co. 5. 14. j ch. 2. 4; 3. 17. k Jn. 13. 34, 35; 15. 12. ch. 3. 11, 18, 23. Le. 19. 18. Mat. 22. 39. Ep. 5. 2. Ro. 12. 9, 10; 13. 9, 10. Ga. 5. 14. Ja. 2. 8. 1 Th. 4. 9. 1 Pe. 3. 8, 4, 8.

therefore no false teacher impose upon you, my dear children. Fix it in your minds, as a certain and important truth, that it is only they who, from principles of faith and love, conscientiously and habitually work righteousness in all their dealings with God or men, that are sustained, as faithfully and actively righteous before God, in conformity to Jesus, who loved and constantly fulfilled all righteousness. 8. Whoever deliberately, habitually, presumptuously, and wilfully works iniquity, under the influence of his inward corruptions, is a child and obedient subject of the devil, who, from the very beginning of time, has constantly persisted in sinning himself, and in tempting his fellow-angels and mankind to sin, to their everlasting ruin. Now, this is so contrary to everything said, done, or countenanced by Christ, that he, the eternal Son of God, came into this world as sent by his Father, that, by his doctrine, obedience, and sufferings, he might counteract the devil, and deliver men from that sin and misery which he had introduced. 9. Whosoever therefore is, by faith and the power of the Holy Ghost, made partaker of a divine nature, is no longer a wilful and habitual worker of iniquity, like the devil and his children; for that divine principle of grace which was infused into him in his regeneration will by its divine power tend to rule and govern him, that he can no more love and live in sin, or sin with deliberation and full consent of his will, as he was wont to do, or continue impenitent in the sins into which he had been surprised by temptation; because, being a child of God, and born of the Spirit, he has received an indwelling habit or principle of grace that wills and works in direct opposition to all sin. 10. By these habitual inclinations and exercises, either in opposition to or in favour of sin, are the children of God and those of the devil plainly distinguished, and openly discovered and known to be such; for let men's pretences be what they will, if they do not love and habitually live in the practice of religion and morality, and have not a sincere and cordial affection for their Christian brethren, it is impossible they can be the regenerated or adopted children of God. 11. For both our Lord himself and his apostles and servants have all along urged that, if we profess to be his followers, we should dearly love one another, and labour to promote one another's real advantage. 12. Not imitating Cain, that first-born of our fallen parents and notorious child of the devil, who, under the malignant influence of that infernal father, cruelly murdered his brother Abel, for no other reason but because his works were better in themselves, and more respected by God, than his own abominable actions. 13. Never therefore marvel at it, as a new and strange thing, if wicked men, those children of the devil, should hate you, as Cain did Abel, there being an established enmity between the seed of the woman and of the old serpent. 14, 15. And never let us be uneasy under the hatred of the world, since God loveth us; and since our sincere and cordial love to all that bear his image is a manifest proof that we are translated from a state of condemnation to a state of justification and adoption to eternal life, and are quickened from a death in sin to a life of righteousness and holiness; whereas they who do not love the saints, as beloved by and belonging to Christ, and bearing his image, are still in a state of condemnation and spiritual death. Nay, he that, instead of cultivating this Christian temper towards his brother, indulges wrath, malice, envy, and revenge, is, in God's reckoning, a murderer; and such a one the Word of God represents as having no principle of spiritual life abiding in him, or any title to or meetness for eternal life.—16. Since, then, the eternal Son of God freely and cheerfully gave himself an offering and sacrifice to God, to make atonement for our sins and secure our eternal salvation, we have a marvellous evidence of the truth and greatness of his love towards us, with which we ought to be so deeply affected and influenced as to stand ready to expose our very lives for encouraging the faith and hope of his ransomed people, and for the preservation of such as are eminently serviceable in the church. 17. But if, instead of copying Christ's example, we can see our Christian brethren in necessitous circumstances, yet harden our hearts against them, and decline relieving them when God has put it in our power, how can we pretend to have the faith of God's love to us, or any interest in or real love to God abiding in us? 18. Let us not, my brethren, content ourselves with even the strongest expressions of compassion and kindness to our fellow-Christians and neighbours, but let us demonstrate our love in proper acts of beneficence and service, and in offices of substantial friendship, according to our professions: 19. And by the prevalence of this excellent temper and conduct we have sure evidence that God has regenerated us by his Word of truth, and brought us to understand, believe, and live under the government of the true principles of the gospel as sincere Christians, and shall be emboldened to appeal to him for our integrity, whatever censures the world may pass upon us, which will comfortably free us from the stinging reproaches of a self-condemning conscience. 20. For if our conscience, which is the deputy and candle of the Lord, witness against, accuse, and condemn us of allowed hypocrisy in our professions of love, or of adherence to the truths of the gospel, what an awful sentence may we expect from God, who is infinitely more great and just, and better acquainted with our whole conduct! 21. But if our conscience, upon due deliberation, under the enlightening and witnessing of the Holy Ghost, according to the truth of the gospel, acquit us from all charges of reigning or

CHAPTER V.

1 He that loveth God loveth his children, and keepeth his commandments: 3 which to the faithful are light, and not grievous. 9 Jesus is the Son of God, able to save us, 14 and to hear our prayers, which we make for ourselves, and for others.

WHOSOEVER believeth<sup>a</sup> that Jesus is the Christ is born of God: and<sup>b</sup> every one allowed guile, we may, in proportion to our consciousness of this, have humble boldness in our claim of God as our God and Father, in our professions of love to him and his people, and in appeals to him concerning our integrity, and a holy freedom, courage, and liberty of soul in our fiducial pleadings with him. 22. And our unfeigned respect to all his commandments, and endeavours always to do what is acceptable in his sight by Jesus Christ, are an evidence that we have such interest in his favour as that we shall receive, in due time, whatever blessings we sincerely and humbly pray for, according to his will, with faith in Christ, and for right ends.—23. And this is the great commandment of God which is fundamental to and comprehensive of all the rest, that we should heartily receive and rest upon Christ alone for salvation, as he is offered unto us in the gospel; and, influenced by this faith, should love all his people as his members, in obedience to his commandments. 24. All they therefore who conscientiously keep his commandments, from a principle of faith working by love, manifest that they live in a state of vital union to and gracious fellowship with Christ and his Father, and have these divine persons dwelling in them by faith; and we who stand in this near and happy relation to Christ and his Father are assured that he lives with abiding influence in us, by the light, energy, and witness of his Holy Spirit, which he has freely given us, to produce, excite, and assist in the exercise of faith, love, and every other grace, in our souls.

Ver. 9. Doth not commit sin—cannot sin. 'Cannot be guilty of deliberate and habitual vice' (Pyle). 'Is no longer a wilful and habitual worker of iniquity—can no more love and live in sin, or sin with deliberation and full consent of his will' (Brown). 'A strong disinclination to sin' (Doddridge). In presence of these high authorities, the following view is suggested with great diffidence, but a conviction of its truth requires that it be stated: When the apostle affirms of the child of God that 'he cannot sin,' this disposition depends upon his new birth and the abiding seed of truth, Ja. 1. 8; 1 Pe. 1. 23—whence it is evident that it is the transformed and renewed man, Ro. 12. 2, the 'law of the mind,' Ro. 7. 2, 'the divine nature,' 2 Pe. 1. 4, the principle of love, Ro. 13. 10, that 'sinneth not,' and 'cannot sin,' while yet in the same man the 'law of the members' is still striving for the mastery, and compelling him to a perpetual warfare; and 'the deeds of the body' are, in the same man, still to be 'mortified,' 'through the spirit,' that 'the new man' may live unto God, Ro. 7. 18–25; 8. 1–13. See Brown's note, ch. 5. 4. C.

Ver. 15. Is a murderer in principle, even as a seed is really a plant though yet undeveloped. C.

Ver. 22. We keep his commandments—in consent of the understanding, Ro. 7. 16; in purpose of the will, Ro. 7. 15, 18, 19, 21; and in delight of the inner man of the heart, Ro. 7. 22; and fully and perfectly by believing in Christ our living Head, ver. 23, 24, 'who is made unto us righteousness,' 1 Co. 1. 30; and in whom believers 'are righteous, even as he is righteous,' ver. 7. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Astonishing is the love of God in awakening sinful men by the operation of the Holy Spirit. And notwithstanding their mean or contemptible appearance on earth, great shall be their glory and happiness in the last judgment and the eternal state. Evangelical hopes of everlasting happiness powerfully influence to the study of holiness in heart and life, and an inward principle of grace, under the influence of the Holy Ghost, graciously leads to hate and oppose everything sinful—as a rebellion against God, a counteracting of Christ's mediation, and an imitation of and obedience to Satan.—Faith as working by love, and love as influencing to an obedience to all God's commandments, are the principal characteristics of a Christian. And it is not high professions, but true and practical love to our fellow-Christians, and the conscientious regard to all the laws of God, that will evidence us true believers, children of God, and temples of Christ, his Father, and Spirit. But nothing can more effectually prove us the devil's children and servants than neglect of or murderous hatred against our fellow-Christians or neighbours.—There is need, then, of a thorough self-examination on these points. And if we cannot abide the trial of our own consciences, how shall we abide the judgment of a heart-searching God!

CHAPTER IV. Ver. 1. Take heed, my dear fellow-Christians, to whom God has given his Spirit, that ye do not hearken to nor be seduced by every pretender to that Spirit, or by every doctrine which

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

CHAP. V.

α Mat. 16. 16. Jn. 6. 69.
Ac. 8. 37. Ro. 10. 9. 10.
Jn. 1. 12. 13. ch. 2. 22. 23;
4. 2. 14. 15; 2. 29.
β ch. 3. 14. 17. 23; 4. 7.
8. 12. 20. 21, with Es. 2.
10. Jn. 15. 23. Ja. 1. 18. 1.
Pe. 1. 3. 23.

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

γ ch. 3. 14; 4. 20. Jn. 13.
35.
δ ch. 2. 13. Ex. 20. 6.
De. 5. 10; 7. 9; 10. 12. 13.
Jn. 14. 15. 21. 23; 15. 10.
14; 13. 17. 1 Ti. 1. 5. Mat.
22. 37–40. 2 Jn. 6.
1 See note on ch. 3.
22.—C.

such a one may broach under colour of extraordinary light and immediate revelation; but, before you espouse these high pretenders, carefully examine, by the oracles of God, what manner of spirit they have, what doctrine they preach, what lives they lead, and what aims they follow; and there is great need of your being very cautious on this head, as, according to our Saviour's predictions, multitudes of impostors are now gone abroad, and making a great noise in the world. 2, 3. Now, that ye may certainly distinguish the spirits, know that every one who, under profession of preaching by the light and inspiration of the Spirit, cordially believes, freely owns, and boldly professes his faith in Christ as the eternal Son of God, who hath assumed our nature, and fulfilled all righteousness in our stead, and, for our eternal salvation, appears to be truly inspired and authorized by God. But whoever denies that Christ is the true God, or promised Messiah, or denies his true manhood, or satisfaction therein for our sins, is not enlightened nor authorized, nor born of God; but is actuated by that spirit of opposition to Christ and his truths which has already begun to appear in the world. 4. Ye, my dear children, are born of God, and have been taught by his Spirit to avoid, withstand, and overcome these impostors, and their errors and wicked practices, by the steadfastness of your faith, profession, and obedience—God, who dwells in you by his Spirit, being infinitely superior in wisdom and power to that antichristian spirit which is gone forth into the world, and to Satan himself, under whom it acts and works in the children of disobedience. 5. The views, interests, and doctrines of these impostors relate to the riches, honours, and pleasures of this present evil world, and therefore they propagate such notions of secular dominion and grandeur as are agreeable to carnal men; and hence their hearers, who place their happiness in worldly things, hearken to them, and greedily suck in their corrupt doctrines, as most suitable to their own inclinations. 6. But we who preach an incarnate and crucified Saviour as the only way to everlasting happiness, are enlightened, approved, sent, and owned by, as well as born of, God. Whoever therefore truly knows anything of God, according to the discoveries which he has made of himself in Christ by the gospel, diligently attends to and heartily receives the divine truths which we preach by the direction of his Spirit. But they who have not been enlightened and renewed by God pay no regard to our spiritual doctrine concerning Christ as the only true Messiah, nor to us who preach it. By this we easily and clearly discern whether men preach under the direction of God's Spirit of truth, or under the influence of the erroneous spirit of the devil.—7, 8. Now, to return to what I much aim at in this epistle, let all of us labour always to maintain, express, and show forth the most sincere and brotherly affection one to another; for such love is begotten, commanded, and approved by God, and it manifests him that lives in the exercise of it to be a child of God, regenerated by his Spirit, and possessed of an experimental, appropriating, and transforming knowledge of the perfections and will of God; and, on the other hand, he that is a stranger to the exercise of love to the saints or his neighbours, appears ignorant of the nature and will of God; for God is, in his very nature, an infinity of grace, mercy, and love; and in his thoughts, purposes, and dispensations, has manifested himself an infinitely glorious and engaging pattern of kindness and goodwill. 9, 10. And this his love has been peculiarly manifested towards us in his freely sending his only begotten and infinitely well-beloved Son to assume our nature, and by obeying and dying in our stead to atone for our sins, who are mean worms, enemies, and ungodly wretches, that thereby he might secure eternal salvation and happiness for us, and graciously give it by faith. 11. Now, if God loved us at so high and astonishing a rate, we whom he has thus loved and redeemed by the precious blood of his Son most certainly ought, under the influence of this love, and in imitation of it, to maintain the most ardent affection towards our Christian brethren for his sake, and in obedience to his will. 12. But since our love to God that loveth him that begat, loveth him also that is begotten of him.

2 By<sup>c</sup> this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God, and keep his commandments.

3 For<sup>d</sup> this is the love of God, that we<sup>1</sup> keep himself cannot be drawn out by any bodily sight of him, let us show it by our regard to the saints, those visible representations of him; for if we love one another as bearing his image, it manifests that we love him, and that he dwells in us by his Spirit to produce this love; and thereby his love to us is eminently and most effectually manifested, and ours to him is brought to its true form, and eminently exercised and proved to be sincere: 13. Yea, by this we have a comfortable evidence of our dwelling, by faith and love, in union and communion with God through Christ, and of his dwelling in our souls by gracious manifestations and influences; because he has freely afforded us rich communications of his Spirit to win and animate this faith and love, and to cast a light upon his own work in us. 14. And we apostles who were eyewitnesses of Christ's manhood, preaching, miracles, sufferings, death, resurrection, and ascension to glory, do, upon infallible evidence, attest that the eternal Father sent his only begotten Son to take upon him our nature, and by this his course of obedience and sufferings to be the Redeemer of both Jews and Gentiles, who do or shall believe on him, throughout the whole world. 15. Whoever therefore, in these perilous times, from a principle of faith and love, boldly confess Jesus Christ to be the only begotten Son of God and only Saviour of lost sinners, thereby manifest that God dwells in them by his Spirit, who has led them to these just sentiments of Christ, and that they dwell in God by faith and love, through the great Mediator.—16. And we who have the experience of this are fully persuaded, on the ground of gospel revelation, and the concurring witness of the Spirit with our spirits, that the most peculiar, transcendent, and distinguishing love is in the heart of God towards us, and is manifested in his sending his Son to be the propitiation for our sins, that we might live through him, and thus enjoy God, as altogether love, mercy, and grace to us, without any mixture of fury or wrath against us. And if we live under the power of a hearty and ardent love to him, and to his children for his sake, he and we have the most delightful and reciprocal union and communion: 17. Yea, this manifestation of the sincerity and strength of our love encourages us to hope that we shall appear, with humble confidence, before him, as true believers, in the awful day of judgment; because, as he is all love to us, so we, even in this tempting and insinuating world, have our hearts filled with a supreme love to him, and with a sincere and ardent love to his children for his sake. 18. This love is indeed ever attended with a holy filial reverence of him, and cautious fear of offending him; yet, as we thereby know that we are passed from death to life, there is no distrustful, despairing, or terrifying fear of him in it, as if he were our enemy. And the more strong and fervent our love is, under an assuring sense of his love to us, the more effectually it banishes all diffident, slavish, and tormenting fear of him. 19. For our love to him is kindled by, and is the fruit and effect of, his free love to us, which was from eternity in his gracious purposes, and was manifested in time by gracious declarations and works, in order that our hearts might be won in love to him; 20. And this our superlative love to him is necessarily connected with a sincere love to all his children. To pretend to love God, and yet indulge an uncharitable, irreconcilable, and malicious temper towards our fellow-Christians, is to give the lie to our profession, and to all the declarations of Scripture, concerning true love to him; for if we bear not a love to our brethren in the faith and fellowship of the gospel, whom we have seen with our bodily eyes, and in whom we discern visible traces of the image of God, how can we ever love God himself, who, being invisible, can make no impression of himself upon our bodily senses to affect our heart, or move or engage our affection!

Ver. 2. The Docetæ, an early race of antichristian teachers, denied the humanity of Christ, and against them this test seems to be directed. It will not, however, follow, as Humanitarians would infer, that our Lord was a mere man; but, on the contrary, clearly implies, as does Paul elsewhere, that he might have come in the 'nature of angels,' or in 'the form of God,' Hu. 2. 14–16; Phi. 2. 6. C.

his commandments: and <sup>e</sup>his commandments are not grievous.

4 For <sup>g</sup>whatsoever is born of God overcometh the world: and this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith.

5 Who<sup>h</sup> is he that overcometh the world, but he that believeth that Jesus is the Son of God?

6 This<sup>i</sup> is he that came by water and blood, even Jesus Christ; not by water only, but by water and blood. And <sup>j</sup>it is the Spirit that beareth witness, because the Spirit is truth.<sup>2</sup>

7 For<sup>k</sup> there are three that bear record in heaven, the <sup>l</sup>Father, the <sup>m</sup>Word, and the <sup>n</sup>Holy Ghost: and these three are <sup>o</sup>one.<sup>3</sup>

8 And there are three that bear witness in earth, <sup>p</sup>the spirit, and the water, and the blood: and these three agree in one.<sup>4</sup>

9 If<sup>r</sup> we receive the witness of men, the witness of God is greater: for this is the witness of God which he hath testified of his Son.<sup>5</sup>

10 He that believeth on the Son of God hath<sup>s</sup> the witness in himself: he that believeth not God <sup>t</sup>hath made him a liar; because he believeth not the record that God gave of his Son.

<sup>r</sup> Jn. 8.17, 18; 5.36, 37. <sup>5</sup> The second clause of this verse ought to be rendered thus:—'This is the witness of God (namely) that he hath borne witness concerning his Son.' God's witness to or concerning his Son is given at ver. 11.—P. <sup>s</sup> Jn. 3.1, 33. Ro. 8.16, Ga. 4.6. Ep. 2.10. He. 12.2, 11.13. <sup>t</sup> Jn. 3.33; 5.38. Is. 53.1. He. 3.12; 4.11.

Ver. 3. That spirit (rather, 'mark') of antichrist 'which confesses not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh,' Romanists deny to be applicable to the Popedom, because it confesses to this doctrine. Now, in one sense this is true; in another, and the only important sense, it is untrue. By the coming of Jesus Christ in the flesh, 'he bore our sins in his own body on the tree,' and his blood cleanseth us from all sin; whereas the Romish traditions ascribe the cleansing from sin and acceptance with God to penances, purgatory, and masses, the merits and intercessions of the Virgin Mary, apostles, saints, and angels; and thus, setting up human inventions, make altogether void the scriptural doctrine of the incarnation and atonement of the Son of God. C.

Ver. 12. No man hath seen God at any time—that is, in his spirituality and infinity; for his spirituality is essentially invisible to bodily eyes, and his infinity incomprehensible by any created intellect. But God has, since the creation, been manifest by his Word. God the Word, by a divine manifestation, appeared to our first parents, to Abraham, to Moses, and, finally, he 'was manifest in the flesh,' and the apostles 'beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth.' C.

Ver. 18. That 'there is no fear in love,' is a simple statement of fact: for love is the desire of, and delight in, and devotedness to God, on account of his excellencies. But while 'there is no fear in love,' it does not follow that there is no species of fear attendant upon, or inseparably connected with, love. A slavish fear of God as a King, a guilty fear of God as a Judge, there is none in the believer; but a filial fear of God as a Father is equally excited by all his attributes. C.

REFLECTIONS.—When, in every age, there are so many crafty seducers, there is always great need to try preachers and doctrines by the unerring standard of God's Word. And it is a mercy that, when worldly-minded men so eagerly follow worldly-minded impostors, God so marks his faithful ministers with truth, holiness, and success, in winning souls, that every unbiassed observer may discern the difference.—Astonishing is God's love to us in first so caring for us as to give his only begotten Son to be our atoning sacrifice, and our effectual Saviour and portion; and in giving his Spirit to dwell in us, for the gracious application of all his glorious blessings. What can engage our hearts to a grateful love to God, a candid and open confession of his truths, and a sincere and affectionate love to his people, if this do not? The consciousness of God's loving us, and our loving him by his grace, affords us great comfort and boldness in all our dealings with him.—But never let me reckon myself a Christian if I do not love all men, especially the saints, as far as they bear Christ's image.

CHAPTER V. Ver. 1. Fix it in your minds, as the most important truth, that whoever cordially believes that Jesus Christ is the promised Messiah, and depends on him, as the anointed Prophet, Priest, and King of his church, for all salvation, is regenerated by the Spirit of God; and such as, from this principle of faith, have a supreme love to God, esteem of, desire after, and delight in him, cannot but bear a good will to and delight in every Christian brother, as beloved of God and spiritually begotten after his image. 2. And then we love the children of God aright, on account of their relation and likeness to him, when our love proceeds from such a prevailing love to himself as inclines and engages us to endeavour after all holy obedience to his commandments. 3. Yea, such an impartial respect and delightful obedience to all God's commandments, without counting any of them a heavy burden, is alone the distinguished mark of an unfeigned and governing love to him. 4. For whosoever is truly regenerated by the Spirit of God, he himself, and all that new nature which is produced in him by faith in Christ and by virtue derived from him, will so withstand, overcome, and triumph over the terrors and allurements of the men and things of this world, as not to be disheartened by the one, nor drawn aside from his duty by the other. 5. But it is only by believing on Christ as the true Messiah and only begotten Son of God, and depending on him, by a lively and effectual faith, for justification, sanctification, and complete salvation, that any man, Jew or Gentile, can be so weaned from and mortified to the things of this world. 6. Now, the character of this Saviour of the world was well attested at his baptism and in his bloody death, and, after his resurrection, by the powerful influences of the Holy Ghost, in applying his salvation to multitudes, and in the miraculous gifts bestowed and cures effected for the confirmation of the gospel. 7. For there are three divine persons, the habitation of whose glory is in heaven, who thence hore and still bear testimony to the incarnate Saviour as the true Messiah—the Father, by repeated declarations from heaven, and by raising him from the dead; the Son, by repeated avowals of his divine and mediatorial character, and by authoritative instructions and unnumbered miracles wrought in his own name; and the Holy Ghost, in visibly descending on him at his baptism, and by coming forth from him, after his ascension, to spread his name, kingdom, and glory in the world.—And these three, though personally distinct, in a manner which infinitely transcends our most enlarged conceptions, are not only equal in power and glory, but essentially one thing, being, and substance; one God, in distinction from and opposition to the many pretended deities of the heathens and others. 8. Meanwhile, on earth, the miraculous gifts and saving graces of the Holy Spirit; the spotless purity of Christ's human nature, his holy doctrine, and ordinance of Christian

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

<sup>e</sup> Ps. 119.45. Mat. 11.28-30. Ro. 7.22. Je. 31.33. Mar. 9.23. Phil. 4.13.
<sup>f</sup> ch. 4. 4; 2. 13; 3.6. Ga. 5.14. Jn. 16.33. Ro. 8.35. 37. 2 Co. 10. 3. 4. Ep. 5.12. 1 Pe. 5.9. ver. 5.
<sup>g</sup> 1 Co. 15.57. ch. 4.2. 4.15. See ver. 1.
<sup>h</sup> Jn. 19.34. 35; 7.38. 39; 1.14. 29. 30. Ep. 5.25-27. Tit. 2.14; 3. 5. Ac. 3.26; 5.31. He. 9.14. 1 Pe. 2.24; 1.18. 19. Ro. 5.9. Ga. 3.13. 14. Ep. 1.7. Col. 1.14.
<sup>i</sup> ver. 7. 8. Jn. 15.26; 16.13. 14.17.
<sup>j</sup> See note * in second column.
<sup>k</sup> Ps. 33.6. Is. 11.2; 48. 16; 61. 1; 63. 9. 10. Hag. 2.5. 7. Zec. 12. 10. Mat. 3. 16. 17; 28.19. 2 Co. 13. 14. Re. 1. 4. 5. 1 Co. 12.4-6.
<sup>l</sup> Mat. 3.17; 17.5. 2 Pe. 1.10. 17. Jn. 12.28; 8. 18. 54; 10.25. 37. 38. Ep. 1.13. 1 Pe. 1.2.3.
<sup>m</sup> Jn. 1.1. He. 4.13. 13. Re. 19.13. ch. 1.1. Jn. 8. 13. 14; 5. 17; 10. 24. 30. Ac. 7.55. 56. 3. 5.
<sup>n</sup> Mat. 3.16. Jn. 1.32. 33. Ac. 1.8. 7; 10.44. Jn. 15.20.
<sup>o</sup> Jn. 10.30. De. 6. 4. Mat. 19.17; 28.19.
<sup>p</sup> The best MSS. omit this verse entirely; and though the doctrine embodied in it is a true doctrine of Scripture, evidence is against the genuineness of the passage. The words 'in earth,' of ver. 8, are also omitted.—P.
<sup>q</sup> ver. 10. 2 Co. 1.22. 1 Pe. 1.23; 21. Re. 22.1. or He. 2.4. Mat. 28.19; 26. 26-28. He. 13. 12.
<sup>r</sup> They agree in one testimony—they combine in proving the same great truth, namely, that Jesus is the Messiah, the Sa-

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

viour of sinners, that he has life in him, and that we believers have life in him.—P.
<sup>u</sup> Jn. 3.36; 6.40. 47. ch. 2.25; 4.9. 14.
<sup>v</sup> Jn. 1.4; 17.23; 14.6; 11.25. Col. 3.3. 4.
<sup>w</sup> Jn. 1.3. 30; 5.24. 1.12. Ep. 3.17. Ga. 2.20.
<sup>x</sup> ch. 1.4; 2.20; 3. 14. 2 Co. 13.5. 2 Pe. 1.10. Jn. 20.31.
<sup>y</sup> Ac. 4.12. Mat. 16. 16. Jn. 10.9. 1 Ti. 1.15.
<sup>z</sup> Or, concerning him.
<sup>a</sup> ch. 3.22. Ja. 4.3. 1.5. 6. Je. 29.12. 13. Mat. 7.7-11. 21. 21. Jn. 14.13; 15.7; 16.24. Is. 45.11.
<sup>b</sup> See ver. 14. Pr. 15. 20. Mar. 11.24. Lu. 11.9. Mat. 17.20.
<sup>c</sup> Job 42. 8. Ja. 5.14-16. Ge. 20.7. 17. Ps. 106. 23. Eze. 22.30.
<sup>d</sup> Nu. 15.30. 1 Sa. 2. 25. Mat. 12.31. 32. He. 6. 4-8; 10. 26. 27. 29. 38. 2 Pe. 2.20. 22.
<sup>e</sup> Je. 7.16; 11.14; 14.11; 15.1. Jn. 17.9.
<sup>f</sup> ch. 3. 4. Ro. 4. 15. De. 5.32. 12.32.
<sup>g</sup> Is. 1. 18; 43. 25; 55. 7.44. 22. Ep. 1.7. Tit. 2. 14. Ro. 5.20. 21.
<sup>h</sup> ch. 3.9; 2.29. Ro. 7. 14-24.
<sup>i</sup> See note on ch. 3. 9.—C.
<sup>j</sup> ch. 2.13. 14; 13.12. Ps. 18. 23; 39. 1. Pr. 4. 23. Jude 21. Ja. 1.27.

* The division of the epistle embracing ver. 6-13, has for its theme the new life springing from faith in Christ, and especially the testimony of that life to its own reality. The Holy Spirit in the regenerate soul, as the author and sustainer of the new life, testifies to it.—P.

11 And this is the record, <sup>u</sup>that God hath given to us eternal life, <sup>v</sup>and this life is in his Son.

12 He<sup>x</sup> that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life.

13 These<sup>y</sup> things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe on <sup>z</sup>the name of the Son of God.

14 And this is the confidencee that we have in him,<sup>6</sup> that, <sup>a</sup>if we ask any thing according to his will, he heareth us:

15 And<sup>b</sup> if we know that he hear us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we desired of him.

16 If<sup>c</sup> any man see his brother sin a sin which is not unto death, <sup>d</sup>he shall ask, and he shall give him life for them that sin not unto death. There is a sin unto death: <sup>e</sup>I do not say that he shall pray for it.

17 All<sup>g</sup> unrighteousness is sin: and <sup>h</sup>there is a sin not unto death.

18 We<sup>i</sup> know that whosoever is born of God sinneth not;<sup>7</sup> but he that is begotten of God keepeth himself, and that wicked one toucheth him not.

baptism; his blood or righteousness represented in his supper, and applied to the consciences of believers—harmoniously attest him as the divine, complete, and only Saviour of sinners. 9. If, then, we readily depend, in the most important matters of life, upon the testimony of two or three credible men, how much more may we depend on the testimony of these three divine persons and things, that Christ is God's only begotten and eternal Son, and the only true Messiah. 10. Whosoever therefore, upon this divine evidence, cordially believes and trusts in this incarnate Son of God as his only and all-sufficient Saviour, has not only received into his heart the witness of God, but has in his soul an experimental and satisfying testimony of the suitability, worth, and excellency of Christ; and of his ability, willingness, and authority to deliver him from all sin and misery, and bring him to all spiritual and eternal happiness; but whosoever rejects the testimony which God has given concerning his Son in the gospel, as altogether sufficient, and given to him in particular for salvation, flatly contradicts and gives the lie to the most high, holy, and faithful God. 11. Now, this is the sum of the testimony which God bears concerning his Son—that, in infinite love, he has made a full and free offer of grace and glory to us sinners of mankind in the everlasting gospel; and, according to his own everlasting and infinite love, has graciously and tenderly conferred upon us who believe in him a full right and title to, meetness for, and beginnings, earnestness, and foretastes of eternal life—as all secured by, lodged in, communicated by, and to be enjoyed in a state of union and communion with Christ. 13. These divine testimonies concerning Christ I have set in so clear and strong a light before you who, under a sense of your helpless, guilty, and ruined state, have heartily received and rested on him as your only Saviour, that, by the Word of God, and witness of his Spirit with your spirit, ye may have a comfortable assurance that ye have not only the earnest and anticipating possession of eternal life, but have the whole of it in Christ your Head; and that ye may be excited and encouraged more and more steadfastly to believe in, and depend for your whole salvation upon, the merits and mediation of the only begotten Son of God. 14, 15. And we who truly believe in him are not only assured that God will bring us safe to everlasting happiness, but that he will graciously grant us whatever blessings we ask by faith in Christ's name, according to the declarations of his will given us in his Word. 16. Now if God so readily hear the prayers that are offered to him with faith in the name of Christ, we ought to 19 And <sup>k</sup>we know that we are of God, and the<sup>l</sup> whole world lieth in wickedness.<sup>s</sup>

20 And <sup>n</sup>we know that the Son of God is come, <sup>o</sup>and hath given us an understanding, <sup>n</sup> ch. 4. 25; 1.

<sup>o</sup> Mat. 13. 11. Lu. 24. 45. Ep. 1. 17; 3. 18, 19. Jn. 17. 3.

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

& Ro. 8. 16. ver. 13;
ch. 3. 14, 24. 2 Co. 1. 12. 2
Ti. 1. 12.
/ Ep. 2. 2, 12. Tit. 3. 3.
Ro. 1. 28-32; 3. 10-18.
8 Or, the wicked one.
Jn. 12. 31; 14. 30; 16. 11. 2
Ti. 2. 26. Ep. 2. 2.

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

p ch. 2. 5. 1 Co. 1. 30. 2
Co. 5. 17. 21. Phil. 3. 9.
Jude 1. Jn. 17. 21.
q Is. 9. 6; 44. 6; 54. 5.
Jn. 17. 32; 28. Ro. 9. 5. 1
Ti. 3. 16. Tit. 2. 13. ver.
11, 12.
r Ex. 20. 3, 4. 1 Co. 10.
7, 14. 2 Co. 6. 10, 17.

that we may know him that is true: <sup>r</sup>and we are in him that is true, even in his Son Jesus Christ. <sup>q</sup>This is the true God, and eternal life.
21 Little<sup>r</sup> children, keep yourselves from idols.
Amen.

pray for forgiveness of sins of every kind to our Christian brethren and fellows of mankind, in hopes of obtaining it—except only the sin against the Holy Ghost, which God has fixed as unpardonable, and infallibly connected with eternal damnation. 17, 18. Every disposition, thought, word, or deed, contrary to that equity prescribed by God's law, is sinful; but every sin is not that unpardonable transgression. Nay, whosoever is really regenerated by the Spirit of God, on account of the Spirit's continued indwelling and influence in his soul, and the immortal nature of that grace implanted in him, and through his own watchfulness against and hearty detestation of sin, has an effectual security against being ever seduced into that unpardonable sin. 19. Now, we certainly know that we have by regeneration been made partakers of a divine nature, as a powerful and abiding principle of holiness, and that all the rest of the world, who have never experienced this new birth, continue voluntarily under the power of sin and Satan. 20. And from all the undoubted proofs before insisted on, we certainly know that Jesus Christ, the eternal Son of God, hath assumed our human nature, and come into our world to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself; and that he hath not only given us an external revelation in his Word, but a saving knowledge of him as the Way, the Truth, and the Life, by an internal operation of his Spirit. Yea, we are vitally united to him who is the true and faithful Witness as Mediator, and as the Son of God is the only living and true God, together with the Father and Spirit, and who, having all life in himself, is the Purchaser and Giver of spiritual and eternal life to us. 21. Let me therefore beseech you who have such relation to and fellowship with the true God, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, to abstain from every appearance of fellowship with pagans in their idolatrous worship, or from giving anything too high a place in your hearts.

Ver. 1. Whosoever believeth truly and with all his heart, Ro. 10. 10. C.

Ver. 3. That 'His commandments are not grievous,' the most striking proof will be found in, apparently, the most 'grievous' example—the death of martyrs; which, though scenes of sadness to surviving friends, have often been scenes of joy and triumph to the victims of superstition and cruelty. C.

Ver. 4. Even our faith, which spiritually seeing things that, to the senses are unseen, overcomes the temptations of the visible by the hopes of the invisible. C.

Ver. 6. Christ 'came,' as the Son of God, 'by water,' being so proclaimed at the time of his baptism, Mat. 3. 16; next he came 'by blood,' at the time of his resurrection, when he returned to his disciples, and was declared to be the Son of God with power, Ro. 1. 4. 'Water and blood' also concurred at his death to testify to his humanity, which was one of the chief points, because of the errors of the Docetæ, John was required to prove. See ch. 4. 2, 3. C.

Ver. 10. 'He that believeth on the Son of God hath the witness (namely, the witness referred to in ver. 9, and fully stated in ver. 11) in himself.' He believes in Christ, and the very fact of his doing so is an internal witness that God 'has given him eternal life, and that life is in his Son.' The full testimony in the consciousness of the believer may be thus stated:—The Spirit by whom we are born again to eternal life, and who is purifying our minds, elevating our thoughts, and giving us love to God and man; the conviction of the perfect adaptation of the Saviour's atoning work to the wants of our souls, and the confidence resulting therefrom; the peace now reigning in our hearts as the consequent of pardon. These are the inward witnesses at once to the divine mission of Christ, and to the life which God has given us in him. P.

Ver. 12. He that hath the Son—(1) Hath him in his faith, by believing the doctrine concerning him, and confidently trusts in him for salvation, 2 Jn. 9. (2) Hath him in his love, whereby he leaves all things for his sake—honours, serves, and follows him. C.

Ver. 13. And that ye may (should) believe, &c. Which rendering is agreeable to the Greek, removes the tautology, renders that last clause of the verse intelligible and agreeable to the tenor of the epistle, which was to prove, on the force of divine evidence, that men 'should believe on the name of the Son of God.' C.

Ver. 16. His brother. A Christian brother—a true child of God; else were he no Christian brother.—Not unto death. A sin not to end in natural death.—And he shall give him. That is, not to him that prays, but to him that has sinned 'not unto death.'—There is a sin unto death. This statement has been grievously misrepresented by marginal references to Mat. 12. 31, 32; Mar. 3. 29; Lu. 12. 10; He. 6. 4, 6; 10. 26—whereas to these scriptures it bears no reference whatsoever. The true reference is to 1 Co. 11. 30, where bodily sickness and sleep (the Christian's death) are directly ascribed to the merciful judgment of God correcting his people for an unworthy approach to the Lord's table. C.

REFLECTIONS.—There can be no real Christianity without being begotten and born of God by his implantation of a supernatural and vital principle of grace in our heart. But no inward principle of grace can be manifested without actings of faith on Christ, of love to God and his people, and of weanedness of heart from the pleasures, riches, and honours of this world. But the more fully and firmly we, through the gospel, believe on Christ as our divinely-sent and well-qualified and furnished Saviour, the more complete will be our weanedness from and victory over the world.—What infallible testimonies concerning Christ are revealed unto us to encourage and found our faith in him! Nothing, then, can be more highly reasonable than to rest in him, assured of our eternal life in and through him as the free gift of God. And it is highly criminal and ruinous to our own souls, by discrediting his gospel declarations and promises, to give the lie to JEHOVAH's solemn attestations. It is a sure ground of hope in our pleading for every necessary blessing, that Christ has purchased and intercedes for it, and God has promised, for his sake, to bestow it. But dreadful, as well as unpardonable, is the crime of desperate and wilful rejection of Christ and the gospel; and great need have Christians to guard against every approach to it, and to make sure their regeneration by God's Spirit, as an effectual preservative against it. Thrice happy are they who conscientiously improve their assured knowledge, faith, and hope, in carefully keeping their heart and life for God alone, in opposition to every idolatrous rival.

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF JOHN.

'The Elder,' is a title derived from age, or experience as equivalent to age; and as John was now the senior apostle,—most probably the senior Christian,—the title would be peculiarly appropriate. It is also a title which John was likely to employ in preference to his own name, which he was accustomed to suppress.

'The Elect Lady' Clemens Alexandrinus supposes to have been a Babylonian named 'Eclecta;' and the Vulgate, Boothroyd, and others, render the words 'the lady Eclecta;' Benson and others translate the inscription 'To the elect Kyria;' Cassiodorus believed the epistle to have been addressed to a particular church; others, that it was intended for the Christian church generally, comp. Is. 54. 1; Ga. 4. 24, &c. The authorized version is supported by Beza, &c.; and both the absence and use of the Greek article (ver. 1, being comp. with ver. 13) appear to decide in favour of this opinion. C.

1 He exhorteth a certain honourable matron, with her children, to persevere in Christian love and belief, 8 lest they lose the reward of their former profession: 10 and to have nothing to do with those seducers that bring not the true doctrine of Christ Jesus.

THE elder<sup>a</sup> unto the <sup>b</sup>elect lady and her children, whom <sup>c</sup>I love<sup>1</sup> in the truth;<sup>2</sup> and not I only, but also all they that have known the truth;

2 For<sup>d</sup> the truth's sake, which dwelleth in us, and shall be with us for ever.

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

a 1 Pe. 5. 1, 3. Jn. 1. 6.
b Ac. 13. 48. Ep. 1. 4, 5.
c 1 Jn. 3. 18. Mat. 22.
39. Ga. 2. 5, 14; 3. 1, 5, 7.
Ep. 1. 13. 2 Th. 2. 13. 1
Ti. 2. 4. He. 10. 26. Ja. 1.
185. 19. 1 Pe. 1. 22. 3 Jn.
1. 3, 8.
1 Both the lady and her children.—C.
2 In the truth. In Christ Jesus (Jn. 14. 6):
as members of his mystical body (1 Co.
13. 12, 13); in the Spirit
(1 Jn. 5. 6); in the gospel, 2 Th. 2. 13.—C. d Phi. 1. 6. 1 Jn. 2. 14.
23. Col. 3. 16. Jn. 15. 7.

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

e Ro. 1. 7. 1 Ti. 1. 2.
f Zec. 8. 19. Ga. 5. 6.
g In truth—which you profess and maintain.—In love—which you feel and exercise.
—C. h Phi. 4. 1. 1 Th. 2. 19.
3 Jn. 3, 4.
i This seems to refer to the heavenly commandment,
'Hear ye him,' Mat.
17. 5.—C.
j 1 Jn. 13. 34; 15. 11, 12.
Ep. 5. 2. 1 Pe. 4. 8. 1 Th.
4. 9. 1 Jn. 2. 7, 8; 3. 11, 23;
4. 21.

3 Grace<sup>e</sup> be with you, mercy, and peace, from God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of the Father, <sup>g</sup>in truth<sup>h</sup> and love.

4 I<sup>h</sup> rejoiced greatly that I found of thy children walking in truth, as we have received a commandment from the Father.<sup>4</sup>

5 And now I beseech thee, lady, <sup>i</sup>not as though I wrote a new commandment unto thee,

Ver. 1-3. Dear lady, whom God has graciously called to everlasting life, and, by the powerful influence of his grace, rendered a choice and lively Christian, and whom I, and all other sincere believers of the gospel and faithful adherents to its truths, affectionately love and esteem, not on account of your high birth or

TOMB OF POLYCARP. [II. JOHN, i.]—This view is taken from the mountain overlooking Smyrna at the point where it is said Polycarp, bishop of Smyrna, was martyred and buried. Polycarp was a pupil of St. John and was one of the most illustrious of the early fathers of the Church. He was martyred under the persecution inaugurated under Marcus Aurelius and Lucius Verus. When brought before the pro-consul who was to pass sentence upon him Polycarp was asked to give up this religion. He replied: "Eighty and six years have I served Him, and He never did me wrong, and how can I now blaspheme my King that has saved me?" Polycarp was burned alive. This tall cedar tree marks the spot where his ashes lie buried. There is not in the whole country around Smyrna a finer point of observation than this. From here we see the city, the sea, and the mountains.

but that which we had from the beginning,<sup>5</sup> that we love one another.

6 And<sup>j</sup> this is love, that we walk after his commandments. This is the commandment, That, as ye have heard from the beginning, ye should walk in it.

7 For<sup>k</sup> many deceivers are entered into the world, who confess not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh. This is a deceiver<sup>6</sup> and an antichrist.<sup>7</sup>

8 Look<sup>l</sup> to yourselves, that we lose not those things which we have wrought,<sup>8</sup> but that we receive a full reward.

9 Whosoever<sup>n</sup> transgresseth, and abideth not

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

<sup>5</sup> The beginning of the preaching of the gospel.—C.

<sup>j</sup> Jn. 14. 15, 21; 15. 10, 14. Ro. 13. 8, 9. Ga. 5. 14. 1 Jn. 5. 3; 2. 5, 24.

<sup>k</sup> Mat. 24. 5, 24. 2 Pe. 2. 1. 1 Jn. 2. 18, 22; 4. 1-3. 2 Th. 2. 7, 11.

<sup>6</sup> A deceiver, &c. Rather, 'the deceiver and the antichrist'; that is, in spirit, in type, and commencement.—C.

<sup>7</sup> See note on 1 Jn. 4. 3.—P.

<sup>l</sup> Mar. 13. 9. Ga. 3. 4. He. 10. 32. Mat. 13. 21. 1 Ti. 1. 19. 1 Co. 15. 58. Phi. 2. 16. Re. 3. 11. Ps. 19. 11.

<sup>8</sup> Or, gained. Some copies read, which ye have gained, but that ye receive, &c.

<sup>n</sup> Jn. 15. 6. 1s. 8. 20. 1 Pe. 2. 2. Col. 3. 16. 1 Jn. 2. 23, 24.

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

<sup>9</sup> Hath not God for his God; neither for his Father, his Redeemer, nor his Sanctifier.—C.

<sup>o</sup> Ro. 16. 17. Ga. 1. 8, 9. Pr. 4. 14, 15. Tit. 3. 10. ver. 8. 2 Ti. 3. 5, 6; 4. 14. 1 Co. 16. 22.

<sup>p</sup> 1 Ti. 5. 22. Ep. 5. 11. Pr. 1. 10-19.

<sup>q</sup> 3 Jn. 13. Ro. 1. 10-12. Jn. 16. 12.

<sup>r</sup> The Greek khartos, here translated 'paper,' means the Egyptian papyrus, which was very generally used for writing at that period. Paper was not manufactured for some 900 years after the days of the apostles.—P.

<sup>2</sup> Gr. mouth to mouth.

<sup>v</sup> Jn. 17. 13. 1 Jn. 1. 4. 2 Ti. 1. 4. 1 ver. 1. Ro. 8. 20. 1 Pe. 1. 2. 2 Th. 2. 13. Ep. 1. 4. Ro. 11. 7.

in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God.<sup>9</sup> He that abideth in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son.

10 If<sup>o</sup> there come any unto you, and bring not this doctrine, receive him not into your house, neither bid him God speed:

11 For he that biddeth him God speed is partaker of his evil deeds.

12 Having<sup>a</sup> many things to write unto you, I would not write with paper<sup>1</sup> and ink: but I trust to come unto you, and speak face to <sup>2</sup>face, that our joy may be full.

13 The children of thy <sup>s</sup>elect sister greet thee. Amen.

your abundant wealth, but for your experience of, conformity, and regard to those truths,—I, who am an aged ruler of the Christian church, wish to you and yours the most abundant enjoyment of all those new-covenant blessings which proceed from the redeeming mercy and grace of God our Father, through Jesus Christ our dear and now exalted Saviour; and that you all may be thereby animated to walk in truth and in universal love, according to the tenor of that glorious gospel with which he has favoured you. 4. It was with inexpressible pleasure that I found when with you some, though not all, of your children graciously converted to Christ by the power of his gospel truths, and firmly adhering to them, and earnestly practising them, in a course of progressive holiness, thereby manifesting the truth and liveliness of their inward grace, according to the commandment which we have received from God the Father. 5, 6. Let me therefore beseech you, my dear and honoured lady, that according to the law of God, long ago delivered under the Old Testament, and more lately inculcated on us, with additional motives and obligations, by our dear Redeemer in the days of his flesh, you and your children would earnestly persevere in the most affectionate love to, sympathy with, and care for, all that bear his image, and that you would manifest your love to him in a constant, laborious, and progressive study of holiness, in all manner of conversation, according to his commandments, which have been so plainly and faithfully delivered unto you. 7, 8. I the rather beg your earnest attention to these things which you were taught when first you embraced the gospel, as many preachers have now gone abroad into the world, who, pretending a mission from Christ, an uncommon zeal for his truths, and love to the souls of men, do, in direct opposition to his declarations, interests, and honour, maintain that he did not assume, nor obey, nor suffer in a true human nature, but merely in appearance of it: let me therefore beseech you, and other Christian friends to whom this letter may come, to be on your strictest watch, and to guard against the seductions of such, that ye may not fall short of the gracious reward of your acceptance, profession, and practising of the gospel, and your sufferings for it, which you expect; and that we ministers may not lose the comfort which we hoped to have in your distinguished eternal salvation, as the seals of our ministry: 9. For as he who believes with his heart the doctrines of the gospel concerning Christ's person, offices, and work, and steadily adheres to them in his profession and practice, hath a spiritual knowledge of, interest in, and fellowship with Christ and his Father; so he who does not believe, teach, and practise them, but labours to seduce his hearers into the contrary errors, has no saving knowledge of, interest in, or fellowship with either. 10, 11. If therefore any preacher appears among you who does not declare and inculcate these very doctrines concerning Jesus Christ, and the redemption of sinners through his blood, according to the riches of God's grace, which we delivered unto you, see that ye give him not the smallest encouragement, by entertaining him in your houses, or wishing him any success in his ministrations; for whoever wishes him success, or familiarly converses with him, is accounted by God as a criminal encourager and assistant of him in spreading his errors, to the dishonour of Christ and the eternal ruining of men.

Ver. 13. From comparing ver. 4, 13, it will appear highly probable that the apostle had found some of the children of these two pious sisters at a distance from their mothers, for such separations are unavoidable, and that the chief object of his writing was to convey that most delightful of all earthly intelligence—the community of family religion, which promises and secures to the separated on earth the meeting of a family in heaven. C.

REFLECTIONS.—It is a great pleasure for ministers and Christians to observe persons of quality and their children heartily embracing the uncorrupted doctrines of the gospel, and walking answerably unto them; and to see the grace of God spreading through a whole family. And exalted blessings from Jesus Christ and his Father are secured to such by their fellow-Christians' prayers. True religion does not abate civil respect, but gives a spiritual turn to the most dutiful and affectionate salutations. True faith in Christ always manifests itself in a cordial love to God and his people, and in a conscientious obedience to his law; and those only have the benefit of a special relation to Christ and his Father who continue steadfast in the faith of the gospel, and persevere in all holy obedience. It is very dreadful, after a long profession of gospel truth, and much apparent experience of God's grace, to be at last disappointed of that ample satisfaction which we expected in that course. But inexpressible is their guilt who attempt to subvert any of the leading truths of the gospel. And highly sinful and dangerous is it to have fellowship with them, or to give them the smallest countenance in their conduct. Let Protestants, let Britons, think and tremble!

THE THIRD EPISTLE OF JOHN.

'Gaius' (in Latin, Caius) is a name occurring on four other occasions, viz. Ac. 19. 29; 20. 4; Ro. 16. 23; 1 Co. 1. 14. Who this Gaius was, or where he resided, is unknown;—but it matters not. His character survives, that, in these latter days, Christians may learn what primitive Christians were. C.

1 He commendeth Gaius for his piety, 5 and hospitality 7 to true preachers: 9 complaining of the unkind dealing of ambitious Diotrophes on the contrary side, 11 whose evil example is not to be followed: 12 and giveth special testimony to the good report of Demetrius.

THE elder<sup>a</sup> unto the well-beloved <sup>b</sup>Gains, whom<sup>c</sup> I love in the truth.<sup>1</sup>

2 Beloved, <sup>d</sup>I wish<sup>2</sup> above all things<sup>3</sup> that

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

<sup>a</sup> See 2 Jn. 1.

<sup>b</sup> Ac. 19. 29; 20. 4. Ro. 16. 23. 1 Co. 1. 14.

<sup>c</sup> See 2 Jn. 1. 1 Jn. 3. 18.

<sup>d</sup> Or, truly.

<sup>e</sup> Ro. 13. 10. Ps. 122. 6, 8. Phi. 2. 4.

<sup>2</sup> Or, pray.

<sup>3</sup> Above all things.

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

Rather, 'As to all things (external) I pray that thou mayest prosper, even as thy soul prospereth' (Robinson's Gr. Lex. τῆς, d. The apostle having probably heard that Gaius had fallen into ill health.—C.

thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as <sup>e</sup>thy soul prospereth.

3 For <sup>g</sup>I rejoiced greatly when the brethren came and testified of <sup>h</sup>the truth that is in thee, even as thou walkest in the truth.

<sup>e</sup> 2 Co. 1. 5; 2. 14; 4. 16-18; 3. 18. 2 Pe. 1. 3-9; 3. 18. <sup>g</sup> 2 Jn. 4. ver. 4. Phi. 4. 1. 1 Th. 2. 19, 20. <sup>h</sup> 2 Jn. 2. 1 Jn. 2. 14, 24. Jn. 15. 7. Col. 3. 16. Phi. 1. 6. Ps. 119. 11; 51. 6. Jn. 1. 47.

Ver. 1, 2. My dear Gaius, whom God has loved with an everlasting love, and drawn with his lovingkindness, and whom I sincerely and heartily love as a true

Christian, who faithfully adheres to the truths of the gospel in his profession and practice—I, who am now a very aged ruler of the Christian church, earnestly wish all manner of temporal prosperity and bodily health, as I have reason to believe that your soul prospers in an increase of spiritual knowledge, familiar

4 I have no greater joy than to hear that <sup>my</sup> children <sup>walk</sup> in truth.

5 Beloved, <sup>thou</sup> doest faithfully whatsoever thou doest to the brethren, and to strangers;

6 Which have borne witness of thy charity before the church: whom if <sup>thou</sup> bring forward on their journey after a godly sort, thou shalt do well:

7 Because <sup>that</sup> for his name's sake they went forth, taking nothing of the Gentiles.

8 We<sup>o</sup> therefore ought to receive such, that we might be <sup>their</sup> fellow-helpers to the truth.

9 I wrote unto the church:<sup>4</sup> but Diotrephes,<sup>5</sup> who <sup>loveth</sup> to have the pre-eminence among them, receiveth us not.<sup>6</sup>

10 Wherefore, if I come, <sup>I</sup> will remember<sup>7</sup> his deeds which he doeth, prating against us

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

<sup>1</sup> Phil. 10. 1 Co. 4. 15.
Ga. 4. 19. Is. 8. 18.
<sup>2</sup> Ep. 4. 21; 6. 15. Pr.
23. 22. 23. Col. 3. 16. Jude
3. Mat. 28. 20.
<sup>3</sup> Lu. 12. 42. 1 Pe. 4. 2.
10. He. 13. 1-3.
<sup>4</sup> Ac. 15. 3. Tit. 3. 13.
Col. 1. 10.
<sup>5</sup> Ac. 8. 4. 1 Co. 9. 12.
15. 18. 2 Co. 11. 7. 9; 12.
13.
<sup>6</sup> Mat. 10. 14. 40. Lu.
10. 7.
<sup>7</sup> Zec. 8. 19. Pr. 23. 23.
<sup>8</sup> Th. 3. 1. Jude 3. 2 Ti. 1. 1.
13. 12. 15. Tit. 1. 9. 1 Ti. 1.
18. 19. 6. 20.
<sup>9</sup> I wrote unto the church. Rather, I have written, to wit,
in this letter, which,
though addressed individually to Gaius, was intended for all.
<sup>10</sup> See note * in second column.
<sup>11</sup> Ro. 12. 12. Mar. 9.
34. Lu. 22. 24. Mat. 23. 4
-8. 1 Ti. 6. 3, 4.
<sup>12</sup> Refuseth to own my authority.
<sup>13</sup> 2 Co. 10. 6, 9, 10. Pr.
10. 8, 10. Is. 66. 5. Jn. 16.
2.
<sup>14</sup> I will remember.
Rather, 'I will remind him.'—C.

A.M. cir. 4094.
A.D. cir. 90.

<sup>15</sup> Ex. 23. 3. Nu. 16. 26.
Ps. 37. 27. Pr. 12. 11. Is. 1.
16. 17. Jn. 10. 27; 12. 26. 1
Co. 4. 16; 11. 1. Ep. 5. 11.
Phi. 3. 17. 1 Th. 1. 6; 2. 14.
2 Ti. 3. 5. He. 6. 12. 1 Pe.
3. 11. 13.
<sup>16</sup> Rather, 'imitate.'
<sup>17</sup> 1 Jn. 2. 29; 3. 6-9.
<sup>18</sup> Is of God. Is born of God—a child of God.—C.
<sup>19</sup> Ac. 10. 22; 22. 12. 1
Ti. 3. 7. 1 Th. 4. 12; 2. 6-10.
<sup>20</sup> Jn. 19. 35; 21. 24.
<sup>21</sup> Jn. 12.
<sup>22</sup> 1 Cr. month to month.
<sup>23</sup> Ge. 42. 23. Da. 4. 1.
Ga. 5. 16. Ep. 6. 23. 1 Pe.
5. 14.
<sup>24</sup> * Who this 'Diotrephes' was, is totally unknown; and conjecture is more than useless—it is a waste of time. His character, however, abides—proud, ambitious, exclusive, calumnious, malicious, inhospitable, a sup-pressor of generosity in others, and a tyrannical ruler in the church.—C.

with malicious words: and not content therewith, neither doth he himself receive the brethren, and forbiddeth them that would, and cast-eth them out of the church.

11 Beloved, <sup>follow</sup> not that which is evil, but that which is good. <sup>He</sup> that doeth good is of God:<sup>9</sup> but he that doeth evil hath not seen God.

12 Demetrius hath <sup>good</sup> report of all men, and of the truth itself: yea, and we also bear record; and ye know that <sup>our</sup> record is true.

13 I<sup>x</sup> had many things to write, but I will not with ink and pen write unto thee:

14 But I trust I shall shortly see thee, and we shall speak face to face.<sup>1</sup> Peace<sup>y</sup> be to thee.
Our friends salute thee. Greet the friends by name.

fellowship with Christ, and delightful conformity to him, in a lively exercise of faith, hope, love, and new obedience. 3, 4. For I was exceedingly filled with joy and comfort when some of those who go about preaching the gospel informed me of your remarkable experience of the power of Christ and his gospel truths, and with what faithfulness and integrity you profess, adhere to, and improve them, in a delightful, edifying, and progressive practice of holiness; for nothing gives me greater pleasure than to hear that those who have been converted to Christ by my ministrations continue steadfast in their holy profession of gospel truth, and more and more adorn it by a lively Christian conversation. 5-8. You act like a true believer, and a faithful follower of Jesus Christ, in your candid and disinterested benevolence to poor saints, particularly to such as are driven from their homes for their adherence to him, or go about preaching his gospel—some of whom, being greatly affected with your distinguished kindness, made mention of it in our public worshipping assemblies.—And you cannot employ your substance better than in further assistance of such in carrying on their work, as an imitation of your kind and merciful God, and a token of your gratitude to him, for calling you, by his grace, to his kingdom and glory.—For to the honour of Christ and his gospel, and to manifest their entire disinterestedness in their labours to win souls, these ministers have freely preached the gospel to the Gentiles, refusing to accept of a necessary subsistence from their new converts: we ought therefore cheerfully to entertain them in our houses, and, according to our ability, supply them with necessities—that we may thus assist them in the propagation of the glorious gospel, to the honour of Christ and the salvation of multitudes. 9, 10. I indeed wrote to your church to provide for such preachers; but Diotrephes, that proud ambitious man, who attempts to lord it over his hearers and fellow-ministers, refused my letter a public reading, or hindered the people's compliance with its contents; but, if the Lord will, I intend to visit you, expose his wicked conduct, and censure him for it; for he not only throws out a multitude of false and ill-natured reflections on me and other faithful ministers of Christ, and refuses to show any kindness to persecuted and travelling preachers, but does all he can to hinder such as have inclination or ability to supply them; and even pretends to excommunicate from the church, and deliver up to Satan, these afflicted brethren, if not also such as entertain them. 11. Dear friend, never make him nor any other your pattern in anything sinful; but, in imitation of Jesus Christ and his Father, exercise yourself in brotherly kindness, and in every other branch of holy conversation. For it is only those who do so that are the children of God and heirs of his kingdom. But they who indulge themselves in pride, hatred of brethren, or the like, have no spiritual knowledge of nor fellowship with him.—12. Demetrius is a most excellent person, whom I, and all that regard either truth or the gospel, do and must speak well of. Let him, under Christ, be a pattern which you study to imitate.

REFLECTIONS.—Bodily health is an invaluable mercy when it enables us to improve our spiritual gifts and graces for the extensive benefit of mankind. And delightful is it when Christians remarkably increase and flourish in grace and good works, and when their faith and love to Christ, and his ministers and people, are such as cannot be kept secret.—Alas! what a plague to the church are proud, insolent, domineering imposers of their tenets, and malicious revilers of Christ's truths and faithful ministers, who will neither do good themselves nor suffer others that would! Richly they deserve to be detested by every Christian, and exposed and censured by every church.

CONCLUDING REMARKS ON THE FIRST, SECOND, AND THIRD EPISTLES GENERAL OF JOHN.

The FIRST EPISTLE is peculiarly characterized by a pervading strain of love—God's love to sinners; the debt of love due by Christians in return; love to the Father necessarily begetting, in one child, love to all the members of the Father's family;—these are the topics upon which the apostle delights to expatiate, the peculiar prominence of which concurs with the record of the historian, in which it is stated, that, in his extreme old age, when unable to walk, he was accustomed to be carried into the Christian assembly at Ephesus, to look upon the people with the tenderness of a dying father; and that, being unable to read or preach, his custom was to summon up all his energies for one sentence—'Children, love one another!'

The SECOND EPISTLE is remarkable as affording a delightful specimen of primitive domestic Christianity, and as a record of the superabundant reward that pious mothers receive when their prayers and instructions are blessed in the conversion of their families. The sisters appear to have been two widows—but the Lord was more than a husband to each, and more than a father to their fatherless children.

The THIRD EPISTLE is remarkable as portraying some striking varieties in the character of professing Christians. The features depicted are few; but, like the outline pencillings of some master-hand, they fully exhibit the peculiarities of the originals. Truth and hospitality stand personified in Gaius; ecclesiastical ambition and selfishness, in Diotrephes; while Demetrius stands forth one of those rare specimens of excellence in principle and manner that 'win golden opinions from all men,' while they sacrifice their truth and their consistency to none. C.

THE GENERAL EPISTLE OF JUDE.

The author of this epistle was the brother of James, as all copies of the original testify. He is called in the Gospel Judas, with the addition of his surname, Lebbeus, or Thaddeus, to distinguish him from Judas Iscariot. This epistle so nearly coincides with the second of Peter, that it would seem to have been written upon the same occasion, and, either after a conversation with Peter, or after the reading of his epistle, which Jude seems to quote. Within this short epistle there are references to Ge. 4. 5; 5. 18; 19. 24; Nu. 14. 29; 16. 1; 22. 7-21; 26. 64; De. 29. 23; Eze. 14. 7; Da. 10. 13; Zec. 3. 2, 4, 5. C.

1 He exhorteth them to be constant in the profession of the faith. 4 False teachers are crept in to seduce them: for whose damnable doctrine and manners horrible punishment is prepared: 20 whereas the godly, by the assistance of the Holy Spirit, and prayers to God, may persevere, and grow in grace, and keep themselves, and recover others out of the snares of those deceivers.

JUDE,<sup>a</sup> the <sup>b</sup>servant of Jesus Christ, and brother of James, to them that <sup>c</sup>are sanctified by God the Father, and <sup>d</sup>preserved<sup>1</sup> in Jesus Christ, and <sup>e</sup>called:

2 Mercy<sup>9</sup> unto you, and peace, and love, be multiplied.

3 Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the <sup>h</sup>common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you that <sup>i</sup>ye should earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints.<sup>2</sup>

4 For there are certain men <sup>j</sup>crept in unawares, who <sup>k</sup>were before of old ordained to this condemnation; ungodly men, <sup>l</sup>turning the grace of our God into lasciviousness, and de-

A.M. cir. 4070.
A.D. cir. 60.

A.M. cir. 4070.
A.D. cir. 60.

a Lu. 6.16. Ju. 14.22. Ac. 1.13.
b Ro. 1.1. Ja. 1.2 Pe. 1.1. c Le. 22.9. 1 Pe. 1.2. Ac. 20.32.
d Jn. 6.39; 10.28; 17.11. 13.1 Pe. 1.5.
e 1 Preserved steadfast in the faith of Christ Jesus.—C. f 1 Pe. 2.9. He. 3.1.2 Ti. 1.9. Ro. 8.30.
g Ro. 1.7. 2 Co. 1.2; 13.14.
h Ga. 3.28. Is. 45.17. 22. Ac. 13.26,46,47; 28.28; 12.
i Je. 9.3. Ga. 2.5. Phi. 1.27. 1 Ti. 1.18; 6.12. 2 Ti. 1.13; 4.7. Tit. 1.4. Pr. 23.26. Re. 2.10. j Ga. 2.4. 2 Pe. 2.1-3. 18. 19. 3.17. Ep. 4.14. 2 Ti. 3.6,21,17,18. k Ro. 9.21,22. 1 Pe. 2.8,2 Pe. 3.3.
l Jn. 1.17. Tit. 2.11,12. Ac. 20.32. with Tit. 1.15,16. He. 12.15. 2 Pe. 1.18,22.
1 The meaning then of this verse is that Jude, who was before earnestly desirous to write to the church universal concerning the salvation which is common to us all, found urgent occasion at once to do so, respecting not merely nor directly the common salvation, but one point, viz. the keeping inviolate the faith once for all delivered to God's people' (1/ford).—P.

2 The careful reader will observe a very marked resemblance between this passage and 2 Pe. ii. The apostle brings forward remarkable examples of divine wrath, recorded either in sacred history, or in accredited Jewish tradition, to show the necessity of obedience to God's law, and the fearful results of disobedience.—P.

3 2 Pe. 2.4. Jn. 8.44. Mat. 25.41; 29. Re. 20.10.
4 Or, principality.
5 Ge. 13.13; 18.20; 19.5; 24.26. De. 29.5,23. Is. 1.9; 13.19. Je. 20.16; 50.40. La. 4.6. Ho. 11.8. Am. 4.11. Lu. 17.29. 2 Pe. 2.6.
6 Gr. other. Ge. 19.5. Ro. 1.26,27. 1 Co. 6.9. 7 1 Co. 10.6,11. 2 Pe. 2.6. Mat. 11.24.
8 2 Pe. 2.10,11. Je. 23.25,28,32. Ex. 22,28.

nying the only Lord God, and our Lord Jesus Christ.

5 I <sup>n</sup>will therefore put you in remembrance, though ye once knew this, how that the Lord, having saved the people out of the land of Egypt, afterward destroyed them that believed not.<sup>3</sup>

6 And <sup>o</sup>the angels which kept not their first estate,<sup>4</sup> but left their own habitation, he hath reserved in everlasting chains, under darkness, unto the judgment of the great day.

7 Even<sup>p</sup> as Sodom and Gomorrha, and the cities about them, in like manner giving themselves over to fornication, and going after <sup>q</sup>strange flesh, <sup>r</sup>are set forth for an example, suffering the vengeance of eternal fire.

8 Likewise<sup>s</sup> also these filthy dreamers defile the flesh, despise dominion, and speak evil of dignities.

Ver. 1. Judas—not Iscariot, but the brother of James the less, and kinsman of Jesus Christ according to the flesh, sent forth by his immediate commission to preach the gospel to those Jewish Christians who, in the judgment of charity, appear to have been called of God the Father to make known his eternal heart of love, and in consequence thereof preserved in Christ from dying in their sins, and graciously called to partake of all the blessings of the gospel in time and eternity; 2. Wishes the most tender compassion and favour of a gracious God, and peace with him and with one another, and the best prosperity of every kind, and all the excellent fruits and rich manifestations of his special and distinguishing love in their utmost fulness. 3. My dear Christian brethren, when I, with much thought and care, applied myself to write somewhat to you concerning that spiritual and eternal salvation which answers the circumstances of every sinful man, and is offered in the gospel to all that hear it, and which all believers, Jews and Gentiles, share of, directed by the inspiring Spirit of God, I found it peculiarly necessary, with the utmost earnestness, to stir you up to the most fervent zeal, active diligence, and careful concern, to maintain, defend, and practise the pure and uncorrupted doctrines of the gospel, concerning the person, offices, righteousness, grace, and government of the Lord Christ, which have been by him, through his holy apostles, delivered to all his followers who are holy in heart and life, as a trust and treasure to be by them faithfully kept, and fully and purely transmitted to posterity.—4. For according to the ancient purposes and predictions of God, there have clandestinely, by craft and flattery, crept in among you impious and heretical men who, under pretence of embracing the Christian religion, represent the doctrines of God's grace as an encouragement to wanton and lascivious practices; and who, by their doctrine and conduct, plainly undermine the whole authority of God's law, and reject the gospel doctrine concerning the divine person and offices of Christ, as the Prophet, Priest, and King of his church, and his gracious salvation of men from their sins to holiness and happiness. 5-7. To deter you from the smallest regard to or compliance with these seducers, seriously remember how your Hebrew ancestors, after God had miraculously delivered them from their Egyptian bondage, were almost every one of them cut off by terrible judgments in the wilderness for their disobedience and unbelief; and how the highly dignified angels who revolted from God by sin were cast down into hell, and are, by the curse of his law and their own wickedness and misery, reserved, like condemned and chained prisoners, till the last judgment—when their torments shall be completed, and they, with all apostates and impenitent unbelievers, shall depart into the most tremendous everlasting punishment!—And in what a fearful manner God, by fire and brimstone from heaven, destroyed the Sodomites and their neighbours of Gomorrha, Admah, and Zeboim, for their unnatural lust, men with men; and set them and their country as an emblem of that everlasting destruction which is prepared for wicked angels and men. 8. In like manner, these profligate seducers delude themselves and others with their foolish and impure imaginations, indulge their fleshly lusts, and even pollute their bodies by unchaste dreams and lewd practices; and condemn, revile, and rail against all government and governors in church or state, so far as they tend to restrain their exorbitant vices. 9, 10. Yea, though Michael, that eminent chief of the holy angels, when disputing with the devil about the burial or concealment of the body of Moses from the Israelites, who would have readily worshipped it, did not venture to return the reviling and opprobrious language of that foul spirit, but solemnly left him to the righteous judgment of God, for his attempting to draw his people into the most flagrant sin against his divine majesty, crown, and dignity: these daring pretenders fear not to vilify the most excellent things, civil or sacred, of the proper use, design, and benefit of which they are totally ignorant; and even in such things as by the light of nature they cannot but know to be unlawful, they act as if they had no principle of reason to direct and govern them, and in a perverse, sensual, and brutal manner debase themselves beneath human nature. 11. The most dreadful curses must therefore suddenly overtake them; for, like Cain, they envy, hate, and are disposed to murder such as deserve their highest respect; like Balaam, for the sake of worldly honour or wealth, they are ready to act the most treacherous, hypocritical, malicious, and destructive part against the people of God; or, like Korah and his companions, they set up themselves in the most daring manner against the governors whom God has appointed in church or state, and shall, in a most awful form, be at last swallowed up in everlasting flames. 12. They are a scandal, reproach, and an infectious defilement to your feasts, civil and sacred, while, fearless of guilt or punishment, they labour only to gratify their luxurious appetites; and while they put on false appearances, as if they would be most refreshing, useful, and comforting to mankind, they are quite destitute of any real goodness; unstable as clouds, they are driven about by their own lusts and passions from one error and vice to another, and become more and more dead in sins, and hopeless of recovery. 13. In the most turbulent, pernicious, and noisy manner, they, to their own shame, throw out their furious reproaches and malicious slanders against the doctrines, ministers, and followers of Christ,—and their corrupt principles and vicious inclinations. Under all their pretences to be noted lights for the direction of others, themselves are utterly ignorant of real religion, and wander from the truth and holiness of the gospel, and run about spreading their wicked principles, temper, and courses, till at last they shall be plunged into the eternal horrors of that misery, despair, and damnation which God has prepared for them as their just punishment. 14, 15. It was partly with respect to such persons that the famous Enoch foretold Christ's glorious coming, attended by his saints and angels, to the last judgment—publicly to convince, expose, and condemn to eternal punishment, all ungodly persons, for their premeditated, malicious, and wicked deeds, and for their virulent speeches which they have thrown out against his person, gospel, and cause, and upon his members and faithful servants for his sake: 16. Which conduct exactly tallies with that of the seducers I am now warning you against; for these secretly murmur against God and his providence, against magistrates and ministers, against Christ and his followers and ways, and are continually finding fault and openly quarrelling with all his doctrines and dispensations, being quite dissatisfied with their own state and condition in the world; and with restless minds are pursuing their own vicious inclinations to unlawful pleasures; and, at the same time, talking in lofty and unintelligible strains, and with high pretences to knowledge and religion—speaking the most excessively vain and conceited things of themselves, and extravagantly flattering, caressing, and extolling such as are of their own party, however vile, especially if they be rich, or ready to grant them some worldly advantage, to gratify their covetous or luxurious temper. 17, 18. Now, my dearly beloved brethren in the Lord, beware of being stumbled at the rise of such seducers, or their scornful derisions of everything sacred, or their abandoned practices, since our Saviour and his apostles have given you such plain and express warnings of them. 19. For these are the very persons of whom you have been warned—men that make factions and divisions in the church, alienating themselves from the true apostles, servants, disciples, and doctrines of Christ, and forming separate parties of their own sentiment, as if they were more holy than others; whereas they are entirely governed by their animal appetites, lusts, and passions, and are entirely destitute of the enlightening, purifying, and sanctifying gifts and graces of the Holy Spirit. 20. But guarding against being misled by men of such corrupt principles and practices, persevere with integrity and faithfulness in your holy profession, and, by all proper and appointed means, endeavour to promote your own and your fellow-Christians' spiritual establishment and advances in grace, holiness, and comfort, upon that foundation of faith which is laid in the doctrines of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner-stone; and upon that principle of faith in you which purifies the heart, works by love, overcomes the world, and derives all grace out of Christ's fulness, to enable you to grow up to all perfection in him, who is the head; and continue habitually instant in prayer, under the direction and influence of the Holy Spirit to help your infirmities. 21. And thus constantly endeavour to approve yourselves to God, as those that sincerely and fervently love him and delight to keep his commandments; and in order hereunto, study to maintain a sweet and experimental sense of his special love to yourselves—looking, hoping, and longing, in a prepared state and frame, for the final manifestations, fruits, and effects of the grace and mercy of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, in that merciful sentence he shall then pass upon you, unto your complete deliverance from all sin and sorrow, and admission to all the blessings of eternal life. 22, 23. And in order to your own and others' edification in faith and holiness, great care and prudence must be used in dealing with such as have been 9 Yet <sup>a</sup>Michael the archangel, when contending with the devil, he disputed about the <sup>b</sup>body of Moses, <sup>c</sup>durst not bring against him a railing accusation, but said, 'The Lord rebuke thee.

10 But<sup>d</sup> these speak evil of those things which they know not: but what they know naturally, as brute beasts, <sup>e</sup>in those things they corrupt themselves.

11 Woe unto them! for they have gone <sup>f</sup>in the way of Cain, and <sup>g</sup>ran greedily after the error of Balaam for reward, and perished in the <sup>h</sup>gainsaying of Core.

12 These<sup>b</sup> are spots in your feasts of eharity, when they feast with you, feeding themselves without fear: <sup>c</sup>clouds they are without water, earried about of winds; trees whose fruit withereth, without fruit, twice dead, plucked up by the roots;

13 Raging<sup>d</sup> waves of the sea, foaming out their own shame; <sup>e</sup>wandering stars, to whom is reserved the blackness of darkness for ever.

14 And <sup>f</sup>Enoch also, the seventh from Adam, prophesied of these, saying, <sup>g</sup>'Behold, the Lord cometh with ten thousand of his saints,

15 To<sup>i</sup> execute judgment upon all; and to convince all that are ungodly among them <sup>j</sup>of all their ungodly deeds which they have ungodly committed, and of all their <sup>k</sup>hard speeches which ungodly sinners have spoken against him.<sup>6</sup>

A.M. cir. 4070.
A.D. cir. 66.

<sup>a</sup> Da. 10. 13, 21; 12. 1. Re. 12. 7.
<sup>b</sup> De. 34. 6. Zec. 3. 1.
<sup>c</sup> Ex. 22. 28. 2 Pe. 2. 11. Zec. 3. 2.
<sup>d</sup> 2 Pe. 2. 12. 1 Pe. 3. 16; 2. 12. Re. 13. 6.
<sup>e</sup> Ro. 1. 21, 22. 1 Co. 1. 21. Ja. 4. 3.
<sup>f</sup> Ge. 4. 5, 8, 14. 1 Jn. 3. 12.
<sup>g</sup> 2 Pe. 2. 15, 16. Re. 2. 14. Nu. xxii. xxiv. De. 23. 4. Mi. 3. 5.
<sup>h</sup> Nu. xvi. De. 11. 6. Ps. 106. 16, 14. 1 Ju. 26. 10.
<sup>i</sup> 1 Co. 11. 21. Eze. 34. 7. 13. Phi. 3. 18, 19. 2 Pe. 2. 13. Ja. 5. 5.
<sup>j</sup> 2 Pe. 2. 17. Pr. 25. 14. 1 Ti. 5. 6. Ho. 10. 12. Jn. 15. 4. 6. He. 6. 4-6, 8; 10. 26. Mat. 15. 13. 2 Pe. 2. 18, 22.
<sup>k</sup> Is. 57. 20. Ep. 4. 14. Phi. 3. 19. 2 Ti. 3. 13. 4. 3.
<sup>l</sup> Re. 8. 10, 11. 2 Pe. 2. 17. Mat. 8. 12; 22. 13; 24. 51. 2 Th. 1. 9. Re. 14. 10. 11; 20. 10; 21. 8.
<sup>m</sup> Ge. 5. 18, 22, 24. 1 Ch. 1. 1-3. He. 11. 5.
<sup>n</sup> Ac. 1. 11. Re. 1. 7; 22. 20. Da. 7. 10. Zec. 14. 5. Mat. 24. 30, 31; 25. 31. 1 Th. 3. 13. 2 Th. 1. 7, 8.
<sup>o</sup> 2 Co. 5. 10. Ro. 14. 10. Re. 20. 12, 13; 22. 12; 1. 7.
<sup>p</sup> Ec. 12. 14. Ro. 14. 12. 2 Co. 5. 10. Mat. 12. 36. 1 Co. 4. 5.
<sup>q</sup> 1 Sa. 2. 3. Ps. 31. 18; 73. 9; 94. 4. Mal. 3. 13. 2 Th. 1. 7. Re. 13. 5, 6.
<sup>r</sup> The apocryphal book of Enoch was known to the earliest of the Christian fathers; but it seems questionable whether that discovered in Abyssinia at the close of last century is the original, or a remodelled edition. It contains the words here cited almost verbatim. Probably the traditional sayings of Enoch had been collected before the Christian era, and

A.M. cir. 4070.
A.D. cir. 66.

were subsequently remodelled by Christian writers.—P.
<sup>s</sup> 2 Pe. 2. 14, 18. Tit. 3. 3.
<sup>t</sup> 1 Pe. 17. 10; 73. 7, 11. 2 Pe. 2. 18. Ps. 12. 3, 4. Job 21. 14, 15.
<sup>u</sup> 1 Co. 19. 15. Ch. 19. 7. Job 32. 21, 22. Is. 9. 15. 1 Ti. 5. 5.
<sup>v</sup> 2 Pe. 2. 2. Jn. 14. 26.
<sup>w</sup> The mode of expression in this verse would seem to indicate that the author was not an apostle, and consequently, though the testimony is not decisive, it corroborates the view I have stated in my note on ver. 1, that Jude was one of the brothers of our Lord.—P.
<sup>x</sup> Ac. 20. 29. 1 Ti. 4. 1-4. 2 Ti. 3. 1-13; 4. 3, 4. 2 Pe. 2. 1; 3. 5.
<sup>y</sup> Pr. 18. 1. Eze. 14. 7. 110. 4. 14; 9. 10. 11e. 10. 25.
<sup>z</sup> Ja. 3. 15. 1 Co. 2. 14.
<sup>aa</sup> Col. 1. 23; 2. 7. Tit. 2. 11, 12. 1 Pe. 2. 5. Ep. 2. 20, 22.
<sup>ab</sup> Ep. 6. 18. Ro. 8. 26. 27. Jn. 14. 26. Ps. 119. 2, 5. Is. 26. 9.
<sup>ac</sup> 1 Jn. 4. 16. Jn. 15. 4, 9. 10, 14; 14. 21, 23.
<sup>ad</sup> 2 Ti. 4. 8; 1. 18. Tit. 2. 13, 14. He. 9. 28. Mat. 25. 34. Ro. 6. 23.
<sup>ae</sup> Eze. 34. 17. 1 Co. 9. 20. Ga. 4. 19.
<sup>af</sup> 1 Co. 5. 3, 4. Ro. 11. 14. 1 Ti. 20. 4. 16. 1 Co. 3. 15. Am. 4. 11. Zec. 3. 2-5.
<sup>ag</sup> Save with fear, lest ye should be injured by contact with them.—C.
<sup>ah</sup> 1 Co. 5. 9, 11. 2 Ti. 3. 5. 2 Th. 3. 14. Re. 3. 4. 18; with Le. 14. 46; 15. 4. 17. Is. 64. 6.
<sup>ai</sup> Ro. 14. 4; 16. 25-27. 2. 14. 18. Ep. 1. 4; 3. 20; 5. 26, 27. Col. 1. 22; 3. 4. Phi. 3. 20, 21. He. 13. 20, 21.
<sup>aj</sup> Ro. 16. 27. 1 Ti. 1. 17; 2. 3. Tit. 1. 3; 3. 4. Re. 4. 8, 11; 9. 11; 7. 10, 12; 15. 3; 479. 1. Ep. 3. 20, 21.

16 These<sup>i</sup> are murmurers, complainers, walking after their own lusts; <sup>j</sup>and their mouth speaketh great swelling words, <sup>k</sup>having men's persons in admiration because of advantage.

17 But, beloved, <sup>l</sup>remember ye the words which were spoken before of the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ;<sup>7</sup>

18 How that they told you <sup>m</sup>there should be mockers in the last time, who should walk after their own ungodly lusts.

19 These<sup>n</sup> be they who separate themselves, <sup>o</sup>sensual, having not the Spirit.

20 But ye, beloved, <sup>p</sup>building up yourselves on your most holy faith, <sup>q</sup>praying in the Holy Ghost, 21 Keep<sup>r</sup> yourselves in the love of God, <sup>s</sup>looking for the merey of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life.

22 And<sup>t</sup> of some have compassion, making a difference:

23 And<sup>u</sup> others save with fear,<sup>8</sup> pulling them out of the fire; <sup>v</sup>hating even the garment spotted by the flesh.

24 Now unto him <sup>w</sup>that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy,

25 To<sup>x</sup> the only wise God our Saviour, <sup>y</sup>be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen.

seduced into any sin or error. Such as have been shaken or drawn aside through inadvertence, ignorance, and weakness, must be treated with great tenderness, meekness, condescension, endearing kindness, and compassionate concern, to recover and establish them.—Others that have gone farther lengths, and appear obstinate and hardened, must be more sharply dealt with; and their sin and danger must be set before them in the most alarming manner from the Word of God, and needful censures be inflicted upon them—in all which the utmost care must be taken to have no fellowship with them in their polluting courses. 24, 25. Now, to the Lord Jesus Christ, whose character I have represented as peculiarly suited to your encouragement and relief under your present troubles, and who has almighty power originally in himself as God, and all official authority and qualifications as Mediator, and having graciously undertaken it, is as willing as able to preserve you from apostasy, and from irrecoverably stumbling into error or wickedness, and, after your state of warfare is accomplished, to present you to himself and his Father perfectly holy and unblemished, and completely accepted in his immediate presence, and glorified together with him in joy unspeakable, and amidst the triumphant and ecstatic joys of all the established angels and ransomed saints—even to this God our Saviour, who, together with the Father and Spirit, is infinitely, originally, essentially, and communicatively the only wise God,—be ascribed all the glory of his divine nature and attributes as God, and of all his love, grace, designs, undertakings, and performances, and all the grandeur of his heavenly majesty, as God-man Mediator, together with universal rule and government, might and authority, over all persons and things in the kingdom of providence and of grace—now, henceforth, and for evermore.

Ver. 1. Had Jude, the author of this epistle, been the same as Judas Lebbeus, one of the twelve, there is scarcely a doubt that he would have called himself an apostle. This would at once have given his epistle the stamp of authority. As he has not done so, it seems in the highest degree probable that he was not an apostle, and that the James mentioned as his brother was the well-known president of the council at Jerusalem, and author of the epistle which bears his name. Jude was thus one of the brethren (or, as I believe, a brother) of our Lord. P.

Ver. 4. Ordained to this condemnation. Literally, 'before written;' that is, had their condemnation prophetically foretold. They were not, and, consistently with the attributes of God, they could not, be ordained to commit sin (see Ja. 1. 13, 14); but on account of that sin which God foresaw, described, and denounced, they were ordained to suffer a righteous judgment.—Denying, &c. According to the grammatical canon established by Middleton, &c., the translation of this passage, following the Syriac and Coptic, should be, 'denying our only Lord God Jesus Christ.' C.

Ver. 5. I will, &c. 'But I wish to remind you, even you who already know this'—stirring up your minds lest you should overlook the lesson through your very familiarity with the history. C.

Ver. 6. Their first estate. The original condition of their creation; spiritually, a condition of 'truth,' Jn. 8. 44.—Their own habitation. 'Their own proper situation, by aspiring to some higher' (Benson).—Note. While conjecture is scarcely ever to be indulged, yet is it not probable that as the covenant with Adam on earth required abstinence from a particular tree as a restraint on his natural appetite, so the covenant with the angels may have required their abiding in a particular place as a similar restraint on their natural capacities of winged movement? See 2 Sa. 22. 11; Is. 6. 2; Da. 9. 21; Re. 8. 13; 14. 6. C.

Ver. 7. Suffering (typically, in this world) the wrath of God in the world to come. C.

Ver. 9. The fact here referred to is not found in any existing Jewish writer. There can be no doubt, however, that it was an authentic tradition, and being so, it is brought forward by Jude as an example and warning to Christians. P.

Ver. 12. Twice dead. The leaf of profession withered; the root of doctrine plucked up. C.

Ver. 22. Making a difference between them—as misled through simplicity, and others who seduce through malignity. C.

Ver. 23. Some of the best MSS. read ver. 23 as follows: 'But others save, snatching them from the fire; and others, compassionate in fear, hating even the garment defiled by the flesh.' P.

REFLECTIONS.—It is an inexpressible honour to be a faithful servant of Christ—to be divinely called, united to, and kept through Christ; and unbounded grace, mercy, and peace await such in time and eternity. With diligent care ought ministers to instruct their hearers concerning the salvation of their souls, universally offered in the gospel, and bestowed on all that believe; and to stir them up to an earnest concern, steadfast adherence, and fervent zeal for the truths of the gospel.—Impostors abound in every age, and dare to plead God's Word and grace in favour of their vilest abominations. Yet, when warned by the fate of ancient Hebrews, fallen angels, filthy Sodomites, murderous Cain, hypocritical Balaam, and presumptuous Korah, what can such apostates expect less than the eternal damnation of hell! But no warnings, no good examples, avail with men hardened in desperate wickedness: they will still rush forward in their impure, lustful, rebellious, insolent, reproachful, brutish, proud, fearless, discontented course—dishonouring God and seeking to please men, while they are plaguing his church. Great need, then, have Christians to regard the inspired warnings given against such, and to endeavour to make daily progress in knowledge, faith, fervent prayer, and holy love to Christ and his people, and in expectation of an eternal gracious reward. And with tender care, and holy but prudent zeal, ought they to reclaim such as have been ensnared. Infinite is the mercy that in this insnaring world all the saints are in the hand and under the care of Jesus Christ as their keeper, and that all their preservation and happiness certainly redounds to his glory.

CONCLUDING REMARKS ON THE GENERAL EPISTLE OF JUDE.

There is no doubt that the doctrines of the Gnostics and Nicolaitanes had early been propagated in the church of Christ, even as the tares were sown ere the wheat had budded. There can, therefore, be little doubt, that against their lewd and pernicious errors the terrible denunciations of Jude were directed;—denunciations that prove beyond a question, that while the 'still small voice' of gospel grace is to be whispered into the ear of believers, 'the terrors of the Lord,' and 'the curse of the law,' are to be proclaimed with trumpet tongue against all the workers of iniquity. C.

CHRISTENDOM

DURING
THE CRUSADES.
With the Divisions at the Death of Innocent 3d (A. D. 1216).

NOTE.

The Yellow Color indicates the extent of the Roman Church.
" Red " " " " Greek " "
" Green " " " " Mohammedan Countries.

THE REVELATION

OF SAINT JOHN THE DIVINE.

This book contains the visions which the apostle John received in the desert isle of Patmos, to which the emperor Domitian had banished him, about A.D. 96. (1) After a preface and introductory vision of Christ, it contains seven doctrinal epistles to the seven churches of Proconsular Asia, which also contain warnings and directions to the church in every age, ch. i.—iii. (2) After an introductory vision of an enthroned God and Redeemer, it represents the fate of the church, and of the world as connected with it, from the ascension of Christ till the end of time, under the emblems of seven seals of a book opened, the seventh of which introduces seven trumpets, and the seventh of which trumpets introduces seven vials for the destruction of Antichrist;—after which the glorious thousand years, the last judgment, and eternal state, take place, ch. iv.—xxii. The series of the predictions is carried on in ch. vi. viii. ix. xi. xx.; and the other chapters are explanatory digressions. The first six seals represent the state of the church and Roman empire, from A.D. 33 to 323. The first six trumpets represent their fate from A.D. 338 to 1866, or 2016. The seventh trumpet extends from thence to the end of the world; in the beginning of which period the seven vials will be poured upon Antichrist.

[During the first two centuries of the Christian church this book was uniformly ascribed to John the apostle—commonly called THE DIVINE, either on account of the deep things of God with which his writings abound, or because he wrote so much concerning the Divine Person of the Logos, or WORD. The apostle was banished to Patmos, a small island in the Ægean Sea, in the latter end of the reign of Domitian, A.D. 95 or 96; and Justin Martyr, who lived about sixty years later, speaks of him as the unquestioned author of the Apocalypse. Indeed, his authorship, and the apostolical authority of the book, were never questioned till the third century, when certain opinions respecting the millennium having been deduced from it, the opponents of these opinions, as the most effectual mode of refutation, commenced to deny the canonical character of the book itself. This, however, though a ready, was a most illogical way to victory; for there is no book of Scripture that comes recommended to the church with stronger external or internal evidence. The references to the other Scriptures are very numerous, among which may be specially noted, Ge. 2. 9; Ex. 3. 14; Nu. 24. 14; 25. 1; 31. 16; 1 Ki. 16. 31; 21. 25; Is. 1. 18; 2. 19–21; 21. 9; 22. 22; 34. 10; 44. 6; 55. 1, 2; 63. 2; 65. 17; 66. 22; Je. 51. 7, 8; Eze. 1. 5, 26–28; 3. 3; 37. 5, 9, 10, 14; 38. 2, &c.; xl.; 47. 1–12; Da. 7. 2–20; 12. 1–7; Zec. 4. 2, 11–14; 6. 2–8; 13. 1. C.]

CHAPTER I.

4 John writeth his revelation to the seven churches of Asia, signified by the seven golden candlesticks. 7 The coming of Christ. 14 His glorious power and majesty.

THE Revelation of Jesus <sup>1</sup>Christ, <sup>a</sup>which God gave unto him, <sup>b</sup>to show unto his servants things which must <sup>c</sup>shortly come to pass; <sup>d</sup>and he sent and signified it by his angel unto his servant John:<sup>2</sup>

2 Who<sup>e</sup> bare record of the word of God, and of the testimony of Jesus Christ, and of all things that he saw.

3 Blessed<sup>g</sup> is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written therein: <sup>h</sup>for the time is at hand.

4 JOHN to the <sup>i</sup>seven churches which are in Asia: <sup>j</sup>Grace be unto yon, and peace, from him <sup>k</sup>which is, and which was, and which is to come; and from <sup>l</sup>the seven Spirits which are before his throne;

5 And from Jesus Christ, who is <sup>n</sup>the faithful Witness, and the <sup>o</sup>first-begotten of the dead,

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

CHAP. I.

1 Christ is here represented as the Revealer, and consequently the real author of all that is contained in this book. The Son, the second person of the glorious Trinity, is the Revealer of all prophetic Scripture, as the Holy Spirit is the Inspirer.—P. a Jn. 3. 32; 8. 26; 12. 49.
b ch. 22. 6. Am. 3. 7.
c Ps. 25. 14; 119. 125. Da. 12. 10.
d ver. 3; ch. 22. 10. 2 Pe. 3. 8. ch. 4. 1.
e ch. 22. 6, 16. Da. 8. 16. 9. 21–23. Jn. 7. 17. Ps. 25. 14.
f See note * below.
g 1 Co. 1. 6. 1 Jn. 1. 1–3. Jn. 19. 35; 21. 24. ch. 6. 9; 12. 17; ver. 9.
h Pr. 8. 34. Lu. 11. 28. Mat. 7. 24, 25. Ja. 1. 25. ch. 22. 7; 3. 5, 25; 3. 8, 19.
i Ro. 13. 11. Ja. 5. 8, 9.
j 1 Pe. 4. 7. ch. 22. 7, 12, 20. k ver. 11; ch. ii. iii. Ac. 16. 6; 19. 10.
l Ro. 1. 7. 1 Co. 1. 2, 2 Co. 1. 2. 2 Pe. 1. 2. Jude 2. 2 Co. 13. 14.
m Ex. 3. 14. Ja. 1. 17. Ps. 90. 2. ch. 16. 5; 11. 7; 4. 8. See ver. 8.
n Zec. 3. 9; 14. ch. 3. 14; 5. 5, 6. Jn. 14. 26. 1 Co. 12. 4–13.
o ch. 3. 14. Jn. 8. 14; 18. 37. 1 Ti. 6. 13. Is. 55. 4; 43. 10. Ps. 89. 37. p ch. 3. 14. 1 Co. 15. 20. 23. Ac. 26. 23. Col. 1. 18.
q Here we have still another proof of the fact that the angels

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

are ministering spirits. In many ways they are employed to instruct, comfort, and defend the church.—P. p ch. 11. 15; 17. 14; 19. 16. 1 Ti. 6. 15. Ps. 89. 27.
q Jn. 13. 1. He. 9. 12, 14. 1 Jn. 1. 7. 1 Pe. 1. 18, 19. Ac. 20. 28. Ga. 2. 20. ch. 5. 9; 7. 14. Zec. 13. 7.
r ch. 5. 10; 20. 6. Da. 7. 27. Ex. 19. 6. 1 Pe. 2. 5–9.
s Kings, rather a kingdom, which is the description of the church in its collective capacity—'priests,' entitled to intercede direct with God, which is the characteristic of each individual believer.
t Ro. 16. 27. 1 Ti. 6. 13–16. 1 Pe. 4. 11; 5. 11. He. 13. 21. 1 Ti. 1. 17.
u Ps. 50. 3; 18. 11. Da. 7. 13. Ac. 1. 11. Mat. 24. 30; 25. 31; 26. 64.
v Zec. 12. 10. Jn. 19. 37.
w Jude 15. 2 Th. 1. 7–10. ch. 20. 10, 12; 22. 12, 20.
x ch. 21. 6; 22. 13; ver. 11, 4; ch. 4. 8; 11. 17; 16. 5. Is. 41. 4; 44. 6; 48. 12. Ex. 3. 14. He. 1. 12; 13. 8.
y Ge. 17. 1. Is. 9. 6; 63. 1. He. 7. 25.
z Phil. 1. 7; 14. 1 Ro. 8. 17. 2 Ti. 1. 8; 2. 12. He. 10. 34. ch. 2. 2, 9, 19; 6. 9; 12. 10, 11; ver. 2.
a Ac. 10. 10. Eze. 3. 12, 14. 24. 2 Co. 12. 1–3. ch. 4. 2; 17. 3; 21. 10.
b Mar. 16. 9. Jn. 20. 19, 26. Ac. 20. 7. 1 Co. 16. 2. Is. 30. 21. ch. 4. 1.

and <sup>n</sup>the Prince of the kings of the earth. Unto him that <sup>a</sup>loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood,

6 And <sup>r</sup>hath made us kings and priests<sup>3</sup> unto God and his Father; <sup>s</sup>to him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

7 Behold,<sup>t</sup> he cometh with clouds; and every eye shall see him, and <sup>u</sup>they also which pierced him: <sup>v</sup>and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him. Even so, Amen.

8 I<sup>x</sup> am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, saith the Lord, which is, and which was, and which is to come, <sup>y</sup>the Almighty.

9 I John, who also am <sup>z</sup>your brother, and companion in tribulation, and in the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ, was in the isle that is called Patmos, for the word of God, and for the testimony of Jesus Christ.

10 I was <sup>a</sup>in the Spirit on <sup>b</sup>the Lord's day, and heard behind me a great voice, as of a trumpet,

CHAPTER I. Ver. 1. Christ, as Mediator, received this revelation from God, and he, by the ministry of angels, made it known to John. 4. Him who was, and is, and is to come, denotes the Father in his absolute eternity and unchangeableness. And when Christ is considered as God much the same character is given to him, ver. 8, 11, 17; ch. 22. 13; 21. 6.—The seven spirits denote the Holy Ghost in the diversity and perfect variety of his gifts, graces, and operations. 5. Christ, by his personal constitution, conduct, declarations, death, and ordinances, solemnly and infallibly bears faithful testimony of his Father's mind and will, and that he himself is the Son of God and promised Messiah. He first rose from the dead to immortal life, and rose by his own power, as the head of his true body, and as the cause, pattern, pledge, and first-fruits of their resurrection; and, as a reward of his atoning death, he is exalted to his Father's right hand, with all fulness of authority and dominion, and to be head of all principalities and powers on earth as well as in heaven, for the preservation, conversion, and government of his people, and for the restraining and subduing all his and their enemies. 6. Saints are kings who, under Christ, have power to prevail with God in prayer, are heirs of the kingdom of glory, are enabled to govern their own spirits, and to overcome sin, Satan, and the world; and are priests sanctified to God's service, who have near access to him, and offer up themselves and their good works as spiritual sacrifices of gratitude, acceptable to him by Jesus Christ. 9. I am your brother in the faith and in the family of God—a fellow-sufferer for the sake of Christ, his gospel, and cause, and fellow-heir of his kingdom of grace and glory; and, through his gracious assistance, am patiently enduring my sufferings, and quietly waiting for my glorious crown. 10. On the first day of the week, which is divinely appointed to commemorate the resurrection of our Lord Jesus, I was in a spiritual frame, employed in religious meditations and exercises, and the Spirit of prophecy came upon me. 12–16. The seven golden candlesticks represent the Christian churches, particularly those of Proconsular Asia, in that light of doctrine, holiness and comfort, which they receive from Christ, and hold forth to others. The Son of man walking in the midst of them, is Jesus, the true Messiah, taking pleasure to observe, preserve, govern, and furnish them with everything needful. His garment down to the foot represents his mediatorial

11 Saying, 'I am Alpha and Omega, the first and the last: and, What thou seest, write in a book, and send it unto the seven churches which are in Asia; unto Ephesus, and unto Smyrna, and unto Pergamos, and unto Thyatira, and unto Sardis, and unto Philadelphia, and unto Laodicea.

12 And 'I turned to see the voice that spake with me. And being turned, I saw seven golden candlesticks;

13 And 'in the midst of the seven candlesticks one like unto the Son of man, clothed with a garment down to the foot, and girt about the paps with a golden girdle.<sup>4</sup>

14 His<sup>1</sup> head and his hairs were white like wool, as white as snow; and his eyes were as a flame of fire;

15 And his feet like unto fine brass, as if they burned in a furnace; and his voice as the sound of many waters.

16 And he had in his right hand seven stars; and out of his mouth went a sharp two-edged sword: and his countenance as the sun shineth in his strength.

17 And when I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead. And he laid his right hand upon me, saying unto me, Fear not; I am the first and the last:<sup>5</sup>

18 I<sup>o</sup> am he that liveth, and was dead; and,

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 90.

c See ver. 4, 8, 17, 18.
d ver. 4; ch. iii. Ac.
xix. xx. 11; 16. 14. Col. 2. 1.
e Ex. 3. 3. Ps. 111. 2.
f ver. 20. Zec. 4. 2.
g ver. 20. Mat. 5. 14.
h Mat. 18. 20; 28. 20.
i 2. 1. Zec. 1. 8. Eze.
46. 10. Col. 1. 27.

j Da. 10. 5; 6; 7; 9. 13.
Eze. 1. 26-28. ch. 14. 14;
15. 6.
k Ex. 28. 4. 40; 39. 1. 27.
ch. 19. 8. 2 Co. 5. 21.

l Is. 11. 5. Da. 10. 5.
ch. 15. 6.

m The appearance of royalty is here described. Reference is doubtless made to the noble passage in Da. 7. 13, where the dignity and glory of the Son of Man are fully described.—P.

n Da. 7. 9. Mi. 5. 2. Ps.
90. 2. Pr. 8. 23-31. Ca. 5.
11. Is. 9. 6.

o Da. 10. 6. ch. 2. 18.
23; 19. 12. Ca. 5. 12.

p ch. 10. 1. Da. 10. 6.
Eze. 1. 7; 40. 3. Ca. 5. 15.
ch. 2. 18.

q Eze. 43. 2; 1. 24. ch.
14. 2; 19. 6. Da. 10. 6. He.
12. 26. Jn. 5. 25. 28.

r Hag. 2. 23. ch. 2. 1.
Ep. 4. 1. Mat. 5. 14. 2 Co.
8. 23; 5. 20.

s ch. 2. 12, 16; 19. 15.
21. Is. 49. 2. Ep. 6. 17.
He. 4. 11. 12. De. 32. 42.
43. 2 Th. 1. 8, 9.

t Ca. 5. 15. ch. 10. 1. Ps.
4. 6. Ac. 26. 13. Ex. 15.
10.

u Da. 8. 17, 18; 10. 10.
Eze. 1. 28. Jos. 5. 14.
Mat. 17. 6. Ac. 9. 4, 6.

v Ca. 7. 6. 8. 3. Is. 41.
10. See ver. 8. 11. Is. 41.
44. 6; 48. 12.

w This is equivalent to, in fact another mode of expressing,
'I am Alpha and Omega.' Our Lord
here most emphatically affirms his eternity.—P.

x Jn. 1. 4; 5. 21. 26. 1 Jn.
5. 20. Job 19. 25. Ro. 6. 9.
y Mat. 20. 28. Ro. 5. 8.
10; 6. 10; 8. 33. 34. 1 Th.
2. 15. 16.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 90.

z Ps. 21. 4. Ro. 6. 9.
He. 7. 25. Jn. 14. 19. Col.
3. 3, 4. with ch. 4. 9, 10; 5.
14; 10. 6; 15. 7.
aa ch. 3. 7. Is. 22. 21, 22.
Ps. 68. 18. 20. Mat. 28.
18. Jn. 17. 2. Ro. 14. 9. ch.
20. 1. 2. De. 32. 30.
bb Da. 2. 29. Is. 30. 8.
11ab. 2. 2. ch. 4. 1. Ac.
26. 16. ver. 12.
cc ver. 16; ch. 2. 1. Mal.
2. 7. Mat. 5. 14. 2 Co. 8.
23.
dd Zec. 4. 2. Mat. 5. 14-16. Phil. 2. 15. 16. ver. 16.
ee ch. 2. 1, 8, 12, 18; 3. 1.
ff 14. 2 Co. 5. 20. Mal. 2.
7.

CHAP. II.

a See ch. 1. 20. Ac.
20. 17, 28.

b Angel is a title derived from the Old Testament, and is applied to a messenger, an ambassador, or representative, who bears a deputed office or commission.
See Mal. 2. 7. 2 Co. 5.
20.—C.

c Ac. xix. Ep. 1. 17.
d ch. 1. 16, 20. 2 Co. 3.
5. Phil. 4. 13. 19.

e ch. 1. 11, 13, 20. Le.
26. 12. ch. 21. 3. Eze. 46.
10.

f ver. 9, 13, 19; ch. 3. 1.
8, 15; 10. 6, 11. 4. Ps. 1.
6. He. 13. 17; 4. 13. 2 Ti.
2. 19. Mat. 7. 23.

g I know.—Observe, approve.—C.

h 1 Th. 5. 12. 1 Ti. 5.
17. 1 Co. 15. 10, 58.

i Ro. 15. 1, 4. He. 6.
10, 12.

j Jn. 4. 1. Ga. 1. 8. 2
Co. 11. 13. Ep. 4. 14. 2
Pe. 2. 1, 2.

k 2 Th. 3. 13. Ga. 6. 9.
He. 12. 5. 2 Co. 6. 4-10.

l Ho. 4. 16, with Je. 2.
2. Ga. 1. 7; 3. 3. Phil. 2. 21.
2 Ti. 1. 15; 2. 18.

m Thou hast left.
Rather, 'remitted' thy first ardour of gratitude and zeal towards God, and of tenderness and beneficence towards men.
—C.

n ch. 3. 3. 19. Je. 3. 14.
22; 2. 2, 3. Ho. 10. 1, 8.

behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen; and have the keys of hell and of death.

19 Write the things which thou hast seen, and the things which are, and the things which shall be hereafter;

20 The mystery of the seven stars which thou sawest in my right hand, and the seven golden candlesticks. The seven stars are the angels of the seven churches: and the seven candlesticks which thou sawest are the seven churches.

CHAPTER II.

What is commanded to be written to the angels, that is, the ministers of the churches of 1 Ephesus, 8 Smyrna, 12 Pergamos, 18 Thyatira: and what is commended, or found wanting in them.

UNTO the angel<sup>1</sup> of the church of Ephesus write; These things saith he that holdeth the seven stars in his right hand, who walketh in the midst of the seven golden candlesticks;

2 I know thy works, and thy labour, and thy patience, and how thou canst not bear them which are evil: and thou hast tried them which say they are apostles, and are not, and hast found them liars:

3 And thou hast borne, and hast patience, and for my name's sake hast laboured, and hast not fainted.

4 Nevertheless I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love.

5 Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen; and repent, and do the first works; or office, and his righteousness as our Surety, which covers him and all his people. His white hairs denote his divine majesty and glory, and that he is from everlasting, and perfectly holy. His eyes like a flame of fire denote his penetrating wisdom and knowledge, and his influence to discover the secrets of all hearts, and to purify and refine, or to bless, nurture, and finally save them. His feet like burning brass, represent the strength, steadiness, purity, and beauty of all his personal conduct or providential dispensations, to the joy of his saints and terror of his enemies. His voice as the sound of many waters denotes his word and providence, powerful to convert and comfort his people, but dreadful, astonishing, and destructive to the wicked. The stars in his right hand denote gospel ministers, who, by their example and instruction, communicate light to the world, as framed, furnished, supported, directed, and governed by him. The sharp two-edged sword which goeth out of his mouth, represents the justice of his government; and his word, law, and gospel rendered efficacious for cutting sinners to the heart, cutting off corruptions from believers, and for cutting down his implacable enemies. His countenance like the shining sun denotes the manifestations of his infinitely pure and glorious person, character, fullness, and work, for the enlightening, reviving, comforting, and fructifying of his church in heaven and earth. 18. His having the keys of death and hell denote his power to raise the dead, and to render men happy and for ever blessed in the world to come.

Ver. 1. The revelation. The apocalypse, or unveiling of his glory, which God (the Father) gave him.—Note, 'The Word was God,' Jn. 1. 1; but 'the Word became flesh'—became man; and being thus constituted mediator 'in two distinct natures and one person,' had this 'apocalypse' or manifestation 'given' to him by the Father.—Things which must shortly come to pass. Not in absolute completion, but in commencement and progress. C.

Ver. 3. He that readeth. There can be little doubt that reference is here specially made to the public reading of this among the other Scriptures in the church. Observe, it is one reader who is mentioned, while the hearers are many. The book therefore was designed for public reading—not to be shut up in the hands of clergy.—The time is at hand. Time is spoken of relatively. Its being 'at hand,' therefore, conveys to us no definite idea of the exact period when the prophecies are to be fulfilled. P.

Ver. 4. Seven churches, as specimens of all the others—instructive and emblematic lessons to all churches till the end of the world.—Which is, was, and is to come. A translation of the name JEHOVAH, which includes in itself all time—past, present, and to come.—The seven spirits. The seven divine perfections of the Spirit poured out upon Jesus Christ. See Is. 11. 2. C.

Ver. 5. First-born. Rather, 'first-born,' ruler. C.
Ver. 6. Kings and priests. Literally, 'a kingdom—sacrificers.'—Unto God and his Father. 'To God even his Father;' or, 'his God and Father.' C.

Ver. 8. I am Alpha and Omega. Alpha is the first, and Omega the last letter of the Greek alphabet. The expression is equivalent to, but more emphatic than the word ETERNAL. It describes the self-existent and immutable Creator and Preserver of all things. P.—The Lord. That the titles 'Lord' and, as the best MSS. add, 'God' might be interpreted of 'The Father,' if, by parallel passages, not applied to 'The Son,' is certain; but from comp. ver. 8 with ver. 11, 17, 18, and with ch. 2. 8; 21. 6; 22. 17, both 'Lord' and 'God' will be found unquestionably descriptive of the divine attributes of Christ. C.

Ver. 9. Patmos was a rocky island in the Aegean Sea, about 15 miles in circumference, and was used under the Roman empire as a place of banishment for criminals. On a hill in the southern part of the island is a large convent bearing the name of St. John; and near it, in the hill-side, is a cave where, says tradition, the apostle saw the glorious visions described in this book. P.

Ver. 12. The voice was a well-known title for a prophet of the Lord. See Is. 40. 3; Mat. 3. 3.—A common figure of speech, in which the effect is put for the cause. C.

Ver. 16. It is worthy of remark that in this portrait of our Lord there is not one single feature capable of being painted. Gold, snow, flame, glowing brass, stars, the sun in his strength, are some of them in a degree, and others altogether, beyond the power of imitation. The portrait is sublime beyond comparison—an idolatrous image impossible. See Eze. 8. 2; Da. 7. 9; 10. 6. C.

Ver. 19. 'Write, therefore,' &c., is the true rendering of the original. Why 'therefore' was omitted by the translators does not appear; but, most probably, from an early error of the press. C.

Ver. 20. The seven candlesticks are the seven churches. By comparing these words with the parallel phrase, 'This is my body,' Mat. 26. 26, the unfounded nature of the Romish figment of transubstantiation will be evident. The 'seven candlesticks' are but emblems of 'the seven churches.' C.

REFLECTIONS.—Whatever revelation Christ makes from his Father is infinitely worthy of our most serious and humble study and religious regard. And however dark some circumstances of it may appear, an humble inquiry into it will profit our souls; and all of it shall be accomplished in due season. Rich are the blessings of grace which proceed from Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, to all the churches and saints; and glorious and honoured are they who, by Jesus' love, are washed from the guilt, dominion, and filth of their sins in his blood, and made kings and priests to him and his Father. But terrible is the condition, and dreadful the sentence and fate, of Jesus' enemies, his people's persecutors, and of all earthly-minded men, when he appears in his majesty and glory to the last judgment! With great terror they shall then behold him, and with anguish bewail their neglect of and rebellion against him. In this world ministers and saints must expect to be fellow-sharers in trouble and persecution for their adherence to Christ; but spiritual fellowship with him, particularly on the Lord's day, can sufficiently sweeten them, however bitter. If he, the living Redeemer, the author and finisher of all the dispensations of providence and grace, manifests himself as an almighty and all-seeing Lord, walking in his churches to take care of the faithful—as enlightening and assisting ministers, and as fighting against his and his people's enemies, as the risen Saviour, and living and exalted Ruler of the unseen world—it may sufficiently encourage and enable us to bear all with calm submission and sweet composure.

CHAPTER II. In these seven epistles observe—(1) Christ always describes himself in the introduction by a character suited to the case of that particular church to which the letter is directed, whether for encouragement or terror. (2) He directs them all to the Angel or Messenger of the church; that is, the pastors, represented as one, because of the unity and sameness of their office and work; and yet sometimes as more than one, ver. 10, 25; because they are his mouth to their people. (3) The churches of Ephesus, Pergamos, Thyatira, and Sardis, are commended for some things, and reproved for others; the churches of Smyrna and Philadelphia only commended; and the church of Laodicea only reproved. (4) Each of the epistles is concluded with a delightful promise of eternal glory and happiness to victorious believers: a solemn call to every reader or hearer seriously to attend to and apply the epistles to his own conscience. Ver. 2. I am acquainted with and approve your manifold works of righteousness, and the pains you have taken to maintain and propagate my pure gospel and the interests of my kingdom, and with your holy, prudent zeal, that sin and error, and scandalous and erroneous persons, may be kept or put out of your church-fellowship—with the strict trials you have made of the principles and manners of such as pretend an apostolic commission from me: 3. And that you have, with holy forti-

CHURCH OF ST. JOHN, EPHESUS. [REVELATION, ii: 1.]—One may wonder while looking at this picture upon what grounds the scene represented is called a church. There are only scattered rocks and ruins and nothing specially to indicate that a church was ever here. But this is pointed out as the site upon which stood the church of St. John. Here was one of the seven churches of Asia to which St. John was instructed to write in Revelation. We know very little about the history of St. John. He was the son of Zebedee and Salome, and a brother of James. His father was a fisherman on Lake Galilee. He was one of the apostles, and after the crucifixion of our Lord he went into Asia, where he exercised pastoral superintendence over the Asiatic churches. Polycarp, the Bishop of Smyrna, was a disciple of St. John.

else I will come unto thee quickly, and "will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent.

6 But this thou hast, that "thou hatest the deeds of the Nicolaitanes,<sup>4</sup> which I also hate.

7 He<sup>p</sup> that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; "To him that overcometh will I give to eat of "the tree of life, which is in the midst of the paradise of God.

8 And unto the angel of the church in Smyrna write; These things saith "the first and the last, which was dead, and is alive;

9 I<sup>t</sup> know thy works, and tribulation, and poverty, (but "thou art rich;) and I know the blasphemy of them which "say they are Jews, and are not, but are the synagogue of Satan.

10 Fear<sup>n</sup> none of those things which thou shalt suffer: behold, the devil shall cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried; and ye shall have tribulation ten days:<sup>5</sup> be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life.

11 He<sup>y</sup> that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; He that overcometh shall not be hurt "of the second death.

12 And to the angel of the church in Pergamos write; These things saith he which hath the<sup>a</sup> sharp sword with two edges;<sup>6</sup>

13 I<sup>b</sup> know thy works, and where thou dwellest, even where Satan's seat is.<sup>7</sup> and "thou holdest fast my name, and hast not denied my faith, "even in those days wherein Antipas<sup>8</sup> was my faithful martyr, who was slain among you, where "Satan dwelleth.

14 But I have a few things against thee, because thou hast there them that hold "the doc-

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

"Mat. 21. 40, 41, 43.
Je. 7. 12, ch. 3. 10, Mat. 8. 12.

over. 15, Ro. 12. 9, Ps. 97. 10, Ga. 5. 19-21, Ro. 1. 26-31.

<sup>4</sup> The Nicolaitanes, a branch of the Gnostics, taught that Christ's divine nature descended upon him at his baptism, and ascended at his crucifixion; held that it was lawful to eat meats offered to idols, inculcated celibacy, but tolerated fornication.—C.

<sup>5</sup> ver. 11, 17, 29, ch. 3. 6, 13, 22; 13. 9. See Mat. 11. 15.

<sup>6</sup> 2 Ti. 4. 7. 1 Jn. 5. 4. Ro. 8. 37. 2 Co. 10. 3, 4; 6. 4-10. Ep. 6. 10-20. 1 Ti. 6. 11-14, 20, Ga. 6. 9.

<sup>7</sup> ch. 22. 14, Jn. 15. 1; 14. 6; 11. 25; 1. 4; 5. 26; 6. 32-58. 1 Jn. 5. 11, 12. Ge. 3. 22; 9.

<sup>8</sup> See ch. 1. 8, 11, 17, 18.

<sup>9</sup> See ver. 2, 13, 19, ch. 3. 8, 15. 1s. 54. 11, 12. Ac. 14. 22. 2 Ti. 3. 12. Jn. 16. 33. 1 Co. 4. 10-13. He. 10. 32-34.

<sup>10</sup> Ja. 2. 5. 11. 10, 34. 2 Co. 6. 10. Mat. 19. 21; 6. 20. Lu. 12. 21. 1 Ti. 6. 6, 18. 1 Pe. 1. 4.

<sup>11</sup> Ro. 2. 17-29; 6. 32; 10. 2, 3. Phil. 3. 3, ch. 3. 9. Ga. 6. 12, 13. Jn. 8. 44.

<sup>12</sup> 1s. 41. 10, 14; 43. 1, 2. Mat. 10. 22, 28; 24. 9, 13. 1 Co. 9. 25. 2 Ti. 2. 5; 4. 7, 8. Ja. 1. 2, 12. ch. 3. 12, 11; 22. 5.

<sup>13</sup> "Ten days." This phrase appears to signify a brief period, and to indicate that prosperity would thereafter return to Smyrna.—P.

<sup>14</sup> See ver. 7, 17, 26; ch. 3. 5, 12, 21; 7. 11, 13, 9. 2. ch. 20. 6, 14; 21. 8.

<sup>15</sup> Jos. 13. Nu. 22. 23. ver. 16; ch. 1. 16; 19. 15, 21. De. 32. 42, 43.

<sup>16</sup> See note <sup>a</sup> below.

<sup>17</sup> See ver. 2, 9. He. 4. 13.

<sup>18</sup> "Where Satan's throne is," and he reigns as king, by lies, producing murder. Jn. 8. 44.—C.

<sup>19</sup> 2 Ti. 1. 13; 2. 12. He. 3. 14, 14; 10. 23.

<sup>20</sup> Ge. 6. 9. Lu. 22. 28; 12. 8. 1 Sa. 2. 30.

<sup>21</sup> Antipas. No other record remains on earth; but there is a martyrdom in heaven, and from that record no name is blotted out.—C.

<sup>22</sup> De. 32. 16, 17. Le. 17. 7, ch. 11. 8; 17. 6; ver. 9.

<sup>23</sup> Nu. 25. 1, 3; 31. 16. Eze. 44. 7. Ac. 15. 1, 20, 29. 2 Co. viii. x. v. 2. Pe. 2. 15. Jude 11. Phil. 3. 18, 19.

<sup>24</sup> Our Lord in this epistle administers a severe rebuke to the

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

church at Pergamos. He, therefore, commences with a description of himself calculated to symbolize the character he is about to assume. "A sharp sword with two edges" cuts keen, and pierces deep, so do words of reproof and warning.—P.

<sup>1</sup> 1 Co. 6. 13, 18.

<sup>2</sup> See ver. 6. Je. 44. 4.

<sup>3</sup> ver. 5; ch. 3. 2, 3, 19. Je. 3. 13, 14, 22; 31. 18-20.

<sup>4</sup> ch. 1. 16; 11. 5; 19. 15. 21. 1s. 11. 4; 49. 2. Ep. 6. 17. 2 Th. 2. 8. He. 4. 11, 12.

<sup>5</sup> See ver. 7; ch. 3. 6, 13, 22; 21. 7; 13. 9.

<sup>6</sup> Ps. 25. 14. 1s. 62. 8, 9; 65. 13. Jn. 4. 32; 6. 33, 49, 58.

<sup>7</sup> Ex. 28. 8. Ep. 1. 6, 7.

<sup>8</sup> 1s. 1. 14, 25; 44. 22. Ep. 1. 6, 7.

<sup>9</sup> 1s. 56. 4, 5; 65. 15; 62. 2, 4, 12. ch. 3. 12; 19. 12, 13. 1 Jn. 3. 2. 1 Co. 2. 14.

<sup>10</sup> ch. 1. 11; 12. 1, 8, 12.

<sup>11</sup> Thyatira, now called Aklislar, about fifty miles south-east of Pergamos, contains about 1000 houses.—C.

<sup>12</sup> See ch. 1. 5, 14, 15.

<sup>13</sup> See ver. 2, 9, 13, Ro. 13. 10. Ga. 5. 6. Ja. 2. 26. 2 Co. 9. 1, 12.

<sup>14</sup> Job 17. 9. Pr. 4. 18. Mat. 13. 23. Ps. 92. 13, 14. 2 Pe. 1. 18.

<sup>15</sup> ver. 4. 14, 15; ch. 17. 1, 2. 1 Ki. 16. 31. Ac. 15. 20, 29. 1 Co. v. viii. x. Ex. 34. 15.

<sup>16</sup> Jezebel cannot,

from the nature of the description, signify any individual, but is an emblematic name for those agents of antichrist by whom the primitive church was so early tried (see 1 Jn. 2. 18), and who have perfected their system in Romanism, which assumes to be an infallible instructor, patronizes idolatry, which is spiritual fornication, and, like Jezebel the wife of Ahab, teaches the kings of the earth to trample upon liberty of conscience, and establish despotism over life and property.—C.

<sup>17</sup> Ro. 2. 4, 5. 2 Pe. 3. 9. Am. 4. 6-11. Eze. xvi. xx. xxiii. ch. 9, 20, 21.

<sup>18</sup> ch. 17. 16; 18. 4. Eze. 16. 35-43; 20. 30-36; 23. 10, 20. Lu. 13. 1-9.

<sup>19</sup> ch. 6. 8, 2. Sa. 12. 14, 2. Ki. 9. 22; 10. 6. Eze. 9. 6.

<sup>20</sup> Zep. 1. 11. Ps. 7. 9. Je. 11. 20; 17. 10; 20. 12. 1 Sa. 16. 7. 1 Ch. 28. 9; 29. 17. 2 Ch. 6. 30. Ac. 1. 24. Ro. 8. 27.

<sup>21</sup> ch. 13. 10; 20. 12; 22. 12. Ps. 62. 12. Ro. 2. 6; 14. 12. 2 Co. 5. 10. Ga. 6. 5. 2 Th. 1. 6-10.

trine of Balaam, who taught Balak to cast a stumbling-block before the children of Israel, to eat things sacrificed unto idols, and to commit "fornication.

15 So hast thou also them that hold "the doctrine of the Nicolaitanes, which thing I hate.

16 Repent;<sup>j</sup> or else I will come unto thee quickly, and "will fight against them with the sword of my mouth.

17 He<sup>i</sup> that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; To him that overcometh will I give to eat of "the hidden manna, and will give him "a white stone, and in the stone "a new name written, which no man knoweth saving he that receiveth it.

18 And<sup>q</sup> unto the angel of the church in Thyatira<sup>9</sup> write; These things saith "the Son of God, who hath his eyes like unto a flame of fire, and his feet are like fine brass;

19 I<sup>s</sup> know thy works, and charity, and service, and faith, and thy patience, and thy works; "and the last to be more than the first.

20 Notwithstanding,<sup>u</sup> I have a few things against thee, because thou sufferest that woman Jezebel,<sup>1</sup> which calleth herself a prophetess, to teach and to seduce my servants to commit fornication, and to eat things sacrificed unto idols.

21 And I gave her space "to repent of her fornication; and she repented not.

22 Behold,<sup>x</sup> I will cast her into a bed, and them that commit adultery with her into great tribulation, except they repent of their deeds.

23 And "I will kill her children with death; "and all the churches shall know that I am he which searcheth the reins and hearts; "and I will give unto every one of you according to your works.

24 But unto you I say, and unto the rest in tude, constancy, and patient resignation to the will of God, borne up against all the opposition of false teachers, and under manifold persecutions, for my sake; and, from a principle of love to me and my cause, have, without fainting or discouragement under your trials, persisted in diligently applying yourselves to promote my glory in the world. 4. Nevertheless, I must sharply reprove you, that of late your affection to me, my people and cause, has become less fervent than when you were first converted to the faith. 5. Think therefore, seriously and impartially, on your shameful declensions and revolts from your former love and zeal, and how much of the purity, pleasure, and life of religion you have lost by them; and with grief and hatred of them return to your wonted lively exercise of faith, love, and obedience, otherwise I will quickly take away all your gospel privileges, and dissolve your church, that you shall no longer enjoy or hold forth the light of gospel truth, holiness, and comfort. 6. The Nicolaitanes, under a pretence of Christian freedom, encouraged men to idolatry, uncleanness, or such like wickedness. 7. To every one who, united to my person, and depending on my grace, perseveres in mortifying his own corruptions, and resisting the temptations of Satan and the world, will I freely grant all the benefits of my sacrifice in the sublime, substantial, and never-failing honours and delights of the heavenly state—in which God himself dwells, and is immediately enjoyed in the most glorious manner. 9. They were poor in outward circumstances and in spirit, but rich in faith, and heirs of God's kingdom of grace and glory. 10. Ten days of tribulation may either denote ten years or many days, Ge. 31. 7, 41; 1 Sa. xviii.; Job 19. 3; Ec. 7. 19; or a few days, Ge. 24. 55; Le. 26. 26; Am. 5. 3; 6. 9, 11. The second death is eternal destruction in hell. 16. Unless you quickly repent of your conduct, I will, by fearful judgments, cut off these bold offenders. 17. I will make those who believe and overcome partakers of all the reviving blessings of spiritual and eternal life, which are safely treasured up in Christ, and unknown to carnal men, and give them the most delightful sense of their full justification and adoption. 22, 23. I will inflict dreadful calamities upon your corrupt seducers and those seduced by them, so as to alarm all the churches around, and to make them know that no pretences to knowledge or piety can hide any wicked principles or evil practices from me. 24, 25. Such of you as have never approved, but faithfully opposed, these diabolical delusions and mysteries of iniquity which these seducers propagate with the deepest intrigue and subtlety, and boast of as the product of profound knowledge and wisdom, I only require to persevere in your opposition, and to hold fast the doctrines and precepts which ye have received in my Word—in the continued exercise of faith, love, and holy obedience. 26-28. Such as stand their ground against temptations, and persevere in faith and holiness to the end, I will make to share in my conquests and glorious dominion over the world, and my victory over mine enemies, and will give them all that light and grace, those comforts, enjoyments, and glories, that are to be found in myself as their everlasting portion.

Ver. 5. I will remove thy candlestick: will deprive thee of gospel light; of Bibles which thou hast not read; of Sabbaths thou hast not kept; of ministers thou hast not heard; of communions thou hast not observed; and of liberty thou hast not valued, but abused. This denunciation began to be fulfilled during the persecutions of the Roman emperors Decius, Gallus, and Valerian, and was completed to the letter by the Saracens and Turks. It is now a total ruin, without a solitary inhabitant. C.

Ver. 8. Smyrna was not, like Ephesus, threatened with destruction; and Smyrna still survives. "Ten times" destroyed, by enemies or earthquakes, and often swept over by the plague, "ten times" did the city rise from its ruins with increased splendour. Its population is still about 100,000; of whom 30,000 are Greek and 7000 Armenian Christians, and 10,000 Jews, the remainder Turks. The Christians are described as sunk in ignorance and superstition. Hasten, Lord, their revival, and honour them with the "crown of life." C.

Ver. 12. Pergamos, now Bergamo, the ancient capital of Mysia, and the residence of the Attalian kings, stands about sixty miles north of Smyrna, on the banks of the Caicus. It contains about 15,000 inhabitants, and has two Christian churches. C.

Ver. 17. Hidden manna. So called because a portion of the wilderness manna was laid up in the tabernacle, to which the high-priest alone was admitted, and was thus a type of that bread that, in the fulness of the time, was sent down from heaven, Jn. 4. 26.—A white stone has been explained by a supposed reference to the white and black stones given in Grecian and Roman trials and elections—the one to denote acquittal or approval; the other, condemnation or rejection; also by a like supposed reference to the white stones given as evidences of victory at the Olympic games. But surely nothing is more unlikely than that a prophet of the Lord should borrow his imagery from heathenism? Is it not much more natural to understand it as a reference to the "bright, shining, light-giving" stones (for so the word λευκός signifies, as well as "white") which, by the command of the Lord, Moses placed upon the shoulders and breast of Aaron, Ex. 28. 10, 11.—A new name, has been explained by a supposed reference to the Roman tessera hospitalis, given as tokens of friendship and alliance. But, as in the case of the "white stone," it is to be explained, not by a reference to a local heathen custom, but by the engraving of the names of the tribes on the stones

PERGAMOS. [REV. ii:12.]—At Pergamos was situated one of the seven churches of Asia. This was an ancient city of Mysia. This is the city that Lysimachus, one of Alexander's generals, selected for the reception of his treasures. These treasures he entrusted to Phileterus who rebelled against him B. C. 283, and founded a kingdom which lasted one hundred and fifty years; when it was bequeathed by its last sovereign, Attalus, to the Roman people. In the Apocalyptic epistle addressed by St. John to Pergamos it was called the seat of Satan. There is a population here now of about 10,000 inhabitants. It was to the angel of the church at Pergamos that John was instructed by the spirit to write "I know thy works and where thou dwellest, even where Satan's seat is."

Thyatira, as many as have not this doctrine, and which have not known the depths of Satan, as they speak; I will put upon you none other burden.

25 But<sup>e</sup> that which ye have already hold fast till I come.

26 And<sup>d</sup> he that overeometh, and keepeth my works unto the end,<sup>2</sup> to him will I give power over the nations:

27 And he shall rule them<sup>3</sup> with a rod of iron; as the vessels of a potter shall they be broken to shivers: even as I received of my Father.

28 And I will give him the morning star.<sup>4</sup>

29 He<sup>h</sup> that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

upon the shoulders and breast of the high-priest, Ex. 28. 10, 11.—No man knoweth saving he that receiveth it—the nature and value of that 'new name' (child of God) which the Lord bestows upon all who love him. See Ge. 32. 28; 1 Jn. 3. 1. C.

REFLECTIONS.—No churches on earth are without their defilements and weaknesses; few without some glaring iniquities, or even without some wicked seducers. And it is a mercy that Jesus Christ, for their benefit, communicates to both pastors and people his reproofs, warnings, directions, and encouragements. His characters, as well as his oracles, exactly answer their case. And he has a critical and divine acquaintance with them and all their concerns. He takes the first and kindest notice of their graces, services, and sufferings for his sake, and how they oppose what is evil and perform what is good. Graciously he dwells among them, supports, furnishes, and directs their ministers; begins and assists all that concerns them in time or eternity; and lives for them as their risen and exalted Redeemer. With tender compassion he reminds them of their declensions and irregularities, and calls them to repentance and reformation. And his promises are very encouraging to his ministers and people who faithfully wrestle against every known sin in themselves or others. Spiritual and heavenly are the delights he now bestows upon them; sure is their security from eternal damnation; and infinite is the glory, acceptance, pleasure, fame, illustrious excellency, and power over every opposer, if they are only faithful to Christ.—But awful are his threatenings, and tremendous his judgments, upon impostors, hypocritical professors, and obstinate sinners! No boast of deep or devilish understanding, no power in deceiving his people or in persecuting his servants, shall be able to screen them from his righteous and destructive judgments. Let, then, every soul hear and fear, and do no more so wickedly.

CHAPTER III. Ver. 1. Though men think and speak of you as true and lively saints, I know that many of you are mere hypocrites, still dead in trespasses and sins; and others of you are grown very dead, dull, and lifeless in the frame of your hearts, and the manner of performing religious duties, especially in secret. 2. Guard against such an insensible temper, and depending on me, who have all the influences of the Holy Ghost to bestow, make use of all means of grace for adding strength and vigour to the small remains of those good things which are among you, and which are on the very point of expiring; for by my perfect knowledge of your hearts and ways, I find your performances cannot be accepted by God. 3. As ever you would make a right judgment of your state, seriously reflect on my doctrines and laws; and whether you at first received them into your heart in faith and love, or only with some flight of affection. And so far as you received them aright, hold them fast, and carefully act up to them; and if you received them only in a notional and hypocritical manner, bewail your ruinous mistake, and never rest satisfied till God rectify it by his almighty influences; for if you continue unconcerned, my destructive judgments shall suddenly and unexpectedly break forth upon you. 4, 5. There are indeed a few eminent Christians among you who have kept themselves clear of errors and immoralities, and have maintained their integrity, sound in the faith, and lively in their practice. They being accepted in my righteousness and sanctified by my Spirit, shall live eternally with me, in the most delightful, holy, and honourable fellowship; and they and all others who overcome sin and Satan, shall, in the most public and honourable manner, be acknowledged by me as my true disciples, before God, angels, and men. 7. Christ is holy in his natures, offices, and works, and the author of all the holiness in his people. He is invariably true in himself, he is infallibly true in his declarations, threatenings, and promises, and is the truth and substance of the ancient types and predictions; and he has the government of the church and world upon his shoulders, and the full and uncontrollable power of life and death, hell and heaven, in his hand. 8. I have given you free access to my gospel, and opened your hearts to receive it; nor can either devils or men defeat my favour. And though not eminent in light, grace, and holiness, ye are truly sincere in them, and have faithfully maintained my doctrines, laws, and institutions. 9. I will make even those Jewish seducers and their followers, who are devoted to the service and worship of Satan, humbly to confess their errors to you, and receive your instructions or censures, and acknowledge my peculiar favours to you. 10. Since in obedience to my commands and after my example you have patiently endured persecution for your adherence to my gospel truths, which, in the exercise of my patience, are continued in the world, particularly to such of them as were peculiarly opposed, I will infallibly preserve you from apostasy in the still more trying days of trouble and affliction which will come for the trial of all professed Christians throughout the whole Roman empire. 11. But as I will come quickly to deliver you and the rest of my people from all their enemies, see that ye, in dependence on my promised grace, hold fast, with the utmost care and constancy, zeal, and holy resolution, the doctrine which ye have received; the work of grace wrought in you or done by you; and your bold profession of my name; that none, through subtlety or violence, may ever pervert you, and rob you of the honours and eternal glories promised to the faithful, or even outshine you in anything truly excellent. 12. Those who by faith overcome temptations and inward corruptions shall be immovably fixed in the state of heavenly glory in the presence of God, and consecrated to his service; and shall be openly acknowledged and manifested as children and heirs of God, rightful citizens of the heavenly state; and as united to, justified in, and adopted by me as their Head and Saviour. 14. Christ is truth itself, and infallibly true in his testimony concerning persons or things; and as the origin, author, prince, and ruler of all creatures in heaven and earth, he is able to perform whatever he promises or threatens. 15, 16. If, to my great dissatisfaction, you continue thus formally professing my name and truth, and disgracing it by your careless indifference, and want of hearty affection to and zeal for it, I will, with abhorrence, dissolve your church, and destroy you. 17, 18. Because ye vainly imagine and boast that ye are rich in spiritual gifts and graces, and in everything pertaining to life and godliness, and have no proper sense of your destitute, miserable, dangerous, ignorant, unrighteous, and unholy state and condition, I earnestly and compassionately beseech you freely but deliberately to receive me and my fulness of grace and glory as your enriching portion and trea-

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

b 2 Co. 2. 11. ch. 17. 5.
c 1 Th. 2. 9-12.
d 1s. 8. 20. 2 Ti. 1. 13.
Ac. 15. 19, 20, 28, 29. Phi.
3. 16. ch. 3. 3. 11. 2 Jn. 8.
e See ver. 7. 11, 17;
ch. 3. 5, 12, 21; 21. 7. Jn. 6.
29. 1. 2. 20. 1 Jn. 3. 23.
Tit. 2. 11-14. Mat. 10.
22; 24. 13. Ga. 6. 9.

2 Into the end of the period allotted to the Jewish and Gentile rebellion.—C. e Mat. 19. 28. Lu. 22. 28, 29. 1 Co. 6. 3. Ps. 2. 8.
9; 49. 14. Da. 7. 22, 27; 12.
44. 45. Ps. 149. 5-9. ch.
12. 5; 19. 15. Mat. 28. 18.
Ps. cx.

3 And he shall rule them by his principles, and in the persons of his spiritual descendants.—C.
g ch. 22. 16. Nu. 24. 17.
Is. 49. 6. 2 Pe. 1. 19. Lu.
1. 78, 79.

4 The morning-star is a title of Christ himself. See Brown's commentary, ch. 22. 16.—C.

h See ver. 7. Mat. 11. 15; 13. 9, 43. He. 12. 25.
26.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

CHAP. III.

a ch. 1. 11, 20; 2. 1, 8, 12, 18; ver. 7, 14. Mal. 2. 7. Mat. 24. 31. 2 Co. 5. 20.

b ch. 1. 4; 5. 6. Jn. 1. 14, 16; 3. 34. Is. 11. 2; 3; 61. 1. ch. 4. 5; 11. 16, 20; 2. 1.

1 See note on ch. 1. 4.—C.

c ver. 8, 15; ch. 2. 2, 9, 13, 20. He. 4. 13.

d Eze. 33. 31. Mat. 13. 20-22. He. 6. 4, 5. 1s. 58. 2. 2 Ti. 3. 5. 1 Ti. 5. 6. Tit. 1. 16. Ep. 2. 1, 5.

e 1 Pe. 5. 8. ch. 16. 15. Mat. 24. 43; 25. 13. Lu. 12. 39, 40; 21. 36.

f ch. 2. 5. He. 12. 12, 13. 2 Pe. 1. 4-10. Ep. 5. 14. Ro. 13. 11-14.

g ver. 1. Da. 5. 27. Ps. 78. 35-37. He. 5. 12. 1 Co. 3. 1, 3.

h 1s. 2. 1. Ro. 6. 17; 16. 17. Phi. 3. 16. 2 Ti. 1. 13. 1 Ti. 6. 20. ch. 2. 5, 16, 25; ver. 11, 19.

i 2 Pe. 3. 10. ch. 16. 15. 1 Th. 5. 2, 6. Mat. 24. 42, 43. Lu. 12. 39, 40. Mar. 13. 35-37.

CHAPTER III.

2 The angel of the church of Sardis is reproved, 3 exhorted to repent, and threatened if he do not repent. 8 The angel of the church of Philadelphia 10 is approved for his diligence and patience. 15 The angel of the church of Laodicea rebuked, for being neither hot nor cold, 19 and admonished to be more zealous. 20 Christ standeth at the door, and knocketh.

AND unto<sup>a</sup> the angel of the church in Sardis write; These things saith he that hath the seven Spirits<sup>1</sup> of God, and the seven stars; I know thy works, that thou hast<sup>a</sup> a name that thou livest, and art dead.

2 Be<sup>e</sup> watchful, and strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die; for<sup>h</sup> I have not found thy works perfect before God.

3 Remember<sup>i</sup> therefore how thou hast received and heard; and hold fast, and repent. If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come sure, my real righteousness and imparted holiness to cover and adorn you, and my Spirit and Word to enlighten and render you wise unto salvation. 19, 20. As, in the most tender affection, I warn, reprove, and correct all my disciples when they do amiss, see that you speedily improve my present rebukes in an earnest and thorough repentance of your conduct and a turning from it.—Behold, in amazing patience, condescension, and kindness, by the declarations and calls of my Word, the strivings of my Spirit, and the engaging or awakening dispensations of my providence, I stand knocking at the door of your hearts: whoever by faith receives me his soul shall be filled with my Spirit and grace, and he shall live, and hereafter enjoy the most delightful fellowship with and communications from me.

Ver. 1. Sardis was the capital of Cræsus, the rich king of Lydia. It is now an obscure village called Sart.—Dead in part (comp. ver. 2 on the word 'remain'); dead in Christian feeling, activity, and zeal. C.

Ver. 2. Be watchful in the use of opportunities.—Strengthen the things that remain, by tending the plants 'that are ready to perish' for lack of water. C.

Ver. 5. The book of life is, no doubt, a reference to the Jewish registers of genealogy and heirship in the land of promise—the emblem of enrolment and heirship among the spiritual children of God. C.

Ver. 7. Philadelphia, so called from its founder, Attalus Philadelphus, still exists under the name of Allah-shehr. It contains about 3000 houses, and has twenty-five Christian churches. It did not fall, like the other cities of Asia, as a feeble and unresisting prey into the hands of the Mahomedan conquerors; but, as the infidel Gibbon expresses it, 'either sustained by prophecy or the valour of its inhabitants, obtained an honourable capitulation from the proudest of the Ottomans;' and in the midst of surrounding desolation 'still remains erect a column in the midst of ruins.' See ver. 10. C.

Ver. 12. He shall go no more out, seems an incongruous metaphor when applied to a fixed pillar; but its strict propriety will appear when it is recollected that the pillars of the temple at Jerusalem were carried away to Babylon, 2 Ki. 25. 13; Je. 52. 17, and that this promise implies perpetual protection from spiritual captivity.—New name can be neither Jesus, nor Christ, nor Lord, nor Son of God, for these were well-known names; but seems to be that name and inscription with which he appears, ch. 19. 16, 'KING OF KINGS, AND LORD OF LORDS,' which, written upon the hearts of believers, indicates his mastership over them and property in them. C.

Ver. 14. Laodicea. There were four cities called Laodicea—two in Asia Minor, and two in Syria. This one lay nearest to Ephesus, and is now the most ruinous and desolate of all the seven churches. C.

Ver. 15. I would thou wert cold or hot, seems a wish inconsistent with the character of the speaker. 'Cold,' therefore, Woodhouse interprets 'not of persons devoid of all warm feelings and affections, but who, having their passions absorbed by worldly objects, have hitherto been cold to religious affections, but of whom there is hope that, from experience of the vanity of mere worldly pursuits, they may listen to the suggestions of the Spirit, and turn their affections to God.' And this case Bloomfield supposes to be exemplified in the irreligious publicans who entered the kingdom of heaven before the moral Pharisees. But might not the difficulty be better removed by understanding οψελον not as an indeclinable participle signifying 'I would,' 'I wish,' but as the neuter participle of the 2d aor., and translating it by the Latin 'necesse est,' by the English 'ye must,' &c.—'Ye cannot long remain indifferent?' comp. Mat. 6. 24. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Very different are the conditions of churches and Christians on earth. But, alas! most of them are generally corrupt. While a few are sincere, faithful, and thriving, many have a form of godliness without the power of it; and many are altogether lukewarm, self-conceited, and insensible of their manifold spiritual maladies. But there is no case on earth to which Christ's character and word are not suitable. He takes notice of the faithfulness, the labours, the little strength of such as are lively and upright. Kindly he affords them opportunities for the spread of the

COLUMNS IN TEMPLE OF CYBELE, SARDIS. [REVELATIONS, iii: 1.] — Another one of the churches of Asia Minor was situated at Sardis. See the message of John to the angel of the church at Sardis in Revelations, iii: 1-6. Sardis was a town of Asia Minor, capital of the Kingdom of Lydia, and was situated at the foot of Mount Tmolus, on the banks of the Pactolus. It was destroyed by an earthquake in the reign of Tiberius, who ordered it to be rebuilt. The most noticeable of the remains which come down to us from ancient times are the two Ionic columns which stood in the Temple of Cybele. No one lives here now except a few poor Turkish families, who dwell in summer in tents and in winter in stone houses. But it was once a very rich city. Cresus, who enjoys the distinction of being the richest man who lived in ancient times, lived here.

on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee.

4 Thou hast <sup>a</sup>a few names even in Sardis which have not defiled their garments; and they shall walk with me <sup>in</sup>white: for they are worthy.

5 He<sup>n</sup> that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white raiment; and I will not blot out his name out of the <sup>o</sup>book of life, but <sup>p</sup>I will confess his name before my Father, and before his angels.

6 He<sup>a</sup> that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

7 And<sup>r</sup> to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write; These things saith <sup>s</sup>he that is holy, he that is true, he that hath <sup>t</sup>the key of David, he that openeth, and no man shutteth; and shutteth, and no man openeth;

8 I<sup>u</sup> know thy works: behold, I have set before thee <sup>an</sup>open door, and no man can shut it: for thou <sup>hast</sup>a little strength, and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my name.

9 Behold, I will make <sup>v</sup>them of the synagogue of Satan, which say they are Jews, and are not, but do lie; behold, <sup>i</sup>I will make them to come and worship before thy feet, and to know that I have loved thee.

10 Because<sup>a</sup> thou hast kept the word of my patience, I also will keep thee from the hour of temptation, which shall come upon all the world, to try them that dwell upon the earth.

11 Behold,<sup>b</sup> I come quickly: hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown.

12 Him<sup>c</sup> that overcometh will I make <sup>d</sup>a pillar in the temple of my God; and he shall go no more out: and <sup>e</sup>I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, which is New Jerusalem, which cometh down out of heaven from my God: and I will write upon him my new name.

13 He<sup>a</sup> that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

14 And<sup>b</sup> unto the angel of the church of the Laodiceans<sup>2</sup> write; These things saith <sup>t</sup>the Amen, the faithful and true Witness, <sup>i</sup>the beginning of the creation of God;<sup>3</sup>

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

<sup>a</sup> Mat. 7.13; 20.16 Ac. 1.15. Ge. 6.5, 12. Jude 23.
<sup>b</sup> ch. 4.4; 6.11; 7.9, 13; 14.4; 19.8. Mat. 13.43. Ps. 45.13, 14. 2 Co. 4.17. Zec. 3.4, 7. Ro. 8.17. Ec. 9.8. Jude 24.
<sup>c</sup> ch. 2.7, 11, 17, 26; ver. 12, 21.
<sup>d</sup> Phi. 4.3. Ex. 32.32. ch. 20.12; 13.8; 17.8; 21.27. Is. 4.3. Ps. 87.6; 69.28. Eze. 13.9.
<sup>e</sup> Mat. 10.32. Lu. 12.8.
<sup>f</sup> ch. 2.7, 11, 17, 29; ver. 22. Mat. 11.15. ch. 13.1.
<sup>g</sup> See ver. 1; ch. 2.1; 1.20.
<sup>h</sup> Lu. 4.34. He. 7.26. Ac. 3.14. Is. 6.3. Jn. 14.6. 1 Jn. 5.20. ver. 14; ch. 1.5.
<sup>i</sup> Is. 22.22. ch. 1.5, 18; 5.5. 1-12. 8.1; 22.16. Lu. 1.32. Mat. 16.19; 18.18. Jn. 17.2. Job 12.14.
<sup>j</sup> ch. 2.9, 13, 19; ver. 1.15.
<sup>k</sup> Ac. 14.27. 1 Co. 16.2. 2 Co. 2.12. Col. 4.3. 2 Th. 3.1. Ep. 2.13-22. Is. 56.5; 55.11. Jn. 10.16, 28. 1 Pe. 1.5.
<sup>l</sup> Phi. 2.13; 4.13. ch. 2.9, 13. 2 Ti. 2.13, with Mar. 8.38; 14.71.
<sup>m</sup> ch. 2.9, 13. 44.
<sup>n</sup> Pr. 16.7. Is. 49.23; 60.14.
<sup>o</sup> ver. 8. Ro. 15.4. 2 Pe. 2.9. 1 Co. 10.13. ch. 2.10. Ps. xci. cxxi.
<sup>p</sup> ch. 22.7, 12, 20. Zep. 1.14. Ja. 5.8. Phi. 4.5. 2 Pe. 3.10-14. ch. 1.3; 2.5, 16, 25; ver. 3, 4; ch. 16.15.
<sup>q</sup> See ch. 2.7, 11, 26; ver. 5, 21.
<sup>r</sup> 1 Ki. 7.15, 21. Ga. 2.9. 1 Co. 3.16. Jn. 10.28, 29. ch. 21.4, 22.3-6.
<sup>s</sup> Is. 4.3; 62.12. Ps. 87.6. ch. 2.17; 14.1; 21.2, 10, 12; 22.4, 2. Ti. 2.19. Is. 62.46. 19, 20, with He. 12.22. Ga. 4.26.
<sup>t</sup> See ch. 2.7.
<sup>u</sup> See ch. 1.1; 2.1.
<sup>v</sup> Or, in Laodicea.
<sup>w</sup> 2 Co. 1.20. ch. 1.5, 19, 11; 22.6; 3.7. Is. 55.4; 65.16. Pr. 8.6-9. Jn. 14.6; 8.14; 18.37. 1 Jn. 5.20.
<sup>x</sup> Col. 1.15-18. Pr. 8.22-31. Jn. 1.1-3; 5.21, 25. Je. 31.22. ch. 1.5. 1 Co. 15.20-23, 45. Ep. 2.10; 3.9.
<sup>y</sup> The Greek of this passage admits grammatically of two significations:—1. The first created being of creation. 2. The source or origin of creation. The scope of the passage and the whole analogy of Scripture prove that the latter is the true meaning. By comparing the passage with Jn. 1.1, 2. Col. 1.15-17. Ep. 3.9, it will be seen that the latter is the only possible interpretation.—P.
<sup>z</sup> We are naturally blind. Sin has destroyed our spiritual vision, so that we cannot fully apprehend or rightly appreciate the truth of the gospel. The Holy Spirit is the sole and omnipotent enlightener. He guides us into all truth. He makes plain the sublime doctrines of Scripture. He removes the darkness of prejudice and evil training from the mind.—P.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

<sup>a</sup> ch. 2.9, 13, 19; ver. 1.
<sup>b</sup> 1 Ki. 18.21. 2 Ki. 17.33. Zep. 1.5. Ho. 7.8.
<sup>c</sup> Lu. 12.48. 2 Pe. 2.21, 22. Zec. 11.8. Le. 18.28. Am. 6.8. Ps. 81.12. Eze. 20.39. Mat. 24.51.
<sup>d</sup> They were 'lukewarm,' professing to be church members, attending upon ordinances, speaking favourably of Christian truth, but with hearts and consciences untouched by the divine Spirit, and caring nothing for the extension of vital godliness.—P.
<sup>e</sup> Pr. 13.7. Je. 2.23, 25. 31. Ho. 12.8. Lu. 18.11. 1 Co. 4.8.
<sup>f</sup> Ep. 2.1-3. Tit. 3.3. Is. 1.3-6; 59.4-15. Ro. 3.9-20.
<sup>g</sup> Mat. 13.44, 46; 25.9. Is. 55.
<sup>h</sup> 1 Co. 9.15. Jn. 3.16. 1 Cor. 1.30. 1 Pe. 1.18, 19. Mat. 20.28. Pr. 8.11, 18, 19, 21. Jn. 1.12. 1 Pe. 1.2-4. Col. 2.10.
<sup>i</sup> ver. 4, 5; ch. 19.8; 7.13, 14; 16.15. Is. 61.10; 45.24; 46.12, 13. Ro. 13.14; 10.4; 5.19. 2 Co. 5.21. Col. 3.10-12. Ep. 4.24. Tit. 2.11, 12.
<sup>j</sup> Pr. 2.1-7; 4.5, 7; 1.23. Ep. 1.17, 18; 3.18, 19. Col. 1.9, 12.
<sup>k</sup> See note * in first column.
<sup>l</sup> De. 8.5. Job 5.17. Pr. 3.12. He. 12.5, 6. Ja. 1.12. Jn. 16.8.
<sup>m</sup> Is. 1.18, 19; 26.9. Ho. 14.1. Je. 3.13, 14, 22. ch. 2.5; ver. 3.
<sup>n</sup> Ca. 5.2. Lu. 12.36. Ps. 24.7; 91.10. Pr. 23.26. Ep. 5.14.
<sup>o</sup> Lu. 12.37. Jn. 14.21, 23. Ca. 5.1. 1 Jn. 1.3. Is. 25.6. Ep. 3.19.
<sup>p</sup> ch. 12.11; 21.7; 2.7, 12, 17, 26; ver. 5, 12. 1 Jn. 5.4, 5, 2. Ti. 4.7, 8.
<sup>q</sup> Ro. 5.21; 6.23. Mat. 19.28. Lu. 22.30. Ro. 8.17. 1 Co. 6.2, 3. 2 Ti. 2.12. ch. 2.26, 27; 1.6; 5.10, with Jn. 17.4, 5, 21, 22, 24; 16.33. He. 1.3; 8.1.
<sup>r</sup> Mat. 11.15; 13.9, 43. ch. 13.9, 27, 11, 17, 29.

CHAP. IV.

<sup>a</sup> ch. i.-iii.
<sup>b</sup> Eze. 1.1. Mat. 3.16. Ac. 7.56; 10.10, with ch. 9.1. Is. 65.17; 66.22. Da. 8.10. Lu. 10.18. ch. 12.7. ch. 1.10, 19; 22.6; 11.12.
<sup>c</sup> ch. 1.10; 17.3; 21.10. Eze. 3.12-14, 22.
<sup>d</sup> I was in the Spirit, i.e. I was so under the influence and power of the Spirit that I was able to see what mere mortal eyes could not see, and to hear and comprehend revelations beyond the ken of the human intellect.—P.
<sup>e</sup> Is. 6.1. Eze. 1.26, 28; 10.1. Ex. 24.10. Da. 7.9, with Je. 17.12. Eze. 43.5, 7. He. 8.1.
<sup>f</sup> Ex. 15.11. Job 37.22. Ps. 89.7, 8. Is. 6.3.
<sup>g</sup> ch. 10.1. Eze. 1.28. Is. 54.9, 10. Ge. 9.12, 13, 16.
<sup>h</sup> ch. 11.16.
<sup>i</sup> Nu. 1.5-16; 34.17-29. 1 Ch. xxiv. xxv. ch. 7.4-9. Ga. 4.5, 28, 31.
<sup>j</sup> ch. 3.2; 11.6; 5.10; 3.4; 5.6, 11; 7.9, 14; ver. 10. 1 Pe. 2.9. Ex. 28.40. 2 Ti. 4.8.

15 I<sup>k</sup> know thy works, that <sup>l</sup>thou art neither cold nor hot: I would thou wert cold or hot.

16 So<sup>n</sup> then because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will spue thee out of my mouth.<sup>4</sup>

17 Because thou sayest, <sup>o</sup>I am rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing; and knowest not that thou art <sup>p</sup>wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked:

18 I counsel thee to <sup>q</sup>buy of me <sup>r</sup>gold tried in the fire, that thou mayest be rich; and <sup>s</sup>white raiment, that thou mayest be clothed, and that the shame of thy nakedness do not appear; and <sup>t</sup>anoint thine eyes with eye-salve, that thou mayest see.<sup>5</sup>

19 As<sup>u</sup> many as I love, I rebuke and chasten: <sup>v</sup>be zealous therefore, and repent.

20 Behold,<sup>w</sup> I stand at the door, and knock: <sup>x</sup>if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me.

21 To<sup>z</sup> him that overcometh <sup>a</sup>will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcome, and am set down with my Father in his throne.

22 He<sup>b</sup> that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

CHAPTER IV.

2 John seeth the throne of God in heaven. 4 The four and twenty elders. 6 The four beasts full of eyes before and behind. 10 The elders lay down their crowns, and worship him that sat on the throne.

AFTER this<sup>a</sup> I looked, and, behold, <sup>b</sup>a door was opened in heaven; and the <sup>c</sup>first voice which I heard was as it were of a trumpet talking with me; which said, Come up hither, and I will show thee things which must be hereafter.

2 And immediately <sup>d</sup>I was in the Spirit:<sup>1</sup> and, behold, <sup>e</sup>a throne was set in heaven, and one sat on the throne.

3 And<sup>g</sup> he that sat was to look upon like a jasper and a sardine stone: and there was <sup>h</sup>a rainbow round about the throne, in sight like unto an emerald.

4 And<sup>i</sup> round about the throne were four and twenty seats: and upon the seats I saw <sup>j</sup>four and twenty elders <sup>k</sup>sitting, clothed in white gospel, and of familiar fellowship with himself. Graciously he reduces their enemies to their honour, and preserves them in times of trial. And great are the heavenly glories and priestly honours, and high the seats on his throne, which, at the last judgment, or in the eternal state, he bestows upon them. But detestable to him are hypocritical, lukewarm, and self-conceited professors. Yea, they are in danger of the most indignant rejection, and most sudden and unexpected destruction. How transcendent is his mercy, so kindly, so earnestly, to call such to serious consideration and gospel repentance, and to offer them freely himself, and his righteousness, his Word, his Spirit, and grace, and the most full, familiar, and eternal fellowship with himself and his Father! And wonderful is his forbearance, that he should so long continue knocking at the door of their heart by gospel calls, strivings of his Spirit, and dispensations of his providence.—My soul, while thou hast an ear, hear what the Spirit saith to the churches, and apply all faithfully to thyself.

CHAPTER IV. Ver. 3. God's being like the whitish transparent jasper denotes his infinite holiness and glory; the marvellously-mingled display of his perfections in his works of providence and grace; and his gracious regard to his people. His likeness to the bloody-coloured sardine denotes his justice and fiery indignation against his enemies. The greenish rainbow round about the throne represents the covenant of grace as ever in God's eye, and the perpetual rule of all that he does in the government of the world or the church. 4. The twenty-four crowned elders, represent the saints of the Old and New Testaments enjoying fixed and familiar fellowship with God by virtue of their faith in Christ; and they are called twenty-four, in allusion to the courses of the Hebrew priests; or the twelve patriarchs of the Jewish church, and twelve apostolic founders of the Christian. 5. The seven lamps of fire before the throne represent the Holy Ghost in the variety and perfection of his gifts and graces, which he distributes for enlightening, purifying, and warming the souls of his ministers and people. 6. The clear sea of glass before the throne is Jesus' blood, in which all the redeemed worshippers must be washed from their iniquities. 6-8. The four living creatures, full of eyes before, behind, and within, denote gospel ministers, sent to preach the gospel to all the ends of the earth, remarkable for spiritual knowledge, prudence, and exact observation and attention to receive direction and influences from God, and to watch over and feed their people, and to look well into and keep their own hearts. Their having six wings each denotes their readiness, alacrity, and diligence in their work. Their being likened to lions, oxen, men, eagles, denotes their undaunted boldness and courage; patience and fitness for labour; wisdom, prudence, and compassion; deep penetration into the mysteries of God; sublime sentiments and devotion; together with their eminent zeal, activity, and vigour in the service of God. 10. The elders falling down and casting their crowns before the throne, denotes their deep humility, holy reverence,

PHILADELPHIA. [REVELATION, iii: 7.]—Philadelphia was situated in Lydia, twenty-eight miles southeast from Sardis. It was built by Attalus Philadelphus, King of Pergamos. It is now a considerable town, containing ruins of its ancient wall and of about twenty-four churches. "And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write: These things saith he that is holy, he that is true, and he that hath the key of David, he that openeth and no man shutteth; and shutteth and no man openeth; I know thy works: behold I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it: for thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my word and hast not denied my name." This city contains a population now of about 12,000. They are mostly Mohammedans, but there are a few Jews and Greeks among them.

raiment; and they had on their heads crowns of gold.

5 And 'out of the throne proceeded lightnings and thunders and voices: and there were seven lamps of fire burning before the throne, which are the seven Spirits of God.

6 And before the throne there was a sea of glass like unto crystal: and in the midst of the throne, and round about the throne, were four beasts, full of eyes before and behind.

7 And the first beast was like a lion, and the second beast like a calf, and the third beast had a face as a man, and the fourth beast was like a flying eagle.

8 And the four beasts had each of them six wings about him; and they were full of eyes within: and they rest not day and night, saying, 'Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come.'

9 And when those beasts give glory and honour and thanks to him that sat on the throne, who liveth for ever and ever,

10 The four and twenty elders fall down before him that sat on the throne, and worship him that liveth for ever and ever, and cast their crowns before the throne, saying,

11 Thonst art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created.

γ ch. 5, 9, 12; 15, 3, 4. Col. 1. 16. Ps. xxix. xciii. c. cxxxvi. ciii. — cv. cvii. Ne. 9, 5. z Ge. 1. Ex. 20. 11. Pr. 16. 4. Ro. 11. 36.

and profound adoration; and their professing themselves unworthy of any honour in God's presence, and that all their honour proceeds from him.

Ver. 1. 'From this point begins the Revelation proper, extending to the end of the book. And herein we have a first great portion, embracing ch. iv. — xi., the opening of the seals and the sounding of the trumpets. But preparatory to both these series of revelations, we have described to us, in ch. iv. v., the heavenly scenery which furnishes the local ground for these visions. Of these, ch. iv. is properly the scene itself — ch. v. being a farther unfolding of its details with a view to the vision of the seals which is to follow. So that we have in ch. iv. 1-14 the vision of God's presence in heaven' (Alford). The apostle is now introduced to the immediate presence of God, that he may there have developed before and to him the future history of the church. P. — After this. Literally, 'After these things;' that is, after the vision, ch. 1. 10-20, and the messages, ch. ii. iii. — And the first voice. Rather, 'and the voice, the first which I had heard;' to wit, in ch. 1. 10. C.

Ver. 3. The jasper was the symbol of Naphtali (comp. Ex. 28. 20 with Nu. 2. 29); the sardine was the emblem of Judah, the first tribe, while Naphtali was the last in the Mosaic camp (comp. Ex. 28. 17 with Nu. 2. 3); the amethyst was the emblem of Benjamin (comp. Ex. 28. 19 with Nu. 2. 22); and the emerald the emblem of Reuben (comp. Ex. 28. 19 with Nu. 2. 10). Now, the jasper being interpreted by 'Naphtali,' signifies 'the fighting' of the enthroned one against his enemies. The sardine, being interpreted by 'Judah,' signifies 'the praise of the Lord' about to be proclaimed. The amethyst, being interpreted by 'Benjamin,' signifies 'the son of the right hand;' and the emerald, being interpreted by 'Reuben,' signifies 'a vision of the Son.' All which things seem exactly descriptive of the exalted Saviour, who appears crowned with a rainbow diadem, the emblem of the covenant of promise, of the curse reversed, of a world baptized and renovated, and guaranteed by its Creator against any return of destruction. — Note. This view, though unsupported by the authority of expositors, is humbly submitted as apparently coincident with the nature of Scripture emblems, and authorized by the interpretation of Scripture names. See, for example, He. 7. 2. C.

Ver. 9. He 'that sat on the throne' was the 'Lord God of hosts,' whom Isaiah saw, ch. 6. 1-5, who, as appears from Jn. 12. 41, was Christ manifested in glory. Comp. also ver. 11 with Jn. 1. 2; Col. 1. 16. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Great is the mercy that an abundant entrance into heaven is opened by Jesus' blood for every one washed in it. Happy are they who, directed and drawn by the Holy Ghost, now enter by faith as a pledge and earnest of their personal admission hereafter! With what awful majesty and grandeur, new-covenant faithfulness and grace towards his people, and just terribleness to his enemies, nay, with all-

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

1 Ex. 20. 18. Ps. 68. 35. Je. 25. 30. Joel 3. 16. Am. 1. 2. ch. 8. 2; 10. 3; 11. 19; 14. 2; 16. 18; 19. 6. Ex. 19. 16. Ps. 18. 13, 14.
2 ch. 1. 4; 3. 1; 5. 6. Mat. 3. 11. Ac. 2. 3. 1 Co. 12. 4. &c. Ge. 15. 17. Ex. 37. 23. Zec. 4. 2. Jn. 6. 63.
3 Ex. 38. 1. 1 Ki. 7. 23. ch. 15. 27; 14. He. 10. 19. 1 Pe. 1. 19. Zec. 13. 1.

4 Eze. 1. 5-25; 10. 8-28. 1 Co. 12. 28. Ep. 4. 11. 1 Ti. iii. Tit. i. He. 13. 17.
5 Is. 6. 2. Eze. 1. 6. 2 Ti. 4. 2.
6 ver. 6. Tit. 1. 9. 1 Ti. 4. 16. Mat. 13. 52. Ep. 3. 4.
7 Is. 62. 1, 6, 7. 2 Ti. 4. 2. Ac. 20. 18, 24, 31. Ga. 4. 19. Mat. 23. 37.

8 Gr. they have no rest.
9 Is. 6. 3. Ex. 15. 11. ch. 1. 4, 8; 11. 17; 16. 5; 19. 1-6. De. 32. 3, 4.

3 These four 'living creatures,' or 'living beings,' represent the four great departments of animated nature. They are full of eyes, because they exhibit or flash forth in every part the divine glory; they cease not to give praise to God, because in instinct, habit, act, or reasoning power — each in its own way — they display the wonders of divine wisdom; they have each six wings, to symbolize their readiness to obey the divine commands. We have thus a magnificent and most instructive vision — the throne of God surrounded by his church and his animated world; the church represented by twenty-four elders, twelve for the old dispensation, and twelve for the new — nature represented by the four living beings. — P.

4 1 Ti. 4. 12. 1 Pe. 4. 11; 5. 7. Je. 10. ch. 1. 4, 18; 5. 14; 10. 6; 15. 7.
5 ch. 5. 14. Ps. xciv. — c. cxxxv. cxxxvi. ver. 9, 4.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

CHAP. V.
α ch. 4. 3; 3. 21. Ps. 110. 1; 118. 15. 16. Ac. 4. 28. Is. 46. 10.
β Eze. 2. 9, 10. ch. 10. 4, 8, 9. Jn. 19. 22. Is. 8. 10; 20. 11. Da. 12. 4, 9; 8. 20. Mat. 11. 27. De. 32. 34.
1 Rather, as the scope requires, and as the custom of the age would lead us to expect, 'a roll.' It was written, not, as is usually the case, on one side merely, but upon both sides. When such a roll is folded up, it can be easily sealed. The Book is the book of future history in so far as the church of Christ is concerned. — P.

2 Is. 29. 11; 41. 22, 23, 26. Je. 49. 19.

3 The seals require to be 'loosed,' because the rolls were bound together with threads — a practice once common in Europe, and still existing in Asia. — C.

4 Is. 40. 13, 14; 41. 28. Jn. 1. 18. Ro. 11. 34. ver. 13.

5 No man. Rather 'no one,' no created being. — C.

6 Under the earth. Among the dead. — C.

7 With ch. 4. 1-2 Co. 11. 28. Je. 9. 1.

8 ch. 4. 4, 10; ver. 14. 9 Jn. 20. 13. Mat. 28. 5. Is. 52. 1; 60. 1. Phil. 4. 4. Ps. 149. 2.

9 Ge. 49. 9, 10. Nu. 24. 9. He. 7. 14. ch. 22. 16. Ro. 8. 29. Ps. 89. 27. Is. 11. 1, 10. Je. 23. 5, 6. Zec. 3. 8, 9. Ro. 15. 12; 9. 51. 3. 11. 2. 10; 25. Jn. 5. 20; 3. 18. ch. 1. 1; 6. 1. Lu. 24. 27, 44.

10 ch. 3. 21; 7. 17; 4. 6; 1. 20; 2. 1. Mat. 28. 20.

11 Is. 53. 7, 10. Jn. 1. 29, 36. Ac. 8. 32. 1 Pe. 1. 19. He. 9. 14. ver. 9, 12; ch. 7. 14; 12. 11; 13. 8. Mat. 20. 28. Le. 1. v. xvi. Nu. xv. xxviii. xxix.

12 Mat. 28. 18. Jn. 17. 2. Phil. 2. 9-11. Da. 7. 14. Ps. 132. 17. He. 3. 4, 6. 1 Sa. 2. 10. Lu. 1. 69.

13 Zec. 3. 9, 10. ch. 4. 5; 14. Jn. 3. 34. Col. 2. 3. 9. 2 Ch. 16. 9. Ps. 34. 15. 10 ch. 4. 4-11. 14; 2; 15. 2; 8. 3, 4. Ps. 141. 2.

CHAPTER V.

1 The book sealed with seven seals; 9 which only the Lamb that was slain is worthy to open. 12 Therefore the elders praise him, 9 and confess that he redeemed them with his blood.

AND I saw in the right hand of him that sat on the throne a book<sup>1</sup> written within and on the back side, sealed with seven seals.

2 And I saw a strong angel proclaiming with a loud voice, 'Who is worthy to open the book, and to loose<sup>2</sup> the seals thereof?'

3 And no man<sup>3</sup> in heaven, nor in earth, neither under the earth,<sup>4</sup> was able to open the book, neither to look thereon.

4 And I wept much, because no man was found worthy to open and to read the book, neither to look thereon.

5 And one of the elders saith unto me, Weep not: behold, the Lion of the tribe of Juda, the Root of David, hath prevailed to open the book, and to loose the seven seals thereof.

6 And I beheld, and, lo, in the midst of the throne and of the four beasts, and in the midst of the elders, stood a Lamb as it had been slain, having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven Spirits of God sent forth into all the earth.

7 And he came and took the book out of the right hand of him that sat upon the throne.

8 And when he had taken the book, the four beasts and four and twenty elders fell down before the Lamb, having every one of adorable perfections, does God manifest himself on his imperial throne! Yea, high are the honours to which his servants and people are exalted in connection with him, and profound their holy reverence and cordial their adoration of him. Faithful ministers ought to be filled with spiritual knowledge; and should be prudent, vigilant, courageous, laborious, compassionate, and active in the discharge of their office, and in the exercise of their gifts and graces, under the direction and assistance of the Holy Ghost. With diligent care should they lead the religion and worship of the churches, and unweariedly ascribe to God alone all the glories of Godhead, and of the works of creation, providence, and redemption.

CHAPTER V. Ver. 5. Sprung from the tribe of Judah, Jesus Christ is like a lion for strength, courage, and eminence, to maintain and defend his own property and tear asunder his enemies; and he is the Root of David, as in his divine nature, office, and character, he is the foundation and source of all the happiness and glory of his kingdom, typified by that of David. 6. His being represented as a slain Lamb, denotes him as an atoning Priest, the sacrifice for the sins of his people, and the food of their souls. His seven horns represent his full authority and almighty power, as a King to execute God's will, protecting and supporting his church, and pushing down their enemies. His seven eyes denote his infinite wisdom and knowledge, and his unmeasurable fulness of the Holy Ghost in all his gifts and graces, and his disposing of them to men, as the Prophet of his church. 8. Their harps denote the melody of their hearts and the charming notes of their praise. Their golden vials, cups, or censers, full of odours, are their prayers, proceeding from sanctified hearts, and acceptable to God through Christ's merits and intercession.

Ver. 1. A book written, &c. 'A book written within, — and, on the backside, sealed with seven seals.' This punctuation is adopted by Grotius, &c., and seems entitled to preference. — Sealed with seven seals. This book is to be understood as composed of seven successive sealed rolls, so that the loosing of each seal allowed a separate prophecy to be read. C.

Ver. 6. He 'that sat on the throne,' ch. 4. 2, was evidently Christ in glory. See ver. 9, 11. As such he held 'the book' of prophetic revelation in his 'right hand,' ch. 5. 1; but as 'the Lamb slain,' ch. 5. 6, he comes to 'take the book;' that is, the one is the emblem of Christ as Lord and King, the other the emblem of Christ as Priest and Prophet. C.

REFLECTIONS.—The events of providence, and the manifestations of God's favour, have and will take place in their orderly course. And it is a privilege and pleasure to have a proper acquaintance with the purposes of God here, to support us under our trials, till our happiness be perfected in eternal salvation. Very incapable are created beings to penetrate into them; and it is highly daring to pretend or attempt it. But comfortable is it to reflect that our promised Messiah has interposed between his Father and his church, and has applied himself to manifest and fulfil them. Transcendently wonderful and glorious is his person and character—at once infinitely majestic, awful, and mighty; and yet endearingly meek, and marked with an atoning death for our sins! Extensive are his power and authority, his wisdom and knowledge; and unbounded his fulness of the Holy Ghost, and his power of sending him to men. And ministers, saints, and even angels, delightfully triumph in and praise him for his work of redemption, equally as his Father. God forbid that my soul should be silent when so many are engaged in his praise.

CHAPTER VI. Ver. 1. These opened seals represent the fate of the Roman empire, but chiefly of the Christian church; and as they relate to events rather than periods, we must not imagine that what was signified by one was altogether finished when that which was signified by the next following began. While the white horse and his rider, ver. 2, may have some respect to the Roman victories gained by Vespasian, about A.D. 70, and Trajan, A.D. 110, under the providential direction of Christ, they chiefly represent Christ, as by the gospel, and the influences of the Holy Ghost attending it, conquering the nations to the obedience of faith, A.D. 33-66 and afterwards.—The red horse and his sword-bearing rider, ver. 4, represent the persecutions of the Christian church by the emperors Nero, Domitian, Trajan, and Adrian, between A.D. 66 and 138; and the terrible bloodshed in the Roman them harps, and golden vials<sup>5</sup> full of odours,<sup>6</sup> which are the prayers of saints.

9 And they sung a new song, saying, "Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof: for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood, out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation;

10 And<sup>t</sup> hast made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth.

11 And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many<sup>u</sup> angels round about the throne and the beasts and the elders: and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands;

12 Saying with a loud voice, "Worthy is the Lamb that was slain<sup>x</sup> to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing.

13 And<sup>y</sup> every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying,<sup>7</sup> Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power, be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever.

14 And<sup>z</sup> the four beasts said, Amen. And the four and twenty elders fell down and worshipped him that liveth for ever and ever.

CHAPTER VI.

<sup>1</sup> The opening of the seals in order, and what followed thereupon, containing a prophecy to the end of the world.

AND I saw when the Lamb<sup>a</sup> opened one of the seals; and I heard, as it were<sup>b</sup> the noise of thunder, one of the four beasts saying, Come and see.

2 And I saw, and behold<sup>a</sup> a white horse:<sup>1</sup> and<sup>e</sup> he that sat on him had a bow;<sup>2</sup> and a crown was given unto him: and he went forth conquering, and to conquer.<sup>3</sup>

3 And<sup>g</sup> when he had opened the second seal, I heard the<sup>h</sup> second beast say, Come and see.

4 And there went out<sup>i</sup> another horse<sup>that</sup> was red: and power was given to him that sat

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 90.

<sup>5</sup> Vials. Rather, 'cups,' 'basins,' or 'dishes,' used for holding certain sacrificial offerings.—C.

<sup>6</sup> Or, incense.
<sup>g</sup> ch. 14. 3. Ps. 96. 140.
3. Is. 42. 10; 44. 23.

<sup>7</sup> ch. 4. 11. He. 2. 10.
Phi. 2. 6-11. Ps. 110. 7.
<sup>8</sup> Mat. 20. 28; 26. 28.
Ro. 3. 25; 15. 21. 1 Co. 6. 20; 7. 23. Ep. 1. 7. Ac. 20. 28. He. 9. 12, 14; 10. 10, 14. 1 Pe. 1. 18, 19. Col. 1. 14. ch. 14. 4. 6. 1 Jn. 1. 7; 2. 2. ch. 7. 9, 14.

<sup>9</sup> Ex. 19. 6. 1 Pe. 2. 5, 9. ch. 1. 6, 20; 6. 22; 5. Ge. 32. 28. Ep. 2. 18. 1 Ju. 5. 4. Ro. 8. 37. Lu. 19. 17, 19.
<sup>10</sup> Da. 7. 10. De. 33. 2.
2 Ki. 6. 16, 17. Ps. 34. 7; 68. 17; 103. 20; 148. 2. He. 12. 22. ch. 7. 11; 4. 6.

<sup>11</sup> ver. 9. Zec. 13. 7. Is. 9. 6.

<sup>12</sup> ch. 4. 11; 7. 12; 19. 1. Jn. 17. 2. Mat. 28. 18. 2 Co. 8. 9. He. 1. 2; 2. 8, 9. Phi. 2. 10. Ps. 145. 10. 1 Ti. 1. 17. Jude 25.

<sup>13</sup> Ps. 96. 11, 12; xcvi. c. cxvii. cxlv. cxlviii. 1 Ch. 29. 11. Ro. 9. 5; 11. 36; 16. 27. Ga. 1. 5. Ep. 3. 21. Phi. 2. 10; 4. 20. Lu. 2. 14. 1 Ti. 6. 16; 2 Ti. 4. 18. He. 13. 21. 1 Pe. 4. 11. ch. 7. 10, 12. 2 Pe. 3. 18.

<sup>14</sup> And every creature, &c., heard I saying. That is, by prophetic anticipation—the Spirit calling up events that are yet to come, and exhibiting them as vividly as if they had already occurred.—C.

<sup>15</sup> ch. 4. 9, 10; 7. 10, 12; 19. 1, 4, 6, 14. He. 13. 8.

CHAP. VI.

<sup>a</sup> ch. 5. 5, 9; 1. 1.

<sup>b</sup> ch. 4. 5; 11. 19. 2 Th. 3. 1. Mar. 3. 17. 2 Co. 10. 4.

<sup>c</sup> He. 4. 12. Ac. 2. 37, 41; 4. 15. 14.

<sup>d</sup> ch. 4. 6. Ac. 4. 13. Ep. 6. 19, 20. Ac. 20. 24; 21. 13.

<sup>e</sup> ch. 19. 11. Zec. 1. 8, 10; 6. 2, 3. Ro. 1. 16.

<sup>f</sup> The horse is the prophetic emblem of war, Pr. 21. 31. Je. 6. 23.

<sup>g</sup> White, of divine service (2 Ch. 5. 12), of being purified (Is. 1. 18. Da. 12. 10), of joy (Ec. 9. 8), of angelic excellence (Mat. 28. 3), and of heavenly glory, Re. 3. 5.—C.

<sup>h</sup> Ps. 45. 3-5; 110. 2, 3. He. 2. 9. Zec. 6. 11. ch. 14. 14. Ro. 15. 19. 2 Co. 2. 14; 10. 4. 5. Ac. 1. 19. 1 Co. 15. 25.

<sup>i</sup> A horse. The power of unexpected judgments, Ps. 7. 12.—C.

<sup>j</sup> ch. 5. 5, 9.

<sup>k</sup> ch. 4. 6, 7. 2 Co. 6. 4.

<sup>l</sup> 5. 1 Co. 4. 9-13.

<sup>m</sup> Zec. 1. 8; 6. 2. ch. 12. 3. 4. Mat. 10. 17, 18, 34, 35; 24. 9. Jn. 16. 2, 33; 2 Ti. 3. 11, 12.

<sup>n</sup> Literally, 'conquering, and that he should conquer'—a description applicable to Christ alone, comp. ch. 19. 11-16. See Ps. 45. 3; consequently this seal does not cease at the opening of the second, but

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 90.

continues till 'all enemies shall be put under his feet,' and 'death shall be swallowed up in victory.'—C.

<sup>1</sup> ch. 5. 5, 9.
<sup>2</sup> ch. 4. 6, 7. Mat. 10. 16, 17. Ep. 5. 15-17. 1 Co. 14. 20.

<sup>3</sup> Zec. 6. 2, 6. Ge. 14. 1. 2. La. 4. 7, 8. Am. 8. 7, 8. 1 Sa. 3. 1. 1 Co. 11. 19. 2 Pe. 2. 7.

<sup>4</sup> Or yoke, Ga. 5. 1. Ac. 15. 10. Ps. 58. 2.

<sup>5</sup> The chariots contained near a pint and a half English.
<sup>6</sup> ch. 9. 4. Mat. 25. 4. Is. 55. 1.

<sup>7</sup> ch. 4. 6, 7; 12. 14.
<sup>8</sup> Or green, Mar. 6. 39, with Zec. 6. 3. ch. 20. 6, 14.

<sup>9</sup> The Greek word here translated 'hell' is Hades. Its primitive meaning is simply 'the unseen.' Among classic authors it is employed to signify Pluto, the mythological deity of the lower world; also the lower world itself; also death and the grave. It is used 65 times in the New Testament. In 31 it is translated 'grave,' in 31 'hell,' and in 3 'pit.' Yet it never signifies either hell or the grave. It means the state of the dead in general, without any restriction of happiness or misery, or any regard to place. It is the intermediate state between death and the resurrection of the body. Hades is here personified; the sense being that immediately after death the soul remains in a state of separation from the body.—P.

<sup>10</sup> Or, to him.

<sup>11</sup> All manner of calamities, temporal and spiritual, Je. 15. 2; 16. 4, 16. Eze. 5. 15-17; 14. 21. Le. 26. 22, 26. La. 5. 10. Eze. 4. 16.

<sup>12</sup> ch. 5. 5, 9.

<sup>13</sup> He. 9. 12, 14; 13. 10. ch. 8. 39, 13; 14. 18, with 1. 4, 7.

<sup>14</sup> ch. 1. 9; 12. 11, 17; 19. 10, 20. 4. Jn. 16. 2.

<sup>15</sup> Ge. 4. 10. He. 12. 24.

<sup>16</sup> Ps. 9. 12. 2 Pe. 2. 1, 3. ch. 16. 5, 6; 19. 2; 11. 18. Lu. 18. 8, 9. De. 32. 36-43. ver. 12-17. Zec. 1. 12. Job 24. 12.

<sup>17</sup> See ch. 3. 5; 7. 9, 14; 14. 13. Jude 24. Ep. 5. 27.

<sup>18</sup> He. 11. 40. Mat. 10. 17, 18, 34, 35. Jn. 16. 2. Ac. 14. 22. 2 Ti. 3. 12.

<sup>19</sup> Is. 13. 9, 10; 13. 34, 4; 29. 6, 7; 24. 23. Je. 4. 23. 24. Eze. 32. 7, 8. Joel 2. 2, 10, 30; 3. 15. Hag. 2. 6, 7, 21, 23. Mat. 24. 29. ch. 12. 13; 16. 18. Ac. 2. 20.

<sup>20</sup> ch. 8. 10.

<sup>21</sup> The sun—moon—stars—the heavens—are the prophetic emblems of the different orders of rulers, whether supreme or subordinate, Is. 13. 10.—C.

<sup>22</sup> Or, green figs.

thercon to take peace from the earth, and that they should kill one another: and there was given unto him a great sword.

5 And when<sup>j</sup> he had opened the third seal, I heard the<sup>k</sup> third beast say, Come and see. And I beheld, and, lo, a black horse; and he that sat on him had a pair<sup>l</sup> of balances in his hand.

6 And I heard a voice in the midst of the four beasts say, A measure<sup>5</sup> of wheat for a penny, and three measures of barley for a penny; and<sup>n</sup> see thou hurt not the oil and the wine.

7 And when he had opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of<sup>o</sup> the fourth beast say, Come and see.

8 And I looked, and behold a pale<sup>6</sup> horse; and his name that sat on him was Death, and Hell<sup>7</sup> followed with him. And power was given unto them<sup>8</sup> over the fourth part of the earth, to kill with sword, and with hunger, and with death, and with the beasts of the earth.<sup>9</sup>

9 And when<sup>p</sup> he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under the<sup>q</sup> altar the souls of them<sup>r</sup> that were slain for the word of God, and for the testimony which they held:

10 And<sup>s</sup> they cried with a loud voice, saying, 'How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth?'

11 And<sup>t</sup> white robes were given unto every one of them; and it was said unto them, that they should rest yet for a little season, until<sup>u</sup> their fellow-servants also and their brethren, that should be killed as they<sup>v</sup> were, should be fulfilled.

12 And I beheld when he had opened the sixth seal, and, lo, there was a great earthquake; and the sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as blood; empire in the Jewish, Parthian, and other wars.—The black horse and his rider with a pair of balances, ver. 5, 6, may represent the church as corrupted with manifold errors, through which, and the more apparently legal persecutions of Aurelius about A.D. 160, and Severus about 202, was occasioned no small scarcity of pure gospel ordinances. To punish which, the Lord plagued the Roman empire with terrible famines during the reigns of the two Antonines and Severus, about A.D. 140, 162, 200.—The pale horse with death and hell for his riders, represent the church as awfully corrupted with error and apostasy, and her members dreadfully murdered in the persecutions by Maximin, 235, Valerian, 256, Aurelian, 272, and especially by Decius, 250, and the just punishment thereof on the Roman empire in the terrible tyranny of their emperors between 235 and 284, and their frequent murdering one of another; the desolating ravages of the Allemans, Goths, Quadians, Parthians, and others; and a terrible pestilence, of fifteen years' continuance, which almost half-desolated the whole Roman empire, about 252. And so accustomed were dogs and other ravenous animals to live on the unburied carcasses, that they sometimes fell upon and destroyed the living. The fifth seal, ver. 9-11, represents the souls of such as had been slain for their adherence to Christ's cause in the preceding persecutions, as enjoying rest and happiness through and with him in heaven, and as crying for vengeance on the heathen persecuting empire, but required to wait till their fellow-Christians should be also murdered in the terrible Dioclesian persecution, A.D. 302-312. The sixth seal, ver. 12-17, represents the dreadful consternation, confusion, and fearful ruin of the heathen emperors and their armies, and of the idolatrous priests, with their idolatries and superstitions, when Constantine the Great successfully warred against them, commenced a Christian himself, abolished heathenism, and established the Christian religion in its stead. [See Introduction, ch. iv. sect. xviii. xix.]

13 And the<sup>w</sup> stars of heaven<sup>1</sup> fell unto the earth, even as a fig-tree casteth her untimely figs,<sup>2</sup> when she is shaken of a mighty wind.

Ver. 4. Red, being the colour of the dragon, ch. 12. 3, is an emblem of satanic disposition and bloodshed. See Jn. 8. 44. As there is no note of time between the going forth of the first rider and of the second, is it not natural to conclude that the visions are not of consecutive, but of contemporaneous events? And is not the second rider the persecuting Roman empire, which became so soon 'red' with the blood of the saints, which, transformed into the Papacy, hounded the crusaders against the unoffending Waldenses, established the unhallowed Inquisition, persecuted to the death so many of the blessed Protestant Reformers, and, though providentially restrained, still continues to cherish the same spirit of relentless intolerance. See Dens' Theology, and McGhee's Laws of the Papacy. C.

Ver. 5. Black is the prophetic emblem of national calamity (Je. 14. 2), despair (Joel 2. 6), and the final ruin of impenitent sinners, Jude 13. C.

Ver. 8. Pale. A sickly hue, verging either to green or yellow, the prophetic emblem of fear, Je. 30. 5, 6.—Death. The mark of a church 'carnally-minded,' which 'is death,' Ro. 8. 6.—Beasts. False teachers, 'grievous wolves,' Ac. 20. 29. C.

Ver. 11. Inasmuch as the number of martyrs for Christ's cause has not yet been 'fulfilled,' it follows that the 'rest' conceded cannot have closed with any period already past, but will continue until the final destruction of the antichristian power. C.

Ver. 12. An 'earthquake' is the prophetic emblem of an extraordinary and unexpected shaking and overturning of an empire, Is. 13. 13, and which, according to the circumstances, may affect either the ecclesiastical or civil rulers. C.

Ver. 14. Mountains, when conjoined with the enemies of Christ, are the prophetic emblems of heathen, infidel, and apostatical obstructions to the progress of the gospel, Is. 40. 4; 49. 11.—Every island is, most probably, in this prophecy, the emblem of every place of penal banishment employed by despotic and antichristian powers. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Orderly arranged are all the events of Providence; and gospel ministers ought carefully to observe them, and call their hearers to do the same. Glorious are the spread and conquests of the gospel when Christ rides forth on it with his gracious influence. Great are the trials of faith and patience, even unto death, which his people are sometimes called to suffer for their faithful attachment to his truths and interests. But it is enough if he support and encourage them under their troubles, and at last, through his righteousness, render them partakers of the purity, peace, and honour of the heavenly state.—While his 14 And <sup>a</sup>the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; <sup>a</sup>and every mountain and island were moved out of their places.

15 And <sup>b</sup>the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bond-man, and every free-man, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains;

16 And <sup>c</sup>said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb:

17 For <sup>d</sup>the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand?

CHAPTER VII.

3 An angel sealeth the servants of God in their foreheads. 4 The number of them that were sealed: of the tribes of Israel a certain number. 9 Of all other nations an innumerable multitude, which stand before the throne, clad in white robes, and palms in their hands. 14 Their robes were washed in the blood of the Lamb.

AND after <sup>a</sup>these things<sup>1</sup> I saw <sup>b</sup>four angels standing on the four corners of the earth, holding <sup>c</sup>the four winds of the earth, that the wind should not blow on the earth, nor on the sea, nor on any tree.

2 And I saw another angel<sup>2</sup> ascending from the east, <sup>a</sup>having the seal of the living God: and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels, <sup>e</sup>to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea,

3 Saying, <sup>g</sup>Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have <sup>h</sup>sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads.<sup>3</sup>

4 And I heard the number<sup>4</sup> of them which were sealed: <sup>i</sup>and there were sealed an hundred and forty and four thousand of all the tribes of the children of Israel.

5 Of the tribe of Judah were sealed twelve thousand.<sup>5</sup> Of the tribe of Reuben were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Gad were sealed twelve thousand.

6 Of the tribe of Aser were sealed twelve

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 90.

z Ps. 102.26. 1s. 34.4.
a Je. 51.25; 3.25; 4.23.
24. Hab. 3.6. 10. 1s. 2. 14.
17 ch. 16. 20. Ho. 4. 13.
b Ps. 76. 12; 49. 8; 110.
5. 6. 1s. 2. 12, 19.
c Is. 30. 31. Ho. 10. 8.
Je. 8. 3. Lu. 23. 30. Job 3.
21. ch. 9. 6.
d ver. 10. Ge. 3. 15; 49.
9. 10. De. 32. 30-43. Ps. 2.
92. 1. 8-12; 110. 5. 6; 76. 7.
Mat. 24. 44; 26. 64. 1s. 13.
6-11. Zep. 1. 14. ch. 10.
14.

CHAP. VII.

a ch. iv.-vi.
1 After these things.
That is, after the vision of 'the great earthquake' (ch. 6. 12, &c.), not after the events represented. Comp. ch. 4. 1.—C. b Ps. 34. 7. He. 2. 14.
c Ep. 4. 14. Da. 7. 2; 8.
8. 1s. 27. 8. Je. 49. 36, 37;
51. 2; 41. 11, 12.
2 Christ, Ac. 7. 30, 32.
ch. 1. 13; 10. 18. 3. Mal.
4. 2. Eze. 44. 2; 3. 46. 9. 10.
d Jn. 6. 27; 3. 34; 7. 37-
39. Ep. 1. 13; 4. 30. 2 Ti. 2.
19. Jn. 10. 14.
e ver. 1, 3; ch. 8. 7-12.
f ch. 6. 6; 9. 4. 1s. 27. 8;
65. 8. Ps. 76. 10. Mat.
24. 22.
g Eze. 9. 4. ch. 14. 1-4; 22. 4. 2 Ti. 2. 19. Ep. 1.
13; 4. 30. 2 Co. 1. 22. Ca.
1. 11. Ga. 5. 22, 23. Ex.
12. 13, 23.
3 See note * below.
4 The number is not to be taken literally as if 144,000 and no more were to be thus sealed. But there is conveyed in it the cheering truth, that the Lord knows marks, and will finally take to glory his own.
Their full number shall be preserved; not one shall be lost. Each section of the church—small or great, shall furnish its own elect band. The greatest and most distinguished on earth shall not be specially favoured; and the most obscure shall not be overlooked.—P. i ch. 14. 1. Ge. 15. 5.
Eze. 13. 9. 1s. 4. 2, 3. Ps.
87. 6. Ac. 2. 41; 4. 4; 5. 14;
6. 7. Ro. 11. 5, 7, 16. Eze.
xlvii. xlviii. Ge. 32. 28.
5 Dan and Ephraim are not mentioned, because they had been ringleaders in idolatry, Ju. xvii. xviii.
1 Ki. 12. 28-33. Ho. 4. 17.
* This sealing on 'the forehead' seems to be an allusion to the inscription, 'HOLINESS TO THE LORD,' which Moses was commanded to

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 90.

engrave, and Aaron always to wear on his forehead, Ex. 38.
36-38. Here the seal bore 'the Father's name.' See ch. 14. 1.
See also Jn. 6. 27. 1 Co.
1. 22. Ep. 1. 13; 4. 30; and from Eze. 9. 4 it will appear that the sealed are those true penitents 'who sigh and cry' for the sins of the nations and the churches.—C. f Ge. 12. 3; 22. 18; 49.
10. Ps. 2. 8; 22. 27-31; xlv.
xlvii. lvi. lxxii. lxxiii. lxxxvii. c. 110. 2, 3. 1s. 2.
2. 3; 43. 6; 49. 12-26; 52.
15; 53. 12; lx. lxii. 25. 6.
Je. 3. 17. Zec. 8. 22; 2. 11.
Ro. 11. 25; 15. 9-12. ch. 5.
9; 11. 15.
g ch. 6. 11; 5. 10; 1. 5, 6;
3. 4, 5, 18; ver. 14; ch. 14.
4; 15. 2. Le. 23. 40. Ps. 92.
13, 14. 2 Ps. 3. 18.

h The palm grows
by the water springs, lofty, straight, and fruitful. Among the Jews it was the emblem of joy, Le. 23. 40.
Jn. 12. 13.—C.

i ch. 19. 1. Zec. 4. 7.
Ps. 3. 8; 115. 1. 1s. 43. 11.
Je. 3. 23. Ho. 13. 4, 9, 11.
Ac. 4. 12. ch. 5. 9, 10. Jn.
1. 29, 36. Ep. 1. 3-11.

n ch. 5. 11, 12. Ps. 34.
7; 103. 20; 148. 2.

7 Worshipped God
—even Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.
Amen.—C.

o ch. 5. 12-14; 19. 1.
Jude 25. 1 Ch. 29. 10-13.
Mat. 6. 13. 1 Ti. 1. 17.

p ch. 5. 5; 4. 10.

q ch. 15. 2; 13. 7; 6. 9-11. Jn. 16. 33. Ac. 14. 22.

8 These are they which came out of great tribulation, &c.
They are, therefore,
multitudes though they be, not all the redeemed, but the persecuted and the martyred of all ages, thus (see ch. 6. 9-11)
now exhibited, not
'under the altar,' as it were, of sacrifice, but 'before the throne,' in the glory of heaven, for the encouragement of God's suffering people of all generations on the earth. See ver. 15.—C.

r 1s. 1. 18. Zec. 3. 3-5.
1 Co. 6. 11. He. 9. 14; 10.
10. Ro. 5. 9. Ep. 5. 25-27.
1 Jn. 1. 7. ch. 1. 5, 6.

s Ps. 134. 1, 2. ch. 21. 3.
4; 22. 3-5. 1s. 4. 5, 6. 2 Co.
6. 16.

9 He that sitteth on the throne is the Father with the Lamb
—both sit, ch. 3. 21.
Here 'he that sitteth on the throne' is the Son, 'the Lamb,' of whom it is said 'he shall dwell among them.' See ver. 17. Jn.
1. 14, and comp. ch. 21.
3-7.—C.

thousand. Of the tribe of Nephthalim were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Manasses were sealed twelve thousand.

7 Of the tribe of Simeon were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Levi were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Issachar were sealed twelve thousand.

8 Of the tribe of Zabulon were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Joseph were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Benjamin were sealed twelve thousand.

9 After this I beheld, and, lo, <sup>a</sup>a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, <sup>b</sup>clothed with white robes, and palms<sup>6</sup> in their hands;

10 And <sup>c</sup>cried with a loud voice, saying, Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb.

11 And <sup>d</sup>all the angels stood round about the throne, and <sup>e</sup>about the elders and the four beasts, and fell before the throne on their faces, and worshipped God,<sup>7</sup>

12 Saying, <sup>g</sup>Amen: Blessing, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honour, and power, and might, <sup>h</sup>be unto our God for ever and ever. Amen.

13 And <sup>i</sup>one of the elders answered, saying unto me, What are these which are arrayed in white robes? and whence came they?

14 And I said unto him, Sir, thou knowest. And he said to me, These are they <sup>j</sup>which came out of great tribulation,<sup>8</sup> and <sup>k</sup>have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.

15 Therefore are they <sup>l</sup>before the throne of God, and serve him day and night in his temple: and he that sitteth on the throne<sup>9</sup> shall dwell among them.

church languishes in her spiritual, or even external condition, persecuted, and bereaved of pure gospel ordinances, and of eminent ministers and Christians, by terrible wars, famines, pestilences, and a miserable dissolution of their long-established civil constitutions, he punishes her persecutors. No place, no difference of rank, can screen from his just wrath.—How dreadful, then, must be the last judgment and the damnation of hell!

CHAPTER VII. Ver. 1. The holding in of the winds for a time denotes the restraint of the Arian, Macedonian, Pelagian, Eutychian, and other errors which afterwards plagued the church; and the restraint of the fearful judgments that troubled and ruined the Roman empire which took place under the trumpets; till many souls were gathered to Jesus, and established in the faith by the Holy Ghost, during the last fifteen years of Constantine's reign, A.D. 323-337. 2, 3. Christ is the sealing Angel who seals his people. He has divine power and authority from his Father over angels and every other creature; he has all fulness of the Spirit dwelling in him; he knows who are his, and can distinguish, preserve, and appropriate them to himself as his peculiar people, and enable them boldly to profess his truths. 5-8. These sealed ones are represented as Hebrew tribes, because typified by the ancient Israelites, and begotten to God by the doctrine of the twelve apostles. 9-17. These verses represent the joy, purity, safety, and happiness of the souls in the heavenly state—of those that had suffered under the heathen persecutions; while no more than a short calm, succeeded by fearful storms of troubles, should take place on earth; and the joy, purity, safety, and happiness of the successors of such as had been persecuted by heathens and papists during the thousand years' reign of the saints; and, in fine, the complete joy, purity, safety, and happiness of all the redeemed, after the last judgment, through all eternity.—As ch. xx. xxi. xxii. [See Introduction, ch. v.]

Ver. 4. The 'hundred and forty and four thousand' is an arithmetical representation of the literal Israel converted to Christ, because Israel, as descended in the line of promise (Ge. 17. 19; Ga. 3. 16), was a numbered people (see Ex. 12. 37; Nu. 1. 2-4, 46)—numbered for sake of their genealogies, privileges, hopes, and possessions—emblems of the elect of God; and are thus contrasted with the Gentile converts 'whom no man could number.' But 'the Lord knoweth them that are his,' 2 Ti. 2. 19. C.

Ver. 9. After this. Literally, 'after these things'—the note of a new vision (see ch. 4. 1; 7. 1), that of the Jewish and Gentile martyrs, as the preceding was of the sealed Jewish converts.—Note. This sealing seems to open another vision which does not follow the sixth seal in order of time, but returns to represent Christianity at its origin under a new aspect—that of safety in the election of grace and sealing of the Spirit. This conclusion is drawn from the description of the sealed ones (ch. 14. 4) as 'the first-fruits to God and the Lamb.' C.

REFLECTIONS.—With tender care Jesus grants his people seasonable respite from trouble, lest they should utterly faint. For their sakes he often averts his judgments from the nations, in which they are permitted to live in peace and safety. And marvellously, even in the worst of times, he converts and preserves multitudes to own, honour, worship, and obey him. The expected glories of heaven ought powerfully to animate the saints to faithfulness in his cause. There all their labours and sufferings shall be abundantly compensated; there shall they be perfectly free from sin and from misery; a fulness of happiness and joy, pure and glorious appearances, and immediate fellowship with Christ and his Father, shall cause them to triumph in his praise.—But not to their care or goodness, but to God alone be the glory! Their whole salvation is owing to Jehovah's grace and to Jesus' merits: even their best works are not acceptable to God but through the blood of his Son.

CHAPTER VIII. Ver. 1. The half hour's silence in heaven may either denote the awful expectation of what was to follow, or the short calm during the last fifteen years of Constantine's reign, A.D. 323-337. 2, 6. The sounding of the trumpets supposes a church to hear the alarm, and denotes threatening appearances of fearful calamities. 3, 4. Christ's being here represented as standing at the golden altar, and offering up the prayers of his saints, imports that it is only through his merits and intercession that the prayers of saints are heard, for their own protection, or the punishment of their implacable enemies. 5. His casting a censer full of burning coals from off the brazen altar upon the 16 They<sup>t</sup> shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more; neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat.

17 For the Lamb, which is in the midst of the throne, "shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters: "and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.

CHAPTER VIII.

1 At the opening of the seventh seal, 2 seven angels had seven trumpets given them. 6 Four of them sound their trumpets, and great plagues follow. 3 Another angel putteth incense to the prayers of the saints on the golden altar.

AND when he had opened the "seventh seal, there was <sup>b</sup>silence in heaven about the space of half an hour.

2 And I saw the "seven <sup>d</sup>angels which stood before God; and to them were given seven trumpets.<sup>e</sup>

3 And another angel<sup>1</sup> came and <sup>g</sup>stood at the altar, having a golden censer; and there was given unto him <sup>h</sup>much incense, that he should offer <sup>i</sup>it with the prayers<sup>2</sup> of all saints upon the golden altar which was before the throne.

4 And<sup>i</sup> the smoke of the incense, <sup>which</sup> came with the prayers of the saints, ascended up before God out of the angel's hand.

5 And the angel took the censer, <sup>and</sup> filled it with fire of the altar, and cast <sup>it</sup> into<sup>3</sup> the earth: <sup>and</sup> there were voices, and thunderings, and lightnings, and an earthquake.

6 And the seven angels which had the seven trumpets prepared themselves to sound.

7 The first angel sounded, and there followed <sup>hail</sup> and fire mingled with blood, and they were cast upon the earth: "and the third part of trees was burnt up, and all green grass was burnt up.<sup>5</sup>

8 And the second angel sounded, "and as it were a great mountain burning with fire was cast into the sea: and the third part of the sea became blood;

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

1 Is. 49. 9, 10. Ps. 121. 6.
Mat. 13. 6, 21. Ca. 1. 6.
Is. 4. 6; 32. 2; 25. 4.
2 Ps. 23. 1, 2, 5; 36. 8.
Is. 25. 6, 8; 40. 11. Jn. 10.
10. 11; 14. 14; 38. Is. 12. 3;
49. 9, 10.
3 Is. 25. 8; 30. 19; 35.
10; 51. 11; 60. 20. ch. 21.
4.

CHAP. VIII.

a ch. 5. 1.
b Job 4. 16, with ch. 7.
10, or Is. 54. 13, 14. Ps.
119. 165.
c ch. 1. 4, 11; 11. 15; 1;
vi. ver. 1; ch. 15. 1, 7, 8;
xvi.
d ch. 7. 1, 2; 15. 7, 8; viii.
xi. xvi. Mat. 18. 10. Lu.
1. 19.
e Nu. 10. 9, 10. 2 Ch.
29. 25-28. Je. 6. 1; 4. 19.
Am. 3. 6, 7.
f Christ, ch. 7. 2; 10.
1. Ac. 7. 30, 32.
g Ex. 30. 7. 1 Ki. 7. 50.
ch. 5. 8; 6. 9; 9. 13; 14. 18.
He. 13. 10; 9. 24; 7. 25.
Ro. 8. 24.
h Mat. 20. 28. Ep. 5. 2;
1. 6, 7; 25-27.
i Or, add it to the prayers.

j Ex. 30. 1, 7. Ps. 141.
2. Lu. 1. 10. Ac. 10. 4, 31.
Is. 58. 6; 65. 24.
k Eze. 10. 2. Lu. 12.
49. Mat. 10. 34. Eze. 23. 29;
51. 11. Is. 66. 14-16.
De. 32. 41-43. Eze. 10. 6, 7.
l Or, upon.
m ch. 4. 5; 11. 19; 16. 18.
Is. 30. 30; xxiv. xxxiv.
Ps. 18. 13. Je. 25. 30. 2
Sa. 22. 7-9.
n Ex. 9. 24, 25. Is. 30.
30; 28. 21, 29; 6. 32. 19. Eze.
38. 22, 23. ch. 16. 21. Ps.
11. 5, 6; 18. 13.

o The imagery of
"the hail," &c., appears to be taken from Ex. 9. 13-18, 22-25, and indicates judgments upon the imperial oppressors who enslaved the church, and refused to Christians the liberty of worshipping God according to his command, and their own consciences. The "blood" being added to the plague of hail, indicates a judgment
by destructive wars.
See also Eze. 38. 22.
—C.

p Is. 12. 13; 40. 7. ch.
16. 2; ver. 9, 10, 12, with
ch. 9. 4. Zec. 13. 8, 9.

q Green grass burned up, represents a prosperous people reduced to servitude and misery. See Is.
40. 6, 7. 1 Pe. 1. 24. Ja. 1.
10.—C.

r Je. 51. 25. Da. 7. 3.
ch. 16. 3. Am. 7. 4. Ex. 7.
17-21.

s Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a succession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

t Incense. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

u Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

v Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

w Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

x Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

y Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

z Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

aa Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

ab Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

ac Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

ad Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

ae Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

af Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

ag Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

ah Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

ai Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

aj Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

ak Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

al Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

am Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

an Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

ao Star. An eminent
teacher, personifying
(see ch. 1. 20) a suc-
cession of teachers in
the church, such as
the Gnostics, Valen-
tians, Ebionites,
Cerinthians, Ari-
ans, &c.—C.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

p Zec. 13. 8. Is. 2. 16.
ch. 18. 19; 16. 3; ver. 7, 10, 12.
q Is. 14. 12-25. Jude
13. ch. 1. 20; 9. 16, 13; 12.
4. Is. 14. 12; 19. 4, 8. Ho.
13. 15, 16. Ex. 7. 20, 21.
r See note * in first column.

s Heaven here signifies heaven above
(ver. 2), to which John was admitted by vision, or transported in spirit; in which he saw in emblem
the history of the church of Christ on earth, whose "conversation is in heaven," Phil. 3. 20.—C.

t Lamp. A spiritual profession—here without reality, Mat.
25. 8. ch. 4. 5.—C.

u Rivers and fountains. Gospel ordinances—educational institutions—the pulpit, the college, and the school.—C.

v De. 29. 18. Am. 6. 12;
5. 7; 8. 10. He. 12. 15. Je.
15. 23. 15. Ex. 15. 23.
Ru. 1. 20.

w Is. 13. 10. Je. 4. 23.
Eze. 32. 7, 8. Joel. 2. 10.
Am. 8. 9. Ex. 10. 21, 23.
ch. 16. 8, 9, or Mal. 4. 2, 2.
Pe. 1. 19. ch. 1. 20, with 2 Co. 4. 4. 2 Ti. 3. 1-5. 2
Th. 2. 9-11.

x Ps. 103. 20. He. 1. 14,
with ch. 1. 20; 14. 6; 19.
17. Am. 3. 6, 7.
y Am. 9. 1, 12; ch. 11.
14.

CHAP. IX.

a ch. 8. 2, 7, 8, 10, 11.
Lu. 10. 18.
b ch. 8. 10. Is. 14. 12, with ch. 1. 20. 1 Ti. 4. 1-3. 2 Th. 2. 3, 8. 2 Ti. 3. 1-5.

c ch. 13. 2, with 1. 18.
Mat. 16. 19.
d Lu. 8. 31. ch. 17. 8;
20. 1, 10; ver. 2, 11.

e Ge. 19. 28. Ex. 10. 21,
23. ch. 8. 12; 16. 8-10. 2
Th. 2. 9-11. 1 Ti. 4. 1-3. 2
Ti. 4. 3, 4. Mat. 24. 24. Is.
14. 31. Ps. 18. 8.

f Smoke. Lies in hypocrisy (1 Ti. 4. 2.
Jn. 8. 44), whereby truth is darkened, and men deceived into perdition, 2 Th. 2.
11.—C.

g Ex. 10. 4, 15. Joel. 1.
4; 2. 11. 2 Ti. 4. 3; 3. 1-6.

h ver. 10, 11; ch. 13. 1,
2, 7, 12-16; 17. 2. Da. 7. 8, 11, 20, 21; 11. 36-39.

i Scorpions. The prophetic emblems of a people rebelling against divine government, speaking evil of spiritual digni-ties (Eze. 2. 6. 2 Pe. 2.
10. Jude 8), and poisoning the victims of their vanity, hypocrisy, and depravity.—C.

j ch. 7. 3; 6. 6. Mat. 24.
24. 1 Pe. 3. 13. Ps. 72. 16;
110. 3. Is. 3. 10. Eze. 9. 4.
Ex. 12. 23.

9 And "the third part of the creatures which were in the sea, and had life, died; and the third part of the ships were destroyed.

10 And the third angel sounded, and there "fell a great star<sup>6</sup> from heaven,<sup>7</sup> burning as it were a lamp,<sup>8</sup> and it fell upon the third part of the rivers, and upon the fountains<sup>9</sup> of waters:

11 And the name of the star is called "Worm-wood: and the third part of the waters became wormwood; and many men died of the waters, because they were made bitter.

12 And the fourth angel sounded, "and the third part of the sun was smitten, and the third part of the moon, and the third part of the stars; so as the third part of them was darkened, and the day shone not for a third part of it, and the night likewise.

13 And I beheld, and heard "an angel flying through the midst of heaven, saying with a loud voice, "Woe, woe, woe to the inhabitants of the earth, by reason of the other voices of the trumpet of the three angels, which are yet to sound!

CHAPTER IX.

1 At the sounding of the fifth angel, a star falleth from heaven, to whom is given the key of the bottomless pit. 2 He openeth the pit, and there come forth locusts like scorpions. 12 The first woe past. 13 The sixth trumpet soundeth. 13 Four angels are let loose, that were bound.

AND the <sup>a</sup>fifth angel sounded, and I saw <sup>b</sup>a star fall from heaven unto the earth: and <sup>c</sup>to him was given the key of the <sup>d</sup>bottomless pit.

2 And he opened the bottomless pit; and <sup>e</sup>there arose a smoke<sup>1</sup> out of the pit, as the smoke of a great furnace; and the sun and the air were darkened by reason of the smoke of the pit.

3 And there came out of the smoke <sup>f</sup>locusts upon the earth: <sup>h</sup>and unto them was given power, as the scorpions<sup>2</sup> of the earth have power.

4 And it was commanded them that they <sup>i</sup>should not hurt the grass of the earth, neither earth, denotes his furious infliction of fearful but just judgments on the Roman empire, which had so corrupted the Christian faith, worship, and manners; and the terrible tempest which followed, denotes the fearful and alarming calamities which his wrath produced. 7-12. The hail and fire mingled with blood cast upon the earth under the first trumpet, may denote the schism of the Donatists, and especially the prevalence of the Arian heresy, with the dreadful contentions, bloody persecutions, and destruction of souls thereby produced in the church; the bloody wars between Constantine's sons and the different usurpers; and the barbarous ravages of the Goths and others in the empire, A.D. 338-379. The burning mountain cast into the sea, under the second trumpet, may denote the terrible contentions about precedence in the church, and the bloody persecutions raised by bishops against one another, which banished lively religion from among all ranks in the church; and the terrible ravages of the empire in France and Spain by the Goths and Vandals; the repeated ravages of Italy by the Goths under Rhodagais and Alaric, and the burning of Rome by the latter, A.D. 308-412. The flaming star called worm-wood falling on and poisoning the rivers and fountains, may denote the Nestorian and Eutychian errors, but especially the Pelagian heresy, corrupting the doctrines of Christ to the spiritual and eternal ruin of multitudes in the church; the ravages of the Huns under Attila, and the ravages of Italy by the Vandals under Genseric in 455, and of the Goths, Heruli, and others under Odoacer, who, about 476, twice took and plundered Rome, deposed Augustulus the last emperor, and established a kingdom of his own, A.D. 413-492. The darkening of the sun, moon, and stars, under the fourth trumpet, denotes the introduction of superstition, along with Pelagian and Semipelagian errors, till the Scripture was quite obscured, and ordinances and ministers quite corrupted, in the church; and the terrible wars between Justinian the Greek emperor and the Goths, and the fearful pestilences and famines that attended them, which issued in depriving Rome of all its remains of ancient power and authority, and rendering it subject to the exarchate of Ravenna, A.D. 493-568.

Ver. 3. The imagery of the angel with the "golden censer," "incense," and "fire off the altar," seems to be taken from the high-priest on the day of expiation, Le. 16. 12, 29-34; and the angel who presents "the prayers of the saints" can be no other than "the angel of the covenant," "the angel of the Lord," our great "High-priest" in heaven, who "ever liveth to make intercession" for his church, and is now "waiting till his enemies be made his footstool." C.

Ver. 5. The fire being cast "into the earth"—the Jewish state and Roman empire—intimates a prophetic transition from ecclesiastical to civil affairs. See ver. 7. C.

Ver. 8. The only mountain mentioned in Scripture as "burning with fire" is Sinai, Ex. 19. 18; 24. 17; De. 4. 11; 5. 23-26; and consequently seems to be the prophetic emblem of the divine word falling as a judgment upon the mingled nations of the Roman empire, because of their hatred of truth and love of idolatry. Like Pharaoh's, their hearts were hardened by the gospel message, and like Pharaoh they were punished by war, pestilence, and the destruction of their commerce. See Mat. 10. 34-36; Da. 2. 34, 35. C.

REFLECTIONS.—The peaceful periods of the church on earth are ordinarily but very short. But infinite is the mercy that Jesus perpetually stands before his Father's throne making intercession for his people, and offering up their prayers with acceptance, on the ground of his own finished and meritorious righteousness; and that though the most fearful judgments be inflicted on nations and churches for the contempt of him, they are all regulated according to his and his people's requests. He loudly warns men before he severely strikes them. But if once his wrath begin to burn, dreadful are his judgments on both churches and states. And terrible, but still limited, storms and floods of his just vengeance come one after another. Never dare my soul to condemn or refuse him; never dare to live carnally and earthly; never dare to provoke him to jealousy. Am I stronger than he?

CHAPTER IX. Ver. 1. The falling star, to whom was given the key of the bottomless pit, may denote Boniface III. of Rome, who, by flattering Phocas, an almost infernal emperor, about A.D. 606, obtained an imperial edict by which he was declared universal bishop of the church; and Mahomet, who, about the same time, pretended a journey to heaven to fetch thence his delusions; both of whom were divinely empowered to plague mankind, and had the assistance of hell to promote their schemes. 2. The darkening smoke rising from hell imports the terrible ignorance, superstition, any green thing, neither any tree;<sup>3</sup> but only those men which have not the seal of God in their foreheads.

5 And<sup>k</sup> to them it was given that they should not kill them, but that they should be tormented five months: and their torment was as the torment of a scorpion, when he striketh a man.

6 And<sup>l</sup> in those days shall men seek death, and shall not find it; and shall desire to die, and death shall flee from them.

7 And<sup>n</sup> the shapes of the locusts were like unto horses prepared unto battle; and on their heads were as it were crowns like gold, and their <sup>o</sup>faces were as the faces of men.

8 And they had <sup>p</sup>hair as the hair of women, and their <sup>q</sup>teeth were as the teeth of lions.

9 And<sup>r</sup> they had breastplates, as it were breastplates of iron; and the <sup>s</sup>sound of their wings was as the sound of chariots of many horses running to battle.

10 And they had <sup>t</sup>tails like unto scorpions, and there were stings in their tails: and their power was to hurt men five months.

11 And they had <sup>u</sup>a king over them, which is the angel of the bottomless pit, whose name in the Hebrew tongue is Abaddon,<sup>4</sup> but in the Greek tongue hath his name Apollyon.<sup>4</sup>

12 One<sup>v</sup> woe is past; and, behold, there come two woes more hereafter.

13 And<sup>w</sup> the sixth angel sounded, and I heard a <sup>y</sup>voice from the four horns of the golden altar which is before God,

14 Saying to the sixth angel which had the trumpet, Loose <sup>z</sup>the four angels<sup>5</sup> which are bound in the great river Euphrates.<sup>6</sup>

15 And<sup>a</sup> the four angels were loosed, which were prepared for<sup>7</sup> an hour,<sup>8</sup> and a day, and a month, and a year, for to slay the third part<sup>9</sup> of men.<sup>1</sup>

16 And the <sup>b</sup>number of the army of the horsemen were <sup>c</sup>two hundred thousand thousand: and <sup>d</sup>I heard the number of them.

17 And thus I saw the horses in the vision, and them that sat on them, having breastplates of fire, and of jacinth, and brimstone: and <sup>e</sup>the heads of the horses were as the heads of lions: and out of their mouths issued fire and smoke and brimstone.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

3 Believers, humble as the 'grass'—living as the 'green' herb—rooted in faith as the lofty 'tree.'—C.
7 Ex. 12.23,29. Job 2.6. Eze. 9.4,6, with ch. 7.3,4; 14.1. Ep. 4.30.
8 Da. 11.40, or ver. 7.8,20,21; 11.36. 2 Ti. 3.1-5. ch. 13.2,7,16,17; xvii. 1 Is. 2. 19. ch. 6. 16. Job 3. 21; 7. 15. Je. 8.3. Ho. 10.8. Lu. 23.30.
9 Joel 2.4; 1. 4,6. Je. 5.8. Na. 3.17.
10 Ep. 4. 14. 1 Sa. 4. 9. Da. 7.4,8.
11 Is. 3.24.
12 Ps. 57.4. Joel 1.6; 2.5,6. Mi. 3:5.
13 ch. 17.13; 13.2.
14 Na. 2.4. Joel 2.5. ch. 13.5. Da. 8.7,11.
15 Is. 9. 5. Ep. 4.14. 2 Th. 2.9-11. ver. 5.
16 Ep. 2.2. Da. 11.36-39; 8.11,20,21,24,25. 2 Th. 2. 3, 4. 8. ch. xiii. xvii. 1,7.
17 That is, destruction, and a destroyer of both Jews and Gentiles.
18 ch. 8.13; 11.14.
19 ch. 8.2,7-9,12; ver. 1.
20 ch. 8.3,5; 14. 14,18. Mat. 28.18. Ep. 1.20,22. Pr. 8.15,16. Ex. 30.1,6.
21 Ge. 2.14. Je. 51.63. Da. 11.40-43, with ch. 16.12.
22 Four angels. The spirits of the four empires—the Assyrian, Medo-Persian, Grecian, and Roman—all spirits of idolatry in worship, and of aggression and cruelty against the church of God.—C.
23 Euphrates. Not Euphrates literal and geographical, but Euphrates emblematical; to wit, the confluent people that were to the Roman Babylon (Re. 17. 15) what the confluent waters that constituted the literal Euphrates were to the literal Babylon.—C.
24 Da. 11. 40-43. ch. 16.12. 1 Sa. 23.26.
25 Or, at.
26 An hour, the twelfth part of a day (Jn. 11. 9), prophetically equal to a month, the twelfth part of a year, Nu. 14. 34.—A day, a natural year.—A month, thirty natural years.—A year, 360 years. These represent, most probably, the relative periods during which the four empires were to persecute and lead captive the church of the living God.—C.
27 Third part. See Eze. 5.2,3,12.—C.
28 1 ch. 8. 7-9, 11, 12. These things represent the prodigious and terrible armies of the Turks, and perhaps also of the Saracens.
29 Eze. 38.4. Da. 11.40. c Ps. 68.17.
d ch. 7.4.
e 1 Ch. 12. 8. 1s. 5:28, 29.

1. y ch. 8.3,5; 14. 14,18. Mat. 28.18. Ep. 1.20,22. Pr. 8.15,16. Ex. 30.1,6.

2 Ge. 2.14. Je. 51.63. Da. 11.40-43, with ch. 16.12.

3 Four angels. The spirits of the four empires—the Assyrian, Medo-Persian, Grecian, and Roman—all spirits of idolatry in worship, and of aggression and cruelty against the church of God.—C.

4 Euphrates. Not Euphrates literal and geographical, but Euphrates emblematical; to wit, the confluent people that were to the Roman Babylon (Re. 17. 15) what the confluent waters that constituted the literal Euphrates were to the literal Babylon.—C.

5 Da. 11. 40-43. ch. 16.12. 1 Sa. 23.26.

6 Or, at.

7 An hour, the twelfth part of a day (Jn. 11. 9), prophetically equal to a month, the twelfth part of a year, Nu. 14. 34.—A day, a natural year.—A month, thirty natural years.—A year, 360 years.

8 These represent, most probably, the relative periods during which the four empires were to persecute and lead captive the church of the living God.—C.

9 Third part. See Eze. 5.2,3,12.—C.

1 ch. 8. 7-9, 11, 12. These things represent the prodigious and terrible armies of the Turks, and perhaps also of the Saracens.

2 Eze. 38.4. Da. 11.40. c Ps. 68.17.

d ch. 7.4. e 1 Ch. 12. 8. 1s. 5:28, 29.

The reason of this, and the similar prohibition to Daniel (ch. 8.26; 12.4,9), seems to intimate that prophecy was not intended to develop the whole procedure of the divine government, but merely what specially related to the church of Christ—enough for the instruction, admonition, the faith and the hope of his disciples.—C.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

g ver. 15.
2 Their power is in their mouth, as teachers of false doctrines.—And in their tails. The secular governments that enforced the decrees of the destroyers.—Note, This part of the vision will equally apply to the Roman and Mohammedan oppressors.—C.
3 ver. 10. 1s. 9.15. Ep. 4.14. Mat. 24.24.
4 ch. 2.11; 5.6; 7.2.
5 The rest of the men. The other thirds who had not the seal of God in their foreheads were not yet destroyed, but reserved unto future judgments.—C.
6 Je. 5.3; 8.6. 1s. 1.5,6. De. 31. 29. 2 Ch. 28. 22. Ho. 4.17.
7 Le. 17.7. De. 31.17; 32.17,21. 2 Ki. 22.17. Ps. 106.37. Je. 25.6,7; 10. 5. 14. Ps. 115.4,8; 135.15-18. 1s. 40.19,20. Da. 5.23; 11.36-39. ch. 13.4,8, 15; 14. 9; 17. 2,5; 18.2.1 Co. 10.20.
8 Da. 7. 21,25. ch. 13.7,13-17; 17.2,5; 18.3,22. 15.

CHAP. X.

1 Christ, ch. i.; 8.39. 13. Da. 10.5,6; 12.7.

a ch. 1.7,4.3.5; 1. 15,16; 14.14. Ge. 9.6,13,17. Eze. 1.28. Ps. 104.3,26-28. Da. 10.5,6. Ps. 97. 2. Mat. 17.2.

b ch. 5.1,5; vi.; 8.1, or Ro. 1. 16; 16.27. Col. 1.26,27. 2 Co. 4.3,4,6.

c Mat. 28.18. Pr. 8.15, 16. Ep. 1.20-22. Ps. 97.1. 1s. 59.19. ch. 13.1,11. Ps. 28.

d Joel 3.16. Am. 3.8. 1s. 31.4; 5.30.

e ch. 8.5; 14.2; 15.1,7; xvi.

f ch. 1.4,11; ii.iii. Da. 8.26; 12.4,9. De. 29.29.

g He. 13.8. Mat. 28.18. ver. 2.

2 See note * in first column.

i Da. 12.7. Ge. 14.22.

j De. 32.40. Je. 10.10. ch. 1.18; 4.9,10; xiv. 15; 7. Ne. 9.6. He. 6.13.

k That is, 'he sware' by himself, because he could not swear by a greater. See He. 6.13; comp. Jn. 1.3. Col. 1.16. Re. 3.2; 4.3,9,11; also with Re. 1.18.—C.

l ch. 4. 11. Ac. 4. 24. Ge. ii. Ex. 20. 11. Je. 32.17,27. ch. 14.7.

m Eze. 7. 2-12; 12.28. 1s. 13. 22. Da. 12.7. ch. 16.17.

n That is, that 'the time, times and half a time' were now come to an end, and that the long-suffering of God, and the delay of judgment should wait no longer.—C.

o ch. 11. 15-18. Da. 12. 7; 7. 14,27, with 1s. xlix. lx. lxii. lxv. lxvi. Je. xxxi. xxxiii. Eze. xxxiv.-xlviii. Ho. ii.iii. Zec. xiv. &c. ch. xiv.-xxii. Ro. 11.25. Ep. 3.5-9.

p The mystery, &c. Rather, 'and the mystery of God has been (or, according to Middleton, "shall be") finished.'—C.

q The mystery of God, in his attributes, which will be reconciled; in his government, which will then be vindicated; and his redemption, which will then be completed.—C.

r ver. 4. 1s. 30.21, not ch. 4.1; 11.10-13.

18 By these three was the third <sup>q</sup>part of men killed, by the fire, and by the smoke, and by the brimstone, which issued out of their mouths.

19 For their power is in their mouth,<sup>2</sup> and in their <sup>t</sup>tails: for their tails were like unto serpents, and had heads, and with them they <sup>u</sup>do hurt.

20 And the rest of the men,<sup>3</sup> which were not killed by these plagues, <sup>y</sup>yet repented not of <sup>z</sup>the works of their hands, that they should not worship devils, and idols of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood: which neither can see, nor hear, nor walk.

21 Neither repented they of <sup>a</sup>their murders, nor of their sorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts.

CHAPTER X.

1 A mighty strong angel appeareth with a book open in his hand. 6 He sweareth by him that liveth for ever, that there shall be no more time. 9 John is commanded to take and eat the book.

AND I saw another mighty angel<sup>1</sup> come down from heaven, <sup>a</sup>clothed with a cloud: and a rainbow was upon his head, and his face was as it were the sun, and his feet as pillars of fire:

2 And he had in his hand <sup>b</sup>a little book open: and he <sup>c</sup>set his right foot upon the sea, and his left <sup>d</sup>foot on the earth,

3 And <sup>e</sup>cried with a loud voice, as when a lion roareth: and when he had cried, <sup>f</sup>seven thunders uttered their voices.

4 And when the seven thunders had uttered their voices, I <sup>g</sup>was about to write: and I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, <sup>h</sup>Seal up those things which the seven thunders uttered, and write them not.<sup>2</sup>

5 And the angel which I saw <sup>i</sup>stand upon the sea and upon the earth <sup>j</sup>lifted up his hand to heaven,

6 And <sup>k</sup>swore<sup>3</sup> by him that <sup>l</sup>liveth for ever and ever, who <sup>m</sup>created heaven, and the things that therein are, and the earth, and the things that therein are, and the sea, and the things which are therein, that <sup>n</sup>there should be <sup>o</sup>time no longer:

7 But in <sup>p</sup>the days of the voice of the seventh angel, when he shall begin to sound, <sup>q</sup>the mystery of God<sup>6</sup> should be finished, as he hath declared to his servants the prophets.

8 And <sup>r</sup>the voice which I heard from heaven error, and wickedness which then reigned among Christians, and made them an easy prey to the Popish and Mahometan delusions which more and more darkened men's understandings, hid the light of God's truth from them, and destroyed everything dear and valuable. 3-11. The locusts denote the Popish clergy, regular and secular, under Satan and the Pope as their head, tormenting men by the introduction of error, idolatry, superstition, and horrid profaneness; and, by their tyrannical oppressions of men's consciences, exaction of their wealth, excommunications, interdicts, persecutions, massacres, fearfully enslaving magistrates, murdering men's souls and bodies, and making even natural life a burden to them, during the time fixed by God, perhaps five-twelfths of the New Testament period; and denote the Saracen armies, who, chiefly mounted on horses, and commanded by murderous generals, did, with great pride and fury, for about 150 years, and chiefly during the five summer months, spread ravage, desolation, and bloodshed through much of Asia, the north of Africa, and south of Europe—there establishing their delusion and empire. [See Introduction, ch. iv. sect. 16.] 13-19. The four angels bound by the Euphrates denote, not the Saracens, in whose history, after their former period of 150 years, reaching to A.D. 760, nothing answers to this vision, but the Turks, who, after pouring themselves into Persia and places about the Euphrates for 300 years, did, A.D. 1040-80, form themselves into the four kingdoms of Bagdad, Damascus, Aleppo, and Iconium, all adjacent to that river. By their own mutual contentions, and by the war which the Popish Europeans carried on with them for the recovery of Canaan, and by the invasion of the Jenghizian Tartars, they were indeed about 200 years divinely restrained from ravaging the countries of the corrupt Christians; but these restraints being removed, the Ottoman Turks, about A.D. 1281 or 1302, began their ravages and conquests on the Christians, and carried them on till A.D. 1672 or 1698, and with great fury and bloodshed established an extensive empire in Asia, Africa, and Europe, and their Mahometan delusion along with it. [See Introduction, ch. iv. sect. 17.] 20, 21. But the professed Christians, whether Papists, Greeks, or others, who survived these fearful ravages and murders of the Ottospake unto me again, and said, Go and take the little book which is open in the hand of the angel which standeth upon the sea and upon the earth.

9 And I went unto the angel, and said unto him, Give me the little book. And he said unto me, Take it, and eat it up; and it shall make thy belly bitter, but it shall be in thy mouth sweet as honey.

10 And I took the little book out of the angel's hand, and ate it up; and it was in my mouth sweet as honey: and as soon as I had eaten it, my belly was bitter.<sup>8</sup>

11 And he said unto me, Thou must prophesy again before many peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings.

CHAPTER XI.

3 The two witnesses prophesy. 6 They have power to shut heaven, that it rain not. 7 The beast shall fight against them, and kill them. 8 They lie unburied, 11 and after three days and a half rise again. 14 The second woe is past. 15 The seventh trumpet soundeth.

AND there was given me a reed like unto a rod: and the angel stood, saying, Rise, and measure the temple of God, and the altar, and them that worship therein.

2 But the court which is without the temple leave out, and measure it not; for it is given unto the Gentiles: and the holy city shall they tread under foot forty and two months.

3 And I will give power unto my two witnesses, and they shall prophesy a thousand two hundred and threescore days, clothed in sackcloth.

4 These are the two olive-trees, and the two candlesticks standing before the God of the earth.

5 And if any man will hurt them, fire pro-

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

1 Eze. 3. 17. Mat. 17. 5. ch. 1. 1.
2 Eze. 2. 8; 3. 1-3. 14. Je. 15. 16. Col. 3. 16. 1 Ti. 4. 13. 15.
3 Eat it up. Receive it in humble faith, digest it in attentive study, and live upon it in patient hope.—C.

4 Hab. 3. 1. 6. Ps. 119. 103. 19. 10. Je. 15. 16. Job 23. 12.
5 Ps. 119. 59. 60. Ga. 9. 10. Ex. 23. 21. Eze. 3. 3. 12. 10.
6 To receive any divine message is sweet; to meditate on man's rebellion is bitter.—C.

7 1 Ch. 25. 2. 1 Co. 14. 4. ch. 14. 6. with 11. 9; 13. 7.

CHAP. XI.

1 Eze. 40. 3; 42. 16. Zec. 2. 12. ch. 21. 15. 16. Is. 8. 20; 34. 16. Ac. 17. 11. Jn. 5. 39. Ps. 110. 2; 45. 6. Ga. 6. 16.

2 ch. 10. 1. 5. Mat. 17. 5.

3 Eze. xl. xliii. xlvii. xlviii. ch. 21. 15-17. 1 Co. 3. 16. 17. 2 Co. 6. 16. Ep. 2. 21. 22. 1 Pe. 2. 5. 9.

4 Eze. 40. 17-20; 42. 20. 2 Ti. 3. 5. Phi. 3. 18. 19. Da. 7. 8. 11. 20. 24. 25; 11. 36-39. 1 Ti. 4. 1-3. 2 Ti. 3. 1-6; 4. 3. 4. 2 Th. 2. 3-12. ch. xiii. xviii.

1 Gr. cast out.

2 160 years, ch. 13. 5; 12. 6. ver. 3. 14; ch. 10. 6. Da. 7. 25; 12. 7. 11. 12. Nu. 14. 34. Eze. 4. 5. Ja. 5. 17. with Lu. 21. 24.

3 Or, I will give unto my two witnesses that they may prophesy, 1 Co. 12. 28. Ep. 4. 11.

4 De. 17. 6; 19. 15. Mat. 18. 16. ch. 20. 4. Lu. 24. 28. Ac. 1. 8. 2 Co. 13. 1. Is. 22. 12.

5 Zec. 4. 2. 3. 6. 11. 14. Je. 11. 16. Ps. 53. 8; 92. 14. Ro. 11. 17.

6 Mat. 5. 14. Lu. 11. 33. ch. 1. 20. Ep. 3. 8. 9. Mar. 16. 15.

7 1 Ki. 17. 1. Ps. 134. 1. 1 Co. 15. 58. 2 Ti. 4. 2.

8 Ps. 18. 15. 11. 4. Je. 12. 14; 23. 29. Ho. 6. 5. Zec. 1. 6. 2 Ki. 1. 10. 12. Je. 1. 10. Is. 44. 26. ch. 13. 10. 2 Ki. 1. 10. 12. Nu. 16. 29-35.

9 Fire, &c. Prophetic denunciations against persecutors, and the highest evidence of the prevalence of prayer, Je. 5. 14. 1 Ki. 17. 1. Ex. 4. 9; 7. 17. 20.—C.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

1 1 Ki. 17. 1. Ja. 5. 17. Mat. 16. 19. 20. Jn. 20. 23.

2 Ex. vii. xii. xiv. Je. 1. 10. Is. 45. 11.

3 ver. 3. Lu. 24. 48; 13. 32. 2 Ti. 4. 7. Ac. 20. 21. 24.

4 The original intimates a war throughout the whole period of their testimony, and death at the close.—C.

5 ch. 13. 1. 2. 7. 11. 17. 8. 14; 18. 24; 16. 6. Da. 7. 21. Zec. 14. 2. 2 Th. 2. 9.

6 Not 'the bottomless pit' of ch. 9. 1. 2, but 'the sea' of ch. 13. 1. 7. 17. 8. Note, The Greek of ch. 9. 1. 2 is essentially different from the other.—C.

7 Eze. 37. 11. Ac. 26. 11. Jn. 16. 2.

8 ch. 14. 8. 17. 15. 18; 18. 2. 10. ver. 13.

9 Ge. 13. 13; 18. 20; 19. 5. Is. 1. 10. Eze. 16. 50. Ex. 1. 13. 14; 12. 12; 20. 2. Je. 12. 13. ch. 16. 19; 18. 18. 21.

10 Ac. 9. 4. Lu. 13. 33. 34. ch. 16. 6; 18. 24. He. 6. 6; 10. 29; 13. 12.

11 ch. 5. 9. Ob. 12. 13.

12 Ps. 79. 3. Ec. 6. 3. Je. 7. 23. ch. 19. 17.

13 ver. 6. Ps. 17. 14. Phil. 3. 19. ver. 7; ch. 12. 12; 13. 8.

14 Ju. 16. 25. Es. 9. 22. 2 Ki. 18. 17; 21. 20. Ac. 7. 54-57; 17. 6.

15 ver. 9. Ho. 6. 2. Ge. 22. 14.

16 Ge. 2. 7. Eze. 37. 5-14.

17 Ac. 5. 5. 12. Ps. 64. 9. Lu. 9. 7. Jos. 3. 9.

18 Da. 2. 10. 11. Ps. 24. 3; 15. 1; 65. 4; 37. 6. Is. 40. 31; 60. 8. ch. 12. 5. 1 Th. 4. 17.

19 Ascended up to heaven. Obtained that heavenly kingdom both of holiness and power foretold by Daniel (ch. 7. 27), which is to succeed and supersede the iron dominion of Rome.—C.

20 ch. 19. 2. Mal. 3. 10. Ps. 112. 10. 2 Ki. 2. 1. 5. 9-11.

21 ch. 6. 12; 16. 18. 19.

22 This 'city' is 'the great city' (ver. 8), the church sunk in superstition and apostasy and persecuting the witnesses. See ver. 8.

—The tenth part always represents the tenth division of property; and its fall in the earthquake foretells the destruction of the lands and revenues dedicated to superstition.—C.

23 Gr. names of men, Ge. 6. 4. ch. 3. 4.

ceedeth out of their mouth, and devoureth their enemies: and if any man will hurt them, he must in this manner be killed.

6 These have power to shut heaven, that it rain not in the days of their prophecy: and have power over waters to turn them to blood, and to smite the earth with all plagues, as often as they will.

7 And when they shall have finished their testimony, the beast that ascendeth out of the bottomless pit shall make war against them, and shall overcome them, and kill them.

8 And their dead bodies shall lie in the street of the great city, which spiritually is called Sodom and Egypt, where also our Lord was crucified.

9 And they of the people, and kindreds, and tongues, and nations, shall see their dead bodies three days and an half, and shall not suffer their dead bodies to be put in graves.

10 And they that dwell upon the earth shall rejoice over them, and make merry, and shall send gifts one to another; because these two prophets tormented them that dwelt on the earth.

11 And after three days and an half the Spirit of life from God entered into them, and they stood upon their feet; and great fear fell upon them which saw them.

12 And they heard a great voice from heaven saying unto them, Come up hither. And they ascended up to heaven in a cloud; and their enemies beheld them.

13 And the same hour was there a great earthquake, and the tenth part of the city fell, and in the earthquake were slain of men seven man Turks, were not in the least reformed by these calamities from their idolatries, murders, frauds, and dreadful apostasy or uncleanness. [Introduction, ch. iv. sect. 19.]

Ver. 5. Five months are said to be the period during which the locust perpetrates its annual depredations. They have also been supposed by some expositors to describe the predatory irruptions of the Saracens into the eastern Roman empire, which usually lasted five months in each year. Others view them as prophetic months, or 150 years, descriptive of the time between the fall of the western Roman empire and the rise of Mahomedanism. But as the first of these interpretations is unsupported by scriptural analogy, and the second inconsistent with historical fact, it becomes necessary to seek the meaning in the earlier prophetic Scriptures. Accordingly, from Je. 1. 3; 52. 12; Eze. 20. 1; Zec. 7. 3, 5, it appears that 'the fifth month' marked an annual fast in commemoration of the destruction of the temple and city, and carrying away of the people, by Nebuchadnezzar. Do not these 'five months' of torment therefore intimate the torment of the Jews by their own satanic factions (see Josephus, Bel. Jud. iv. 9. 10), by which they were not destroyed, but prepared for the ruin of their temple, their city, and their nation, by the Romans; who, while they thus executed the prophetic judgments of God upon that rebellious generation, were not permitted by Providence at that time to injure the infant Christian church, but merely 'the men who had not the seal of God in their foreheads?' C.

REFLECTIONS.—If the solemn warnings of Jesus and his faithful ministers be contemned, tremendous executions of his wrath may be expected. There sometimes come the most numerous and well-furnished armies of devils and of men, crafty and furious, to deform his church, or desolate her countries of hypocritical professors. And it is only through the love and infinite kindness of God, as these are shown in Christ, that Christians are protected. How active, sagacious, and insinuating are the instruments of his wrath! and yet how furious and destructive! But it is the comfort of the saints that Jesus can and will preserve them as his sealed ones in the worst of times, as far as is for his glory and their real benefit. And, alas! how stupid and hardened their hearts who, under the most terrible judgments of God, refuse to repent and reform, but grow worse and worse, till they be utterly destroyed by the vials of his wrath.

CHAPTER X. Ver. 1. Christ's being clothed with a cloud may denote his hidden glory, awful majesty, and the darkness of his providential dispensations. The rainbow on his head denotes his being ever mindful of his covenant of grace, and prizing it as his glorious crown. 2. The little book open signifies the revealed purposes of God concerning what was still to take place, especially under the seventh trumpet. His right foot on the sea, and left foot on the earth, represents Christ as sovereign Lord of the whole world, and that he would extend his kingdom of grace to Asia, Africa, Europe, and America, and the isles of the sea far and near. 3. His terrible voice denotes the majestic, awful, and silencing nature of his Word and providence. The voice of the seven thunders that followed seem to have uttered somewhat concerning the seven vials of his wrath upon the antichristians, which John was required to keep in his own mind, but not to write, as he was afterwards to have that matter more clearly represented to him. 9, 10. John's eating this opened book denotes his considering, understanding, and being suitably affected with its contents. It was sweet in his mouth, but bitter in his belly; i.e. he took pleasure in discerning the mind of God, his tender care of his church, and the final issue of her troubles; but it pained him to think what fearful distress and persecution she had to suffer in this world before her remarkable or final deliverance.

Ver. 2. By this 'little book' some understand the Scriptures—at first open to the search of all, for a time closed by the Papacy, and reopened by the Reformation. Others understand by it a part of the Apocalypse, from ch. x. to xiv. inclusive, &c. But it seems more natural to understand by it the book that the Lamb found sealed, ch. v., and which, having opened, he now proceeds to expound. C.

REFLECTIONS.—It is the comfort of believers that however dark and terrible the dispensations of Providence may be, Jesus is the great manager of them, and hath therein a constant and exact regard to his disciples. He hath all power in heaven and on earth, and will, in his own time, render all the nations of the world his spiritual kingdom. When he appears in glorious majesty, it is for the relief of his people and destruction of their enemies; and the mysteries of providence and predictions of Scripture shall soon be fulfilled to his glory and their joy and triumph; yea, his kingdom on earth and in heaven shall be quickly established on the ruin of all opposition—God's people must be content with what he pleases to reveal to them, and must affectionately meditate on it, and publish it as regularly called. Nevertheless, it cannot but be distressful to faithful ministers or Christians to think of terrible persecutions coming on the church, or ruinous destruction upon nations.

CHAPTER XI. Ver. 1. The measuring of the temple, altar, and worshippers, with a reed, denotes that everything in the gospel church ought to be precisely conformed to God's Word, without any mixture of human inventions; and that preservation and reformation from Popery must be by a careful search, experience, and observance of God's Word. 2. The giving of the outer court to the Gentiles denotes that formal professors would be left to fall under the power of the idolatrous and wicked Papists. The forty-two thousand: and the remnant <sup>h</sup>were affrighted, and gave glory to the God of heaven.

14 The <sup>i</sup>second woe is past; and, behold, the <sup>j</sup>third woe cometh quickly.

15 And the <sup>k</sup>seventh angel sounded; and there were <sup>l</sup>great voices in heaven, saying, <sup>m</sup>The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever.

16 And <sup>n</sup>the four and twenty elders, which sat before God on their seats, fell upon their faces, and worshipped God, 17 Saying, <sup>o</sup>We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; because <sup>p</sup>thou hast taken to thee thy great power, and hast reigned.

18 And <sup>r</sup>the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come, and the time of the dead, <sup>q</sup>that they should be judged, and that thou shouldest give reward unto thy servants the prophets, and to the saints, and them that fear thy name, small and great; and shouldest destroy them which destroy <sup>1</sup>the earth.

19 And <sup>s</sup>the temple of God was opened in heaven, and there was <sup>t</sup>seen in his temple the ark of his testament: and <sup>u</sup>there were lightnings, and voices, and thunderings, and an earthquake, and great hail.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

<sup>h</sup> ch. 14.7; 16.9. Ps. 64.9. Jos. 2.9. Lu. 5.25; 7.16. Is. 26.15, 16. <sup>i</sup> ch. 8.13; 9.12. <sup>j</sup> ch. 15.1; xvi.14.8. <sup>k</sup> ch. 8.2, 6-12; 9.1, 13; 10.7. <sup>l</sup> Is. 27.13; 44.23. ch. 18.20; 16.17; 19.2, 6; 12. Ep. 3.21. Lu. 15.5, 6, 9, 10, 23, 24, 32. <sup>m</sup> Da. 7.14, 18, 22, 27; 2.44. Ps. 72.8. ch. 7.9, 10; 10.7, 12, 10; 15.4; 19.6. Is. xlix.1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100. <sup>n</sup> ch. 1.4, 6; 4.8-11; 7.10, 12, 15, 9, 12, 13, 14, 31, 32. 10:15, 3, 4, 16, 5; 19.1-7. <sup>o</sup> Is. 52.10. Ps. 98.1-3; 12:19, 5; xvi.27; 72:8, 16-19. Is. 63.1-6. <sup>p</sup> ver. 9; ch. 16.2; 20.4, 12; 6.10, 11. De. 32.36-43. Ps. 99.1. Da. 7.26. 2 Th. 2.8. He. 9.27. ch. 22.12; 19, 5; xvi.27. Eze. xxxviii. xxxix. <sup>q</sup> The dead. Not the time of the final judgment of all the dead, but the time of the slain 'witnesses' that they should be vindicated, and their prophecies fulfilled in the sight of the unbelieving nations.—C. <sup>r</sup> Or, corrupt. <sup>s</sup> ch. 15.5, 8; ver. 15; ch. 20.4. Ro. 11.12, 15, 25. Eze. xl-xlviii. Zec. xiv.15, 16. <sup>t</sup> Nu. 4.5. He. 9.4. 1 Co. 2.2. Phi. 3.8. 2 Co. 3.14. Ep. 3.8, 9. Col. 1.27. Zec. 12.10. 2 Th. 2.8. <sup>u</sup> ch. 4.5; 8.5; 13.16. 18, 21; xvi. xviii. xix.

* The woman has been supposed by some eminent expositors to represent the Jewish nation or church, which were identical; but this does not accord with her clothing; for the unbelieving Jewish church had cast off the righteousness of God.—C.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

CHAP. XII.
a Ge. 22.14. Lu. 21.25. 1 Or, sign. <sup>b</sup> Is. 54.6. Ga. 4.26, 27. 2 Co. 11.2. Ep. 5.25. Ca. i-viii. <sup>c</sup> See note * in first column. <sup>d</sup> Ro. 13.14. Is. 60.19. Ps. 84.11. Mal. 4.2. Mat. 5.16; 22.11. <sup>e</sup> Ga. 6.14; 4.9, 10; 5.1-4, or Ca. 7.1. Tit. 2.11, 12. <sup>f</sup> The moon under her feet is equivalent to the inscription 'faithful witness.' See Ps. 89.37. Re. 3.12. Comp. also ch. 12.11. —Note, This vision, commencing ch. 11.19, does not begin after the seventh trumpet, ch. 11.15, but returns to the prophetic period previous to the birth of Christ, and proceeds to give a brief outline and exposure of Satan's invisible enmity, machinations, and warfare against the church (see Ep. 6.11-13, 16), until his final overthrow throughout the 'days of the seventh trumpet.'—C. <sup>g</sup> ch. 1.20; 21.14. Ep. 2.20. Fr. 4.4-9. <sup>h</sup> Ga. 4.19. 1 Co. 4.15. Mat. 23.19. Is. 54.1; 60.22; 66.8. Ac. ii-xx. ch. 6.2. <sup>i</sup> Or, sign. <sup>j</sup> ver. 9; ch. 13.12; 20.3; 17.3, 9, 10, 12; 6.4, 10, 11; 16.5, 6; 18.24. Da. 2.40; 7.19; 11.30-35. <sup>k</sup> ch. 9.10. Is. 9.15. Da. 8.10. with ch. 2.20. 1 Jn. 2.19. ch. 17.18. <sup>l</sup> 1 Pe. 5.8. Jn. 8.44. Ex. 1.16. <sup>m</sup> Is. 7.14. Mat. 2.1. Ac. 2.41, 47; 4.4; 5.14; 6.7; ii-xix. 1 Co. 12.22. Ps. 2.9. ch. 2.26, 27; 19.15. Is. 9.6, 7. <sup>n</sup> Mar. 16.19. Ps. 91.1; cxlix. Da. 7.22, 27. <sup>o</sup> ch. 11.2, 3. Jn. 16.33. ver. 14. 2 Ti. 3.12, with Ps. 87.5, 6. Mat. 16.18. Jc. 3.15.

CHAPTER XII.

1 A woman clothed with the sun travaileth. 4 The great red dragon standeth before her, ready to devour her child: 6 when she was delivered, she fleeth into the wilderness. 7 Michael and his angels fight with the dragon, and prevail. 13 The dragon being cast down unto the earth, persecuteth the woman.

This chapter should open at ch. 11. 19, which presents a new vision synchronizing with the ascension of our Lord, at which time the heavens were truly opened, He. 4. 14; 9. 11, 12, 24; 10. 19, 20. —The ark was one of those things that were wanting in the second temple, and its appearance now intimates that all the types are fulfilled in Christ risen and entered into the heavens.—Lightnings. Sudden and unexpected manifestations of Christ and his divine power, Mat. 24. 27; Ex. 19. 16.—Voices. Testimonies to Christ, as that of John, Mat. 3. 3. Lamentations, as those of Rama at the martyrdom of the infants, Mat. 2. 18. Of prayer and instruction, as of Paul and Barnabas, Ac. 16. 25, 31, 32.

AND there appeared a great <sup>a</sup>wonder<sup>1</sup> in heaven; <sup>b</sup>a <sup>2</sup>woman <sup>c</sup>clothed with the sun, and <sup>d</sup>the moon under her feet,<sup>3</sup> and upon her head <sup>e</sup>a crown of twelve stars:

2 And <sup>f</sup>she being with child cried, travailing in birth, and pained to be delivered.

3 And there appeared another wonder<sup>4</sup> in heaven; and behold <sup>h</sup>a great red dragon, having seven heads and ten horns, and seven crowns upon his heads.

4 And his <sup>i</sup>tail drew the third part of the stars of heaven, and did cast them to the earth: <sup>j</sup>and the dragon stood before the woman which was ready to be delivered, for to devour her child as soon as it was born.

5 And <sup>k</sup>she brought forth a man-child, who was to rule all nations with a rod of iron: and <sup>l</sup>her child was caught up unto God, and <sup>m</sup>to his throne.

6 And <sup>n</sup>the woman fled into the wilderness, months, or one thousand two hundred and sixty days, time, times, and half a time, ver. 3; ch. 12. 6-14; 13. 5, denote the 1260 years' continuance of the antichristian power; i.e. from A.D. 606, when the Pope of Rome was by Phocas the emperor constituted the universal bishop of the Christian church, to A.D. 1866; or, from 756, when the Pope became a temporal prince, to 2016. 3. Christ's two witnesses denote the small but sufficient succession of faithful ministers who, from age to age, amidst grief and persecution, bear witness against the abominations of Popery. 4. They, like olive-trees before God, are remarkably furnished with gifts and graces; and being protected and delighted in by him, do minister as in his presence, and depending on his grace. 5, 6. God shall fearfully resent the injuries done them, fulfil the threatenings they denounce in his name, and grant their requests. 7-10. Whatever murder of Christ's witnesses may have been effected during the whole reign of Antichrist, or whatever particular persecutions of about three years and a half continuance have taken place, I suppose the general slaughter here intended is yet future—in which I fear the Papists, who are like Sodomites in uncleanness, and Egyptians in cruel oppression of God's people, will, partly by drawing men off from the doctrines of the gospel, and partly by murderous wars and persecutions, leave scarcely any shadow of proper opposition to their abominations in Europe, or the countries thereto belonging. 11-13. But scarcely shall the antichristians, to their great joy, have apparently effected the ruin of Christ's witnesses, when God, by his Word and Spirit, shall strangely revive, animate, and encourage them, and, under his special protection, exalt them to eminent dignity, power, and prosperity; while, about the very time of the sounding of the seventh trumpet, the Popish state shall be thrown into terrible convulsions and ruin; many Papists miserably destroyed, and others alarmed; and by the gospel converted to Christ, more marvellously than at the Reformation. 15-19. All the nations of the world shall be generally converted to the Christian faith, and made members of the gospel church; and great shall be her light, glory, and liberty, and abundant the access <sup>u</sup>to her; but fearful and destructive the judgments which shall overtake her enemies.

Ver. 3. Two witnesses. The following is an abstract of interpretation:—(1) The Scriptures and assemblies of believers. (2) Unpolluted priests and faithful magistrates. (3) The Waldenses and Albigenes. (4) The Old and the New Testament. (5) The Protestant and Greek churches. (6) The Word and Spirit of God. (7) A sufficiency of witnesses—in allusion to the Mosaic requirement of 'two or three witnesses.' (8) A succession of faithful ministers of the Word, inasmuch as they prophesy 1260 years. (9) An allusion to the general fact of two cognate witnesses being usually commissioned by the Spirit—as, Moses and Aaron, Elijah and Elisha, Zerubbabel and Joshua, Ezra and Nehemiah, the seventy disciples sent two by two, Paul and Barnabas, Paul and Timothy, Luther and Calvin, Knox and Melville, Latimer and Ridley, &c. But inasmuch as the 'two witnesses' are identified with 'two candlesticks,' and as a 'candlestick' is the apocalyptic emblem of a church, Re. 1. 20, may not the 'two witnesses' represent believers and reformers in the Jewish and Christian churches who are from time to time raised up in uninterrupted succession as witnesses for God, in opposition to heathenism, Romanism, and infidelity?—Clothed in sackcloth—the dress of mourners, 2 Sa. 3. 31; 1 Ki. 20. 31; 21. 27; Job 16. 15; Ps. 30. 11. C.

Ver. 11. These 'three days and a half' are most probably an allusion to the three years and a half during which Antiochus Epiphanes held possession of Jerusalem, profaned the temple, and abolished religious services. Here they foretell three years and a half during which so many of the faithful witnesses of the gospel will be so persecuted and slain, and the preaching of the gospel so effectually suppressed, that the powers of superstition, idolatry, and infidelity, who had united in the war, shall now combine in a short-lived triumph over the victims of their persecution.—Note, A partial exemplification of this imaginary triumph is recorded in the Te Deum being sung at Rome on occasion of the most horrible event in modern history—the murdering of the Huguenots! and a similar exemplification of its duration in the three years and a half during which Christianity was suppressed throughout France subsequent to the revolution of 1793. And such partial fulfillments seem agreeable to the genius of prophecy, as calling the attention of believers to the more awful completion. C.

REFLECTIONS.—In the very worst of times God will preserve for himself a church answerable to the promises and in some measure conformed to the rules of his Word. And in separating the precious from the vile, he makes no account of mere nominal and carnal professors, but leaves them to the power of antichristian or other deceivers. In evil times Christ's faithful ministers are often extremely few, but still sufficient to bear witness to his truths; and however afflicted and mournful their outward condition may be, and however grieved their hearts, God will honour them to be instrumental in conveying his light and influence to his church, and will resent the injuries done them, and conform his providence in a great measure to their warnings and prayers. Pretended Christians, oppressive idolaters, unclean monsters, and unreasonable and malicious murderers, tormented by their holy doctrines, exemplary lives, and faithful admonitions, may long oppress, and at last silence and slay them; but their extremity of trouble shall usher in their glorious deliverance. The triumphing of their wicked enemies shall be short, and divine vengeance, redoubled, shall overtake them in an hour that they think not. For let enemies rage as they will, Jesus will at last vindicate his righteous cause and his suffering servants, and will bountifully reward them with the smiles of his providence and grace, reign before them gloriously, and cause them for ever to triumph in his praise. But by what fearful shakings of nations he ushers in the noted reformations of his church! Happy are they who, when his judgments are abroad in the earth, share his converting spirit, submit to his salvation and government, learn righteousness, and glorify his name!

CHAPTER XII. Ver. 1. The gospel church has Christ and his righteousness for her robe; and is irradiated with the light of truth, comfort, and holiness. She is elevated above the obscure light of Mosaic rites and ceremonies, and treads with holy indifference upon the enjoyments of this world; and all her light of knowledge and grace is communicated by means of, and according to, the doctrine of the twelve apostles. 2. Her travailing in birth denotes her strong groanings, eager desires, wrestling prayers, and indefatigable labours, under sharp persecutions, to bring forth converts in whom Christ, in his doctrine and image, may be formed. 3, 4. The red dragon is the devil, acting in and by the power of the persecuting heathen empire of Rome, which, after seven forms of government, was split into ten kingdoms; or by the Popish power as extended over these ten kingdoms—by which multitudes of ministers were either murdered or seduced from the faith. 5. Her man-child may have some respect to Constantine, whom Providence marvellously advanced to the imperial throne, A.D. 312, and directed to abolish heathenism; but chiefly denotes a succession of faithful believers who, notwithstanding all the malicious designs and attempts of the devil and his instruments, are brought forth and wonderfully protected and honoured by God. 6, 14. The wilderness into which the church fled is that corrupt or concealed state in which true and practical religion, and truly faithful professors, continued all along from Constantine's time to the Reformation; or from the rise of Antichrist, about A.D. 606. 7, 8. The defeat and ejection of the dragon and his angels may denote the abolition of heathen idolatry, and ruin of the heathens' persecuting power by Constantine; if not also the abolition of Popery by where she hath a place prepared of God, that they should feed her there a thousand two hundred and threescore days.

7 And<sup>o</sup> there was war in heaven: <sup>p</sup>Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon fought and his angels,

8 And <sup>q</sup>prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven.

9 And <sup>r</sup>the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: <sup>s</sup>he was cast out into the earth,<sup>5</sup> and his angels were cast out with him.

10 And I heard <sup>t</sup>a loud voice<sup>6</sup> saying in heaven, Now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Christ; for <sup>u</sup>the accuser of our brethren is cast down, which accused them before our God day and night.

11 And <sup>v</sup>they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb, and by the word of their testimony; and they loved not their lives unto the death.

12 Therefore <sup>w</sup>rejoice, ye heavens, and ye that dwell in them. <sup>x</sup>Woe to the inhabitants of the earth<sup>7</sup> and of the sea! for the devil is come down unto you, having great wrath, because he knoweth that he hath but <sup>y</sup>a short time.<sup>8</sup>

13 And when the dragon saw that he was

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 90.

o Mat. 16. 24. Jp. 6. 12.

p Da. 10. 13, 21; 12. 1. Jude 9. Is. 55. 4. He. 2. 10. ver. 3. 9; ch. 1. 20. Mat. 16. 24; 10. 17, 18. Jn. 16. 2, 3.

q ver. 11; ch. 6. 10-17. Ps. 37. 10; 110. 2-6. Da. 11. 35. Lu. 10. 18.

r ver. 3; ch. 20. 2, 3. Ge. 3. 1, 4. 2 Co. 11. 3. Job 1. 6; 2. 1. 1 Pe. 5. 8. Jn. 8. 44. Zec. 3. 1.

s Lu. 10. 18. Jn. 12. 31. ch. 6. 10-17. Ps. 110. 5, 6.

t See note * below.

u ch. 11. 15; 1. 4; 16. 20; 2. 19; 1. 7. Ob. 21. Ps. lxxvi. c. cx. cxlix.

v Does not this 'loud voice' 'synchronize with the 'great voice' (ch. 11. 15), the proclamation being similar, if not perfectly identical?—C.

w Job 1. 9; 2. 5. Zec. 3. 1. Mat. 10. 18. Jn. 16. 2.

x 2 Co. 10. 3-5. Ro. 8. 33, 34, 36, 37. Ep. 6. 16. 1. Lu. 14. 26. Ac. 20. 24. He. 11. 35-38.

y Ps. 96. 11. Is. 49. 13. ch. 18. 20; 14. 1-4; 15. 2-4.

z ch. 13. 13; 11. 10; 10. 6. 1 Pe. 5. 8. Mat. 12. 43.

1 The earth. Canaan—the Jews.—The sea. The Gentiles of the Babylonian empire, to which, under its Roman form, the prophecy mainly refers. Is. 21. 9-9. Je. 51. 36-58.—C.

2 Pe. 3. 8. He. 10. 37. Lu. 18. 8. ch. 22. 12, 20.

3 A short time—according to the divine computation of the future (Ps. 17. 39; 90. 4. 2 Pe. 3. 8), and even in man's computation of the past, Job 10. 20; 14. 1. Ps. 39. 5.—C.

* This event was effected either during the miraculous powers put forth by our Lord, and be-

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 90.

stowed upon his disciples (Lu. 10. 18), or upon occasion of our Lord's death, when he destroyed the works, and consequently the power of the devil. Jn. 12. 31.—C.

a Jn. 16. 33. 2 Ti. 3. 12. Ge. 3. 15. Ps. 37. 14. ver. 4. 5.

b Ex. 19. 4. De. 32. 11. 12. Is. 40. 31; 63. 9; 60. 8. ver. 6. Ps. 91. 1-16.

c An allusion to De. 32. 10, 11.—C.

1 This is not a second flight of the woman (see ver. 6), but a more particular account of the cause of the flight formerly recorded.—C.

2 Da. 7. 25; 12. 7. 11. ch. 11. 2, 3; ver. 6; ch. 13. 5. i. e. 1260 years.

c Ps. 42. 7; 14. 4, 5; 18. 4. Ep. 4. 14. 2 Th. 2. 10, 11. Is. 8. 7; 28. 2; 59. 19.

3 Water as a flood—persecuting nations. See ch. 17. 15. Je. 46. 7.—C.

d ver. 9, 12; ch. 1. 7. Ps. 17. 14, with Ge. 4. 11. Nu. 16. 30.

e Ge. 3. 15. 1 Pe. 5. 8. Jn. 8. 44. 1 Sa. 18. 8.

f ch. 13. 2, 5-7, 16, 17; 16. 6; 17. 6; 18. 20; 19. 2; 9. 5-11; 11. 7. Da. 7. 21, 24, 25; 11. 30-36.

g De. 12. 32. Mat. 28. 20. 1 Jn. 5. 21. ch. 14. 12.

h ch. 6. 9; 19. 10. 1 Co. 2. 1, 2. 1 Jn. 5. 10. Is. 8. 16, 20.

CHAP. XIII.

a Da. 7. 1-3, 7, 8, 20, 23, 24. ch. 12. 3; 17. 3-7; 12; 11. 7. 2 Th. 2. 3-12. 1 Ti. 4. 1-3. 2 Ti. 3. 1-6; 4. 3-4.

1 Or, names, ch. 17. 5; ver. 5. 6. Is. 65. 7. Eze. 20. 27, 28.

b Da. 7. 4-7, 21, 24, 25. ch. 17. 6; ver. 7; ch. 18. 24; 16. 6; 12. 17.

cast unto the earth, <sup>a</sup>he persecuted the woman which brought forth the man-child.

14 And<sup>b</sup> to the woman were given two <sup>9</sup>wings of a great eagle, that she might fly<sup>1</sup> into the wilderness, into her place, where she is nourished for a time,<sup>2</sup> and times, and half a time, from the face of the serpent.

15 And the serpent cast out of his mouth <sup>c</sup>water as a flood<sup>3</sup> after the woman, that he might cause her to be carried away of the flood.

16 And <sup>d</sup>the earth helped the woman, and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed up the flood which the dragon cast out of his mouth.

17 And the <sup>e</sup>dragon was wroth with the woman, and went to <sup>f</sup>make war with the remnant of her seed, <sup>h</sup>which keep the commandments of God, and <sup>i</sup>have the testimony of Jesus Christ.

CHAPTER XIII.

1 A beast riseth out of the sea with seven heads and ten horns, to whom the dragon giveth his power. 11 Another beast cometh up out of the earth: 14 causeth an image to be made of the former beast, 15 and that men should worship it, 16 and receive his mark.

AND I stood upon the sand of the sea, and saw a <sup>a</sup>beast rise up out of the sea, having seven heads and ten horns, and upon his horns ten crowns, and upon his heads the name<sup>1</sup> of blasphemy.

2 And the beast which I saw <sup>b</sup>was like unto many Protestant powers at the Reformation. 12, 13, 15. The dragon's rage at and persecution of the woman, and casting a flood out of his mouth to destroy her, may denote the devil's exerting himself to the utmost to destroy the church by the Arian, Pelagian, and other heresies, the Donatist schism, and the persecutions which attended them; by the Julian persecution and the ravages of the Goths, Vandals, and others, in the Christian countries; or also, by the decrees, persecutions, wars, massacres, and missionaries of the Papists, after the Reformation, for the destruction of the Protestant cause. 16. Corrupt ecclesiastics, in their councils and otherwise, defended the truths of the gospel against the Arian, Pelagian, Eutychian, and other heresies; the Goths, Vandals, and other ravaging tribes, diverted the Arian persecutors, and at last became professed Christians themselves; and at the Reformation many secular princes and others who had no real religion, took part with the Reformers, and protected them from the Papal fury.

Ver. 3. A great red dragon. Satan, as the spirit of persecution and murder (see Jn. 8. 44; 1 Jn. 3. 12), entering and possessing the body of the Roman empire. C.

Ver. 4. The third part. The Jewish teachers who 'sat in Moses' seat,' but were drawn of Satan to purchase and shed, as Judas was to sell, the blood of our Lord.—Note, The world, as touching religion ('heaven') was then divided into three parts—Jews, Christians, and heathens. The heathens Satan had not then to draw; they were the political beast already fully possessed. C.

Ver. 14. Wilderness. A district unfrequented, and comparatively uncultivated and unknown.—Note, Specimens of the church thus protected from the face of the serpent, his wives, his persecutions, and his agents, the beast and false prophet, may be found in the primitive British and Irish churches that were preserved free from the shackles of Rome for upwards of 1000 years, when they were nationally, though never individually, deceived or subdued; in the Christians of St. Thomas in the East Indies; the Nestorian Christians (most probably Jews) in the countries bordering the Caspian sea; and in the churches of the Waldenses and Albigenes among the fastnesses of the Alps, Apennines, and Pyrenees, who all retain till this day, in a greater or less degree of perfection, the primitive faith and liberty. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Glorious is the gospel church when she appears lifted above worldly principles and customs, when she shines in Jesus' imputed righteousness and implanted grace, and is adorned with the pure doctrines of the gospel. By earnest desires, prayers, and labours, she then brings forth children to God through Christ. With great craft, fury, and diligence, Satan and his instruments exert themselves to corrupt or destroy the church, and hinder the conversion of sinners, or to persecute and murder them whenever they appear serious. And if their plots be defeated, they become the more furious and active. But let them plot, fight, and rage as they will, Christ will restrain, and at last conquer them; and, notwithstanding the most fearful and lasting afflictions, will protect and preserve his faithful servants and people, and by faith render them victorious and triumphant. By faith in his atoning blood as the only ground of their justification, and by faithfully contending, even unto death, for his injured truths, they shall overcome at last.

CHAPTER XIII. Ver. 1. This beast rising out of the sea denotes its origin to be from hell, and, from the tumultuous state of the nations, once subject to the Roman power. Its having seven heads and ten crowned horns denotes its possessing the power of the Roman state, and ruling over the ten kingdoms formed out of that ruined empire. 2. Its likeness to a leopard, bear, and lion, imports that all the cruelty, activity, subtlety, and furious power of the Greek, Persian, and Chaldean empire would meet in the Papal jurisdiction. Its receiving the power, seat, and authority of the dragon, signifies that, being seated at Rome, the power of heathen emperors and of the devil would be devolved on the Pope and his assistants. 3. The healing of the wounded head may denote the Pope's restoring jurisdiction to Rome by his becoming a civil prince; the erection of the German empire instead of the Roman; or the apostasy of the Protestants to Popery. 4. In their obedience to the arbitrary, idolatrous, and other wicked decrees of popes and their councils, men practically worship the devil and the old heathen idols. 5, 6. Its speaking great things and blasphemies includes all the papal boasts of power, holiness, and merits; all their usurpation of power over magistrates, angels, and saints departed; over the laws and ordinances of God; and over the person and offices of Christ. 7, 8. While Satan stirred up the popes and their agents to persecute, rob, and murder the followers of Christ, almost all the inhabitants of Europe submitted to their authority; 10. But after they have persecuted and murdered the saints for many ages, till their faith is fully tried and almost worn out, the judgments of God, answerable to their crimes, shall overtake them. 11. The earth, out of which this beast arose, denotes a carnal and worldly temper, or the bottomless pit. Its likeness to a lamb, but speaking as a dragon, imports that, notwithstanding the Pope's and Papalines' high pretences to the likeness of Christ in holiness and meekness, their injunctions and curses are cruel, bloody, and ruinous. 12. By excommunications and persecutions, and through the assistance of secular powers, popes and their clergy make their subjects do what they please. 13, 14. By pretended and devilish miracles they terrify men into an implicit obedience to the clergy, and a ready compliance with their errors, idolatries, and superstitions. 15-17. They denied not only their pardons and indulgences, but even the natural or civil rights of lodging, dwelling, or trade, to all that did not, in practice or profession, plainly manifest themselves devoted to their power and delusions. 18. The number of the beast being 666, may hint that the Romish doctrines, laws, and offices have apparently a marvellous connection, but are no way founded on the doctrine of the twelve apostles. It is found in the Greek LATEINOS, and the Hebrew ROMIITH, and points to the Latin or Romish church, and the place of its peculiar residence. About A.D. 666, it is said Pope Vitalian marked the papal subjects with the use of the Latin or Romish tongue. From the time when John had his vision to the pope's becoming a civil as well as an ecclesiastical head, and so a complete anti-christ, A.D. 756, or some years after, when he began to exercise his temporal jurisdiction, might be precisely 666 years.

Ver. 1. Sand of the sea. Innumerable multitudes of people; comp. Ge. 22. 17; Re. 17. 15.—Note, This vision is the counterpart of the former, ch. 11. 19; 12. 1-17, and describes the earthly and visible agents of Satan in the persecution of 'the woman,' the true church, and 'the remnant of her seed.'—Ten horns . . . ten crowns. The dragon (ch. 12. 3) had 'seven heads' crowned, and 'ten horns,' but without crowns. The beast here described has 'ten horns,' with 'ten crowns.' The first therefore represents the pagan Roman empire possessed by the dragon and employed as his persecuting agents, consisting of the geographical elements of ten kingdoms, not yet separated into regal dynasties and governments; the second represents the empire when divided into distinct kingdoms, but all agreeing in the same work of persecuting the 'seed of the woman.'—Name of blasphemy. Most probably the title of 'holy Roman empire,' assumed by most unholy men. C.

Ver. 2. Daniel saw these three beasts (Da. 7. 4-6), and a fourth (Da. 7. 7) whose species was not described. It is here described by John as a compound of the other three, and possessed, moreover, by the more destructive spirit of the dragon. C.

Ver. 3. One of his heads . . . wounded to death. This wounded head represents the imperial power in the western Roman empire overrun and destroyed by the northern nations, when the very name of emperor had ceased to exist, and Rome was ranked but as a petty dukedom. The eastern empire, centring in Constantinople, still remained in comparative vigour as the other head.—World. Rather, 'earth'—the Roman empire. C.

Ver. 11. Two horns. The two emblematic swords of the pope—the secular and the spiritual.—Like a lamb. Professing, a leopard, and his feet were as the feet of a bear, and his mouth as the mouth of a lion; and the dragon gave him his power, and his seat,<sup>2</sup> and great authority.

3 And I saw <sup>a</sup>one of his heads, as it were wounded<sup>3</sup> to death; and his deadly wound was healed: and <sup>a</sup>all the world wondered after the beast.

4 And they <sup>a</sup>worshipped the dragon which gave power unto the beast: and they worshipped the beast, saying, Who is like unto the beast? who is able to make war with him?

5 And<sup>b</sup> there was given unto him a mouth speaking great things and blasphemies; and power was given unto him to <sup>a</sup>continue <sup>a</sup>forty and two months.

6 And <sup>a</sup>he opened his mouth in blasphemy against God, to blaspheme his name, and his tabernacle,<sup>k</sup> and them that dwell in heaven.

7 And<sup>i</sup> it was given unto him to make war with the saints, and to overcome them: and power was given him over all kindreds, and tongues, and nations.

8 And<sup>n</sup> all that dwell upon the earth shall worship him, whose names are not written in the <sup>o</sup>book of life of the <sup>p</sup>Lamb slain <sup>a</sup>from the foundation of the world.

9 If<sup>r</sup> any man have an ear, let him hear.

10 He<sup>s</sup> that leadeth into captivity shall go into captivity: he that killeth with the sword must be killed with the sword.<sup>5</sup> Here<sup>t</sup> is the patience and the faith of the saints.

11 And <sup>a</sup>I beheld another beast coming up out of the earth; and he had <sup>a</sup>two horns like a lamb, and he <sup>a</sup>spake as a dragon.<sup>6</sup>

12 And he exerciseth all the power of the first beast before him, <sup>a</sup>and causeth the earth and them which dwell therein to worship the first beast, whose deadly wound was healed.

13 And<sup>z</sup> he doeth great wonders, so that he

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

c ch. 12, 9, 3, 2 Th. 2, 7, 4, ch. 16, 10, 17, 18.
2 Seat. Literally, 'throne'—C. d ch. 12, 3; ver. 1; ch. 17, 7, 10, 11.

3 Gr. slain.
e ver. 8; ch. 17, 2, 8, 13, 17, 2 Th. 2, 3, 12 Ti. 3, 1—6, 4, 3, 4, Lu. 2, 1.
g ch. 9, 20; 18, 18; ver. 15, 1 Co. 10, 20, 2 Th. 2, 4, Da. 11, 36—39, ch. 18, 18; 11, 2, 17, 14, Ps. 89, 8.

h Da. 7, 8, 11, 20, 25; 11, 36—39.
i Or, to make war.
j Da. 7, 25; 12, 7, ch. 11, 2, 3, 12, 6, 14.
k Da. 7, 25; 11, 36—39, 2 Th. 2, 4, 1 Ti. 4, 1—3, 2 Th. 2, 1—4, 3, 4.

l Col. 2, 9, Jn. 1, 14, He. 8, 2; 9, 11, 24; 12, 22, 23, ch. 21, 3, Mat. 16, 18.
m Da. 7, 21, 25, ch. 11, 7; 12, 17; 17, 6; 18, 24, 2 Th. 2, 10, 3, Lu. 4, 6.

n ver. 3.
o ch. 3, 5; 17, 8, Phil. 4, 3, ch. 20, 12; 21, 27, Is. 4, 3, Da. 12, 1.

p Jn. 1, 29, 36, ch. 5, 6—13, 17.
q Ep. 1, 4, or 1 Pe. 1, 19, 20.

r See ch. 2, 7, 11, 24, &c. s Is. 33, 1, Mat. 7, 2, Ex. 21, 23—25, Ge. 9, 5, 6, Eze. 39, 10, Mat. 26, 52, ch. 11, 13; 14, 7—20; xvi. 19, 2 Th. 2, 8, 2 Ti. 3, 8, 9, Da. 7, 11, 22, 26; 11, 45.

5 Some of the best MSS. have this clause as follows:—'He that is for captivity goeth into captivity: he that is to be slain with the sword, with the sword must he be slain.' This is a prophetic declaration which seems to accord better than the reading of the textus receptus with the last clause of the verse.—P.

t ch. 14, 12, He. 10, 36, 37; 6, 12, Hab. 2, 3, Ps. 27, 13.

u ch. 11, 7; 17, 8, 2 Th. 2, 3—9, ch. xv. v. ver. 2.

v Mat. 28, 18, Jn. 1, 29, 36.

x ch. 2, 3, 4; ver. 2; ch. 11, 7; 17, 6.

y ver. 3, 14—17, 2 Th. 2, 4.

z ch. 12, 9; 16, 14; 19, 20, Mat. 24, 24, 2 Th. 2, 9, 10, De. 13, 2, 1 Ki. 18, 38, 2 Ki. 1, 10, 12.

6 Alford's note on the symbolic visions is clear and important. It is in substance as follows:—

(1) These two beasts are identical as to their genus; they are both ravaging powers, hostile to God's flock. (2) They are diverse in origin. The former came up out of the sea, i.e. out of confusion to order; the latter comes out of the earth, i.e. out of human society. (3) The second beast is subsidiary to the first. It wields its autho-

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

city, works miracles in its support, causes men to worship its image. (4) An important distinction exists between the two, in that the second has horns like a lamb. It puts on a mild appearance. But it speaks as a dragon—its words are fierce and unrelenting. And now I may appeal to the reader whether all these requisites do not meet in that great wasting power which rose out of men's daily life and habits, out of and in the presence of the last form of the secular power, which was the empire of pagan Rome: I mean the sacerdotal persecuting power, which, gentle in its aspect and professions, was yet cruel in its actions?—P.

a ver. 3, 8, 12; ch. 17, 15.

b Da. 7, 25, 2 Th. 2, 4, 11, 12, Da. 11, 36—39, ver. 3, 4.

c Da. 7, 25; 11, 36—39, 2 Th. 2, 4, ch. 17, 2—5.

7 Gr. breath.

d Da. 7, 21, 22, ch. 11, 2, 7; 17, 6; 16, 2, 5, 6; 18, 20, 24, 2 Th. 2, 4.

8 Gr. give them.

e ch. 14, 9, 11, 19, 20, 20, 4; 15, 2, with 7, 3; 14, 1, Ex. 13, 9, 16, Pr. 6, 21.

9 The name of the beast. The usurped and unscriptural, but imposing name of 'Catholic'—C.

1 He that had the number of his name. That acknowledged the apostolic origin of the papal church founded on the traditional genealogy of the popes through the primitive centuries of the church.—C.

g ch. 15, 2; 17, 9, with ch. 2, 17, Ho. 14, 9, Ps. 107, 43.

CHAP. XIV.

a Jn. 1, 29, 36, ch. 5, 6—13, 17, 9, 10, 14, 17, Ps. 2, 6, He. 12, 22, 24.

b ch. 7, 4—8; 17, 14; 19, 14; 10, 23, 12, 23, 24.

1 Their relation as children of God was manifest, as it were, by a spiritual physiognomy, and thus 'written in their foreheads'—C.

c ch. 1, 15; 19, 1—7, 11, 15; 12, 10, with Mat. 7, 28, Mar. 1, 22, Jn. 7, 46.

d Ac. 2, 37; 14, 25.

e ch. 5, 8, 9; 15, 2, 1 Ch. 25, 1—7, Ps. 68, 25.

g ch. 5, 9; 17, 10, 12; 15, 3, 4; 19, 1—7; 4, 4—10, Ps. xcvi. c.

h ver. 1, Jn. 12, 6, 1 Co. 2, 14, Mat. 11, 25; 13, 11.

i ch. 5, 9, 1 Pe. 1, 18, 19, Is. 35, 10; 51, 1; 44, 23.

maketh fire come down from heaven on the earth in the sight of men, 14 And deceiveth them that dwell on the earth by the means of those miracles which he had power to do in the sight of the beast; saying to <sup>a</sup>them that dwell on the earth, <sup>b</sup>that they should make an image to the beast, which had the wound by a sword, and did live.

15 And<sup>c</sup> he had power to give life<sup>7</sup> unto the image of the beast, that the image of the beast should both speak, and <sup>a</sup>cause that as many as would not worship the image of the beast should be killed.

16 And he causeth all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to <sup>a</sup>receive <sup>a</sup>a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads:

17 And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the <sup>a</sup>beast, or the number of his name.<sup>1</sup>

18 Here<sup>9</sup> is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is six hundred threescore and six.

CHAPTER XIV.

1 The Lamb standing on Mount Sion with his company. 6 An angel preacheth the gospel. 8 The fall of Babylon. 15 The harvest of the world, and putting in of the sickle. 20 The vintage and winepress of the wrath of God.

AND I looked, and, lo, <sup>a</sup>a Lamb stood on the mount Sion, and <sup>b</sup>with him an hundred forty and four thousand, having his Father's name written in their foreheads.<sup>1</sup>

2 And <sup>a</sup>I heard a voice from heaven, as the voice of many waters, and as <sup>a</sup>the voice of a great thunder: and I heard <sup>a</sup>the voice of harpers harping with their harps:

3 And <sup>a</sup>they sung as it were a new song before the throne, and before the four beasts, and the elders: and <sup>b</sup>no man could learn that song but the hundred and forty and four thousand, which were <sup>a</sup>redeemed from the earth.

in the use of the horns, all meekness, gentleness, and mercy.—Spake as a dragon. That is, falsely, Jn. 8, 44; styling himself 'the servant of the servants of God,' meaning 'master of kings and emperors.' C.

Ver. 14. That they should make an image to the beast. By setting up an ecclesiastical monarchy corresponding in extent and details to the secular monarchy. C.

Ver. 16. A mark. Submission to the rites and ceremonies of the papal communion.—In their right hand. By active obedience to the papal power.—Or in their foreheads. By outward profession of its doctrines and infallible authority. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Satan and his instruments will turn themselves into very different forms, that their abominable projects may the more easily succeed. The meekness of the lamb and fury of a leopard, lion, bear, and dragon are united to pervert and ruin the church. By the most horrid blasphemies, pretended or magical wonders, uncontrolled authority, and dreadful severity, they promote their unrighteous cause. And marvellous is their success and extensive their power. By allurements or terrors multitudes are deluded into the grossest absurdities and most damnable doctrines and practices. None but those who trust God revealed through Christ are secured from it. These, indeed, are often distressed by wars, persecutions, and martyrdom, but cannot be fully perverted or finally ruined. And it is the great support of their faith and patience that God has fixed a time for their deliverance and the downfall of their enemies, in which every injury done them shall be fully repaid.—Though I cannot fix the times, which the Father has put in his own power, let my faith and patience have their perfect work! Patient waiting and earnest watching are far better than presumptuous curiosity.

CHAPTER XIV. Ver. 1. Zion may either denote heaven or the true church on earth. The saints being marked with God's name in their foreheads imports their being sealed and set apart as his property and for his service, and their making an open and honourable profession of him and his gospel, attended with an answerable holiness of life. 4, 5. They were virgins; i.e. they had not defiled themselves with the whorish idolatries and other abominations of the tempting antichristians; but, as wholly redeemed from sins and errors, sanctified by and consecrated to God, and as a pledge of far greater multitudes afterward, had faithfully and uprightly followed and adhered to Jesus Christ and his cause. 6–13. The witnesses of Christ, especially at the Reformation, plainly and powerfully preached the gospel, and warned men of the approaching ruin of the Papacy, and of the damnable nature of cleaving to it in opposition to the light of the gospel, which then shone forth; and taught that union to Christ by faith, and fellowship with him, only and effectually secured a happiness, an immediate happiness, after death; and that believers' good works did not merit heaven, but in it received a gracious reward. 14–20. These verses relate to future events, and import, that whenever the antichristians shall have filled up the measure of their iniquities, Christ and his instruments shall, in answer to the prayers of his ministers and people, cut them off in the most terrible manner, perhaps deluging the papal territories in Italy, of 200 miles length, with torrents of their blood.

Ver. 3. No man could learn that song. That is, so as to sing it; for singing depends not so much upon voice as upon expression; and expression depends upon feeling; and the feeling of filial love cannot be learned by any rote of words; therefore, as none but children can feel the sentiment, none but children can learn the song. C.

Ver. 6. Of this emblematic angel, the Reformation, the Bible, and Protestant missionary societies are, no doubt, shadows and precursors, but cannot be the end of the vision; for this angel introduces the judgment, ver. 7, not the day of the final judgment of quick and dead, but, as appears from ver. 8, 9, the judgment of Babylon and the beast. C.

Ver. 12. This notice is parallel to that of ch. 13, 10, from which comparison it is obvious that, in the former case, the 'patience of the saints' was tried while witnessing the prosperity, enduring the persecution, and waiting for the downfall of Rome imperial, ch. 13, 1–8; so here their 'patience and faith' (faithfulness unto death) are tested in the labour of propagating 'the everlasting gospel,' ver. 6, resisting the allurements and terrors, and waiting for the fall of Rome papal, ver. 8–11. C.

Ver. 13. Blessed . . . from henceforth. Rather, 'Blessed even now' (even before the glory of 'the new heavens') 'are the dead who die in the Lord.' Robinson.

Ver. 14. A golden crown—as evidence that he is about to assert his kingly power and authority over the nations by which it has hitherto been, at least, practically denied. C.

Ver. 16. Though there is no mention of judgment by Christ as an harvestman, yet, as both harvest and vintage are prophetic emblems of judgment, Joel 3, 13, the reaping cannot be otherwise interpreted here.—Note. Does not this silence intimate that this first judgment, most probably, by mere prophetic announcement, 4 These<sup>j</sup> are they which were not defiled with women; for they are virgins.<sup>2</sup> These are they which follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth. These were redeemed<sup>3</sup> from among men, being the first-fruits<sup>4</sup> unto God and to the Lamb.

5 And in their mouth was found no guile: for they are without fault<sup>5</sup> before the throne of God.

6 And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people,

7 Saying with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him; for the hour of his judgment is come: and worship him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters.

8 And there followed another angel, saying, Babylon<sup>u</sup> is fallen,<sup>6</sup> is fallen, that great city, because she made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication.

9 And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand,

10 The same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation; and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the Lamb:

11 And the smoke of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever: and they have no rest day nor night, who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name.

12 Here<sup>b</sup> is the patience of the saints: here are they that keep the commandments of God, and the faith of Jesus.

13 And I heard a voice from heaven, saying unto me, Write, Blessed are the dead which

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

<sup>j</sup> Ro. 12.2. Ca. 1.31.6.
<sup>2</sup> Co. 11.2. Mat. 25.1.
ch. 17.1, 15.14.
<sup>3</sup> Virgins. Pure worshippers of God, in opposition to idolaters, spiritual fornicators and adulterers. See ver. 8; ch. 18.3.—C.
<sup>4</sup> Mat. 16.24. ch. 7.17.
17.14.3.4. Jn. 10.4.5.27.
Eze. 1.12.46.10.
<sup>5</sup> Gr. were bought, 1 Co. 6.20.
<sup>6</sup> Jn. 1.18. 1 Co. 16.15.
Ro. 16.5.8.23.
<sup>7</sup> First-fruits. The 144,000 who were sealed, ch. 7.3-8, and are now produced as the immediate companions of Christ for the confirmation of the patience and hope of the church.—C.
<sup>u</sup> Ps. 32.2. Zep. 3.13.
<sup>o</sup> Ep. 5.27. Je. 50.20.
Ca. 4.7. 1 Jn. 3.9. Lu. 1.6. Tit. 2.14. Col. 1.22.
Jude 24. Eze. 1.4.14.
<sup>5</sup> Without fault—because God their Saviour had kept them from falling, as the blood of the Lamb had cleansed them from all sin, 1 Jn. 1.7. Jude 24.25.—C.
<sup>p</sup> ch. 8.13. 2 Ti. 4.2. Is. 62.1, 6.7.
<sup>q</sup> 2 Sa. 23.5. Is. 40.8. Ep. 3.9. Mat. 10.27. 28. 19. Mar. 16.15. Lu. 21.33. 1 Pe. 1.25. ch. 10.11. 13.7.8.
<sup>r</sup> Mat. 10.27. Is. 58.1. Ho. 8.1. Ac. 20.21, 24.27.
<sup>s</sup> Pr. 1.7. Ps. 89.7. 96.7. ch. 15.3.4. 11.15-18. 19.21.18.18.19.
<sup>t</sup> Ps. 146.5.6. Ac. 14.15. Ex. 20.11.
<sup>u</sup> Is. 21.9. Je. 51.7, 8. ch. 8.2. 11.8. 16.19. 17.18.18.23.10.21.2. Th. 2.8.
<sup>6</sup> Babylon is fallen—fallen, but not yet destroyed. But the decree is gone forth—the process is begun—and none can stay it.—C.
<sup>v</sup> ch. 13.7, 8. 14.17. 17.2.13.15. Je. 3.6. Eze. 16.15-34. xliii.
<sup>x</sup> 2 Pe. 3.9. Je. 44.4. y ch. 13.4.8.12.14-16.
<sup>z</sup> Job 21.20. Ps. 75.8. Is. 51.17. Je. 25.15. ch. 16.19.18.6. 19.20.20.10. Ps. 11.6.2. Th. 1.9. Mat. 25.41. 13.49. 50. with Ge. 19.24. Jude 7.
<sup>a</sup> ch. 19.3.18.8.10.18. Is. 34.10. 33.14. 57.20. 21. Mat. 25.41.46. 2 Th. 1.9. Mar. 9.43.44.
<sup>b</sup> ch. 1.9. Hab. 2.10. 2 Th. 1.6.7. ch. 12.17. He. 6.12.10.32-36.
<sup>c</sup> ch. 19.9.1 Co. 15.18. 58. Phil. 3.9. 1 Th. 4.14. 16. He. 11.13. with 2 Pe. 1.11.
<sup>* The horses are those of the armies in heaven that follow the Lamb (ch. 19.14), the emblems of the swiftness and power of the gospel testimony, and of the judgments on the despisers who now wonder and perish.—C.</sup>

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

<sup>d</sup> Lu. 16.25. Is. 57.1. 2.2 Th. 1.6.7. He. 4.9. ch. 6.10.11. Th. 4.17.
<sup>7</sup> Or, from henceforth saith the Spirit, Yea.
<sup>e</sup> Ps. 19.11. 1 Co. 15.58.2 Ti. 4.7.8.
<sup>8</sup> The blessedness proclaimed here is prospective. The time when it will be realized is at or near the coming of Christ. The statement 'from henceforth' does not mean from the time when John was ordered to write, but from the time to which the blessedness refers. The idea of a special blessing is conveyed, and the speciality consists in the fact that the period of the consummation of all blessings to the redeemed church would then be at hand.—P.
<sup>g</sup> Is. 19.1. Ps. 97.2. ch. 1.7. 10.1. 20.11. Ex. 24.10.
<sup>h</sup> ch. 1.13. Ps. 80.17. Zec. 13.7. Jn. 1.14. Eze. 1.26. Da. 7.13. Mat. 16.13.
<sup>i</sup> Ps. 21.3. He. 2.9. ch. 19.12.11.7.6.2.
<sup>j</sup> ver. 15-17. Joel 3.13. Je. 51.33.
<sup>k</sup> ch. 1.20.16.17.2 Co. 5.20. or Ps. 103.20. He. 1.14.
<sup>l</sup> Is. 62.1, 6.7. 45.11. ch. 6.10.
<sup>m</sup> Joel 3.13. Mat. 13.39. Je. 51.33. Is. 63.4. 34.8. ch. 15.1.2. Da. 7.22. 26.27.
<sup>n</sup> Or, dried.
<sup>o</sup> 2 Sa. 22.7. Ne. 9.27. ver. 19. ch. xvi. 2 Th. 2.8.
<sup>p</sup> ch. 15.1.7. xvi. xviii.
<sup>q</sup> ver. 15. ch. 6.9. 10.11.5.16.18.
<sup>r</sup> See ver. 15. Ps. 132.8. 122.6-9. Is. 62.1, 6.7.
<sup>s</sup> See ver. 15. 19. Is. 45.11.
<sup>t</sup> De. 32.32.33. Is. 63.1-4. ch. 16.16. 19.15-21. 11.13. with 6.12-17.
<sup>u</sup> La. 1.15. Is. 63.3. ch. 11.13.18.
<sup>v</sup> ch. 11.8. 21.27. 22.15. 20.9. 19.14. He. 13.11.12. Is. 34.7. 66.24.
<sup>1</sup> See note * in first column.
<sup>2</sup> A thousand six hundred furlongs—equal to 200 Italian miles—the exact extent of that portion of the papal territories called 'St. Peter's Patrimony' (Fos. Mede).—C.

CHAP. XV.

<sup>a</sup> With ch. 12.1. 11.14-18.2 Th. 2.8.
<sup>b</sup> ch. 1.20.5.6.8.2.6. 10.3. xvi.
<sup>c</sup> ch. 8.2.6. 16.1-17. 21.9. ver. 6.
<sup>d</sup> ch. 11.14. 16.17. 14.10. xvi.
<sup>e</sup> ch. 4.5.6. 17.14. Mat. 3.11. Is. 4.4.5.
<sup>f</sup> ch. 13.15-17. 7.4. 10.14. 1-5. 11.11.12. Eze. 37.10.

die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit,<sup>7</sup> that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them.<sup>8</sup>

14 And I looked, and behold a white cloud, and upon the cloud one sat like unto the Son of man, having on his head a golden crown, and in his hand a sharp sickle.

15 And another angel came out of the temple, crying with a loud voice to him that sat on the cloud, Thrust in thy sickle, and reap: for the time is come for thee to reap; for the harvest of the earth is ripe.<sup>9</sup>

16 And he that sat on the cloud thrust in his sickle on the earth; and the earth was reaped.

17 And another angel came out of the temple which is in heaven, he also having a sharp sickle.

18 And another angel came out from the altar, which had power over fire; and cried with a loud cry to him that had the sharp sickle, saying, Thrust in thy sharp sickle, and gather the clusters of the vine of the earth; for her grapes are fully ripe.

19 And the angel thrust in his sickle into the earth, and gathered the vine of the earth, and cast it into the great wine-press of the wrath of God.

20 And the wine-press was trodden without the city, and blood came out of the wine-press, even unto the horse-bridles,<sup>1</sup> by the space of a thousand and six hundred furlongs.<sup>2</sup>

CHAPTER XV.

1 The seven angels with the seven last plagues. 3 The song of them that overcome the beast. 7 The seven vials full of the wrath of God.

AND I saw another sign in heaven, great and marvellous, seven angels having the seven last plagues; for in them is filled up the wrath of God.

2 And I saw as it were a sea of glass mingled with fire: and them that had gotten the victory over the beast, and over his image, as by 'the sword of his mouth,' will pass with little observation, like his tears shed over Jerusalem, and be treated with neglect and contempt till physical judgments succeed? The allusion of this emblem seems to be to the messenger of the Sanhedrim coming out of the temple to proclaim the cutting down of the 'first-fruits' of the harvest—before which proclamation it was unlawful for any one to begin reaping. C.

REFLECTIONS.—The cause of Jesus Christ and his faithful followers will triumph at last. And glorious is the appearance of his saints when they answer their character in qualities and works, and have Christ among them owning and honouring them. Happy they when marked with the Father's Spirit and image—purified from idolatry and superstition, weaned from the world, and made sincere and upright in their profession of the pure doctrines of the gospel, and steady in their imitation of and obedience to Christ. Their consciences are now freed from guilt and condemnation, through faith in his righteousness; and when patience hath had her perfect work, and their prescribed course of holiness is finished, death shall only usher them into the heavenly mansions, to receive their everlasting but gracious rewards. What an inestimable mercy was the pure preaching of the gospel at the Reformation, after so long and heavy a night of popish darkness! and what a humbling stroke to the antichristian interest, and sure prelude of its downfall! For certain, dreadful, but righteous and gradual, punishment shall overtake the obstinate abettors of it in this world, much more in hell.

CHAPTER XV. Ver. 1, 2. The sea of glass mingled with fire is the infinitely pure and efficacious righteousness of Christ, by which he appeased the fiery resentments of divine justice, and through which the influences of the Holy Ghost are conveyed, and the perfections and favours of God marvellously discovered; and on which, as their foundation, the saints in heaven and earth stand with complete acceptance, confidence, and triumph before God. 6. These messengers of God's vengeance appear arrayed as high-priests, to denote the sanctity of their character and their awful ministrations, in answer from God to the prayers of his people. 7. The receiving their vials filled from the first, or lion-like living creature, imports that love to the gospel influences them, and that their work fulfils the threatenings of God's Word declared by ministers. 8. The smoke filling the temple may denote the awful and confounding judgments of God obstructing all prayers for the antichristians, and excluding them from all merciful entrance into his church.

Ver. 2. This sea of glass—rather, crystalline—was not a geographical sea, but a large vessel in the temple called a sea (1 Ki.

7. 23-39) used by the priests for washing, 2 Ch. 4. 6. This sea in the temple was of brass, emblematic of strength—the prophetic sea of crystal, emblematic of purity.—Mingled with fire, as an emblem of purifying judgments.—Note, Under the providence of a wise and merciful God, the hour that has most troubled has always most purified his church. Persecution cleanseth the church of hypocrites and lukewarm professors, excites the spirit of prayer, exercises patience, separates from the world, and produces an earnest longing to depart and be with Christ, Phil. 1. 23.—Gotten the victory, &c. Rather, 'who had conquered;' or literally, 'who were conquering (by escaping from) the beast'—so ἐκ τοῦ θηρίου requires.—On the sea. Rather, 'by the sea' (Scholfield). C.

Ver. 8. No man was able to enter into the temple, so as to penetrate the mystery, till the signs of the times and the acts of Providence opened it (comp. ch. 16. 17 with 17. 1, &c.), or to give God thanks for the judgment, till the judgment was completed. Comp. Ps. 100. 4 with ch. 19. 1-6. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Glorious is their triumph who stand in the immediate and ever-gracious presence of God, accepted in Jesus' gracious sacrifice, and through faith victorious over all their spiritual enemies. Sweetly and solemnly they sing of mercy and judgment, and of the wonderful events of providence and grace, to the honour of Jehovah and his Son.—What adorable perfections delightfully shine forth in his nature and conduct! Happy will be that period when all nations shall be converted to and worship him, and when his judgments shall be fully manifested in the complete abolition of Popish and Mahometan delusions! Fixed and over his mark, and over the number of his name, <sup>h</sup>stand on the sea of glass, having <sup>i</sup>the harps of God.

3 And <sup>j</sup>they sing <sup>k</sup>the song of Moses the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb, <sup>l</sup>saying, 'Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; <sup>m</sup>just and true are thy ways, thou <sup>n</sup>King of saints.

4 Who <sup>p</sup>shall not fear thee, O Lord, and glorify thy name? for thou only art holy: for all <sup>q</sup>nations shall come and worship before thee; for thy judgments are made manifest.

5 And after that I looked, and, behold, <sup>r</sup>the temple of the tabernacle of the testimony in heaven was opened:

6 And <sup>s</sup>the seven angels came out of the temple, having the seven plagues, <sup>t</sup>clothed in pure and white linen, and having their breasts girded with golden girdles.

7 And <sup>u</sup>one of the four beasts gave unto the seven angels seven golden <sup>v</sup>vials, <sup>2</sup>full of the wrath of God, who <sup>w</sup>liveth for ever and ever.

8 And the temple <sup>x</sup>was filled with smoke from the glory of God, and from his power; and <sup>y</sup>no man was able to enter into the temple till <sup>3</sup>the seven plagues of the seven angels were fulfilled.

CHAPTER XVI.

<sup>2</sup> The angels pour out their vials full of wrath. <sup>6</sup> The plagues that follow thereupon. <sup>15</sup> Christ cometh as a thief. Blessed are they that watch.

AND I heard <sup>a</sup>a great voice out of the temple saying to the <sup>b</sup>seven angels, 'Go your ways, and pour out the vials of the wrath of God upon the earth.

2 And the first went, and poured out his vial <sup>d</sup>upon the earth; <sup>e</sup>and there fell a noisome and grievous sore upon the men <sup>f</sup>which had the mark of the beast, and <sup>g</sup>upon them which worshipped his image.

is God's decree of their ruin, and fearful but infallible the execution. Yea, all the proper instruments shall stand ready to accomplish it in his time.

CHAPTER XVI. Ver. 1. Already the antichristians have had fearful earnestness of these vials of divine wrath poured out upon them. From A.D. 713 to 734 the Mahometan Saracens poured themselves into Spain and the south of France, rendering much of those countries a comparative desert. From A.D. 830 to 980 the contentions among the descendants of Charles the Great, emperor of Germany and king of France, and the ravages of the Hungarians in Italy and Sicily, deluged those countries with human blood. From A.D. 1090 to 1290 not a few millions were cut off, and most of Europe reduced to the brink of ruin by the sacred, or rather Papal, war for the recovery of Canaan from the Mahometan Seljukian Turks and Saracens. From 1200 to 1370 the contentions of the Gueffs and Gibellines, or Pope's and emperor's parties, rendered Italy and Germany a scene of human carnage and blood. From 1370 to 1447 the repeated schisms of the Popes and the oppression of the Bohemians occasioned terrible wars in Spain, France, Germany, and Italy. Between 1486 and 1534 a sweating sickness and other pestilential disorders carried off prodigious multitudes in England, Germany, and France. From about 1370 to 1698 the Ottoman Turks proved a terrible scourge to the papists in Hungary, Poland, Italy, Germany, Mediterranean isles, &c. But nothing has more tormented the Pope and his adherents, or more shaken their dominion, than the revolt of almost half their subjects in the Protestant Reformation, between A.D. 1517 and 1570, and the legal establishment thereof by the edict of Nantes, 1598, and treaty of Westphalia in 1648, &c. Nevertheless, the plagues chiefly intended in this chapter seem all to be still future, and will perhaps happen during the thirty years of fearful calamities by which the glorious millennium will probably be introduced. Without daring to be positive, under the first vial poured on the earth, I expect the infallibility and supremacy of the Pope, the authority of traditions, the doctrine of human merits, and other earthly and carnal foundations of Popery; or the Pope's power in the inland countries of Germany, Poland, and Hungary will, to his and his votaries' shame and vexation, be quite overturned. Under the second, poured into the sea, ver. 3, I expect the credit of the Romish religion will be remarkably blasted, and its damnable nature clearly manifested, or the maritime countries of Portugal, Spain, and Naples plagued with famine, pestilence, earthquakes, and war. Under the third, poured on the rivers and fountains, ver. 4-7, I expect the wickedness and deceit of the Popish doctors, and their defences of their religion, will be clearly exposed, their cardinals, bishops, priests, and monks proved murderers of souls, and many of them cut off by untimely deaths; or the well-watered countries of Switzerland, north of Italy, and south of France, where the Waldenses, Protestants, or others, were murdered for the sake of Christ, will be deluged with antichristian blood. Under the fourth, poured on the sun, ver. 8, 9, I hope

3 And <sup>h</sup>the second angel poured out his vial upon the sea; <sup>1</sup>and it became as the blood of a dead man: and every living soul died in the sea.

4 And <sup>i</sup>the third angel poured out his vial upon the rivers and fountains of waters; and they became blood.

5 And I heard the <sup>j</sup>angel of the waters <sup>2</sup>say, <sup>k</sup>'Thou art righteous, O Lord, <sup>l</sup>which art, and wast, and shalt be, because thou hast judged thus.

6 For <sup>m</sup>they have shed the blood of saints and prophets, and thou hast given them blood to drink; for they are worthy.

7 And I heard <sup>n</sup>another out of the altar say, Even so, Lord God Almighty, true and righteous are thy judgments.

8 And <sup>p</sup>the fourth angel poured out his vial upon the sun; <sup>3</sup>and power was given unto <sup>4</sup>him to scorch men with fire.

9 And men were scorched <sup>5</sup>with great heat, <sup>q</sup>and blasphemed the name of God, which hath power over these plagues: and <sup>r</sup>they repented not to give him glory.

10 And the fifth angel poured out his vial upon <sup>s</sup>the seat of the beast; and his kingdom was <sup>t</sup>full of darkness; and they gnawed their tongues for pain,

11 And <sup>u</sup>he blasphemed the God of heaven because of their pains and their sores, and repented not of their deeds.

12 And the sixth angel poured out his vial upon the <sup>v</sup>great river Euphrates; <sup>w</sup>and the water thereof was dried up, that the way of the kings of the east might be prepared.

13 And I saw three <sup>x</sup>unclean spirits like frogs <sup>6</sup>come out of the <sup>y</sup>mouth of the <sup>7</sup>dragon, and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the false prophet.

14 For <sup>a</sup>they are the spirits of devils, work-that the instructive light and spiritual warmth of the gospel will draw off the German emperor, French king, or others, who have long been the Papists' principal glory and support, to the Protestant side; and perhaps the natural sun may produce some very destructive plague. Under the fifth, poured on the seat of Antichrist, ver. 10, 11, I expect the frame of the Papal kingdom will be broken to pieces, and filled with disorder and confusion; the whole system of Popery be made to appear abominable and devilish, and Rome itself be turned into a horrible desert—which will occasion terrible grief, pain, and blasphemy among the Papists, chiefly those who have enriched themselves by her idolatry and superstition. Under the sixth, poured into the river Euphrates, ver. 12-16, I expect Mahometanism will be abolished, and the conversion of the eastern nations begun; the Papists and their adherents, assisted by their clerical missionaries, receive a terrible defeat at the battle of Armageddon; the Pope's proper share of Italy be almost covered with carcasses, the rivers swelled with blood, the Protestant victors enriched with the spoil, and many, alarmed by the event, turned to the Lord. Under the seventh, poured into the air, ver. 17-21, I expect the last remains of the popish doctrine, worship, discipline, and government, monasteries and dignities, will be utterly abolished, and the obstinate adherents thereto, who had fled to the isles of Malta, Sicily, &c., be cut off by the fearful vengeance of God.

Ver. 12. Euphrates. For the meaning of 'Euphrates,' see note on ch. 9. 14.—Kings of the east. A title perhaps emblematic

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

<sup>h</sup> Ro. 5.1-5; 8.1,33. 2 Co. 5.21. Phi. 3.9.
<sup>i</sup> ch. 5.8; 14.2.
<sup>j</sup> ch. 5.9,10; 7. 10, 12; 14.3; 19.1-7.
<sup>k</sup> Ex. 15.1-19. De. 32. 1-43. ch. 5.9-12; 14.3.
<sup>l</sup> Both songs of triumph over, by escape from, enslaving and cruel enemies. Comp. ver. 3, 4. with Ex. 15. 1-21. C.—Moses' song of triumph, sung on the occasion of the escape of the Israelites through the Red Sea, was typical, and therefore prophetic. It was typical of our Lord's triumph over the enemies of his church, and on account of the complete and final salvation of his people from all opposed to them—from death, and sin, and hell.—P.

<sup>m</sup> Ps. 111.2; 139.14; 86. 8.
<sup>n</sup> Ps. 145.17. De. 32. 4. Ps. 111.3-9. Mi. 7.20. ch. 16.5-7. Ho. 14.9.
<sup>o</sup> Je. 10. 7, 10. ch. 17. 14; 19.16.
<sup>p</sup> Je. 10.7. Ex. 15.2,7. 11,15.16. Ho. 3.5. Is. 60. 5. Ps. 86.8-10. 1 Sa. 2.2.
<sup>q</sup> Is. 45.23; 66.23. Ps. 72.8. Zec. 2.11; 14.9-21.
<sup>r</sup> ch. 11.19. Nu. 1.50. 2 Ch. 29.3. Ex. 25.21.
<sup>s</sup> ver. 1,7; ch. xvi.; 21. 9.

<sup>t</sup> ch. 1.13. Is. 13.3. Ep. 6.14. Lu. 12.35,36. 1 Pe. 1. 13. Ex. 28.6,8. Eze. 44.17,18.
<sup>u</sup> ch. 4.6-9; 5. 6,8,10; 6.1,2,5,7; 18.4-7; 11.5.
<sup>v</sup> ver. 1; ch. xvi. Ps. 75.8. 1 Sa. 15. 3. Je. 25. 15; 48.10.

<sup>w</sup> Vials. Rather, 'bowls or basins.'—C.
<sup>x</sup> ch. 1.18; 4.9,10; 5.14; 10.6,2 Th. 1.9.
<sup>y</sup> Is. 6.4. Ps. 29.9; 18. 8, 14, with 1 Ki. 8. 10. Ex. 40.34,35.

<sup>z</sup> Je. 7.27; 15.1. La. 3. 44. Ro. 11.33. Ps. 36.6.

<sup>3</sup> i.e. not at all, Ge. 8.7. Ps. 112.8; 110.1. Ac. 3.21.

CHAP. XVI.

<sup>a</sup> ch. 8.5,13; 15. 1; 1. 10,9,13; 11.12; 13.3,4.
<sup>b</sup> ch. 15.1,6,7; 21.9.
<sup>c</sup> 1 Sa. 15.3. Je. 48.10. Eze. 9.5,6. ch. 14.9-11.
<sup>d</sup> ch. 8.7. Ps. 17.14.
<sup>e</sup> Ex. 9.8-11. Is. 1.5,6.
<sup>f</sup> ch. 13. 15-17; 14-9-11.

<sup>6</sup> From the mouth of the dragon—lies (Jn. 8. 44).—Of the beast—degrees of persecution.—Of the false prophet—vain indulgences, assuming authority over the life to come.—C.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

<sup>h</sup> ch. 8.8,9. Ex. 7.17-20. Eze. 16.38.
<sup>i</sup> The sea. Not maritime powers, as some interpret, but popular calamities, according to the prophetic exposition of the emblem, ch. 17.1-15.—C.
<sup>j</sup> ch. 8.10,11. Ex. 7.17, 19,20. ver. 6.
<sup>k</sup> ver. 4.

<sup>l</sup> Angel of the waters. The third angel (ver. 4) commissioned to change the waters to blood—a vial and sign against slavery and upon slaveholding nations, whether the slavery be spiritual or temporal. See Ex. 6. 16-21.—C.
<sup>m</sup> ver. 7; ch. 11.17,18; 15.3; 19.2. Ps. 97.2,8; 58. 10,11.2 Th. 1.5-9.

<sup>n</sup> ch. 1.4,8; 4.8; 11.17. 11 ch. 13. 7,15; 11. 7; 18.20,24; 17.6. Mat. 23. 34; 7.2. Je. 51.35. De. 32. 42,43. Is. 49. 26; 51. 22, 23.

<sup>o</sup> ch. 6.9; 14. 10; 19.1, 2; 15.3; 13.10.
<sup>p</sup> ch. 8.12; 17.16. Le. 26.16. Ps. 5.30; 34.8-10; 66.15. ch. 9.17,18.

<sup>q</sup> The sun. The powers of human governments (Is. 13. 10-19) stimulated to severity by popular tumults, seditions, and rebellions.—C.

<sup>r</sup> Unto it, that is, the sun, which is made the symbolic agent in the execution of this awful curse and plague.—P.

<sup>s</sup> Or, burned.

<sup>t</sup> ver. 11,21. 2 Ch. 28. 22. Je. 5.3,2 Ki. 6.33. Is. 8.21; 1.5.

<sup>u</sup> ver. 11; ch. 9.20,21; 11.13. Jos. 7.19. Je. 13. 16. Am. 4. 6-12. Da. 5. 22,23.

<sup>v</sup> ch. 13.2-4; 11.8,17. 18; 19.

<sup>w</sup> Ex. 10.21-23. ch. 9. 2; 11.10; 18.11-19. Is. 8. 21,22. Mat. 8.12; 13.42; 22.13.

<sup>x</sup> ver. 2,9,21; ch. 9.20, 21,2 Ti. 3.13. 2 Ki. 6.33. Da. 5.22,23.

<sup>y</sup> Is. 8.7; ch. 9.14.

<sup>z</sup> Je. 50.38; 51.36. ch. 17. 15. Is. 44. 27; 42. 15; 11.15; 41.2,25.

<sup>3</sup> Jn. 4.1, 2. ver. 14, with Ex. 8.2-6.

<sup>6</sup> Spirits like frogs. Amphibious animals (Ex. 8.4), the emblems of hypocrites conforming themselves to every state of society.—C.

<sup>7</sup> See note <sup>a</sup> in first column.

<sup>a</sup> 1 Ti. 4. 1. Jn. 8.44. ch. 2.10; 13.13,14; 19.20. Ja. 3. 15. 2 Th. 2.9. Lu. 12.39. Mat. 24.24. 2 Pe. 2.1,1 Jn. 5.19.

ing miracles, which go forth unto the kings of the earth and of the whole world, <sup>b</sup>to gather them to the battle of that great day of God Almighty.

15 Behold,<sup>c</sup> I come as a thief.<sup>8</sup> Blessed is he that watcheth, and keepeth his garments, lest he walk naked, and they see his shame.

16 And he<sup>9</sup> gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrew tongue Armageddon.<sup>1</sup>

17 And the seventh angel poured out his vial <sup>a</sup>into the air;<sup>2</sup> and <sup>e</sup>there came a great voice out of the temple of heaven, from the throne, saying, <sup>9</sup>It is done.<sup>3</sup>

18 And<sup>b</sup> there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings; and there was a great earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake, and so great.

19 And <sup>i</sup>the great city was divided into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell: and great Babylon came in remembrance before God, <sup>j</sup>to give unto her the cup of the wine of the fierceness of his wrath.

20 And<sup>k</sup> every island fled away, and the mountains were not found.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

<sup>b</sup> ch. 17.14; 19.19; 20.8, 9; 14.16, 19, 20. 1 Ki. 22.22.
<sup>c</sup> Mat. 24.43. <sup>ch.</sup> 3.3; 4.18, 2 Pe. 3.10. 1 Th. 5.2, 3. Lu. 12.39. Mat. 22.12, 13. 2 Co. 5.3.

<sup>8</sup> The symbolical events mentioned in verses 13 and 14 were precursors of the Lord's coming. Upon their appearing, his advent in glory might be expected immediately. Hence the solemn warning to be prepared. He shall come <sup>i</sup>as a thief—when least expected—when the world is slumbering and unprepared. We are warned to keep on our garments of righteousness, so that our sins may be completely covered at his coming.—P.

<sup>9</sup> God, Joel 3.2, 11-14. ch. 11.13; 17.14; 19.17-21, with Ju. 4.16; 5.19-21. Is. 37.36. Ps. 110.5, 6.

<sup>1</sup> Armageddon—'mountain of destruction,' most probably an allusion to Megiddo, where Sisera was overthrown, Ju. 5.19.—C.

<sup>d</sup> Ep. 2.2.

<sup>2</sup> The air. The seat of Satan's empire. Ep. 2.2.—C.

<sup>e</sup> ver. 1; ch. 11.19; 14.17; 5.5; 21.22.

<sup>f</sup> Ju. 19.30. ch. 10.6, 7; 21.6.

<sup>3</sup> These words were uttered probably in allusion to the fact that this was the last of the seven last plagues. The vials of wrath were now exhausted.—P.

<sup>h</sup> ch. 4.5; 8.5; 11.19, 13. Da. 12.1.

<sup>i</sup> ch. 11.8, 13; 14.8; 17.18; 18.2.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

<sup>1</sup> Ex. 9.23-26. Jos. 10.11. Is. 30.26-30. Eze. 38.22. ch. 8.7; 11.19.

<sup>u</sup> ver. 9, 11. Is. 8.21. ch. 11.18. 2 Ki. 6.33. Je. 5.3. Is. 1.5. Mat. 3.12.

CHAP. XVII.

<sup>a</sup> ch. 15.1, 6, 7; 16.2-4. 8, 10, 12, 17; 21.9.

<sup>b</sup> ch. 4.1; 21.9, 10; ver. 3; ch. 6.1, 2, 5, 7.

<sup>c</sup> ch. 11.13; 14.8-11, 14-20; xvi. xviii. xix.

<sup>d</sup> Eze. xxiii. Na. 3.4. ch. 19.2; 11.8; xiii. 2 Th. 2.3-12. 2 Ti. 3.1-6. 1 Ti. 4.1-3. ver. 3-6, 15. Je. 51.13. ver. 15.

<sup>e</sup> ver. 13, 17; ch. 18.3, 9; 13.4, 8, 12; 14.8; 11.2. Je. 51.7, 2. 1 Ti. 3.1-6; 4.3, 4. 1 Ti. 4.1-3. Da. 11.36-39.

<sup>f</sup> ch. 1.10; 21.10; 4.2. Eze. 3.12, 14. Ac. 8.39.

<sup>h</sup> ch. 18.2. Is. 13.21; 34.14, with Is. 5.1. Ca. 4.12; 5.16, 2.

<sup>i</sup> ch. 13.1, 5, 7; ver. 6-18.

<sup>1</sup> By the woman sitting on the wild beast is signified that superintending and guiding power which the rider possesses over his beast, than which nothing can be chosen more apt to represent the superiority claimed and exercised by the see of Rome over the secular kingdoms of Christendom (cf. Jord.). For centuries Rome ruled supreme in Europe. The various monarchs carried out the plans of the pope; they were used as instruments to oppose and persecute all who ventured to question his authority, or who dared to exercise free thought on matters of faith.—P.

21 And<sup>l</sup> there fell upon men a great hail out of heaven, every stone about the weight of a talent: <sup>m</sup>and men blasphemed God because of the plague of the hail; for the plague thereof was exceeding great.

CHAPTER XVII.

3, 4 A woman arrayed in purple and scarlet, with a golden cup in her hand, sitteth upon the beast, which is great Babylon, the mother of all abominations. 9 The interpretation of the seven heads, 12 and the ten horns. 8 The punishment of the whore. 14 The victory of the Lamb.

AND there came <sup>a</sup>one of the seven angels which had the seven vials, and <sup>b</sup>talked with me, saying unto me, Come hither; I will show unto thee <sup>c</sup>the judgment of the <sup>d</sup>great whore that sitteth upon many waters:

2 With<sup>e</sup> whom the kings of the earth have committed fornication, and the inhabitants of the earth have been made drunk with the wine of her fornication.

3 So<sup>f</sup> he carried me away in the spirit into <sup>h</sup>the wilderness: and I saw <sup>i</sup>a woman sit upon a scarlet-coloured beast,<sup>1</sup> full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns.

4 And<sup>j</sup> the woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet colour, and decked<sup>2</sup> with gold and precious stones and pearls, <sup>k</sup>having a golden <sup>f</sup> ver. 18; ch. 18.3, 7, 12, 16. Da. 11.38; 7.8, 24.

<sup>2</sup> Gr. gilded.

<sup>k</sup> Je. 51.7. Mat. 23.25, 2. Th. 2.3, 4, 9. 2 Ti. 3.2-5. ch. 11.8, 13; 5.6, 12; 14.8; 18.6. Da. 7.25; 11.36-39.

of sincere inquirers after Christ, in allusion to the magi, Mat. 1.1, 2, whom ecclesiastical tradition represents as kings. This interpretation is favoured by the fact that wherever Popery has power, whether popular or legal, free inquiry after Christ in the Scripture is authoritatively suppressed. C.

Ver. 19. The great city (mystical Babylon) was divided into three parts, instead of ten as formerly—either three great monarchies or three great parties; and if the latter, these parties most probably will be, Papal, political Protestant, and infidel.—Note. All spiritual Protestantism will have utterly separated from aiding and abetting the Babylonian powers, Re. 18.4.—The cities of the nations—the ten kingdoms—fell—were revolutionized and swallowed up in the three. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Gradual, but terrible and righteous, are the judgments of God which shall in due time be executed upon Popish idolaters and persecutors, and their ungodly companions in wickedness. Actuated by unclean diabolical spirits, and instigated by false teachers, they may for a little time gather themselves to contend with the almighty Redeemer, obstinately persist in their abominable courses, and blaspheme God, as if he injured them. But quickly the vials of his wrath shall be poured out upon them, answerable to their guilt, till they be utterly and irrecoverably ruined. And unexpected, fearful, extensive, sudden, and destructive shall be their punishment. Happy are they who shall be found faithful to Christ and righteousness, adorned with his grace, and watchfully preparing to meet him! While others howl and blaspheme for vexation of spirit, these shall rejoice in the Lord, and applaud the truly righteous and faithful realization of his purpose.

CHAPTER XVII. Ver. 1. I will give you an account of her sins, and of God's righteous procedure in condemning and punishing her. The Papal state at Rome is called a Whore, because of their treacherous apostasy from Christ and his Father to idolatry and every other wickedness, while they pretend to be the spouse or church of Christ. Her sitting on many waters denotes her ruling over many nations with magnificent pomp, power, luxury, and other allurements. 2. The wine of her fornication includes all the Popish arts and allurements, honours, preferments, external pomp of habits, processions, and worship, pretended miracles, dispensations, pardons, and other specious motives by which men are drawn into her idolatrous principles and practices. 3. Her being in the wilderness may denote her tyranny over the poor afflicted followers of Christ. The scarlet-coloured beast, full of names of blasphemy, and having seven heads and ten horns, is the Roman empire, as Papal, marked with imperial dignity, and with bloody and persecuting cruelty—pretending infallibility and unlimited supremacy, promoting idolatry and error, and which, after seven different forms of civil government, was divided into ten different kingdoms. 4. Her being clothed with purple and scarlet, and decked with gold, precious stones, and pearls, points out her Popes and cardinals as assuming imperial authority, and stained with the blood of saints; and the wealth, grandeur, and power of her palaces, churches, and monasteries. Her golden cup, full of abominations and filthiness of fornication, denotes her whole system of abominable errors, idolatries, and superstitions, varnished over with bold pretences to miracles, pardons, and indulgences, and to her being the only true church, and the like. 5. It is easy to observe that she is formed by the most shocking multitude of errors and crimes, invented and carried on in the most deep, secret, and unsearchable methods, even amidst the highest pretences of being the catholic and only church of Christ; and that, possessed of the most extensive jurisdiction, and notorious for idolatry, pride, luxury, and oppression, she is the parent, ringleader, supporter, and nourisher of idolatry, superstition, error, uncleanness, and every other abominable crime. 6. I was astonished at her grandeur, cruelty, and dreadful wickedness, and at the patience of God in suffering her so long to tyrannize over his beloved people. 8. The beast, or Roman empire, has, under the Popes, a form of government different from all its ancient ones, but which retains their whole authority, power, wealth, idolatry, persecuting cruelty, and other wickedness; and though this Papal form hath its origin from diabolic craft and influence, and leads men into everlasting damnation, yet it is admired and implicitly submitted to by all within its reach, except the faithful ones of God. 9, 10. The seven heads of the beast point at the seven mountains on which Rome was built, and the seven forms of its government, by kings, consuls, dictators, decemvirs, military tribunes, emperors heathen and Christian, and Gothic kings, which took place before the establishment of the Papal authority. 11. Though the Pope's civil power may, in respect of time, be called the eighth, yet, as it succeeds to the heathen imperial authority, and is an idolatrous power, it is the seventh and last idolatrous form of government, comprehending all the power and wickedness of the six preceding. 12-14. The ten horns are the ten or several kingdoms into which the western empire of Rome was divided when the Papal power was established, all of which submitted to the Popish abominations, and exerted all their power to establish them, and force men to submit to them; and under the pontifical influence, to their own ruin, violently set themselves against Christ, to oppose and subvert his doctrines, institutions, cause, interests, and people. 16, 17. In God's time these kingdoms shall withdraw their subjection and support from the Papal state, and, by wars, statutes, and the like, shall concur to destroy it; for it is only for a limited time that, by his overruling their sinful inclinations, he will, for the fulfilment of his purposes and predictions, permit them, under the instigation of Satan, to yield up their strength, riches, and authority to promote the Papal power, idolatries, superstitions, and errors. 18. The antichristian power, civil and ecclesiastical, is to be seated in the hand of Popes and cardinals, and raised to its height in the city of Rome, which is at present the residence of the Roman emperors.

Ver. 1. The seventh seal, ch. 8.1, the seventh trumpet, ch. 11.15, and the seventh vial, contain many more particulars in each than any of the other seals, trumpets, or vials. Of this difference one reason is obvious—the deeper interest of the church in the downfall of Antichrist, and the introduction of the kingdom of glory, than in all the rising, continuance, and downfall of the secular kingdoms of the world. C.

Ver. 3. Full of names of blasphemy. Rome having in her heathen state adopted the gods of all nations, and given them a temple in her pantheon, and blasphemously declared them entitled to worship; and having in her Papal state raised apostles, angels, and imaginary saints without number, to the dignity of mediators, and blasphemously declared them, together with images, pictures, relics, and bread and wine, entitled to that worship which is due to God alone. C.

Ver. 4. Fornication. The prophetic emblem of religion prostituted for gain, Is. 23.17, and realized in the simoniacal sale of ecclesiastical dignities, and the most scandalous traffic in indulgences and masses, by which Papal Rome has been enriched and disgraced. C.

Ver. 6. Thousands of these 'martyrs of Jesus' fell during the Papal crusades against the Waldenses and Albigenses; multitudes during the reign of Mary in England; in the Bartholomew massacre of the Huguenots in France; in the dragonnades that followed on the revocation of the edict of Nantes; and in every page of the history of the infamous Inquisition, which, though now happily extirpated (at least for a time) in every other Papal country in Europe, still subsists in Italy, and preserves its throne in Rome. C.

Ver. 16. The ten horns . . . shall hate the whore. These ten kingdoms shall hate her, not because of her sins against God, but because of her arrogant assumption of power over kings—giving all their strength to the imperial beast, ver. 13; while, in defence of their royal prerogatives, they put forth all their wrath against the Papal woman. C.

Ver. 17. God hath put it into their hearts, by giving them judicially over to their own counsels, Ps. 81.12; Ro. 1.24, 26, 28. C.

REFLECTIONS.—God takes pleasure to instruct and comfort his faithful servants. And he can exactly describe the antichristian Papacy, with all its mysteriousness, or anything else, long before it exists, and can make the distresses and plagues of his church confirmacup in her hand full of abominations and filthiness of her fornication:

5 And upon her forehead was a name written, "MYSTERY, "BABYLON THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS<sup>3</sup> AND ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH.

6 And I saw the woman drunken with the blood of the saints, and with the blood of the martyrs of Jesus: and when I saw her, "I wondered with great admiration.

7 And the angel said unto me, "Wherefore didst thou marvel? "I will tell thee the mystery of the woman, and of the beast that carrieth her, which hath the seven heads and ten horns.

8 The<sup>t</sup> beast that thou sawest was, and is not; and shall ascend out of the bottomless pit,<sup>4</sup> and "go into perdition: and "they that dwell on the earth shall wonder, whose names were not "written in the book of life from the foundation of the world, when they behold "the beast that was, and is not, and yet is.<sup>5</sup>

9 And "here is the mind which hath wisdom. The<sup>a</sup> seven heads are seven mountains, on which the woman sitteth.

10 And there are seven kings: five are fallen, and one is, and the other is not yet come; and when he cometh, he must continue a short space.

11 And<sup>b</sup> the beast that was, and is not, even he is the eighth,<sup>6</sup> and is of the seven, and goeth into perdition.

12 And the "ten horns which thou sawest are ten kings, which have received no kingdom as yet; but receive power as kings one hour<sup>7</sup> with the beast.

13 These<sup>d</sup> have one mind, and shall give their power and strength unto the beast.

14 These<sup>e</sup> shall make war with the Lamb, and the Lamb shall overcome them: "for he is Lord of lords, and King of kings: and "they that are with him are called, and chosen, and faithful.

15 And he saith unto me, "The waters which thou sawest, where the whore sitteth, are peoples, and multitudes, and nations, and tongues.

16 And the "ten horns which thou sawest upon the beast, these "shall hate the whore, and shall make her desolate and naked, and shall eat her flesh, and burn her with fire.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 90.

1 Is. 9. ch. 7.3; 14.1; 13.16.

2 Th. 2.7. 2 Ti. 3.1-5.

3 ch. 11.8; 14.8; 18.2, with Is. 14.12-14; 47.6, 7, 12, 13. Je. 50.38. 2 Th. 2.9. Da. 7.25; 11.36-39. 2 Ti. 3.1-6. 13. 1 Ti. 4.1-3. ch. xiii. 19.2.

3 Or, fornications.

4 Da. 7.21, 25. ch. 11.7; 14.13; 13.7; 16.6; 18.20, 24.

5 ch. 13.1, 11. Hab. 1.13.

6 With Is. 40.27. Lu. 24.5. Mar. 16.6.

7 ver. 1.3, 8-18.

8 ch. 13.1, 11; 11.7; 9.23. Da. 7.8, 20.

9 "The beast which was—the Roman empire—and is not—now so called, or by many imagined to be the same, shall ascend out of the abyss, the distractions of the dismembered empire; and finally, as the bearer of the blasphemous woman, "go into perdition."—Note. The word translated "bottomless pit" in this verse is not the same as the word so translated in ch. 9.11.—C.

10 ver. 11. Da. 7.11, 26; 11.45. 2 Th. 2.3, 8. ch. 13.10; 14.8-11, 15-20; xvi. xviii.; 19.15-21; 20.10.

11 ch. 13.3, 4, 7, 8, 12.

12 ch. 13.8, 20; 12; 21; 27; 3.5. Is. 4.3. Da. 12.1. Phil. 4.3. Lu. 10.20.

13 ch. 9.1-11; 13.1, 11, 14; ver. 3.

14 And yet is—that self-same Roman empire—subdivided in territory, but united in one spirit—having laid aside the name, but adopted the rites of heathenism, professing to worship Jehovah, but adhering to the worship of idols.—C.

15 ch. 13.18. Ec. 1.17.

16 ver. 3, 7; ch. 13.1; 12.3. Da. 7.17, 23.

17 ver. 8.2 Th. 2.7.

18 He is the eighth, "an eighth" king or form of government, and is of the seven—rather, "is (arises) out of the seven" (see Robinson's Lexicon).—C.

19 Da. 2.42; 7.20, 24. ch. 12.3; 13.1. Zec. 1.18-21.

20 One hour. Rather, "at the same hour." Even so, the ten kingdoms, and the eighth or papal form of the Roman empire arose out of the wreck of the united empire at one and the same period, being completely formed about 666.—C.

21 Pr. 1.14. Ro. 8.7. ch. 13.3, 4, 7.

22 ch. 11.7; 13.7; 16.14; 19.15-21; 14.8-20. Da. 7.21, 22, 25, 26; 2.44. Ps. 2.8, 9; 21.8-12; 110.5, 6. ch. 6.12-17.

23 1 Ti. 6.15. ch. 19.16; 1.5. Pr. 8.15, 16. De. 10.17. Da. 4.35.

24 ch. 14.1, 4. Mi. 5.8, 9.1. Pe. 2.9. He. 3.1. Ro. 8.30, 37. Jn. 15.16. ch. 2.10. Je. 50.44, 45.

25 Is. 8.7. ch. 13.3, 4, 7, 8, with 5.9; 7.9; ver. 1.

26 ver. 2, 10, 13.

27 ch. 11.13. Job 9.12, 22. 2 Sa. 13.15. Ps. 27.2. Da. 7.5. ch. 18.8, 9, 18.

28 Le. 21.9. Is. 13.17, 18. Je. 50.41, 42. Eze. 16.28-44. ch. 16.12.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 90.

1 Ac. 4.27, 28. Ps. 105.25. ch. 18.6, 7; 10.7, or ver. 13. Ro. 1.26, 2 Th. 2.10-12.

2 ch. 11.8; 14.8; 16.19; 18.2. Lu. 2.1. ch. 13.2; 12.3.

CHAP. XVIII.

1 The vision in this chapter is exhibited after the visions recorded from ch. 1.1 to the end of ch. xvii.

2 But the events foretold in ch. xviii. do not follow after in point of time, but merely in point of vision; for the fall of Babylon, proclaimed ch. 18.2, evidently synchronizes with a corresponding proclamation, ch. 14.7, 8.—C.

3 ch. xv. xvii.

4 ch. 14.6, 8; 1.20.

5 Another angel.

6 A vision of Christ the uncreated angel of the covenant in a new emblematic form.—C.

7 Eze. 43.2. Is. 60.1-3. 2 Co. 3.8, 2 Th. 2.8.

8 ch. 13.19, 21; 14.23; 21.9; 34.9-14. Je. 50.39; 51.8, 37, 64. ch. 14.8; 16.4; 17.2. 1 Ti. 4.1, 2, with Le. 17.7; xi. Mar. 5.2.

9 ch. 14.8; 17.2. Is. 47.15. Je. 51.7.

10 All (the) nations of the Roman empire to which the prophecy extends.—C.

11 ver. 11-19, 23. 2 Pe. 2.1, 3.

12 Or, power.

13 Ge. 19.12. Is. 48.20; 52.11. Je. 51.6, 45, 50; 50.8. Zec. 2.6, 7. 2 Co. 6.17.

14 ch. 28.9. Eze. 9.6. Je. 51.9. ch. 16.9. Ge. 19.13.

15 Je. 51.9. ch. 16.19.

16 ch. 13.10. Ps. 137.8. Je. 50.15, 20; 51.24, 49. 2 Ti. 4.14. ch. 14.10. Je. 16.18; 17.18. Ex. 21.23, 24; 22.4-9.

17 Fill to her double—not as an act of selfish and irritated retaliation, but as an act of that retributive justice whereby the thief was compelled, as a warning to others and a punishment to himself, to pay double the value of what he had stolen, Ex. 22.4, 7, 9.—C.

18 2 Th. 2.4, 8. Zep. 2.15. Is. 47.5-11. Eze. 28.2-10. Is. 22.12-14; 5.11-14.

19 ver. 10, 17, 19. Is. 47.9-11; 56.15; ch. 13.10; 17.16. Je. 51.6, 2 Th. 2.8.

20 ch. 15.7; 14.10; 11.17. Ps. 62.11. Je. 50.31, 34.

21 ver. 3, 7; ch. 16.14; 17.2, 17.

22 The kings of the earth are not the "ten horns," or kings de jure, among whom the Roman empire was divided; for these "shall hate the whore, and make her desolate, and burn her with fire" (ch. 17.16); but the kings de facto, the papal ecclesiastical orders by whose counsels, from the rise of Popery up to the time of the Reformation, Christendom was almost absolutely governed; and by whose counsels even Protestant kingdoms continue to be influenced in their policy, and misguided to their ruin.—C.

23 Eze. 26.16, 17; 27.30-32; 8.14. Ps. 58.10. Je. 50.40.

24 ver. 18; ch. 14.11; 19.3. Ge. 19.28.

25 Nu. 16.34. Is. 21.9. ch. 14.8.

17 For "God hath put in their hearts to fulfil his will, and to agree, and give their kingdom unto the beast, until the words of God shall be fulfilled.

18 And the woman which thou sawest "is that great city, which reigneth over the kings of the earth.

CHAPTER XVIII.

2 Babylon is fallen. 4 The people of God commanded to depart out of her. 9 The kings of the earth, 11 with the merchants and mariners, lament over her. 20 The saints rejoice for the judgments of God upon her.

AND after<sup>1</sup> these<sup>a</sup> things I saw "another<sup>2</sup> angel come down from heaven, having great power; "and the earth was lightened with his glory.

2 And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, "Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.

3 For<sup>e</sup> all nations<sup>3</sup> have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, "and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the abundance<sup>4</sup> of her delicacies.

4 And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, "Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues.

5 For<sup>i</sup> her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities.

6 Reward<sup>j</sup> her even as she rewarded you, and double unto her double according to her works: in the cup which she hath filled, fill to her double.<sup>5</sup>

7 How<sup>k</sup> much she hath glorified herself, and lived deliciously, so much torment and sorrow give her; for she saith in her heart, I sit a queen, and am no widow, and shall see no sorrow.

8 Therefore<sup>l</sup> shall her plagues come in one day, death, and mourning, and famine; and she shall be utterly burned with fire: "for strong is the Lord God who judgeth her.

9 And "the kings of the earth,<sup>6</sup> who have committed fornication and lived deliciously with her, "shall bewail her, and lament for her, when they shall see the "smoke of her burning,

10 Standing<sup>r</sup> afar off for the fear of her torment, saying, Alas, alas, that great city Baby-tions of his Word, on which she is built. Graceless church-members often run the most fearful lengths in wickedness and cruelty when left to themselves; yea, are active in seducing all around them. And multitudes, to their own temporal and eternal ruin, readily run after, and yield themselves to the worst deceivers, in the most furious opposition to Christ and his cause. But great is the mercy that he who has all power in heaven and earth takes part with his persecuted people, animates their faith and patience, emboldens them in their holy profession, and renders them faithful in adherence to himself. Quickly will he conquer all their enemies, and make the most zealous supporters of error, idolatry, and superstition to desert, hate, and oppose them, and to strip the seducers of their ill-gotten power and wealth, and punish them answerably to their crimes.

CHAPTER XVIII. Ver. 1-3. To punish her for corrupting the nations with her idolatry and other wickedness, and enriching her clergy with her traffic in divine things, the papal state shall be utterly destroyed, and exposed as a diabolical system of uncleanness, murder, and every other shocking abomination, and Rome shall be turned into a desolate and frightful heap of rubbish. 4-6. As at the Reformation multitudes revolted from Popery, to the advantage of their souls and their countries, so hereafter the faithful followers of Christ ought and shall break off every connection with it, and shall be God's instruments for ruining its power. 7, 8. The miseries of the obstinate Papists shall be dreadful, answerable to their former ambition, pride, luxury, and wealth. 11, 12, 15. Merchants may denote, not only such as trade in the commodities of life, but also the Romish clergy, who enrich themselves in selling spiritual offices, ordinances, pardons, deliverance from purgatory, and eternal happiness, to their deluded votaries.—The things mentioned, ver. 11-13, 22, 23, may either relate to the popish worship, to their relics, pardons, indulgences, to their costly images, rich furniture of churches and chapels, and rich dresses for their images and priests, the incense used at their altars, their use of musical instruments in their worship, their burning of lamps before their altars and images; or they may in general lon, that mighty city! for in one hour is thy judgment come.

11 And<sup>t</sup> the merchants of the earth shall weep and mourn over her; for no man buyeth their merchandise<sup>7</sup> any more;

12 The<sup>u</sup> merchandise of gold, and silver, and precious stones, and of pearls, and fine linen, and purple, and silk, and scarlet, and all thyine<sup>8</sup> wood,<sup>9</sup> and all manner vessels of ivory, and all manner vessels of most precious wood, and of brass, and iron, and marble,

13 And<sup>v</sup> cinnamon, and odours, and ointments, and frankincense, and wine, and oil, and fine flour, and wheat, and beasts, and sheep, and horses, and chariots, and slaves,<sup>1</sup> and souls of men.<sup>2</sup>

14 And<sup>x</sup> the fruits that thy soul lusted after are departed from thee, and all things which were dainty and goodly are departed from thee, and thou shalt find them no more at all.

15 The<sup>y</sup> merchants of these things, who were made rich by her, shall stand afar off for the fear of her torment, weeping and wailing,

16 And saying, <sup>z</sup>Alas, alas, that great city, that was clothed in fine linen, and purple, and scarlet, and decked with gold, and precious stones, and pearls!

17 For<sup>a</sup> in one hour so great riches are come to nought. <sup>b</sup>And every shipmaster, and all the company in ships, and sailors, and as many as trade by sea, stood afar off,<sup>3</sup>

18 And cried when they <sup>c</sup>saw the smoke of her burning, saying, <sup>d</sup>What city is like unto this great city!

19 And<sup>e</sup> they cast dust on their heads, and cried, weeping and wailing, saying, Alas, alas, that great city, <sup>f</sup>wherein were made rich all that had ships in the sea by reason of her costliness! <sup>g</sup>for in one hour is she made desolate.

20 Rejoice<sup>i</sup> over her, thou heaven, and ye holy apostles and prophets; for God hath avenged you on her.

21 And<sup>j</sup> a mighty angel took up a stone like a great millstone, and cast it into the sea, saying, Thus with violence shall that great city Babylon be thrown down, and shall be found no more at all.

22 And<sup>k</sup> the voice of harpers, and musicians, and of pipers, and trumpeters, shall be heard no more at all in thee; and no craftsman, of whatsoever craft he be, shall be found any more

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

s ver. 8, 17, 19. Is. 47.
9, 11. ch. 17. 1. Je. 51. 8.

t Eze. 27. 27-36; 26.
15-21. ver. 3; ch. 17. 17;
13. 17.

7 Their merchandise, in images, relics, rosaries, scapularies, and above all, masses and indulgences.—C.

u Eze. 27. 5-24. 1 Ki.
10. 11, 12. ch. 17. 4.

8 Or, sweet.

9 The meaning of thyine, translated thyite wood, is not specifically known.

It seems to have been a general name for all odoriferous woods; and from its occurrence after 'linen, and purple, and silk, and scarlet,' it seems, most probably, to refer to such as are used in ward- robes both for the preservation of garments from moths, and for communicating to them an agreeable perfume, or for being burned, as sandal-wood, and certain kinds of pastils are still burned by the rich and luxurious in various countries.—C.

v Pr. 7. 17. Ps. 23. 5.
Eze. 27. 13-22. Ps. 4. 7.

Is. 22. 13.

1 Or, bodices, Eze. 27.

13. 2 Pe. 2. 3.

2 Either the sale of men's lives and liberties in this world (as in the case of the Waldenses and Albigenses, and natives of Peru and Mexico), or the assertion of power either to shorten the residence and torture of 'the souls of men' in purgatory, or entirely to deliver them within a given period, and at a stipulated price.—C.

x Lu. 16. 25. ch. 16. 20;

12. 8.

y ver. 3, 9-14, 19, 23.

z ver. 10, 11; ch. 17. 4.

Lu. 16. 19. Eze. 27. 32.

1s. ver. 8, 10; ch. 17. 4.

1s. 47. 9, 11. Je. 51. 8. La.

4. 6.

b Is. 23. 14. Eze. 27.

29.

3 While it is evident that a great series of events will prepare for the downfall of the papal usurpation, it is equally evident that 'one hour' will complete it; and although the form and manner of the destruction is unknown, the event is not the less certain.—C.

c ver. 9; ch. 14. 11; 19.

3. Ge. 19. 28. Is. 34. 9, 10.

d ver. 10. Eze. 27. 32.

with ch. 13. 4. Is. 23. 8.

Je. 51. 37.

e Jos. 7. 6. 1 Sa. 4. 12. 2.

Sa. 13. 19. Ne. 9. 1. Job. 2.

12. Eze. 27. 30, 31. ver.

10. 16.

f ver. 3, 23.

g ver. 8, 10, 17. Is. 47.

9, 11. Je. 51. 8. La. 4. 6.

t Is. 44. 23; 49. 13. Je.

51. 38. ch. 19. 2. De. 32.

43. Ps. 96. 11-13. Lu. 11.

47. 50; 18. 7, 8.

j Ex. 15. 5. Ne. 9. 11.

Je. 51. 63, 64. ch. 12. 8; 16.

20. 2 Th. 2. 8.

k Is. 24. 8, 9. Je. 7. 34;

16. 9; 25. 10. Eze. 26. 13.

No joy, no business, no inhabitants shall be in Rome.

—C.

* As the Asiatic Babylon, the first seat of the four empires, has been depopulated, so as to answer most literally to this description of ruin; so, it is most probable, will European Rome, at their last seat, be as literally 'swept with the besom of destruction.'—C.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

Is. 24. 8. Je. 7. 34; 16.

9; 25. 10; 33. 11.

5 See note * in first column.

l Is. 23. 8. ver. 3, 9, 11;

ch. 17. 25, 13, 17; 13. 3. 4.

8, 14. 2 Ti. 3. 2-6; 4. 3, 4. 1

Ti. 4. 1-4. 2 Ki. 9. 22. Na.

3. 4.

n ch. 17. 6; 19. 2; 13. 2;

7; 11. 7. 2. Da. 7. 21. 25.

Mat. 23. 29-35. Je. 51.

49.

o i.e., for the witness of Jesus, ch. 11. 7.—C.

CHAP. XIX.

a ch. xviii. 4; 17. 1;

16. 1-11.

1 After these things

—in point of vision, not in point of time; for a comparison of

ver. 15 with ch. 14. 19, 20, will show that the events synchronize.

—C.

b ver. 3, 4, 6; ch. 4. 11;

5. 9-13; 7. 10, 12; 12. 10;

11. 15-18. 1 Ti. 1. 17.

c ch. 15. 3; 16. 5, 7. De.

32. 4; 33. 27.

d De. 32. 42, 43. ch. 17.

1, 2; 18. 3, 9, 23.

e ch. 16. 6; 18. 20, 24; 13.

10. Da. 7. 11, 26.

f See ver. 1.

g ch. 14. 11; 18. 9, 18.

Ge. 19. 28. Is. 34. 9, 10; 13.

20. 2 Th. 1. 9. Ps. 106. 18.

h ch. 4. 6, 9, 10; 5. 6, 8,

14. 1. Ch. 10. 36. Ne. 8. 6.

i Ps. 134. 1, 2; 135. 1;

115. 13. ch. 11. 18; 20. 12.

k Eze. 1. 24; 43. 2. ch.

1. 15; 14. 21; 15. 17; 12.

10; 4. 8. Ps. 47. 1, 2, 5; 69. 7.

1, 12; 96. 11-13; 98. 7-9.

2 Does it not appear from the worship of the elders, and the reason assigned, ch. 19. 4, 6, when compared with the similar worship and reasons, ch. 11. 16, 17, that the two prophecies synchronize? That the first exhibits an epitome, and the second a full detail of the divine judgments against Babylon?—C.

l Ps. xc. c. cxvii.

cxlv. cl. Is. xxv. xxvi.

27. 1-4; xxxv. 44; 23; 49.

13; 54. 14; 10-12.

m Mat. 22. 1-14; 25. 1-10.

n Lu. 14. 16-23. 2 Co.

10. 12. Ep. 3. 31. ch. 21. 2.

9. 10. 2. 19. 20. Eze. 16.

8. 15. 62. 5; 54. 5, 6; 52. 1.

o Ps. 45. 14, 15; 132. 9.

1s. 45. 24; 25; 61. 10. ch. 3.

4. 5, 18. Mat. 22. 12. Ro.

3. 23; 19; 10. 4; 13. 14. 2

Co. 5. 21. Phi. 3. 9. Eze.

16. 10. Ep. 5. 26.

p The righteousness of saints is 'the righteousness of God, which is by faith of Jesus Christ unto all, and upon all them that do believe,' Ro.

3. 22.—C.

q Lu. 14. 15-24. Mat.

22. 4. ch. 3. 20; 14. 13. Ps.

89. 15.

r ch. 21. 5; 22. 6. 1 Ti. 1.

15.

s ch. 22. 8, 9. Ac. 10. 25,

26; 14. 15. 1 Jn. 5. 21.

t The word here translated 'worship' is applied either to the divine worship rendered to God, or the civil respect that may be rendered to men. It is not to be supposed that John mistook the angel for Christ, and purposed to offer him divine worship; but merely such honour as eastern manners would have rendered to any superior or instructor. See 1 Sa. 25. 24. 2

Ki. 4. 37. Ac. 22. 3. Yet even against this mark of deference or gratitude the angel guards him, lest it should lead to any substitution of the creature for the Creator.—C.

u ch. 22. 9, 10. 9; 12. 17.

1 Jn. 5. 10. Ac. 10. 43. 1

Pe. 1. 10, 11.

in thee; and the sound of a millstone shall be heard no more at all in thee;

23 And<sup>k</sup> the light of a candle shall shine no more at all in thee; and the voice of the bridegroom and of the bride shall be heard no more at all in thee:<sup>5</sup> for<sup>l</sup> thy merchants were the great men of the earth; for by thy sorceries were all nations deceived.

24 And<sup>n</sup> in her was found the blood of prophets, and of saints, and of all that were <sup>o</sup>slain upon the earth.

CHAPTER XIX.

1 God is praised in heaven for judging the great whore, and avenging the blood of his saints. 7 The marriage of the Lamb. 10 The angel will not be worshipped. 17 The fowls called to the great slaughter.

AND after<sup>a</sup> these things<sup>1</sup> I<sup>b</sup> heard a great voice of much people in heaven, saying, Alleluia; Salvation, and glory, and honour, and power, unto the Lord our God:

2 For<sup>c</sup> true and righteous are his judgments; <sup>d</sup>for he hath judged the great whore, which did corrupt the earth with her fornication, and <sup>e</sup>hath avenged the blood of his servants at her hand.

3 And<sup>g</sup> again they said, Alleluia. <sup>h</sup>And her smoke rose up for ever and ever.

4 And<sup>i</sup> the four and twenty elders and the four beasts fell down and worshipped God that sat on the throne, saying, Amen; Alleluia.

5 And<sup>j</sup> a voice came out of the throne, saying, Praise our God, all ye his servants, and ye that fear him, both small and great.

6 And<sup>k</sup> I heard as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thunderings, saying, Alleluia; for the Lord God omnipotent reigneth.<sup>2</sup>

7 Let<sup>l</sup> us be glad and rejoice, and give honour to him: <sup>m</sup>for the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made herself ready.

8 And to her was granted <sup>n</sup>that she should be arrayed in fine linen, clean and white: for the fine linen is the righteousness of saints.<sup>3</sup>

9 And he saith unto me, Write, <sup>p</sup>Blessed are they which are called unto the marriage-supper of the Lamb. And he saith unto me, <sup>q</sup>These are the true sayings of God.

10 And<sup>r</sup> I fell at his feet to worship<sup>4</sup> him. And he said unto me, See thou do it not: <sup>s</sup>I am thy fellow-servant, and of thy brethren that have the testimony of Jesus: worship God: for denote that Rome shall be so utterly ruined that nothing valuable or desirable shall be left in it. 20, 24. The papists' persecution of the oracles and saints of God will be especially regarded in and shall aggravate their ruin. 21-23. In the most sudden and terrible manner God will utterly, and without any possibility of recovery, destroy Rome and all her antichristian influence.

Ver. 21. Millstone. An emblem of agriculture, civilization, labour, and food is here chosen to signify that, in the mystical Babylon, there will be an end of all these, even as, at this very hour, there is an end of them in the natural Babylon, and it sinks in the sea both by the casting of the angel and its own gravity, to intimate that Babylon will fall both by the outward and visible arm of Providence, and by the downward gravitation of its own corruptions. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Sin brings the most fearful disgrace and misery upon wicked persons and societies at last; and as there is no opportunity of punishing societies in the other world, their sins must overtake them in this. Earthly grandeur, pleasure, luxury, power, and wealth often issue in and render our misery more intolerable; and God forces men to mourn under his judgments who refused to mourn for their sins. Let wickedness be varnished over with pretences to sanctity and kindness as it will, or have been committed ever so long ago, God will mark it, and in his time fearfully punish it with righteous judgments. Superstition, idolatry, lewdness, luxury, merchandise in spiritual things, in men's souls or bodies, allurements to apostasy from God, and particularly cruel persecutions of his saints and servants, will at last issue in everlasting confusion and irretrievable misery.—With conscientious zeal and abhorrence ought all true Christians to hasten from the spiritual fellowship of antichristian churches or societies, that their own sin and temporal ruin may be prevented. And with holy joy and triumph ought all the the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy.

11 And <sup>1</sup>I saw heaven opened, and behold, a<sup>a</sup> white horse; and he that sat upon him was called <sup>2</sup>'Faithful and True; and <sup>3</sup>in righteousness he doth judge and make war.

12 His eyes were <sup>4</sup>as a flame of fire, and on his head were <sup>5</sup>many crowns; and <sup>6</sup>he had a name written, that no man knew but he himself.<sup>5</sup>

13 And<sup>b</sup> he was clothed with a vesture dipped in blood: and his name is called <sup>7</sup>'The Word of God.

14 And<sup>d</sup> the armies which were in heaven followed him upon white horses, clothed in fine linen, white and clean.

15 And<sup>e</sup> out of his mouth goeth a sharp sword, that with it he should smite the nations: and <sup>8</sup>he shall rule them with a rod of iron: and he<sup>b</sup> treadeth the wine-press of the fierceness and wrath of Almighty God.

16 And<sup>i</sup> he hath on his vesture<sup>6</sup> and on his thigh a name written, KING OF KINGS, AND LORD OF LORDS.

17 And I saw an angel <sup>9</sup>standing in the sun; and he cried with a loud voice, saying to <sup>10</sup>all the fowls that fly in the midst of heaven, Come and gather yourselves together unto the supper of the great God;<sup>7</sup>

18 That ye may eat the flesh of kings, and the flesh of captains, and the flesh of mighty men, and the flesh of horses, and of them that sit on them, and the flesh <sup>11</sup>of all men, both free and bond, both small and great.

19 And<sup>n</sup> I saw the beast,<sup>8</sup> and the kings of people of God to behold his righteous judgments inflicted on incorrigible persecutors, by which he vindicates his own righteous cause, and delivers his people from future molestations.

CHAPTER XIX. Ver. 1, 4, 6. Perhaps the repeated use of the Hebrew word ALLELUJAH hints that the newly-converted Jews will, in a peculiar manner, rejoice at the destruction of Antichrist, whose idolatries had long filled them with prejudice against the Christian faith. 7, 9. This beginning of the glory of the latter days may be called the marriage and marriage-supper of the Lamb, because Jesus will then publicly avow his relation to his church, influence great multitudes of all nations to himself, and feast them in a spiritual manner upon his sacrificial life. 8. This robe of fine linen denotes Jesus' imparted sacrifice to entitle them to heaven; and the sanctification of their heart and life to render them meet for it; and represents their honour, favour, acceptance, purity, and holiness. 10. I am nothing but a mere creature like yourself, commissioned by Christ to make known the things relating to his person, cause, and government, and the revolutions he will make in the church and world; and the testimony which I have borne to him has been dictated to me by the same divine Spirit which inspired the ancient prophets. 11-14. The white horses, upon which Christ and his army ride to conquer Antichrist, denote their high honour and certain success and triumph, and represent the glorious and everlasting gospel, which shall then prevail more extensively and successfully than ever before, with light and purity, speed and power, in its last promulgation through the earth. 12. His many crowns denote his natural and mediatorial authority and universal dominion over the church and all the world, in all spiritual and temporal concerns, and his subduing all nations and things to himself.—No creature knew anything of his name, as Son of God or mediator, till it was revealed, and none can ever fully and comprehensively understand it. 13. He is rendered distinguished and glorious by the blood of his vanquished and slaughtered enemies. 15. His sharp sword and iron rod denote his dreadful threatenings and righteous judgments on idolatrous, persecuting, and wicked nations. His treading the wine-press denotes his squeezing and crushing his enemies into death and ruin by the terrible impressions of his heavy, infinite, and irresistible wrath. 16. His having his name, KING OF KINGS and LORD OF LORDS, on his vesture and thigh, imports that, by his mighty acts, he effectually and illustriously proves himself Sovereign Lord and Ruler of all the potentates, princes, and nobles of the world, to govern, influence, restrain, save, or bless them, or to work by or upon them, according to love. 17-21. According to Christ's awful threatenings, and by his influence, the whole power of Antichrist, civil and ecclesiastical, is totally ruined; and while the souls of its wicked supporters are cast into hell, because of their wilful and awful sins, and the saints of God saved through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ rejoice in their glorious inheritance, as it manifests the glory of God's perfections, and opens the way for the happiest and most glorious state of the church on earth.

Ver. 20. 'The beast and the false prophet' being 'cast alive' into the lake, it follows that they are not yet totally destroyed; but that, after this signal overthrow, the 'ten horns' that have hitherto supported, shall finally 'hate the whore, and make her desolate.' And this, it appears most probable, they will do in support of 'the beast'—their several royal prerogatives in opposition to the ecclesiastical domination of the Papacy. See ch. 17, 13, 16, 17. C.

REFLECTIONS.—High praises to God, and abundant happiness and honour to saints, attend his remarkable deliverances of his gospel church; and none more than the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against him that sat on the horse, and against his army.

20 And <sup>1</sup>the beast was taken, and with him <sup>2</sup>the false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image. <sup>3</sup>These both were cast alive into a lake of fire burning with brimstone.

21 And<sup>r</sup> the remnant were slain with the sword of him that sat upon the horse, which sword proceeded out of his mouth: and all the fowls<sup>9</sup> were filled with their flesh.

CHAPTER XX.

2 Satan bound for a thousand years. 6 The first resurrection; they blessed that have part therein. 7 Satan let loose again. 8 Gog and Magog. 10 The devil cast into the lake of fire and brimstone. 12 The last and general resurrection.

AND I<sup>a</sup> saw an angel<sup>1</sup> come down from heaven, having the key of the bottomless pit and a great chain in his hand.

2 And he laid hold <sup>2</sup>on the dragon, that old serpent, which is the Devil, and Satan, and bound him a thousand years,<sup>2</sup>

3 And <sup>3</sup>cast him into the bottomless pit, and shut him up, and set a seal upon him, <sup>4</sup>that he should deceive the nations no more,<sup>3</sup> till <sup>5</sup>the thousand years should be fulfilled: <sup>6</sup>and after that he must be loosed a little season.

4 And<sup>b</sup> I saw thrones, and they sat upon them,<sup>4</sup> and judgment was given unto them: and I saw <sup>5</sup>the souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and for the word of God, and which had not worshipped the beast, neither his image, neither had received his mark upon their foreheads, or in his extirpation of Popery and introduction of the latter-day glory! Yea, in a most awful manner, the calamities, and even the awful end of the wicked, comes in spite of all God in Christ could do to save them—Jesus' sacrifice imparted, and his grace implanted and exercised, are the great ornaments of his people; while their union to and fellowship with him, and his almighty power, unblemished faithfulness, sovereign and universal dominion, great salvation, and glorious triumph, gladden their hearts. But dreadful is their danger and certain their ruin who oppose him and his interests. In full hopes that all our tribulations will end, and all our sorrows for ever cease, let us, who fear and serve the Lord, praise his name, both small and great. Let us believe his infallible promises, worship him only, and follow him whithersoever he goes. Grace shall reign through righteousness to our eternal life by Jesus Christ our Lord.

CHAPTER XX. Ver. 2-7. Whether the millennium or THOUSAND YEARS here mentioned denotes precisely a thousand of our years, or only many years, as the term thousand is taken, De. 1. 11; 7. 9; 32. 30; Ps. 90. 4; 91. 7; 105. 8; Ec. 6. 6; Is. 30. 17; 60. 22; 2 Pe. 3. 8, I cannot determine. The glory and happiness of this thousand years' reign of the saints is to be understood, not literally, but spiritually and figuratively, according to the common style of the book. It could not consist with the happiness of the saints to leave the heavenly mansions and live in bodies needing meat and drink; nor, if their bodies were raised spiritual and incorruptible, would they need any such thing; and in vain would Satan instigate the wicked to war against and cut off spiritual and incorruptible bodies. The dead in Christ are also represented as all rising together at the last day. And a proper resurrection is never in Scripture represented as a reviving or living.

their hands; and they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years.

5 But <sup>the</sup> rest of the dead lived not again until the thousand years were finished. This is the <sup>first</sup> resurrection.

6 Blessed<sup>n</sup> and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection: on such the second death hath no power, but <sup>they</sup> shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand years.

7 And when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison,

8 And shall <sup>go</sup> out to deceive the nations which<sup>a</sup> are in the four quarters of the earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them together to battle: the number of whom is as the sand of the sea.

9 And<sup>r</sup> they went up on the breadth of the earth, and compassed <sup>the</sup> camp of the saints about, and the beloved city: and <sup>fire</sup> came down from God out of heaven, and devoured them.

10 And<sup>u</sup> the devil that deceived them was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, where the beast and the false prophet <sup>are</sup>, and shall be tormented day and night for ever and ever.

11 And<sup>v</sup> I saw a great white throne, and him that sat on it, <sup>from</sup> whose face the earth and the heaven fled away; and there was found no place for them.

12 And<sup>y</sup> I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; and the books were opened: and <sup>another</sup> book was opened, which is the book of life: and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according<sup>a</sup> to their works.

13 And<sup>b</sup> the sea gave up the dead which were in it; and death and <sup>hell</sup> delivered up the dead which were in them: and <sup>they</sup> were judged every man according to their works.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

1 Pe. 2.9. ch. 11. 11, 15. Ro. 11. 15. Da. 2.44; 7. 18, 22, 27. Ps. lxxii. cxlix. Is. xli. xxv. xxxv. xlii. lx. lxi. Je. xxxi. xxxiii. Eze. xxxiv. xxxv. xxxvii. xl. xlvi. Mi. iv. v. Ho. 1. 10, 11; ii. iii. Am. 9. 11-15. Joel 3. 17-21. Obad. 20, 21. Zep. iii. Zec. ii. x. xii. xiv. Ro. 11. 2-32. ch. 5. 10; 15; ver. 6; ch. xxi. xxii.

& See ver. 8, 9.

1 ch. 11. 11, 15. Ro. 11. 15. Eze. 37. 2-14. Col. 3. 1. Jn. 5. 25; 11. 25. Ep. 2. 6; 5. 14.

11 Da. 12. 12. Is. 4. 3. ch. 2. 11; 21. 8; ver. 14.

o Is. 61. 6. 1 Pe. 2. 9. Ro. 8. 17. 2 Ti. 2. 12. ch. 1. 9; 5. 10; 9. 11.

p Job 1. 7. 1 Pe. 5. 8. ver. 3, 10.

q With Eze. xxxviii. xxxix. ch. 16. 14; 11. 17; 12. 17.

r With Is. 8. 8. Eze. 38. 9, 16. Hab. 1. 6.

s Mat. 16. 16. ch. 2. 3. Mi. 2. 13. Eze. 48. 35. ch. xxi.

t With Is. 30. 33; 37. 36. Eze. 38. 22; 39. 6, 9, 10. 2 Th. 1. 8. Jude 1, 7.

u Ge. 10. 20, 24, 25. Mat. 25. 41. Da. 7. 11. ch. 14. 10, 11; 19. 20; ver. 15.

v Mat. 25. 31. Ac. 17. 30, 31. Jn. 16. 11. Ps. 89. 14; 97. 2.

x Da. 2. 35. 2 Pe. 3. 7-12. ch. 6. 14; 16. 20.

y Jn. 5. 22. 1 Th. 4. 15-17. Ro. 14. 12. 2 Co. 5. 10. Da. 7. 10. He. 4. 13. Je. 17. 10; 32. 19. Mal. 3. 16.

z Da. 12. 1. ch. 3. 5; 13. 8; 17. 8; 21. 27. Phi. 4. 3.

a Ec. 12. 14. Je. 17. 10; 32. 19. Mat. 16. 27. ch. 2. 23; 22. 12. Ro. 2. 6. See ver. 13.

b 1 Co. 15. 51, 52. 1 Th. 4. 15, 17. ch. 6. 8. n. 5, 28, 29.

c Mat. 25. 31-46; 16. 17. Je. 32. 19. See ver. 12.

d Ho. 13. 14. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54, 55, with ch. 2. 11; 21. 8; ver. 6.

e ch. 21. 8; 22. 15; 19. 20. Mat. 25. 41, 46; 3. 12. Mar. 9. 43, 48.

f ch. 11. 11, 15. Ro. 11. 15. Eze. 37. 2-14. Col. 3. 1. Jn. 5. 25; 11. 25. Ep. 2. 6; 5. 14.

g Le. 26. 11, 12. Eze. 37. 27; 43. 7. 2 Co. 6. 16. ch. 7. 15. Zec. 8. 8.

h ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

i ch. 4. 2, 9; 20. 11. Jn. 1. 22.

j ch. 19. 9; 22. 6. 1 Ti. 1. 2. Ti. 2. 11. Tit. 3. 8. Nu. 23. 19.

k ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

l ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

m ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

n ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

A.M. cir. 4100.
A.D. cir. 96.

7 <sup>Death and</sup> <sup>hades</sup> are here put for 'him that hath the power of death, with all his principalities' (He. 2. 14. Ep. 6. 12), even as a king or people are often called by the name of a kingdom or country.—C.

c ch. 21. 8; 22. 15; 19. 20. Mat. 25. 41, 46; 3. 12. Mar. 9. 43, 48.

CHAP. XXI.

a ch. 19. 20; 20. 10.

b Is. 65. 17-19; 66. 22. 2 Pe. 3. 13. Ac. 3. 21. Ro. 8. 21. Ps. 102. 26-28. ch. 20. 11.

c Is. 57. 20. Jude 13.

d Is. 52. 1; 54. 5; 61. 10; 62. 4, 5. Ps. 45. 9-14. Ga. 4. 26. ch. 3. 12; ver. 10. He. 12. 22; 11. 10; 13. 14.

e ch. 11. 2. ch. 19. 7, 8; ver. 9, 10, 18-20.

f ch. 10. 4, 8; 12. 10.

g Le. 26. 11, 12. Eze. 37. 27; 43. 7. 2 Co. 6. 16. ch. 7. 15. Zec. 8. 8.

h ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

i ch. 4. 2, 9; 20. 11. Jn. 1. 22.

j ch. 19. 9; 22. 6. 1 Ti. 1. 2. Ti. 2. 11. Tit. 3. 8. Nu. 23. 19.

k ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

l ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

m ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

n ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

o ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

p ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

q ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

r ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

s ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

t ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

u ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

v ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

w ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

x ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

y ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

z ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

a ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

b ch. 7. 17. Is. 25. 8; 60. 20; 35. 10; 51. 11; 65. 18-25. 1 Co. 15. 26, 54. ch. 20. 14; 22. 3.

14 And<sup>d</sup> death and hell were cast into the lake of fire.<sup>7</sup> This is the second death.

15 And<sup>e</sup> whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire.

CHAPTER XXI.

1 A new heaven and a new earth. 10 The heavenly Jerusalem, with a full description thereof. 23 She needeth no sun, the glory of God is her light. 24 The kings of the earth bring their riches unto her.

AND I<sup>a</sup> saw <sup>a</sup> new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more <sup>sea</sup>.

2 And I John saw <sup>the</sup> holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband.

3 And <sup>I</sup> heard a great voice out of heaven, saying, Behold, <sup>the</sup> tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God.

4 And<sup>b</sup> God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away.

5 And <sup>he</sup> that sat upon the throne said, Behold, I make all things new. And he said unto me, Write; for <sup>these</sup> words are true and faithful.

6 And he said unto me, <sup>It is done</sup>.<sup>1</sup> I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. <sup>I</sup> will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely.

7 He<sup>n</sup> that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I <sup>will</sup> be his God, and he shall be my son.

8 But<sup>p</sup> the <sup>2</sup> fearful,<sup>q</sup> and <sup>unbelieving</sup>, and the <sup>abominable</sup>, and <sup>murderers</sup>, and <sup>whoremongers</sup>, and <sup>soreerers</sup>,<sup>3</sup> and <sup>idolaters</sup>, and all liars, <sup>shall</sup> have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone: which is the second death.

again of the soul, but of the body. The resurrection of the martyrs' and confessors' souls here spoken of must therefore mean, not the resurrection of these deceased persons, but the remarkable reformation, deliverance, comfort, and activity of the church in their successors, Ro. 11. 15; Eze. 37. 1-14; Ps. 85. 6; Ho. 6. 2, 3; Zec. 10. 1.—And as Elijah is represented as living in John Baptist, Mat. 11. 14; 17. 12; Lu. 1. 17, and antichristian Rome is called in this book Sodom, Egypt, and Babylon, on account of her likeness to them in luxury, cruelty, pride, and idolatry, ch. 11. 8; 14. 8; 16. 19; 17. 5; 18. 2, 21, so the ancient martyrs will live in the Christians of this period, being united to the same head, members of the same body, and of the same temper, faith, patience, zeal, and fortitude, and professing the same gospel truths. And this restoration of the church to this peaceable and glorious state, after a long death under the reign of Antichrist, in which multitudes of Jews and Gentiles shall be converted to Christ, and shall enjoy much spiritual, delightful, and honourable fellowship with Christ and with one another, and have the governing power in the earth, is called the first resurrection, as it is a figure and pledge of the general resurrection of the saints to eternal life at the last day. The wicked will not live again till the end of the thousand years; that is, they will be reduced to the same condition in which Christ's slain witnesses were a little before, ch. 11. 7-9, having no authority, power, or activity to make head against Christ and his cause. 8-10. Perhaps Gog and Magog may here include the wicked everywhere in the world, instigated by Satan to embolden their spirits, and combine in a furious and desperate attack upon the church, which shall issue in a manner no less dreadful than the last efforts of Antichrist. 11. The opening of the books, and judging men according to them, denotes that, in the last judgment, the infinite and all-observing knowledge and exact remembrance of God, the extensive notice and exact recording of men's own consciences, and the whole contents of God's revelations and purposes, will be clearly manifested, and all men righteously judged exactly answerable thereto. 13, 14. By hell may be understood the state of separate spirits; and death and hell are cast into the lake of fire, when the bodies and souls of all the wicked are shut up in hell, and there is no vestige of sin or misery left anywhere else in the creation of God.

Ver. 4. A thousand years. Are these thousand years literal or prophetic? In the midst of such an array of unquestionable emblems, it seems impossible, by any rule of interpretation, to understand them as literally 'a thousand;' but, taken prophetically, and according to the wont of this book—a day for a year—they represent 360,000 years, a period which some deem so long as to appear inadmissible. Let it, however, be recollected, that from Adam to Christ was but 75 generations, Lu. 3. 23-38; that, calculating generations, not by antediluvian, but by Abrahamic life, 78 years must yet run before 42 generations can be added, making in all 117 generations since the creation. Then, let it be recollected, that Jehovah is described (Ex. 20. 6) as 'keeping mercy for thousands,' even for thousands of generations; that he has 'commanded his Word to a thousand generations,' Ps. 105. 8;

'and the Scripture cannot be broken,' Jn. 10. 35; neither does the Spirit of truth speak in vain and boastful hyperboles; and the length of time thus allotted to the happy condition of the church will appear in no-wise disproportionate to the announcement of other scriptures. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Glorious is the period of light, life, liberty, love, peace, purity, joy, and triumph which the church of true believers shall enjoy even on earth, after a long, long night of darkness, trouble, and oppression. When Satan is restrained by Christ, and the Holy Ghost poured out, with what power, spirituality, and splendour shall the cause of Christ revive! They who in evil times had faithfully adhered to the truth shall, in their persons, or in the numerous multitudes of their converted successors, live and reign under the protection and smiles of their Redeemer. But no happiness on earth is unmovable or everlasting. Satan and his wicked instruments will always disturb the beloved saints and city of the Lord to their utmost; but quickly shall their most furious and joint attacks issue in their universal and everlasting destruction. In what a public and awful manner the general resurrection and last judgment will shut up the scenes of time! How great and glorious the Judge! how tremendous the tribunal! how numerous and serious the panels! how exact the trial! Just, but awful and irrevocable, shall be the decisions, and infinitely important and lasting the execution.

CHAPTER XXI. Ver. 1. Sea denotes tumultuous

9 And<sup>z</sup> there came unto me one of the seven angels which had the seven vials full of the seven last plagues, and talked with me, saying, Come<sup>a</sup> hither, I will show thee the bride, the Lamb's wife.

10 And<sup>b</sup> he carried me away in the spirit to a great and high mountain, and showed me <sup>c</sup>that great city, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God,

11 Having<sup>d</sup> the glory of God: and her light was like unto a stone most precious, even like a jasper-stone, clear as crystal;

12 And had <sup>e</sup>a wall great and high, and <sup>f</sup>had twelve gates, and at the gates twelve angels, and names<sup>h</sup> written thereon, which are the names of the twelve tribes of the children of Israel:

13 On the east three gates; on the north three gates; on the south three gates; and on the west three gates.

14 And the wall of the city had <sup>i</sup>twelve foundations, and in them the names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb.

15 And he that talked with me had <sup>j</sup>a golden reed to measure the city, and the gates thereof, and the wall thereof.

16 And the city lieth <sup>k</sup>four-square, and the length is as large as the breadth: and he measured the city with the reed, twelve thousand furlongs.<sup>4</sup> The length, and the breadth, and the height of it are equal.

17 And he measured the wall thereof, an hundred and forty and four cubits, according to the measure of a man, that is, <sup>l</sup>of the angel.

18 And<sup>n</sup> the building of the wall of it was of passions, mischievous enemies, and distressing calamities. 6. The fountain of the water of life denotes abundant and never-failing satisfaction in the familiar and immediate enjoyment of God in Christ, and all the blessings of his kingdom. 8. The fearful are they who, through cowardice or fear of reproaches and sufferings, are ashamed or afraid to own and honour Christ. 9. All professing Christians appear as persons devoted to and received by Jesus Christ as their husband; and all true believers are truly and spiritually married and united to him for ever. 11-13, 21. Her light of knowledge, purity, honour, and joy was illustriously bright. Her jasper wall, great and high, may denote the invincible power, infinite wisdom, and love of Christ, and his great salvation, powerful providence, and regular government. Her twelve gates of pearl, each inscribed with the name of an apostle, guarded by an angel, and three towards each quarter, may denote Christ's being preached to all the ends of the earth by faithful ministers, according to the New Testament, and that holy angels are ready to minister to every one that enters. 14-21. Her being measured denotes her conformity to the oracles of God. Her four-square form denotes her perfection, stability, and uniformity. Her twelve foundations of different precious stones are the infinitely precious Redeemer in his unnumbered excellencies and glories, answerable to the different cases of men. The houses being built and streets paved with pure gold, represent its amazing riches, glory, and purity. 22, 23. In heaven they have no need of instituted ordinances or of created comforts, as the immediate enjoyment of God in Christ renders them perfectly happy; and even in the millennial state there will be no need of ceremonies or external pomp, &c., as the powerful presence of Christ and his Father will render ordinances delightful, and men satisfied with their lot. 24, 26. In the millennial state church-members will improve their wealth, honour, and power for the glory of Christ and the benefit of souls; and in heaven they will have inexpressibly greater glories and honours than could be had on earth, and shall receive the gracious reward of their right improvement of the benefits they received on earth. 25. Gates never shut denote perfect safety and perpetual freedom of access. —No night is no darkness, ignorance, or trouble.

Ver. 1. By 'the new heaven and the new earth,' several distinguished expositors understand, the renovated state of kingdoms and churches during 'the thousand years' preceding the final judgment. The following reason seems, however, to lead to the conclusion that they represent the renovated world (2 Pe. 3. 7-13) after that judgment. The reason stands thus:—The time at which 'the earth and the heavens fled away' was when the Judge took his seat on 'the great white throne' (comp. ch. 20. 11, with ch. 21. 1), and the dead, 'small and great,' stood before him, and were 'judged according to their works,' ver. 12, and 'death and hell were cast into the lake of fire;' consequently after these events there could be no more judgment. But it is evident that after 'the thousand years' there will be the terrible judgment of Gog and Magog, ch. 20. 3, 7, 9, 10; therefore it follows that this vision of the 'new heaven and new earth' must represent a period posterior to the final judgment. C.

Ver. 12. A wall. The emblem of divine protection.—The names of the twelve tribes. In their meaning, viz. Judah, the praise of Jehovah; Reuben, vision of the son; Gad, an army; Asher, blessedness; Naphtali, who contends; Manasseh, forgetfulness, viz. of past sorrows; Simeon, that hears, obeys, or is heard; Levi, associated; Issachar, reward; Zebulun, habitation—a continuing city; Joseph, increase; Benjamin, the son of the right hand, which, thus interpreted in the order of ch. vii., present a glorious picture of the church of the redeemed. C.

Ver. 14. The names of the twelve apostles. In meaning, viz. Simon Peter, that hears, (and is for firmness) a stone; Andrew, strong man—'strong in the Lord'; James, he that supplants—viz. by a true estimate of the divine promise of birthright; John, the grace of Jehovah; Philip, lover of horses—the swift messengers of the gospel; Bartholomew, a son that suspends the waters—a drawer of water for the temple; Thomas, a twin—emblem of brotherly communion; Lebbeus, a man of heart; Thaddeus, that praises and confesses. C.

REFLECTIONS.—Transcendent are the glories of the millennial, but especially of the heavenly state of the church. Spiritual light, beauty, honour, grandeur, wealth, safety, satisfaction, and pleasure meet together. How new is all, far surpassing anything found or imagined before; and gloriously and firmly founded

A. M. cir. 4100.
A. D. cir. 96.

z ch. 17. 1; 15. 1, 6, 7; 16. 1.
a ver. 2; ch. 19. 7. Is. 54. 5; 62. 4. 5. Ep. 5. 23-32. 2 Co. 11. 2. Ho. 2. 19, 20.
b ch. 1. 10; 17. 3. Eze. 3. 12, 14; 40. 2. Is. 2. 2, 3. Mt. 4. 1, 2. c ver. 2. Ga. 4. 26. He. 12. 22. Is. 65. 18, 19. Eze. xl. xviii.
d Is. 60. 1, 2, 19, 20. Eze. 1. 26, 27; 48. 35. Ps. 4. 6; 27. 1; 36. 9. ch. 22. 5; ver. 23.
e Is. 26. 1; 60. 18. Ps. 125. 2. Zec. 2. 5.
f Eze. 48. 31-35. Is. 54. 11, 12. Nu. 24. 5. Ps. 34. 7. He. 2. 14. ch. 5. 11; 7. 11.
g Ga. 6. 16. He. 3. 1. 1 Pe. 2. 9.
h Mat. 16. 18. Is. 14. 32; 28. 16. He. 11. 10. 2 Co. 3. 11. Ep. 2. 19, 20.
i Eze. 40. 3. Zec. 2. 1. ch. 11. 1. Is. 8. 20. Mat. 28. 20. Ac. 17. 11. Jn. 5. 39. 2 Ti. 3. 15-17.
j Is. 33. 20. Ep. 3. 18. Eze. 48. 16-35. Lu. 14. 23. Jn. 14. 2.
k Twelve thousand furlongs, being equal to 1500 miles, it seems difficult to comprehend how 'the height of it' could be 'equal,' especially as the measure of the wall is immediately given (and most probably in height, see ver. 12) as 'a hundred forty and four cubits,' or about 200 feet. The meaning seems to be, that this emblematic city was represented as built on the 'great and high mountain,' to which the Spirit had carried the prophet (ver. 10), and that the height of the mountain was equal to the side of the city.—C. l ver. 9, with ch. 13. 18.
m Is. 54. 11, 12. ch. 4. 2; ver. 11. 2 Pe. 1. 4. Is. 43. 3. 1 Pe. 1. 7. ver. 21. Ep. 3. 8. Pr. 18. 19.
n Amethyst. These precious gems are nearly the same as those of the high-priest's breast-plate, Ex. 28. 17; and are so many emblems of those 'exceeding great and precious promises,' and glorious doctrine of grace upon which the church of Christ is founded; Jesus, the

A. M. cir. 4100.
A. D. cir. 96.

precious one, being the foundation of all, 1 Pe. 2. 4, 7. 2 Pe. 1. 1, 4.—C. o Is. 54. 11, 12. See ver. 14.
p See note * in first column.
q Mat. 13. 45, 46. Jn. 10. 7. 9. 14. 6. Ep. 2. 18.
r Pearls. Emblems of that 'one pearl of great price,' the which when a man findeth, he selleth all that he hath, that he may buy that pearl, Mat. 13. 46.—C.
s ch. 22. 2.
t Co. 13. 12; 15. 28. Is. 8. 14. Ps. 91. 1. Jn. 4. 23, with Col. 2. 17. He. 10. 1.
u I saw no temple—but he saw the body of Christ, the living temple of the God-head.—C.
v Is. 60. 19, 20; 30. 26; 24. 23. 1 Jn. 1. 5. 7. ver. 11; ch. 22. 5. Zec. 14. 7. Jn. 1. 4. Ps. 73. 25, 26. 1 Co. 15. 28.
w Is. 60. 3-11; 66. 10-12, 19; 2. 3. Ps. 36. 9; 27. 1. Jn. 12. 35.
x Is. 49. 22, 23; 45. 15; 14. 60. 3, 10, 16, 66. 12. Ps. 72. 10, 11. ch. 11. 15.
y Is. 60. 11, 20. ch. 3. 8. Jn. 10. 7, 9; 14. 6; 6. 37.
z Is. 60. 20. Zec. 14. 7. a Is. 60. 6-8, 11-17. Ps. 22. 27-30; 72. 8-17. Ps. 2. 11.
b Nations. To affirm that national distinctions shall be re-collected and recognized in the life to come were, perhaps, to decide beyond what is revealed. But what it should be, as certain passages in this book seem to indicate (see ch. 5. 9, 10; 7. 9, 10; 21. 24, 26), yet the recollection and distinction must consist with that scripture which declares that 'in Jesus Christ there is neither Jew nor Greek, circumcision nor uncircumcision, Barbarian, Scythian, bond nor free; but Christ is all and in all.'—C.
c Joel 3. 17. Zec. 14. 21. Eze. 44. 9. Is. 35. 8; 52. 1. 60. 21; 62. 12. Mat. 13. 41. 1 Co. 6. 9, 10. Ga. 5. 19-21. Ep. 5. 5. He. 12. 14. ver. 8. ch. 22. 14, 15. 1 Ti. 4. 1. 2 Th. 2. 11, 12. Hab. 1. 13. Je. 44. 4. d Phi. 4. 3. ch. 3. 5; 13. 8; 17. 8; 20. 12. 2 Ti. 2. 19. Ro. 8. 30. 1. 11. 10. 20.

jasper; and the city was pure gold, like unto clear glass.

19 And<sup>o</sup> the foundations of the wall of the city were garnished with all manner of precious stones. The first foundation was jasper; the second, sapphire; the third, a chaledony; the fourth, an emerald;

20 The fifth, sardonyx; the sixth, sardius; the seventh, chrysolite; the eighth, beryl; the ninth, a topaz; the tenth, a chrysoprasus; the eleventh, a jacinth; the twelfth, an amethyst.<sup>5</sup>

21 And the twelve gates were twelve <sup>p</sup>pearls;<sup>6</sup> every several gate was of one pearl: and the <sup>q</sup>street of the city was pure gold, as it were transparent glass.

22 And<sup>r</sup> I saw no temple<sup>7</sup> therein: for the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are the temple of it.

23 And<sup>s</sup> the city had no need of the sun, neither of the moon, to shine in it: for the glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof.

24 And<sup>t</sup> the nations of them which are saved shall walk in the light of it: and <sup>u</sup>the kings of the earth do bring their glory and honour into it.

25 And<sup>v</sup> the gates of it shall not be shut at all by day: <sup>w</sup>for there shall be no night there.

26 And<sup>y</sup> they shall bring the glory and honour of the nations<sup>8</sup> into it.

27 And<sup>z</sup> there shall in no wise enter into it any thing that defileth, neither whatsoever work-eth abomination, or maketh a lie; but they which are written in the Lamb's <sup>a</sup>book of life.

on Jesus Christ, and correspondent to the doctrine of his apostles and prophets! Abundant, delightful, and glorious is the access into this state by him, as the door, the way, the truth, and the life. Men who have through faith accepted Christ, of all ranks, Jews and Gentiles, are admitted into it. And in what honour they appear therein as the beloved, the espoused bride of Christ! Complete, secure, and immortal is their blessedness where sin, darkness, trouble, and death are fully and for ever passed away. Familiar and immediate is their fellowship with and enjoyment of God; and pure and glorious their holiness in heart and life.—But, alas! how inexpressible is the misery of those impenitent sinners who, by the purpose, word, and providence of God, are for ever excluded therefrom!

CHAPTER XXII. Ver. 1, 2. The Holy Ghost, proceeding from and sent by Christ and his Father, in his graces and comforts, and abundantly enjoyed, is the river of life. Jesus Christ, in his person, offices, relations, and manifold blessings, sufficient for the full satisfaction of all the Israel of God, according to the doctrine of the twelve apostles, and whose very words, ordinances, and manifestations of himself, have a sovereign virtue to remove all evil and render men perfectly happy, is the tree of life. 3-5. The fixed presence of God with his saints, and their familiar and immediate fellowship with him, will render them like to him in holiness and happiness. 6. All these things which you have heard and seen shall be faithfully and infallibly accomplished in their time and order; and the Lord Jesus, who inspired and authorized his ancient prophets to foretell events, hath sent me, your conducting angel, to inform you and others of his servants under the New Testament of the glories which will soon begin, and, in the short period of time, be all fulfilled. 9. Pay me no religious homage; for I, though an angel, am but your fellow-servant, and a companion of other prophets and those who fear God,

CHAPTER XXII.

1 The river of the water of life. 2 The tree of life. 5 The light of the city of God is himself. 9 The angel will not be worshipped. 18 Nothing may be added to the word of God, nor taken therefrom.

AND he showed me <sup>a</sup>a pure river of water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne<sup>b</sup> of God and of the Lamb.

2 In the midst of <sup>c</sup>the street of it, and on either side of the river, <sup>d</sup>was there the tree of life,<sup>1</sup> which bare twelve manner of fruits, and yielded her fruit every month: <sup>e</sup>and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations.

3 And<sup>f</sup> there shall be no more curse: <sup>h</sup>but the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it; and <sup>i</sup>his servants shall serve him:

4 And<sup>j</sup> they shall see his face; and <sup>k</sup>his name shall be in their foreheads.

5 And<sup>l</sup> there shall be no night there: and they need no candle, neither light of the sun; for the Lord God giveth them light: <sup>n</sup>and they shall reign for ever and ever.

6 And he said unto me, <sup>o</sup>These sayings are faithful and true: and the <sup>p</sup>Lord God of the holy prophets sent his angel <sup>q</sup>to show unto his servants the things which must shortly be done.

7 Behold,<sup>r</sup> I come quickly: <sup>s</sup>blessed is he that keepeth the sayings of the prophecy of this book.

8 And I John <sup>t</sup>saw these things, and heard them. And when I had heard and seen, <sup>u</sup>I fell down to worship before the feet of the angel which showed me these things.

9 Then saith he unto me, See thou do it not: for I am thy fellow-servant, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them which keep the sayings of this book: worship God.

10 And he<sup>2</sup> saith unto me, <sup>v</sup>Seal not the sayings of the prophecy of this book: for the time is at hand.

A.M. cir. 4100.

A.D. cir. 96.

CHAP. XXII.

a Eze. 47. 1-10. Zec. 14. 8. Ps. 36. 8. 9. Jn. 7. 38. 39. 4. 10. 11. 14. Hab. 2. 14. Ge. 26. 19. 22.

b ch. 3. 21. 4. 3. 5. 6. 7. 17.

c ch. 21. 21. ver. 1.

d Ge. 2. 9. Eze. 47. 7.

e Ps. 92. 12-14. ch. 2. 7.

f Jn. 11. 25.

g If 'the tree of life' be here put, not for a single tree, but for a species—according to a common form of speech—then it is easy to see how it might be 'on either side of the river.'

And this view would correspond with the parallel passage, Eze.

47. 7. where were seen many trees on one side and on the other of the bank.

But if this view be considered inadmissible, then a new translation, which fully accords with the original, will solve the difficulty:—'In midst of the street of it, and of the river (which flowed) on either side

(around it, was) a tree of life,' &c. Thus the image presented is a wide street, with a river flowing down the centre, which divides to form an island where the tree of life grows in all its beauty and fruitfulness.—C.

e Ex. 15. 26. Mal. 4. 2.

f Ps. 107. 20.

g Ga. 3. 13. Ro. 8. 1. Is.

11. 13. Zec. 14. 11. Ge. 3.

16. 19.

h ch. 21. 3. Eze. 48.

35.

i ch. 4. 8. 7. 15. 19. 5.

j Mat. 5. 8. 1 Co. 13.

12. 1 Jn. 3. 2. Ps. 17. 15.

Jn. 12. 26. 17. 24.

k ch. 3. 12. 14. 1. Ex.

28. 36. 38. He. 4. 14. 10.

23. Ep. 4. 13.

l ch. 21. 23. 25. Ps. 36.

9. 27. 1. Is. 60. 1. 19. 20.

Zec. 14. 6. 7. Jn. 8. 12.

n ch. 3. 21. 5. 10. 20. 4.

Ro. 8. 17. 2 Ti. 2. 12. 2

Co. 4. 17. Ro. 5. 17. Da.

7. 27.

o ch. 1. 1. 3. 19. 9. 21. 5.

1 Ti. 1. 15.

p ver. 16. He. 1. 1.

Joel 2. 28. ch. 1. 1. 2 Ti.

3. 16.

q Ps. 25. 14. Am. 3. 7.

r ver. 6. 10. 12. 16. 20.

Mat. 25. 31. He. 10. 37. 2

Th. 1. 8. He. 9. 28. ch. 3.

11. 20. 16. 15. 1. 7.

s ch. 1. 3. 13. 11.

t Jn. 19. 35. 12. 24. 1 Jn.

1. 1. 3. 3. Jn. 12.

u ch. 19. 9. 10. Ac. 10.

25. 26. 14. 13-15. with

Mat. 4. 10. De. 6. 13. 10.

20. 1 Jn. 5. 21.

v 2 Christ. ver. 12. 13.

16. 20.

w Mat. 10. 27. Eze. 2.

7. ch. 1. 13. with ch. 10. 4.

Da. 8. 26. 12. 4. 9.

A.M. cir. 4100.

A.D. cir. 96.

x Pr. 1. 24-33. Ec. 11.

3. Eze. 3. 27. Da. 12. 10. 2

Ti. 3. 13. Mat. 15. 14. 25.

10. Ho. 4. 17. Ps. 81. 12.

y Ro. 8. 1. ch. 7. 14. 15.

ver. 3. Job 17. 9. Pr. 4. 18.

Mat. 5. 6. 24. 13. Ep. 5.

27.

z See ver. 7. Zep. 1.

14.

a Is. 40. 10. 62. 11.

Mat. 16. 27. Ro. 2. 6. 14.

12. ch. 20. 12.

b Is. 41. 4. 44. 6. 48. 12.

ch. 1. 8. 11. 21. 6.

c Lu. 12. 37. 38. Mat.

7. 21. 5. 3-9. 1 Jn. 3. 23.

ch. 2. 7. 1. 3. ver. 7. Da.

12. 13. Is. 3. 10. Ro. 2. 7.

10.

d Or privilege or power, Jn. 1. 12.

e ch. 2. 7. ver. 2. Ca. 2.

3. Jn. 11. 25. 14. 19. Ga. 2.

20.

f ch. 21. 12. 13. 21. 25.

Jn. 10. 7. 9. 14. 6. 2 Pe. 1.

11. Ep. 2. 18.

g ch. 21. 8. 27. 1 Co. 6.

9. 10. Ga. 5. 19-21. Ep. 5.

5. Col. 3. 6. Phi. 3. 2. 18.

19. ch. 9. 20. 21. Mat. 7. 6.

22. 13.

h ch. 1. 1. 11. De. 18.

15. Mat. 28. 20. 1 Pe. 3.

22.

i ch. 5. 5. Is. 11. 1. 10.

Ro. 15. 12. Je. 23. 5. 6. Is.

9. 6. 7. Mat. 22. 42. 45. Jn.

1. 14.

j The root in Deity,

'the offspring'

according to the flesh,

Ro. 9. 5.—C.

k Mal. 4. 2. Zec. 6. 12.

13.

l ch. 1. 4. 19. 10.

m ch. 19. 7. 21. 2. 9. 10.

Is. 2. 5.

n ch. 2. 7. 11. 17. 29. 13.

9. Mat. 11. 15. 13. 9. 43.

o Is. 55. 1-7. ch. 21. 6.

Jn. 7. 37-39. Ps. 81. 10.

34. 8. Mat. 11. 28. Jn. 6.

37. 16.

p ver. 16. 17. 20. ch. 1.

53. 7. 14.

q De. 4. 2. 9. 5. 32. 12.

32. Pr. 30. 6. Mat. 15. 9.

r If any man shall add imaginary revelations of his own to the completed canon of prophecy.—C.

s ch. 2. 22. 23. 13. 10.

14. 9-11. xvi. xviii. 19.

20. 21. 20. 10. 15.

t If any man shall take away, &c. That is, by denying their divine authority, or by violent and perversive interpretation.—C.

u Ex. 32. 33. Ps. 69. 28.

ch. 3. 5. 13. 8. 17. 8. 21. 27.

ver. 15.

v ch. 1. 3. 2. 7. 11. 17. 26-

28. 3. 4. 5. 12. 21. 7. 9-17.

14. 13.

w ch. 1. 1. ver. 10-19.

x ver. 7. 10. 12. 2 Pe. 3.

8. ch. 1. 7.

y Ca. 8. 14. 2. 17. 2 Ti.

4. 8. He. 9. 28.

z Is. 25. 9.

aa ch. 1. 4. 11. Ro. 16.

24. 1 Co. 16. 23. 2 Co. 13.

14. Ga. 6. 18. Ep. 6. 23.

24. Phi. 1. 2. 4. 23. Col. 1.

2. 1 Th. 1. 1. 2 Th. 3. 18.

11 He<sup>r</sup> that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still: <sup>u</sup>and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still.

12 And,<sup>z</sup> behold, I come quickly; and <sup>a</sup>my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be.

13 I<sup>b</sup> am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last.

14 Blessed<sup>c</sup> are they that do his commandments, that they may have right<sup>3</sup> to <sup>d</sup>the tree of life, and may enter in through <sup>e</sup>the gates into the city.

15 For<sup>f</sup> without are dogs, and sorcerers, and whoremongers, and murderers, and idolaters, and whosoever loveth and maketh a lie.

16 I<sup>h</sup> Jesus have sent mine angel to testify unto you these things in the churches. I am <sup>i</sup>the root<sup>4</sup> and the offspring of David, and <sup>j</sup>the bright and morning star.

17 And the <sup>k</sup>Spirit and <sup>l</sup>the bride say, Come. And let <sup>m</sup>him that heareth say, Come. <sup>n</sup>And let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely.

18 For <sup>p</sup>I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, <sup>q</sup>If any man shall add<sup>5</sup> unto these things, God shall add unto him the <sup>r</sup>plagues that are written in this book:

19 And if any man shall take away<sup>6</sup> from the words of the book of this prophecy, <sup>s</sup>God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and <sup>t</sup>from <sup>u</sup>the things which are written in this book.

20 He<sup>u</sup> which testifieth these things saith, <sup>v</sup>Surely I come quickly; <sup>w</sup>Amen. <sup>x</sup>Even so, come, Lord Jesus.

21 The<sup>z</sup> grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

employed by Christ to communicate these revelations to you. 10. Christ charged me to publish to the church the revelations I had received, as their accomplishment was immediately to begin. 14. They who, from a principle of faith and love, sincerely obey all God's commandments, and thus prove their union to Christ, shall, by his free grant, have all authority, warrant, dignity, and meetness to partake of the immediate enjoyment of him in all his heavenly blessings, and have a free, open, abundant, and honourable admission into the heavenly state. 16. As God, Christ is the Root, Lord, and Source of David's family and kingdom; and as man, he is his Son, descended from his loins. He is the bright and morning star—as he is infinitely glorious, and his rising up in his incarnation introduced the gospel-day; his rising in power introduces the millennial day; his rising in the saving influences of his Spirit introduces the spiritual day of grace and comfort; and his appearance to judge the world will introduce the eternal day of light, purity, and joy. 17. The first part of this verse is the church's request that Christ would come quickly to fulfil all his gracious promises; and the last part is an invitation to sinful men to come and freely receive his promised blessings. 19. Will accept all them who through faith in Christ, and who through perseverance in his life and word give themselves to him, but will cut off all who reject his blessed Son.

REFLECTIONS.—Happy are they who enjoy the millennial, and especially the heavenly blessedness! their freedom from curses, sorrows, and maladies is complete. Ravishing and abundant is their enjoyment of Jesus Christ and his Spirit, and all his secured salvation—all the consolations, all the fulness of God in him. Divinely acknowledged and immediately illuminated, they reign with him for evermore! And with uninterrupted delight and fervour they serve, worship, and glorify him!—But none must expect this celestial happiness without being justified and sanctified on earth. Holiness in heart or life, though it does not merit the heavenly glory, must prepare us for it, and manifest our new-covenant claim to it. And if men persevere in their sin, they must at last be excluded from the fellowship of God, and be for ever fixed in their sin as a principal part of their punishment. Important and infallible are the declarations of Christ in the Scripture. According to them as our rule we must now walk; and according to them at the last day we shall be judged. Infinite is the danger of adding to, taking from, perverting, or denying these sacred records. And great is the mercy that they are so full of the most encouraging promises and endearing invitations to receive an undoubted, a free, a full, an everlasting salvation in Christ. In the exercise of an assured faith, let me always receive his fulness, and look, long, and wait for his second coming!—O when shall time give place to eternity! When shall the transient glimmerings of his glory issue in my being for ever with the Lord! When shall my beloved ordinances of his grace, and this precious, precious, precious book of God be exchanged for seeing him as he is, and knowing him even as I am known in the face of Jesus Christ! When shall I bid adieu to human explications of divine oracles, and the Lord God and the Lamb be the light thereof,—my everlasting light, —and my God my glory!

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS-URBANA

3 0112 119672886